The Only One To Stand the Test.

Rev. William Copp, whose father was a physician for over fifty years, in New Jersey, and who himself spent many years preparing for the practice of medicine, but subsequently entered the ministry of the M. E. Church, writes: "I am glad to testify that I have had analyzed all the sarsaparilla preparations known in the trade, but AYER'S is the only one of them that I could recommend as a blood-purifier. I have given away hundreds of bottles of it, as I consider it the safest as well as the best to be had."—WM. COPP, Pastor M. E. Church, Jackson, Minn.

Rumor in Montreal About Sir Charles Tupper.

Reported to Have Been Advanced by Hon. Joseph Chamberlain—It Would Be a Compliment to the Loyalty of Canada as Well as to Colonial Statesmanship—Rumored That Sir Donald Smith Imparted This News to Premier Laurier, Who in Turn Informed His Colleagues.

Montreal, July 31.—(Special.)—A very startling rumor became current here to-day, and while at first it was believed by a few there were many who thought there might be something in it after all, especially when the evening papers had published a report of Hon. Mr. Mulock's speech at Aurora yesterday afternoon wherein he eulogized the ex-Premier of Canada.

It is said that news was received here yesterday by cable to the effect that Hon. Joseph Chamberlain has been urging upon his leader, Lord Salisbury, and the rest of his colleagues, the advisability of offering the Governor-Generalship of Canada to Sir Charles Tupper, Bart, at the expiration of Lord Aberdeen's term of office. Rumor also adds that Hon. Mr. Chamberlain's views on this question are shared by the majority of the Imperial Cabinet, and that they all believe it would be a master stroke of policy at home and at the same time a splendid compliment to the loyalty of Canada as well as to its colonial statesmanship.

The rumor is completed by the declaration that Sir Donald Smith imparted the news to Hon. Mr. Laurier yesterday at Quebec, and that the Premier immediately wired the same to his several colleagues in different parts of the country.

HARD TIMES IN THE STATES.

General Washburn, Ex-Governor of Minnesota, Says They are Just as Bad as They Can be.

Montreal, July 31.—(Special.)—General W. D. Washburn, ex-Governor of Minnesota, is in the city as the guest of Sir William Van Horne. Regarding the Presidential campaign in the West, he believes the best elements of the Democratic party desire to see Mr. McKinley elected and for that reason will bring out a third candidate, perhaps Senator Palmer of Illinois, who, although a free trader, is sound on the currency question.

General Washburn says McKinley will cary Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and, although there may be some doubt with regard to Michigan, he firmly believes that every northern State east of the Mississippi will go Republican.

But it was the general declaration regarding the business depression in the States that will be found most interesting to Canadians. "The times," he said, "are as bad as they can be. I have never in fact seen them worse and the people attribute this unfortunate state of affairs to the change in the tariff by the Democrats, but at present all parties are favorable to a protective policy. Four years ago the Democrats advocated a tariff for revenue only, while the policy of the Republicans was a tariff for protection as well as for revenue, and the people now see the fallacy of the Democrats' platform."

The General adds that, although his friend, Sir William Van Horne, thinks the sound money advocate will carry some of the Southern States, he is afraid the number will be limited to East and West Virginia and Maryland, as the South has for a good while been in favor of the free silver craze. He states that present capital is suspicious, and confidence nowhere reigns; so if prosperity is ever again to be restored to the United States Bryan must be voted down by an immense majority. Should Major McKinley go to the White House with a small majority, the whole question will have to be fought out again four years hence and voted upon once more. Mr. Bryan, he says, is supported by the ragtail, the loafers, the saloonkeepers and the worst element in the United States, while the Governor of Illinois and others of his kind would have been Robespierres had they lived at the time of the French Revolution.

WHO IS THIS MAN?

He Was Knocked Down and Probably Fatally Injured Near the Grand Trunk Station at Georgetown.

Georgetown, July 31.—(Special.)—Yardmen found an unknown man lying unconscious and badly injured on the railway track near the Grand Trunk Station late this evening. He had evidently fallen from or been struck by the freight train that had passed a few minutes before. He was taken into the baggageroom and medical assistance called, but he has not regained his senses, and his injuries are thought to be fatal. There is nothing about his clothing that might tell his identity. He is of middle age, dressed rather respectably, and evidently a workingman. A railway employe says he has seen the injured man at Acton, and it is supposed that he comes from that town.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Grand Trunk Yardsman Hewitt's Fatal Mishap Last Night at the Stuart-Street Station, Hamilton.

Hamilton, July 31.—(Special.)—Morrison Hewitt, 8 Lochearne-street, a Grand Trunk yardsman, met a horrible death this evening about 5 o'clock at the Stuart-street station. He was in the west end of the yard when the accident occurred. One car was running down a main track and another came down a switch. The cars collided and one was knocked off the track and thrown on its side. Hewitt was standing on the outside of the car that was knocked over, and it fell on him, crushing him to the ground. It was 20 minutes before he was extricated, when he was almost dead, but lived till taken to the hospital. He leaves a widow and 4 children. Coroner White will hold an inquest tomorrow morning.

Dropped Dead in London.

London, Ont., July 31.—D. T. Ware, one of the oldest men in London, dropped dead at his home, 472 Parke-avenue, about 1 o'clock this afternoon. He was born at Lancaster, near Hamilton, but had resided in London nearly all his life.

FORTY-SEVEN ARE DEAD

As a Result of the Terrible Collision Near Atlantic City, N.J.—An Investigation to be Held.

Bridgeton, N.J., July 31.—Nearly all the victims of the Atlantic City Railroad catastrophe were residents of this town. Business here to-day was almost wholly suspended, and the place is in mourning. The bodies of the dead victims remain at Atlantic City, and it is not known when they will be sent here. A number of the injured are also at Atlantic City, under treatment. A number of the survivors of the disaster arrived here this morning. Some were cut and bruised, but they had escaped serious injuries. They were unable to give a clear account of the accident, owing to the terrible experience they had passed through.

They say that the cries of the injured and dying after the crash occurred are still ringing in their ears, and will be never forgotten.

Charles W. Seeds, one of the survivors, says he was in the fourth car of the train. The front of the car was smashed to splinters. He called to his wife to follow him, and jumped out of the window, landing on his head and hands. He hurt his leg and side, but quickly jumped up and pulled his wife through the window. Her back and one leg were injured. Seeds found that his wife was not seriously hurt, and then he turned his attention to the rescue of the injured who were still fastened in the car. One little girl, who was cut about the head, he found down by a seat, and took her out. He next came across a woman who had been killed. The top of her head was crushed. The flames from the burning cars was first creeping towards her, and he pulled the body away from the fire. He thinks it was Mrs Trenchard. He assisted in taking 11 dead bodies from the wreck.

Joseph Allen of Bridgeton sat three seats ahead of Seeds when the crash came and was thrown out in the aisle. He scrambled to his feet and jumped out of the window, leaving his coat behind. He says the cries of the injured could be heard above the noise of the crashing wood and escaping steam. He had his leg injured.

R. M. Allen of Shiloh was in the next to the last car. He was standing by the door facing towards Atlantic City. The door was closed, but when the crash came it opened and he was thrown across the platform against the door of the next car. He was cut about the head and had his hip injured. His wife and two sons, Roy Allen, aged 10, and William G., aged 12 years, were sitting in the seat with their mother. The mother escaped injury, and the two boys were bruised about the head and body.

Miss Lillian Tyler of Bridgeton had her back injured. She came upon a train this morning. She was so excited and overcome with emotion at the injury and death of her friends that she could not control herself, and was constantly in tears.

Atlantic City, N.J., July 31.—As a result of the collision last evening between the Reading Railway and the Philadelphia and the Bridgeton excursion train, 47 people are dead and 44 are lying in the hospital here more or less seriously hurt. Of the injured in the hospital several are expected to die. Besides those seriously enough hurt to be in the hospital, a score or more of people were bruised and shaken up. The fearful shock of the collision is illustrated by the fact that of the 47 dead, 42 were killed outright. Of the dead, 42 have been identified, and the bodies of three women, one man and a boy are awaiting claimants.

The responsibility for the accident is hard to place at this time, but the burden of it seems to rest upon the dead engineer of the Reading train, Edward Farr, though an official investigation may clear his name.

It was reported last night that when Mrs. Farr heard of her husband's death she fell dead. This was not true. She fell in a swoon, and to-night is lying in a serious condition from the shock.

MARTIN WILL RUN

If Hon. Hugh John Macdonald Is Unseated in Winnipeg—A Deadlock in Saskatchewan.

Winnipeg, July 31.—(Special.)—The Tribune, the Liberal organ here, editorially expresses confidence that Hugh John will be unseated, and in classic language says: "It is dollars to doughnuts that Joseph Martin will again be the Liberal candidate, and this time successful."

However, it may be nearly a year before another election, and nobody can tell what may happen in that time.

Saskatchewan Liberals are endeavoring to unite on a local man as their candidate, but three or four want and none will give way. Saskatchewan may yet be in the Conservative column.

FELL INTO A FURNACE'S MOUTH.

Heroic Rescue of Two Dying Top Fillers by a One-Legged Man.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 31.—Peter Warbanic and Samuel Moody, top fillers at Lucy furnaces, Fifty-first-street, were overcome last night by a rush of gas from under the bell. Warbanic fell head first down the mouth of the furnace, alighting on top of the bell, which was almost at a white heat. Moody called for help, and himself attempted to rescue Warbanic. He also inhaled the deadly gas and fell into the bell.

Other workmen came to the top of the furnace and were discussing plans of rescue, when John Reynolds, a one-legged man, jumped down on the bell and passed the men up to those above him. Reynolds was then assisted out, and, although almost overcome and badly burned, quietly hobbled away. Warbanic died within a few minutes of his rescue, and Moody cannot recover.

Reynolds' heroic action is the talk of Lawrenceville.

NIECE'S TERRIBLE FEAR

That He Would Become Insane and Kill His Wife and Children.

Windsor, Ont., July 31.—Harry Clark Niece, of the Township of Colchester North, was brought before Magistrate Bartlett by his wife, who alleged that he had formerly been confined in a lunatic asylum and that he was again becoming dangerous. Niece told the court that he had become discouraged over his farm, his crops having been destroyed by the rain, and that he wanted to be locked up as he feared that if he were left at liberty he would kill his wife and children. He was committed for examination as to his sanity.

A Successor to H. B. Spencer.

Montreal, July 31.—(Special.)—The following circular has been issued from the office of the Canadian Pacific:

Montreal, July 31, 1896.—Mr. H. B. Spencer, Assistant Superintendent at Ottawa, having resigned, Mr. J. E. Robillard will, from Aug. 1, and until further notice perform the duties of assistant superintendent in his place. (Signed) C. W. Spencer, General Superintendent.

DROWNED IN THE LAKE.

Boat Accidentally Upset Yesterday Afternoon—John Dempster Was Drowned and James McGregor Rescued.

Toronto, Aug. 1.

Two young men named James McGregor and John Dempster were sailing on the lake, opposite the Exhibition grounds yesterday afternoon, when by some means the boat upset, and both were thrown into the water. A. E. Gooderham's yacht Cleopatra was near the scene of the accident and was promptly headed for the place where the two men were struggling in the water. Before the vessel reached the spot, however, Dempster had sunk, and although search was kept up for some time after McGregor was taken on board, nothing could be seen of his unfortunate companion. McGregor was taken to his home, 266 Major-street. He seemed unable to tell how the accident happened.

The victim of the fatality lived at 23 Bathurst-street.

THAT MURDER AT SEA

It Would Appear That Two Men Were Implicated.

The Taking of Evidence in the Charges Against Bram and Brown of the Barquentine Herbert Fuller Begins at Boston Both Prisoners Are Being Tried Together—Brown, the Witness Says Grinned When the Deadly Ax was Found on the Ship.

Boston, July 31.—The preliminary examination of Thomas Bram, colored, first mate, and Charles Brown, seaman of the barquentine Herbert Fuller, on the complaint charging them with the murder of the captain, C. J. Nash, his wife, Mrs. C. J. Nash, and A. W. Bramberg, was begun to-day before United States Commissioner Fisk. There was a large crowd present. Ex-District Attorney Allen appeared as counsel for Brown. Bram was represented by James E. Cotter and John B. Dore.

District Attorney Hoar moved that both prisoners be tried together. This was ordered.

Assistant District Attorney Casey then called as the first witness Frank Noehec, who testified that he shipped on the Herbert Fuller on July 8. Last saw the captain alive at 7 o'clock on the night of July 13. Saw his dead body afterwards. About 1 o'clock on the morning of July 14 was on deck; saw second mate; went into forecastle to get his pipe filled. At 2 o'clock went to the wheel to relieve Brown. The bell did not strike at 2 o'clock. It was the duty of the man at the wheel to strike bell; saw the first mate going down the companionway in a hurry towards the cabin. Some one called out, "Mr. Bram." Bram stooped over the companionway. Heard passenger Monck say to the mate, "Don't you throw that board at me; I am all right." Bram then came to me at the wheel. He asked where Brown was. He looked pale. He went to the passenger's room. Witness saw the passenger put on some clothing. Both passenger and mate came on deck. They went to the window between the main and mizzenmast. At 4 o'clock the cook (Spencer) came on deck. He (the cook) went forward and joined the mate and passenger.

They came back and told witness that the captain was dead. Witness then said, "Good God!" They went forward again. The crew came up and talked of directing the course to the nearest port. The mate talked of going to French Guiana. The mate gave orders south-sou'-east. Witness was relieved by Oscar Anderson at the wheel. Getting among the crew witness said the mate said: "Don't blame the living for the dead. The dead cannot answer for themselves." The mate said the captain might have got an ax and killed them and then killed himself. To this proposal Brown said: "Throw the bodies overboard."

Mate Bram was drunk at 4 o'clock. He was crying and praying, but witness did not see any tears coming out of his eyes. Mate Bram said the captain was a Freemason. Witness said that soon after he was at the wheel he heard a sound like a gurgle. He leaned over with one hand on the wheel and saw the mate and passenger going to the passengers' room. Witness described the position of the bodies when found. Brown, Anderson and Hendriks were putting the canvas on the bodies. Brown handled the bodies rough. In the presence of the mate, witness heard the steward (Spencer) ask "What cuts were on the captain?" The mate replied he didn't know. Brown was talkative before the murder, but after the murder he would not talk with the men. Brown first talked with the witness the morning after the murder, saying, "That will be all right if there is not any more done."

The first mate, the steward and passenger asked if those present knew anything about the murder, and Brown answered "No."

When the ax was brought Brown grinned when he saw it, and the mate, Bram, yelled, as he threw it overboard. Up to 1 o'clock, July 14, it was Brown's lookout. Those present on the deck on the morning of the murder were Bram, Brown, Monck, Spencer, Slicer, Perlock and Anderson. The vessel was then about 600 miles out. Brown did not have on the same clothes after the murder as before. He threw his overalls overboard, saying, "I could be held as the murderer if I have blood on my clothes." Witness insisted on putting the mate in irons. The mate said, "I am an innocent man."

On cross-examination, witness said that on the Sunday before the murder Brown told him that he had killed somebody in Holland and that he got off on a plea of insanity. Witness helped put Brown in irons. He suspected the mate first. It was on the following Sunday that the mate was put in irons, and up to this time the mate had directed the ship. Noehec stated it was after 2 o'clock when he took charge of the wheel. Up to that hour he had heard nothing unusual to attract his attention, and everybody was at his post of duty. It was two minutes later, he thought, when he saw the men going down in the cabin. He put Brown in irons by direction of Bram, and put Bram in irons by direction of the cook, Spencer.

What Bram said was, "The dead cannot talk of themselves." The second mate went to assault the captain's wife, the captain got the ax and killed his wife; then the second mate, being the stronger man, perhaps, got the ax from the captain, and killed himself and threw the ax on the deck and then went into the castle." The witness reiterated this statement as having been made by the mate. Salvage was talked of and was first mentioned by the steward. Witness said he knew of no trouble between Brown and the captain and the latter's wife. After the murder Bram appointed Brown first mate and witness second mate, so that when Bram and Brown were put in irons witness was in command of the vessel. Religious service over the bodies was held and conducted by Monck. The steward said to Brown "You have killed those people down there." Brown said "No."

Lester H. Monck, the Harvard student, the passenger on the Herbert Fuller, was the next witness. He testified to some unimportant evidence previous to the murder, and a recess was taken.

Awful Effect of a Tidal Wave in Japan.

Shanghai, Aug. 1.—The recent disasterous tidal wave along the coast of northern Japan has been paralled by a similar phenomenon off the coast of Haichau, north-east of the Province of Kiangsu. The disaster took place on July 29th. Many villages were entirely destroyed and it is estimated that fully four thousand people perished. There is much suffering among the survivors.

Two Runaways.

Two young ladies named Gardner, from Demorestville, who had been visiting their sister, Mrs. J. N. Laird, of Foxboro, were being driven to the city yesterday afternoon by their nephew. When near Mr. McMahon's, on College Hill, the horse became frightened and ran away, throwing the occupants of the buggy out. One of the young ladies was seriously injured. She was carried into Ald. Harris' residence and she was afterwards removed to Mr. Nathaniel Demill's, who is a brother-in-law.

Mr. Don Bleecker's horse became frightened yesterday afternoon and ran away in the orchard with the buggy to which it was attached, smashing the vehicle badly.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

The receipts of live stock were heavy today, amounting to about 70 carloads, including 1000 head of sheep and lambs and 800 hogs. There is little change in the prices of cattle, with sales of shippers at 3¼c to 3⅝c per lb., according to quality. The best bulls for export brought 3c to 3¼c per lb. Butchers' cattle steady; choice sell readily at 3c to 3¼c per lb., while inferior are not wanted at 1⅞c to 2c. Good to medium butchers' cattle bring 2¼c to 2⅝c per lb. Calves sold at $1.50 to $4 each, and milch cows at $18 to $30 per head, according to quality.

Sheep and lambs in fair supply and prices easier. Sheep sold at 2¾c to 3c per lb. Spring lambs sold from $2 to $3 per head, according to quality.

Hogs in moderate supply, there being 800 head. The best sold at 4c to 4⅛c, weighed off cars. Thick fats are quoted at $3.25 to $3.50, stores at $3.50 to $3.65, sows at $2.75 to $3 and stags at $2.

A FRATERNAL VISIT.

Belleville Foresters at Shannonville—New Work Exemplified.

About thirty of the members of Court Quinte and Court Dulmage went to Shannonville last evening to pay a fraternal visit to the court recently organized there by W. F. W. Carstairs. The visitors were warmly welcomed by the brethren of Court "Harry Griffiths" 8412, after which Bro. Carstairs installed the following officers:

P. C. R.—A. Embury, M. D.
C. R.—F. S. Emmons.
S. C. R.—O. Sine.
Secretary—J. Henderson.
Sub-Secretary—C. Dean.
Treasurer—H. Farnsworth.
S. W.—F. Doxtator.
J. W.—E. Bell.
S. B.—J. Graves.
J. B.—J. Doxtator.
Physician—Dr. Embury.

After the installation the officers of Court "Dulmage" initiated a candidate under the new ritual and gave a splendid exemplification of the new work. They were loudly applauded on concluding.

After the Court adjourned the visiting brethren were entertained at Davidson's hotel, and the evening was most enjoyably spent.

SIR OLIVER'S WILD PLUNGE.

Sir Oliver Mowat has issued a farewell address to his constituents in North Oxford.

The little Premier traces the history of his connection with that riding and then continues :

"For many years suggestions had occassionally been made that I should leave the Provincial service and enter the field of Federal politics ; and until the last few months I answered every such suggestion in the negative. But some weeks before the election campaign which has just terminated so happily, the change was urged upon me by some of the chiefs of the Liberal party and by many representative and other members. They made it manifest to me that my entry into Dominion politics was the general wish of the party and of those who had its confidence, and in view of the arguments and opinions they presented to me, I felt that as a public man I could not refuse to accede to the general wish. I therefore agreed to make the plunge, though I did so with reluctance because of my age and of considerations personal to myself and family. The plunge has been made, but though I have now ceased to be your representative in the Provincial Legislature, I shall never cease to feel a warm interest in the people of North Oxford."

The memory of that wild and reckless "plunge" will of a truth live in history, says a contemporary, long after many of Sir Oliver's other doughty deeds have been placed in the national lumber room of forgetfulness. Capt. Webb's jump into the raging torrents of Niagara was not a circumstance compared with it. Those gentlemen who make it their daily business to throw themselves from the top of circus tents into small tanks of water are mere tyros at the game. The aeronauts who take parachute drops from balloons are simply in the kindergarten grade. All these and others of the same class are merely infants alongside of Sir Oliver. Who will ever forget the grand and noble sight of the old gentleman sitting boldly in his seat while he made his dizzy leap into the Federal arena with a cable around his waist and one arm entwined gracefully yet firmly around his Provincial post? What historian can ever ignore the fact that women fainted and strong men closed their eyes? How can the memory ever die out of the thrill which ran down every backbone in Europe and America and quite a few in Asia and Africa as the splash from that "plunge" re-echoed around the world!

AN AMUSING SPECTACLE.

The Montreal Gazette is one of the most fair and moderate party journals in Canada, and its utterances are therefore worthy of attentive consideration. The following, from a recent issue of the Gazette, must commend itself to the attention of every reader, because of its candor :

One of the amusing things in the political situation is the ecstacy into which Liberal papers go in admiration of Mr. Laurier's St. Johns speech, and especially of the tariff references in it. The sense of duty to their party is evidently strong among Liberal writers. As a matter of fact the address contained nothing to evoke enthusiasm beyond the circle of those who heard it. The most remarkable thing about it, aside from its indefiniteness, was the number of items in the Conservative programme it proposed to continue. The tariff reference was worthy of note only because of its vagueness. It meant absolutely nothing. It conveyed no assurance to anyone, whether free-trader or protectionist. It indicated only that Mr. Laurier, and, presumably, his colleagues also are without definite knowledge as to what they will do with the tariff. It is only known that they will hold an enquiry ; they will ask or accept the opinion of people they meet, and on the mass of information gathered will form a policy, which they will ask their friends in Parliament to endorse. They have been denouncing the evils of protection for years, in the most violent language, and to-day, when the responsibility is put upon them, they announce that they will take six months to go about the country hunting for these evils. There never was so extraordinary a situation presented. There never was a greater admission of incompetence by a Premier. Because of the want of exact knowledge by Ministers in regard to a question they have been discussing in Parliament and on the platform since 1878, the country is to be kept for six months in a state of uncertainty as to what will be done with the tariff, and for six unnecessary months merchants and manufacturers will be in self-defence compelled to carry on their operations in view of the fact that the conditions of trade may be radically altered at the end of that time, by the action of ministers who confessedly do not know what they will do, but whose election platform and speeches will compel them to do something. To call the men who have created such a situation statesmen, and to give them credit for business sagacity, is so ridiculous a position that it needs not to be replied to.

Be Well and You Will Be Happy.

Paine's Celery Compound Nature's Avenue to Health.

If you are sick and out of sorts, it is within your power to make yourself healthy and strong.

There is not the slightest reason why you should go through the hot summer weather feeling miserable, languid and melancholic.

To be well, means happiness and true joy, and this is the season that you should be bright, hearty and gladsome.

Let us, with sincerity and honesty direct your attention to Paine's Celery Compound, nature's avenue to health and perfect physical strength and robustness.

This marvellous health-giving medicine begins its vitalizing work at the great nerve centres, and soon braces up the weak and frail body, giving every organ that is out of tune that full vigor and strength so necessary for the complete working of the whole human frame.

Paine's Celery Compound is suited for all ages and conditions ; it is purely vegetable, pleasant to use, and prompt and efficacious in the most dangerous and subtle cases. Thousands now living owe their lives to this wonderful medicine that always makes sick people well.

If you are a doubter, and have not any friends that can vouch for all that is said about Paine's Celery Compound, send for our book of convincing cures ; mailed free to any address. Wells & Richardson Co., Montreal.

Remember—only such medicines were admitted for exhibition at the World's Fair as are accepted for use, by physicians, in the practice of medicine, Ayer's Sarsaparilla, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and Ayer's Pills being included in the list. They are standard medicines.

NERVINE A SPRING MEDICINE

POINTS THE WAY TO PERFECT HEALTH

South American Nervine.

The Great Health Restorer of the Century.

Sickness Cannot Cope With It.

Has Cured the Worst Cases on Record.

Cures at the Nerve Centres and Thus Cures Permanently.

A Wonderful Specific in All Cases of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Nervousness and General Debility.

Has No Equal as a Spring Medicine.

There is a great deal of uncertainty in the methods adopted to remove disease. Doctors are not free from this kind of thing themselves. The poor patient has to put up with a good deal of experimenting. The discoverer of South American Nervine takes too serious a view of life to play pranks of this kind. He does not think that these human bodies of ours should be fooled with. He has recognized that they are subject to disease, but, by scientific methods, he has learned that just as the watch is to be put in perfect repair only when the main-spring is kept in running order, so with the individual, he remains in perfect health only when the nerve centres are kept healthful and strong.

What disease is more distressing than indigestion or dyspepsia? Some simple remedy may be given to cause relief for the moment. Nervine is an indisputably successful remedy for the worst cases of indigestion, because it reaches the source of all stomach troubles—the nerve centres. Indigestion exists because the vital forces have become diseased and are weakened. Nervine builds up the nerve centres, from which come these forces, removes the causes of indigestion, and then builds up the health completely.

How many systems are run down through nervousness. A stimulant may give ease, but it will not cure nervous troubles. Nervine has cured more desperate cases of nervousness than any other medicine anywhere. And it does so for the same reason that it cures indigestion. The nerve centres are deranged, or there would be no victims of nervousness. Nervine rebuilds and strengthens the nerve tissues, and hence its marvellous powers in diseases of this kind.

In the spring of the year the strongest suffer from general debility. The blood, through neglect, has become impoverished, and the whole system gets out of order. We speak of it as a spring medicine. Nervine restores the exhausted vital forces that have led to this tired, don't-care, played-out, miserable condition. No one can take a bottle of Nervine at this season of the year without disease quickly giving way to abounding health.

The moral is plain, simple and readily understood. If you would not trifle with disease, then you will take South American Nervine, which will not trifle with you.

Possible Future Discoveries.

Something which would make it easier to store electric energy, and, therefore, to use it as a motor without fixed machines, would, no doubt, double or triple the force at the actual disposal of mankind, and, therefore, their power of wringing the means of comfort from the reluctant planet, which gives nothing but beautiful scenes except in return for toil. A new means of levitation—scarcely conceivable—would send us flying through the air, transform all armies and navies, and modify, probably in the interest of the yellow race, which does not mind dying, all existing political combinations. Any means of employing electricity as a weapon might also have great results, as the invention of gunpowder had, though like gunpowder, it would probably leave the relative positions of the nations very much where it was. It is in the struggle of classes that a new weapon would probably do most, all recent inventions having increased the strength of all regular Governments against their peoples.

There are conceivable discoveries, too, in medicine, such as a power of illuminating the human body, which would greatly help man in his warfare with disease ; and there may exist means of destroying within the bodily system, or permanently preventing the generation of the hostile microbes. We might learn, in the domain of applied mechanics, how to utilize the colossal force of the tides, the greatest of all unused sources of power except the rush of the world through space ; or we might find a new way of easily developing heat so intense that, for instance, we could make of sand a magnificent and comparatively cheap building material. The uses of intense heat, if easily produced, would, in fact, be numberless. To produce a cooling apparatus, which should have precisely the reverse effect of a fire, and make the tropics a comparatively enjoyable place of residence for white men, is beyond the range of sane imagination ; but a refrigerating process which shall add, say, five years to the durability of all food-products is not, and would greatly increase the comfort of the masses of mankind.—London Spectator.

A HEALTHFUL DRINK
MADDEN'S CEREAL

A DELICIOUS and HEALTHFUL DRINK.

We seldom charge our ill feelings to the true cause. CHEMISTRY proves that Coffee contains poisonous alkaloids, as in morphine, whiskey and tobacco. A SOUND, HEALTHY PERSON may be able to stand these for a time, but "a small leak sinks a big ship," and sooner or later indigestion, headache, torpid liver, weak heart, "weary, tired feeling" proves that the nervous system has been poisoned.

EVERY DAY, and perhaps every meal, the poisonous alkaloids of Coffee and Tea add fuel to the fire. Can you wonder that some organic disease is firmly seated? Health cannot return until you remove the cause. MADDEN CEREAL has the appearance of coffee, in color like Java or Mocha, and when cream is added it changes to a rich brown. A product made from blood-producing grains, it builds up, renews and makes red blood. REGULAR PACKAGE MAKES 100 CUPS. Grocers sell it at 25 cents. IF YOUR EYES

Need medical treatment we won't sell you glasses simply to make a sale—and let your headache continue until you find the true cause from some one else. If you simply need glasses we will tell you so and provide the remedy. But if there is the remotest need for the more thorough work of an oculist, we'll also tell you so—and charge nothing for the discovery. We correct all non-organic eye defects.

The Question Answered.

The Reason why Some Dealers Sell Poor Dyes,

Many ladies who have been deceived by the imitation dyes so often sold by some dealers and druggists, ask the question: "Why will these merchants persist in selling us dyes that are positively worthless?"

This question is easily answered. The dealers who sell these common dyes do so for a very selfish object—big profits. They buy these crude and poisonous dyes for much less than the celebrated Diamond Dyes cost, and they are sold to the ladies at the same price, ten cents per packet. The dealers in this way make long, big profits, while the deceived consumer must suffer loss at every time of using.

Dealers know well that the Diamond Dyes are the only true and warranted colors, but the love of gain is too great to allow them to treat the public honestly.

The ladies can soon compel dealers to do what is honest and right if they insist every time upon getting the Diamond Dyes. You can always find one dealer in your town that is anxious to sell dyes that will give entire satisfaction.

ACUTE DYSPEPSIA.

A TROUBLE THAT MAKES THE LIVES OF THOUSANDS MISERABLE.

THE ONLY RATIONAL TREATMENT IS TO REMOVE THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE—ONE WHO SUFFERED GREATLY SHOWS HOW THIS CAN BE DONE AT A COMPARATIVELY TRIFLING EXPENSE.

The life of a dyspeptic is beyond doubt one of the most unhappy lots that can befall humanity. There is always a feeling of over-fullness and distress after eating, no matter how carefully the food may be prepared, and even when the patient uses food sparingly there is frequently no cessation of the distressing pains. How thankful one who has undergone this misery and has been restored to health feels can perhaps be better imagined than described. One such sufferer, Mrs. Thos. E. Worrell, of Dunbarton, N. B., relates her experience in the hope that it may prove beneficial to some other similar sufferer. Mrs. Worrell says that for more than two years her life was one of constant misery. She took only the plainest foods, and yet her condition kept getting worse, and was at last seriously aggravated by palpitation of the heart brought on by stomach troubles. She lost all relish for food and grew so weak that it was with difficulty she could go about the house, and to do her share of the necessary housework made life a burden. At times it was simply impossible for her to take food, as every mouthful produced a feeling of nausea, and sometimes brought on violent fits of vomiting which left her weaker than before. She had taken a great deal of medicine but did not find any improvement. At last she read in a newspaper of a cure in a similar case through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to give them a trial. After using three or four boxes there was a great improvement in her condition and after the use of eight boxes Mrs. Worrell says: "I can assure you I am now a well woman, as strong as ever I was in my life. and I owe my present condition entirely to the use of Dr. William's Pink Pills, which have proved to me a wonderful medicine. Mrs. Worrell further says that Pink Pills were also of the greatest benefit to her husband, who suffered greatly with rheumatism in his hand and arms. At times these would swell up and the pains were so great that he could not sleep and would sit the whole night beside a fire in order to get a little relief from the pain he was enduring. Seeing how much benefit his wife had derived from the use of Pink Pills he began their use, and soon drove the rheumatism from his system and he has since been free from the terrible pains which had formerly made his life miserable. Both Mr. and Mrs. Worrell say they will always strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to ailing friends.

These pills are a blood builder and nerve restorer, and there is no trouble whose origin is due to either of these causes that they will not cure if given a fair trial. The genuine Pink Pills are sold only in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." There are imitations of this great medicine, also colored pink, which are offered by the dozen, hundred or ounce, or in boxes, without the directions and trade mark. Always refuse these imitations, no matter what the interested dealer who tries to sell them may say.

Whence came Some Flowers.

From the Alps came the ranunculus, and from Italy the mignonette in 1528, rosemary from the south of Europe in 1534, the jasmine from Circassia about 1548. The year 1867 saw the introduction of the favorites, the auricula from Switzerland, the pink from Italy, the gillyflower and carnation from Flanders. Spencer by the way, in the "Shepheardе's Calendar," (1579) classes the carnation, which he calls "coronation," with the purple columbine and the gillyflower as lovers' flowers. Now, the carnation is generally supposed to have derived its name from the carnation or flesh color of the original species. But the word used by Spencer suggests that "carnation" is merely an abbreviation of "coronation," in allusion to the crown-like appearance of the flower, and its specific name, Betonica coronaria.

The Philolgical Society's "New English Dictionary" does not decide which of the derivations is the only true one, though one must have originated in a mistake. Anyhow, the shorter form was common in Shakespeare's time, and we have it, on Dame Quickly's authority, that Sir John Falstaff "could never abide carnation; 'twas color he never liked." Lavender was imported from the south of Europe not later than 1568, and the laburnum from Hungary about 1576; while Sir Walter Raleigh is credited with having brought the snowdrop back with him from his short-lived colony of Roanoke, an island off North Carolina, in 1584.—Chambers' Journal.

The Mud Was Deep.

A lady was noticed to hesitate this morning when she approached the new granolithic crossing being laid down on the market. Her mind was soon made up and gathering up her skirts she boldly waded through the fresh cement, much to the amusement of the bystanders and the consternation of the workingmen employed on the job.

A Good Story.

A story is going the rounds at the expense of one of the best known men of this place. We shall not mention his name, but you know him. Of rather determined mien, he has of late been showing signs of mental agitation. He wears a full beard, but a few days since his wife, much to her alarm, found him sharpening a razor. She thought his mind was unhinged and went into hysterics. Explanations followed and it was found that life had for him still some charm. He intended to use the razor upon painful corns. A friend who had used Putnam's Corn Extractor with success advised its use with the following results: Man quite happy, wife ditto, razor sent away. Use Putnam's Corn Extractor.

The Regatta.

Mr. D. R. Coleman, hon. Secretary, has received a letter from Mr. Lawrence J. Levy, of Toronto, Secretary-Treasurer of the Lake Sailing Skiff Association who states that a number of canoes and several half-rater yachts from that city will take part in the race here. This will be a great attraction.

ANGLING.

Messrs. Robert Foy and Moses Boardman had rare sport amongst the bass in the Moira near Foxboro yesterday. They caught thirty-one, amongst which were two four pounders, but the bulk of the catch were from two pounds upward. They also caught a six pound pike. This is the best catch of bass so far this season.

The Old Trundle Bed.

Oh, the old trundle bed where I slept when a boy!
What canopied king might not covet the joy?
The glory and peace of that slumber of mine,
Like a long, gracious rest in the bosom divine;
The quaint, homely couch, hidden close from the light,
But daintily drawn from its hiding place at night.
Oh, a nest of delight, from the foot to the head,
Was the queer little, dear little, old trundle bed!
Oh, the old trundle bed, where I wondering saw
The stars through the window, and listened with awe
To the sigh of the winds as they tremblingly crept
Through the trees where the robins so restlessly slept;
Where I heard the low, murmurous chirp of the wren,
And the katydid listlessly chirrup again,
Till my fancies grew faint, and were dowsily led Through the maze of the dreams of the old trundle bed!
Oh, the old trundle bed! Oh, the old trundle bed!
With its plump little pillow and old-fashioned spread;
Its snowy-white sheets, and the blankets above,
Smoothed down and tucked round with the touches of love;
The voice of my mother to lull me to sleep
With the old fairy stories my memories keep.
Still fresh as the lilies that bloom o'er the head
Once bowed o'er my own in the old trundle bed!

No Cause for Complaint.

In justice to all concerned we reproduce the following from the Belleville Sun of yesterday's date:

Mr. D. Gunn, Grand Trunk station agent, says the complaint that the train was overcrowded on the occasion of the S. O.E. excursion to Kingston is not based upon fact.

"Each of our cars," said Mr. Gunn, "will seat fifty persons and there were several on that train capable of seating sixty. When the train left this station it consisted of eleven passenger coaches and a baggage car. Now, as there were 507 people on board of the train when it reached Kingston, you can figure it out for yourself whether it was overcrowded or not."

In regard to the landing of the passengers at night at Lime street, Mr. Gunn says only the safety and convenience of such a large crowd were considered. This has always been done and has been found satisfactory. He says the Sun's informant was wrong in saying that a complaint was made last year and a promise was given that it would not occur again, as no such complaint and promise were made.

A Blood-Red Lake.

Lake Moras, in Switzerland, has a queer habit of turning red about two or three times every ten years. It is a pretty lake, like most of the sheets of water in that picturesque country, and its peculiar freak is attributed to a disposition to celebrate the slaughter of the Burgundians under Charles the Bold on June 21st, 1478. But the French say it blushes for the conduct of the Swiss, who, in that battle, gave the Burgundians no quarter. This year it was redder than ever, and had a sinister appearance when the setting sun illuminated its waves. This phenomenon, of course, has its legend. The old fishermen of the lake, when they see the waters of the lake redden, declare it to be the blood of the Burgundians. As a matter of fact, some of the bodies of the Burgundians killed in the battle were thrown into the lake. But the color of the lake is due simply to the presence in large quantities of little aquatic plants, called by naturalists oscillatroia rubescens. The curious thing about it is that Lake Morat is the only lake in which this curious growth is developed, and this peculiarity is beginning to interest scientific men.

Infant Mortality.

Lactated Food Saves Babies' Lives

The frightful rate of infant mortality in Canada shows plainly that there is something lacking in the knowledge of how to care for babies.

When a physician is called to attend an ailing infant, he invariably finds that the infant must be better fed.

Too many infants are crammed with heavy indigestible foods that ruin the digestive organs. Too many are fed from day to day with mother's milk, impure and often diseased.

Mothers should endeavor to find out at once if they are using the proper food for their babies. If the babies are not healthy and not growing as they should, they ought to be fed at once on Lactated Food, which is as healthful as the purest breast milk, and as cheap as the most ordinary food.

Lactated Food is a life-saving diet for all infants and children, and receives the heartiest approval of the best medical men.

A WOMAN'S BRAVE ACT.

How She Crushed a Cobra to Death with Her Heel.

A few years ago my husband, then stationed in India, was struck down by fever, and on me devolved the duty of watching him. Our bungalow lay at some little distance from the barracks and on the morning of the day on which we expected the crisis to occur I was anxiously awaiting the doctor's visit. When he arrived, after taking my husband's temperature, he would not, he said, utterly forbid me to hope, for it was still barely possible that the violence of the fever might yet give way to natural sleep, and recovery might ensue, provided his slumber remained unbroken. For some hours my husband continued to toss and moan piteously. By and by he passed into a disturbed sleep. Seating myself at the foot of the bed, I prepared to watch till he woke.

An hour passed, when, opposite me, through the veranda, I saw a large hooded cobra come gliding into the room. On it came, elevating its hideous head and emitting a hissing sound. As the venomous creature passed me, the glare of its eyes made my blood run cold. It drew nearer and nearer to the bed; then, rearing up, appeared to be about to insinuate itself in the pillows. I advanced softly and, raising my right foot, ground the heel of my slipper down upon its vicious head. I felt it writhe, and the tail twist violently round my ankle, but not until it relaxed its folds did I remove my foot. There, thank God, lay the cobra dead. The doctor found me lying unconscious soon after. My husband made a rapid recovery, and treasures as his most sacred possession a blue silk slipper."—Golden Penny.

Cloth of Wood Fibre.

The important question of how best to withstand winter's frosty weather interests everybody. And this question is now settled by the great possibilities offered by Fibre Chamois. It is the pure fibre of the spruce tree made as soft as silk or wool by an interesting chemical process, and then felted together just as wool or cotton is, making a strong, windproof and cheap fabric. Nearly every one knows that wood is one of the best non-conductors of heat and cold to be found—so this interlining made entirely from the wood affords thorough protection from the most cold or searching winds, at the same time preserving the natural heat of the today. These facts united with its light weight and pliable nature make it an invaluable interlining for outer clothing of every description.

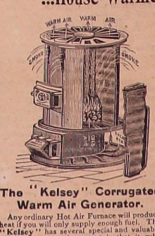
The Most Economical ...House Warmer



The "Kelsey" Corrugated Warm Air Generator.

Any ordinary Hot Air Furnace will produce heat if you will only supply enough fuel. The "Kelsey" has several special and valuable features but most important is that it will give more heat with less fuel and is the most durable heater made.

The "Kelsey" fire pot being constructed of several upright, tubular, corrugated, cast iron sections (see cut) around which the fire passes and up through which the cold air passes while being heated, and this entire section being wrapped with a heavy steel casing which becomes heated by the fire striking it when passing down outside of upright sections towards smoke pipe, it in turn warms the air that passes up between this steel casing and the galvanized iron casing, this explains why the "Kelsey" has three times more radiating surface and warm air capacity than an ordinary Furnace. The "Kelsey" heats every room evenly, wheresoever located, with a nice, mild, healthful warm air that will not injure your furniture.

The "Kelsey" will heat rooms 60 feet distant.

The "Kelsey" does not heat your cellar.

The "Kelsey" is absolutely gas and dust proof.

THE OTTAWA BUDGET.

How the Leading Seats Have Been Allotted.

Vessel Owners Who Chartered Their Ships in Canada for the Season Must Pay Full Duty on the Provisions Brought From the Old Country—What Dr. Selwyn Says of the Gold Regions of British Columbia —Gossip From the Capital.

Ottawa, July 31.—(Special.)—A plan of the floor of the House of Commons has been prepared under direction of the Sergeant-at-Arms. It shows the seats to which members have been allotted, Liberals, of course, on the right, and Conservatives on the left of the Speaker. On the first row on the Government side the seats are thus assigned, numbering from the Speaker's chair towards the bar: Dr. Christie, Geoffrion and Joly, Fielding and Cartwright, Laurier and Davies, Mulock and Sutherland, McCarthy and Charlton, Scriver and Edwards, Langelier and Brodeur, Dr. Fiset.

Second row: Mr. Bernier, Dobell and Fitzpatrick, Borden and Paterson, Tarte and Blair, Fisher and ——; Cameron and Landerkin, Casey and Beausoleil, McMillan and Somerville, Mr. Godbout.

On the Opposition front row: Mr. Casgrain, Wallace and Wood, Costigan and Caron, Tupper and Foster, Ives and Bergin, Bergeron and Dupont, Taylor and Mills, McLennan and McDonald (P.E.I.), Mr. McNeill.

Second row: Mr. Boyd, H. J. Macdonald and Frior, Haggart and Montague, C. H. Tupper and Tisdale, McDougall and Sproule, McInerney and Cochrane, Calvert and Fraser (Lambton), Mr. Stenson.

It will be seen that Sir Richard Cartwright has Finance Minister Fielding under his wing and that Mr. Laurier has Davies at his side and Tarte at his back. D'Alton McCarthy occupies his old seat and has Mr. Charlton as desk mate. Stubbs also remains in the same seat he occupied last session. Jos. Seagram has selected a retired position in the centre of the back row on the Opposition side.

The Clerk of the Crown in Chancery to-day received the return of the writ for the election in Burrard, B.C., and the member for that constituency, G. R. Maxwell, who is a Liberal, and who designates himself "gentleman," will be gazetted to-day. This will complete the official announcement of the members returned in the last general election to serve in the Eighth Parliament.

To-morrow's Canada Gazette will also contain the return of the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier as Premier and President of the Privy Council and of Mr. Mulock, Postmaster-General. These are the first returns of the bye-elections received. The others returned by acclamation on Thursday will be gazetted next week.

The Department of Customs recently made a rather important ruling regarding ships' supplies. Several steamers engaged during the season of navigation in freighting coal from Cape Breton ports to Montreal brought over from England in the spring provisions and supplies for six months, enough to last until they return to the Old Country in the fall. The question having been raised by the Collector of Customs, the department has decided that all these extra ships' stores are dutiable.

Dr. A. R. C. Selwyn, C.M.G., ex-director of the Geological Survey, and a leading authority on mineralogy, is just back from British Columbia. He traveled over the Cariboo trail to visit a mine that he induced English capitalists to take hold of some time ago. "It is an experiment," he said, "so far as gold mining operations are concerned in Canada, the object being to search and prove the nature of the gold drifts underlying the bed of lava, which exists in similar conditions in Australia and California. In these countries finds of this kind have proved by far the richest of gold deposits. They may have to sink five or six hundred fet to strike the drift, but reasoning from scientific knowledge and from what is known of such finds in California, I regard the prospect as almost a certainty."

While pleased with the progress of mining in British Columbia, he holds that the greatest drawback to the development has been the wasteful expenditure of money by incapable managers, in the purchase of expensive plant, which in many cases is never used, because of the difficulty of transportation. He deprecates the crusade against Chinese labor.

Director Dawson has left for Nova Scotia to oversee the geological work being carried on there by the survey staff.

The Ministers in town to-day are Hon. Messrs. Scott, Tarte and Sir Oliver Mowat.

Hon. T. Mayne Daly arrived here and called at the Department of the Interior. Mr. Daly will present the report to the Government upon his inspection of the Canadian Emigration Agencies in Europe. He wil advocate a larger expenditure on immigration.

Hon. John Haggart was in the city to-day.

Sir Charles Tupper returned to-day from Toronto, and will practically remain in Ottawa until Parliament opens. His residence on Cartier-street is now being fitted up for occupancy. Lady Tupper sailed to-day from London, and will be met at Quebec on the 9th by Sir Charles.

A MISS AS GOOD AS A MILE.

This Is No Doubt What a Dozen Workmen at Niagara Falls Believe This Morning.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 31.—Some dozen men engaged on the mason work of the new steel arch railway bridge at the Canadian end miraculously escaped death at 1 30 o'clock this afternoon. It seems the large cut stones, weighing some five or six tons, are placed in their positions below by means of two large derricks, and are lowered from the top of the bank down about 50 feet, where they are picked up by another derrick and placed in their positions. When the immense derrick located at the top of the bank had a six-ton stone raised and swung in position to lower over the precipice, the man in charge noticed the guy of the arm had broken and quickly signalled Charles W. Gillies, the man at the engine, to stop, which he did. With superhuman strength and quickness he pulled the stone back, and not a moment too soon, for the shaft fell with a crash, over the roof of the bridge ticket office. Had he not done what he did, the stone would have gone over the precipice and dragged the derrick with it on top of the unconscious workmen below, and nothing would have saved them from instant death.

GOLD MINING IN ONTARIO.

Ontario Inspector Slaght Returns From a Tour of Inspection—The Work is Booming Along Finely.

Toronto, Aug. 1.

Mr. A. Slaght, Ontario Inspector of Mines, returned yesterday from an inspection of the Northwestern mining districts of the Province. He reports increased activity in the mining regions, and especially in the gold districts of the Lake of the Woods and Rainy Lake. He reports the Sultana mine as running with a force of 65 men, a very rich body of ore having been struck at a depth of 175 feet. About $3000 worth of gold per week is being taken out. A chlorination plant for treating concentrates has just been added.

At the Regina mine between 80 and 90 men are at work. The stamp mill is running 10 hours a day and one shaft is down 150 feet. The property is being vigorously developed.

At the Foley mine on Shoal Lake active work is going on. A complete plant is in course of erection for treating ore.

About 20 men are at work at the Ferguson mine, four miles from Mine Centre. Two shafts have been sunk and the two will be connected by a drift. The vein is two feet wide and the outlook encouraging.

A fine vein is being developed in the Golden Gate property. An open cut 35 feet deep has been made upon it, and the vein is about four feet wide. About 100 tons of ore from this property was treated in the mill at Galo Hill mine, half a mile distant, the yield being $1500. Ten men are at work.

A ten-stamp mill is on the point of being started at the Empress mine on Jack Fish Bay, where 300 or 400 tons of fine grade ore, running $15 to $20 per ton, were on the dump. A number of veins have been uncovered and prospects are that it will prove a well-paying mine.

At the Crystal gold mine near Lake Wahnapitae, 12 men are at work and some fine samples of ore have been taken out.

The prospect named the "Last Chance" in Rathbun Township is undergoing development, five or six men being at work. The promise of this mine is good, fine gold being easily obtained.

The Canadian Copper Co.'s mines are all being operated by a strong force, 425 men being at work, and the output of ore being 500 tons a day. The smelting plant has been practically duplicated. The company has recently opened up a fine body of ore a short distance from Copper Cliff.

The Chicago Nickel Co., in Drury Township, has recently been reorganized and is actively at work with a force of about 40 men. A fine plant has been erected at a cost of $100,000. Four thousand tons of ore are on the roast heaps and an additional smelter of 120 tons capacity is about to be erected. The company has recently undertaken a large contract for the disposal of its matte.

STRIKE AT THE TWIN SHAFT.

The Coal Company Cuts the Wages of the Men at the Dangerous Work of Recovering the Victims.

Wilkes-Barre, July 31.—Quite a sensation was caused in Pittston yesterday among the surviving friends of the Twin shaft victims by the discontinuance of the rescue work, which up to 7 o'clock in the morning had been going on ever since the entombment of the men on Sunday, June 28, last. The cause of the work being stopped is the reduction of the workmen's wages, and for this reason they are on strike. The shift came up at 7 o'clock in the morning as usual and two of them were told that their services would be no longer required. All the others were informed that they would hereafter receive but $1.90 and $1.70 per day—some of the men to receive the former and others the latter pay. The men refused to go in for these wages, and hence the rescue work is at a standstill.

Foreman Griffith Roberts was interviewed concerning the reduction, but he refused to talk on the matter.

The Pittston relatives and friends of the entombed men feel very indignant that the work has been discontinued.

General Manager Law was seen in the afternoon. On being questioned as to the reduction of wages, he replied that there is a limit to the company's pocketbook. He stated that there would be no difficulty in securing men at the cut wages, though at the same time he admitted that the work was most dangerous. He said the company had no desire to stop the work, although it has not the slightest hope of ever recovering a body. It will be continued, he says, until water is struck or a dangerous body of gas.

HIS THREE SONS DROWNED.

A Terrible Triple Drowning Accident at Pictou, N.S., Yesterday—Upset in the Squall.

Pictou, N.S., July 31.—A terrible triple drowning accident here to-day had for its victims thre brothers, the only sons of John Brown, painter. Mr. Brown and his sons—Alexander, aged 21; John, aged 14, and Donald, aged 11—were crossing the harbor in a sailboat, which was overturned by a squall. All got hold of the boat, but she continued to turn over, and the three boys, unable to hold on, all went to the bottom. Their father was rescued in an exhausted condition.

NINETEEN GO TO DEATH.

A Big Band of Hungarian Brigands and Murderers Has at Last Been Captured and Sentenced.

Agram, Hungary, July 31.—For some time the St. Enjavee District was infested by a gang that was organized for the purpose of brigandage and murder. The authorities finally determined to make an effort to extirpate the gang, with the result that a number of men and women were arrested, either with a direct knowledge that they were implicated in the crimes in which the gang were accused or suspicion that they were implicated. The prisoners were brought to trial, and to-day a verdict of guilty of murder was pronounced against 19 of them, who were sentenced to death.

Others of the prisoners were convicted of lesser crimes and were sentenced to various terms of imprisonment.

Two of the prisoners on whom sentence of death was passed are women.

Five More Have Died.

Vienna, July 31.—It is stated this evening that five more of those injured by yesterday's explosion at Fuenfkirchen have died from the effects of their injuries.

A $75,000 BLAZE.

The Central Mills at Niagara Falls Were Burning, But the Rollers Turned Just the Same.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 31.—At the Central Milling Co., Niagara Falls, N.Y., some 80,000 bushels of wheat was burned and $15,000 damage done to the building. The mill is the largest in Western New York and has a capacity of 15,000 barrels per day and is a large four-storey building. The fire originated in the tower of the elevator shaft and is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion. The fire department kept the flames within the shaft and store bins below. The mill, during the fire, did not shut down, but kept on turning its rolls. The loss is estimated at $75,000, fully covered by insurance.

HIS SWEETHEART DIED

And Louis Hanrahan of Detroit Could Not Live Without Her.

Detroit, Mich., July 31.—Louis Hanrahan, 2? years of age, son of Sergt. Hanrahan of the police force, shot himself this morning through the left breast. He is in the Emergency Hospital and cannot live. He left a pathetic letter for his parents, saying that he could not live without his sweetheart, who died very suddenly yesterday.

FRANK AGAN'S RACE.

Robert J., Joe Patchen and Other Cracks Beaten at Cleveland.

Cleveland, July 31.—Fifteen thousand persons saw Frank Agan win the greatest pacing race of the year to-day at the Glenville track, defeating Robert J., Joe Patchen and Badge in straight heats. He lowered his own record twice, and, incidentally, the pacing record of the track. The big bay stallion was wildly cheered after each performance, and he richly deserved all the plaudits, for he won the race on its merits.

The best time was in the second heat, which was done in 2.04.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidney Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency"

BAD BLOOD.

Bad blood courses through the veins and arteries just the same as good blood does, but good blood carries with it health, while bad blood distributes diseases throughout the whole body.

Good blood means vigor. Bad blood sows the seed of scrofula, ulcers, abscesses, boils, blotches, skin diseases, and almost all the ills that flesh is heir to. To get health we must cure the bad blood, and is Burdock Blood Bitters, which removes all impurities from the blood by its action on the stomach, liver and bowels, thus carrying off all morbid and effete matter, and purifying, cleansing and healing every organ of the body.

Rich Red Blood

is thus created, which is a guarantee of health and happiness.

AN IRISH CONVENTION

An Effort to Bring the Factions Together.

And Make a Strong, United Stand, Which Is Their Only Hope of the Revival of the Cause of Self-Government for Ireland — All Denominations Invited to Take Part in the Gathering—The Question of Leadership will be Discussed, and Mr. Sexton May be Asked to Re-Enter Politics.

New York, Aug. 2.—The Sun's London correspondent says: I have been authorized to make an announcement which contains the only hope of the revival of the cause of self-government for Ireland. It is welcome news that a genuine, earnest effort will be made at Dublin, a month hence, to harmonize all factions in the ranks of the Irish Nationalists. Messrs. Dillon, Healy, Redmond and all their fellowers are willing to admit that there is no hope of the accomplishment of the object for which all are supposed to be striving, until the disputes which have divided them since the death of Mr. Parnell, are abandoned and their forces are united under a single leadership once more.

It is, of course, impossible to gain this fusion without important personal and other concessions on all sides. These concessions the great majority of the Irish Nationalists in Parliament are not only ready but anxious to make. They will make them at the convention to be held next month in Dublin. Meantime, the preliminary announcement of their purpose is contained in the following statement, prepared by Mr. John Dillon, after consultation with his associates, and handed to me for publication in the United States and Canada.

"The National convention which is to meet at Dublin on Sept. 1, was summoned with a view of affording an opportunity to all who desire to see unity restored among the Irish Nationalists, to come together and lay down a platform in support of which Irish Nationalists throughout the world might act together. With that object in view, the proposals for the convention were made so wide as to embrace all Irish Nationalists who desire to give a fair trial to the constitutional methods.

"It is now manifest that, so far as Ireland and the Irishmen in Great Britain are concerned, the convention will be the most representative which has assembled since the split of 1891; and it will have, as compared with previous conventions, the advantage of the presence, at its deliberations, of many representative Irishmen from other parts of the world. Its decisions must, therefore, have great weight with the Irish race, and lasting influence on the future of the Irish movement.

"The convention was not summoned in the interests of any section or of any individual, as is plainly shown by the rules which have been laid down for the admission of delegates, under which every organized body of Irishmen who are sympathisers with the Home Rule movement have a right to be represented. Clergymen of all denominations and all representative Nationalists holding positions conferred by the votes of their fellow-citizens are entitled to attend. The Parnellite party have also been invited to take part in making arrangements for the convention.

"For my own part, if, at the convention, or subsequently, as a result of its proceedings, any man could be agreed upon under whose chairmanship all the Irish Nationalist members of Parliament would unite, I should, as I have always stated, be most willing to support him in the office. It seems to me that if any section of Irish Nationalists decline to take part in this convention, the duty will be thrown upon them of stating to their countrymen how, in their judgment, can be effected that reunion in the National ranks which is of the first importance to the progress of the National cause.

"I shall not undertake to prophesy what the result of these overtures from the most numerous section of the Irish Nationalists in Parliament will be. I wish to emphasize the fact that this peace movement is genuine and sincere, and that any faction which resists it will assume a grave responsibility before the Irish race. It may, perhaps, resolve itself into a question of personal leadership, and it must be admitted that the difficulties will be great, because there exists no commanding figure, in or out of Parliament to whom all factions can turn. There is some talk of inducing Mr. Sexton to return to politics as a compromise leader of the consolidated forces, but the so-called Dillon party, who are in the van of the present peace movement, have no candidate to propose."

THREE MEN KILLED.

A Terrible Accident on the Construction Work of the Ottawa, Arnprior and Parry Sound Railway.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—A shocking accident occurred on the construction work of the Ottawa, Arnprior and Parry Sound Railway on Friday evening. A dynamite charge prematurely exploded, killing Foreman John McLeod of Cornwall, John Ryan, Owen Sound; and Joseph St. Pierre, lately from France. A brother of St. Pierre was probably fatally injured. The bodies of the three victims were horribly mangled.

Hon. R. W. Scott, Secretary of State, has appointed as his private secretary Mr. William Kehoe of this city, who for the past three years has been on the local staff of The Ottawa Free Press.

The Board of Examiners for Dominion land surveyors will meet here on Monday the 10th.

A protest has been entered against Mr. Etienne, Liberal member for Two Mountains. The usual charges of bribery and corruption are alleged.

WAS POOLE DROWNED?

The Tara Photographer's Mysterious Disappearance From a Skiff Near Port Elgin—May Have Fallen Overboard.

Southampton, Ont., Aug. 2.—On Friday evening about 7 o'clock Mr. F. N. Poole, photographer, of Tara, hired a rowboat from the Park boat house. He was seen by the Chanley Island light-keeper about 8 o'clock about a mile south of the pier rowing towards Port Elgin. The rowboat was picked up yesterday about six miles out in the lake by the schooner Coronet and brought to this port. Mr. Poole's cap and coat and one oar were in the boat. The boat had no water in it. Mr. Poole is supposed to have fallen overboard and been drowned.

THE STRIKE IS ON AGAIN.

Trouble at the Brown Works in Cleveland Has Been Renewed—A Man Shot and Fatally Wounded.

Cleveland, Aug. 2.—The strike is on again at the Brown Hoisting Works. Friday night all the union men who had gone back under the agreement were called out. The men assert that they were deceived by the way in which the agreement was construed to them. The agreement was a complete surrender on the part of the men. When the works shut down to-night there was a threatening crowd outside, and the police were hurried to the scene. Aside from the jostlings of non-union men, however, there was no disturbance.

Two companies of militia and every available policeman was ordered to the Brown works by Mayor McKisson shortly before noon yesterday, in anticipation of trouble when the men came out at noon.

At 12 o'clock a crowd of 25 non-union men left the works without police escort. They were intercepted by three or four men, who followed them at a distance. The locked out men threw rocks at the men they were following.

This so excited the latter that just before reaching Clinton-street several of them pulled revolvers and commenced shooting. John Prinz of No. 1186 St. Clair-street, a union moulder, employed at city foundry No. 2, while walking up the Cleveland and Pittsburg Railroad tracks was shot three times. One bullet passed under his heart and through an arm, below the elbow. Before reaching the hospital he became unconscious and it was feared that he would die at any moment. Prinz is 38 years old, married, and has two children.

CONFESSED TO MURDER.

Frederick Hildebrand Suicides After Confessing That He Killed a Man for Which Another Awaits Death.

Baltimore, Aug. 2.—The convict known as Frederick Whitney, who committed suicide at the Maryland Penitentiary yesterday, appears by his confession to have added murder to his long list of crimes. Friday afternoon Whitney told Warden Weyler that his real name was Frederick Hildebrand, and that his home was in Detroit, Mich.

The "hold-up" of City Councilman Swindel, for which Whitney was serving an 18-years' sentence, occurred on March 23, 1895.

In his confession he said that while fleeing from the Baltimore detectives he killed and robbed a man in Altoona, Pa., in April of last year.

"While we were in Altoona," declared Whitney, or Hildebrand, "we assaulted a man on the street, murdered him, and robbed him of his money, quite a large sum. For this murder another man was arrrested, tried and convicted."

The warden tried to get more information from his prisoner, but failed. He set apart an houd for a further conference with Hildebrand, but the opportunity for which the prisoner had long waited presented itself yesterday, and the unfortunate man threw himself from a window and dashed out his brains on the flagging, 30 feet below.

Information from Altoona states that on April 5, 1895, Henry Boaneka, a reputed miser, was murdered. A man named Wilson was arrested and convicted of the crime, mainly on circumstantial evidence, and is now awaiting the death sentence.

John B. Williams, who was implicated in the Swindell "hold-up" in this city, and is serving an 18-years' sentence in the penitentiary, confessed to Warden Weyler to-day that Hildebrand's statement was true. "Hildebrand killed old man Boaneka," he said, "and secured $11,000. I helped him count the money. We buried it near Altoona."

SOUND MONEY DEMOCRATS

Will Hold a Convention for the State of Illinois on August 25.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—The Sound Money Democracy of Illinois will hold a State convention. This step was formally decided upon yesterday by the State Executive Committee. Chairman Ewing was directed to prepare a call for the convention to be held in Chicago, Aug. 25, to nominate a full State ticket and elect delegates to the anti-Free Silver National Convention. There is considerable talk in Democratic circles that Chairman Heinrichsen of the Democracy State Committee will exercise his authority as Secretary of State to prevent the gold Democrats using the name "Democratic" on the ballots with any attachment.

FLOOD IN VIENNA.

A Cloudburst Causes the Loss of a Number of Lives.

Vienna, Aug. 1.—A cloud-burst occurred here to-day, and several districts of the city were flooded, the residents in a number of the houses in the submerged districts being obliged to leave their homes. One dwelling house collapsed, killing one of the inmates and injuring several others. Three persons were drowned. The damage to property is very great.

PICKED UP IN MID-OCEAN.

The Steamship La Bourgogne Had Quite a Time Rescuing the Crew of the Wrecked Barque Ernest.

Quarantine, S.I., Aug. 2.—The French Line steamer La Bourgogne, from Havre, arrived at quarantine this morning with the crew of the German barque Ernest, taken from that vessel in midocean. On July 28 the Ernest was sighted, showing signals of distress. The La Bourgogne was headed toward the Ernest in order to render assistance. The wind was blowing a strong breeze from the west and the sea was heavy and exceedingly ugly. Lieut. M. Motay, in charge of a lifeboat, was sent to ascertain the trouble. In lowering the boat the falls unhooked, and a huge wave washed the lieutenant overboard. After considerable delay and difficulty, the lieutenant was picked up. In the meantime a second boat was lowered in charge of Third Lieutenant M. Rempter, and both boats proceeded to the wreck, and after several trips the captain and eleven seamen were rescued. The La Bourgogne resumed her voyage after a delay of four hours. The abandoned vessel was the barque Ernest, Captain Ahrens, from Carnarvon, for Shediac, N.B., in ballast. She had ten feet of water in the hold.

GAUDAUR'S CREW WON

The English Four Easily Beaten at Halifax.

Haligonians Finished Third—Time of Race, 18.35—Canadians Had the Race Well in Hand All the Way and Finished as They Pleased—Gaudaur Sails for England Aug. 5—For the Brockville Regatta

Halifax, Aug. 1.—"It's the most magnificent race I ever saw," said Edward Hanlan, the one-time world's champion, as he watched the struggle an hour before dark this evening between the contestants for the Halifax prizes in the four-oared international aquatic event that ended the summer carnival. It was a grand sight under the setting sun as the crack crews of England and America rowed toward the finish line almost abreast, the Britishers straining every nerve to put their bow in front, while the Canadian-American four, maintaining the easy, comfortable style of rowing with which they started, held their own in beautiful form, then rushed ahead as their antagonists weakened, and crossed the line a winner by over five lengths.

When the crews were sent out about 7.10 o'clock there was a light ripple on the water, but not enough to interfere with high speed. Five fours started as follows: English crew—Bubear, Haines, Barry and Gibson.

Canadian-American — Gaudaur, Durnan, Hackett and Rogers.

Halifax—Lynch, Holland, Shea and Brennan.

St. John—Daly, Clarke, Patchell and Lambert.

Bedford—Heffler, Vanbuskirk, Boutilier and Boutilier.

The Casey crew of Boston and the McLeod-Sullivan crew of St. John failed to show up. All five boats effected a fine start, catching the water pretty well together, but the St. John men, pulling a very heavy stroke, forged to the front For a few minutes they seemed to hold a slight advantage over the others, but it was of brief duration. Three of the other four boats pushed past them before an eighth of a mile had been covered. These were the Canadian-Americans, the Englishmen and the Haligonians. Gaudaur's four, with graceful, steady and never-varying stroke, took the leading position as soon as the real struggle began, and they lost it only once while the race lasted. Dipping their oars at the rate of thirty-seven times to the minute, they never seemed to increase or decrease their stroke, but went ahead like a piece of superbly-regulated mechanism until the contest was finished. Down the whole length of the course, to the turn, one and a half miles from the start, they were closely pressed by the Halifax and English crews, but they never lost their position until the turn had been made, and then regained it so quickly that it was easy to see they were the superior crew, destined to capture the thousand-dollar prize. Half a mile from the start the Bedford crew, already a quarter of a mile behind the others, dropped out. At this point Bubear's boat was heading Halifax by two lengths, with St. John following closely. The Canadians were just then getting clear of the Englishmen, and the fishermen four of Halifax were setting the pace, forcing the others to work hard or drop astern. The local crew, rowing splendidly, gained slowly on the Britishers until one mile from the start they were abreast of them. The three boats sped towards the turning buoys so close together that to a spectator a quarter of a mile away they seemed to be neck and neck.

The Canadians had been doing a little bad steering, and to get around their own buoy they had to make a long turn. Had they so chosen they could have turned an extra buoy almost straight in their course, one that was intended for a crew which failed to start, but they did not take advantage of it. Had they done so they would have straightened for home with a good lead.

The Englishmen were rowing so hard that their object apparently was to exhaust the Gaudaur crew, but the latter were evidently in too good condition, and the only opponents they had to fear were exhausting themselves. As it was the Canadian-American team squared for home a length to the good. Halifax got around so rapidly that it set out on the home stretch with a slight advantage over the Englishmen, with the St. John men between three and four lengths behind. When half a mile of the home trip had been covered Gaudaur's men led by two lengths over the fishermen, whose bow was still a few feet in advance of the bow of Bubear's boat. St. John, which had been losing ground fast, was then a quarter of a mile astern. A quarter of a mile further on the Englishmen got even with the Haligonians, then forged ahead and bent all their energies to overtaking the leaders. The fishermen at this point appeared to be doing rather badly, but the Bubear team was drawing up on the Canadian boat, which had increased its lead to over four lengths.

The Englishmen gained, but the gain was very slow. Half a mile from home they put forth a supreme effort, increasing their lead on Halifax and drawing toward the Canadians at a rapid rate. A third of a mile from the finish they had cut down the gap to one and a half lengths, and before the last quarter was reached the two were almost abreast. In these positions, with the bow of the English boat less than a length from the bow of the Canadians', the two approached the finishing line, rowing a splendid race. Bubear and his mates were, however, very tired, and were unable to keep up the pace. Again the Canadian four drew away, then slowed down a little, apparently satisfied they could win without trouble. Half a dozen lengths from the line the Englishmen fouled a stakeboat which had floated out of place. For a few moments they stopped rowing, losing more than a length, while Gaudaur's men crossed the line between five and six lengths ahead. The time was 18.35. The Englishmen finished in 18.45, and the Halifax crew in 19.20. The St. John crew was beaten by about half a mile. The time of the crews at the turn was not taken, but it was made in about eight minutes.

The race was witnessed by a large crowd on shore and the water, but the number of people was not nearly so great as gathered yesterday to witness the contest when it had to be postponed.

Gaudaur will start at once for England, leaving New York on Wednesday, and will have three weeks to train for his match with Stanbury for the championship of the world. There was some uneasiness here about Stanbury's deposit, but word came all right yesterday that Gaudaur's $250 had been covered in The London Sportsman office. Gaudaur will take with him a new Ruddock shell. He wired Mr. Dissette last night that he was in the best of health and spirits. Mr. Dissette will go to New York to-morrow, while several Canadians will cross the water next month to see the race, which is on Monday, Sept. 7.

KILLED HIS AGED FATHER.

A Horrible Story From the Mining Village of Darragh, Near Greensburg, Pa. —The Culprit Jailed.

Greensburg, Pa., Aug. 2.—At the mining village of Darragh, near the Madison coal works, last night about 12 o'clock Patrick Coyle, a miner, aged 70 years, was pounded and choked to death by his son Walter Coyle, aged about 20 years. Mrs. Coyle, the mother of the murderer, was an eye-witness to the crime, and on her knees pleaded for the life of her husband, but finally was compelled to flee. Young Coyle's wife recently became demented, and was sent to an asylum, Coyle's parents taking charge of her infant. Young Coyle came home last night and was reproached by his father for drinking and neglecting his child, and the murder followed. The mother gave the alarm, and a number of miners of the neighborhood came in, and, after a desperate struggle, overpowered the murderer. The sheriff was sent for and took Coyle to jail.

A Big Lumber Failure.

Bay City, Mich., Aug. 2.—Samuel G. M. Gates, a lumberman, yesterday turned over all his property to the Union Trust Company of Detroit for the benefit of his creditors. The assets amount to $383,000, and the liabilities to $644,000.

Canadian Banks are Not Importing Gold Owing to Any Nervousness as Stated in New York Despatches.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—The despatches from New York to the Canadian papers stating that Montreal banks were withdrawing gold from the United States on account of the nervousness in the Dominion over the currency question in the neighboring Republic are not borne out by facts. On the contrary, the leading banks here deny that gold is being brought into Canada for the reasons given in the despatches in question. The general manager of the Bank of Montreal was found in his office, and certainly did not betray the slightest degree of uneasiness while discussing the question.

"We have not brought any gold into Canada for a good while," said Mr. Clouston, "and it is not probable any is coming in for the reasons alleged in the Toronto and New York despatches. However," concluded the banker, "the sound money men should not be too sanguine over the result of the Presidential campaign, as over-confidence might put them into a hole."

Mr. John Galt, who has lately been appointed manager of the Merchants' Bank of Canada in New York, arrived in Montreal yesterday, and was likewise interviewed by your correspondent. Mr. Galt states that whatever gold is being brought into Canada is certainly not for speculative purposes, but rather for the legitimate requirements of the Canadian banks. At the present season the banks cannot sell New York funds and they bring in gold at a much cheaper rate. A good deal of our exports, such as cattle, butter and cheese, is now going forward, and Mr. Galt was not aware that any more than the ordinary quantity of gold was coming in. The legitimate requirements of the banks were considerable at midsummer, and this was all there was to the story of a withdrawal of gold by the banking institutions of Canada.

"What is the feeling in New York financial circles just now?" Mr. Galt was asked.

"Things," he replied, "are at a standstill and little will be done until the election. A feeling of great uncertainty exists, and although the gold men express the greatest confidence in McKinley's return there is in spite of this fact a strong feeling in favor of free silver."

Mr. Galt also referred to the great combination of bankers in New York who had pledged themselves not to export gold, and these men are bringing all possible pressure upon others to act in the same manner.

"And will they succeed?" asked the correspondent.

"Well," replied Mr. Galt, "I am of the opinion that they have a big contract in hand, although they are doing their best to help the United States Government in the present financial difficulty."

Mr. Kennedy of the Bank of Nova Scotia, who was seen later in the day, said that they had brought in $800,000 during the month of July. This had nothing whatever to do with speculation but simply to meet the requirements of their legitimate business.

WIRED FROM MANITOBA.

Great Reception to Eva Booth—The Conservatives Will Try to Disqualify Richardson, M.P.-Elect for Lisgar.

Winnipeg, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Eva Booth, head of the Salvation Army, arrived in Winnipeg on Saturday and was given a great reception by the Army people. To-day she addressed largely attended public meetings.

The Conservatives on Saturday filed petitions against the return of R. L. Richardson, member-elect for Lisgar, and John A. McDonnell, member-elect for Selkirk. In the case of Mr. Richardson personal disqualification is asked.

The Manitoba rifle team for the D. R. A. matches was selected Saturday. It will be composed of these well-known marksmen: Wynne, Macklin, McKay, Ivens, Inmen, Fleming, Huston, Shunaman, Brown and Woodside.

Mitchell's drug store at Prince Albert was destroyed Saturday by an incendiary fire. To-day a sensation was caused by the arrest of a prominent Prince Albert citizen on a charge of firing the building.

Women exchange confidences about their own health and that of their husbands. A man's physical well being is closely watched by a thoughtful wife. It is part of her duty in the world to keep him well. If she sees him running down, she should take measures to stop it. Very few men enjoy being sick. They won't admit even to themselves that they are sick. They will go on losing flesh and vitality—working too hard—worrying too hard—taking little or no care of their health. Maybe they need only a little help to be made well. Maybe a good simple tonic is all they require. Maybe it is something more serious. Whichever it is, it should be attended to. When a man gets really sick, his work stops. He can't tend to business. He loses all he has previously gained. Actual want may stare him in the face. It doesn't pay to get sick, or to stay sick. There's no need of doing either. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will prevent sickness. It is a blood helper and a flesh builder. It restores perfect digestion and insures perfect assimilation of the food. It is a powerful enemy to germs and will search them out in all parts of the body, forcing their evacuation. It has been proven by the written testimony of hundreds of grateful people that the "Golden Medical Discovery" will even cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption if taken in its early stages.

A book of 1000 pages containing testimonials and much valuable health talk will be sent on receipt of 31 cents to prepay postage and duty only. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N.Y.

GRIT TALK vs. GRIT ACTION.

It is a matter of general knowledge that Grit promises and Grit performances are usually as wide apart as the poles.

The fact, therefore, that although the party has been less than a month in power, it has already openly violated some of its alleged principles when in opposition, will not occasion very much surprise. The Mail Empire draws attention to two incidents which fully establish this claim, and they are well worth repeating.

Mr. McMullen, one of the leading members, in a speech in the Dominion House in 1894, thus delivered himself with reference to the composition of the Cabinet: –

"I claim that we should reduce the number of our Cabinet Ministers instead of increasing them. We have altogether too many of them now, and the country should not be burdened to sustain such a large number of comfortable and easy positions at the rate of $7,000 a year each, and $1,000 each for sessional allowances. We should get rid of three of them at least and save $21,000 a year."

That was Grit doctrine at that time. What do we find now that the Laurierites have secured the reins of power? Not only that they are maintaining all "the comfortable and easy positions at the rate of $7,000 a year each," but that in addition to this they propose to give each of the Controllers, who, under Conservative rule, received $5,000 a year, a raise of $2,000 apiece! This is illustration number one now for number two.

During the recent election a Liberal campaign sheet was issued under the title "Facts for the people." This was one of the statements in that production:

"It is a gross scandal that while the new office of Solicitor-General has been created at Ottawa with a salary of $5,000 per annum, an outside lawyer in the city of Ottawa, Mr. D. O'Connor, whose office is not 200 yards distance from the Solicitor-General's office should have been paid for legal services for the Government in the year ending June 29th, 1893, the enormous sum of $19,248. This lawyer gets each year in fees a sum equal in value to about five farms, through the country employs a Solicitor-General at $5,000 a year to attend to the legal work.'

This contention was intended to lead to the belief that under Reform rule the Solicitor-General would attend to all legal matters. What is the record in this respect? The very first case which has arisen in connection with a claim on the Soulanges canal, has been handed to Chrysler & Lewis, Mr. Chrysler at one election having been a Reform candidate, for Ottawa.

Both incidents are eminently characteristic of Gritism and the public will not have to wait very long for plenty of other illustrations of the same class.

"SATAN REPROVING SIN."

Mr. J. I. Tarte at Montreal, Feb. 18, 1895.	Hon. J. I. Tarte at Knowlton, Quebec, July 20, 1893.
My friend Mr. Devlin has told you that he did not wish to attack Sir Mackenzie Bowell for being an Orangeman. On that point I differ from him. I attack Sir Mackenzie Bowell because he is an Orangeman.	No nation can be built up by appealing to passion and prejudice, but our opponents do not realize that.

This is another instance of "Satan reproving sin."

The difference between Mr. Tarte's opinions, as expressed before a French Canadian audience of Roman Catholics in 1895 and an English speaking audience of Protestants in 1896 is very remarkable. The fact that Mr. Tarte was one of the leaders of the Opposition in 1895 and that in 1896 he is a Minister—one of the chief "masters of the Administration" have also very much to do with the case.

Time will show even more wonderful contrasts than that which is above noted between the professions of the Liberal party in opposition, and the practices of the Liberal party whilst in office.

SIGNIFICANT.

In his speech on behalf of J. I. Tarte, at Knowlton, the Hon. J. I. Tarte was very loud in vaunting the part that he played in connection with the Murphy-Connolly McGreevy scandal, as to which the Globe said, at the time, that whilst he was, "plunging his knife into his benefactor, Thomas McGreevy, he had suppressed, or caused to be suppressed, the whole of the facts implicating himself." At the same time, and with a significance which cannot be misunderstood, he failed to refer to the report of the Royal Commission, which laid bare his transactions with Mercier, Pacaud & Co. Come, Mr. Tarte! Let us have the whole story, in order that we may all know how admirably pure a personage Mr. Laurier's chief of staff really is.

AN OPEN CONFESSION.

Neither Sir Charles Tupper nor Sir Hector Langevin broke down in health from anxiety for the pure and economical management of the two departments in defence of which Mr. Mackenzie, single-handed, guarded, but at the cost of his life, possibly his majority in the country.—Montreal Witness.

The rascality of the self styled "party of purity" could not be more satisfactorily confessed.

ONE OF TIME'S CHANGES.

The Conservatives cribbed the preferential trade scheme from the Imperial Federationists, and now the Liberals have cribbed it from the Tories.—London News.

And Mr. Laurier was one of the most pronounced opponents of Imperial Federation.

Football Championship for 1895.

The knowing ones are speculating on the football possibilities of the season. Ottawa is not likely to retain the honors of the championship, as Queen's will put in a team sure to smash all records. It is, it is the case that very slight causes will lose a victory. It is stated that a painful corn made useless one of the best American players. It follows that no team can hope to win this year that neglects to supply its members with Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the only safe, sure, and painless remedy for corns.

CAREER OF DE MORES

ONE OF THE GIGANTIC SCHEMES OF THE ECCENTRIC MARQUIS.

A Case Which Accentuates the Frenchman's Career in America—His Theory of Life and Death, and the Effect It Had on His Actions.

Until something more definite is heard about the young Marquis de Mores none of his former friends in this country will believe the widely circulated story that he was murdered by Snoussis tribesmen in the desert of Sahara. They believe that the Marquis will yet turn up alive and well in some corner of the earth, unruffled, smiling and confident.

His latest gigantic undertaking was a declaration of war against Great Britain, and a march to join the Mahdi in Egypt. It was while on this trip, that he is supposed to have lost his life.

The eccentric French Marquis had many friends in the Western States, where he had killed, not his man, but two of them. These know that the Marquis in the old days was crafty as well as brave, and it is this which makes them believe that the de Mores will yet turn up alive. They say it would be just like him to have the rumor of his death circulated and a trusted servant to Tunis to confirm it. Then he could carry on some secret project with less hindrance.

The Marquis was 37 years old. His full name was Antonio Marcia de Vallambrosa. His father is the Duc de Vallambrosa, a native of the Island of Sardinia, and the son of Spanish parents. In 1882, when the Marquis was 23, he met in Paris Miss Medora von Hoffman, the daughter of Louis von Hoffman, a New York banker, and a power in Wall street. Miss von Hoffman was "doing" Europe at the time, and after a short engagement the marriage took place abroad. They journeyed to this country, and the Marquis and his bride planned a great western trip. Both of the young people had large fortunes, but if de Mores had had the wealth of a Monte Cristo it would have been too small for some of the schemes he conceived. When they got as far as Chicago the Marquis toured the great packing and slaughter houses. He discovered that the owners of these places had amassed millions by killing and dressing the cattle shipped to them from all quarters of the great west. He learned that the ranch men made money, the killers and dressers made money, and, finally, that the retail butchers made money.

These items of information stuck in de Mores' head and soon developed an idea which at one time seriously threatened to revolutionize the ranching, packing and butcher business. His scheme was to raise his own cattle, kill and dress it in the ranch, ship it on his own refrigerator cars to eastern cities, and there sell it to the consumer over his own counters in his own stores. To make this scheme national in scope he expected in time to build a complete chain of packing houses from the Dakotas through the great cattle countries to the Pacific. In this way he would buy up all the cattle in the west, as the ranchmen would only have a comparatively short distance to drive their herds to reach one of his packing houses.

This was a pretty big scheme for a man of 23, but the Marquis always went in for big things. Just south of the North Dakota "Bad Lands," and near the Montana line is a beautiful stretch of country called the Garden of Eden. There were 15,000 acres in this strip, and de Mores purchased it. Then he mapped out a town and called it Medora, after his wife. He built a hotel, stores, postoffice, houses, a beautiful chateau for himself, and in a few months Medora had a population of 2,000 people. He also built a packing house and made ready for business. As a trial he arranged for the purchase of 30,000 cattle.

At each end of the valley is a defile between the table lands. The dealer who arranged to sell the 30,000 head of cattle drove 15,000 through one defile and they were counted in the middle of of the valley. Then instead of driving them into the corral he took them out the other defile and back through the first one. He had a continuous chain of cattle and each steer was counted twice. The dealer said afterward that he could have palmed off the 15,000 for 60,000 if necessary.

The Marquis was considered fair game for the whole country. When he was in the market for horses the dealer unloaded upon him the worst lot of vicious, bucking ponies in the west. But the Marquis disappointed them when he succeeded in riding the toughest in the lot. He could not only ride better than most of the cowboys, but he could shoot with delicate accuracy. Moreover, he had the courage of a lion. He made a great many enemies among the toughs and bad men, but he won scores of friends among the respectable people of the community.

De Mores' courage is best illustrated by the following little incident, related by a witness of the scene:

"One day de Mores had business in Miles City, Mont. After he was done with his business he went to the hotel to take a drink. The bar room was well filled, but de Mores walked straight to the bar, ordered his drink and asked never a one of those in the room to join him. This was unpardonable.

"As he was turning away from the bar the report of a pistol rang out. The bullet passed a few inches to the right of the Frenchman and embedded itself in the bar. Another bullet just grazed the Frenchman's coat sleeve.

"'What does all this mean?' cried de Mores, turning to the barkeeper. That gentleman merely shrugged his shoulders for reply.

"'Well,' said de Mores, 'if I am to be the target for these gentlemen's pistols, I may as well sit down and let them shoot at still life. A little more whiskey, please.'

"The young Marquis sat down and quietly sipped his whisky. The action rather disconcerted the cattlemen for the moment, but one, a little uglier than the rest, cried out:

"Boys, we might as well teach the damned foreigner a lesson first as last," and with that he blazed away. Quick as a flash, the Frenchman drew his pistol and fired twice. The first shot dropped one cowboy in his tracks and the second one winged another. De Mores was indicted for murder, tried and acquitted."

Several men after that swore to shoot the Marquis on sight. One of them, William Luffey, started out to hunt up the Frenchman. The latter got wind of it and went to meet Luffey. The latter got in the first shot, but it failed to land. The next instant de Mores began to pump lead into him from a Winchester, the first shot killing the man. The Marquis was indicted, tried and acquitted for this also. For four years de Mores conducted his scheme, but his capital running short at a critical period, the business collapsed. This was in 1887.

ANOTHER AWFUL COLLISION.

Two Trains Strike on the Illinois Central Railroad—Two Killed and Seven Were Injured.

Clinton, Ill., Aug. 1.—A wreck occurred this morning on a curve near Birbeck, six miles north of Clinton, on the Gilman branch of the Illinois Central Railroad. The north and southbound mail and passenger trains came together in collision. Two persons were killed and seven injured, some of them injured seriously.

The dead are:

Engineer Charles Birckneck, of Clinton.

William Baker, mail agent, Springfield.

The injured are: Conductor Perkins of the southbound train; Miss Louise Martin of Kankakee; Mr. Lovell, Mr. Baker, Walter Evans, Mr. Woodward, Mr. McAvoy. Most of these are from Springfield, Ill.

The two engines were wrecked, the mail car was splintered and two baggage cars were totally destroyed. The wreck was caused by a disregard of orders on the part of the crew of the northbound train.

Atlantic City Disaster.

Atlantic City, N.J., Aug. 1.—Now that the excitement has more or less subsided, the actual fatalities and injured in Thursday's railroad accident are definitely known. The dead number 44, and 43 persons were seriously enough hurt to be taken to the hospital. Of those in the hospital 28 were so far recovered to-day as to be able to go to their homes. Of the 15 persons remaining in the hospital several are suffering from terrible injuries, the nature of which makes their recovery doubtful.

The interest now centres in the coroner's inquest on Monday, at which something definite towards fixing the responsibility for the accident will be brought to light.

Condition of the Sufferers.

Atlantic City, N.J., Aug. 2.—Up to this evening there had been no further deaths among the victims of Thursday's railroad collision. On the contrary, there was a marked improvement in the condition of all but two or three. Mrs. Faunce Fralinger of Philadelphia, whose leg was amputated, and for whom no hope was entertained, was much better to-day and now has a chance for life.

Mrs. Brannin of Millville and Frank Morale are hovering between life and death, with small prospects of living.

The Coroner's Inquest.

Coroner McLaughlin is thoroughly in earnest in his determination to sift the accident to the bottom and fix the blame for it where it belongs. He has issued subpoenas for 25 or 30 witnesses. The most important witness will be called to-morrow. Among these will be George Houser, the signal tower man who gave the right of way to the excursion train and the danger signal to the Reading express, and who is now under $500 bail to answer for his appearance, Engineer Greiner of the excursion train, Fireman Hallihan of the Reading train and Superintendents Deyo and Dayton of the Reading and West Jersey Railroads.

THEIR SKULLS CRUSHED IN

Discovery of a Brutal Double Murder at a Summer Boarding House Near Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Aug. 2.—A brutal double murder was discovered this morning in an orchard in the rear of a summer boarding house in the suburb of Narbeth. Ewert McDarnell, aged 35 years, and Mary Brown, aged 25, both colored, were found lying on the ground side by side with their skulls crushed in. The woman was a servant in the boarding house and McDarnell is said to have been her husband, although she was known by the name of Brown. The woman was a flirt, and it is supposed some lover of hers killed the couple. The police claim to know the name of the man whom they suspect of the murder and expect to have him under arrest shortly.

THEY WILL GIVE TARTE ROPE.

Consequently He Will Have No Opposition in St. Johns and Iberville To-Day—More Protests.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—To-morrow is nomination day in St. Johns and Iberville, and more of Hon. Mr. Tarte's alleged revelations are promised. There will not probably be any opposition to the Minister of Public Works, as most people want him to have all the rope possible.

It is understood that by to-morrow the elections in St. Anne's, St. Antoine, St. Lawrence, Jacques Cartier, L'Assomption, Two Mountains, Maskinonge, Laval, Beauharnois and, perhaps, others, will be protested.

LAURIER'S EMISSARY

Has Been Sent to Winnipeg to Treat With the Manitoba Catholics in Regard to the School Question.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Your correspondent learns that Hon. Mr. Laurier has sent an emissary to treat with the Catholic authorities of Manitoba regarding the settlement of the school question, and on this question La Patrie makes the following rather startling announcement: "Before Mgr. Langevin's departure for Rome, His Grace ordered his representatives to accept a compromise that will give our compatriots schools in which French may be taught as well as religious instruction. In fact, the Manitoba clergy have so far recovered from their apprehension of Hon. Mr. Laurier that they will accept schools, public in name, and under a Protestant superintendent. We guarantee the truth of this affirmation, and in a few days we will be able to explain the nature of the mission undertaken by the delegate sent to Manitoba by Hon. Mr. Laurier."

Le Soir is the especial organ of Hon. Messrs. Laurier and Tarte, since the Premier threw La Patrie overboard. The office is located on Notre Dame-street, and a large American flag is flaunted in a most conspicuous manner in the window, and causes no end of surprise and criticism. The small corner of an English flag is visible, and the tri-color is hidden altogether, so it is plainly evident that the organ-in-chief intends people to understand that their flag is the Star Spangled Banner.

GOLDWIN SMITH'S OLD SONG.

He Writes on the American Political Situation in The Saturday Review and Scolds England.

New York, Aug. 2.—Mr. Harold Frederic cables from London to The Times: Goldwin Smith, in The Saturday Review of to-day, has a long article, "American Political Situation," which he views with characteristic gloom. He makes the point that if Canada was in the union, her vote would turn the scale in favor of honest money, and scolds England for continuing to sever the northern fringe of the continent from its natural affiliations, and to attach it to Europe, whereas, if Canada had a voice in the councils of her own hemisphere, she would be helpful to all concerned.

Photographing a Drop of Liquid.

Prof. Worthington has been studying a curious phenomenon for twenty years. The splash of a drop occurs in the twinkling of an eye; yet it is an exquisitely regulated phenomenon, and one which very happily illustrates some of the fundamental properties of the fluid. The problem which Prof. Worthington had succeeded in solving is to let a drop of definite size fall from a fixed height in comparative darkness on to a surface, and to illuminate it by a flash of exceedingly short duration at any stage desired, so as to exclude all the stages previous and subsequent to those thus selected. The numerous illustrations in his volume testify to the accuracy and beauty of his work. The curious results of a splash of a drop of murcury from a height of three inches upon a smooth glass plate are particularly interesting. Very soon after the first moment of impact minute rays are shot out in all directions on the surface with marvellous regularity. From the ends of the rays droplets of liquid split off. The liquid subsides in the middle, and afterwards flows into a ring. The ring then divides in such a manner as to join up the rays in pairs. Thereafter the whole contracts, till the liquid rises in the centre, so as to form the beginning of the rebound of the drop from the plate. Immediately the drops at the ends of the arms break off, while the centre mass rises into a column, which just falls, itself to break up into drops. He photographed no fewer that 30 successive stages of the splash within the twentieth of a second, so that the average interval between them was about the six-hundred of a second. Remarkable are the splashes of waterdrops falling about sixteen inches into milk, but more beautiful are the dome forms when the height is 52 inches.

All constituencies protested excepting Provencher and Brandon.

Sure to win.

The people recognize and appreciate real merit. That is why Hood's Sarsaparilla has the largest sales in the world. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures—absolutely, permanently cures. It is the One True Blood Purifier. Its superior merit is an established fact, and merit wins.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy to operate. Cure indigestion, headache.

A HEALTHFUL DRINK
MADDEN'S CEREAL

A DELICIOUS and HEALTHFUL DRINK.

We seldom charge our ill feelings to the true cause. CHEMISTRY proves that Coffee contains poisonous alkaloids, as in morphine, whiskey and tobacco. A SOUND, HEALTHY PERSON may be able to stand these for a time, but "a small leak sinks a big ship," and sooner or later indigestion, headache, torpid liver, weak heart, "weary, tired feeling" proves that the nervous system has been poisoned.

EVERY DAY, and perhaps every meal, the poisonous alkaloids of Coffee and Tea add fuel to the fire. Can you wonder that some organic disease is firmly seated? Health cannot return until you remove the cause. MADDEN CEREAL has the appearance of coffee, in color like Java or Mocha, and when cream is added it changes to a rich brown. A product made from blood-producing grains, it builds up, renews and makes red blood. REGULAR PACKAGE MAKES 100 CUPS. Grocers sell it at 25 cents. TRIAL PACKAGE FOR 50 CUPS, BY MAIL, POSTPAID, 25 CENTS.

IF YOUR EYES

Need medical treatment we won't sell you glasses simply to make a sale—and let your headache continue until you find the true cause from some one else. If you simply need glasses we will tell you so and provide the remedy. But if there is the remotest need for the more thorough work of an oculist, we'll also tell you so—and charge nothing for the discovery. We correct all non-organic eye defects.

Cause and effect govern the physician, hence they cannot recommend cure alls. If tea and coffee is the cause of your ill-feelings, and nine times out of ten such is the case, particularly if it is the stomach, liver or nervous system. You cannot hope for permanent relief even though you sample all the patent nostrums in the market. Common sense says remove the cause, stop tea and coffee and drink cereal, a pure food drink made (as you can see on examination) from grains. It is more fragrant than coffee and less than half the price. All grocers sell it.

Boys' Brigade Under Canvas.

St. Andrew's Boys' Brigade No. 1 Company, Belleville, forty strong, under command of Capt. Black and Lt. Louttit, went into camp this morning at Massassaga Park. Tents and blankets have been provided for all and the camp will be under strict military discipline throughout the week. Guards were mounted as soon as camp was reached and the little fellows acted like regulars. The company will be inspected by the officers of the 15th battalion on Friday afternoon.

What causes bad dreams is a question that has never been satisfactorily answered; but, in nine cases out of ten, frightful dreams are the result of imperfect digestion, which a few doses of Ayer's Sarsaparilla will effectually remedy. Don't delay—try it to-day.

A Narrow Escape.

M. Malyea, wife and three children were sailing near Massassaga Park yesterday afternoon when a squall struck the boat and it capsized. With the assistance of some of the guests at the hotel and the almost superhuman efforts of Mr. Malyea they were all saved. It was a narrow escape, as all the children were mere infants.

"Mamma, was that a sugar-plum you just gave me?" asked little Mabel. "No, dear, it was one of Dr. Ayer's Pills." "Please, may I have another?" "Not now, dear; one of those nice pills is all you need at present, because every dose is effective."

4. Professional Four Oars, 1½ miles with turn. Prizes: $500 and $200.
5. Professional Double Scull, consolation, 1½ miles with turn. Prizes: $50 and $25.

EVENING EVENTS.

On the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday will be held a grand Venetian Carnival, Floating Theatre, Band Concert, Fireworks, etc.

RULES.

In all races two must start to secure a first prize, three to secure a second prize, and four to secure a third prize, when such is given.

Races will be rowed under the rules of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen so far as practicable.

All entering for any rowing or sculling events must complete the course from start to finish and finish within 45 seconds of the winning boat or be disqualified from entering in any of the other events.

All sailing skiff races will be sailed under the rules of the Lake Sailing Skiff Association, except where otherwise stated.

All canoe events will be under the rules of the American Canoe Association.

Messrs. J. A. Brasier and W. W. Power were in Montreal on Friday and Saturday and they say the people are very enthusiastic over the regatta and will come up in large numbers to witness the events. They found six men in the G.T.R. excursion office working on regatta excursion work, preparing for handling the crowds who will travel over their line. The C.P.R. are putting forth every effort to induce people to come and they will carry large numbers.

While in Montreal Messrs. Brasier and Power succeeded in getting a special train to run from Orillia, the home of Gaudaur, and intermediate points on Tuesday, 13th inst. No doubt a big excursion will arrive on this train.

At all points between Montreal and Belleville the event is thoroughly advertised and the committee are assured of large crowds.

A dispatch from Halifax on Saturday says that Rogers, who rows in the Canadian-American four, will proceed to Belleville. Hanlan will take Gaudaur's place in this crew at the Belleville regatta. The Halifax fishermen may go to Belleville to take part in the four-oared race.

The English crew leave here to-morrow for Belleville. Bubear says his crew would, no doubt, have won yesterday had it not been for the weakness of Gibson and Haines. Gibson was the worst of the four, and Bubear says he almost gave out after the turn was made, compelling the others to ease up several times.

The oarsmen should reach here to-morrow.

The regatta will be much more interesting for spectators without Gaudaur, as his absence leads to an uncertainty of the winners in all the events.

About Clothing.

Sometimes you hear men say: "Ready-made clothing is not any good." You ask them why, and they say: "I have tried it." If you are one of the men who has tried it, just think for a minute if you ever bought Oak Hall ready-to-wear clothing. You must not condemn our goods by what you buy elsewhere any more than you would quit wearing boots if you got a bad pair, or never wear a tailor-made suit because you got a bad one once. Each business house stands on its own foundation.

Want the Pump Fixed.

A resident of Coleman ward, who gets water from the well west of Lingham's mill on Moira st., complains to us to-day that the pump has been broken for two weeks past. People in the vicinity are getting their water from neighbors at a distance. The complainant says the Chairman of Water and Gas, Ald. Wills, and Surveyor Hulme have been duly notified, but have taken no action in the matter. The people in that locality he says, would like to know the reason the pump has not been repaired.

Sent to Gaol.

William Penny, who was convicted on Saturday of ill-treating a horse, was sentenced this morning by the Magistrate to pay a fine of $3 and two weeks in gaol. In passing sentence the Magistrate severely reprimanded Penny.

ELECTION MATTERS.

Further News as to Election Protests.

An Arrangement Between the Parties—Tarte Elected by Acclamation.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—A petition was filed on Saturday praying for the unseating of Ald. E. Goff Penny (Lib.) as M.P. for St. Lawrence division. Protests were also entered in the respective judicial districts against the elections of Chas. Bazinet (Liberal) in Joliette, J. E. Dugas (Conservative) in Montcalm, Jos. Gauthier (Liberal) in L'Assomption, J. A. Ethier (Liberal) in Two Mountains, Mr. Chavin, (Conservative) in Terrebonne, Mr. Legris (Liberal) in Maskinonge, and Sir Adolphe Caron (Conservative) in Three Rivers and St. Maurice.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 3.—No election protests were filed this morning, negotiations entered on between representatives of the two parties having resulted in the withdrawal of all further petitions on each side. The negotiations, of course, were private, but it is stated that the Liberals abandoned 13 protests and the Conservatives 16. The latter included the two Hamilton seats. The time for filing protests for Ontario, with the exception of Algoma, expired at noon. There are altogether 11 protests for this province, all entered by Liberals against Conservatives.

ST. JOHN'S, Que., Aug. 3.—Hon. J. I. Tarte was elected to-day by acclamation, to fill the vacancy for St. John's and Iberville, caused by the elevation of Mr. Bechard to the Senate.

Our Prices are Wrong.

We say decidedly that our prices on ladies' tan shoes are wrong. They never should be sold as low as we have this week marked them. The fact is we want to clear out every pair in the next three weeks and we will do it if low prices are what is needed.—HAINES & LOCKETT.

CHURCH PARADE AT TRENTON.

The Ancient Order of Foresters Turn Out in Large Numbers.

Courts Quinte and Dulmage A. O. F. accompanied by a number of friends went to Trenton on the Str. Hero yesterday afternoon to attend divine service with their brethren of Court Trent Valley. They were met at the wharf by a number of the Trenton brethren and the band and conducted to the new A. O. F. hall in the Hooey block, where the procession was formed and marched to the King st. church. There were over two hundred members of the order in line, from Campbellford, Colborne, Shannonville, Belleville and Trenton, and they made a splendid showing.

Rev. Wm. Johnston preached an able and appropriate sermon from the parable of the good Samaritan. After the service the brethren marched back to the hall and disbanded. The boat returned to the city at 10 o'clock last evening.

The Trenton Foresters are evidently prospering, as they have lately moved in a commodious new hall, which is handsomely furnished.

Mr. Joseph Gibson, of Rochester, with his wife and family, are in town on a visit to relatives.

J. A. Brasier and W. W. Power have returned from Montreal, where they extensively advertised the regatta.

Miss Gardiner, who was injured in a runaway on Friday evening, is still at Mr. Demill's. She is improving slowly.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Stevenson, who have been visiting in the city for the past two weeks, returned to Toronto on Saturday.

Mrs. Hial Jackson and daughter, of Chicago, and Mrs. Webb Talcutt, Bloomfield, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Vermilyea.

Mrs. A. E. Fry, after living in Brooklyn, New York, for twenty years past, has returned to take up her residence in Belleville.

Mr. Angus and Mr. Charles Peterson, formerly of this city, are at present at Colborne in attendance on their father who is dying.

Williamson Mathison, who has been ill for about three months with the fever, has so far recovered as to be able to go out in the country.

Miss J. D. Fretz left last evening per str. North King for Canistoba, N. Y., where she will remain for some time, the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. C. Milburn.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Gornell and son have returned to their home in Rochester, after spending a few weeks here as the guests of Mrs. M. La Rue, Church st.

Mrs. E. C. Milburn and son Foster returned to their home in Canistoba, N.Y., after spending a few pleasant weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Fretz, Park st.

Mr. Wm. Johnson, who last week was on official business for the Commissioner of Inland Revenue in the western part of the Province, returned home on Saturday night.

The many friends in this city of Capt. Crawford, formerly of the Nellie Cuthbert, will be pleased to know the whereabouts of the genial captain. He has been for two years in command of the S. S. Macassa running between Hamilton and Toronto. On this route he has won the confidence and esteem of the Hamilton Steamboat Company and the public.

She Had a Daughter Here.

Mrs. Ellen Murray, who died on Thursday evening last on the schr. Lapwing at Buffalo, was Irish by birth. A daughter of the deceased, aged about eighteen years, lives with W. H. Day, a farmer in Thurlow, two miles north of the city. She had two sons, one living near Napanee and another in Michigan. The Chief of Police wired the coroner at Buffalo to bury the remains there and if there were any effects to communicate with him. There are strong suspicions of foul play in connection with Mrs. Murray's death.

PICNIC AND GAMES.

Intelligencer Employes and Friends Enjoy an Outing.

The employes of this office on Saturday afternoon held an excursion to Massassaga Park, which proved to be an enjoyable affair. The Ontario staff and Mr. E. T. Cherry and help were also invited and responded to the invitation. The employes were accompanied by their wives and friends, making in all a most agreeable party. At two o'clock the steamer Annie Lake conveyed the party to the point. Amongst those on board was Sir Mackenzie Bowell, ex-Premier of the Dominion, and Thos. Wills, Esq., Vice-President of the INTELLIGENCER Printing Company. Upon arrival at the point the programme of games, for which some valuable prizes were contributed, was proceeded with, and resulted as follows:

PUTTING THE SHOT—6 entries, 1, T. Stevenson; 2, L. Canniff; 3, J. Ford.

APPRENTICE RACE UNDER 2 YEARS AT TRADE—3 entries, 1 M. B. Jamieson; 2, L. Rous; 3, R. Howe.

HOP STEP AND JUMP—7 entries, 1, T. Stevenson; 2, L. Canniff; 3, M. Jamieson.

APPRENTICE RACE UNDER 5 YEARS AT TRADE—5 entries, 1, M. B. Jamieson; 2, L. Rous; 3, A. Dulmage.

JOURNEYMEN'S RACE—5 entries, 1, L. Canniff; 2, P. Harrison; 3, J. Ford.

RUNNING HIGH JUMP—3 entries, 1, M. B. Jamieson; 2, A. Dulmage; 3, L. Canniff.

REPORTERS' RACE—3 entries, 1, H. Austin; 2, P. Harrison; 3, W. McDonald.

FOREMEN'S RACE—3 entries, 1, J. Ford; 2, G. Warham; 3, H. McDonald

LADIES' RACE—1 entries, 1, Mrs. J. Neate; 2, Miss K. Ganey; 3, Mrs. H. McDonald.

A baseball match between the employees of the two offices was to have been played, but only two innings were completed, owing to the breaking of the bat by the heavier batters on both teams.

A tug of war between six from each office was to have taken place, but the rope was not forthcoming and this event will in all probability be pulled off at a later date.

The thanks of this office are due to the following merchants, who contributed prizes for competition: Messrs. Stroud Bros., J. Wallace, Frank Foster, Lewis & Sills, Yeomans, Benmore, Ritchie, C. H. Vermilyea, S. W. Vermilyea, Schuster, Scantlebury, J. S. McKeown, Walmsley, Corby, Fish, Haines & Lockett, Terwilliger, W. J. Reid & Co., Wallbridge & Clarke, Gibson & Laidlaw, J. A. Vandervoort, Ray, Waters, INTELLIGENCER P. & P. Co., W. Draycott and others.

A Carters Stand.

To the Editor of the INTELLIGENCER.

SIR,—Various attempts have been made by the City Council to come to a satisfactory arrangement with the city carters, but so far have failed either to satisfy the carters or the public. I admit there is a difficulty in dealing with the question to the satisfaction of all concerned. At the same time I do not feel that the carters have been fairly dealt with. These men are public servants. They pay a special tax to the city. They are a respectable and useful body of citizens and should be treated generously by the Council. When I go down Front street and see these men without any fixed place to go from sun or rain, but obliged to stand in the public thoroughfare, I feel ashamed of our beautiful city. These men being public servants, they should receive some public recognition. I am writing now as much in the interest of the public as of the carters. The public should be in easy call of the carters at all hours of the day, and the place allotted them by the Council is not central enough to be convenient for the public. The carters pay a special tax on their business, although I cannot discover why they should any more than I should be taxed for making drawings or building houses. But since the City Council honors the carters by inviting them to pay a special tax into the City Treasury they should also honor them by providing for them a suitable stand that would be convenient for them and the public. I therefore respectfully suggest to His Worship the Mayor and City Council the propriety of purchasing the site immediately east of The Sun office on Campbell st., now covered with ruins which are a disgrace to the city. Have a neat, but inexpensive, building erected on it, where the carters could back in their horses to be out of the sun and storm when not on duty. This is the most central location in the city and will be convenient for all concerned.

If the tax now paid by the carters is not sufficient to pay the interest on the investment, I do not think there is any one amongst them who would object to a reasonable increase, provided they are given a suitable and convenient stand for themselves and the public.

We see in Toronto and other cities liveries on the principal streets, and when kept in a clean and proper condition, as they should be, nobody objects to them. In this case, I think the above suggestion can be carried out with very little, if any, expense to the city, if some enterprising Alderman will take hold of the matter in the right way.

There is a quantity of material on the ground now which would go far towards putting up a respectable two story building, the upper part of which could be used for a hall or club house, and made to pay handsomely. Will be glad to hear from others on this subject.

THOMAS HANLEY.

Reformed Episcopal Church.

The Rev. J. Simpson Trotter's yesterday morning subject was how the Redeemer shows his love to christians from the words, "Behold how he loved him." Holy communion at the close. The nature and blessedness of christian freedom was his evening theme, text, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." Mrs. Ford presided at the organ at both services, with her usual ability.

Death of James Meagher After a Long Illness.

James Meagher, wholesale merchant, died at 8 o'clock last night after a long illness.

This announcement, although not unexpected, will be read with great regret by many people in Belleville and in this district, who had learned, by personal acquaintance or by public report, to know the deceased as he was—a genuine Irishman, who possessed the characteristic virtues and few of the faults of his race.

Mr. Meagher was born in Tipperary county, Ireland, seventy years ago and came to Belleville about 1836. His first occupation here was farming on a lot just outside the city limits, in Thurlow. Thence he removed to Tyendinaga, where, after farming for some time, he became a school teacher, and he also studied phonagraphy by Pitman's method, of which he became the first teacher in this part of the country. His health giving way in this occupation, he came to Belleville and, in partnership with his sister, the late Mrs. Brennan, he entered into the grocery, flour and feed business in a small way. Success attended his efforts, and after building up a large business he sold out and started a wholesale establishment in the premises on the station road which he occupied until his death.

Mr. Meagher, as might be expected of a man of his ability and straightforwardness, took an active part in public affairs, and, despite delicate health served several years in the Municipal Council and on the Board of Health. He was a very useful member of both bodies and so highly were his services appreciated that he was offered election by acclamation for the Mayoralty, but declined.

Mr. Meagher also took an interest in military matters, and when the 15th battalion was formed under the late Lieut.-Col. Archibald Ponton, No. 6 company was commanded by Captain James Meagher. His connection with the battalion was not, however, of long duration.

In religion Mr. Meagher was a Roman Catholic and in politics a Liberal.

During the year 1875 Mr. Meagher married Miss Elizabeth McGurn, in whom he found an amiable and thoroughly congenial helpmate. Mrs. Meagher survives her husband.

Deceased leaves one sister, Mrs. McCormick, of Rochester, New York, two half sisters, who live at Muskegon, Michigan; two half brothers namely John of Tyendinaga and William of Napanee; and a niece, Mrs. M. D. Ward, of this city.

Mr. Meagher was a good man and a good citizen, and he leaves an example which is worthy of being followed by future generations. Funeral to-morrow at 10 a. m.

THE ELLIS CASE.

A Witness Pleads "Guilty" to Doing Nothing.

The case of Queen vs. Ellis came up this morning before Judge Lazier. As before stated in these columns the prisoner is charged with housebreaking and stealing.

Thos. Grills, who was arrested as an accessory, on Thursday last made a statement to the Chief of Police and County Crown Attorney Anderson to the effect that Ellis had broken open Gerow's house against their wishes and that they had all gone in and drank bottled ale and carried some away. When brought before the Judge on Friday last he pleaded "guilty" to the charge when brought up for election. This morning he went on the stand and swore that the substance of his statement made on Thursday was false and in the course of Mr. Anderson's examination he wound himself up in an inextricable manner. The County Crown Attorney thinks he has been tampered with and will endeavor to find out the parties.

The case was resumed at 2:30 p.m. and some evidence taken. At 3:30 the case was enlarged for a week to give the Crown an opportunity to get Wilson, the other occupant of the boat.

Health and sweet breath secured by Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Nasal injector free. Sold by Alex. Ray

KING OR KNAVE?

"And what of a man who doesn't pay his medical attendant—eh, Mr. Crisp?" asked Wyndham Snell cheerfully.

"I pay mine—and he's Smith; and for why? Because he pays me."

"Ah—mutual accommodation, I suppose. He cures your body, and you mend his—no; I won't waste a pun. If you had any sense of humor, Mr. Crisp, you would perceive the folly of asking a professional gentleman for money in such an untradesmanlike way. I was going to give a rather extensive order for boots, and should of course have preferred to patronize a local tradesman; but you have compelled me to transfer my custom to the West End, and hang me if I'll ever do a good natured thing again. I've done with you, Mr. Crisp; and with every tradesman in Piggot's Town."

"That's true enough, Doctor—seeing they've done with you."

"They'll have to be, my man. Pick up those boots, Julia. Thank you, my dear. There, Mr. Crisp. One—two—three sovereigns. You'll give me a receipt and the change. And there, Mr. Crisp—I'll make you a present of the boots; you may wear them yourself if you please. And now be off for an impudent blackguard; go to blazes, you cobbling thief, and if they condescend to ask who kicked you there with your own toe-leathers, say it was Doctor Wyndham Snell."

Mr. Crisp's eyes became saucers and his mouth a yawning abyss of amazement as he stared from Wyndham Snell to the sovereigns and back again. No—they did not fly away. He scrawled a receipt with a pencil-stump on the bill, and stood dangling the old boots, one in each hand, in a feeble sort of way.

"Sir," said he in a hoarse whisper, "don't you going to no West end! You'll get them new boots twce as bad and half as cheap of me—that's to say, half as good and twice as dear!"

He went off like a cobbler in a dream—a tradesman of Piggot's Town who had been paid his whole account, all at once, and without a haggle, by a customer, and that customer Wyndham Snell. On his way to the Royal Albert, weighed down with a piece of local news that would come thundering upon his fellow-patrons of that establishment like an avalanche, he passed the milkman and then the grocer's young man each on his way to Euphrosyne Terrace, and each with a determined air. He guessed their errands; and, slapping the gold and silver in his pocket, quickened his step to the Royal Albert, that he might be the very first with the golden news, and start a new score of his own.

Wyndham Snell turned to Julia, as another quick rap—sharp and single, this time—fell on the door. "That will be the candlestick maker," said he. "I gave a porter half-a-crown at the station; and it has brought the hawks down. And you'll turn away Miss Furness? Well, well. There's always a workhouse; and there's always a gaol."

Mrs. Snell sighed—a long, deep sigh. But she went to the door and let the milkman in. If only Fortune had come to Euphrosyne Terrace in a little less fair a form!

Marchgrave was fairly roused from its torpor. It had Docks on the brain.

When John Heron dropped a spark, it never failed to burst into fire. He was not merely the man who dreams greatly; he made others dream greatly too. And not only so, but his great dreams turned out to be great facts, that bore the test of waking. But never had any of his plans been on so grand a scale as this, or borne such promise of being magnificently fulfilled. Even when ladies called upon one another in the afternoon, the talk, instead of beginning with what might pass for things in Marchgrave and presently plunging into persons, scarcely began with persons before rushing into things—the Docks, and nothing but the Docks. always and everywhere. In one way or another, everybody's fortune was to be made, either by having a finger in Dock pie from the beginning, or by sharing in the general wealth that would fall at large upon the town. There would be opposition, of course. Everbody knew that. But when had anything, in great things or small, successfully opposed John Heron, of the Cedars and Chapter Lane?

It was rather premature, of course, on the part of Alderman Sparrow to suggest, in strict confidence to everybody, the idea of celebrating the opening of the New Dock, when that came off, by unveiling a statue of John Heron, in marble, at the meeting of the four ancient streets of his native town, where the City Cross had stood once upon a time, in addition to hanging—that is to say—his picture in Shire Hall. However, when a place wakes up in the manner of Marchgrave, it is with a burst, like a sudden spring after a long winter, when the leaves promise blossoms and the blossoms fruit well-nigh before the snow has fairly melted out of mind. And artists in bronze and marble require time, as even Alderman Sparrow himself was dimly aware. It would hardly do to entrust such a work to the hands of Wilkins, in Florence Road, who called himself a "sculpture," and was great in monumental cherubim. The face of the banker was anything but cherubic; and then it was generally thought that the statue should be seated, for the sake of greater dignity. No doubt there was a certain amount of anticipatory gratitude in all these plans for John Heron's greater glory. But there was a great deal of honest public spirit, all the same, as is mostly the case in the hero-worship of a town that contains a real John Heron.

Of course these ideas were studiously kept from the ears of its object, though Kate, his wife, could not help catching an occasional echo. Meanwhile they gave a personal zest to the main business of the Docks themselves; so that, in fine, there was but a single human being (not counting infants in arms) in all Marchgrave who, though a man of business, and entirely amenable to new and energetic ideas, failed to take a full and living interest in this great scheme. This was Guy Derwent, who had sent two telegrams and had received no reply. Not a word had he heard of what to him was worth more than a million new docks since that fragmentary letter from Mrs. Furness which had transferred Marion's whole fortune into his keeping. He wrote, of course; but in vain. And finally, business or no business, there was nothing for it but to set out either for London via Southampton, or for Southampton via London. What were a world of docks, if Marion was not there to see?

For a hundred reasons it was needful to see John Heron, if possible, before starting. The banker was to be the ladies' host; he was the confidant of their story; he was constituted their paymaster, adviser, and trustee. Moreover, a lover, if he be also a shipbroker, is not so entirely master of himself and his time, and his client's time, as those delightful lovers of romance who never have any responsibilities except to their sweethearts, and never anything at all to do, whether they be rich or poor. Guy was as anxious and as passionate as the idlest and least responsible of them all. But then he had the Lucille of Havre on his hands, not to speak of others; and a foreign captain is not lightly

THE CZAR NOW SEES

What the Unspeakable Turk Has Been Doing.

A Sort of Palace Revolution in Russia—Prince Lobanoff, Who Has Heretofore Been Hand in Glove With the German Emperor, Has Been Deprived of His Unlimited Power at the Foreign Office.

New York, Aug. 2.—Harold Frederic cables from London to The Times: It is more than surmised in official circles here that there has been a sort of palace revolution in Russia, and that Prince Lobanoff, if not overthrown, has been divested of his unlimited power as Foreign Minister. He has been from the beginning hand in glove with the German Emperor, so much so as to justify the original suspicion that his appointment was managed from Berlin. The credit for his defeat is now given to the Czar's mother, who never has forgotten that she is a Danish Princess and who hates all things German. Whether she likes all things English is not so clear. But for the moment at least English statesmen think the way may be opened for a more effective pro-Christian policy in the Levant.

It is understood that between his Greek, English and Danish relatives the young Czar has been brought to know the truth about Armenia and Crete, and to say that Russia shall no longer play the monstrous part of the Sultan's supporter in these crimes against civilization. Upon this new basis, I am told, fresh negotiations are now proceeding among the powers, and it is not impossible that Germany may find herself alone, or at best with only Austria's lukewarm assent, in the position of backing up Turkish misrule. If all this be true, and there are numerous indications that it is, then at last something can be done to break the shameful deadlock in the east.

It is known that the Czar's health continues bad and that a distinct anxiety exists lest it may never improve. He and his wife are coming westward about a month hence, visiting Vienna first. Several dates have been announced, but it is said that the exact time is still unsettled. Beyond the understanding that Darmstadt, Copenhagen, Berlin and London are also on the imperial program nothing is known. Paris is feverishly excited as to its chances in this list, and it is difficult, certainly, to see how it can with decency be left out. Yet it is also obvious that the Parisians would make a demonstration which would throw the whole or the rest of the journey into the shade. For this reason it is now suggested that the Czar will go to all the other places first, then interpose a period of quiet seaside rest somewhere, perhaps Norway, and then make the French visit a thing by itself.

Nothing is clearer about Nicholas than that he is devoid of military ambition. His associations are not with soldiers and he has a strong aversion to the martial element in the ceremonials of court life. This fact makes it possible to view the organized disturbances in Macedonia with less apprehension than would have been aroused a few years ago. That they are being produced under the auspices of the Macedonia Committee, which gets its money chiefly from Russian sources, is nowhere doubted. There is a feeling, however, that if the Czar lives and maintains even a nominal grip on things these mischief-makers will not be allowed to go to the length of provoking a war. Unhappily there is always a large margin of chance in Russian politics, and if one palace clique can upset Lobanoff another may hoist him to the head of affairs again and, no matter how pacific the Czar may be, there is a powerful army influence always pulling in the other direction.

Old Gnostic Writings, Hitherto Unknown Even in Name, Unearthed at Cairo—The Gospel According to Mary.

London, Aug. 2.—Several most important discoveries have just been made in Cairo bearing upon the history of the Christian Church in the first two centuries of the era. Among them is a manuscript from the fifth century, which is a Coptic translation of three original Gnostic writings of the second century. Its value consists not only in the fact that it hands down old Gnostic writings that have hitherto been unknown even by name, but, above all, in the circumstance that one of them was known to Irenaeus and epitomized by him without any statement of the source from which he had derived it. The discovery of this manuscript enables us for the first time to test the accounts of the Gnostic system as given by the church fathers in the light of the original manuscript. It contains three independent treatises entitled "The Gospel according to Mary, or the Apocryphon of John;" second, "The Wisdom of Jesus Christ;" third, "The Practice of Peter." The "Gospel of Mary" is the document used by Irenaeus, and consists mainly of the Revelation of John. "The Wisdom of Jesus Christ" consists of questions addressed to Him by His disciples and His answers. "The Practice of Peter" is a narrative of one of Peter's miracles of healing.

Those who have had their Boating or other Cuting Suits lose all their stiffness and style because of the damp air or an unexpected wetting can throughly appreciate the value of Fibre Chamois. When the Rigby Waterproofed line is used in costumes, no amount of moisture will affect the graceful stiffness of their outline. The Sleeves and Skirts can't possibly become limp no matter what usage they receive, because this Rigby process makes the Fibre Chamois non-absorbent without changing any of its other qualities and its stiffness outlasts everything.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

OUR MAIL.

Our mail brings us every day dozens of letters about Burdock Blood Bitters. Some from merchants who want to buy it, some from people who want to know about it, and more from people who do know about it because they have tried it and been cured. One of them was from Mr. J. Gillan, B. A., 39 Gould Street, Toronto. Read how he writes:

GENTLEMEN,—During the winter of 1892 my blood became impure on account of the hearty food I ate in the cold weather. Ambition, energy and success forsook me, and all my efforts were in vain. My skin became yellow, my bowels became inactive, my liver was lumpy and hard, my eyes became inflamed, my appetite was gone, and the days and nights passed in unhappiness and restlessness

For some months I tried doctors' and patent medicines of every description, but received no benefit. Being advised by a friend to try B.B.B., I am glad to have the opportunity of testifying to the marvellous result. After using three bottles I felt much better, and when the fifth bottle was finished I enjoyed health in the greatest degree, and have done so from that day up to date. Therefore I have much pleasure in recommending B. B.B. to all poor suffering humanity who suffer from impure blood, which is the beginning and seat of all diseases

LARGE EXPORT TRADE

Nearly Two Million Dollars Over the Record.

The Executive of the Dominion Rifle Association will Meet and Decide as to the Best Ammunition for Use in the Coming Match—His Excellency is Fishing for Salmon and Controller Paterson May Have to Wait for a Seat—General Ottawa Matters.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—(Special.)—The quarterly blue book issued by the Department of Trade and Commerce has just been distributed. It contains the unrevised returns of the exports and imports for the fiscal year 1895-6. These are the same as were published a fortnight ago, but comparison of the previous year's export returns, as compiled from month to month, with these given in the Trade and Navigation Blue Book, shows the latter to be greater by about $3,300,000, and the latter are the officially revised returns. This difference is due to the practice adopted in the Customs Department of adding a certain percentage to cover the amount estimated to be returned short at the several outports in Quebec and Ontario during the year. Now the unrevised statement shows the exports during 1895-96 to have been $118,140,504. To this will be added about $3,400,000 for unreported exports to the States in the two provinces mentioned, which will bring the total export for the fiscal year up to $121,540,000, which is by nearly two million dollars the largest on record since Confederation. The revision of these returns will alter the figures but slightly, not enough certainly to affect the general result. The percentage which is added to cover unreported exports was arrived at by a series of comparisons of our reported exports with the United States' return of imports from Canada, the latter being invariably about two and a quarter per cent. in excess. This discrepancy between our account of what we send to the States and the U.S. returns of what they import from Canada is due to the fact that, whereas our small exports are not reported, the Americans look sharply after every dollar's worth imported, so as to secure the duty.

There will be a meeting of the Executive of the Dominion Rifle Association here on Wednesday evening, and one of the most important matters to be dealt with is the ammunition to be used at the annual prize meeting, which commences Aug. 31. A member of the Executive said yesterday that there were three classes of ammunition to choose from, the Canadian ammunition of 1894 make and the Imperial makes of 1885 and 1896. The 1885 ammunition is the output of the Royal Laboratory. Only one description will be used, so that all competitors will be on even terms so far as the ammunition is concerned. The meeting of 1896 promises to be the biggest on record.

To-day a telegram from Capt. Fletcher, Secretary of the British Columbia Association, announced that the Pacific Province would be represented by a team of nine men.

It is said that Carleton County Crown Attorneyship, which Mr. Belcourt resigned to run for Ottawa, will go to Mr. Belcourt's law partner, Mr. Ritchie.

The Marine Department has been notified of extensive poaching on oyster beds, which a Government expert prepared and planted a couple of years ago at Shediac, N.B.

Mr. E. L. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, has returned from London, where he argued two cases for the Crown before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

Sir Adolphe Caron is in the city on departmental business.

Madame Laurier was here yesterday looking after household arrangements. The Premier has leased the furnished residence of Major Chapleau on O'Connor-street.

Messrs. Mulock and Fisher are expected to return to the Capital to-day.

Hon. R. W. Scott, as senior Privy Councillor, is acting Premier in Mr. Laurier's absence.

Sir Oliver Mowat and Mr. Tarte being in town, there will be a quorum for a council meeting to-morrow.

Nearly all the D.A.G.'s who have been heard from favor the holding of militia camps this year. The Maritime Province Deputy Adjutant Generals are unanimous in advocating fall camps.

WHO IS MARY SMITH?

She Said She Was From Canada and Tried to Suicide in a Hotel in Newark, N.J.

New York, Aug. 3.—A woman registered yesterday at the Park Hotel, Newark, N.J., as Mary Smith. She said she was from Canada. She attempted to commit suicide first by asphyxiating herself, and, this failing, by hanging. She was found unconscious and removed to a hospital, where it was said to-night there were strong hopes of her recovery. A. M. Bishop, a New Haven lawyer, discovered Miss Smith. She was his client, and he intimated that she was wealthy. Lawyer Bishop declared that no expense would be spared in treating the woman at the hospital. He admitted that she had threatened to commit suicide, but he would not give her reasons for her desire to end her life. He said he had been summoned to Newark by a telegram sent by her.

HAD BEEN DEAD FOR DAYS.

The Body of James McDonald of Petrolea Found Yesterday.

Petrolea, Ont., Aug. 3.—The body of a man was found in the upper floor of J. & J. Kerr's paint shop about half-past 2 this afternoon. Chief Jackson was notified and went to the place. He found James McDonald, a noted house painter, lying on his right side, with his head resting on a block of wood; body straight, showing no signs of a struggle. The deceased was reclining as if asleep, but on close examination and the odor from the body it was clear that he had been for some days dead. The man died from heart failure.

A MASSACRE IN CRETE.

The Insurgents Said to Have Attacked the Mussulman Families and 1500 Were Killed.

KILTIES WON THE BATON

And the Band of the 77th Battalion Captured the $300 First Prize for Second-Class Bands.

Hamilton, Aug. 3.—(Special.)—Amid the glow of ideal summer weather, the band tournament promoted by the 13th Regiment Band opened to-day, and from 9 o'clock this morning until a late hour to-night the strains of melodious music were to be heard in every quarter of the city. During the forenoon the various bands paraded the streets, and thousands of people were out to hear the music.

At 12.30 all the bands assembled on the Court House-square, to get in readiness for the marching competition. W. B. Rogers, leader of the 7th Regiment Band of New York city, was the judge, and he was stationed at a point of vantage near the Gore.

The Queen's Own Band of Toronto, playing the regimental march, was the first to pass the judge's stand, and these followed in the order named: The Royal Grenadiers' Band of Toronto, playing the Illinois Battle Ship March; the 29th Battalion Band, Berlin, playing the Naval Parade March; the 48th Highlanders' Band, Toronto, to the tune of the Albion March; the 77th Battalion Band, playing the Fifth-avenue March; Oxford Rifles Band, Woodstock, playing the Victoria March; the E. B. Eddy Band, Hull, playing the Artists' March; Galt Citizens' Band, playing the 10th Regiment March; and Brantford Citizens' Band, marching to the music of the Merry Gleaners.

The prize in this marching competition was a gold-headed ebony baton, donated by Davis & McCulloch, and Judge Rogers awarded it to the Band of the 48th Highlanders.

At the conclusion of the competition a procession was formed, headed by Peel's Band, Hamilton, and the march to Dundurn Park commenced. At this pretty resort fully 4000 people had gathered to listen to the competition between the second-class bands, the following being entered: 77th Battalion Band, Dundas; Oxford Rifles Band, Woodstock; The E. B. Eddy Band, Hull; Citizens' Band, Galt; and C.O.F. and Citizens' Band, Brantford. W. B Rogers was the judge, and each band was obliged to play two selections. The immense crowd manifested a deep interest in the competition, which proved keen and close.

The first prize, $300, was carried off by the Seventy-seventh Battalion Band of Dundas; second prize, $150, was won by Woodstock Citizens' Band; Galt Citizens' Band captured third prize, $100; fourth prize, $60, was awarded the E. B. Eddy & Company Band of Hull; and fifth prize, $40, was received by the Brantford Citizens'.

Judge Rogers said he was somewhat surprised at the excellence of the bands, but he had slight fault to find with the tempo of the selections and intonation of all the bands.

The prizes were presented by Ald. Colquhoun in the unavoidable absence of Mayor Tuckett.

After the result of the two afternoon events had been made known, W. B. Rogers, accompanied by the Thirteenth Regiment Band, played a cornet solo in the most skilful manner, and the first day of the tournament was brought to a close by the combined bands playing "Nearer My God to Thee," beautifully arranged by George Robinson, bandmaster of the 13th Regiment Band.

ANGUS HANGED HIMSELF.

A Well-to-do Bachelor Farmer at Sparrow Lake Takes His Own Life in His Barn.

Severn Bridge, Ont., Aug. 3.—Angus McCormack of Sparrow Lake was found hanging by the neck in his barn on Sunday afternoon. He was about 45 years old and a bachelor. He had been living with his aged mother and brother. No particulars can be learned as to the cause of the rash act. The McCormacks are in comfortable circumstances and highly respected.

THE LOCAL OPTION LAW.

Provincial Authorities Take Steps to Enforce It—Saloons Must Close.

As a result of the Privy Council's decision that the Local Option Law was not ultra vires of the Province, the Ontario Government has issued special instructions to the License Commissioners in various parts of the country to enforce its provisions. In those municipalities, therefore, which have taken advantage of the act, the saloonkeepers are now being compelled to close up shop.

Died a Natural Death.

Collingwood, Ont., Aug. 3.—Coroner Stephen held an inquest to-day on the young man Morrow, who died suddenly yesterday. After hearing the evidence of the medical men who were in attendance and those who were with him, the jury returned. The verdict was: "That the said R. D. Morrow came to his death from natural causes."

Hard Times in the States.

Waterbury, Conn., Aug. 3.—The Goodyear India Rubber Glove Manufacturing Company and the Goodyear Metallic Rubber Shoe Company, both of Naugatuck, which collectively have capacity for the employment of 1400 operatives, have closed down for an indefinite time as the result of dull business. Their shut down has caused much depression in business in Naugatuck.

COALHEAVERS CHICAGOED.

Buckenberger's Aggregation Put Up a Great Game Over the Don.

Toronto, Aug. 4.

Scranton was whitewashed in a well-played game over the Don yesterday, Toronto scoring five runs. A strong wind blew across the field, which helped balls batted by O'Brien and Staley over the left field fence, and also gave the fielders merry chases after flys. Staley pitched a masterly game, allowing only 5 hits, and not more than one in any innings, besides locating the rubber perfectly. Only 30 Scrantons went to bat, and but one of these, O'Brien, reached second base, and that was in the first innings. There was not a strike-out and only one stolen base. Score:

NEWS FROM WINNIPEG

Is Judge Routhier Mr. Laurier's Emissary?

There is No Prospect of Pairing Off the Manitoba Election Petitions, and it will Be Fought to the Bitter End—Eva Booth Leaves Winnipeg for Toronto—Indian Chiefs Tried for Participation in the Riel Rebellion—Bishop DuMoulin's Visit.

Winnipeg, Aug. 3.—(Special.)—Justice Routhier of the Quebec Superior Court was in Winnipeg a few days ago and is now in the West somewhere. Rumor has it that Judge Routhier is Mr. Laurier's commissioner to endeavor to reach an arrangement on the school question.

Judge Richardson, at Regina, has decided that Nicholas Flood Davin must be at the expense of the recent re-count on the ground that the re-count did alter the result. It will be remembered that the re-count brought about a tie, and Mr. Davin was then elected by the returning officer's vote.

At present there does not appear to be any prospect of pairing off Manitoba election petitions, and both sides will fight it out to the bitter end. If the evidence is what the prosecution on both sides allege it to be, there will be another general election in Manitoba. Mr. LaRiviere is the only one whose election is not protested.

Eva Booth, commandant of the Salvation Army, departed for Toronto this morning.

Two Indian chiefs recently deported from the United States were tried at Regina on Saturday for complicity in the Frog Lake massacre during the Riel Rebellion. The evidence was insufficient, though there is no doubt of their guilt. They were acquitted on the principle of "Not guilty, but don't do it again."

The Bishop of Niagara and Mrs. DuMoulin are making a stay with Winnipeg friends.

AT SHOEBURYNESS.

The Canadian Artillery Men Are Keeping Up Their End in Good Style as Far as the Competition Has Gone.

Shoeburyness Camp, Aug. 3.—A good deal of interest centres in the artillery competition taking place here, and it will be gratifying to Canadians to know that the representatives of the Dominion are keeping up their end as far as the contest has gone.

The program includes group firing, No. 1 Garrison Artillery Competition (ranging); No. 6, G.A. competition (a shift); No. 5, position artillery competition (disabled ordnance). Capt. Myles is in command of this event. His men are: Sergt.-Major Spry, Sergts. Lawlor, Balfour, Wilkinson, Hood, Spence, Morrison, Theakstone, Warring, Corp. Weir and Gunner Bramah. The last two were drivers. The time allowed was five minutes and the team did the work in 5 minutes 30 seconds. They were loudly applauded on finishing.

In the Shoeburyness repository competition, which took place to-day, and which consisted of the dismounting of a 64 pounder, its removal to a distance, and its remounting upon a new carriage, the maximum time allowance for the work being 15 minutes, the Canadian Artillery team completed the task in 14 minutes 49 seconds. The Canadians were heartily cheered for their rapid work. Only two teams succeeded in removing and remounting the gun in less time than that done by the foreign teams. The presence of the Canadian artillery is drawing an unusually large attendance to the competition.

The Canadian team is as follows: Lieut.-Col. Cole, 2nd Garrison Artillery, is commandant, and Capt. Myles, Toronto Field Battery, is adjutant. Sergt.-Instructor Bridgeford, (R.C.A., Quebec; Bomb. William Nott, R.C.A., Quebec; Gunner Jos. Rousseau, R.C.A., Quebec; Gunner A. Bramah, R.C.A., Kingston; Sergt. J. H. Marshall, 1st Regiment C.A., Halifax; Sergt. W. H. Theakstone, 1st Regiment C. A., Halifax; Sergt.-Major W. Fellows, 2nd Regiment C.A., Montreal; Q. M. Sergt. W. A. McGuinness, 2nd Regiment C. A., Montreal; Sergt. And. P. Morrison, 2nd Regiment C.A., Montreal; Bomb. John J. Dickson, 2nd Regiment C.A., Montreal; Sergt. R. W. E. Gillis, 2nd Regiment C.A., Montreal; Corp. T. J. McGowan, 3rd Regiment C.A., St. John, N.B.; Bomb. J. A. Pollock, 3rd Regiment C.A., St. John, N.B.; Sergt. M. H. Sprague, 4th Regiment C.A., P.E. Island; Sergt.-Major J. C. Cornish, 5th Regiment C.A., Victoria, B.C.; Sergt. J. A. Thomas, 5th Regiment C. A., Victoria, B.C.; Bomb. W. H. Lettice, 5th Regiment C.A., Victoria, B.C.; Sergt.-Major A. K. Van Horne, Yarmouth Company, Yarmouth; Q. M. Sergt. T. A. Hood, 2nd Field Battery, Ottawa; Corp. Weir, 2nd Field Battery, Ottawa; Sergt. R. Balfour, 7th Field Battery, Welland Canal; Sergt.-Major James Spry, 9th Field Battery, Toronto; Sergt. T. W. Lawlor, 12th Field Battery, Newcastle; Sergt. T. C. Spence, 16th Field Battery, Guelph; Sergt. Wilkinson, 16th Field Battery, Guelph; Sergt. John Warring, 4th Field Battery, Hamilton.

LOVE LEADS TO MURDER.

One Boy at Findlay, O., Shoots His Rival For a Young Lady's Hand.

Findlay, Ohio, Aug. 3.—George Miles, aged 19, was shot and killed by Amos Decker, aged 18, in this city this evening, and a large posse of officers and excited citizens are pursuing the murderer, who escaped to the country on horseback. The crime was so deliberate that Decker will hardly escape the fullest penalty if captured by the pursuing officers. Decker and Miles were rivals for the hand of a young lady, and the feeling between them was very bitter.

Waterloo's Fine Band.

Waterloo, Ont., Aug. 3.—This afternoon the Harmonic Singing Society, accompanied by the Waterloo Musical Society's fine band, started for Lansing, Mich., in order to participate in the Peninsular Saengerfest, which begins there to-morrow. The band has a membership of 35. Its playing in concert is in the very highest order and is a credit to Canada. Prof. Seeller regretted very much that this engagement prohibited him from entering the band at the Hamilton band tournament.

Burned at Sea.

Manilla, Aug. 3.—The British ship Flora P. Stafford, Captain Smith, from Newcastle, N.S.W., April 22, for this port, caught fire at sea and was abandoned on June 8, in lat. 6N., long. 130E. Four of her crew are missing. The Flora P. Stafford was a Nova Scotia ship, her hailing port being Windsor, where she was owned by C. S. Smith. She was 189 feet long, 40 feet beam and 24 feet deep. She was of 1250 tons burden.

SHE FELL FROM THE TRAIN.

Mrs. Ralston of Pittsburg Killed on Her Way to Buffalo to Meet the Man She Was to Marry.

Oil City, Pa., Aug. 3.—Yesterday afternoon as Engineer Edwards of the fast freight was rounding a sharp curve near Kennerdall, 30 miles south of Franklin, he saw something lying beside the track. The train was stopped and the crew went back and found the bruised body of Mrs. Eliza Ralston, a prominent Pittsburg woman, who fell from the Alleghany Valley express the night before, while on her way to Buffalo. She had lain there 14 hours.

Mrs. Ralston was going to Buffalo to meet an affianced husband, a man named Mason. She was missed from her train and a search was made, but no sign was found until she was discovered yesterday afternoon. An engine was called and she was taken, bruised and bleeding, to Oil City. She was barely able to tell her name and died some hours later.

Mrs. Ralston was a wealthy woman and her benefactions were large. She owned considerable property in Pittsburg and Buffalo. She was a sister-in-law of Jennie Ralston, principal of the Ralston Normal School in Pittsburg. She lived at 5 Shingiss-street. Henry Ralston, her former husband, was a very well-known man in Pittsburg, and was at one time a very rich man.

No clue is given as to how she fell off the train. Her disappearance was discovered by finding she was not in her berth. Nothing was on the train but her clothing.

Few of her acquaintances in Pittsburg knew she was going to be married. An extensive trip had been planned as her wedding tour.

THAT IMMENSE LOCK.

The New U. S. Government Lock at Sault Ste. Marie Was Formally Opened Yesterday.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 3.—The new 800-foot Government lock was informally opened this morning at 10 o'clock, when the upper gates were opened and Government boats Hancock and Andy Johnson and the river and harbor tug Antelope entered. The boats were crowded with invited guests, and 2000 spectators congregated on either side of the big lock to witness the event. The craft in the harbor had all of their bunting flying, and as the boats went on to the lock there was a pandemonium of whistles for at least five minutes. Intermediate and upper lock gates only were used. The chamber was filled in about 13 minutes, not all the valves being opened at first, and it was emptied in eight. The gate machinery worked well, the lower gates closing in three minutes. Col. Lydecker, Lieut. Kavanaugh and other Government engineers were on board the Hancock.

RACEHORSES HURT

In a Wreck on the Big Four Road Caused by a Hot Journal.

Indianapolis, Aug. 3.—A car containing a number of horses, valued at $60,000 and owned by J. E. Bush of Louisville, was upset in a wreck caused by a hot journal at North Indianapolis early this morning on the Big Four-road. All of the horses were badly injured. Davis Barnum, who was in charge of the car; Dennis Porter of Louisville and George Fagin of Lexington were slightly injured, and Charles Brock of Louisville was seriously injured. The horses were on the road from Freeport, Ill., to Louisville, where they were to rest preparatory to resuming their racing. Those injured were: May Queen, 7 years old, no record; Halcorker, 2.12; Sally Bronson, 2.17¼; King Henry, Minnie B., colts; Defoe, 2.15; Buster, 2.12¼. The railroad company also sustained heavy loss.

THE PATRON FACTION.

Leaders Gathering in Toronto to Arrange For the September Convention.

J. L. Haycock, M.L.A., leader of the Patrons in the Ontario House, and Grand President Mallory of the order have been at the Grand Union for a day or two arranging for the Patron convention to be held in September.

The ubiquitous Ned Farrer and Past Editor Wrigley of The Farmers' Sun dined with these officers several times.

Capt. W. L. Smith is, by the way, the new head of The Farmers' Sun, and it is understood that Dr. Goldwin Smith, who has procured a large financial interest in the re-organized organ, will be a regular contributor to the editorial columns of the paper.

HE DIED AT HIS POST.

Richard Mitchell, Engineer at the Cayuga Pumping House, Found Dead.

Cayuga, Ont., Aug. 3.—The colored citizens of Cayuga celebrated Emancipation Day in this village to-day. The day was also Cayuga's Civic Holiday.

Quite a gloom was cast over the village this morning when it became known that Mr. Richard Mitchell, a highly respected citizen, was found dead in the station pumping house, where he had been engineer for several years. He went to work this morning early, and when his family called him to breakfast they found him lying dead. Mr. Mitchell was band master in Cayuga band and as a consequence the band did not participate in the day's sports. Few men will be more missed than Mr. Mitchell.

A good, healthy wholesomeness will make even a homely face attractive.

There are many reasons why women should take care to be healthy. One very strong reason is that beauty and illness are very seldom found together. Illness—and especially the kind peculiar to women—makes the complexion bad, the eyes dull and sunken, the manner listless and the intellect dull.

No woman in this condition can be attractive to her friends. Personal appearance counts for much, but comfort amounts to even more. What's the good of living if one cannot enjoy anything? If headaches and backaches and dragging weariness and pain accompany even slight fatigue?

If the system is constantly subjected to a debilitating drain, where is the energy to come from to make enjoyment possible?

Personal comfort and a consideration for the feelings of others are two of the incentives to an effort to secure health.

If the illness is in any way connected with the purely feminine organism (and the chances are ten to one that it is) Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure it.

Dr. Pierce has used the "Prescription" in his practice for thirty years with unbroken success. A large book (1000 pages and 300 illustrations) written by him entitled "The People's Medical Adviser" will be sent ABSOLUTELY FREE on receipt of 31 cents in one-penny stamps to prepay postage and duty only. THE EVILS OF UNCERTANITY.

What with the silver scare in the United States, and the coming tinkering of the tariff in Canada, remarks the Montreal Trade Bulletin, it is evident that politics on this side of the Atlantic are the greatest curse which the business community has to contend with. In England things are happily quite different, as a change of Ministry there means no disturbance of the business methods of the country, and merchants there can elect the Government of their choice, be it Liberal or Conservative, without having the slightest apprehension that their business interests will be interfered with. In Canada, however, after the trade policy of the country has been shaped into the protective groove during the past eighteen years, and the conventionalism of every department of business, both as regards the enterests of producers and manufacturers, have been brought into conformity therewith, we are now threatened with a revulsion of that policy, which by a gradual process we are told will be converted into a revenue tariff. It has been repeatedly stated in these columns that, situated as Canada is alongside of the great Republic of the United States, free trade is an utter impossibility in the former country, and the London, England, Times now corroborates us in that opinion. We find that a most uneasy feeling has been created in business circles, since it has been announced that a substantial tinkering with the present tariff is to take place; but not until January or February next will it be known what those changes will be. Consequently, we fear the business of the country will be thrown into another long term of suspense, until the new tariff is revised and its provisions known. Would it not be better for the great commercial interests of the country if the present Government could, by some possible means, let it be known, within say the next month or six weeks, how much of a reduction in the present tariff our merchants, manufacturers and producers may depend upon, so that they may shape their policy accordingly and thus be better prepared for the change? We are speaking from a purely independent trade standpoint, irrespective of party. We criticized the late Ministry pretty freely, in all matters where their action or want of action clashed with business interests, and we shall continue to follow the same line of conduct towards the present authorities at Ottawa. What many of our merchants are most apprehensive of is that in paring down the present tariff, the Government may throw certain industries which have been built up by the National Policy into the hands o American and German manufacturers. But it is to be hoped that Messrs. Laurier Fielding and Cartwright are fully aware o the disastrous consequences that would follow the closing down of our factories, and the wholesale destruction of our home industries. It will not take much of a reduction, however, in some of the present duties, to open our market to the slaughter goods of the United States manufacturers, who first make profits sure in their own markets which they have to themselves through their protective tariff, and then fling their surplus manufactures into foreign countries for what they will fetch. The London Times, referring to this phase of the question, says that another accidental obstacle to any radical change in the tariff, "of which the force cannot be ignored, is the continental position of Canada with the high protective toriff of the United States along a frontier of 4,000 miles. To face the world as Great Britain has done on a field of open competition is one thing; to be turned into a slaughter market for the surplus product of protected factories is another." Coming from such an authority as the London Times, these words will surely have great weight with the Government in the framing of the new tariff.

"REVENUE REFORM ROT."

Francis Wayland Glen, Grit ex-member of the Dominion Commons, doesn't take much stock in "revenue reform rot." Speaking of the exodus from Canada, Mr. Glen, in a letter to the New York Sun says:

> Can it be possible, as Canadian revenue reformers declare, that an average tariff of 18 per cent. upon goods entered for consumption at Canadian ports has in the last decade cost Canada a loss of 1,392,000 inhabitants, which at $1,000 only each represents a total productive loss of $1,392,000,000? The total revenue from import duties for the entire decade did not exceed $220,000,000? Such "revenue reform rot" may do for the Metis or French halfbreeds of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, and the free trade clear Grits of Ontario, who were reared on a Cobden club milk diet, but it will not be swallowed whole and remain undigested in the minds of the forty-nine French Canadians who sit upon the Lambs, side of the Speaker, behind and supporting the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier in the Parliament of Canada.

Errors that Bring Sad and Fatal Results to the Babies.

One of the most glaring errors of the day is the feeding of infants with arrowroot, corn starch and poorly prepared food. These foods consist almost entirely of starch, and soon bring the little ones into troubles that result in sickness and death.

When it is necessary to procure a substitute for mother's milk, the Lactated Food—the nearest approach to nature's food—is the surest, purest and best, especially in the heat of summer.

Lactated Food is a guarantee against cholera infantum, dysentery, diarrhœa and intestinal disturbances, and is relished by the babies at all times. Lactated Food is a true flesh builder and strengthener, just what the weak infant needs in the hot weather.

Feed the Nerves

Upon pure, rich blood and you need not fear nervous prostration. Nerves are weak when they are improperly and insufficiently nourished. Pure blood is their proper food, and pure blood comes by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is thus the greatest and best nerve tonic. It also builds up the whole system.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy to operate.

IN THE MOUNT OF ZION

THE SITES OF CALVARY AND THE SEPULCHRE ARE UNKNOWN.

The Magnificent Basilica Over the Place Where It Was Supposed the Tomb of Christ Was Erected by Constantine, Son of the Empress Helena.

The exact localities of Calvary, where the Christ was crucified, and the tomb in which He lay, have greatly interested the hosts of pilgrims who have visited Jerusalem for many centuries. The Empress Helena, mother of Constantine, visited the Holy City in A.D. 326, with the purpose of identifying these spots, and tradition tells us that it was by means of a dream that her desires were fulfilled. Her son erected a magnificent basilica over the place where the tomb was supposed to have been, and, although this original edifice has long since disappeared, the present Church of the Holy Sepulchre is located where the dream of the devout Empress led her to suppose were the tomb of the Lord and the place of the crucifixion.

In this church we are surrounded by everything that human invention and modern art could devise, but we turn away sickened at heart, to think that such folly and superstition should be associated with the most sacred events of the world's history. Here we are shown where the Empress sat and threw pieces of gold into the rubbish to encourage the workmen in their search for the cross; there we are shown a slab of limestone where, it is said, the Lord's body was annointed when taken from the cross, and scores of other evidences of the baldest superstition are marked and labeled in the most artificial manner. It is surpassingly strange that this place was selected, if the biblical record was consulted at all. It occupies a position, not on a solid rock, but above the ground, in space. The chamber of the tomb is lined with marble, and has not the least resemblance to a cave cut in the rock, and it is located inside the city walls, as they existed in Christ's time, while all admit that the true Calvary must have occupied a place outside of these walls.

We are indebted to Major Conder, who labored in connection with the Palestine exploration fund, for ably pointing out in 1878 that in all probability the place where the crucifixion took place is a rocky knoll outside the Damascus Gate, and known as "Jeremiah's Grotto." This knoll presents a striking resemblance to a human skull, which corresponds to the words in the new version, "the place which is called the skull."

The following points of evidence in favor of this being the actual scene of the crucifixion are striking: It was certainly outside the walls of the city in the time of Christ; it was at the junction of the two main roads, from south to north and from west to east, and consequently there would be many passers-by (Matt. xxvii, 39; Mark xv, 29). This hill is called by the Jews to-day as it has always been called, the "Hill of Execution"; it is held as an accursed spot, and Jews, even now, when they pass it spit and throw stones in its direction, uttering this imprecation: "Cursed be He who destroyed our naton by aspiring to be king thereof."

For ten days I have been studying this and other localities, and I confess I am deeply impressed by the place and its suroundings. On this skull-shaped mound outside of the gate of Damascus the whole transaction could have been seen by the vast multitudes that thronged the public thoroughfares at that season, and the priests could have witnessed the terrible tragedy from the wall of the city or from the tower of Antonia. If this little hill is established as the Golgotha of the New Testament, it necessarily follows that the sepulchre in which our Lord was laid must have been situated somewhere in the immediate vicinity.

In John we read: "Now, in the place where He was crucified there was a garden, and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid. There laid they Jesus, therefore, because of the Jews' preparation day, for the sepulchre was nigh at hand." The garden containing the tomb was, therefore, quite close to the spot where the cross stood. A tomb that seems to correspond remarkably with the biblical account has lately been excavated, and while as yet there has been little published about it, a company of English Christians have bought the spot and the garden near by, and doubtless we shall hear much of it in the near future.

It is located 230 feet from the summit of the knoll supposed to be Golgotha; it is hewn out of the solid rock, and evidently was the tomb of a rich man—Joseph of Arimathea. It is located in a garden and the whole structure of the tomb shows how the disciple could have stooped down and looked in without entering.

It consists of a chamber cut in the rock, seven feet six inches in height, fourteen feet six inches long and eleven feet two inches wide, having a low partition dividing the tomb into two parts. In these two parts are three receptacles for human bodies, but only one of these appears to have been actually completed, and portions of the "scale" which was loose at the bottom of the receptacle that was evidently used, was taken to the British Museum, where the authorites declared that "no body has ever decomposed in the tomb, if this is from the bottom of it."

There are strong evidences that the Crusaders knew of this tomb. At the east end two crosses are inserted on the wall in red paint, with the letters Alpha and Omega at the corners, and it has been ascertained that an arched building once existed in front of the tomb, supposed to have been erected about the twelfth century. There are the faint outlines of an inscription which, if ever deciphered, may tell us how those who, centuries ago, looked upon this sepulchre, regarded it.

From what has been written certain inferences may fairly be drawn, namely that the traditional Holy Sepulchre cannot possibly be the true site of the tomb of Christ, as it lies within the walls of the ancient city; that the skull-shaped hill is in all probability the true Calvary, and that the rock-cut sepulchre in the immediate vicinity of the hill answers all the conditions of the tomb in which the body of Christ lay. I have penned these words in a room cut into the rock, just below the Skull Hill, where lives the old Christian man who watches over the new-found tomb, who insists that he stays in the house occupied by the gardener whom Mary thought she saw when she looked upon the resurrected Lord."—Jerusalem Correspondence, Baltimore Sun.

THIRTY NOW HAVE PAY ORE.

Three Lucky Strikes Were Made by Miners in the Rossland District Yesterday—Much Enthusiasm Prevails.

Rossland, B.C., Aug. 3.—(Special.)—Three big gold strikes were reported to-day. The first and perhaps most important is on the Georgie claim, where a tunnel 120 feet long has been cut in a ledge of high grade ore at a depth of 100 feet from the surface. This ore ran $40 per ton on the surface, and has improved 20 per cent. with this depth. This strike is near the east end line of the Monte Cristo, and is in the same ledge running through that claim. It therefore means also as much to the Monte Cristo as to the Georgie. The second strike is reported from Red Mountain, which is a claim situated between Cliff and War Eagle. Here ore running fairly well in gold has been found in a shaft down 40 feet. The third strike is on the Coxey claim, lying near the California on the west side of the Red Mountain. Good ore was found on this ground several days ago, but that just discovered runs much higher in copper, having about 20 per cent. of that metal and running well in gold also. Intense interest and enthusiasm has been caused by the astonishing succession of important strikes made in the last three weeks. Nearly 30 mines now have pay ore.

COLORED ODDFELLOWS.

Annual Meeting of the District Grand Lodge at London, Ont.

London, Ont., Aug. 3.—The annual meeting of the Colored Oddfellows' District Grand Lodge, No. 28, was convened this morning at 10 o'clock. District Master J. W. Montgomery of Chatham presided. There were delegates from Windsor, Chatham, Toronto, Puse River and London present. Committees were appointed on credentials, finance, grievance and insurance, and the meeting adjourned at noon till 9 a.m. to-morrow, in order to participate in the street parade and demonstration at Queen's Park and feast at the banquet to-night. The speakers at the park were: Messrs. J. Washington Montgomery, G.G. M., Chatham; W. H. Bazie, P.G.M., Chatham; R. E. Dunn, grand district secretary, Windsor; Rev. R. R. Ball, Toronto, and B. F. Dorsey, D.G.M., Toronto.

The Food of Whales.

The food of whales has long been known to consist of minute sea crustacea. Mr. Gray was familiar not only with the whale's food, but observed its manner of feeding, and the way in which it took its nap "after meals." "No doubt," he wrote, "whales are very particular in the quality of their food. for they are never to be found feeding where the water is dirty, but almost invariably in clean, clear, dark-blue or light olive-green water. The usual way in which a whale feeds is to choose a spot where the food is plentiful, and swim backward and forward for two or three hundred yards, with the nose just under water. They invariably swim from one side of the boat back again to where they started from with their mouths open. They then close their jaws and swallow the food caught.

"They will go on in this way feeding for an hour or more; after that they will disappear under the nearest ice and sleep there until they come out for exercise or for another meal. Unlike other warm-blooded animals, they do not require to breathe through their nostrils while asleep, and they do not do so. Whales can sleep as well under water as they do upon the surface, as I have often seen them disappear under solid ice and remain there for many hours at a time. Sometimes they fall asleep with their heads down and only their tails standing out of the water."—London Spectator.

IN ROCHESTER CATHEDRAL

Rev. W. C. Hubbard Preaches to Masons, Who Were Present in Full Regalia.

London, Aug. 3.—The Rev. W. C. Hubbard preached in the Rochester Cathedral yesterday to a congregation of Freemasons, who wore the full regalia of their order. The sermon abounded in appropriate references to the craft and to the Master Builder and His temple, and was extremely interesting. Mr. Hubbard brought with him from America a present to the cathedral from the Freemasons of Rochester, N.Y.

After the service there was a meeting at the Exchange, which was presided over by the Mayor of Rochester. Dean Hole, who recently made a tour of the United States and Canada in the interest of the cathedral, presented to Mr. Hubbard an illuminated address to the American brethren. Several warm fraternal speeches were made.

What Cattle Disease Is This?

Susquehanna, Pa., Aug. 3.—A disease has broken out among cattle in this vicinity which has not as yet been officially diagnosed. Its symptoms entirely differ from all diseases that have heretofore attacked cattle. The symptoms are bleeding at the nostrils and inflamed eyes. Cattle die in about 24 hours after having been atttacked. Several head have died in this section.

THE MAGYAR RACE.

Origin and Development of the People of Hungary.

In connection with the Millennium Exhibition, Professor Vambery of the Buda Pesth University, delivered a lecture on the origin and development of the Magyar race, to which he has for many years devoted special study.

Professor Vambery began by stating that there was a scarcity of trustworthy historical evidence relative to the earliest origin of the Hungarian nation. All that was known on the subject had been derived from a Byzantine and an Arab writer. According to them, the Magyars were a tribe of Turkish nomads, who, being driven from their own territory by the encroachments of their more powerful countrymen, wandered westward, and eventually reached Hungary by way of the lower Danube in response to an invitation of King Arnulph of Bavaria, who needed their military assistance against the Slav King of Moravia. For nearly a century the Magyars settled in Hungary, continuing their primitive mode of life as warlike nomads, undertakng periodical raids to all parts of Europe and capturing numerous prisoners; these they employed in agricultural pursuits, while the Magyars themselves remained the dominant race. Toward the close of the tenth century the Magyars embraced Christianity, and, blending in one political body the various ethical elements which had become resident in Hungary, constituted the Hungarian nation. For centuries the Magyar minority continued to rule over the non-Magyar majority by sheer force of their warlike and governing characteristics. By the aid of their liberal institutions and the hospitality which they extended to foreigners they succeeded in maintaining their supremacy through all vicissitudes. From these Asiatic nomads the present Hungarian nations descended.

Professor Vambery then went on to say that Hungary had invariably formed an insurmountable barrier against the barbarism of the east. Had it not been for the stubborn resistance offered by the Christian armies of Hungary to the inroads of Turkish hordes, the progress and civilization of western and central Europe would have been retarded for hundreds of years. Indeed, it could be said that Hungary had acted as the sentinel of Western civilization, but in consequence of its being in perpetual readiness for war, the intellectual condition of the country had remained behind. During the past two centuries this had been remedied, and in all respects the progress and development of the nation had been remarkable. At the beginning of the present century the Magyar population of Hungary numbered only about 2,000,000. To-day it exceeds 8,000,000. There is scarcely any trace left of his Asiatic extraction in the modern Magyar. He still retains, however, those liberal, generous and chivalrous traits which assisted him in conquering the various non-Magyar elements of the country, and which have given him that extraordinary power of absorption by means of which a mere handful of Asiatic wanderers have gradually grown into a powerful nation which is about to celebrate the 1000th anniversary of its existence.—Vienna Correspondence London Times.

The Regatta Committee.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Regatta Committee last evening.

After the reading of the minutes Prof. Coleman read copies of two letters addressed by Wm. Smeaton, late Secretary of the Regatta, to Mr. John Taylor, Post Master. The first letter asked Mr. Taylor to instruct his clerks to hand over all letters addressed to him as Secretary of the International Regatta to his successor. The second letter instructed Mr. Taylor to have all mail matter bearing his name put into his box. Mr. Taylor had decided to have all letters addressed to Mr. Smeaton sent to his (Mr. Taylor's) office and there opened in the presence of Mr. Smeaton and Prof. Coleman.

The general opinion of the committee was that Mr. Smeaton's action would delay the correspondence of the regatta and cause much loss of time. After some discussion the matter was allowed to stand as arranged by Mr. Taylor.

A letter was read from Toronto Skiff Sailing Association asking for changes in programme and assuring the Committee that several of the skiffs would be down.

A lettter from the Montreal Boat Club as to entries, etc., was read.

A telegram from Hanlan stated that the English crew had left Halifax. He also stated that the Halifax four-oared crew would come, if $100 was allowed for expenses. The telegram was replied to and the committe refused to allow the expenses of the crew.

It was resolved to send T. W. R. McRae to Brockville Regatta to arrange for amateur oarsmen for events here next week.

It was decided to charge 50 cents for seats on the lower end of the grand stand on afternoons and 25 cents for the north end. For morning and evening events the charge will be 25 cents all over.

Gambling and all games of chance will be prohibited on ground within jurisdiction of the committee.

Messrs. A. McGinnis and B. F. Dickens were appointed a committee to select medals and cups for amateur events.

Messrs. J. P. Thompson and T. W. R. McRae were appointed a committee to get out grand stand tickets and badges.

It was decided not to issue badges to those on the committees who had not attended the meetings.

Mr. Robb offered all the headlights necessary to light the grand stand. His offer was accepted with thanks.

The Committee adjourned till Thursday evening.

A telegram from Halifax says: Bubear's English crew leave here to-day for Belleville, where they will compete in the regatta against the Canadian-American four (with Hanlan in Gaudaur's seat), and the Halifax fishermen who finished third in Saturday's race. Bubear thinks his crew will win at Belleville. Gaudaur has gone to New York, where he will take passage for England to row Stanbury.

A Large Funeral.

The funeral of the late Mr. James Meagher was held this morning at 10 o'clock and was largely attended. A number of persons from the surrounding country came to attend the obsequies. At 10 o'clock the cortege left his late residence, Station Road, and proceeded to St. Michael's church, where services were held conducted by Rev. Father Carson. The interment took place at the R. C. cemetery. The bearers were Messrs. R. Elvins, J. Panter, T. Daly, A. Henry, J. St. Charles and Ald. Collins.

Examinations for Admission to High Schools, North Hastings.

Examinations were held at Stirling, Madoc and Bancroft. At these places 136 candidates presented themselves for examination. Of these, 69 have been reported to the Minister of Education as successful.

On the whole, the examination questions were somewhat less difficult than usual.

A number of schools have done credit to themselves. The reports from year to year of this and Public School Leaving Examination should be carefully examined by trustees and parents.

A really good school may not, always, have successful candidates, but a careful and intelligent observation of these reports for some years will enable any one to determine, with some degree of correctness, in what schools the best work is being done.

At all the centres of examination, the Reading was better than usual. The penmanship and neatness of the answers were, as a rule, worthy of commendation.

In too many cases, there is still much careless and superficial teaching and examination. In not a few schools, teachers and pupils are, we fear, somewhat averse to hardwork.

In future, candidates will be required to make one-third of the marks as signed to the Drawing and Writing Books and these books must be filled.

In place of the ordinary Copy Book, a book containing not less than 4 or 5 Bookkeeping Sets, Single Entry, will be required.

Successful candidates should enter a High School if possible. Those who cannot do so should return to their own Public Schools and prepare for the Public School Leaving Examination.

PUBLIC SCHOOL LEAVING EXAMINATION.

This examination is, as its name indicates, a Public School graduation examination. A good many people, who ought to know better, seem to think that the P. S. course of study ends with the entrance examination. This is a mistake. There are five classes in the P. S. course of study, and education in Fifth class work is the legal right of any child who is fit for it and whose parents desire that he should take advantage of it.

Twelve candidates presented themselves for examination, of whom six have been successful. For each successful candidate at the examination the Department of Education gives the school from which he comes a grant of five dollars.

Every possible effort should be made by trustees and teachers to encourage the formation of fifth classes. Nothing but the most unmistakable necessity should cause any child to cease attendance at school when he has passed the entrance examination.

An Unkind Cut.

The Hamilton Spectator says: Dr. O'Hagan writes to the Week to say that Canadian poets are neglected. He thinks Canadian poets of merit should be appointed to lucrative positions under the Government, where they will have leisure to write verse at the expense of the country. And Dr. O'Hagan must be quite disinterested in making this recommendation, for, although he is a poet and a prolific writer of verse, his work is not such as to class him with "poets of merit."

Our Prices are Wrong.

We say decidedly that our prices on ladies' tan shoes are wrong. They never should be sold as low as we have this week marked them. The fact is we want to clear out every pair in the next three weeks and we will do it if low prices are what is needed.—HAINES & LOCKETT.

Birthday Gathering.

A pleasant and enjoyable time was spent on Monday, July 27th, at the home of David Reed at Corbyville. About seventy of their children, relatives and friends gathered there to celebrate Father Reed's 89th anniversary. The ladies came with well filled baskets and soon all was bustle and rattle of dishes, and above all could be heard the merry peals of laughter coming from various parts of the house, showing that all were in the best of spirits and heartily enjoying themselves. Dinner having been served, all repaired to the lawn, where an artist from Belleville was found ready to take a photograph of those present. The rest of the afternoon was spent in social intercourse, until about 4 p.m., when the Rev. Mr. Adams, of Canifton, called them to order and all joined in singing a couple of appropriate hymns from the Methodist hymn book. The Rev. Mr. Mounteer, of Smithfield, and Rev. Mr. Adams led in prayer, after which the company began to disperse feeling that it had been a day well spent.

David Reed was born on the farm where he now resides, July 26, 1807, and can well remember when the townships of Thurlow and Sidney were mostly forests and Belleville a small village, and can give some very interesting accounts of the early times. Mrs. Reed, who is a daughter of the late Col. Wm. Ketcheson, of Sidney, was born Nov. 2, 1811. They were married April 6th, 1830, and settled at what was known as Reed's mills near Smithville (now Foxboro.) Mr. Reed was engaged for many years in lumbering and farming and supplied the lumber and timber for many of the principal buildings in Belleville, among them might be mentioned the court house and gaol, the Deaf and Dumb Institute, a number of the large stores on Front st., etc. Mr. and Mrs. Reed are enjoying fairly good health, considering their age. He may be found almost any day in his garden or corn field plying his hoe, and I think if some young men worked with him in the corn field some hot day they would advocate eight hours instead of ten. That they may be spared to see many more anniversaries is the prayer of

ONE PRESENT.

Football Championship for 1895.

The knowing ones are speculating on the football possibilities of the season. Ottawa is not likely to retain the honors of the championship, as Queen's will put in a team sure to smash all records. It is often the case that very slight causes will lose a victory. It is stated that a painful corn made useless one of the best American players. It follows that no team can hope to win this year that neglects to supply its members with Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the only safe, sure, and painless remedy for corns.

Obituary.

It is with regret that we record the death of Mr. Stephen Vivian, who, after a brief illness passed away on Wednesday, July 29, 1896, in the sixty-fifth year of his age, leaving a wife and five children—three sons and two daughters—to mourn their loss. All was done that loving hearts could dictate and medical skill devise, but all to no purpose. Mr. Vivian was resident on the front of Thurlow for many years and was highly respected by the community for his uprightness and purity of character. He was a member of the Methodist church, and lived a consistent Christian life; and his death was a fitting sequel to his life. The funeral took place on Friday, when a large number of friends were present to show their respect for the deceased and their sympathy for the bereaved family. The remains were taken to Belleville cemetery for interment and to wait the resurrection of the just.

Died This Morning.

After an illness of nearly three years' duration Mrs. Addie Nash died at her residence on Strachan st. at 3 o'clock this morning. Deceased, who was a Miss Laraby, of Hungerford, was 47 years of age. Her late husband, William Nash, died thirteen years ago. Mrs. Nash leaves two sons, Henry and Richard. The funeral will take place on Thursday at 4 p. m. to Canifton.

What causes bad dreams is a question that has never been satisfactorily answered; but, in nine cases out of ten, frightful dreams are the result of imperfect digestion, which a few doses of Ayer's Sarsaparilla will effectually remedy. Don't delay—try it to-day.

Boils

It is often difficult to convince people their blood is impure, until dreadful carbuncles, abscesses, boils, scrofula or salt rheum, are painful proof of the fact. It is wisdom now, or whenever there is any indication of blood, to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and prevent such eruptions and suffering. "I had a dreadful carbuncle abscess, red, fiery, fierce and sore. The doctor attended me over seven weeks. When the abscess broke, the pains were terrible, and I thought I should not live through it. I heard and read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I decided to take it, and my husband, who was suffering with boils, took it also. It soon purified our built me up and restored my health so that, although the doctor said I would not be able to work hard, I have since done the work for 20 people. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured my husband of the boils, and we regard it a wonderful medicine." MRS. ANNA PETERSON, Latimer, Kansas.

A Sure and Simple Protection From Cold.

Good meals and warm clothing are of more value if you haven't got them than anything else. World wide fame seems of small account if you are hungry, or the wind is whistling through your body. So any new feature which makes comfortable clothing possible for everyone is of more real importance to us than the discovery of a new planet. This explains the great popularity of Fibre Chamois, an interlining made from pure spruce fibre, which gives a perfect healthful warmth without adding weight or bulk. The reason is, that it is an absolute non-conductor of either heat or cold. The rawest winds can't get through the clothing lined with it, nor will it let the natural heat of the body escape, so that it insures comfort in all weather, for a trifling expense.

Ontario's Health.

Dr. Bryce, the secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, has issued his annual report. Advices from every part of the province show a very satisfactory condition of health. The province is, and has been, comparatively free from contagious disease, and such epidemics as have existed have all been traced to their sources, and the causes removed, and matters rectified as far as possible. The report is, on the whole, encouraging.

thrown overboard. Then, what with dock business, and what with the politics into which the popular candidate for Marchgrave had thrown himself with his accustomed energy, he was always being called away suddenly, and none, not even his wife at the Cedars or his principal cashier in Chapter Lane, could ever be sure when he would return.

At length, however, Guy contrived to manage matters so that, without risking irreparable injury to his clients, he could give himself a Friday for travelling to one or both of his alternative destinations, a clear Saturday and Sunday for whatever might befall, and a Monday for his return to Marchgrave, bringing, as his inmost heart and hope could not fail to trust, his love safely home. What could have gone wrong, except the post, after all? Had Marion been ill, he would assuredly have heard. Had her father been proving troublesome, her mother's letter had assured him he would have heard all the more. The anxieties that had been heavy upon him while he could go nowhere and do nothing, lost half their weight so soon as he was able to go and to do. Some things are utterly impossible because they are too unspeakably cruel. And that anything should be seriously wrong with Marion—that was surely the most impossibly cruel of universal things. No; Marion and his love for her were far too sacred things to be made toys of by chance or doom.

He paid a last visit to the postoffice, and a twentieth to Chapter Lane, on his way to the station. No letter—no John Heron. Southampton or London—which should it be?

It was almost a case for the only unbiassed and almost the only really sensible way of arriving at a decision on any practical question—Heads or Tails. That method gives an even chance of doing right; every other gives at least ten chances to one of doing wrong. Had Guy Derwent only taken from his purse the first coin that came to hand, spun it on the ledge of the ticket office, said "Heads—London," and had Fortune (as is her wont) favoured the boldness that trusts her all in all, this history would here have come to an end. As things were, however, he trusted his judgment; took his ticket for Southampton; and—Lost a Day.

It was therefore not on the Friday, but late on the Saturday, that he reached the Green Cheese in Blink Lane. There had been something fantastic about the place to Marion, when seen through a veil of fog and flare. Guy, less fanciful, only saw a mean tavern, in a mean blind alley, distinguished only by an air of shabby antiquity from hundreds more. It was evidently not a place where a chance customer would drop in for a glass of ale; far less a natural halting-place for a lady. So little, indeed, was it the latter, that Guy passed the red-curtained window twice and three times before he could inquire at such a place without too extravagant absurdity. And, moreover, when one has been a prey to anxiety for days, and at last the moment for ending suspense has arrived, so inconsistent are most of us that the more the heart is full of impatient eagerness, the more painfully it is sure to plead for just one moment more.

At last he entered the close smelling passage, and then the bar, where a blotched and pimply man in shirt sleeves, bald-headed and club-nosed, was serving a knot of seedy-looking customers at one end of the counter, and a red-haired girl was chatting with a smart and smiling gentleman across the other. Except for these two it was a solemn though shabby gathering; and yet Guy knew by instinct that he had come into queer company. And Marion—here!

"Are two ladies staying here?" he asked of the pimply man.

The latter turned upon him a long, slow gaze.

"No, mister. There's no ladies kept here."

An awkward sort of whispered chuckle seemed to come from the knot of smokers, round. Guy's spirit turned at once both faint and angry, though he scarce knew why.

"Have none been here within these seven days?" asked he. "This is the Green Cheese, Blink Lane?"

"This is the shop, mister. No mistake there."

"And no ladies are here—have been here?"

The landlord of the Green Cheese shifted his gaze from Guy to the smart customer at the other end of the bar. Then:

"No, mister," said he, shaking his bald head, "This is a respectable house—none of that cattle here."

Somehow, Guy felt that the man was consciously lying. And yet why should he lie? Unless—have we not all heard of such things?—Marion and her mother had, in some fit of fright or folly, strayed into a den of robbers and murderers and—Fancy shuddered at the picture and laid her pencil down. Of course the thought was wild; but Guy was a countryman after all, to whom legends of London were more fact than fable, and were saturated with all manner of gloomy mysteries—traps in innocent-looking floors, hidden cellars and the unfathomable secrets of the Thames.

"I shouldn't have thought your house was so large," he said, "that you'd have forgotten what seems to be so unusual a thing. I happen to know that two ladies have been here within the last seven days."

"You know a great deal, mister, about my house—a precious deal more than me. Why should I deny it if 'twas true? 'Twould be naught to me, so long as they drank square and paid their score—leastwise, as somebody paid."

"I know this much," said Guy, speaking low and doing his best to keep cool, "that I have a letter from one of them in my pocket at this moment, telling me that they were then at the Green Cheese in Blink Lane."

"Women are rum," said the landlord of the Green Cheese.

"Lost your sweetheart, sir?" asked one of the group, giving a genial wink to another, and a jocular nudge to the third.

"That's bad—but never you mind; it's not half so bad to lose 'em as to find."

"Ah," said another, "but to lose two of 'em at once—no wonder the gentleman feels a bit put out, and so would you."

"Not a bit. I'm sure he's welcome to the lot of mine. P'r'aps if you'd show me the lady's letter, I might advise, knowing the ropes of London better than a gentleman from the country could be looked for to do. It's a wicked place, is London. Eh, Jellett, you bald-headed old sinner? None of your tricks on travellers. Give the gentleman his sweethearts back at once—do you hear?"

Temper must reach boiling point at last, and Guy's boiled over.

"Then, Mr. Jellett," said he, "if that's your name, since I can't make you remember, I must find somebody that can. I don't fancy this is a house where the police would find themselves welcome——"

"Allow me, my dear sir," said the smart customer, leaving his chat with the barmaid, and advancing with a winning smile, "I think I can settle this little matter. Mr. Jellett is quite right to make no admissions. How can he tell what the motive of your enquiry may be? Jellet, though

'TWAS A LOVE MATCH

Grace Wilson Captured Young Vanderbilt

All the Rage That Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr., the Money King, Could Fulminate Against His Stubborn Son Had No Effect Whatever When the Young Man Had Been Once Smitten by Love—Disparity of Ages Was a Flimsy Excuse for Separating Him From the Beautiful Girl Whom He Adored—But the "Old Man" May Yet Repent.

New York, Aug. 3.—Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., was married to-day to Miss Grace Wilson. Not a member of the Vanderbilt family was invited to the wedding, which was notable for its simplicity. Perhaps never in the history of the Vanderbilt or Wilson families has a quiet wedding been solemnized. It was 11.15 when Mr. Vanderbilt, jr., reached the Wilson house at 511 Fifth-avenue. He was dressed in black frock coat, with light striped trousers. He found awaiting him his bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Orme Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Wilson, R. T. Wilson, jr., Robert Goelet, jr., and Frank Polk of Boston, one of his classmates. This comprised the wedding party. Shortly before noon the Rev. William H. Pott, assistant rector of St. Thomas' Church, entered the house.

The rear drawing room had been daintily decorated with a few choice cut flowers early in the morning and at noon everything was in readiness for the ceremony, when the Rev. Mr. Pott took up his position at the eastern end of the room. A moment later young Mr. Vanderbilt entered, accompanied by his best man, Mr. Polk. The few guests then grouped themselves to the left of the minister. Soft strains of music from a stringed orchestra announced the coming of the bride.

Miss Wilson, attended solely by her father, marched down the main hall and through the centre archway leading to the rear drawing room. She looked a picture of beauty in her pure white wedding gown, a creation of French art. She wore a veil of old English lace, reaching to the bottom of her gown. It was fastened by a magnificent wreath of diamonds surmounted by a bunch of orange blossoms. As soon as Miss Wilson entered the room, the groom stepped forward and, taking her by the hand, they both stood before the officiating minister. In five minutes it was all over and Miss Wilson was the wife of the son of one of America's greatest millionaires. There were no ushers, and many of the conventionalities attending such weddings were omitted. After the ceremony those present offered their congratulations to the young couple.

No wedding breakfast having been prepared, Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt retired to apartments upstairs and donned their traveling apparel. The bride put on a light blue striped gown, ornamented with a lace cape. She wore a large straw bonnet, gaily trimmed with flowers, and her face was covered with a white veil. Mr. Vanderbilt wore a large checked suit of light material with a brown derby hat.

At 12.35 the bride and groom, followed by a shower of rice, left the house and entered a coupe in waiting at the door. The groom looked pale and worried. The bride's face was radiant with smiles, and as the carriage drew away from the door she threw kisses to the little group of wedding guests who had assembled to see the couple off.

The bride and groom were driven to the Grand Central Station and it is understood they will go to Saratoga. It is said they have no plans for the future. They may be abroad for a year, but this has not been decided.

Hardly had the ceremony been finished before telegrams of congratulation began arriving. They were principally from friends of the Wilson family, but some of Mr. Vanderbilt's chums remembered him. From across the water came cablegrams of congratulation from the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, the Earl and Countess of Pembroke, and others of the nobility.

The groom's gift to the bride was a large diamond heart, composed of some 30 extremely brilliant diamonds, with a beautiful sapphire in the centre.

The Vanderbilt-Wilson engagement was announced last May, and June 4 was the day set for the marriage. Society was startled to learn that the contemplated union had not the approval of the Vanderbilt family and that the young man had been threatened with disinheritance if he contracted the alliance. On June 2, Mr. Vanderbilt, jr., was taken ill with rheumatism, which resulted in a postponement of the wedding. Then came the news that the elder Vanderbilt had been stricken with paralysis, brought on, it was said, by worry over his son's persistent determination to wed Miss Wilson. There were many stormy scenes, it is said, in the Vanderbilt mansion between father and son, which culminated in the young man notifying his father that he would marry the girl of his choice at any cost.

Mr. Vanderbilt's objection to the marriage was on account of the youthfulness of his son, who is but 22 years old, while Miss Wilson is six or seven his senior. Mr. Vanderbilt further contended that his son had not seen enough of the world and society to be able to wisely choose a wife at this period, and his objections to the union were purely out of consideration for the son's welfare.

The attachment between Mr. Vanderbilt and Miss Wilson began last summer, when they spent much time in each other's company. The father sent the son to Europe to cure him of his love, but he was not many weeks abroad before he was joined by Miss Wilson and her married sister.

Young Vanderbilt and Miss Wilson were again much together in Europe, which resulted in their love culminating in to-day's marriage.

Miss Wilson has been noted for her beauty. She is a tall blonde with blue eyes and a peachlike complexion.

The wedding was another link in the chain of brilliant matches made by the children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Wilson. Soon after the family came to this city, a score of years ago, Ogden Goelet, the multi-millionaire, married the eldest daughter. Marshall Orme Wilson, one of his sons was the next to wed, his choice being Miss Caroline Astor, daughter of the late William Astor, and a sister of John Jacob Astor

Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., is the eldest son of Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt. He was graduated from Yale. He is tall and slender with dark hair and gray eyes. Unless the father persists in his threat to disinherit him, the son will eventually come into possession of an imense fortune, as Cornelius Vanderbilt is supposed to be worth $200,000,000. Young Cornelius is in good favor with wealthy members of the family and he will probably, under any circumstances, receive a large sum from this source.

A Fiend in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 3.—Several young girls have been assaulted here recently, and on Saturday another victim was added to the list. A 15-year-old girl named Mote, of near London, Ont., who is visiting here, was seized and dragged into a vacant factory on West Congress-street on Saturday in broad daylight and her assailant choked and assaulted her. The police are after the brute, and think he committed all seven of the outrages.

Kruger Not Satisfied Yet.

Johannesburg, Transvaal, Aug. 3.—The Standard Diggers' News publishes an interview with President Kruger, in which he said that he had declined to interfere in behalf of Dr. Jameson. The President pointed out that the British Government still had to decide who were the ringleaders in the Jameson raid.

A HEALTHFUL DRINK
MADDEN'S CEREAL

A DELICIOUS and HEALTHFUL DRINK.

We seldom charge our ill feelings to the true cause. CHEMISTRY proves that Coffee contains poisonous alkaloids, as in morphine, whiskey and tobacco. A SOUND, HEALTHY PERSON may be able to stand these for a time, but "a small leak sinks a big ship," and sooner or later indigestion, headache, torpid liver, weak heart, "weary, tired feeling" proves that the nervous system has been poisoned.

EVERY DAY, and perhaps every meal, the poisonous alkaloids of Coffee and Tea add fuel to the fire. Can you wonder that some organic disease is firmly seated? Health cannot return until you remove the cause. MADDEN CEREAL has the appearance of coffee, in color like Java or Mocha, and when cream is added it changes to a rich brown. A product made from blood-producing grains, it builds up, renews and makes red blood. REGULAR PACKAGE MAKES 100 CUPS. Grocers sell it at 25 cents TRIAL PACKAGE FOR 50 CUPS, BY MAIL, POSTPAID, 25 CENTS.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very billous habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidney Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

OVATION TO LAURIER.

About 6000 People Listened to His Many Promises.

Ottawa Ought to Experience a Boom Now Since the Government Are Going to Make It an Object of Particular Attention—Mr. Laurier Speaks About the Quebec Vote—Cardinal, the Horseman, While Driving the Four-in-Hand Carrying the Ministers, Fainted and Fell Off the Box.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—(Special.)—The Liberals of Ottawa and Ottawa Valley gave a right royal welcome to the Premier and Mme. Laurier on their arrival here to-night to formally take up their residence at the Capital. The local committee had made elaborate preparations for celebrating the Liberal victory of June 23, and with the exception of a few hitches everything passed off successfully. The outlook during the day was not promising, as rain fell at intervals, making walking on the roadway most disagreeable. Fortunately, however, during the entire evening the rain held off.

The Premier and his good lady were timed to arrive here at 8.30 p.m., and long before that hour thousands had congregated at the Canadian Pacific depot.

When the train arrived there was great cheering, which was again and again renewed when Mr. and Mme. Laurier emerged and took their places in Mr. Edwards' four-in-hand. A procession was quickly formed and started in its march through the principal streets of Upper and Lower Town. It took fully an hour to pass the Parliament buildings and was nearly two hours in traversing the route mapped out, winding up at Cartier-square. There were fully 800 torch-bearers in the procession.

A number of illuminated floats and fully 200 transparencies of different kinds were seen. Among them were the following inscriptions: "Render justice to all"; "The Sutherland Comedy Co. will appear nightly at the big pavilion, commencing Aug. 19"; "Religion, love and country"; "Protection to the working classes"; "Honor the Great Chief", etc.

At different points along the route Mr. Laurier and Sir Oliver Mowat were repeatedly cheered.

In Centre Town, by some mismanagement, the procession was broken in two sections, with a great gap between them, but thousands who lined the streets waited patiently till the second section, in which the Premier and his escort were, appeared.

At the head of Rideau-street, a strange incident occurred. Eugene Cardinal, a leading Ottawa horseman, who was driving the four-in-hand drag on which the Premier and his friends were riding, was overcome presumably by the excitement of the occasion, and fell from the box seat in a faint. He was quickly removed and the ribbons taken by Mr. Edwards, M.P.

On arriving at Cartier-square, Mr. Laurier was conducted to a raised platform especially erected for the occasion, and which had been tastefully decorated. The Premier and his wife were greeted with uproarious cheering and Mme. Laurier was nearly overwhelmed with bouquets.

A couple of minutes later Our Own Little Ollie appeared, smiling and bewildered, on the platform, carrying a bouquet as big as a cabbage. He also came in for great applause.

Others on the platform were: Messrs. Scott, Davies, Tarte, Fisher, Paterson, Sir Henry Joly, Fitzpatrick and Dobell, members of the Government, Senator McInnes (B.C.), and the following members of Parliament: Messrs. Hutchinson, Belcourt, Edwards, Devlin, Bourassa, Harwood, Proulx, Guay, Stenson, Bruneau and Featherston.

An address of welcome in English and French was presented to the Liberal leader, who then addressed the gathering of 5000 or 6000 people present. On coming forward to reply, the Premier received a magnificent ovation. He struck a popular chord by addressing the crowd as "fellow citizens." After thanking them for the address, he said if the palm for the victory of June 23rd should be given to any section of Canada, it should go to his own native Province of Quebec, and to his own race, the French-Canadians of Quebec. He was sorry to see at this moment that that which should be the pride of all sections of the Canadian people was being used by leaders of the once great Conservative party with a view to throwing seeds of discord in our population. It was true that Quebec had sent an overwhelming majority to support the Liberal party, but it was no less true that Sir Charles Tupper and his friends did their best to capture that majority. (Cheers.) It was, in his opinion, a happy day for Canada when appeals of Tupper and Angers and their friends were disregarded by the French-Canadians and Roman Catholics of Quebec. (Cheers.)

An attempt had been made to rouse the passions and prejudices latent in the hearts of his co-religionists, but he was proud to know it had been disregarded. He stood there as Premier of Canada and selected as Liberal leader by the Protestant majority in the House of Commons. (Cheers.) The platform for which he stood was one of freedom and justice and toleration for all. (Cheers.)

After referring to the proposed cleaning out of the stable, a work already commenced by Mr. Tarte, he proceeded to say that the Government would endeavor to do its duty by all sections of the people.

The Government would endeavor to relieve agriculture from its burden, to promote trade and commerce, to develop our native industries. It would also be their endeavor to encourage literature, letters, arts and sciences and to make Ottawa a seat of learning of arts and letters in the Dominion. (Cheers.) He had spoken elsewhere of his desire to see Ottawa become the Washington of the north. (Cheers.) He had not forgotten these words. He intended to live up to them as much as he could. There was no nation but that was proud of its capital city. The Frenchman in the Pyrenees or by the sea coast of France was proud of Paris, while all Americans were proud of Washington. It would, therefore, be the endeavor of his Government to make Ottawa as far as was possible a capital of which Canadians should be proud. (Cheers.) It would be their aim to make Canada such a country that whenever a man left its shores it should be the pride of his heart to proclaim that he was a Canadian. (Cheers.)

The Premier, having spoken in French, the proceedings closed with cheers for the Queen, Mr. and Mme. Laurier and Sir Oliver Mowat.

OTTAWA GENERAL NEWS.

Distant Members Now Arriving at the Capital—The First Question Hon. Mr. Davies Will Have on Hand.

H. W. Watts, a leading fish merchant of London, Eng., is at present visiting Canada investigating the possibilities of building up an export trade in frozen fish from the Atlantic provinces, chiefly in salmon and lobsters. Already a lucrative business is being done in the frozen fish trade from British Columbia, via Australia.

The first session of the eighth Parliament of Canada commences two weeks from to-day. Next week the members will be coming in from different parts of the country. Already a few are here from a distance, including Messrs. McInnes and Bostock, M. P.'s of British Columbia, and Senator McInnes from the same province. Senator Miller of Nova Scotia is rusticating at the Thousand Islands. The sergeant-at-arms of the House of Commons is here from Kingston, attending to some of the business that devolves upon him before Parliament opens. The chamber is in readiness and by the time that the session opens the entire extra staff that is required will be on hand. The statement that the new Premier has made leaves not the slightest doubt as to the program that he proposes to follow. The Government will present very little business to Parliament and will urge that this be put through with the greatest possible dispatch. They will lay down the policy that they propose following and the legislation that they will bring in at the next session.

The expectation is that the debate on the Address will not last long, and then Parliament will settle down to supply. Mr. Laurier thinks the session will not exceed 45 days.

A press cable states that half a million rounds of ammunition, purchased by the Dominion Government in England some months ago, is to be returned, owing to the defective character of the cartridges. The Deputy Minister of Militia, Col. Panet, says it is quite true that the cartridges are defective, and it was intended to lay the matter before the Imperial Government, from which the ammunition was purchased. None of the ammunition had been returned, and he did not know whether it would or not. Some of the packages were labelled 1894, and they were afterwards changed to 1896. The ammunition was bought as being of 1896 manufacture.

The Executive of the D.R.A. met to-night and decided the ammunition to be used at the forthcoming matches shall be the Royal Laboratory issue of 1885. This decision was come to upon report of Major Perley who made a thorough examination of the several qualities available for the shoot. Lt.-Col. Hodgins, G.G.F.G., was elected executive officer, and Dr. James Grant surgeon, Major Walsh will again be statistical officer.

Nominations in North Grey and Queen's and Sunbury have been fixed for Aug. 18. Polling will take place week later.

Sir Roderick Cameron of New York and three daughters were in the city this morning on their way to Vancouver. Sir Roderick visited several places in the city to-day in company with Sir James Grant and Col. Tilton. The party expect to stop off a week at Sir Roderick's ranch near Strathmore, in Alberta. Stops will also be made at Banff and other principal points on the route. They expect to be in the west for some time.

AND HE NEVER CAME BACK.

Mrs. Henry E. Abbey Seeks Separation From Her Husband for Alleged Cruelty, Abandonment and Intoxication.

New York, Aug. 5.—Mrs. Florence G. Abbey, wife of the theatrical manager, Henry E. Abbey, is seeking a separation from her husband on the grounds of cruelty, abandonment and intoxication.

A notice was filed in the Supreme Court Chambers to-day to the effect that an application for $100 a week alimony and $500 counsel fee would be made on Aug. 10, to be paid by Mr. Abbey, pending the determination of the action. Mrs. Abbey is well known in theatrical circles. She was formerly a Miss Gerard, and her marriage with the theatrical manager took place in Boston in November, 1892. Mr. Abbey was then a widower.

The affidavit sworn to by Mrs Abbey states that her husband abandoned her on April 25, 1896, leaving her then in destitute circumstances. Since then she says he has contributed nothing to her support. When he went away from her it was on the pretense of taking his daughter by his former wife to Long Branch for a few days, but he never returned.

JAKE ON THE PARIS.

The Big Canadian Oarsman Sets Sail for London.

He Has a New Ruddock Boat Which Pleases Him Greatly—Took With Him a Pair of Canadian Sculls—What the American Champion Thinks of Stanbury Racing, Baseball and Other Sports.

New York, Aug. 5.—Jake Gaudaur, the tall, muscular champion oarsman of America, started for England to-day in search of new laurels. He was a passenger on the steamer Paris, which sailed this morning. He was accompanied by J. W. Smith, his backer, and R. Dissette. The latter comes from Toronto, and is in a way financially interested in the outcome of the contest. Smith is a lumberman hailing from Gaudaur's native town, Orillia. Smith is wealthy, and he thinks that Jake can win him a lot of pounds.

The Paris will take the party to Southampton and thence they go to London. Quarters have been engaged for Gaudaur at the White Hart Inn, near Barnes' Bridge. Gaudaur has also secured a private boat house at Tom Green's, and will engage two English trainers when he reaches the other side.

Ruddock, the Harlem boat builder, has constructed an ideal shell for Gaudaur. She is cedar, 31½ feet in length and 11 inches wide. He has been at work on her since April. Gaudaur tried the craft on the Harlem River for the first time last evening, and he came back to the float with his face wreathed in smiles. She is a wonder, he said. She is as still as a log, and as light as a feather. This new shell Gaudaur is taking over with him on the Paris. Clasper, the English boat builder, has another cedar shell building for the Canuck, and it will be finished by the time he is ready to begin practice. The shell with which Gaudaur won his singles at Halifax he sold to Hackett, the Winnipeg wonder.

The race between the Canadian and the Antipodean will be for the championship of the world, and is to be decided on Sept. 7. The distance will be four miles from Putney to Mortlake, the same course that Cambridge and Oxford use in their annual aquatic battle. The stakes are £250 a side, and the winner will also take in trust The Sportsman's Cup, a magnificent trophy, that has changed hands at least 10 times in as many years. Stanbury intended to return home to Australia immediately after his race against Harding, which he won, but the defy from Gaudaur caused him to change his plans, and he engaged passage to leave England on Sept. 18. Gaudaur, when he challenged Stanbury, had made up his mind to compete in the professional races at Belleville next week, and when it came to a question of a date for the race with the Australian he suggested Sept. 14. Stanbury replied that unless the race be rowed Sept. 7 to consider the match off; he could not wait any later, and so the original date was accepted.

Gaudaur took with him a pair of sculls made in Canada, and said to be a new patent. J. S. S. Harris, a brother-in-law of Gaudaur, was among those who went down to the pier to bid his relative adieu, but changed his mind and sailed with the party.

"I realize that I have on my hands the hardest job of my experience," said Gaudaur. "I know what Stanbury can do, and I know he will take a lot of beating. I do not deny that I have got confidence in myself. I do not say that I will defeat the Australian, but I am going to try. I am now rowing faster than ever before. I will be better boated in this race than I have ever been before, and I am in better condition than ever, and there is virtue in both. I have always believed in the efficiency of the short stroke, and I intend to use it against Stanbury. If Stanbury intends to wear me out as he has so many men, I have only this to say: 'I will be close to him for the first three miles. After that it is another story, and September will take care of that.'"

A splendid floral offering was send aboard the Paris to the champion sculler. It came from Dr. W. S. McDowall, the Chicago sculler. With it came letters from Bubear, the English sculler, and Ned Hanlan of Toronto sent a greeting in the form of a telegram, which read:

"Toronto oarsmen wish you luck and a safe return."

SPRINGFIELD ALL THE WAY.

Pitcher Coughlin Fooled the Torontos and They Were Almost Shut Out.

The Torontos were unable to do anything with Coughlin's delivery yesterday, and barely escaped a whitewash. Only 18 men went to bat the first six innings. Delehanty got a base on balls in the first, and Wright singled in the fifth, but both went out trying to steal. Doubles by Freeman and O'Brien scored Toronto's only run. Dineen was taken out in the third on account of his wildness. Moran was an improvement. The visitors fielded sharply and perfectly. Score:

MR. FIELDING MAKES A SPEECH.

Wants to Promote Trade With All the World, But Particularly With Britain and the States.

Shelburne, N.S., Aug. 5.—After Hon. W. S. Fielding, Finance Minister in Premier Laurier's Cabinet, had been declared elected by acclamation this afternoon, he addressed a lage gathering of electors on the leading public questions. He said it had never been his practice in dealing with the electors to endeavor to please them by lavish promises. "Slow to promise, and sure to perform," was, he thought, a good motto for men in public life.

One question in particular had long occupied a foremost place in their minds, and that was the question of railway extension. While most of the counties of the province enjoyed the benefit of railway extension in some degree—some of these, perhaps only in a very small degree—it was a striking fact that the Counties of Shelburne and Queen's were totally without railway comunication. He was glad to be able to assure them that one railway enterprise, of great importance to one of the counties, was likely to be vigorously carried on. He was glad to be able to say that one result of the recent election had been to clear the railway atmosphere, so far as that particular enterprise was concerned. The Coast Railway Company, being now satisfied that they would have all their consideration, not only from the local Government, but from the Dominion Government as well, had announced their intention of vigorously prosecuting their work.

The Finance Minister went on to eulogize Mr. Laurier, thought the choice of a French-Canadian Premier was a great object lesson, full of promise for unity and harmony among the Canadian people, and he had found the French-Canadians moderate and reasonable.

The new Government desired to promote trade with the world at large, and particularly with Great Britain and the United States. We should, he said, be less anxious than we had been to shut out of our markets the wares of England, while England opens freely her ports to our products. A reciprocity treaty with the United States was desirable if it could be obtained on fair terms. He had long believed, and now believed that there should be better trade relations between the two countries.

On the tariff Mr. Fielding repeated the assurance of Mr. Laurier, that no changes would be made in the coming session, but the Government hoped to have their tariff policy in good shape for presentation to Parliament early next year. One of the evils of the protective system was that it encouraged manufacturers to rely too much on tariff assistance. It would be the duty of the Government to frame the tariff in the interests of the masses, and to promote a policy which would give a better chance of prosperity to the people engaged in developing the natural resources of the Dominion.

Mr. Fielding, in concluding, expressed his appreciation of the action of the Conservatives in allowing him to be re-elected without opposition.

One the wrong thing in this world is that a woman has to wait for a man to speak. Her happiness may depend upon him but she is not permitted to tell him so, as he would be to tell her. She must depend upon her ability to create and foster in him a favorable and ardent feeling. To do this, she must depend much upon her appearance. No man admires a sallow skin, dull and sunken and circled eyes, bloodless lips, sunken cheeks. No man wants to marry an invalid. Very few invalids are attractive to either sex. It isn't natural that they should be. Many a woman's heart's happiness has been wrecked because of a crop of pimples or because of a foul breath, or because of some other unpleasant symptom of an irregularity in the performance of her natural functions.

Health in a woman brings clear complexion, red lips, vivacity, sparkle of eyes and intellect. Eternal watchfulness is the price of health. The downward road to disease is fatally easy to travel. Little disorders, little irregularities, little drains, lead to the most serious consequences. Put a stop to them! Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do it without the embarrassment of examinations and "local treatment" so much dreaded by modest women. In nine cases in ten, there is absolutely no need of them. The "Favorite Prescription" has been prescribed by Dr. Pierce for over 30 years and has cured the very worst forms of female troubles.

A book of 1000 pages, profusely illustrated written by him containing much valuable information and letters from hundreds of grateful women, will be sent absolutely free on receipt of thirty-one cents, in one-penny stamps, to prepay postage and duty only, by WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

IS IT HONEST?

If it be true, as Mr. Tarte, Minister of Public Works, states, that he has dismissed one hundred and sixty men who were drawing pay from that department of the public service for doing nothing, then he has performed a public duty for which he is entitled to the approbation of the people. If, on the contrary, Mr. Tarte has not told the whole truth and judging from his past record and what the Globe said of him in connection with his evidence in the Murphy-Connolly case, any statement of his is to be taken with a grain of salt—what then?

The Mail and Empire's Ottawa correspondent has the following to say on the subject, which tends strongly to confirm the doubt above expressed as to Mr. Tarte's good faith:

Your correspondent obtained to-day, from a well-informed source, the following explanation of Mr. Tarte's dismissals from the Government workshops:—The reason that many mechanics in the workshops were idle when the new Minister took office is because the appropriations for the various departments have lapsed. Under ordinary conditions there are sufficient repairs and alterations connected with the various public works to require a considerable staff of men. In the absence of parliamentary authority these cannot be now proceeded with. It was the policy of the late Government to have all small repairs to buildings and furniture done by day labor, under the supervision of one of its officials. This was believed to be in the interest of economy. If is the intention to permanently dispense with the men who have been cut adrift, another policy must be pursued. It will be then necessary to have the work done by contract. This will place at the disposal of the department a new form of patronage. It will give it the opportunity of placing a great deal of work without the formality of tenders in the hands of political friends. Evidently the Minister understands this, and therefore dispenses of the services of the greater part of his mechanical staff.

It would seem as if Mr. Tarte's economy is not quite so great as he would fain make it appear.

WORTH REMEMBERING.

The trade returns for the last fiscal year are now complete, and are interesting, since they close the regime of the Conservative Government in Canada. In 1879 the exports were $71,491,255, and the imports $81,964,427. The aggregate trade of the last fiscal year was $228,728,312, as compared with the aggregate of 1879, totalling $153,455,682, showing a gain of $75,282,630 for the period in which the National Policy was in vogue.

The export trade for 1895-95 was better than any year since Confederation, except 1893, when the exports reached $118,504,352.

The Customs revenue also shows a betterment for the past year. The revenue was $20,172,778, as against $17,880,622 for the preceding year.

As the Montreal Commercial Gazette says, the Conservative party can, by even its bitterest critics, be given due applause for having left the record it has done upon trade statistics, through a total gain over $75,000,000 since the Conservatives were in power.

True, the increase to the public debt in these 18 years has been $32,000,000, but this is more than counterbalanced in the great increase in our National assets. brought to completion since 1868, and in the per capita wealth which is ours under the beneficent shield of protection to industries and enhanced wage earnings.

On the whole the record is one which the Conservative party and the country may well be satisfied with.

PROTESTING TOO MUCH.

It cannot be said that the Conservative party in Ontario doth protest too much.—Globe.

The same cannot be said of the Liberal party.

That party at one time very loudly protested that they were the party of purity, in whom all the honesty in the political world centred.

What becomes of that declaration in view of the many exposures of their corruption—electoral, as well as administrative?

ASSESSMENT SYSTEM.

(From the New York Insurance Journal.)

THE MUTUAL RESERVE LEADS THE VAN

The thirty-seventh annual report of the New York Insurance Department shows that the eighty-seven co-operative Associations or Societies combined doing business in this State during the year 1895 transacted the following business. We show what proportion of the total was done by the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association.

The eighty-eight Associations received payments for members amounting to $23,732,214, of which the Mutual Reserve received $5,253,191, the ratio being 22.16 per cent of the total payments by members.

The total income of the 88 Associations was $25,063,413, of which the Mutual Reserve received $5,575,282, the ratio being 22.24 per cent. of the total receipts.

The total paid for claims by the 87 Associations was $16,837,537; the amount paid by the Mutual Reserve was $4,005,076, the ratio being 24.25 per cent.

The general average is: About 22 per cent. of the whole business is done by the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association.

The old-line Company having the largest business had a premium income of 18.25 per cent. out of the total premium receipts of the 35 companies doing business in New York. Its share of the total income was 18.21 per cent; its proportion of claims paid was 16.5; its proportion of the total disbursements was 18.05 per cent.

The Mutual Reserve has, therefore, relatively a larger proportion of the business of the co-operative associations than the largest "old-line" company has of all the business of that class of companies.

Football Championship for 1895.

The knowing ones are speculating on the football possibilities of the season. Ottawa is not likely to retain the honors of the championship, as Queen's will put in a team sure to smash all records. It is often the case that very slight causes will lose a victory. It is stated that a painful corn made useless one of the best American players. It follows that no team can hope to win this year that neglects to supply its members with Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the only safe, sure, and painless remedy for corns.

A SHIFTED COMMENT

A Hot Weather Yarn With One of the Accompaniments.

"It's funny how changeable popular impressions are," remarked an elderly man with long hair and a broad-brimmed straw hat. "It's mighty hard, sometimes, for the public to get the straight of things. Seems like they've got to have somebody to abuse and it doesn't make such a heap of difference who it is."

"Have you been suffering from libelous publications?" inquired the hotel clerk.

"Me? No, indeed. I ain't suffered any. I got out of the deal all right, and I just let 'em talk."

"Was it a transaction in stocks?" inquired the clerk, who had nothing to do, and was a little lonely.

"No. Plain old real estate. You see I had a place on the Atlantic coast. It wasn't much for a farm, but I managed to pick up a living and pay off the mortgage. I had quite a stretch of territory and thought I was settled for the rest of my days. We done some truck gardening and what with fishing and odd little makeshifts one way and another we managed right comfortable."

"You must have been sorry to leave it."

"Not a bit of it. When a feller with a silk hat and light overcoat come along and offered me $10,000 for that piece of property I caught my breath and was scared 'most foolish for fear I couldn't let go of it quick enough to say 'yes.' I hung right onto him until all the papers was made out and I got my money."

"You ought to have kept a little of the property."

"That's what the neighbors said. I kind o' felt as if I'd been brash, too, when I seen what they wanted with it. They turned in and built one of the purtiest hotels I ever see. It was a beauty. And they laid out the grounds into parks and planted flower beds and put up bathing houses, and advertised in the newspapers, and the first thing we knew there was a summer resort going it, full blast."

"That put the laugh on you, didn't it?"

"It seemed to. The name of the man that bought the land was Judson Billings, and whenever he drove by in his carriage the neighbors would point to him and say, 'there goes the man that swindled old man Swinker'—which is me. But a month wore on, and along came a land breeze. You've heard these stories 'bout mosquitoes, have't you?"

"Yes. I've heard they get pretty large."

"'Taint their bigness that counts, although if one of 'em gets set on starting an artesian well on your neck, it's hard to make him change his mind. But the worst thing about 'em is their numbers. They seem to sorter live in belts. There's some parts of the coast where they don't get so bad, and there's others where, whenever a land breez springs up, they just naturally take possession and run things. This was one of them belts, which I would have felt in duty bound to tell Billings if he had asked me beforehand. The mosquitoes struck the place Sunday morning. Monday night I went down to the railroad station, which was only twenty minutes' drive. I met two strangers there, and I remarked to one of them that I hadn't seen no illumination in the hotel as I drove past. 'No,' says they, 'the guests all went home last night, except us, and we're on our way now.' The mosquitoes literally drove 'em out. While they were waiting for the train to start they sat with newspapers around their heads to keep the beasts off. That killed the place for a summer resort. They had been planning to build an annex because the guests began to register so fast, but after that I didn't have no trouble at all in buying the tract back for $4,000. That was more'n it was worth for farm land, but we had some pretty good buildings and modern improvements and things on it, and I had $6,000 clear profit, so I didn't feel like drivin' too hard a bargain. We've got one of the finest residences in that part of the state now, and I've been told that when I go out drivin' the neighbors point to me and say, "There goes the feller that swindled Jud Billings.'"—Detroit Free Press.

FARMING WORLD

CURING HAY.

A New Way That Is Practiced Successfully in New Brunswick.

The last issue of the Maine Farmer has some editorial notes from New Brunswick, among which the following appears:

"Meeting the young and enterprising farmer, Mr. E. H. Turnbull, in St. John, at his diary, where he is making a fine quality of butter, and building up a good trade for the same, conversation naturally drifted along agricultural lines. We were not a little interested in his manner of cutting and curing timothy hay, and his emphatic endorsement of the same, after several years' experience. 'You may be surprised,' said he, 'to learn that I have discarded the mower in cutting my English hay, and rely entirely on the reaper. My men follow after me, and standing the bundles on end, open slightly at the base, leaving the tops well secured and close. In this way the hay is made, not beinb disturbed until pitched on the cart for the barn. It cures rapidly, no raking necessary, there is no loss and the rich, bright green is maintained. In loading I pile in tiers as I would cordwood, and the same in the mow. Packing thus, there is a great saving of space. The cost of making is reduced fully one-half, while a quality is secured otherwise impossible. Two years ago I sent some samples to the English market and at once received an order for a thousand tons at an advanced price, the dealer declaring nothing like it for quality had ever been offered. It was, doubtless, due to the fact that the bright green had been retained. This year the growth is so short and yield so small, that I must fall back on the mowing machine, but with good length stocks I shall hereafter use the reaper altogether.' We found that others were following the same practice with as good results. The timothy this year may not allow the experiment being tried, but under ordinary growth it is well worth a test."

The Modern Way.

It is a lesson to most farmers to go into the crowded city and see how much use is made of small plots of land that they would consider not worth anything. We have seen grape vines trained up beside houses but a little distance from them, when all the land they could use was comprised in a few square feet. The trellises were made as high, or nearly as high, as the building, and most of the fruit was on the upper portions, out of reach of the passersby on the street. The finest grapes are thus grown, and they are earlier by several days than on trellises away from buildings. In the country, if the kitchen is on the south side of the house, a trellis with grape vine should be put four or five feet away, to protect the kitchen from sunshine.

Painting Farm Buildings.

It may be said that the most durable pigment that can be used in painting barn buildings is a good quality of red oxide of iron. It may be bought in a dry state and mixed carefully with pure raw linseed oil to a quite thin (like good cream) consistency. When about to apply it, add a tablespoonful of good liquid Japan drier to each quart of paint. Brush well into the wood ,and after drying a few days, give a second coat, which will be sufficient. Pine knots will not show through this paint. Paint is always better for standing for two or three days before applying. But do not add any drier until ready to use.

Producer and Consumer.

Getting close to the consumer, just as far as this is practicable, will do much to solve the question of profit in farming. The grower of the big staple crops cannot do this as well as the specialist, who may thus avoid some of the middleman's charges, which always come out of the producer. The market gardener, or the poultry raiser, in localities adjacent to large towns or cities, can often build up a profitable trade direct with families. But this requires forethought, good judgment, careful selection of attractive produce, integrity in dealing and persistent effort.

Thinning Out Garden Crops.

Few practices are more profitable than thinning out garden crops. If the knowledge of the proper sowing of seeds was more widely prevalent no thinning out would be needed, but so many persons sow the seeds fearing that numbers will fail to grow, and therefore many more seeds are used than is necessary. But sometimes all these superfluous seeds grow, in which case it is desirable that they should be thinned. Not only do the vegetable plants grow larger under these circumstances, but in many cases they come earlier into use.—Rural World.

Seedlings From Grafted Trees.

Seedlings from the fruit of grafted trees do not produce the grafted varitey. Usually they revert to other fruit, which it inferior to that of the tree from which the seed was taken, but occasionally a specimen may develop which will produce even better fruit than its parent. Grafting simply perpetuates the variety of the tree from which the graft is taken. There is hardly any more interesting and fascinating subject than that of raising seedlings, but the chances of raising anything better than already exists are infinitesimally small.—American Agriculturist.

Points for Farmers.

Be careful in selection when buying trees. One variety will bring profit, another will cause you loss. Foresight is better than hindsight.

Don't waste the straw. It may not be as nutritious as good hay, but it contains enough food and fertilizing properties to be well worth husbanding—Farmers' Voice.

Don't Kill the Moles.

An English correspondent, protesting against the destruction of moles, says in the fields they are of incalculable benefit to the agriculturist, for not only do they clear the ground of worms and other pests, but they drain it.

A Hypnotised Man Comes to His Senses While Buried in a Grave—He Was Again Buried.

Indianapolis, Aug. 5.—Prof. Boone, a well-known hypnotist, put J. J. Wyatt under the mysterious influence and announced that he would bury his subject and revive him next Friday after an interment of three days. Wyatt had previously consented to the arrangements, and the burial took place at Fairview Park last night at 10.30, a tube being passed down to where he lay. He was buried four feet under the ground and a guard placed at the grave. Shortly before noon to-day Wyatt came out from under the influence, and, realizing his situation, began screaming like a wild man. He was hurriedly dug up, and it was some time before he could be cooled down. He protested against a second interment, but Prof. Boone soon got him under control, and Wyatt was again put down in the earth. The experiment is attracting much attention.

The Seventy Million Market.

There are indications that an attempt will be made to revive the agitation carried on previous to 1891 by the Liberal party in conjunction with certain American politicans for a preferential trade arrangement between Canada and the United States. It is worth while, therefore, to consider the worth of the market of seventy millions for which we were asked to sacrifice our commercial independence, our fiscal autonomy and our future as a part of the British Empire. The important class in both countries is the agricultural, and we are in a position to compare the progress of the farmers in Canada with their brethren to the south.

According to the returns of the Bureau of Industries for Ontario the decline in the value of farms and farm buildings in this province between the years 1880 and 1890 was 1.83 per cent. According to the census of the United States the decline during these years was in Maine 3.7 per cent; in New Hampshire, 12.7 per cent; in Vermont, 26.5 per cent; in Massachusetts, 12.8 per cent; in Rhode Island, 15.5 per cent; in Connecticut, 21.5 per cent; in New York, 8.3 per cent; in New Jersey, 16.6 per cent; Pennsylvania, 5.5 per cent; in Ohio, 6.8 per cent.

The United States census of 1895, among its other features, shows a great falling off in the value of farm products. Upon this point the New York Journal of Commerce says:—"The statistics of farm animals published by the Department of Agriculture tell a melancholy story. The aggregate value of farm animals increased for many years until it reached a climax in 1884, and then declined somewhat, rising again till in 1893 it was a little higher than in 1884. At the present time the value is $755,580,597 less than it was in 1883."

This is a frightful falling off for three short years, but it is not all. The decline in value has extended to all farm products. The New York Produce Exchange Reporter supplies the following figures showing what a loss there has been between 1891 and 1895:—

Wheat, value......	$513,472,711	$237,938,638

Our Canadian farmers have their difficulties. The lowered prices of produce, produced by worldwide causes, have affected them; but on the whole they are comfortable and prosperous, as is shown by every test that can be applied. It should afford them a great deal of satisfaction to find that they suffer less than their fellows elsewhere. They may also learn from the above figures what an empty shadow the market of seventy millions is which Sir Richard Cartwright and others have been dangling before their eyes. Ottawa Citizen.

How to Save our Forests.

It is now generally admitted that much injury has been done to the settled portion of Ontario by the extent to which the forests have been destroyed. Had a greater proportion of the land less suited for agriculture been left wooded the evils of floods, droughts and other undesirable climatic changes would have been avoided. Attention has been drawn to the subject, from time to time by the Forestry Reports issued by the Provincial Government, the latest of which by Mr. Thomas Southworth, Clerk of Forestry for Ontario, is just received. It it brimful eof information on the latest aspects of the question and presents, in condensed form, the conclusions of the ablest scientific authorities as to the effects of over-clearing and the best means of remedying the evil. In his opinion, the great cause of the injury to our forests and to the agricultural interests so largely dependent on them, is not the amount of timber taken out by lumbermen, but the far more extensive ravages of fire which frequently follow lumbering operations. If these could be effectively checked by an extension of the fire-ranging system, and the regions manifestly unfit for agriculture set apart as timber reserves from which the mature timber alone should be culled under proper restriction, Mr. Southworth thinks that the period of the exhaustion of our timber supply so often predicted as in the near future, would be indefinitely postponed. The report deals among a variety of other matters with the question of replanting and gives a good deal of information for the benefit of farmers and others who desire to utilize their waste land in this way. The rise and progress of the new pulp-wood industry receives attention and some interesting and useful data are also given with regard to other new demands made by the growth of manufacturing industries with different kinds of wood. Everyone interested in the forestry question, either practically or theoretically, should procure a copy, by addressing a post card to Mr. Thomas Southworth, Bureau of Forestry, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Slave of Your Foot!

Such should be the Shoe—created to protect it from the rough roads of life. But many feet to-day are slaves to the shoe, because their owners will not consult their feet, when buying footwear. Here is a shoe would give a springy foot-step even to old age, because in the building of the sole no peg or stitch under the foot destroys its elasticity. It is a foot-conforming shoe, and every variety of feet has been considered in its construction. Goodyear welt process—Same as hand-made, at half the price. Stamped on the sole $3.00, $4.00, $5.00 per pair.

A TRAMP'S MISHAP.

He Loses an Arm in Jumping on to a Freight Car.

KINGSTON, Aug. 6.—Thomas Haslam, tinsmith, aged 23, beating his way from Brantford to Brockville, tried last night to jump on the bumpers of a freight leaving Napanee. He missed, fell and was dragged some distance. The train stopped and took him to the station, where the blood flow was staunched, after which the man was brought to the hospital here. His left arm had to be amputated at the shoulder.

THE MAYOR'S OUTING.

A Jolly Party Spend a Pleasant Afternoon and Evening Down the Bay.

As has been his custom in years past, Mayor Walmsley gave his annual outing to the City Council, Civic Officials and others yesterday afternoon. Shortly before two o'clock the Nellie Cuthbert left the harbor with the following party of gentlemen on board: Ex-Mayors Lingham, Wallbridge, Bogart and Diamond; ex-Ald. Taylor, Graham, Northrup, Landenberger, Haight, Petty, Jas. Gordon, J. Frost, Spafford, Robinson, Grills, Mikel, Foster and Green; ex-Chief of Police A. T. Petrie; Police Magistrate Flint, Treasurer Thompson, City Solicitor Masson, Chief of Police Newton, Street Surveyor Hulme, City Assessor McKay, Engineer of Fire Department Jas. McCurdy, P. Meagher, Caretaker of City Buildings, M. M. Thompson, W. P. Hudson, ex-M. P. P., S. A. Moore, Chairman of the Board of Education; Ald. Yeomans, Collins, Lennox, Panter, Hart, Wallace, Mackie, Chisholm, Campion, Doyle and Harris; Robbie Hart, of Fulton, N. Y.; representatives of the local papers, the Mayor and several members of the I.O.O.F. band. At Massassaga Park Mr. Wm. Richardson, of Chicago, and J. F. Tannahill, of Pasadena, Cal., were taken on board.

The sail to Picton was delightful and the pretty little town was reached shortly after five o'clock. His Worship had ordered a splendid supper at the Royal Hotel and every one did ample justice to it. The party strolled about town till seven o'clock, when they again embarked. The boat then steamed to Glenora, where a short stop was made and then proceeded to Glen Island. The boat was met at the wharf by a large number of the campers. Most of the party on board went on shore and visited the snug little camp of Mr. F. E. O'Flynn and family, by whom they were most heartily welcomed. Nearly an hour was spent at this delightful spot and then began the trip home. As the boat was leaving the wharf Mr. O'Flynn set off a lot of fire works, much to the delight of those on board and ashore.

On the return trip several toasts were proposed and responded to by gentlemen of the party and the speeches were interspersed by songs and selections by the band. Several suggestions were offered in the course of the speeches as to entertaining Lord and Lady Aberdeen during their approaching visit.

The city was reached shortly after midnight and before landing a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the Mayor for his hospitality. His Worship made a brief reply and "Auld Lang Syne" brought the very pleasant outing to a close.

The presence of the band added much to the enjoyment of the trip. Refreshments were also served on the boat.

THEY HAD A HARD TIME.

Harvo and Samuelson Were Capsized Out of Their Rowboat Fox While Crossing the Atlantic.

London, Aug. 5.—Full details are published of the adventurous voyage of Harvo and Samuelson in the rowboat Fox, which reached Scilly last Saturday. Harvo reports that they left New York at 5 p.m. June 6, and proceeded under oars with variable weather until June 16, when they sighted the North German Lloyd steamer Furst Bismarck, bound to New York, the master of which vessel offered to take them back again, but they declined. Owing to strong winds, they were driven northward to the Banks of Newfoundland, and on July 1 spoke the schooner Leader and requested the master to report them all well. July 7 they encountered a heavy gale from the west, and had great difficulty in keeping the boat free, the sea continually breaking on board, keeping one of them bailing. The gale continued with more or less force until 9 p.m. of July 10, when a heavy sea struck and capsized the Fox, throwing them into the water. After a few minutes they succeeded in righting her and getting on board and bailing her out. All their provisions, anchor, cooking utensils, signal lights and several other articles, which were not lashed to the boat, were lost. After the accident they suffered severely from the cold, having to remain in their wet clothing. Shortly afterward the weather moderated, and the winds continuing fair, they proceeded eastward. On July 15 they boarded the Norwegian barque Cito, from Quebec for Pembroke, and were supplied with water and provisions, and again, when about 400 miles west of Scilly, on July 24, they spoke the Norwegian barque Eugene, from Halifax for Swansea, and obtained from her a small supply of bread and water. Both men are in good health and look weatherbeaten by long exposure. They pulled two pairs of sculls during the day, and at night kept watch of three and a half hours' interval, one man pulling while the other man slept.

KILLED IN A BARROOM.

A Canal Man Knocked Down by a Buffalo Saloon Keeper and His Neck Broken.

Buffalo, Aug. 5.—Emory W. Newcomb, saloonkeeper, foot of Charles-street, is locked up charged with killing William Laphen, a canal "tripper." Laphen took a friend into the saloon and ordered drinks twice, when he told the barkeeper that he had no money, and would have to go to the boat before he could pay. Newcomb refused to let Laphen leave the bar without leaving his coat as security, and a fight took place. Laphen was knocked down, his head striking the iron footrail along the bottom of the bar. His neck was broken and he died instantly. Laphen was partially intoxicated.

LOVE LED TO DEATH.

An Italian Blacksmith in New York Shot His Wife and Himself.

New York, Aug. 5.—Frank Lomeo, an Italian blacksmith, full of whisky and jealousy, shot his wife three times yesterday and then put a bullet through his own head, dying instantly. The woman may recover. Their 9-year old child witnessed the tragedy. The woman and child came from Italy to join Lomeo six months ago, and the man's jealousy caused their life to be very unhappy. He had threatened many times to shoot the woman. Lomeo was a good workman and was employed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED.

No Blame Attached to the Railway Authorities for Hewitt's Death.

Hamilton, Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Accidentally killed; no blame attached to the railway authorities. This was in effect the verdict arrived at by the coroner's jury to-night, empanelled to enquire into the circumstances in connection with the death of Morrison Hewitt, a Grand Trunk Railway yardsman, who was crushed underneath a derailed car at the west end of the Stuart-street yard last Friday night.

Thomas Walsh, 80 John-street north, sustained a severe fracture to one of his thighs by falling from the roof of Judge Snider's residence at the corner of Queen and Jackson-streets this afternoon. He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance in a rather critical condition.

A DOUBLE DROWNING.

Fred Hawkins, Formerly of Port Hope, Swimming at Lindsay With a Boy on His Back, Goes Down.

Lindsay, Ont., Aug. 5.—Fred Hawkins, late of Port Hope, hostler at the Central House here, was drowned this evening while in bathing. It appears he had a small boy named Richards on his back, when suddenly they both disappeared. So far the bodies have not been recovered. A large party is out looking for them.

Cripple Charged With Housebreaking.

John Comisky, who is charged with breaking into the residence of Mrs. Lowe, a year ago and stealing some confectionery, was remanded till called upon, as he is a cripple requiring medical treatment, which he will receive at St. Michael's Hospital.

MR. PRENDERGAST IS THE MAN

Whom Premier Laurier Will Likely Take Into the Cabinet as Minister of the Interior.

Winnipeg, Aug. 5.—(Special.)—The story that Hon. J. E. Prendergast will be taken into the Cabinet from Manitoba, instead of Joseph Martin, seems to gain general credence among local politicians. In the matter of the school question, Mr. Prendergast, they point out, would be the most acceptable to Mr. Laurier, and his selection would avoid difficulties that Mr. Martin's appointment would entail.

MANITOBA CROPS REDUCED.

Saturday and Sunday Hailstorms Cut Down the Grain Crops This Year by Two Million Bushels.

Winnipeg, Aug. 5.—(Special.)—It is now stated in well posted quarters that the grain crop of Manitoba has been reduced by nearly two million bushels by Saturday and Sunday's hail and windstorm.

THOSE PROTESTS.

An Objection Which May Invalidate all of Them.

TORONTO, Aug. 6.

An objection was filed this morning at Osgoode Hall on behalf of Messrs. Clarke and Osler, the Conservative members for West Toronto, to the petition lodged last week against their election. The ground urged is that the petition, which was filed in the Chancery Division, should have been filed in the central office. All the Ontario protests were lodged in the Chancery Division, and if the objection in this case holds it applies equally to all.

Our Prices are Wrong.

We say decidedly that our prices on ladies' tan shoes are wrong. They never should be sold as low as we have this week marked them. The fact is we want to clear out every pair in the next three weeks and we will do it if low prices are what is needed.—HAINES & LOCKETT.

Fast Trotting at Columbus.

Columbus, Aug. 5.—The free-for-all trot was the card. Beuzetta, driven by Hickok, was the favorite, but Fantasy, driven by Geers, won the race in straight heats. The first heat in the 2.03½ was the fastest ever trotted on the Columbus track, and the fastest made anywhere in a free-for-all trot this season. Klamath, the favorite in the 2.09 trot, was only able to take the first heat, Kentucky Union winning the next three in easy style. In the first heat in the 2.25 pace, Ed. Geers, the veteran driver, had a narrow escape, being thrown and nearly trampled on. Summary:—

2.15 trot, purse $1,500—Newcastle, 3, 1, 1, 1; Fred B, 1, 2, 3, 6; Aline, 2, 4, 8, 5; Combine, 11, 10, 7, 2. Cellerima, Dollikens, Pange Chief, Wilmarch, Sunday Clay, Charming Chimes, Jimmie Hogue also started. Time—2.11½, 2.12¼, 2.15¼, 2.16¼.

Free-for-all trot, purse $2,000,—Fantasy, 1, 1, 1; Beuzetta 4, 2, 2; Onoqua, 2, 3, 4; Lord Clinton, 3, 4, 3. Time—2.03½, 2.08, 2.03¼.

2.09 trot, purse $1,500,—Kentucky Union, 2, 1 1, 1; Klamath, 1, 2, 4, 3; Bouncer, 3, 4, 2, 2; B B P., 4 3, 3, 4. Time—2.07½, 2.09, 2.08¼, 2.09¼.

BASEBALL.

If the managers of the Belleville Base Ball Club desire to destroy what regard for the game still lingers here, despite tribulation and long-suffering on the part of the "rooters," they will put on just one more such a farce as that which they presented to Trenton yesterday afternoon by a score of 15 to 7. The Trentons were beaten by the Maple Leafs a few weeks ago.

That

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become enervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that

Tired

Feeling by great force of will. But this is unsafe, as it pulls powerfully upon the nervous system, which will not long stand such strain. Too many people "work on their nerves," and the result is seen in unfortunate wrecks marked "nervous prostration," in every direction. That tired

Feel-

ing is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is, therefore, apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember that

THE OARSMEN ARE HERE.

They Take a Spin on the Bay—The English Crew Did Nice Work.

Quite a number of people gathered at the wharf last evening to meet the R. & O. steamer Spartan, on which were the professional oarsmen to take part in the regatta next week. The English crew, consisting of Bubear, Gibson, Haines and Barry, and Durnan and Hackett, of the Canadian-American crew, were on board, having come through from Montreal. The work of taking off the shells was full of interest for the onlookers, few of whom had seen the racing boats before. The oarsmen quartered at the Carman House.

Early this forenoon citizens began to gather at the wharf to watch the oarsmen prepare for their morning spin. Shortly after ten o'clock the English crew took their seats in their four-oared shell in the following order: Bubear, stroke; Gibson, Haines and Barry, bow. They went down the bay about two miles and a half and returned. The crew pull a very clean and powerful stroke. The positions have been changed since the Halifax race and it is believed the steering will be improved. Although the sun was very hot the men came in quite dry. Bubear is a very strong appearing man, although not as heavy as Hanlan. He afterwards took a turn at his single.

The Canadian-American crew were seated in the following order: Hackett, stroke; Harlan, Rogers, and Durnan, bow. Their stroke was not as clean as that of the Englishmen, but they steer well and get over the water at a good rate of speed. When the returned they were all bathed in perspiration.

The men are all delighted with our bay and think it will make a capital place for a course. The crews take their work at eleven o'clock in the morning and four in the afternoon.

Mr. Hanlan expects Hosmer, Plaisted and Ten Eyck here this week.

Mr. Hanlan received a letter to-day from Cleveland. They are getting up a regatta there at Euclid Beach and want him to bring the English crew and the Canadian-American. He replied they would come if the purses were satisfactory.

Pruning Shade Trees.

This paragraph from the annual report of the Clerk of Foresty on the subject of pruning, is respectfully submitted to the careful consideration of the gentlemen whose business it is to prune our city shade trees and whose pleasure it seems to be to mutilate them: "Much injury is inflicted upon street trees by ignorant and careless pruning. Limbs are often cut off leaving a projecting stub several inches in length, instead of being severed close to the trunk, with the result that the projection gradually rots away, and the decay is communicated to the heart of the tree. Want of close pruning is a frequent reason why many apparently fine trees when they should be in their prime are hollow and rapidly decaying. After a tree has been pruned, the raw wounds left by the saw or knife should be carefully painted over, as a precaution against disease which is but seldom adopted. This process preserves the vitality of the tree and prevents injurious fungus growths upon the scars."

The Weather.

Seldom has there been a more prolonged term of sultry weather than has been experienced during the past two weeks, with but little intermission. The amount of humidity in the air has been remarkable for this latitude. A thunder storm passed a few miles north of the city early last evening, and later in the night there was a grand display of celestial fireworks far to the north. The night was the sultriest of the season, the minimum being 72; at 8 a.m. 80; and at noon 90.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

An exceedingly pleasant time was spent by the Berean Club and their friends at Massassaga Park last evening. The party was composed of nineteen in all. The slight anxiety caused by the near approach of the thunderstorm early in the evening only made the rest of the time the more enjoyable. The members think the "Berean" is one of the best things about the Association. They speak in very appreciative terms of the kindness of the ladies in the part they took last evening.

Regatta Notes.

There will be a meeting of the General Committee at 8 o'clock this evening to arrange a lot of matters left till Mr. Hanlan arrived.

The fence along the bay shore which was blown down last evening will be repaired at once.

The committee will have full control of Rathbun's and Stewart's wharfs during the regatta.

Ask your physician, your druggist and your friends about Shiloh's Cure for Consumption. They will recommend it. Sold by Alex. Ray.

KING OR KNAVE?

would be strange—like finding in a dustheap an angel's wing-feather. It would be easier to think of her as in a better and happier world than that which contains Piggot's Town.

After what seemed an interminable levee on the doorstep, her host came into the parlor flushed and triumphant, followed by her hostess, looking cold and grim.

"You'll excuse your being left alone so long, Miss Furness," said the Doctor; "but a professional man can't call himself his own master, you know—not for an hour. Patients can never be got to observe consulting hours; but they will persist in coming in crowds. And as for their manners—well, it isn't for society that one exchanges the enervating allurements of Mayfair for the Spartan regimen of an incompletely fashionable suburb. But the noblest of professions, Miss Furness, has its privileges as well as its responsibilities. I don't pretend not to appreciate ortolans eaten in ducal company; but then one doesn't see such a variety, and my word on the Epidermis—as we call the outer skin—requires conditions for study under all sorts of unpleasant conditions which—well, ducal complexions are not sufficiently apt to afford—and so——"

"Miss Furness would like to see her room," said Mrs. Snell, sharply and icily. "I've tidied up the second floor back as best I can. And as you're going to that great dinner up in town, I've arranged to give Miss Furness her refection as soon as the things won't be in your way."

"What, Julia! do you suppose I don't know my manners better than that to leave a lady guest to feed all alone with you the first day she comes? No; we'll dine together; and, mind, I say dine. 'Refections' be—Hanged."

"Then I'm sure I don't know where to cut enough off that cold knuckle for the two of you," sighed Mrs. Snell. "It's true I might send out for chops again, now things have took another turn; only we shan't get the firing in in time; and we must have a new gridiron. And I thought you was to meet the College and read a pyper——"

"Why, where are your wits? Didn't I tell you I looked at my list, and found I'd made a mistake—that paper on Hypochondriasis is fixed for—well, not for to-day. Didn't I? Well, so it is, anyhow. One can't be expected to keep a million engagements in one's head, as if they were so many—so many—ideas. And if the whole College of Physicians was to go down on their bended knees to ask me to read them a hundred papers, do you think I'd throw over Miss Furness the first day she condescended to come!"

The Doctor's right hand made a wave towards his heart, as he bowed and beamed. Marion followed Mrs. Snell up to the narrow stairs, whose carpet grew more fragmentary until it disappeared, into a room with a crazy-looking bedstead in one corner, a rush-bottomed chair with a broken back, and an apology for a toilet-table in the window, furnished with a distorting mirror, a beerjug filled with water, half a cake of dry soap, and a cracked soup tureen. The window, without a blind, looked over a patch of marsh and a deserted brickfield to a black horizon of complicated railway lines.

"I hope you'll be able to make yourself comfortable," said Mrs. Snell. "But I'm afrydo you won't," she added, in a tone that very distinctly implied, "And I decidedly don't mean that you shall."

"I'm sure it will do very nicely, indeed," said Marion, though rather blankly. "Please don't give yourself any trouble; I don't want to give any at all."

So humbly and so sadly the poor girl answered that Mrs. Snell, despite the prejudice against personal beauty, turned sharply around with a less stony look in her eyes.

"I'm told how you just lost your mamma, Miss Furness. Is it true?"

If the sour and down-trodden woman had only been a little less awkward she would have opened her arms and made a friend for ever. She might have felt that Marion was thirsting for a touch or a word of sympathy—of a woman's sympathy with a woman, which, if not always the best, is still the most needful. But that is as much as to say that she might have spread he wings and flown over the moon.

"Yes," said Marion if she said any word at all.

"That's a pity. Though if it's true she had a bit of a bee, of course it's not so hard. And a precious big bee she must have had to marry Adam Furness—a regular bumble-bee."

"He is my father," said Marion.

"No offence, I'm sure. Though I wouldn't be touchy about that, if he were mine. He was a coal merchant, and brought us up to be lydies—though I dursay you wouldn't think it now. There. If you miss anything you've been accustomed to, take the hairbrush and hammer the floor; my room is just below."

Marion did miss a great many things; but she certainly had no notion of summoning back a hostess whose whole bearing seemed deliberately repulsive. Nor had she been much more favourably impressed by the vaunted manners of her host, which seemed to her a trifle overflowery. But then she had always been taught that genius is not to be judged by a common standard; while it is notorious that the most brilliant men invariably go out of their way to marry the most inappropriate wives they can find. Well—it did not matter. Nothing mattered; nothing could ever matter again. So she sat down on the edge of the creaking bedstead, and cried with all her heart and eyes.

At last, what sounded like a clattering of a pair of tongs upon a treatray warned her that she must return to the parlor. She had more than half a mind to plead a headache and go to bed; but her luggage had not yet arrived from the station, and she had many misgivings as to what Mrs. Snell's treatment of a headache might be. So she took the simpler alternative of going downstairs.

Mrs. Snell's threats of an insufficiency of cold mutton were unrealized to a startling degree. Only her husband's occasional stoppages for parcels at the London shops could account for a table spread with bewildering profusion. Either he or a wizard had covered the round table with all manner of cold things, displayed at a single view—pate de foie gras, smoked goose's breast, salame, oysters in their deep shells, Roquefort cheese, lobster, game pie, various cakes and chaos knows what besides, with champagne to wash it down. The plates were cracked, the knives chipped, the forks and spoons of German silver, and there was nothing but a pewter pot, a teacup and a chimney-piece ornament for the champagne. But one must have a mortal objection to nightmares to quarrel with the fare.

"And yet there's doctors, and big pots too," said Wyndham Snell, letting a cork fly, "who'll tell you that piecrust, and shellfish, and all those sort of things are unwholesome. That's all gammon, Miss Furness. I'm a specialist on hygiene; and I tell you that the more complex the creature the more complex and artificial ought to be its diet—and what creature is so complex as man, unless, indeed, it be woman? You see before you the Feast of True Reason; and I trust you may find it accompanied with some not inconsiderable amount of the Flow of Soul. I have a

WON QUEEN'S PRIZE.

Canadian Artillerymen are Doing Good Work.

A Victory at Shoeburyness Which Brings Honor to Canada—The Victors Warmly Cheered—Band Played "See the Conquering Hero" and the Sergeants Sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows"—Some Little Troubles in Regard to Regulations.

London, Aug. 5.—In the competition at Shoeburyness under the auspices of the National Artillery Association today, the Queen's prize for garrison artillery was won by the Canadian team, which also secured the third prize in the No. 2 garrison competition.

The Queen's prize is valued at 110 sovereigns.

The announcement of the victory of the Canadians at the officers' mess was greeted with prolonged cheering. The successful teams were heartily congratulated, and the band played See the Conquering Hero Comes. A concert was in progress at the sergeants' mess when the result of the competition was made known, and immediately the entire audience rose and sang For They Are Jolly Good Fellows, and at the conclusion of the song cheered the Canadians heartily.

In No. 3 artillery competition the Canadians got 15th place; in the Harcourt Challenge Cup contest they were seventh, with a score of 74 points, the highest score being 78.

Sergt. Instructor Bridgeford has notified the officials that the team of Canadians entered in the Imperial Cup competition will not take part in the contest, the reason being that it would be impossible to accomplish the conditions imposed under the drill practised in Canada.

The true reason for the action of Sergt. Instructor Bridgeford in retiring his team from the Repository Badges competition, "B" shift, was that the stores were not supplied according to the regulations. The same reason is assigned for withdrawing the entry of the Canadian team from the Imperial Cup competition, and unless the conditions are changed for the Governor-General's prize, the Canadian team will only compete as far as the regulation stores supplied will permit and then retire.

NO USE FOR YANKEE SILVER.

Montreal Bankers Say There is Plenty of the Canadian Article for All Purposes.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—(Special.)—The bankers of Montreal, so says Mr. Chipman of the clearing house, will soon take prompt action regarding American silver on this side of the line. It appears to be the intention of the banks to refuse not only the silver, but silver certificates as well. The theory that American silver coin is necessary for trade purposes is exploded by the fact that the vaults of the banks of Montreal are full of Canadian silver, and the Montreal bankers affirm that the annual sum of $100,000 coined by the Canadian Government is quite sufficient for purposes of trade and consequently there is no need of the American article. It is held that of the total amount of silver in circulation here, no less than twenty per cent. of it is American, and it now appears to be time to rid the Dominion of this foreign nuisance.

It is learned that Mr. Harry J. Cloran, who ran as the Patron candidate in Prescott, will be appointed secretary to the commission that is to enquire into the Manitoba school difficulty.

Mr. J. N. Greenshields, Q.C., entertained Hon. Messrs. Laurier, Tarte, Dobell and a number of local M.P.'s at lunch to-day at the St. James' Club.

Premier Laurier had an interview to-day with the Mayor relative to the proposed international exhibition of 1897. It is said Hon. Mr. Laurier favors the scheme.

Mr. Ed. Farrer is again in the city.

Messrs. Dupuis Freres, drygoods merchants, have assigned and a statement of their affairs is being prepared.

NATURE'S HANDIWORK.

Several Buildings in Western Ontario Fired by Lightning and Burned During the Electrical Storm.

Stratford, Ont., Aug. 5.—A very severe electrical storm hovered in this neighborhood between 11 p.m. Tuesday and 3 o'clock this morning, accompanied by heavy rain. Hogarth's flax mill in the city was struck by lightning and set fire to, but being discovered immediately was extinguished before much damage was done. Half a dozen or more barns with contents were destroyed, chiefly to the southwest of here, and several horses are reported killed. Reports from outside points indicate that the storm was confined to this vicinity.

Another Victim.

Cayuga, Ont., Aug. 5.—About 2 o'clock this morning the barn and outbuildings of Mr. Nelson Smith, in the township of North Cayuga, were struck by lightning and burned to the ground. The buildings, which contained most of the season's crop and some farm implements, were insured in the Grand River Mutual Fire Insurance Company for $600.

BOTH ESCAPED DEATH.

A Two-Year-Old Child Crawls Through a Car Window While Running at Full Speed—A Boy's Mishap.

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 5.—Children seem to have a penchant for walking off trains lately. Less than a week ago a 2-year-old baby crawled out of the window of a Michigan Central express running at a speed of 40 miles an hour near Kalamazoo, while its mother was asleep. It fell on a heap of sand and was found uninjured except for a few bruises.

Yesterday afternoon a boy 10 years old, traveling with his parents, walked out of the coach door in his sleep near Rives Junction. The train was going at full speed. Beyond a few bruises he was not hurt. His parents did not notice his absence until the train arrived here. The father is yardmaster at the West Detroit M. C. yards.

Shot Himself Without Reason.

New York, Aug. 5.—Michael Vix, aged 57, shot himself in Central Park yesterday because of rumors that the passementerie manufacturing firm of Seckel & Co., for whom Vix had worked 35 years, were going out of business. Vix was despondent at the prospect of being out of work, though it is said there was no ground for the rumor. The suicide had a comfortable home and lived happily with his family.

GREAT STRIKE OF ORE.

Eight Feet Solid Found at a Depth of Ninety Feet.

Rossland, B.C., via Spokane, Wash., Aug. 5—(Special.)—A great strike has just been made in the Virginia mine. Eight feet of solid ore has been struck at a depth of 90 feet, at the end of the 200 feet tunnel. Virginia lies at the foot of Monte Cristo Hill, and belongs to the War Eagle group. This strike gives additional faith to everything in Monte Cristo. It now seems to be almost certain that the option held on War Eagle at the price of one million dollars will be taken up. If so, the property will go to London.

Messrs. T. G. Blackstock and Edmund Wragge of Toronto have returned from the boundary, and George Stimson, also of Toronto, has returned from the Slocan country.

Rossland is full of strangers.

A large collection of ores is being made for the Canadian Industrial Exposition at Toronto. The exhibit is now to be seen in the office of The Rossland Miner, and will be shipped in a few days.

A HEALTHFUL DRINK
MADDEN'S CEREAL

A DELICIOUS and HEALTHFUL DRINK.

We seldom charge our ill feelings to the true cause. CHEMISTRY proves that Coffee contains poisonous alkaloids, as in morphine, whiskey and tobacco. A SOUND, HEALTHY PERSON may be able to stand these for a time, but "a small leak sinks a big ship," and sooner or later indigestion, headache, torpid liver, weak heart, "weary, tired feeling" proves that the nervous system has been poisoned.

EVERY DAY, and perhaps every meal, the poisonous alkaloids of Coffee and Tea add fuel to the fire. Can you wonder that some organic disease is firmly seated? Health cannot return until you remove the cause. MADDEN CEREAL has the appearance of coffee, in color like Java or Mocha, and when cream is added it changes to a rich brown. A product made from blood-producing grains, it builds up, renews and makes red blood. REGULAR PACKAGE MAKES 100 CUPS. Grocers sell it at 25 cents. TRIAL PACKAGE FOR 50 CUPS, BY MAIL, POSTPAID, 25 CENTS.

The Quick Cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, HOARSENESS, etc.

MRS. JOSEPH NORWICK, of 68 Sorauren Ave., Toronto, writes:

"Pyny-Pectoral has never failed to cure my children of croup after a few doses. It cured myself of a long-standing cough after several other remedies had failed. It has also proved an excellent cough cure for my family. I prefer it to any other medicine for coughs, croup or hoarseness."

H. O. BARBOUR, of Little Rocher, N.B., writes:

"As a cure for coughs Pyny-Pectoral is the best selling medicine I have; my customers will have no other."

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height,

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidney Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

Mount Emmons, 13,694 feet, is said to be the highest in Utah.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forget this.

If your children are troubled with worms, give them Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; safe, sure, and effectual. Try it, and mark the improvement in your child.

Mount Whitney is the highest peak in California—14,898 feet.

If you are tired taking the large old fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

Warren is located on the highest land in Illinois—1005 feet.

Those unhappy persons who suffer from nervousness and dyspepsia should use Carter's Little Nerve Pills, which are made expressly for sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic sufferers. Price 25 cents.

Mount Rich, 3506 feet high, is the tallest in South Carolina.

Ill-fitting boots and shoes cause corns. Holloway's Corn Cure is the best article to use. Get a bottle and cure your corns.

BROCKVILLE REGATTA.

Events Postponed Because of Rough Water.

Toronto Oarsmen Had It Pretty Much Their Own Way—Annual Meeting of the C.A.A.O.—Robert J. Does Great Pacing at Columbus—Results of Canadian Race Meetings Baseball Record.

Brockville, Aug. 6.—When the time arrived for the opening of the C.A.A.O. regatta this afternoon between three and four thousand people were on the shore and in the stands erected for the occasion and occupying every point of vantage along the course, while the river was literally covered with steamers, yachts and small craft of every description. The steam launch Albani was placed at the disposal of the officials and press representatives by Mr. W. H. Comstock, and followed the races from start to finish.

The course was a mile and a half straight away up stream, finishing in front of the town, and for the first race the water was fair, but a light wind blowing from the west against the contestants combined with the current to make the course a very hard one.

The breeze gradually freshened during the afternoon, and when the senior singles were called the referee decided to postpone the balance of the events until 7 p. m., as a choppy sea was running and good sport was an impossibility. When 7 o'clock arrived the water was but little better and the second heat in the senior singles and the final in the intermediate were further postponed until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning. The program as far as carried out afforded some splendid racing, and the different events resulted as follows:

Junior singles, occupying positions in order from the shore—S. Greenwood, Dons; R. Robinson, Torontos; W. Laing, Grand Trunks; W. Bright, Argonauts; H. W. Dixon, Argonauts. Betting—Dixon and Laing sold even favorites against the field.

All the scullers got away together a little after the gun, and Greenwood quickly took the lead, closely followed by Dixon, and Laing and Bright were about on even terms a couple of lengths back. When a mile had been covered the positions were unchanged, except that Bright had moved up to third place. From that point on Dixon and Greenwood spurted continually, both rowing 36 strokes to the minute and striving hard to shake each other off, while Bright kept rowing a steady stroke of 28, about two lengths away, and when the leaders were within a couple of hundred yards from the finish Bright put on a remarkable spurt, passed both easily, and amidst a wild chorus of whistles and shouts took the lead and won a beautiful race by three lengths, with Greenwood half a length in front of Dixon. Time 14.58.

Junior doubles—Argonauts, Heron and Hoskin; Dons, Hogarth and Kennedy. Betting—Argonauts opened favorites in the pools, but at the close the Dons had been stalled in their place.

The crews hit the water together, rowing 36 strokes to the minute. When about 300 yards had been covered, Hoskin of the Argonauts missed a stroke and the Dons took the lead, which they held all the way, and at the mile led by three lengths, from which point they gained rapidly and finished easy winners by about eight lengths in 11.41.

Senior single, first heat—F. H. Thompson, Argonauts; E. Marsh, Vespers; J. O'Connor, Dons. Betting—no pools were sold for this heat.

From a good start the scullers traveled pretty evenly for the first quarter, when O'Connor drew a little in front, and at the mile had a length over Marsh, who was about half a length in front of Thompson. There the latter spurted, and passed Marsh, but in doing so the nose of the latter's boat put a hole in that of Thompson, and both scullers stopped for a few strokes. When they resumed rowing O'Connor had increased his lead by a couple of lengths, and Marsh gradually overhauled Thompson, whose boat was shipping considerable water as a result of the foul. Marsh continued to row a terrific stroke and pressed O'Connor hard, but the latter won by a narrow length in 13.01.

The foul was admitted by the umpire to have been committed by Marsh, who was in Thompson's water, but before the actual result of the foul had been made known to the officials they decided to award Marsh second place, on the grounds that the foul had not affected the result. Marsh and O'Connor consequently go into the finals to-morrow.

Brockville, Ont., Aug. 6.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen was held to-night at the Revere House, the headquarters of nearly all the visiting oarsmen. The president, Col. Sweny, occupied the chair, and there were also present P. D. Crerar, vice-president; W. A. Littlejohn, secretary, and the following delegates: Messrs. Galt and Denison, Argonauts; Boyd, Dons; Meaney, Torontos; May and Jenkins, Grand Trunks of Montreal, and Buell and Loosemore, Brockville.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and adopted, the latter showing a balance of $923. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, P. D. Crerar, Hamilton; vice-president, George H. Gooderham, Dons; second vice-president, T. P. Galt, Argonauts; secretary, W. A. Littlejohn, Torontos; treasurer, James Hogg, Argonauts; committee, Messrs. Muntz (Argonauts), Osborne (Hamilton), Jenkins Montreal), Buell Brockville). Mr. Littlejohn accepted the arduous position of secretary once more on the understanding that he be relieved of the duties of the office next year.

Several other items of importance, including the idea of changing the association's future races from the straightaway to those with a turn, were discussed and left over to the incoming executive. Votes of thanks were tendered the retiring officers of the association and to the members of the Brockville Boat Club, Mayor Booth, and citizens of the town for the way in which the visitors had been received and taken care of.

CANADA WON AT ERIE.

Drew Away on the First Leg and Easily Outsailed the Fleet.

Erie, Pa., Aug. 6.—The annual regatta held by the Erie Yacht Association was an eminent success. The weather was perfect, and the attendance was a large one. The wind from the southwest blew a ten-knot an hour breeze. The gun was fired at 10.30 and ten seconds later the Canadian cup defender, the Canada, crossed the line, and 1 minute later the Scorpion of Erie crossed. The yachts got away to windward, with every inch of canvas out and with spinnakers set. The car ferry Shenango and other craft carried the spectators. The Canadians won every race, and Fife, Herreshoff and Watson were largely represented. A feature of the race was a dead heat between the Diana and Vivia, both Canadians.

In the 45-foot class Canada beat the Scorpion by 37 minutes. In the 40-foot class Diana won, beating the Vivia by a minute and 51 seconds.

In the 35-foot class, Eva, a Canadian boat, beat Miriam of Erie by 26 seconds. In the 30-foot class Hiawatha beat Myrna by 5 minutes and 4 seconds. The Hiawatha sailed away from her class, and with the time allowance was only beaten by the cup defender by 4 minutes.

The yachtsmen were banqueted this evening. The races to-morrow will be sailed in the bay course.

FAST MILES AT COLUMBUS.

Eleven Heats at an Average Speed of 2.07—Robert J.'s Race.

Columbus, Aug. 6.—The free-for-all pace for which Robert J., Frank Agan and Rubenstein were entered drew an immense crowd to the Columbus Driving Park this afternoon. The weather and track conditions were perfect. In all eleven heats were shown and the average speed was 2.07¼. Never before were eleven heats paced and trotted successively in such fast time.

Robert J. paced the fourth and deciding heat of the free-for-all in 2.02¾, which is the fastest fourth heat ever paced. The quarters of this heat were made as follows: 30½, 1.01½, 1.31, 2.02¾.

In the first heat of the 2.16 pace Bufort caught his feet in his hobbles as he was going for the start and fell backwards. The sulky was smashed and the driver, Hanson, narrowly escaped. The race was held while the horse was sent to the stable for a new sulky. Horse and driver returned and entered the heat, coming in a close second.

The four heats of the free-for-all pace were the fastest average four consecutive heats ever paced. The time made by Robert J. in the last heat of the free-for-all pace is within a quarter of a second of his fastest race record.

AWHEEL AT BUFFALO.

Canadian Riders Unplaced—Zeigler Won the Half Mile Open.

Buffalo, Aug. 6.—Buffalo's new bicycle ¼-mile track was opened officially to-day with the first racing of the three days' meet. The Canadians did not fare very well in to-day's events. John Davidson ran second in the third trial heat, but was unplaced in the finals. E. D. Stevens, Buffalo, won; Longuecker, Buffalo, 2. Time 2.12 1-5.

There were 16 entries for the half-mile open professional, including F. W. Young, who ran unplaced in the second heat. Bald won the first heat in 1.00 3-5, and Werick led Cooper to the tape in the second in 1.05 1-5. Bald, Zeigler, Newhouse, C. H. Callahan, Werick, Cooper, T. Butler and Buz were in the final. Bald's chain snapped and he went down under his wheel. All were called back, and after a delay of ten minutes a fresh start was made. Zeigler caught the pacemaker with Werick second. Bald was pocketed, and after a nerve-destroying finish Zeigler won, with Werick second and Butler third and Bald fourth, and Cooper was unplaced. Time 1.01.

The half-mile amateur handicap required four trial heats. Davidson at scratch in the fourth was beaten out by Horan (10 yards), Higgins (30 yards). In the final C. V. Horan won, Higgins 2, De Temple 3 (all are Buffalo men). Time 1.02 1-5.

The two-mile handicap, professional, was the last event of the day. F. W. Young had 200 yards, but ran unplaced. Ray Macdonald and Tom Butler were scratch men, but were not in it. C. H. Callahan (140 yards) won, L. A. Callahan (110 yards) 2, E. F. Leonert 3. Time 4.21 1-5.

FOUR YEARS FOR ABDUCTION.

A Windsor Woman Sent Down for Entrapping a 15-Year-Old Girl.

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Lillie Payne of Windsor, who was on trial for the abduction of 15-year-old Lillie Bissett, before Judge Horne this afternoon, was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary, and James Moore, the hunter of Malden Township, who assaulted Farmer Fearless because the latter informed on him for shooting game out of season, was given one year in the Central Prison.

SHOT HIS EYE OUT.

Pierre Lepine, a Reporter on the Staff of L'Electeur, Attempts to Take His Life at Quebec.

Quebec, August 6.—Pierre Lepine, on the staff of L'Electeur, was found outside of St. Valier tollgate on the Little River-road this afternoon in a secluded spot with three bullet holes in his head. The left eye was shot out and the nose was shattered. Lepine was conscious when found and asked to be driven to the Hotel Dieu Hospital or to the police station. An old rusty revolver of 32 calibre was found close by him. Lepine was conveyed to the Hotel Dieu, where two bullets were probed out, the third bullet having passed out through the left eye. At a late hour to-night he was in a fairly good condition, and his life is not in immediate danger. It is generally thought that Lepine shot himself in a moment of temporary insanity. He seems to have been ill for the past few days.

THE OTTAWA BUDGET.

Sir Mackenzie and Sir Charles Have a Chat.

Bender and His Friends are Seeking a Big Bonus—Ranchmen in the Northwest are Said to be Making Money This Year—Stock-feeding Experiments Come to a Conclusion at the Experimental Farm—How the Ottawa Bankers Feel About the Prospects—A Premature Story About Mr. Blake and the Privy Council.

Ottawa, Aug. 6.—(Special.)—Matters were quiet in ministerial circles to-day. There was no meeting of council and the members of the Government are consequently wading through the piles of correspondence which have accumulated during their absence from the city. There were, however, many politicians in town, including Major Sutherland, M.P.; Mr. Choquette, M. P.; and the batch of members who came in yesterday to attend the Laurier demonstration last night.

Sir Richard Cartwright arrived from Kingston this morning. The Minister of Trade and Commerce has been troubled with rheumatism a good deal recently.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell left for Toronto on the morning train. Last night he had a chat with Sir Charles Tupper in reference to the coming session. Sir Mackenzie expects to be in his place in the Upper House, but whether or not he will lead the Opposition there he has not determined, although Sir Charles Tupper is very anxious for him to assume that position. Sir Mackenzie's inclination is to quietly drop out of active politics, and consequently until such time as he has consulted his friends he will not announce his decision.

Dr. McEachran, Chief Veterinary Inspector of the Dominion, was in town to-day on departmental business. The Doctor has just returned from a trip to the Northwest. He says live stock in the Territories were never in better condition and returns this year will be quite up to the average. Shipments of cattle from the Northwest are being made to England this year with lucrative returns to the ranchmen.

A notice issued by the Postoffice Department states that some postmasters have fallen into the error of considering letter cards as postcards, and it is therefore necessary to repeat that a letter-card is in no sense a postcard, but a letter, and as such is subject to the ordinary letter postage. Any postmaster, therefore, at whose office a letter-card may be posted or who may receive such a card from another office, showing less prepayment than would be required in the case of a letter, should tax or collect, as the case may be, double the deficiency of postage, just as in the case of a short paid letter.

The department was lately under the necessity of removing from office and criminally prosecuting a postmaster for having opened a letter containing a remittance to a newspaper in order that he might deduct therefrom a commission to which he considered he was entitled. It is needless to say how serious a warning such a case conveys.

Experiments in stock feeding, which have been going on at the Experimental Farm for the past three years, have been brought to a conclusion for the present. The results will be published shortly in a report to be issued by the department. The experiments have demonstrated most conclusively that the best rations on which to feed either milch cows or steers for the market in the Robertson Ensilage, which is made of corn, sunflower seeds and beans.

Local bank managers to-day say that business is very satisfactory, settlements being a fair average. Several were enthusiastic as to the prospects, while others were more conservative, admitting that Canada has all the elements necessary to a successful trade, but were dubious as to the results of the silver question in the States.

The Bank of Ottawa reports a satisfactory business and states that most of the paper was met.

The Banque Nationale had a very successful day, the best in a long while. The collections were excellent. A large amount due a western bank, for which the Banque Nationale is agent, was all collected. The harvest promises to be an abundant yield and prospects for fall trade are very assuring.

At the Bank of Montreal the reporter was informed that the business was a fair average, nothing to boast of, but no complaint to make. On the whole, trade in the Ottawa Valley is good, and now that the election excitement has passed off a revival along all lines is anticipated.

The bank mangers without exception express hope that McKinley may lead the gold party to success in the coming presidential elections.

The Central News despatch in to-day's paper, stating that Edward Blake, at the request of Mr. Laurier, had been added to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, is incorrect. No request of such a character has gone to England.

Mr. E. P. Bender of dead meat scheme renown, was here to-day in company with Mr. Choquette, M.P., and Mr. A. T. Porter of London, England, with a view to asking Government assistance to establish abattoirs and storage in connection with the proposed opening up of the trade in dead meat with England. They are also seeking a subsidy of $125,000 a year of 10 years, and the establishment of a fast Atlantic freight service, and not a fast passenger service. The promotors point out that meat now sent from Canada to the British markets nets our farmers three cents per pound, and is sold in London, England, at 10 cents to 16 cents. By the system of sending the animals to Quebec, getting them killed there, and placed in cold storage until forwarded by steamship, Mr. Porter does not see why the price of the meat to the farmers should not be raised to eight cents or even higher. Under the new system the animals would be slaughtered in Canada instead of upon arriving in England.

Martin O'Hara of Fitzroy, who shot his son on Saturday last, will be brought to the city to-morrow, a prisoner. O'Hara, in the opinion of Dr. Armstrong, the physician who is attending him, is now capable of being removed. High Constable Falls went to Galetta to-night to put O'Hara under arrest.

It was stated some time ago that an investigation was to be made into certain complaints of the Indians on the Manitoulin Islands as to their being hampered by fishing regulations. As the Indian Department is not co-operating in the matter, as was anticipated, the Petrel, which had been ordered up from Lake Erie to enter upon the enquiry, has received orders to return to patrol Erie waters.

Anglers in the Eastern Townships are petitioning the Department of Marine and Fisheries to have the close season for pickerel and maskinonge extended to May 23, as they claim that the lakes and rivers are being fished out. At present the close season lasts for pickerel to May 15 and for maskinonge to July 1.

The Trades and Labor Council passed a resolution protesting against the removal to abolish the Government Printing Bureau, and suggesting an enquiry into the comparative cost of printing at present with the cost under the contract system. Copies of the resolution will be sent to all labor organizations in Canada, soliciting co-operation.

J. Reville Doherty of Sherbrooke has been appointed private secretary to Hon. A. S. Fisher, Minister of Agriculture.

Sir Charles Tupper was served with a notice of his election being protested this morning.

Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, Solicitor-General, took charge of his department to-day.

The Marine Department was notified to-day that the outer light at Owen Sound was struck by lightning last night.

Mr. Elliott, Mayor of Kingston, was in the city to-day, looking up certain matters of Government patronage.

Hon. William Paterson left for Owen Sound this morning. He will accept the nomination in North Grey.

The Marine Department was notified to-day of the wreck of the barque William Greape of Bideford, Devonshire, England, on Bryan Island, Gulf of St. Lawrence. It is reported the crew are in need of assistance, and the department has telegraphed the captain of the Government steamer Aberdeen to bring the men to the mainland.

Charles Hayner, the lobster expert of Halifax, was in the city to-day. He has just returned from British Columbia. While here he conveyed a carload of live lobsters and placed them in suitable breeding grounds on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. C. Schreiber, Chief Engineer of Railways and Canals, returned from Cornwall to-day, whither he had been inspecing canal works.

Application is made for incorporation by letters patent of the Capital Register Co., for the purpose of manufacturing in this city cash registers, computing machines, etc. The proposed incorporators are Ald. Morris, David McLaren, R. G Code, J Sharp and J. A. Banfield of Ottawa.

All oil selling firms in Ontario in which Samuel Rogers & Co are interested, have been consolidated under the designation of the Queen City Oil Co. The Rogers and Morris Co. of this city is absorbed in the new company.

ABBOTT'S BODY RECOVERED.

Young Milwaukee Lawyer Was Fond of Mountain Climbing and Went to the Northwest for That Purpose.

Winnipeg, Aug. 6.—(Special.)—The body of Philip Abbott, solicitor of the Wisconsin Central Railway, killed while attempting to climb to the summit of Mount Le Froy, near Laggan, N.W.T., was recovered to-day, after much difficulty. There will be an inquest at Banff on Friday, and the body will be sent to Boston, Mass., Saturday.

He Was Fond of Mountain Climbing.

Milwaukee, Aug. 6.—Mr. Abbott left Milwaukee ten days ago for an outing in the vicinity of Laggan, a mountain resort on the Canadian Pacific Railway, just west of Banff Hot Springs, in the Alberta District. With him were Professor C. C. Fay of Tufts College, Cambridge; C. S. Thompson, of Chicago, and another friend, whose name is not known here.

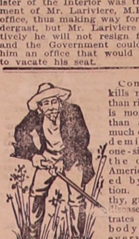
The object of the excursionists was to climb the mountains about Banff. They expected to make excursions from that point at intervals for a few weeks, and it was upon one of these perilous journeys that Mr. Abbott met his death. He was passionately fond of climbing and for that reason selected the mountains of Alberta, which, in point of rugged beauty, much resemble the Alps, as the place in which to spend his vacation.

HAS MR. GREENWAY GIVEN IN?

The Supposition Is That He Will Allow a Compromise of the School Question—What Mr. Lariviere Says.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 6.—(Special.)—Mr. Lariviere, M.P., before leaving for Ottawa, gave an interview on the school question. Mr. Lariviere confidently expects a settlement. He says the reasonable supposition was that Mr. Greenway had consented to give in and allow a compromise.

Part of the proposition for the selection of Hon. Mr. Prendergast as Minister of the Interior was the appointment of Mr. Lariviere, M.P., to some office, thus making way for Mr. Prendergast, but Mr. Lariviere says positively he will not resign for anyone, and the Government could not give him an office that would tempt him to vacate his seat.



Consumption kills more people than rifle balls. It is more deadly than any of the much dreaded epidemics. Fully one-sixth of all the deaths in America are caused by consumption. It is a stealthy, gradual, slow disease. It penetrates the whole body. It is in every drop of blood. It seems to work only at the lungs, but the terrible drain and waste go on all over the body. The only way to get rid of consumption is to work on the blood, make it pure, rich and wholesome, build up the wasting tissues, put the body into condition for a fight with the dread disease. The cure of consumption is a fight—a fight between sound tissues and the encroaching germs of disease.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery fights on the right side. It drives the germs back, forces them out of the body. It w'll cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption if it is taken during the early stages of the disease. Its first action is to put the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys into good working order. That makes digestion good and assimilation quick and thorough. It makes sound healthy flesh. That is half the battle.

When Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., published the first edition of his work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great labor expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now distributing, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this great work, but thirty-one cents in one-penny stamps to prepay postage and duty only being required. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. It contains over 1000 pages and more than 300 illustrations. The Free Edition is precisely same as those sold at $1.50 except only that the books are bound in strong paper covers instead of cloth. Send stamps now before all are given away. They are going off rapidly.

SUMMER AND HEALTH.

The belief is common, sensibly comments a contemporary, that summer is essentially an unhealthy season of the year. Dwellers in the city and country alike look upon its approach with a certain apprehension of the evils which the hot days may develop. They have come to regard August especially as a sickly month, dangerous to infants and children, and even to strong men and women.

It is difficult to account for these notions. All things considered, summer should be the healthiest season of the entire year. In the first place, it is the open air season. Not only are persons out of doors more than in the winter, but they breathe fresher air indoors. Their clothing is lighter, and more hygienic than cold weather clothing. Their diet is more varied, and should be more healthful, because it is more delicate than the heavy foods of winter. Yet with all these sanitary advantages the majority of men and women do not improve in health during the warm weather. They catch cold, or their digestion is impaired, or they feel "run down" from the heat. An investigation of these cases of indisposition would show that in the main they resulted from an abuse of the privileges of summer.

Summer itself is a health-giving season, but there is a general misuse of its benefits. This misuse is relative to clothing, exercise and diet. In this climate there are almost as many sudden changes of weather during June, July and August as during the winter months, yet comparatively few people provide for these changes in their summer wardrobe. Because it is summer they will shiver in their garments during a "spell" of damp or cool weather, then ascribe the inevitable cold to the capriciousness of the season. The same unreasonableness is manifest in taking exercise. Young men and women especially insist on playing tennis or golf, or riding twenty-five miles on a wheel when the thermometer stands at 90. Then they attribute their subsequent lassitude to the debilitating heat.

It is in the matter of diet, however, that most crimes against health are committed during the summer season. Because "fruit is wholesome" persons eat too much of it. They imbibe freely of ice water when they are over-heated. They eat heavy meals before going out in the hot sun. If they are ill as a result of their imprudence they ascribe it to the heat. Many of the summer illnesses of children are owing entirely to improper diet, and to eating at wrong times and places.

An exercise of common sense is all that is necessary to tide an individual over the "dangerous season" of summer. An observance of reasonable hot weather restrictions should result in an increase of health and strength.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

The Globe is printing out of date verse—on July. Why, July wasn't a circumstance to August for sultry weather.

The Globe has an article on "The Fast Atlantic Service," the conclusion arrived at in which is about as nebulous as that of the Imperial Privy Council as to Provincial jurisdiction as to prohibition of the manufacture of liquors. And our contemporary adds, "The Canadian Government will doubtless give due weight to these considerations." Doubtless!

Mr. Tarte made too quick a start. It will be the old proverb, "Great cry, little wool," once more exemplified in his case.

We made England come to our terms twice and this country is able to do it again. —Oswego Palladium.

The Pall's. fire-eater is mistaken. The United States had to ask permission from England for their representatives to cross the Atlantic for the purpose of negotiating the treaty of peace at Ghent in 1814.

Football Championship for 1895.

The knowing ones are speculating on the football possibilities of the season. Ottawa is not likely to retain the honors of the championship, as Queen's will put in a team sure to smash all records. It is often the case that very slight causes will lose a victory. It is stated that a painful corn made useless one of the best American players. It follows that no team can hope to win this year that neglects to supply its members with Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the only safe, sure, and painless remedy for corns.

Is Cycling Bad for Women?

In the Forum for January, Dr. Henry J. Garrigues, professor of gynecology and obstetrics, in the New York School of Clinical Medicine, writes on "Woman and the Bicycle." He strongly commends the upright posture as against the curved or bent, as hygienically and medically the best. He finds cycling more wholesome than riding on horseback, and freer from accidents, than riding, driving, swimming, sailing and skating.

THE QUESTION OF DRESS.

As a teacher of health he puts the question:

How should women be dressed for bicycling? The usual long skirt is objectionable in every respect. It impedes the free movement of the legs, pumps air up against the abdomen, and is in great danger of being caught by projecting parts of their own machines, or those of other riders, as well as by other obstructions found on the road. To avoid these inconveniences, many women have shortened their skirts, and some have done away with them altogether, wearing so-called "bloomers," a wide, bifurcated garment extending from the waist to the knee. The garment combined with a waist and leggings forms a neat, practical dress for a woman rider.

If men object to this as immodest, let them "reform their own trousers, which are not much more decent than becoming," and find fault with women's bathing costume, which is more open to criticism.

POTENT REMEDY, BUT NO PANACEA.

Bicycling by its effect on respiration and digestion is a potent remedy for anaemia, nervous prostration, headache, insomnia, neuralgia, asthma, incipient phthisis, dyspepsia, constipation and haemorrhoids. It is also "apt to overcome the impulsiveness and whimsicality" of women.

The writer sees that cycling is no passing fashion or mere pastime, but has come to stay—a permanent addition to the industrial and hygienic appliances of modern times. But of itself it is not a solely sufficient form of athletics.

Bicycling gives more general development than most other sports, but on account of the preponderating use of the lower extremities, and the drawbacks of the stooping position so commonly affected by bicyclists, it ought to be combined with other exercises; as rowing, which develops the muscles of the back, and the arms; and the use of dumb-bells, which develops all muscles of the body and more especially those of the arms and trunk.

Irreconcilable Positions.

(The Week.)

As to our foreign relations Mr. Laurier speaks follows: 1. With England "Another plank of our platform to which I draw your attention is our relation with Old England. Our party has always been represented on the other side as a party of rebels, who would try to break all colonial ties. I am of the French race, like yourselves, but I do not hesitate to declare that I am a loyal subject of Her Majesty. This is a free country, and it is because we are a free people that we are loyal subjects. Fifty years ago our fathers went to arms to fight and die for their liberty and their rights. If I had been living then I, perhaps, would have done the same, but I am not living in 1837. We are now in 1896, and if we have the rights of all British subjects we also have the same responsibilities. But from a commercial standpoint out relations might be better. The English market is open to all of the nations of the world on equal footing. It might be possible to obtain from England a preferential treaty which would be exclusively for our products." 2. With the United States—"As to relations with the United States, I am of the opinion that they have not been as they should have been. For nearly thirty years the Governments have not treated each other very cordially. We propose to try and establish amicable relations with them like friends, and not like enemies. There are some people who are of the opinion that such a step would not be loyal to England. I will not admit that one nation's friendship with another is a sign of hostility towards a third nation. If we succeed in establishing friendly relations with the United States we will revive the reciprocity treaty of 1853-56, the era of good times for the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario." Here we perceive an attempt to hunt with the hounds and run with the hare. No man can serve two masters. English preferential trade and American reciprocity can never agree. If Mr. Laurier can reconcile these two antagonistic principles of commerce he will do wonders. We hope in his attempt he will not approach our neighbors across the line hat in hand. They have only a quid pro quo to offer us, equivalent to what Canada can offer them—not one more valuable to Canada than the offer Canada can make to them. Canadian diplomatists have hitherto discovered that American negotiators commence by urging annexation as the price of their favors. Mr. Laurier will not find them changed in that tone. It is the basis of all their proposals. The question is not one of loyalty to England. It is one of the separate existence of Canada as a nation. Mr. Laurier will find it very hard to preserve Canadian autonomy and while doing so to secure American reciprocity in trade.

Think It Over.

Shoots with One Arm.

For twenty-eight years, Thomas Allen, of Monterey, familiarly known as "Allen the Hunter," has been making a living for seven people with his left arm and a gun. One day, when he was only 15 years of age, he was out hunting ducks on the Monterey lagoon. In some manner his gun caught and was discharged, wounding him in his right arm near the shoulder.

He lay in the tules with his arm bleeding profusely until he was picked up by some men who chanced to pass and taken to his home. Dr. Canfield, of Monterey, and Dr. Callahan, of San Francisco, both noted physicians in the early days of California, held a consultation. Owing to the great loss of blood they pronounced the boy beyond the reach of medical aid. His mother, however, called in an old Indian herb doctor, and before the year was out the boy was as well as ever, but minus his right arm.

Young Allen's father was a famous marksman, and the boy seemed to inherit a strong taste for hunting. When he was only 4 years old he would beg to go with his father to shoot the "little cats," as he called the cotton-tail rabbits which infested Monterey in those days. When 5 years old his career as a hunter began, for his father took him out in a field adjoining their home, placed the gun over a chair, and let him shoot at one of his little cats. He killed it, and from that moment he has always had a mania for hunting all sorts of game.

When Mr. Allen was 15, and the accident occurred that resulted in the loss of his right arm he thought that his hunting days were over. As his father died shortly before, part of the family devolved upon him. At first he tried the gaming table, as it seemed his only resource.

"In those days," said he, speaking of the matter recently, "$20 gold pieces were more common than nickels are to-day. But I didn't like the ups and downs of a gambler's life and the associations, so I gave it up and determined to shoot with my left arm."

HOO-DOOED BY THE UNION.

A London Hod Carrier, Ordered to Quit Work, Goes Home and Tries to Die by Cutting His Throat.

London, Ont., Aug. 6.—James Hayes, a hod-carrier, living on Alma-street, just off the Hamilton-road, east of Adelaide-street, attempted to commit suicide this morning. Hayes works for Gould & Stratfold, plasterers. This morning he went to work as usual, but he was notified by his union that, as he had got seriously behind in his dues, he would have to either pay up or quit work. He did quit work and went home to his wife, despondent and feeling that everything was going wrong with him. He announced his intention of going out of town to find work, and spoke generally in the gloomiest possible strain. Mrs. Hayes objected to his leaving, but he persisted and the two had some words. Then Hayes went into the front room. Hearing a noise his wife followed, and to her horror discovered him lying there with his throat cut from ear to ear. Doctors were called at once, and they found his throat so badly cut that a false tube had to be inserted in his throat. Everything that medical science could do or experience suggested was done for him, but his injuries were so serious and the loss of blood had been so heavy that he will likely die. Hayes came here from St. Thomas three years ago. He has two little children.

THEY'RE AFTER THE MAJOR.

New Brunswick Court I. O. F. Passes a Resolution Condemning the Supreme Secretary for Dabbling in Politics.

Moncton, N.B., Aug. 6.—The High Court of Independent Foresters of New Brunswick, to-day unanimously adopted the following report from the Committee on State of the Order: "Your committee desires to express its disapproval of any salaried officer of the Supreme Executive, whilst retaining such office and drawing such salary, running as a parliamentary candidate, believing that such a course, if persisted in, will introduce into the order, party political dissensions, from which hitherto it has happily been free.

"Therefore, this committee recommends that the high standing committee be instructed to communicate to the Supreme Executive its strong disapproval of the Supreme Secretary's action in the second time seeking parliamentary honors, and especially so as the special reason given for his candidature at the bye-election no longed existed."

TOM WATSON HAS A SCHEME.

The Populist Candidate for Vice-President Wants a Straight Electoral Ticket Unless Sewall Drops.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 6.—The Georgia Populist convention was called to order to-day by Thomas E. Watson, chairman of the State Executive Committee, and as he mounted the platform he was given a great ovation by the delegates and spectators. The convention assembled in the hall of the House of Representatives, and was largely attended. Chairman Watson made no extended remarks. The convention expended an hour in temporary organization. It can be announced positively that there will be no fusion of the electoral ticket with the Democrats, unless based upon the withdrawal of Sewall for Vice-President. The Populists will nominate a straight electoral ticket, and will authorize the State Executive Committee to negotiate for a fusion electoral ticket. Providing Sewall is withdrawn Bryan and Watson will be endorsed. It is Watson's policy to run a straight electoral ticket in every state, and to insist upon a fight at every point, unless Sewall is withdrawn.

THE FAMILY AWAY,

Yet the Residence of Henry Jameson at St. Catharines and Its Contents Were Totally Destroyed by Fire.

St. Catharines, Ont., Aug. 6.—About 2.30 o'clock this morning fire was discovered at the residence of Mr. Henry James, in Haynes-avenue. The fire department responded with alacrity, but the flames had made good headway by the time they arrived. The blaze quickly enveloped the house, and though the fire appeared to have started in the rear part of the house it spread quickly to the front. The family of Mr. James are away at the present time in Goderich, and the house was locked up. Only a few articles of furniture were taken out of the parlor. The house was owned by Mr. Rogers of Homer. It was almost completely destroyed, and the contents are a total loss. No explanation is given as to the cause of the fire.

THE PRIZE IN GOOD HANDS.

London Daily News Congratulates the Canadian Team at Shoeburyness.

London, Aug. 6.—The Daily News to-morrow will publish an article congratulating the Canadian artillery team upon winning the Queen's Prize in the Shoeburyness competition. The article recalls with delight the message of loyalty sent to the British Government by Canada early in the present year, and concludes by declaring that the Queen's Prize is in good hands

Letters Come.

Letters come day by day telling us that this person has been cured of dyspepsia, that person of Bad Blood, and another of Headache, still another of Biliousness, and yet others of various complaints of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels or Blood, all through the intelligent use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

It is the voice of the people recognizing the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters cures all diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Bowels and Blood.

Mr. T. G. Ludlow, 334 Colborne Street, Brantford, Ont., says: During seven years prior to 1886, my wife was sick all the time with violent headaches. Her head was so hot that it felt like burning up. She was weak, run down, and so feeble that she could hardly do anything, and so nervous that the least noise startled her. Night or day she could not rest and life was a misery to her. I tried all kinds of medicines and treatment for her but she steadily grew worse until I bought six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters from C. Stork & Son, of Brampton, Ont., for which I paid $5.00, and it was the best investment I ever made in my life. Mrs. Ludlow took four out of the six bottles—there was no need of the other two, for those four bottles made her a strong, healthy woman, and removed every ailment from which she had suffered, and she enjoyed the most vigorous health. That five dollars saved me lots of money in medicine and attendance thereafter, and better than that it made home a comfort to me.

Harvest Excursions.

In order to give everyone an opportunity to see the grand crops in the Western States and enable the intending settler to secure a home, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R'y has arranged to run a series of harvest excursions to South and North Dakota, and to other States in the West, Northwest and Southwest on the following dates: July 21, August 4 and 18, September 1, 15 and 29, October 6 and 20, at the low rate of two dollars more than ONE FARE for the round trip. Tickets will be good for return on any Tuesday or Friday within twenty-one days from date of sale. For rates, time of trains and further details apply to any coupon ticket agent in the East or South, or address A. J. Taylor, Canadian Passenger Agent, 2 King Street, E. Toronto, Ont.

A HEALTHFUL DRINK
MADDENS CEREAL

A DELICIOUS and HEALTHFUL DRINK.

We seldom charge our ill feelings to the true cause. CHEMISTRY proves that Coffee contains poisonous alkaloids, as in morphine, whiskey and tobacco. A SOUND, HEALTHY PERSON may be able to stand these for a time, but "a small leak sinks a big ship," and sooner or later indigestion, headache, torpid liver, weak heart, "weary, tired feeling" proves that the nervous system has been poisoned.

EVERY DAY, and perhaps every meal, the poisonous alkaloids of Coffee and Tea add fuel to the fire. Can you wonder that some organic disease is firmly seated? Health cannot return until you remove the cause. MADDEN CEREAL has the appearance of coffee, in color like Java or Mocha, and when cream is added it changes to a rich brown. A product made from blood-producing grains, it builds up, renews and makes red blood. REGULAR PACKAGE MAKES 100 CUPS. Grocers sell it at 25 cents. TRIAL PACKAGE FOR 50 CUPS, BY MAIL, POSTPAID, 25 CENTS.

CITY AND DISTRICT

W. Simmons has found his lost horse near Melrose.

Owners of sailing skiffs are fitting out for next week's races.

There was an electric storm far to the southward last night.

The Barnhart cow case was further enlarged this morning till to-morrow.

The Board of Education will hold a regular meeting on Tuesday evening next.

The first log of the second drive passed the lower bridge yesterday afternoon.

A number of dog cases were before the Magistrate this morning. All the parties registered but two.

Albert Thrasher has found no trace of the horse stolen from his field at Thrasher's Corners some ten days ago.

A large number of Napaneeans came up on the Ella Ross' excursion this morning and most of them stopped off here.

A pointer for those who bet on races. Bet on the man who drinks Cereal instead of tea or coffee. He is sound and healthy. You can get Cereal from your grocer.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, Yeomans st., died this morning, aged 6 months, from cholera infantum.

Mr. C. W. Storms, Desdon, Ont., says: "I have been taking Miller's Compound Iron Pills for two months; have increased in weight 12 pounds and feel better than for years." Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

"Chick" McRae's big St. Bernard dog pounced on a Newfoundland last evening on Front st. and they made a hot fight for a time.

Hanlan would no doubt be champion today if Cereal, the hot food drink, had been discovered earlier. Tea and coffee will undermine any constitution, while Cereal renews and builds up. Ask your grocer for a package.

At the regular meeting of Belleville Lodge, I.O.O.F., last evening it was decided to hold Decoration Day on August 19th. Mizpah lodge will join Belleville.

A remarkable cloud was noticed last night. It spanned the heavens from north-west to south-east with a narrow band of white. Many observers supposed it to be the aurora borealis.

The attention of the Health Authorities is again called to that overflow of gas tar and refuse of a very foul character into an open drain on Pinnacle st. This is a long-standing nuisance and ought no longer to be tolerated.

"Mamma, was that a sugar-plum you just gave me?" asked little Mabel. "No, dear, it was one of Dr. Ayer's Pills." "Please, may I have another?" "Not now, dear; one of those nice pills is all you need at present, because every dose is effective."

There is a big hole two feet deep, and full of water, at the water trough, corner of Pinnacle and Wharf sts. A few days ago a little child fell into it and narrowly escaped drowning. Isn't it about time that this danger was removed?

The general opinion is that the English crew cannot win the four-oared race and the reasons given are that they have been drinking tea and coffee instead of Cereal, the new food drink. Get a package from your grocer and you will soon discover its wonderful properties.

W. H. Cudney, Port Burwell, Ont., says: "I was afflicted with Rheumatism and tried all cures. I did not get relief until I tried Miller's Compound Iron Pills, and before I had finished two boxes I was completely cured, and now feel like a different man." Only 25 cents per box. Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

Mrs. Youmans Will.

The will of the late Mrs. Letitia Youmans was filed for probate at Toronto on Thursday. The real estate of house No. 19 Metcalfe street, which is willed to Margaret Creighton, niece of the testatrix, goods to the value of $200, and $700 compose the balance of the estate, a part of which was willed to the Toronto branch of the W.C.T.U. John S. Loudon, Jas. Creighton and Samuel Corrigan appear as executors. The will was made in March, 1893.

ANOTHER RAILWAY SMASH.

A Rock Island Passenger Train Wrecked Near Des Moines.

Twenty Lives Said to Have Been Lost.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 7.—A Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway passenger train was wrecked at 7 o'clock last night at Lighton, 50 miles southeast of this city.

Reports received here early this morning say 20 lives were lost, but the railway officials decline to give out information.

It is known, however, that five men, employes of the Liverpool and Des Moines Packing Co., of this city, are dead.

WITH THE OARSMEN.

The Men in Regular Practice—Little Notes of Interest.

The oarsmen continue their practice regularly twice each day and will be in first-class condition for next week's contests.

The Englishmen seem to be very fit, but their boat does not travel nearly so steady as does the Canadian-American craft.

All are well pleased with the course, but the heat has been greatly felt by the men.

The English crew thought the temperature when they stopped at the end of their spin eastward very little short of the burning point.

The oarsmen are all in good health, and they eat well and sleep like logs. Hanlan was so sleepy last night, after his hard day's training, that he became comatose at the committee meeting and had to leave early.

Hanlan has replaced the shell which went to pieces under him at Halifax with a handsome craft which he bought from Barry. It was built by Swaddle & Winship, the famous English builders, and fits the ex-champion nicely. A new and valuable invention has been introduced, namely a self-baling appliance for the cock-pit.

The courses were to be laid out this afternoon by Mr. Carre, C. E., by triangulation.

Work on the grand stand is going on steadily and it promises to be a comfortable and stable structure.

Our Prices are Wrong.

We say decidedly that our prices on ladies' tan shoes are wrong. They never should be sold as low as we have this week marked them. The fact is we want to clear out every pair in the next three weeks and we will do it if low prices are what is needed.—HAINES & LOCKETT.

CATTLE THIEVES LANDED.

Inspector Greer Collects Evidence in the Case at Montreal and Belleville.

The Toronto News says: "Inspector Wm. Greer, of the Attorney-General's Department, has returned from Montreal and Belleville, where he has been investigating the charges of cattle-stealing laid against Wesley Reid and two brothers named Young, who are at present in jail at Belleville. Mr. Greer believes that he can succeed in showing that the prisoners drove twelve head of cattle belonging to various parties off a beaver meadow on July 18, and that they also drove them to Napanee and shipped them to Montreal, where they were sold on Sunday July, 20. Inspector Greer traced the cattle to the butchers who slaughtered them, and the hides have been identified by the owners of the cattle and by the witnesses who claim to have seen the prisoners drive the beasts off the beaver meadow."

The Famous "Star Route" Robberies.

During Hayes's last years, and thereafter, much public attention was drawn to the "Star Route" frauds. The Star Routes were stage-lines for carrying mail in sections of the West where railroads and steamboats failed. In 1878 there were 9,225 of these Star Routes, for the maintenance of which Congress in that year appropriated $5,900,-000. A ring made up on the one hand of Democratic and Republican public men, some of these very prominent, and on the other hand of certain mail contractors, managed to increase the remuneration for service on 135 post routes from $143,169 to $625,808. On twenty-six of the routes the pay roll was put up from $65,216 to $530,319. The method was, first, to get numerously signed petitions from the districts interested, praying for an increase in the number of trips per week, and, shortening the schedule time of each trip, get "estimates" from the contractors vastly in success of actual cost for the service, get these estimates allowed at Washington, and then divide profits between the "Statesmen" and citizens interested in the "deal." Over some of these lines, it is asserted, not more than three letters a week were carried.—Scribner's.

Sent up for Trial.

The preliminary hearing of the cases against the men charged with stealing cattle in Tyendinaga was concluded last evening. Wesley Reid, John and George Young were sent up for trial and Thos. Trimble, John Reid and Wm. Young were discharged.

In the course of the evidence Mr. Anderson showed that three of the missing cattle had been found on the day the others were shipped in a field near the Napanee station. He showed that the three animals found were unfit for shipment.

William Young swore that he was engaged by John and George Young to drive several cattle to Napanee and when they were driven into the station yard George counted them and there were seventeen.

Thos. Trimble swore that he purchased fourteen head from a man he never saw before. These, with the three head found would make seventeen head.

The Weather.

The mercury to-day reached the highest figure ever registered in Belleville, so far as we are aware, namely 96 in the shade. The minimum last night was 78; at 8 a.m. 84; and at noon 96.

PROBABILITIES.

Light to moderate winds, generally fair and very warm; local thunderstorms.

What causes bad dreams is a question that has never been satisfactorily answered; but, in nine cases out of ten, frightful dreams are the result of imperfect digestion, which a few doses of Ayer's Sarsaparilla will effectually remedy. Don't delay—try it to-day.

THE SHIP WENT DOWN

Ran Ashore on the Falkland Islands.

Rescuers Got Close Enough to Find that Fourteen English-Speaking Sailors were in the Rigging—When a Lifeboat Had Been Brought Into Use the Ship had Broken Up—Not Enough of the Hull Left to Discover Her Name—The Pathetic Finding of a Young Girl's Body in the Wreck.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The Falkland Islands, off the east coast of Patagonia, were in May the scene of a marine disaster involving the loss of nearly 20 American lives, which as yet remains wrapt in mystery, as but few details of the disaster have been received from the United States Consul at Port Stanley, the capital of the islands. Consul Miller reports that on the evening of May 16, news was brought to Port Stanley that a large ship, evidently of American build, had struck on the Billy Rock and was in danger of breaking up. The Falkland Islands Company's launch was impressed into service with a volunteer crew, commanded by Patrick McPherson, master of the barque Bankville of Liverpool, and went to the rescue. The sea, however, was running so heavily that Capt. McPherson found it impossible to get close to the ship. He got near enough to count 14 men in the rigging, who hailed him in English and begged him to rescue them. The vessel was a large wooden ship of about 1800 tons register.

Capt. McPherson put back to port for a lifeboat, and returned immediately, but before he reached the ship she had broken up, and quantities of her cargo were floating in all directions. Capt. McPherson and his rescuing party stayed all night in hope of picking up some of the survivors, but after 16 hours gave up the hope of saving life and returned to Port Stanley.

Late in May divers went down into the vessel, but were unable to ascertain its name or hailing place. The only trace of humanity found on board was the body of a young woman about 18 years of age, but there was nothing to furnish a clue to her identity. The body was buried according to the Episcopal service by the Government of Falkland.

Several articles were recovered from the wreck, but the only one giving a possible clue to the identity of the vessel was part of a lawn mower marked on the outside of the wheels, "Philadelphia Lawn Mower," and on the inside of one wheel "Philadelphia, style M, 1895."

The receivers for the condensers were marked "Manufactured for Holbrook, Merrill & Stetson, San Francisco and Sacramento."

LOOKS SERIOUS IN CRETE.

A Massacre Reported to Have Occurred at Heraklion—Warships Have Gone to the Scene.

Athens, Aug. 6.—Advices from Heraklion (or Candia), Crete, say the situation there is becoming more serious. According to these advices bands of Moslems are breaking into the houses of foreign residents and the authorities are powerless to prevent the outrages. The rumors of pillage and massacre, however, lack confirmation. H.M.S. Hood and the French cruiser Linois have gone to Heraklion.

London, Aug. 6.—The Daily News will print to-morrow a despatch from Canea, Crete, under date of Aug. 5, saying that a body of 10,000 Mussulmans forced an entrance into Heraklion and ejected all the Christian residents from their houses.

The News will also publish a despatch from Athens dated Aug. 6, confirming the report that a massacre has occurred at Heraklion. The number of persons killed, the despatch adds, is not known. Hassan Pasha, the Governor of Heraklion, was seriously wounded.

BLAZE AT BUCKINGHAM.

Ross Brothers' Mills Destroyed—Loss Estimated at $50,000—350 Men Thrown Out of Work.

Buckingham, Que., Aug. 6, 10.45 p.m. —Ross Bros'. Mills are on fire. Will be a total loss. Origin of the fire unknown.

Later—The loss on the mills is estimated between $50,000 and $75,000, which is thought to be pretty well covered by insurance, but to what extent cannot be ascertained. About 350 men will be thrown out of employment.

THE PEARL WAS SAFE.

But an Unfounded Rumor That She Had Foundered Caused a Great Deal of Uneasiness.

Buffalo, Aug. 6.—Telegrams from various points along the Canadian border to-night made enquiry with respect to the steamer Pearl, which had been reported to have foundered with an excursion party coming here from Crystal Beach, a summer resort on the Canadian shore. The rumor of her loss had become current in the city also and created much uneasiness. It was found to be without foundation, as the Pearl reached her dock safely about 6.30, and left immediately for a trip down the river.

THE OLD, OLD STORY.

A Former Woodstock Woman Loses Her Life While Trying to Hurry the Kitchen Fire With Kerosene.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 6.—Mrs. George Mitchell, 24 years of age, poured kerosene on her slow-burning breakfast fire this morning. Before she knew how it happened the can exploded and she was horribly burned, her body being almost cooked. Her husband was badly burned in trying to save her. Both were hurried to Harper Hospital, where she died an hour later. The fire department soon put out the fire which spread to the house. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell had been married a year. They came to the city from Woodstock, Ont., four months ago, when the husband secured work in the Peninsular Car Works.

LIONESS KILLED HIS CHILD.

The Horrible Scene Enacted Before an Audience in Ohio—It Was the Father's Carelessness.

Chillicothe, O., Aug. 6.—A shocking tragedy occurred here this afternoon at Hagenbeck's wild animal show, which is giving exhibitions at the fair grounds. The tent was crowded with a large audience and the performance was progressing when J. P. Hurd, the lion-tamer, walked across the space in front of the audience, with his son, 1 year and 6 months old, in his arms, and sat him down on the ground in close proximity to a large lioness, lying chained outside her cage. The next moment the audience was horrified by seeing the beast reach out, grab the child with her claws, and drawing it quickly back crushed the infantile skull with her capacious jaws. Several showmen rushed to the spot, where the lioness, snarling and growling, was devouring the child. It was with the greatest difficulty that the animal was driven back and compelled to relinquish her prey. The other animals, scenting blood, set up a hideous snarling and growling, and a 5-year-old girl, performing in a cage of wild beasts, was rescued after a hard fight. The child's mother is a snake charmer and was a witness to the terrible scene. She rushed forward with screams of agony, and attempted to hurl herself upon the lioness. The act of the father was purely a matter of carelessness. He is nearly insane at the fate of his child.

A Bicycle Firm in Trouble.

Toledo, Aug. 6.—The plant and down-town store of the Truman Bicycle Company were this afternoon taken possession of by the Northern National Bank, the company being financially embarrassed. It is involved in the failure of the Columbus Buggy Co. of Columbus, having had extensive dealings with that concern.

FIRE NEAR BRIGHTON.

Barn Burned by Lightning's Stroke.

BRIGHTON, Aug. 7.—Last night about 9.30 the Misses Bidwell, residing on the lake shore about four miles west of this place, lost their barn and outbuildings, all their implements and some of last year's grain by fire, caused by lightning. Insured in the Perth Mutual.

Good Clothing Pays.

In buying your clothing at the Oak Hall, you can always have the newest and most stylish. We passed into stock last week three large cases of boys' clothing, all from the celebrated maker Sanford, of Hamilton. In buying your boy a suit don't look for low-priced trash; come to the Oak Hall and get a good suit.

The Regatta Committee.

Considerable business was transacted at the meeting of the Regatta Committee last evening.

A letter was read from Jas. E. Hardy, champion wire walker of America, offering to give free exhibitions if the committee would erect two poles 100 feet apart. The matter was referred to the Programme Committee with power to act.

Mr. E. Guss Porter, Chairman of the Transportation Committee, reported on the work they had done and his report was most satisfactory. All the railroads and steamboats have come into line and the committee will receive a large amount of percentage on their business

A committee consisting of Messrs. A. McGinnis, J. P. Thompson and B. F. Dickens was appointed to handle the tickets.

Mr. J. Brasier reported that the Printing Committee had covered Canada with advertising matter and he thought the regatta was going to draw well.

The Secretary reported that the Nellie Cuthbert had been engaged as the judges' boat and that she would also carry a limited number of passengers at an advanced rate.

Mr. E. Burrell tendered the use of his steam yacht for the referees, and Mr. A. Cartwright's yacht will be the police boat.

A committee consisting of W. H. Campbell, E. Hanlan, R. J. Bell, W. H. Biggar, Geo. H. Leavens and E. Burrell was appointed to lay out the course.

Several other minor matters were dealt with and the Committee adjourned till next Monday evening.

Messrs. J. Brasier, T. W. R. McRae and W. W. Power went to Brockville today to advertise the event at the C.A.A.O. regatta.

Income Tax in England.

English papers remark that the returns now coming in of the income tax on trades and professions are less extensive than peculiar. It seems there are little more more than 35,000 persons who earn from £300 to £400 a year; that only 17,000 earn from £400 to £500; and under 9,000 who earn from £500 to £600. If these returns can be relied on, how grossly exaggerated must be the professional incomes we hear of every day made by undistinguished persons! On the other hand, it surprises one to read that even so many as forty-five persons make £50,000 a year, though these must be, one imagines, wholly in trade; no professional income probably reaches that sum. As to the £500 a year which folks talk so glibly as being within the reach of every professional man, it seems that only 9,000 persons can compass this sum by trade and professions. Without making any reflection upon the public conscience this result gives the impression that some incomes are made to suit the tax, just as, according to Charles Lamb, the supply of turnips depends upon the boiled legs of mutton.

Scrofula

Infests the blood of humanity. It appears in varied forms, but is forced to yield to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies and vitalizes the blood and cures all such diseases. Read this: "In September, 1894, I made a misstep and injured my ankle. Very soon afterwards, two inches across formed and in walking to favor it I sprained my ankle. The sore became worse; I could not put my boot on and I thought I should have to give up at every step. I could not get any relief and had to stop work. I read of a cure of a similar case by Hood's Sarsaparilla and concluded to try it. Before I had taken all of two bottles the sore had healed and the swelling had gone down. My is now well and I have been greatly benefited otherwise. I have increased in weight and am in better health. I cannot say enough in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. H. BLAKE, So. Berwick, Me.

A Sore

FASHIONS AT SARATOGA.

Summer Gowns—Tailor Made and Bicycle Dresses—Garden Party and Evening Wear—Fancy Work.

Some of the prettiest gowns owe much of their attractiveness to the corselet or wide girdle, that, most frequently in black, is a feature becoming to every one. It is moreover a change from narrow belts that are so popular as to have become monotonous and the relief it affords, is really an important factor. Where a plain material is combined with an ornate fabric, the corselet of course is plain. Stylish dressmakers here too, think nothing comparable to Featherbone, for waists or skirts. The waist bones being elastic and light, produce a smoothness and finish possible to nothing else; featherbone tape around the lower edge of basques, is far better than canvas, since stretching becomes impossible; the fine cord tape placed below revers, keeps them in position and prevents turning over, while for stiffening out the lower edge of dresses or silk petticoats, and ruffles as well, skirt bone admits of no substitute.

TAILOR MADE

or bicycle skirts are seen here in utmost perfection. As elegantly attired travellers step from coaches, it is an æsthetic study to note how really attractive a dress may be, simply from appropriateness to the occasion. A woman is entirely shorn from those delicate accessories peculiarly her own, such as gossamer or silken fabrics, ribbons, laces or flowers, but the absence of all are easily pardoned, because the element of suitability is pre-eminent. Dust or rain are confronted with assurance that the well made dress of mixed cloth, mohair or serge is equal to the combat, and likewise the bicycle skirt has grown to be a pleasant vision, since one thinks only of freedom and locomotion. Both are bound preferably with Duxbak rainproof bias velveteen skirt binding, because it sheds water and does not turn gray like cheap bindings, but to insure a genuine article the letters S.H. and M. must be carefully looked for on the label. For gowns, crepe de Chine closely rivals gauze. This lovely material, like gauze, is made over silk, and while the most delicate contrasts in heliotrope, pale blue, pink, yellow or green are noticeable, yet brilliant red or orange form very effective dresses. Black and orange are most striking and a daring gown shows these two gorgeous hues in combination. Chiffon comes in everywhere acceptably; it relieves the severity of plain material, such as mohair, or lightens evening fabrics. Grass linen over silk is made into dressy afternoon costumes for driving or lawn parties and here especially may be noticed the ornate results accruing from corsages of some rich fabric quite different from the material. Charming, yet comparatively simply dresses are made of flowered lawn and to such an extent are these worn that afternoon gatherings of ladies remind one sometimes of flower beds, where every hue under the sun is united in reckless profusion.

FANCY WORK.

In noticing ladies who embroider on piazzas one must observe that the popularity of etamine, crash etc., has extended to fancy work. Such materials are frequently seen and velutina, by reason of its close, soft pile and silky surface, is also in great vogue. Pretty work bags with tops turned over in points that are silk lined are a favorite article for choice embroidery; but scarfs, mats and table covers are standard. Rugs for baby carriages are equally popular and attractive as well.

Uttered a Counterfeit Coin.

A warrant was issued this morning for the arrest of Edward Reddick, of Rossmore, on a charge of uttering a counterfeit twenty-five cent piece. It appears Reddick tried to pass the coin yesterday afternoon but failed. Last evening he went to Mrs. Ingoldsby's on Front st. and secured lodging and his breakfast and gave the counterfeit coin to pay for them. The coin was not detected until some time after he had left, and the police were at once notified.

ANCESTRAL POWERS.

THE PHYSICAL PROCLIVITIES WHICH ARE DUE TO HEREDITY.

How They May be Overcome That Our Spiritual Birthright May Be Won, and How We May Become Sons and Daughters of Immortality.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Rev. Dr. Talmage chose as his text I. Samuel xvii, 58, "Whose son art thou, thou young man?"

Never was there a more unequal fight than that between David and Goliath; David 5 feet high, Goliath 10; David a shepherd boy brought up amid rural scenes, Goliath a warrior by profession; Goliath a mountain of braggadocio, David a marvel of humility; Goliath armed with an iron spear, David armed with a sling with smooth stones from the brook. But you are not to despise these latter weapons.

There was a regiment of slingers in the Assyrian army and a regiment of slingers in the Egyptian army, and they made terrible execution, and they could cast a stone with as much accuracy and force as now can be sent shot or shell. The Greeks in their army had slingers who would throw leaden plummets inscribed with the irritating words, "Take this!" so it was a mighty weapon David employed in that famous combat. A Jewish rabbi says that the probability is that Goliath was in such contempt for David that in a paroxysm of laughter he threw his head back and his helmet fell off, and David saw the uncovered forehead, and his opportunity had come, and taking his sling and swinging it around his head two or three times and aiming it at that uncovered forehead crashed it like an eggshell. The battle over, behold the tableau: King Saul sitting; little David standing, his fingers clutched into the hair of the decapitated Goliath. As Saul sees David standing there holding in his hand the ghastly, reeking, staring trophy, evidence of the complete victory over God's enemies, the king wonders what parentage was honored by such heroism, and in my text he asks David his pedigree, "Whose son art thou, thou young man?"

The king saw what you and I see, that this question of heredity is a mighty question. The longer I live the more I believe in blood—good blood, bad blood, proud blood, humble blood, honest blood, thieving blood, heroic blood, cowardly blood. The tendency may skip a generation or two, but it is sure to come out, as in a little child you sometimes see a similarity to a great-grandfather whose picture hangs on the wall. That the physical and mental and moral qualities are inheritable is patent to any one who keeps his eyes open. The similarity is so striking sometimes as to be amusing. Great families, regal or literary, are apt to have the characteristics all down through the generations, and what is more perceptible in such families may be seen on a smaller scale in all families. A thousand years have no power to obliterate the difference. The large lip of the house of Austria is seen in all the generations and is called the Hapsburg lip. The house of Stuart always means in all generations cruelty and bigotry and sensuality. Witness Queen of Scots, witness Charles I. and Charles II., witness James I. and James II. and all the other scoundrels of that line: Scottish blood means persistence, English blood means reverence for the ancient, Welsh blood means religiosity, Danish blood means fondness for the sea, Indian blood means roaming disposition, Celtic blood means fervidity, Roman blood means conquest. The Jewish facility for accumulation you may trace clear back to Abraham, of whom the Bible says, "he was rich in silver and gold and cattle," and to Isaac and Jacob, who had the same characteristics. Some families are characterized by longevity, and they have a tenacity of life positively Methuselish. Others are characterized by Goliathian stature, and you can see it for one generation, two generations, five generations—in all the generations.

Vigorous theology runs down in the line of the Alexanders. Tragedy runs on in the family of the Kembles. Literature runs on in the line of the Trollopes. Philanthropy runs on in the line of the Wilberforces. Statesmanship runs on in the line of the Adamses. You can see these peculiarities in all generations. Henry and Catherine of Navarre religious, all their families religious. The celebrated family of the Casini, all mathematicians. The celebrated family of the Medici, grandfather, son and Catherine, all remarkable for keen intellect. The celebrated family of Gustavus Adolphus, all warriors. This law of heridity asserts itself without reference to social or political condition, for you sometmes find the ignoble in high place and the honorable in obscure place. A descendant of Edward I. a tollgatherer. A descendant of Edward III. a doorkeeper. A descendant of the Duke of Northumberland a trunkmaker. Some of the mightiest families of England are extinct, while some of those most honored in the peerage go back to an ancestry of hard knuckles and rough exterior.

This law of heredity is entirely independent of social or political conditions. Then you find avarice and jealousy and sensuality and fraud having full swing in some families. The violent temper of Frederick William is the inheritance of Frederick the Great. It is not a theory founded by worldly philosophy, but by divine authority. Do you not remember how the Bible speaks of a chosen generation, of the generation of the righteous, of the generation of vipers, of an untoward generation, of a stubborn generation, of the iniquity of the fathers visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generation? So that the text comes to-day, with the force of a projectile hurled from mightiest catapult, "Whose son art thou, thou young man?" "Well," says some one, "that theory discharges me from all responsibility. Born of sanctified parents, we are bound to be good, and we cannot help ourselves. Born of unrighteous parentage, we are bound to be evil, and we cannot help ourselves." Two inaccuracies. As much as if you should say, "The centripetal force in nature has a tendency to bring every thing to the centre, and therefore all come to the center. The centrifugal force in nature has a tendency to throw everything to the periphery, and therefore everything will go out to the periphery."

You know as well as I know that you can make the centripetal force overcome the centrifugal, and you can make the centrifugal overcome the centripetal, as when there is a mighty tide of good in a family that may be overcome by determination to evil—as in the case of Aaron Burr, the libertine, who had for father President Burr, the consecrated; as in the case of Pierrepont Edwards, the scourge of New York society 80 years ago, who had a Christian ancestry—while, on the other hand, some of the best men and women of this day are those who have come of an ancestry of which it would not be courteous to speak in their presence. The practical and useful object of this sermon is to show you that, if you have come of a Christian ancestry, then you are solemnly bound to preserve and develop the glorious inheritance, or, if you have come of a depraved ancestry, then it is your duty to brace yourself against the evil tendency by all prayer, and Christian determination. And you are to find out the family frailties, and in arming the castle put the strongest guard at the weakest gate. With these smooth stones from the brook I hope to strike you, not where David struck Goliath, in the head, but where Nathan struck David, in the heart. "Whose son art thou, thou young man?"

There is something in all winter holidays to bring up the old folks. I think many of our thoughts at such times are set to the tune of "Auld Lang Syne." The old folks were so busy at such times in making us happy and perhaps on less resource made their sons and daughters happier than you on larger resources are able to make your sons and daughters. The snow lay two feet above their graves, out they shook off the white blankets and mingled in the holiday festivities—the same wrinkles, the same stoop of shoulder under the weight of age, the same old style of dress or coat, the same smile, the same tone of voice. I hope you remember them before they went away. If not, I hope there are those who have recited to you what they were, and that there may be in your house some article of dress or furniture with which you associate their memories. I want to arouse the most sacred memories of your heart while I make the impassioned interrogatory in regard to your pedigree, "Whose son art thou, thou young man?"

First, I accost those who are descended of a Christian ancestry. I do not ask if your parents were perfect. There are no perfect people now, and I do not suppose there were any perfect people then. Perhaps there was sometimes too much blood in their eye when they chastised you. But from what I know of you, you got no more than you deserved, and perhaps a little more chastisement would have been salutary. But you are willing to acknowledge, I think, that they wanted to do right. From what you overheard in conversations, and from what you saw at the family altar and at neighborhod obsequies, you know that they had invited God into their heart and their life. There was something that sustained those old people supernaturally. You have no doubt about their destiny. You expect if you ever get to heaven to meet them as you expect to meet the Lord Jesus Christ. That early association has been a charm for you. There was a time when you got right up from a house of iniquity and walked out in to the fresh air because you thought your mother was looking at you. You have never been very happy in sin because of a sweet old face that would present itself. Tremulous voices from the past accosted you until they were seemingly audible, and you looked around to see who spoke. There was an estate not mentioned in the last will and testament, a vast estate of prayer and holy example and Christian entreaty and glorious memory. The survivors of the family gathered to hear the will read, and this was to be kept and that was to be sold, and it was "share and share alike."

But there was an unwritten will that read somthing like this: "In the name of God, amen. I, being of sound mind, bequeath to my children all my prayers for their salvation. I bequeath to them all the results of a lifetime's toil. I bequeath to them the Christian religion, which has been so much comfort to me, and I hope may be solace for them. I bequeath to them a hope of reunion, when the partings of life are over. 'Share and share alike' may they inherit eternal riches. I bequeath to them the wish that they may avoid my errors and copy anything that may have been worthy. In the name of God, who made me, and the Christ, who redeemed me, and the Holy Ghost, who sanctifies me, I make this my last will and testament. Witness all you hosts of heaven. Witness time, witness eternity. Signed, sealed and delivered in this our dying hour. Father and Mother." You did not get that will proved at the surrogate's office, but I take it out to-day and I read it to you. I take it out of the alcoves of your heart. I shake the dust off it. I ask if you will accept that inheritance, or will you break the will?

Oh, ye of Christian ancestry! You have a responsibility vast beyond all measurement. God will not let you off with just being as good as ordinary people when you had such extraordinary advantage. Ought not a flower planted in a hothouse be more thrifty than a flower planted outside in the storm? Ought not a factory turned by the Housatonic do more work than a factory turned by a thin and shallow mountain stream? Ought not you of great, early opportunity be better than those who had a cradle unblessed? A father sets his son up in business. He keeps an account of all the expenditures—so much for store fixtures, so must for rent, so much for this, so much for that, and all the items aggregated—and the father expects the son to give an account. Your heavenly Father charges against you all the advantage of a pious ancestry—so many prayers, so much Christian example, so many kind entreaties—all these gracious influences, one tremendous aggregate, and he asks you for an account of it. Ought not you to be better than those who had no such advantage? Better have been a foundling picked up off the city commons than, with such magnificent inheritance of consecration, to turn out in different.

Now, my brother, ought you not—I leave it as a matter of fairness with you—ought you not to be better than those who had no early Christian influence? Standing as you do between the generation that is past and the generation that is to come, are you going to pass the blessing on, or are you going to have your life the gulf in which that tide of blessing shall drop out of sight forever? You are the trustee of piety in that ancestral line, and are you going to augment or squander that solemn trust fund? Are you going to disinherit your sons and daughters of the heirloom which your parents left you? Ah, that cannot be possible—it cannot be possible that you are going to take such a position as that! You are very careful about the life insurance, and careful about the deeds, and careful about the mortgage, and careful about the title of your property, because when you step off the stage you want your children to get it all. Are you making no provision that they shall get grandfather's or grandmother's religion? Oh, what a last will and testament you are making, my brother! "In the name of God, amen. I, being of sound mind, make this my last will and testament. I bequeath to my children all the money I ever made and all the houses I own, but I disinherit them. I rob them of the ancestral grace and the Christian influence that I inherited. I have squandered that on my own worldiness. Share and share alike must they in the misfortune and the everlasting outrage. Signed, sealed and delivered in the presence of God and men and angels and devils, and all the generations of earth and heaven and hell. July, 1896."

Oh, ye of highly favored ancestry, wake up this morning to a sense of your opportunity and responsibility. I think there must be an old cradle or a fragment of a cradle somewhere that could tell a story of midnight supplication in your behalf. Where is the old rocking chair in which you were sung to sleep with the holy nursery rhyme? Where is the old clock that ticked away the moments of that sickness on that awful night when there were but three of you awake—you and God and mother? Is there not an old staff in some closet? We beg you to turn over a new leaf this very day.

Oh, the power of ancestral piety, well illustrated by a young man of New York who attended a prayer meeting one night and asked for prayer and then went home and wrote down these words: "Twenty-five years ago to-night my mother went to heaven, my beautiful, blessed mother, and I have been alone, tossed up and down upon the billows of life's tempestuous ocean. Shall I ever go to heaven? She told me I must meet her in heaven. When she took my hand in hers and turned her gentle, loving eyes on me, and gazed earnestly and long into my face, and then lifted them to heaven in that last prayer, she prayed that I might meet her in heaven. I wonder if I ever shall? My mother's prayers! Oh, my sweet, blessed mother's prayers! Did ever a boy have such a mother as I had? For 25 years I have not heard her pray until to-night. I have heard all her prayers over again. They have had, in fact, a terrible resurrection. Oh, how she was wont to pray! She prayed as they prayed to-night—so earnest, so importunate, so believing. Shall I ever be a Chirstian? She was a Christian. Oh, how bright and pure and happy was her life! She was a cheerful and happy Christian. There is my mother's Bible. I have not opened it for years. Did she believe I could ever neglect her precious Bible? She surely thought I would read it much and often. How often has she read it to me! How did she cause me to kneel by my little bed and put my little hands up in the attitude of prayer! How has she knelt by me and over me, and I have felt her warm tears, raining down upon my hands and face!

"Blessed mother, did you pray in vain for your boy? It shall not be in vain. Ah, no, no; it shall not be in vain! I will pray for myself. Who has sinned against so much instruction as I have—against so many precious prayers put up to heaven for me by one of the most lovely, tender, pious, confiding, trusting of mothers in her heavenly Father's care and grace? She never doubted. She believed. She always prayed as if she did. My Bible, my mother's Bible and my conscience teach what I am and what I have made myself. Oh, the bitter pangs of an accusing conscience! I need a Saviour mighty to save. I must seek Him. I will. I am on the sea of existence, and I can never get off from it. I am afloat. No anchor, no rudder, no compass, no book of instructions, for I have put them away from me. Saviour of the perishing, save or I perish!" Do you wonder that the next day he arose in prayer meeting and said: "My brethren, I stand before you a monument of God's amazing mercy and goodness. Forever blessed be His holy name! All I have and all I am I consecrate to Jesus, my Saviour, and my God." Oh, the power of ancestral prayer. Hear it! hear it!

But I turn for a moment to those who had evil parentage, and I want to tell you that the highest thrones in heaven and the mightiest triumphs and the brightest crowns will be for those who had evil parentage, but who by the grace of God conquered—conquered. As good, as useful, as splendid a gentleman as I ever knew had for a father a man who died blaspheming God until the neighbors had to put their fingers to their ears to shut out the horror. One of the most consecrated and useful Christian ministers of to-day was the son of a drunken horse jockey. Tide of evil is tremendous in some families. It is like Niagara rapids, and yet men have clung to a rock and been rescued.

There is a family in New York, whose wealth has rolled up into many millions, that was founded by a man who, after he had vast estate, sent back a paper of tacks because they were 2 cents more than he expected. Grip and grind and gouge in the fourth generation, I suppose it will be grip and grind and gouge in the twentieth generation. The thirst of intoxicants has burned down through the arteries of a hundred and fifty years. Pugnacity on combativeness characterizes other families. Sometimes one form of evil, sometimes another form of evil. But it may be resisted; it has been resisted. If the family frailty be avarice, cultivate unselfishness and charity and teach your children never to eat an apple without offering somebody else half of it. Is the family frailty combativeness, keep out of the company of quick tempered people and never answer an impertinent question until you have counted a hundred both ways, and after you have written an angry letter keep it a week before you send it, and then burn it up. Is the family frailty timidity and cowardice, cultivate backbone. Read the biography of brave men like Joshua or Paul and see if you cannot get a little iron in your blood. Find out what the family frailty is and set body and mind and soul in battle array. Conquer your will. I think the genealogical table was put in the first chapter of the New Testament not only to show our Lord's pedigree, but to show that a man may rise up in an ancestral line and beat back successfully all the influences of bad heredity. See in that genealogical table that good King Asa was born of vile King Abia. See in that genealogical table that Joseph and Mary and the most illustrious Being that ever touched our world, or ever will touch it, had in their ancestral line scandalous Rehoboam and Rahab and Thamar and Bathsheba. If this world is ever to be Edenized—and it will be—all the infected families of the earth are to be regenerated and there will some one arise in each family line and open a new genealogical table.

There will be some Joseph to arise in the line and reverse the evil influence of Rehoboam, and there will be some Mary to arise in the line and reverse the evil influence of Bathsheba. Perhaps the star of hope may point down to your manger. Perhaps you are to be the hero or the heroine that is to put down the brakes and stop that long line of genealogical tendencies and switch it off on another track from that on which it has been running for a century. You do that, and I will promise you as fine a palace as the architects of heaven can build, the archway inscribed with the words, "More than conqueror." But whatever your heredity, let me say you may be sons and daughters of the Lord God Almighty. Estranged children from the homestead, come back through the open gate of adoption. There is royal blood in our veins. There are crowns on our escutcheon. Our Father is king; our Brother is king; we may be kings and queens unto God forever. Come and sit down on the ivory bench of the palace. Come and wash in the fountains that fall into the basins of crystal and alabaster. Come and look out of the upholstered window upon gardens of azalea and amaranth. Hear the full burst of the orchestra while you banquet with potentates and victors. Oh, when the text sweeps backward; let it not stop at the cradle that rocked your infancy, but at the cradle that rocked the first world! And when the text sweeps forward let it not stop at your grave, but at the throne on which you may reign forever and ever. "Whose son art thou, thou young man?" Son of God, heir of immortality, take your inheritance!

Nowadays when ladies take part in so many active sports it is necessary to have gowns that will preserve their graceful shape thro' every kind of exercise, and this is why Fibre Chamois is so immensely popular. It never loses its charming stiffness, yet owing to its flexible nature it imparts a sinuous grace to your gowns which nothing can disturb. Dresses interlined with it will have just the same style at the end of the season as at the beginning.

But don't expect these results from imitations, always see the label on each yard to be sure that you are getting the genuine Fibre Chamois—it never disappoints.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very billious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

WINNIPEG FOUR WON.

Closing Day of the Regatta at Brockville.

Bush Thompson Easily Captured the Senior Singles—Argonauts Secured Four Races, the Dons Three, Winnipeg One and the Vespers of Philadelphia One—Fine Weather and the Events Generally Well Contested.

Brockville, Aug. 7.—(Special.)—The 17th annual regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen closed to-day, and the verdict of oarsmen generally was that it was the most successful held in Canada in many years, both in the quality of the racing and in attendance by competitors and spectators.

When the second heat in the senior singles, which was postponed from yesterday, was called, the water was smooth, with very little wind, the contestants taking positions in this order from the shore: Bush Thompson, Argonauts; L. Marsh, Dons; F. Cressar, Vespers, Philadelphia; J. A. Rumohr, Torontos. Rumohr and Marsh sold favorites in the pools.

At the gun fire Cressar and Marsh were first to catch the water, but after traveling a quarter of a mile Cressar fouled Marsh, and all were called back for a re-start. In the second attempt all were away together, and Thompson and Rumohr at once took a lead, with Marsh third. At the quarter-mile Thompson gradually drew ahead, and had clear water between him and the field at the half, where Marsh and Crerar began to close rapidly on Rumohr. When the mile was reached Thompson led Marsh by three lengths, with Cressar third and Rumohr beaten. From there on Thompson won as he pleased by four lengths, Marsh getting the place by a narrow margin from Cressar. Time 11.09½.

Intermediate Singles—Burritt of the Argonauts did not start, fearing he might prejudice his crew's chances in the senior fours, and the following faced the line: F. E. Russell, Torontos; F. Allward, Torontos; P. Kenny, Dons. Kenny got away first, and led by three lengths when the half-mile had been reached, with Russell second. Allward passed Russell at the mile, and started after Kenny, and when he looked a winner suddenly stopped rowing and made for the club house. Russell also gave up, and Kenny crossed the line alone in 12.17½.

The afternoon's sport was excellent throughout, the breeze had somewhat freshened, and the water was fairly smooth. Mr. Fulford's steam yacht Dorothea carried the officials over the course, which was kept clear and well looked after by Jimmy Rice, one of Toronto's professional oarsmen.

Junior fours—The first race on the card the junior fours, which brought out five crews, was a splendid one, and was fought out all the way by three of the boats. The starters were:

Dons—J. Stuart, bow; J. Larkin, 2; J. Delaney, 3; J. Nicholson, stroke.

Argonauts, No. 2—A. Morson, bow; D. G. Cole, 2; H. G. Lightbourne, 3; A. L. Eastmuir, stroke.

Argonauts, No. 1—P. E. Richie, bow; J. Mackenzie, 2; D. R. Mackenzie, 3; L. C. Hoskins, stroke.

Torontos—F. W. Nye, bow; A. N. Heintzman, 2; F. E. Russell, 3; F. Allward, stroke.

Grand Trunk Club of Montreal—A. McKellar, bow; F. Auburn, 2; F. Scott, 3; P. Raymond, stroke.

The Dons got away first, and led at the quarter by a length, with Argonauts No. 2 second. The Grand Trunks spurted and took the lead at the half-mile, and increased it to two lengths when a mile was covered, with the Dons second and Argonauts No. 2 bringing up the rear of the first division. The Dons started after the leaders, who were steering too far out, and by the time they were within hailing distance of the finish took the lead again, eventually winning by four lengths over Argonauts No. 2, while the Grand Trunks finished well up, but outside the line, among the numerous small craft crowded there. Time 10.28.

Senior Doubles—The race for double-sculls brought out three crews, the Argonaut pair, composed of the Thompson brothers, not starting, as Bush was to row in the final single-sculls, and had already rowed in the morning. The competitors were:

Vespers of Philadelphia—Ed. Marsh bow, F. Cressar stroke.

Toronto, No. 2—J. A. Russell bow, J. J. Ryan stroke.

Toronto, No. 1—A. Jury bow, J. A. Rumohr stroke.

The Vespers sold favorites in the pools. The favorites were the quickest away, and at once took the lead, followed closely for the first half-mile by the Torontos No. 1. At the mile the Vespers had gained three lengths over the Toronto pair, who were almost on even terms, and the race for second place occupied the attention of the crowd, the Vespers eventually winning by four lengths, with Torontos No. 1 a length in front of the other Island double. Time 10.12¾.

Pair oars:

Argonauts—R. G. Muntz bow, G. H. Muntz stroke.

Torontos—J. R. Bennett bow, J. Smyth stroke.

Both pairs went away together, the Argonauts taking a short lead after a few hundred yards had been covered, but they were splashing badly and steered too far in following their regular line of the shore, and losing a lot of ground, which enabled the Torontos to draw even at the half. The race to the mile was a good one, but from there on the Argonauts drew away, rowing the last half in splendid form, and winning as they pleased by about five lengths. Time 12.15.

Intermediate fours—Only the Argonauts and Dons faced the starter, as follows:

Dons—J. Stuart bow, J. Larkin 2, J. Delaney 3, J. Nicholson stroke.

Argonauts—W. H. Bunting bow, P. E. Mackenzie 2, A. J. Boyd 3, M. S. McCarthy stroke.

The Dons caught the water first, but the Argonauts quickly drew ahead, and at the half-mile had two lengths to the good, rowing throughout a steady, regular stroke, and winning easily by three lengths in 11.24.

Senior singles, final—E. A. Thompson, Argonauts; J. O'Connor, Dons; L. Marsh, Dons; Ed. Marsh, Vespers.

Thompson sold favorite in the pools. The scullers got away together, but Thompson took a lead before 50 yards were traveled, with O'Connor second. The former followed the crooked shore line, and rowed several lengths further than was necessary, but gradually drew further ahead, and at the mile had two lengths to the good, O'Connor still second, with Marsh of the Dons close up. At this point the Vesper sculler, who had been laboring hard to keep up, fell out of his boat from exhaustion, and certainly would have drowned but for the ready assistance of the official boat, which was very close to him when the mishap occurred. The positions of the other scullers remained unchanged to the finish, Thompson winning by three lengths, with O'Connor two lengths in front of Marsh. Time 11.54.

Senior fours:

Winnipegs—J. C. Armytage bow, W. J. Osborne 2, C. Johnson 3, C. L. Marks stroke.

Argonauts—H. W. Dixon bow, R. W. Hoskin 2, O. Heron 3, A. P. Burritt stroke.

Dons—J. Sullivan bow, W. Nelson 2, C. Rame 3, J. Hedley stroke.

The Argonauts caught first water, and for a short distance held a slight lead, but were soon overtaken by the Winnipegs, who rapidly went to the front, the Dons going up to second position at the half. At the mile the Nor'westers had increased their lead to three lengths, and the Dons and Argonauts were fighting it out for second. The Winnipegs pulled a short, quick stroke throughout, with very little swing, but were a very powerful lot of men, and won easily by six lengths, with the Dons second, a length and a half in front of the Argonauts. Time 10.02. The race was a surprise to many, as the Winnipeg stroke was not fancied by the talent, though the crew sold favorites in the pools.

The prizes were presented to the winners in the evening at the Revere House by Mr. W. S. Buell of the Brockville Boat Club. Visiting oarsmen are much pleased with their reception here, and with all the arrangements, which were successfully carried out. The Winnipeg four and the Argonaut single-scull champion go on to Saratoga to compete at the National regatta there next week.

BALD BEAT COOPER.

A Sensational Finish in the Open Professional at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 7.—There was no great improvement in the attendance at the second day's meet of the Buffalo Cycling Association, but there was some sensational racing and Canada made a better showing. The event of the day was Bald's sensational win in the mile open, professional, in which he lowered the track record from 2.07 1-5 to 2.01 4-5, beating Cooper, Butler and other cracks.

The first event was the quarter mile open, amateur. The first heat was a contest between Sliker and T. B. McCarthy, the former winning in .32 3-5. In the final heat of this race, C. A. Sliker, Buffalo, won; W. E. DeTemple, Buffalo, 2, and T. B. McCarthy got third prize, a diamond stud. Time .32 3-5.

The one mile open, professional, was the event of the day. For the first heat Jenny, Bald, Ziegler, Stone, the Callahan brothers, Newhouse and Mosher lined up, four to live. They finished as follows: Bald, L. A. Callahan, Jenny, C. H. Callahan. Time 2.00 2-5. The second heat had F. W. Young, Tom Cooper, Con Baker, Tom Butler, Ray McDonald and F. H. Allen; Cooper, Butler, Young and Baker finishing in a loafing race in order named. Time 2.14 4-5.

Now came the great race, in which a record went to pieces. Mosher and Newhouse did the pacing. Bald had the pole and kept the place until the pacemakers quit at the last quarter. Then Cooper shot to the front and Butler also passed Bald. It looked like a defeat for the Buffalo boy, hands down, as the time for the three laps was phenomenal, but Bald showed that his title of "Canon Ball" had been fairly earned. Cooper, Butler and Bald were well together in order at the eighth, when, like a shot, Bald brushed away and to the front, winning in a killing finish in 2.01 4-5, Cooper, Butler and L. A. Callahan coming in the order named, Cooper a full length and a half behind Bald.

The next event was the one mile amateur handicap, four diamonds, prizes; 14 starters; first heat—T. B. McCarthy (scratch), won; E. C. Haynes, Buffalo (80 yards), 2; C. J. Miller, Buffalo (50 yards), 3; time 2.12 3-5. Second heat, 12 starters—J. T. Davidson, Toronto (20 yards), won; A. F. Mundie, Tonawanda (scratch), 2; Ben Cleveland, Tonawanda (50 yards), 3; time 2.10 4-5. Eleven started in the third heat; J. F. Higgins, Buffalo (50 yards), won; M. Cornwall, Buffalo (40 yards), 2; John Pensyres, Buffalo (30 yards), 3; time 2.16. Blayney of Simcoe, Ont., started, but failed to make a show. The final was a beautiful race and was won in a close finish by T. B. McCarthy, Toronto, in 2.10; B. Cleveland, Tonawanda, N.Y., 2; C. J. Miller, Buffalo, 3.

The next event was the half mile professional. F. W. Young in the first heat failed to get a place. Tom Butler, L. A. Callahan, Con Baker and Howard Mosher living in the first heat; time 1.03 3-5. Jenny, Davis (Buffalo), Newhouse and Leonart survived the second heat, in which Werick and McDonald were beaten; time 1.00 1-5. Newhouse, Buffalo, won the final; L. A. Callahan, F. J. Jenny and E. F. Leonert in the order named; time .58 4-5.

THE RACES AT DETROIT.

Lobengula Beat Connoisseur and Gomar Won From Kapanga Colt.

Detroit, Aug. 7.—The layers of odds and the talent broke even to-day, three favorites coming home in front. Dorsey, the rider of Outgo, the favorite in the first race, was suspended indefinitely for poor riding. Summaries:

First race, 7 furlongs—Gomor, 5 to 1, 1; Kapanga colt, 6 to 1, 2; Outgo, even, 3. Time 1.36.

Second race, 5 furlongs—Celoso, 2 to 1, 1; Tidiness, 10 to 1, 2; Easter Eve, 7 to 1, 3. Time 1.07.

Third race, mile—Service, 7 to 10, 1; Sykeston, 4 to 1, 2; Little Tom, 12 to 1, 3. Time 1.48½.

Fourth race, mile and 70 yards—Lobengula, 3 to 2, 1; Connoisseur, 11 to 10, 2; Sunny, 5 to 1, 3. Time 1.51½.

Fifth race, 7 furlongs—Helen Mar, 6 to 1, 1; Benamela, 2 to 1, 2; All Over, 2 to 1, 3. Time 1.33½.

Sixth race, hurdle, 1¼ miles—St. Brandon, 3 to 1, 1; Tuscarora, 5 to 1, 2; Maid of Ellerslie, 10 to 1, 3. Time 2.32.

AFTER THE LAND JUMPERS.

An Episode in Prince Albert That May Lead to Trouble—Mounted Police on the Scene.

Winnipeg, Aug. 7.—(Special.)—There is serious trouble in Prince Albert, N.W.T., caused by land jumpers. Yesterday 50 armed settlers proceeded to the house of one Louis Como, a land jumper, and tore it down, throwing both house and furniture into the lake. Inspector Snider took a small detachment of Mounted Police from Edmonton to quell the disturbance, but to-day he wired Fort Saskatchewan that the full detachment of police stationed there be despatched to the scene. A serious fuss is feared, and one result will be to put an end to land jumping, which has aroused so much indignation throughout the Canadian Northwest. Further news from the scene of trouble is anxiously awaited.

TARTE AS STABLE BOY

And the Ottawa Members Filling the Stalls.

Farmer Armstrong of Huntley Had Hard Luck in North Dakota—Nova Scotia Brewers Want a Change in the French Treaty—The Old Men in the Senate Chamber—How Judges Get Their Holidays—The Q.C. Orders in the Waste-Basket—Prendergrast Is Not In It for the Portfolio of Interior.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—(Special.)—While Mr. Tarte is busily cleaning out the "stables," as Mr. Laurier terms the Department of Public Works, the city members, Messrs. Belcourt and Hutchinson, are holding daily levees for applicants to refill the stalls. The Reform Club rooms on these occasions are thronged with importunates of both sexes. Already promises have been given by them to double the number of clearances that Mr. Tarte has been able to effect on the hill.

Last March William Armstrong of Huntley township rented out his fine farm there and left with his family for North Dakota, where he expected to do better. After putting in a hard summer he has returned, and is now hugging himself with joy for not having sold out his old homestead. He says the wheat crop in the Glasston district of North Dakota will scarcely average five bushels to the acre. The day he left there a farmer was drawing oats five miles to an elevator, where he sold them for seven cents a bushel. Barley was bringing only 11 cents and wheat 42. Armstrong tells a touching story of hardships of the North Dakota farmers.

The brewing interests of Nova Scotia are moving to have the way made easier for the introduction of provincial ales into the market of St. Pierre-Miquelon. They contend that under a proper interpretation of the treaty with France Canadian ales would secure more favorable tariff treatment in these French possessions on the Newfoundland coast than is at present accorded. The brewers are confident that a considerable export trade could be done if the tariff were modified, but they contend that the terms of the commercial treaty with Canada are being interpreted at St. Pierre by French authorities with a view to discouraging any importations that might lessen the consumption of light wines and other liquors imported from France. It is believed that representations will be made through the proper channels to the Government of France in conformity with the request of the Nova Scotia brewers. Should this means fail to secure them more liberal treatment in French possessions, the brewing interests will probably agitate for a modification of the treaty in this regard.

It is not likely that the sedate precincts of the Senate will be disturbed by any such general change of seats as will characterize new arrangements in the lower chamber. Possibly Hon. R. W. Scott, the Liberal leader in the Senate, will cross the floor and take a seat on the right of the Speaker, erstwhile occupied by Sir Mackenzie Bowell and his predecessors in the Government leadership. Should Sir Mackenzie accept the Opposition leadership in the Senate, he will cross the floor also, and this is very likely to constitute the entire alteration brought about by the new regime. Indeed, to attempt to divide the Senate as the Huse of Commons is arranged, with the opposing parties on their respective sides of the Speaker, would be to make a rather unnecessary exhibition of the one-sided character of the Upper Chamber politically. There are not more than a dozen Liberal members in the Senate all told, and they would not constitute a very imposing array if constrained to flock by themselves after the manner of the Commoners. Sir Oliver Mowat will be the desk mate of the Government leader in the Upper Chamber.

The departmental procedure in cases of application from judges for leave of absence savors of the routine of the circumlocution office. It is something like this: The judge applies to the Justice Department, the Justice Department refers the application to the Department of State, the Department of State acquaints the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of the request, His Honor duly refers it to his advisers, and from the Provincial Attorney-General it goes back, with the necessary observations, to the State Department. Through that channel it reaches the Department of Justice, where the Minister reports upon it. On this report an order in council is passed, granting application or refusing it, as the case may be, which action is finally communicated by the Justice Department to the judge in waiting, if he is still alive.

Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere will leave the Capital to-morrow for Peterboro, to spend Sunday with his daughter. Thence the Controller will proceed to Quebec, returning to Ottawa about the end of the week.

There was a meeting of council to-day, attended by the Premier and all but three of his Cabinet, namely, Messrs. Mulock, Blair and Fielding. The sitting was devoted mainly to the consideration of departmental matters and a discussion of the program for the approaching session of Parliament. The estimates, it is understood, will constitute the bulk of the sessional bill of fare.

It is stated here on unimpeachable authority that the report connecting Mr. Prendergast's name with the vacant portfolio of Interior is absolutely without foundation.

Of the members of the House of Commons in the present Parliament, Hon. John Costigan is the only one who has continuously held his seat since Confederation, and for the same constituency.

"You have heard the last of that list of Q.C.'s," said an interested party to your correspondent to-day. "I have it on good authority that the whole thing has been bundled into Sir Oliver Mowat's waste basket."

WAS IT MURDER?

Enquiries in Progress Regarding the Death of Young Robinson at Braeside a Month Ago.

Arnprior, Ont., Aug. 7.—The death of young Robinson, which occurred at Braeside about a month ago, is assuming a very serious aspect. It is supposed now to be a case of murder. Drs. Ward and Armstrong of this town held a post-mortem examination this afternoon, confirming the suspicions of the authorities as to foul play. The inquest is now going on.

THE SMALLEST EQUINE.

This Little Colt Is Carried Round in an Ordinary Market Basket.

Canandaigua, N.Y., Aug. 7.—This place has the honor of being the birthplace of the smallest living equine in the world, born here yesterday afternoon. The colt was borne by an Iceland pony mare belonging to a traveling circus. The animal weighs eight and one-half pounds, height two hands and three-fourths, or 11 inches. The colt was named "Canandaigua." It was conveyed from the show grounds to the train in a market basket.

AN ATTEMPTED MURDER.

William Flynn Had a Narrow Escape From Being Shot at Toronto Junction Last Night.

Toronto Junction, Aug. 7.—(Special.)—At about 7.45 to-night William Flynn, who lives near Brown's Hotel on the Weston-road, rushed up to Policeman Graham and reported that a man named Joseph Moore a few minutes before had attempted to murder him on Dundas-street. Flynn said that Moore had fired at him from a revolver, and showed where the bullet had grazed his hand. Graham set out and, in company with Chief Royce, captured Moore at Dundas and Humberside-streets, after the man had made a spirited resistance. Moore was handcuffed and taken to the cells, where he became very despondent.

It appears that the shooting is the outcome of trouble of several years' standing. Seven years ago Flynn was manager of the Waterdown Agricultural Insurance Company, and Moore was a chief agent of the company. For some reason Flynn discharged Moore, and it is to this that the alleged shooting is attributed.

THE WAVE OF INSANITY.

A Plainfield, N.J., Doctor Tried to Take His Life by Many Methods at Poughkeepsie Yesterday.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Aug. 7.—Shortly after arriving in this city this afternoon, J. R. Glen, a prominent physician of Plainfield, N.J., made several attempts at suicide. He first threw himself in front of an approaching train, but was rescued. He then went to several hotels and demanded a room with large gas jets. He was refused accommodation by the clerks. He then tried to purchase prussic acid from two druggists. Failing in these attempts he went to a hardware store and purchased a revolver, but was arrested before he could bring it into use. At the station house over $200 and several cheques for small amounts were found on his person. He was committed to jail, charged with insanity.

SOUND MONEY DEMOCRATS

Will Hold a Convention on Sept. 2 at Indianapolis to Nominate Presidential Candidates.

Indianapolis, Aug. 7.—The Sound Money Democrats of the United States are called by the "regularly constituted committee" of the National Democratic party to meet in convention for the announcement of a platform and the nomination of candidates for President and Vice-President, and for the other business incident thereto. The date set for the convention is Wednesday, Sept. 2, and the place Indianapolis. The call is to those Democrats who believe in sound money and the preservation of law and order, and who are unalterably opposed to the platform adopted and the candidates nominated at Chicago.

A DEAD MAN CENSURED.

Engineer Farr Held Responsible for the Great Loss of Life in the Atlantic City Collision.

Atlantic City, N.J., Aug. 7.—The coroner's jury in the case of the victims of the railroad collision near this city on the night of July 30 returned three verdicts to-day. The first states the manner of death of the persons over whom the inquisition was held. The second finds Engineer Farr, who was killed by the collision, guilty of not following the rules governing approach to crossings, and censures Towerman George Hauser for not giving an express the right of way over an excursion train, and Engineer Greiner for not using greater care. The third verdict censures Engineer Farr for not obeying signals.

DIED FROM LOCKJAW.

This Young Man Received Only a Slight Wound While Cleaning a Revolver.

New Brunswick, N.J., Aug. 7.—William Lyons, 18 years old, a son of John J. Lyons of 25 Wyckoff-street, died early this morning from tetanus, after suffering great pain and having had convulsions for several hours.

On Thursday last the young man was cleaning an old revolver. The hammer would not work, and after pouring oil in the working parts he tried it again. He did not know the revolver contained a blank cartridge and when he finally did snap the trigger the cartridge exploded. A part of the wadding lodged in his hand. He had the wound dressed.

On Tuesday he went for a ride on his bicycle. As he was returning in the evening they stopped at Landing Bridge for something to eat. His hand was paining him, and when he complained he could not eat a companion offered to feed him, but the young man replied that he could not move his jaw.

That night he was worse, and Dr. Meacham was called. He found all the symptoms of lockjaw, and did what he could for the sufferer. It was useless.

Women wearing Worth dresses and men wearing diamonds, are just as unhappy and uncomfortable over stomach and bowel troubles as are those who have only calico and bone buttons. None of us live natural lives. We eat too much and are careless about our health. Abused nature finally revolts. The rebellion is slight at first, but it grows. Occasional constipation becomes chronic. Bowels won't work. Stomach gets sour and generates gas. Liver gets full of bile. Bile gets into the blood. Headaches come, dizziness, loss of appetite, loss of sleep, foul breath, distress after eating—and all because Nature did not have the little help she needed.

One of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets would start the poisonous matter in the way it should go. If there's a good deal of it, better take two—that's a mildly cathartic dose.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets never gripe and they cure permanently. You needn't take them forever—just long enough to regulate the bowels—then stop. In this way you don't become a slave to their use as with other pills. Once used, they are always in favor.

Some designing dealers do not permit their customers to have Dr. Pierce's Pellets because inferior pills afford greater profits. Such dealers are short-sighted. They overlook the fact that next time you will go where you are supplied with what you ask for.

A HEALTHFUL DRINK
MADDENS CEREAL

A DELICIOUS and HEALTHFUL DRINK.

We seldom charge our ill feelings to the true cause. CHEMISTRY proves that Coffee contains poisonous alkaloids, as in morphine, whiskey and tobacco. A SOUND, HEALTHY PERSON may be able to stand these for a time, but "a small leak sinks a big ship," and sooner or later indigestion, headache, torpid liver, weak heart, "weary, tired feeling" proves that the nervous system has been poisoned.

EVERY DAY, and perhaps every meal, the poisonous alkaloids of Coffee and Tea add fuel to the fire. Can you wonder that some organic disease is firmly seated? Health cannot return until you remove the cause. MADDEN CEREAL has the appearance of coffee, in color like Java or Mocha, and when cream is added it changes to a rich brown. A product made from blood-producing grains, it builds up, renews and makes red blood. REGULAR PACKAGE MAKES 100 CUPS. Grocers sell it at 25 cents. TRIAL PACKAGE FOR 50 CUPS, BY MAIL, POSTPAID, 25 CENTS.

MR. TARTE ON HIMSELF.

Mr. Tarte made a characteristic speech at Knowlton, says the Ottawa Citizen. It was as full of "I"s as a peacock's tail. The fact is that the man is a bumptious egotist. He has another quality—boldness. Toujours l'audace! "Wonderful," says Lord Bacon, "is the case of boldness in civil business. What first? Boldness. What second and third? Boldness." And Tarte is bold. Think of the man whom we have known, the man who has been a fire-brand to ignite the racial and religious prejudices of his countrymen, who has acquired all his influence in this base manner, playing the virtuous patriot and condemning the sectionalism of Sir Adolphe Caron!

Mr. Tarte never tires of telling how honest he is. He says the Conservatives hate him for his honesty; for having exposed the corruption of the Public Works Department. Nothing of the kind. Tell that story to the marines. The Conservatives do not hate him for his "honesty"; they despise him for his treachery and hypocrisy. "Vat shall de honest man do in my closet? Dere is no honest man dat shall come in my closet." What brings an honest man into the company of thieves? What was Mr. Tarte doing when he was hand and glove with the gang of thieves that robbed the public treasury of Quebec? His personal liability was liquidated with money diverted from the Bay of Chaleur subsidies. In what respect does his position differ from that of a receiver of stolen goods? For an exemplar of purity he doth protest too much. He will find more credit when he makes less pretence.

As for the McGreevy matter the Globe gave a brief summary of Mr. Tarte's exploits in that connection at the time. It showed how treacherously he stabbed his generous and large hearted friend, Thomas McGreevy, in the back. Tarte was editing Le Canadien.

The Globe said: "Le Canadien received large sums ($30,000 in all) from Thomas McGreevy, Murphy and Robert, when the row commenced, attempted to exact, first, $100,000, and then $75,000 from Thomas McGreevy and the Connollys by threatening to print the letters. It was then that Tarte decided to take the side of virtue. They furnished the ammunition in the hope of forcing the Dominion Ministers to persuade Thomas and the Connollys to pay the sweat money. Tarte appeared as the champion of public morality. He would have deserved much more credit, however, had he applied himself to the elucidation of the whole truth. As it was he screened his own operations.

Such is the picture of the man drawn by the Toronto Globe. These are not the lineaments of a saint and a reformer. They are those of a man who makes a cloak of virtue to cover his treachery to his friends and his selfish personal schemes.

And yet the Globe says to-day of the man whom it so strongly discredited five years ago: "It is evident that the Canadian people did what may be called an excellent stroke of business when they secured the services of Mr. Tarte as head of a great spending department."

What can the people think of such varying estimates of the same person, who has in the meantime done nothing to clear himself of the changes made against him by the Globe in 1891 and previous years?

THEY DESERVE PITY.

Solely and Life Depend Upon Paine's Celery Compound.

We must sympathize with, and pity, the poor, weary and jaded sufferer whose life is made miserable and almost unbearable in the hot weather.

The healthiest of us have all we can do to withstand the enervating effects of scorching day and sweltering nights. The sick mortals—heaven help them—must suffer increased agony during these hot days!

The troubles that bring low the majority of people at this season are nervous prostration, nervous debility, dyspepsia, indigestion, headache, and a host of trials that result from impure and poisoned blood.

The above troubles attack men and women because their supply of nerve force is almost exhausted. Loss of this nerve force and feebleness is at the root of nearly every case of sickness.

A true nerve medicine is what is needed if health is to be restored, and the dark grave avoided. Paine's Celery Compound is a perfect and unfailing restorer of nerve force and power to the weakened and debilitated system. It quickly cures prostration, sleeplessness, headache, dyspepsia, indigestion: it cleanses the poisoned blood and gives new life and permanent vitality and strength.

Paine's Celery Compound combines the most efficient alteratives, laxatives and diuretics, and soon restores the sick one to complete health. To-day it is earth's most reliable medicine; it is made for your special case, poor sufferer, and its use will implant that state of health you are so earnestly looking for.

As there are vile liquid imitations sold in many places, insist upon your dealer giving you "Paine's," the kind that cures.

Hop Crop.

The Brighton Ensign says: This week a prominent hop dealer, living in this locality, stated that the hop crop throughout this district was almost a total failure. In fact, many yards have been left to produce whatever would grow without cultivation; and to add to this there seems to be a blight in many fields. If this is general throughout the country, hops may be quite a price in the course of a year or two.

Good News Travels as Fast as Bad.

News spreads quickly, and when a good thing is found its merits are soon learned by every one far or near. This accounts for the fast growing popularity of Fibre Chamois as an interling weich makes outdoor work possible in any weather. The first man who realized its wind and rain proof warmth quickly told his friends so that they too might enjoy this inexpensive comfort. It might seem impossible that this fabric so light in weight and without bulk should furnish so much healthful warmth; but when you realize that its merit lies in being a complete non-conductor of heat or cold, you understand why a layer of it through your clothing gives such warmth. It not only keeps out all cold but keeps in the natural heat of the body.

BENT NEARLY DOUBLE.

THE STORY OF A WELL KNOWN DELHI MAN.

TORTURED WITH RHEUMATISM FOR NEARLY TWENTY YEARS—SPENT LARGE SUMS IN A VAIN SEARCH FOR RENEWED HEALTH—NOW HE AT LAST FOUND IT.

(From the Delhi Reporter.)

There are very few troubles more wide spread and none more difficult to eradicate from the spstem than rheumatism. The sufferer is racked with pains that seem unbearable, and frequently feels that even death itself would be a relief. Among those who have found much of their lives made miserable by this dread trouble is Mr. Michael Schott, of Delhi, and having found a means of release, from its agonies he is anxious that other sufferers should profit by his experience. Mr. Schott, who is in the employ of Messrs. Quance Bros., millers, has a reputation for sterling integratory among all who know him. When one of the staff of the Reporter interviewed him, Mr. Schott gave the facts of his illness and recovery as follows:—He had been a sufferer from rheumatism since about eighteen years ago. At times he was confined to bed, but obtained no rest day nor night from the excruciating pains he was undergoing. Again he was able to go about and follow his employment, but even then frequently walked about in an almost doubled up condition. Then again he would have another relapse, and would be forced to take to his bed. During all these years he was almost continually doctoring, but never obtained anything more than temporary relief for the large sums he expended in this way. Having failed to obtain relief at home he went to Simcoe for treatment, but received no permanent benefit and soon after coming home was as bad as ever. It will be readily understood that he was seriously discouraged, and had come to look upon his case as hopeless. Finally he was urged to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after hesitating at spending any more money, in what he now considered a vain pursuit of health, he at last consented to give them a trial. By the time he had used a half dozen boxes there was no longer any doubt in his mind that he was steadily improving, and the treatment was then gladly continued. When he had taken a dozen boxes he found himself entirely recovered, entirely free from pain and from all stiffness of joints, and he is now able to do as hard a day's work as any man in the village. He has now been free from his old enemy for so long a period that he feels his cure is permanent, and is consequently an enthusiastic admirer of Dr. Williams' wonderful Pink Pills, and urges all who are similarly suffering to give them a trial, feeling confident that they will prove quite as efficacious as they did in this case.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills strike at the root of the disease, driving it from the system and restoring the patient to health and strength. In cases of paralysis, spinal trouble, locomotor ataxia, sciatica, rheumatism, erysipelas, scrofulous troubles, etc., these pills are superior to all other treatment. They are also a specific for the troubles which make the lives of so many women a burden, and speedily restore the rich glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Men broken down by overwork, worry or excesses will find in Pink Pills a certain cure. Sold by all dealers or sent by mail postpaid, at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N. Y. Beware of imitations and substitutes alleged to be "just as good."

He Swung His Horse Over.

Len Henry, a well-known pioneer, relates an adventure that is out of the usual order. He was travelling on a narrow trail above the raging Grande Ronde river, when he came to a landslide about twenty feet across, that left no trail or even a niche in the smooth precipitous rock. The trail was so narrow that the horse could not turn back. He was trapped. Above the twenty-foot break in the trail was a sharp crag of overhanging rock. On his saddle bow was a strong riata sixty feet long, and Harry is an expert in the use of it. He steadied himself upon the saddle, swung the rope over his head, and hurled it high into the air. It was settled firmly over the crag. He tried it carefully. It was firm. His saddle was a new and strong one, with double cinches. Around the horn he wound the rope. He urged the horse on to the edge of the precipice.

The faithful beast stood firm. He would not step over, but the rider drew up the slack and pulled with all his power. Inch by inch he drew the straining horse forward til his feet slipped and he swung over the chasm. The rider held his breath as he looked at the river below and the slender rope above, but he was across the gap. He sprang up the trail and tugged at the reins to aid the horse in gaining his feet. He pulled and the horse lunged up into the trail with the chasm back behind. Mr. Henry rode away and left his rope dangling for the use of the next wayfarer who chanced to come that way.—Anaconda (Mont.) Standard.

THE IRISH LAND BILL

Seems to be Making Haste Through the House of Lords.

London, Aug. 7.—The House of Lords today passed the Irish Land Bill through committee after five hours' further debate. The hostility shown towards the measure was less marked than was expected. Several of the amendments offered were withdrawn. One amendment was rejected by a vote of 59 to 41, the announcement of the result being greeted with cheers, and one was carried, 61 to 46, in opposition to the Government. The report on the committee stage and the third reading of the bill are fixed for Monday next.

Prisoners of Hope.

It is related that a poor woman once went to Buddha—her child was at the point of death and she was full of grief. He bade her go and get, as a remedy, some mustard seed, but its efficacy would depend on its being obtained at a house where no one had ever died. She went from door to door in vain; she could not find a door where death had not been. Her own child died! but she was comforted in the thought that her sorrow was but the common lot of all. The very author of her religion could do nothing more for her. Do not these bereaved sorrow-stricken prisoners of hope appeal to us to bring them a Christ who shall wipe away their tears?

There is woe in the chieftain's palace,
For the dark-haired maiden—woe!
She is dying, while all around her
Is throbbing with life's full glow—
The scent of a thousand roses
Whose buds in the morn unfold,
While the white doves coo in the sunshine,
And the wave turns to molten gold.

But the light from those eyes is fading,
That were bright as the eastern stars;
And the hue from her cheek is dying,
As the red from the sunset bars;
How soon came that young life's sunset!
How quickly its shadows fell!
And the heart of the mother is breaking
For she was the loved of all.

To the height of the hills she toileth,
To the house where the lone god dwells
And low at the feet of Buddha
The tale of her anguish tells;
On the face of the god no shadow,
Unbroken its awful calm,
Oh, mother, thy heart is throbbing
Like the leaves of the wind-tossed palm!

But he speaks—with a deep, low utterance
That scarce seems to stir the air,
As the ceaseless moan of the ocean
Is the voice of the world's despair:
"Shall the waves turn back at thy bidding
That bear thy best love away?
If so, may the cry of thy weeping,
The tide of destiny stay.

"The green shall come to the forest,
The dying leaf shall fall,
The babe shall be born, and the old man die—
'Tis the common lot of all!
Yet, thou who hast sought the Immortals
A counselling word shalt win—
Seek the mustard seed as a gift from a home
Where death never entered in!"

Down from the terrible mountain
To the well and the shaded glen,
And the paths to the village trodden
By the weary steps of men:
On her passionate quest she stoppeth
At many and many a door,
And still comes that one sad answer,
"Ah, death has been here before!"

The lights are out in the palace,
The arrow of death has sped,
Yet the mother's tears fall softly
As she sits by the quiet dead;
For, oh, her heart keeps murmuring,
"My doom is the doom of all;
Man is born to sorrow
As the leaves in the forest fall!"

O darkness that wraps the spirit!
O sorrow that shrouds the heart!
Only the day star's shining
Can bids its gloom depart;
The people sit in the shadow,
The story of Christ untold;
O bring them the gathered sunshine
That will turn the dark to gold!
—May Gorges.

All Prize Goods

Colored by the Diamond Dyes.

It is a fact worthy of note that all the best rag carpets, rugs and mats shown at country fairs and exhibitions last year were dyed with the fast and brilliant Diamond Dyes.

This season, we hear that even more extensive work is going on for the coming autumn fairs. The ladies who are experts in the art of carpet, rug and making are now buying Diamond Dyes in large quantities to color their materials for the manufacture of exhibition goods.

At all fairs, nine out of every ten exhibitors of homemade carpets, rugs and mats use the Diamond Dyes, knowing full well that the imitation dyes can never give satisfactory results.

If you are about coloring materials for exhibition goods, do not allow your dealer to sell you the imitation, crude dyes. He makes a large profit, but you suffer loss of your money, time and materials if you are unfortunate enough to use them.

CITY AND DISTRICT

There was a large market this morning.

A hat and shirt found in the Kyle House yard await an owner at the police station.

Women who are weak and nervous, who have no appetite and cannot sleep, find strength and vigor in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Geo. Ritchie & Co., are offering special prices in certain lines to-night. See advertisement.

A pointer for those who bet on races. Bet on the man who drinks Cereal instead of tea or coffee. He is sound and healthy. You can get Cereal from your grocer.

A freight train was derailed near Ernestown last night and the up trains were delayed several hours this morning.

Mr. C. W. Storms, Desdon, Ont., says: "I have been taking Miller's Compound Iron Pills for two months; have increased in weight 12 pounds and feel better than for years." Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

The Grand Trunk, it is understood, will adopt the Gould automatic brake on all new freight cars and those that will be prepared in the future. It is estimated that three thousand brakes will be required.

Hanlan would no doubt be champion today if Cereal, the hot food drink, had been discovered earlier. Tea and coffee will undermine any constitution, while Cereal renews and builds up. Ask your grocer for a package.

The bit of Grille work in T. P. Brown's window which is being so much admired, was made by the Otterville Mfg. Co., whose goods are beautifying homes all over the Dominion, Mr. Brown is sole agent for Belleville and vicinity.

"Mamma, was that a sugar-plum you just gave me?" asked little Mabel. "No, dear, it was one of Dr. Ayer's Pills." "Please, may I have another?" "Not now, dear; one of those nice pills is all you need at present, because every dose is effective."

A man who could not spare a dollar a year for a newspaper, recently sent 50 two cent stamps to a down-east Yankee to learn how to stop a horse from slobbering. He got his receipt and he'll never forget it. "To stop a horse from slobbering, teach him to spit."

The general opinion is that the English crew cannot win the four-oared race and the reasons given are that they have been drinking tea and coffee instead of Cereal, the new food drink. Get a package from your grocer and you will soon discover its wonderful properties.

The Baptists of the city will occupy their new house of worship to-morrow on the corner of Pinnacle and Hotel sts. The repairs are sufficiently completed to make the audience quite comfortable, and will be thoroughly so by the opening Sunday on Sept. 6th. A cordial invitation is extended to the public to worship to-morrow in the new quarters. Rev. V. H. Cowsert will preach both morning and evening.

W. H. Cudney, Port Burwell, Ont., says: "I was afflicted with Rheumatism and tried all cures. I did not get relief until I tried Miller's Compound Iron Pills, and before I had finished two boxes I was completely cured, and now feel like a different man." Only 25 cents per box. Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

THE REGATTA.

All Looks Prosperous—The Grand Stand an Excellent One—Notes of the Oarsmen.

As the time set for the great international sculling regatta, skiff and canoe races and aquatic display approaches the prospect seems bright for racing of the first excellence and highly attractive spectacles in the evenings. Interest has been aroused in all parts of the province and in portions of Quebec and the neighboring States, and a large attendance is confidently looked for.

The grand stand erected, from which to view the aquatic events, is most solidly built. It has been inspected by H. Carre, Esq., civil engineer, who certifies to it being thoroughly secure and safe, no matter how great the crowd.

Yesterday afternoon there was a high wind and a heavy sea on the bay, so the fours did not take their usual spin at 4 o'clock and some of the men practiced in their singles in the lee of the island. Hanlan, however, showed that now, as ever, he is the master of all oarsmen on rough water by going out in his frail shell where no other man dare go—out where the white caps were rolling, and so on down the bay and back again, his craft bobbing about like a cork. The other oarsmen, who were best capable of appreciating this feat, looked on in wonder, and Rogers remarked that if the race in singles was to be rowed in rough water it would be a gift to "Ned," who would not need to exert himself in such case.

Both crews were out this morning. Hackett disabled his rowlock, which gave Hanlan some "tall" pulling to do. Hanlan and Rogers were out in their singles afterwards.

Think Twice.

If you are accustomed to buying your clothing to order, just think twice before doing so this fall. Do you know the Oak Hall can surprise you with the beautiful suits now in stock? We want to see the man who thinks he can't get good clothing unless he has his measure especially left. We can change your mind in five minutes.

The Export Egg Trade.

The advance in the price of eggs in England has caused a very material increase in our exports of late, the total quantity shipped from this port up to the close of last month being 4,779 cases against 1,483 cases for the corresgonding period last year, showing an increase of 3,296 cases, or over 300 per cent. Latest returns from Liverpool and Glasgow were very satisfactory, and the chances are in favor of a good damand from this out for choice new laid eggs costing about 12½c f.o.b. here. For forward shipment in November and December, pickled eggs have been placed at 6s 3d to 6s 9d, cost and freight Liverpool. This month's egg production is considered as good as the spring stock, and by some preferred. It is this stock which English buyers always take, and is well liked. Held fresh stock is quoted at which English buyers always take, and is well liked. Held fresh stock is quoted at 9c to 10c.—Trade Bulletin.

Presbytery of Kingston.

A special meeting of the Presbytary of Kingston was held in Kingston on Monday to consider a call from the congregation at Tweed to Rev. D. Martin. Rev. S. Houston stated that he had held service at Tweed as instructed by presbytery and declared the mission station of Tweed and Faller raised to the status of a congregation. The presbytery congratulated the people of Tweed on their spirit shown in so soon arriving at such a state of self dependence. The call was sustained and arrangements made for the induction of Mr. Martin on the 18th inst. Rev. W. S. McTavish will preside and induct and address the minister, Rev. Mr. Claxton will preach, and Rev. J. Black address the people.

Watch Your Change.

The value of the United States silver coin is at a very low ebb in Canada just now, and war has been declared against it. The banks are determined to get rid of the Yankee coins, and no wonder at this. They have taken the initiative and the public are following on properly. Mercantile houses, insurance companies, hotels and restaurants have all announced their intention of accepting nothing but Canadian coin. Every person should now look carefully to their change if they do not wish to have useless coin passed upon them.

Canadian Bacon in England.

Quite an advance has taken place in Canadian bacon in England, sales of which, according to cable advices, have been made within the past two or three days in Liverpool and Manchester at a rise of 2s to 2s 6d per cwt. Considerable quantities of both hams and bacon are going forward to Liverpool where it is expected they will meet a good market. It is about time that a change for the better was made, and prices regained their normal status.—Trade Bulletin.

BOYS' BRIGADE INSPECTED.

Young Soldiers Make a Good Showing—Fireworks in the Evening.

Young Canada was very much in evidence at Massassaga Park yesterday afternoon, when the Boys' Brigade of St. Andrew's church were inspected by Col. Ponton and his officers. A goodly number, mostly friends of the boys, went down to the Park after dinner and about three o'clock the inspection began and lasted two hours. The following officers were present: Col. Ponton, Major Biggar, Capts. Pope, Osborne and Muir, Surgeon Farley, of the 49th, Lt. Clapp, Lt. Conger and Chaplain Maclean. Col. Ponton put the brigade through all the movements of regulars and they acquitted themselves most creditably. He afterwards addressed the boys, complimenting them upon their drill and good behavior and he also gave a word of praise to Capt. Black and his officers.

There were several hundred people present in the evening to witness the fireworks, which were most successfully managed by Sergt. Geo. Thompson. The day was most delightfully spent by all present. The camp broke up to-day.

Playing With a Living Ball.

Down in South America there lives a queer creature that carries its fortress around on its back. It isn't very large or strong, and so when the animals of the forest attack it, it rolls up into a little ball, draws in its tail, and its hard outer fortress protects it. The natives have given it the name, "bolita," which means "little ball," and sometimes it is brought in from its home in the woods for the children to roll about and play with, as they would with a football. And when they are tired of bowling it around, the bolita, which hasn't been disturbed in the least, calmly unrolls and crawls away.

The English name of this animal is armadillo, which means "little armed," and there are a great many different species of it found in South America. It lives in the earth in burrows, which it digs with its sharp claws. During the daylight it quietly naps, but as soon as dark comes it crawls out and searches for its dinner, which consists of insects, roots and fruits. It looks very comical as it crawls about, for its claws are so long that it seems to walk on its very tiptoes.

The natives are fond of the bolita's flesh, and whenever they find one of the animated little fortresses they carry it home, and, after the children are tired playing with it, they eat it up. Many centuries ago armadillos as huge as express waggons were common, but they are now extinct, and the bolita of to-day never grows more than two or three feet long.

The Bank of Scotland.

The Bank of Scotland, now 200 years old, naturally sought to encourage Scottish industries, and this is shown in the manufacture of its paper for notes. The first large notes were made in 1693, twenty shilling notes, as they were termed, being only issued on April 7, 1703. In 1729 the bank's paper was manufactured at Giffordhall, near Haddington. Attendants had to be present in the bank's interest, and their account was paid by the bank. One item was "ale and bread furnished to the workmen, 10s.;" and another for "drink money to servants, £4 17s. 6d." The items are suggestive, although it is possible they only represented drink money in name.

In 1735 the bank got its twenty-shilling banknotes made at Collingtoun Milne, (Collinton Mill,) and there is an "accompt for drink money" in connection with it. A barber came twice from Edinburgh to shave the officials, and received 3 shillings for his professional attendance. Green tea must have cost at this time 24s. per pound, for in the bill a quarter pound sells for 6s. At this Colinton Mill the bank appears to have kept all the employes in food during the time the paper was being manufactured. A man was engaged twelve days at the paper mill in dressing meat, and he cut up in that time 200 pounds of it. Meat and mutton cost only 2½d. per pound in these good old days. A hen is charged at 8d., a duck at 9d., 1 "sollan goose," 1s. 4d., and a wild fowl 10d; cheese cost 4d. per pound and bacon 8d. per pound. In 1769 the bank's note paper was made at Redhaugh Miln, (Redhall Mill.)—Chambers' Journal.

Kindergarden Schools.

Many of her friends will regret to hear that Miss Stocking, who conducted the Kindergarten school on John st., has decided not to return to the city. We believe Miss Florence Jones has resolved to assume the directorship of the school and will re-open it about the 1st of September. The school will be removed to the frame house between St. Andrew's church and Col. Lazier's residence, where two rooms will be appropriately fitted up for this mode of teaching. Miss Anning, we are informed, purposes opening a free Kindergarten in the City Mission building this fall. As both these young ladies have passed the necessary examinations we have no doubt the schools will be first-class in every respect.

Police Court.

Ed. Reddick, arrested yesterday for uttering a counterfeit coin, was found guilty and judgment reserved for a week.

William Doughty, of Thurlow, was charged by Jas. Bateman, of this city with obtaining a cow from him, agreeing to pay $5 boot. He kept the cow and refused to pay the money.

The Barnhart case was proceeded with this morning. After some evidence was taken the case was enlarged for further evidence.

Chas. Barnhart charged Mrs. Thos. Perkins with stoning his cow. The case was still in progress as we went to press.

Overcome by the Sun.

Ernest Drader, living north of Flinton, came to the city this morning with a load of berries. Shortly after arriving on the market he fell down, overcome by the heat. Dr. Hudson said it was a bad case. He was removed to his sister's, near Albert College.

ENTRIES COMING IN FAST.

Some Noted Amateur Scullers for Next Week's Regatta.

T. W. R. McRae and J. Brasier returned this morning from Brockville, where they were busy all yesterday with W. W. Power entering several of the first class amateurs present at the C. A. A. O. regatta. They were very successful in securing entries for all the amateur events.

For the amateur singles they entered W. Laing, of the G.T.R. Club, Montreal, and R. Robinson, F. E. Russell and J. Ryan, of Toronto; for the doubles two crews were entered, Russell and Ryan, and Jury and Romohr; fours will row from G.T.R. Club, Montreal, Don Rowing Club, Toronto, with others yet to come.

Rice and Scholes, professionals, are also coming.

The entry list for the sailing events is already very large, with several places to hear from. The Ottawa Canoe Club have entered for all events in their class. The Royal Toronto Skiff Sailing Club have sent in seven entries for half raters and a number from Peterborough and Picton are also in. The sailing races will be a feature of the regatta, as the half-raters entered are very fast.

The Brockville regatta drew a big rowd yesterday and the events were very close and interesting.

Five amateur oarsmen will arrive with four shells this evening on the mail boat and others will come from Toronto on Monday.

Regatta Notes.

The professionals keep up their practices regularly. The English Crew took a long hard walk last evening and the Canadian-American four are doing harder work than they did before the Halifax regatta, as they fully realize that they have their work cut out for them.

Football Championship for 1895.

The knowing ones are speculating on the football possibilities of the season. Ottawa is not likely to retain the honors of the championship, as Queen's will put in a team sure to smash all records. It is often the case that very slight causes will lose a victory. It is stated that a painful corn made useless one of the best American players. It follows that no team can hope to win this year that neglects to supply its members with Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the only safe, sure, and painless remedy for corns.

Curious Prehistoric Monkeys.

In several places in the Cape Colony and Orange Free State of South Africa caves have been explored which yielded hundreds of mummified remains of a queer species of six-fingered monkey. All the grown specimens of this remarkable species of quadrumana have the tail situated high on the back—from three to five inches further up than that of the modern monkey—and other distinguishing marks, such as canine teeth, beards on the males, etc. Whether these creatures were mummified by human beings, who formerly held them in reverence or were taken by some catastrophe, such as a sudden convulsion of nature, or a cataclpsm which entombed them in their tombs, and thus preserved them in a secret that can never be known.

Sour

Stomach, sometimes called waterbrash, and burning pain, distress, nausea, dyspepsia, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This it accomplishes because with its wonderful power as a blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla gently tones and strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, invigorates the liver, creates an appetite, gives refreshing sleep, and raises the health tone. In cases of dyspepsia and indigestion it seems to have "a magic touch."

"For over 12 years I suffered from sour

with severe pains across my shoulders, and great distress. I had violent nausea which would leave me very weak and faint, difficult to get my breath. These spells came oftener and more severe. I did not receive any lasting benefit from physicians, but found such happy effects from a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I took several bottles and mean to always keep it in the house. I am now able to do all my own work, which for six years I have been unable to do. My husband and son have also been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla—for pains in the back, and after the grip. I gladly recommend this grand blood medicine." MRS. BLACK PIGMIES

That Inhabit the Philippine Islands.

The interior of the island of Formosa is inhabited by a race of savage dwarfs. They dwell in the fastnesses of the mountains, and some of them are head hunters. Bags of a peculiar network are manufactured by them expressly for the purpose of carrying heads secured in their warlike forays. One of their chiefs, when about to be executed by the Chinese, said: "I have no fear of death; I have taken 94 heads and only wanted six more to make the hundred."

They call themselves Aetas; they are active, very dark, woolly, small-headed, and average only four feet and seven inches in height.

They are distinct from any other grown people. Though so tiny, they are very muscular, using with ease bows which the strongest white man cannot string. They are wonderful runners, and their senses are astonishingly acute. They distinguish by their odor fruits hidden in the thick foliage of the jungle, and recognize by smell only from what flowers the bees have gathered honey.

The dwarfs are supposed to have been the earliest inhabitants of the Malay Archipelago. They invented canoes the nautical qualities of which have astonished English sailors. Eventually they became widely scattered over the seas of that part of the world and on the mainland as well.

Bigger and stronger people gradually drove out and killed off these pigmies, who now are found occupying the interior of some of the largest islands, finding a refuge among the mountains, while the plains and coastal regions are inhabited by intruding races. This is true of Luzon, the largest member of the group of Philippines. The dwarfs were found there by the first Spanish settlers as well as in the interior of the four other principal islands.

They will have nothing to do with the Spanish, Malay or Chinese inhabitants, and intrusion upon their territory is vigorously resented. Armed as they are with poisoned arrows, the slightest scratch from which means death, they are well able to defend themselves. There are parts of Luzon in which no white man dares to set foot, and some of the smaller isles of the group remain to this day unexplored for the same reason.

The dwarfs trade to some extent with Chinese peddlers, but in a very peculiar fashion. The peripatetic merchant deposits money in a designated spot and goes away to a distance. In return for it the savages leave in the same place such merchandise as rare gums, fine woods and the leaves and roots of valuable plants, which the peddlar is able to dispose of in the cities at a great profit. They are scrupulously honest and even liberal in their dealings.

The chains of hills or belts of jungle must not be crossed without formal invitation or special permission. Occasionally violations of this law cause bloody fights. The Little Negroes are the smallest people in the world, with the exception, perhaps, of the Congo, who are said to average only 4 feet 2½ inches in height.

Owing to the extreme wildness of these little people and the difficulty of approaching them, they have never been studied to any extent.

Formosa is a part of the great archipelago which includes the Philippines, long possessed and misgoverned by Spain. The soil is bursting with fatness, and nowhere is a finer quality of tea produced. It is a pineapple country, and a beautiful fibre is obtained from the leaves of that plant. The eastern half of the island is covered with jungles, in which grows the valuable creeper called rattan.—Cleveland 'Leader.'

The Most Economical ...House Warmer

The "Kelsey" Corrugated Warm Air Generator.

Any ordinary Hot Air Furnace will produce heat if you will only supply enough fuel. The "Kelsey" has several special and valuable features but most important is that it will give more heat with less fuel and is the most durable heater made.

The "Kelsey" fire pot being constructed of several upright, tubular, corrugated, cast iron sections (see cut) around which the fire passes and up through which the cold air passes while being heated, and this entire section being wrapped with a heavy steel casing which becomes heated by the fire striking it when passing down outside of upright sections towards smoke pipe, it in turn warms the air that passes up between this steel casing and the galvanized iron casing, this explains why the "Kelsey" has three times more radiating surface and warm air capacity than an ordinary Furnace. The "Kelsey" heats every room evenly, wheresoever located, with a nice, mild, healthful warm air that will not injure your furniture.

The "Kelsey" will heat rooms 60 feet distant.

The "Kelsey" does not heat your cellar.

The "Kelsey" is absolutely gas and dust proof.

ABBOTT'S AWFUL FATE

He Grasped a Boulder and It Gave Way.

The Man's Body Bounded From Rock to Rock Until Stopped by a Projecting Crag Which Prevented a Fall of 2000 Feet More—It Took His Companions Four Hours to Descend 1000 Feet to Reach Him—The Body Had to be Rolled in Blankets and Slid Down the Side of the Mountain.

Calgary, N.W.T., Aug. 7.—Further particulars of Monday's tragedy at the Canadian National Park, when Philip S. Abbott lost his life by falling over a precipice, were received here to-day. Mr. Abbott and three other American tourists left their hotel at Banff on Monday morning, fully equipped for a long day's mountain climbing. They drove to Lake Louise, a beautiful resort among the peaks of the Rockies, about sixteen miles from Banff.

Taking ropes and other necessary equipments, they started early in the day to climb one of the highest peaks in the neighborhood. They reached a point about 2000 feet above the lake, when, further ascent becoming dangerous, the four adventurers tied themselves together with ropes. They climbed another 1000 feet, until they arrived at a difficult spot, which it was impossible for the four to pass together. The rope was therefore untied, and Abbott, being the best climber, volunteered to lead the way. All went well with him for a few yards, as he cautiously picked his way, inch by inch, up the steep and pathless declivity. At last, reaching upward to what appeared to be a solid projecting boulder, he grasped it with both hands and had almost succeeded in pulling himself up when the rotten boulder gave way, and, with a cry of horror, and wildly clutching at the air, he fell into the abyss below. His body bounded from rock to rock until it was stopped by a narrow, jutting crag, which was all that prevented a fall of 2000 feet more.

It took the three survivors four hours to descend to where it rested. They found Abbott still breathing, but unable to speak. As it was impossible to carry the burden down the slippery descent the party was compelled to leave the body where it lay, returning on Tuesday with a relief party. Then they wrapped the body in several blankets and let it slide down 2000 feet to the foot of the mountain, this being the only method of recovering it.

NOBLE GENEROSITY.

Lord Mountstephen and Sir Donald Smith Give $800,000 More to the Royal Victoria Hospital.

Montreal, Aug. 7.—(Special.)—The serious illness of the Cardinal Archbishop of Quebec has given rise to a good deal of talk as to whether the Roman authorities will give another prince of the church to French Canada, at the death of Cardinal Taschereau, which event cannot be many weeks remote. In one sense a cardinal has no successor, yet there is a strong party in the Quebec church in favor of conferring the dignity of the purple upon the Archbishop of Montreal. It is understood that if the distinguished prelate becomes a prince of the church that Mgr. Emard will be transferred to the See of Montreal, and Rev. Canon Bruchesi named Bishop of Valleyfield.

Once more Lord Mountstephen and Sir Donald Smith have remembered the sick and afflicted of the city in which a good part of their fortunes was made. In the first place, these noble-hearted gentlemen gave $1,000,000 to found the Royal Victoria Hospital. Of this sum $800,000 has been spent on the buildings, leaving $200,000 as an endowment fund. It was learned today that Lord Mountstephen and Sir Donald have given $800,000 more, bringing the endowment fund up to the handsome sum of $1,000,000, thus ensuring the success of the hospital for all time to come.

The re-organization of the Provincial finances is now complete, your correspondent is informed that when Hon. Mr. Atwater next brings down his budget, it will show a surplus for the year ending June 20, 1896, of about $290,000. Speldnid work has also been done in the Crown Lands Department, under Hon. E. J. Flynn and Hon. G. A. Nantel. The revenue for the past year was $1,045,000. In 1867 the revenue from the Crown Lands Department of this province only amounted to $375,000.

A YOUNG WIFE TORTURED.

Charles Whitney of Elmwood, Ill., Charged With Suspending His Wife From a Window by a Leg and Arm.

Cincinnati, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Catharine Whitney of Elmwood is seeking a divorce and the tale of woe recited in her petition indicates that, though married only a year, she has undergone torture enough for several years. Her husband is Charles Whitney. The most startling charge made by Mrs. Whitney against her husband is that he had held her out of a second storey window of their home in Elmwood by one leg and one arm and thus kept her suspended for some time threatening to drop her to the ground, while the people were passing along the street and gazing at her. Because of this act of her husband she was greatly frightened and her nervous system received a shock which made her ill, from the effects of which she did not recover for a long time.

But this is not all. She charges that for the past six months of their married life her husband has beaten and abused her almost continually. During that time he blackened her eyes by striking her, and on one occasion he tried to cut her with a butcher knife, and in defending herself she was cut on the right hand. She also charges that he has not spoken to her during the past two or three weeks except in ordering her to do something. He capped the climax on the 31st of last month by scolding her until 12 o'clock at night, refusing to permit her to retire to bed, but compelling her to remain in a chair. She left him the next day and has been away from him since. She wants her maiden name.

This Is What the Power Company at the Falls Will Charge for Energy.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 7.—The Power Company of this city, after months of cogitation and sphinx-like silence, has at last spoken. It announced yesterday that electric energy would be delivered to customers in Buffalo at $36 per horsepower per year.

The first 1000 horsepower to be taken by the Street Car Company of that city will cost it $40 per horsepower.

The above rates are considered very fair here, although it is understood that Buffalonians expected or at least hoped to get a much lower rate.

POKER IN THE PAY CAR.

Harry Noad, Under Extradition in New York, Tells About Doings While Employed by the C.P.R.

New York, Aug. 7.—Harry Noad, who is wanted in Canada for the alleged theft of $5500 from the Canadian Pacific Railway while he was assistant paymaster on the line, and who has had frequent examinations before Commissioner Shields in extradition proceedings, got a chance to-day to tell his story before the commissioner. The object of his examination was to hear from him how he managed to accumulate the $3000 or more which he gave to the Cleverley woman, who came here with him as his wife, and who, when arrested, surrendered the keys to the vault where the money and papers were kept, to the police. The prosecution has sought to prove that this money was part of the proceeds of the alleged theft, while the Cleverley woman testified on Tuesday that Noad had given her $3000 several years ago, which she afterwards returned to him. Noad testified that he had been thirteen years with the company and was in the receipt of $65 a month. He said he had for some years bought and sold horses, traded with the natives along the lines of the railroad, sold and bought furs and made money in other ways. "I might state here," he said, "that I made a good bit of money playing poker on the pay car."

"How much did you win?" "Well, once I won $60, a gold watch and chain and a diamond ring. The money I won from a higher official, and the watch, chain and ring from some of the others on the pay car. I was a pretty steady winner."

"What did you lose usually?" "Usually I did not lose at all. The most I ever lost at one sitting was $13."

Noad then detailed how the money for the pay car was drawn from the different banks by himself and a higher official. He said that business was done very loosely by the higher official, who was often "under the weather." He says that they would draw as high as $30,000 from the bank in Montreal, of which he had the custody, when they would meet the higher official's friends, who drank with them, and the higher official often drank too much.

"I never drank any liquor on those occasions," said Noad, "as I knew I would be responsible. I also want to state," he said, "that there has been carried on the books since 1884 a shortage of $668 by the higher official, who was frequently short in his accounts, and on two occasions I loaned him $600 and $400 to make good his shortage. The higher official also borrowed largely from other people, and there is some of his paper in Montreal now which the holders would like to collect."

Noad said he also made money by loaning amounts to the higher official and others. Noad told his story in a straightforward manner, being at times too anxious to talk, and was stopped by his attorney. He answered the questions put to him promptly, and seemingly made no effort to conceal anything.

At the conclusion of his testimony the case was closed, and Commissioner Shields said he would announce his decision as soon as possible after the testimony was written out.

A Farmer and His Wife Nearly Killed by a Vicious Brute.

Bridgeton, N.J., Aug. 7.—A ferocious bull attacked Mrs. Samuel Young on a farm near Deerfield yesterday. The cries of the woman brought her husband to her rescue, and both nearly lost their lives before the animal was driven off.

The bull pinned Mrs. Young to the ground, and when her husband approached the furious animal with a fence rail it turned on him and gored him until he was insensible.

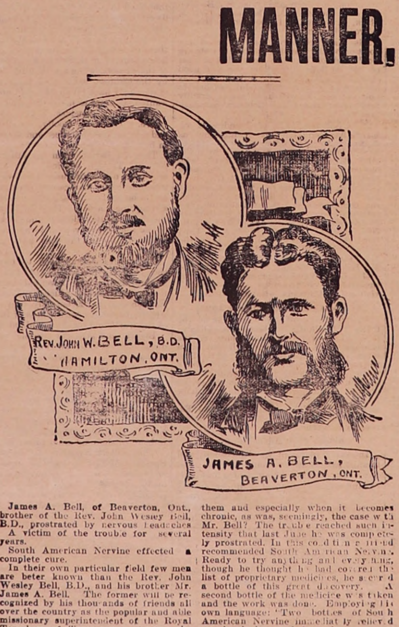
BUILT UP THE SYSTEM IN A WONDERFUL MANNER.



REV. JOHN W. BELL, B.D.
HAMILTON, ONT.
JAMES A. BELL,
BEAVERTON, ONT.

James A. Bell, of Beaverton, Ont., brother of the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., prostrated by nervous headaches A victim of the trouble for several years.

South American Nervine effected a complete cure.

In their own particular field few men are beter known than the Rev. John Wesley Bell, B.D., and his brother Mr. James A. Bell. The former will be recognized by his thousands of friends all over the country as the popular and able missionary superintendent of the Royal Templars of Temperance. Among the 20,000 members of this order in Ontario his counsel is sought on all sorts of occasions. On the public platform he is one of the strong men of the day, battling against the evils of intemperance. Equally well known is Mr. Bell in other provinces of the Dominion, having been for years a member of the Manitoba Methodist Conference and part of this time was stationed in Winnipeg. His brother, Mr. James A. Bell, is a highly respected resident of Beaverton, where his influence, though perhaps more circumscribed than that of his eminent brother, is none the less effective and productive of good. Of recent years, however, the working ability of Mr. James A. Bell has been sadly marred by severe attacks of nervous headache, accompanied by indigestion. Who can do fit work when this trouble takes hold of them and especially when it becomes chronic, as was, seemingly, the case with Mr. Bell? The trouble reached such intensity that last June he was completely prostrated. In this condition he tried recommended South American Nervine. Ready to try anything and everything, though he thought he had covered the list of proprietary medicines, he secured a bottle of this great discovery. A second bottle of the medicine was taken and the work was done. Employing his own language: "Two bottles of South American Nervine immediately relieved my headaches and have built up my system in a wonderful manner." Let us not deprecate the good our clergymen and social reformers are doing in the world, but how ill-fitted they would be for their work were it not the relief that South American Nervine brings to them when physical ills overtake them, and when the system, as a result of hard, earnest and continuous work, breaks down. Nervine treats the system as the wise reformer treats the evils he is battling against. It strikes at the root of the trouble. All disease comes from disorganization of the nerve centers. This is a scientific fact. Nervine at once works on these nerve centers; gives to them health and vigor; and then there courses through the system strong, healthy, life-maintaining blood, and nervous troubles of every variety are things of the past.

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER

Is a very remarkable remedy, both for INTERNAL and EXTERNAL use, and wonderful in its quick action to relieve distress.

PAIN-KILLER is a sure cure for Sore Throat, Coughs, Chills, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cramps, Cholera, and all Bowel Complaints.

PAIN-KILLER is THE BEST remedy known for Sea-Sickness, Sick Headache, Pain in the Back or Side, Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

PAIN-KILLER is UNQUESTIONABLY the BEST LINIMENT MADE. It brings SPEEDY AND PERMANENT RELIEF in all cases of Bruises, Cuts, Sprains, Severe Burns, etc.

PAIN-KILLER is the well tried and trusted friend of the Mechanic, Farmer, Planter, Sailor, and in fact all classes wanting a medicine always at hand, and SAFE TO USE internally or externally with certainty of relief.

Beware of imitations. Take none but the genuine "PERRY DAVIS." Sold everywhere; 25c. big bottle.

Very large bottle, 50 cents.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

A Sufferer Cured

"Every season, from the time I was two years old, I suffered dreadfully from erysipelas, which kept growing worse until my hands were almost useless. The bones softened so that they would bend, and several of my fingers are now crooked from this cause. On my hand I carry large scars, which, but for AYER'S Sarsaparilla, would be sores, provided I was alive and able to carry anything. Eight bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me, so that I have had no return of the disease for more than twenty years. IN WATERY GRAVES.

Two Toronto Men Were Among the Victims.

Attempts at Resuscitation in Both Cases Proved Futile—James McMaster Met His Fate in the Murray Canal, While Charles Brewer Was Drowned at Sunnybra—Both Were Bathing—Sad Drowning of a Young Engaged Couple at Montreal.

Toronto, Aug. 10.

Russell Pollard, aged 23, who lived with his widowed mother at 11 Argyle-street, was drowned in the bay yesterday afternoon, while bathing, off the sand bar, opposite Brock-street. The young man is supposed to have got beyond his depth. As soon as he was missed, Arthur E. Rutherford, 144 Peter-street, dived for him and recovered the body in a few minutes. Dr. Wood and others worked for three hours trying to revive him, but without success. The body was taken home in the patrol wagon. Coroner Greig was notified, and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The remains will be taken to Port Perry. The young man's father dropped dead about six months ago at Toronto Junction, while running to catch a street car.

JOHN CATTON'S FATAL HOLIDAY.

The Sad Drowning of a Young Man Who Supported His Widowed Mother.

John Catton, a young fellow of 17, who resided at 147 DeGrassi-street, was drowned on Saturday afternoon at Rosebank, near Whitby. He had just commenced a short holiday and was to have met there three friends named Walter and Wallace Haney and Harry Ellis, all of whom live on De Grassi-street, with whom he intended to have two or three days' sailing. While awaiting their arrival he engaged a rowboat, and in the act of stepping from the wharf to the boat, it capsized, and he fell into the lake, which at this spot is very deep. He was in the water ten minutes before he was recovered, and although then still alive, and a doctor was promptly on the spot, all efforts to maintain vitality proved unavailing.

The sad news was brought to his home by two cyclists. The Rev. J. W. Blackler of St. Matthew's, was at the house at the time making a customary parochial visit. The grief of the mother was terrible to witness. Exactly three weeks ago her husband died from consumption, after a prolonged illness, and the young man was the principal bread-winner in the family. Four years ago he nearly lost his life by drowning in the same neighborhood on the occasion of the Sunday school picnic.

The funeral takes place this afternoon at 3 o'clock, from St. Matthew's Church.

WADED OUT TO DEATH.

How Charles Brewer, 17, of Peterboro, Lost His Life.

Hastings, Ont., Aug. 9.—This afternoon Charles Brewer and a companion, while bathing at Sunnybra, about two miles east of Hastings, were trying to see who could go out the farthest in the water. Neither could swim. Brewer got caught in some weeds and fell and immediately sank and never rose. The companion ran for help, and a couple of men who were near at hand came to their assistance, but after diving for the body several times they had to give up the search. The body has not yet been recovered. Brewer, who was a young man about 18 years of age, worked on a farm for Andrew Pickens, sr. His parents reside at Peterboro. A large crowd are searching for the body, but it is very unlikely they will find it to-night.

DROWNED AT KINCARDINE.

Aleck Roe, Ten Years of Age, Loses His Life Swimming to the Breakwater.

Kincardine, Aug. 8.—At Kincardine this afternoon about 2 o'clock, while in bathing with two boys about his own size, Aleck Roe, 10 years of age, fifth son of Lat Roe of this town, was drowned. He was trying to swim from the shore to a breakwater about half way out on the south pier, but became tired out, and before assistance could be rendered him was drowned. He had been under water about fifteen minutes before his body was recovered, and all efforts to restore him to life were fruitless.

THEIR WEDDING WAS DEATH.

Fred Organ and His Future Bride Drowned at Montreal.

Montreal, Aug 9.—(Special.)—While four young people were boating near St. Helen's Island yesterday, the craft upset, and Fred Organ and Miss Hughes, who had been engaged for some time, were drowned. The other two were rescued. The young lady's body has not yet been recovered.

Later.—The body of the young girl Hughes, who was drowned at St. Helen's Island yesterday, has been recovered. She was the daughter of Mr. Hughes, a prominent grocer, and at one time President of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Association.

DROWNED IN THE MURRAY CANAL.

James McMaster Follows His Father to a Watery Grave Eight Years After.

Brighton, Ont., Aug. 9.—This morning James McMaster, a young man about 17 years of age, living with his uncle, George Evans, was drowned in the Murray Canal. It appears he and another young man went in bathing. Being unable to swim, he got beyond his depth and was drowned. The body was recovered about an hour after. Some eight years ago his father met the same fate in the Skeena River, B.C.

DISASTER AT DETROIT.

Many Yachts Were Capsized in the Storm and Three Were Drowned.

Detroit, Mich, Aug. 9.—A terrific rainstorm broke over this city to-night after a day of intense heat. The storm was accompanied by a high wind which swept over the river and Lake St. Clair, upsetting a dozen yachts which were on the river at the time. There were a number of daring rescues. Three persons are so far known to have been drowned—W. J. Thiemar, Frank Hughes and John Helka, jr. There are reports to-night that several persons are missing who are known to have been on the water. Henry Henkel, aged 43, was killed at Port Huron to-day on his yacht the Azalia.

JAMES HAYES IS DEAD.

The Imperative Demand of His Union for Fees Led Him to Suicide.

London, Ont., Aug. 8.—James Hayes died in the city Hospital at 11 o'clock this morning. Hays was the hod carrier who was suspended by his union and, failing to pay up and become reinstated, was obliged to quit work on the Y.M.C.A. building on Thursday morning. He went to his home in Alma-street, East London, and cut his throat in a fit of despondency.

ENGLAND STILL STANDS ALONE.

She Would Take No Part in the Blockade of Crete and the Nation Backs Salisbury.

New York, Aug. 9.—Mr. I. N. Ford, in his special cable to The Tribune, says: England has declined with dignity to do police duty for the Sultan in Crete. The proposal for international action there, like the project for a concert of the powers on the Armenian question, came from Vienna, but the proud nation which was duped then is now on the alert. Lord Salisbury, in refusing to commit England to the senseless and immoral policy of taking part in a blockade of Crete, has the moral sense of the nation behind him. Public opinion is well expressed by that staid, conservative journal, The Standard, which tells the Sultan, with the utmost plainness, that a series of amputations is necessary for the treatment of the malady from which his empire is suffering, and that it will be a clear gain to civilization and peace if the Cretan Christians establish their independence. This line of comment, which is clearly inspired by the Foreign Office, is worthy of the best traditions of English diplomacy. The German press declaims against it as a betrayal of the European concert, but the diplomatic burlesque to which international action regarding the Armenian outrages was reduced, disclosed how valueless and powerless concerted diplomacy really was. England has ceased to be a good European in Talleyrand's sense, and is again completely isolated in continental diplomacy, but her reason is exercising an effective veto upon the immoral action of remaining European powers. There has been nothing in the recent diplomatic action of England more creditable than her dignified and emphatic refusal to take part in this fantastic game of blind man's buff in the East.

It is a logical sequence to England's decisive defeat on the Armenian question, when the Foreign Office was baffled by the treachery and indifference of its European allies. It now stands alone, but on the highest possible moral ground.

WATER FAMINE IN LONDON.

The Death Rate Advances and Dirt Diseases Are Almost Epidemic in the East End.

London, Aug. 9.—The water famine in the east end of London has developed into a great calamity. Water is supplied to 1,250,000 people only from two to five hours daily. There being no cisterns or other means of collecting a supply, grave evils have arisen and are rapidly spreading. The death rate has advanced about 30 per 1000, and dirt diseases are almost epidemic in some districts. The cause, in spite of all denials, is the avarice and inefficiency of the local water company. The same condition of things existed a year ago, but it is pretended that the unprecedented drought is the cause. Unless rain in great abundance comes soon, there will be such wholesale sacrifice of human life that, perhaps, public opinion will grow strong enough to insist on the Government assuming control of the water supply of all London.

SUICIDED ON SUNDAY.

George Messer, an Old Man, Ended His Existence by Hanging Himself in His Cellar.

Toronto, Aug. 10.

Yesterday afternoon George Messer, 75 years old, who kept a small confectionery store at 705 Yonge-street, hanged himself.

Messer lived with a married daughter, who kept house for him, and a son, aged about 5. She was out visiting yesterday, and Messer sent the boy out early in the afternoon. When he returned at 5 o'clock he found the body of his father hanging in the cellar. The lad notified the police at No. 5 station, and Sergt. Lobb and P.C. Dynes cut the body down. Dr. Boultbee was called in, and found the man had been dead two hours.

In order to end his life, Messer climbed on a chair and after adjusting the rope, kicked the chair from under him. No reason is assigned for the deed.

3 p.m. at the Rising Sun Hotel.

Deceased was well known in Orange circles.

HORSES FROM AMERICA.

It is Said by The Field That 10,000 of These Animals Were Sold Last Year in London Alone.

London, Aug. 9.—The Field this week expresses natural surprise and alarm over the large number of American horses which it says it has discovered "in our midst." During the past year no less than 10,000 American horses have been sold in London alone. A large number are used for the omnibusses and street cars, but The Field adds: "The cab master and smaller dealer profess not to touch them, the former believing, and possibly rightly, that the majority of foreign horses are somewhat soft, while, as a rule, he declares that at his price he can get plenty of well bred English horses, and that they do his work very well. The fact is, however, that there are almost as many American horses drawing cabs as American subjects riding in them. After American and Canadian horses have changed hands under the hammer they are resold without anything being said about their nationality. They get into the country and add to the difficulties and perplexities of the breeder."

ESCAPED THE GRAVE.

Mrs. Mary Albertson Had Been Placed in a Casket and She Knew She Was to be Buried Alive.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 9.—Mrs. Mary Albertson, living at Columbiaslough, has just recovered from a trance which lasted a week, during which she would have been buried alive had not a friend noticed what he thought were signs of life. The was was prepared for the tomb and put in a casket. Then, at her friend's solicitation she was taken out, and in a week, partially through natural and partly by artificial means, she was restored to consciousness. Everything was a perfect blank to her except the placing of her body in the casket. She says she was conscious that she was to be buried alive, but was unable to give any sign to prevent the horrible fate.

ATTACKED BY BEES.

Six Swarms Made It Hot for Nick Van Patten in Michigan.

Vassar, Mich, Aug. 8.—Nicholas J. Vanpatten, a bee-keeper, got out of bed, partly dressed, this morning, to drive a neighbor's calf out of the yard. The calf had knocked six swarms of bees over. They completely covered Mr. Vanpatten's body, and stung him terribly. He was in a critical condition, but will recover.

A TRAMP WITH A RECORD.

The Steamer Lady Furness Sails 8100 Miles for a Cargo.

Quarantine, S.I., Aug. 9.—The British tramp steamer Lady Furness arrived this morning from Delagoa Bay, South Africa, in ballast, making one of the longest voyages on record for a steamer in ballast. The distance traveled was a little over 8,100 miles. There was no cargo of any nature to be had for this port and as the vessel was chartered to load again from this port for South Africa, she was obliged to come empty handed.

THE GREAT CAPITALS

Toronto Tecumsehs Beaten for the First Time.

About 6000 Spectators See the Ottawa Lacrosse Team Win by 5 to 1 at Hanlan's Point—A Sad Lack of Combination on the Tecumsehs' Home—How the Game Was Won and Lost.

Toronto, Aug. 10.

The great game of lacrosse is over and the Tecumsehs are beaten.

It may have been that the absence of one man broke up the combination on the home, or perhaps they could never beat the Capital defence; anyway, the champions from Ottawa won Saturday afternoon by the score of 5 goals to 1.

The Tecumsehs did not show their Cornwall or Montreal form when the ball went past centrefield and it was indeed lamentable the way they failed in the proximity of Tommy Crown. The Caps. were a little anxious when Jim Bailey faced the ball, but after Powers notched the initial tally they were easy and their backers offered 10 to 1 on the result.

Then the Tecumsehs had to hustle to save a Waterloo, and they sprinted with a vengeance after the ball. Frequently they chased in vain, in marked contrast to the action of the Capitals, whose energy was rarely ever misplaced. Thus spectators noted how the Ferry twelve puffed on coming in for their ten minutes' rest between games, while the Ottawas scarcely turned a hair.

All credit to the Tecumsehs' defence, and Barney Quinn did not scintillate unduly. To Patterson, Grimes and Davis fell the bulk of the play and they did it nobly, while the field work of Macdonald, Hartley and Yorke was superb. They played just as well as the Caps'. defence men, although they had a harder home to deal with. The visitors' checking was fast and hard, and how they marked their men! They stuck to checks like glue and when a Tecumseh got away with the ball there was a Cap somewhere around.

Now, Barney Quinn made his bow in a Tecumseh uniform and he was up against a hard game. Powers and Smith were all the time hot foot after him and their old-time chum did not come out second best. It was in the second game that the Deputy Chief of Police went on the field to warn the belligerents, but he accepted the referee's word that rough play would not be tolerated, and so in the next Smith got Quinn ruled off and he went with him. Again, in the fifth, these two were sent to the wall, and in every case the Capital was the aggressor. They chopped and kicked the big defence man, and what else could he do but slug back? Elsewhere the game was free from roughness and except for the awful muffing on Tecumsehs' home it was uniformly scientific lacrosse.

The Capitals' five games all came alike. After the ball had hovered for some time at the other end, but not in dangerous proximity to the goal, it would return and suddenly a lightning combination would give one of the Caps. his opportunity.

Little Jimmy Macdonald was responsible for the Tecumsehs' only point. He beat big Carson and was applauded, and after McVey and German had handled the ball Murphy accepted an easy chance.

There was gambling galore on the game. About 200 Capital supporters were at the Island. Before they left Yonge-street they wanted even money, but accepted 10 to 6 and even money that the Caps. would double the Tecumsehs' score. When the start was made the odds were 2 to 1. A few bets were registered that the Tecumsehs would not score and this was all the Ottawa money left behind.

Over 6000 were around the Island oval and about one-sixth of these were visitors from Ontario towns. President O'Loughlin was here from St. Kitts, Secretary Vance from Ingersoll, McFadden from Stratford, Doc. Roberts from Brampton and these places were also represented: St. Mary's, Orangeville, Stouffville, Uxbridge, Beaverton, Richmond Hill, Owen Sound, Barrie, Orillia, Peterboro and Uxbridge. The games were scored as follows:

First—Capitals, Powers, 9½ minutes.
Second—Capitals, Powers, 9½ minutes.
Third—Capitals, Carson, 17 minutes.
Fourth—Tecumsehs, Murphy, 4 minutes.
Fifth—Capitals, Carleton, 7 minutes.
Sixth—Capitals, Carson, 20 minutes.

The teams and officials were:

Tecumsehs—Goal, Davis; point, Patterson; cover, Quinn; defence, Grimes, Yorke, Hartley; centre, Macdonald; home field, Peaker, Murphy, McVey; outside, Cross; inside, German; captain, P. Knowles.

Capitals—Goal, Crown; point, Griffith; cover, Shea; defence, Devine, Carson and James; centre, Carson; home, Carleton, Westwick, Murphy; outside, Powers; captain, Bissonnette.

Referee, J. D. Bailey; umpires, Dr. Roberts, Brampton; Carruthers, Ottawa; timers, D. A. Rose, W. E. Young.

ENGLISHMEN BEATEN.

The Native Canadian Eleven Won From the Old Country Cricketers.

Toronto, Aug. 10.

The cricket match between representatives of England and Canada ended Saturday on a treacherous wicket in an easy victory for the Canadians. Play was resumed with the Englishmen at bat, and they were all out at lunch for 185. The Canadians scored 101 and declared their innings, with the loss of only five wickets. Then England was retired in short order, Horsted alone reaching double figures. Score:

THE TERRIBLE HEAT.

Twenty-One Deaths in Philadelphia—Record Breaking Weather in the West—Thermometer Away Up.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Despatches received from various points throughout the west show that no point is exempt from the terrible weather. At Elgin, Ills., yesterday three persons died and several others were prostrated. For three days the mercury has been above 100 at Evansville, Ind., and two deaths have been reported.

At Kansas City yesterday 102 was reached, the highest point since the bureau was opened, eight years ago. Despite the intense heat few prostrations were reported.

At Anderson, Ind., there was intense suffering among the men in the nail factories. There were three prostrations.

Despatches from Alton, Hillsboro, Springfield and Belvidere, Ills., indicate the hotest weather on record. At Alton the mercury ranged from 105 to 112 in the shade.

Milan, Mo., reported yesterday 106 in the shade and much mortality among animals.

At Chicago the heat, while not as intense to-day as yesterday, was almost unbearable. At 4 o'clock the thermometer registered 96. But one fatality was reported to-day.

21 Deaths at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Aug. 9.—With each days' continuance of the terrible heat the mortality has increased until to-day 21 deaths were reported by the police. The thermometer to-day reached a maximum of 96.2 degrees, the highest point touched by the mercury this summer. Besides the deaths there were half a hundred heat cases taken to the hospitals.

Baltimore, Aug. 9.—The thermometric record was about the same to-day as it has been for the past four. The maximum was not reached until half-past 4 this afternoon, when 97.2 was recorded. Fifteen deaths and twice as many prostrations were reported up to midnight.

Washington, Aug. 9.—The heated term that has been almost without precedent in this city continues, and the general impression is that to-day has been beyond all doubt the hottest and most uncomfortable of the season. The highest point reached by the official thermometer at the weather bureau was 97.4 at 3 o'clock this afternoon. One death resulted.

SIXTEEN DROWNED.

A Pleasure Boat Run Down on the River Spree—The Victims Were Young Men and Girls.

Berlin, Aug. 9.—An accident occurred to-day on the River Spree, near this city, by which 16 pleasure-seekers were drowned. A party had gone out on the river on an excursion, and one of the steamers plying on the river ran into the boat of the excursionists, crushing it so badly that it almost immediately sank. The steamer was stopped and every effort made to save the people who were struggling in the water, but despite this 16 persons, principally young men and girls, were drowned.

Later.—It has been learned that all the excursionists except four were saved.

If a flowering plant does not blossom, there's little beauty in it. If it is sick and faded and withered and lifeless, nobody cares for it. It falls short of its object in being. It is incomplete—unfinished.

Times without number women have been likened to flowers—and rightly. But what of her whose physical condition corresponds with the blossomless plant? What of the woman whom weakness has made not wholly and wholesomely a woman? Many things lead to derangement of a woman's delicate organism. It may be due to carelessness. It may be due to ignorance fostered by mistaken parents on the plea of preserving modesty.

It may result from improper treatment of some minor trouble. Whatever sickness a woman has, it seems always to affect the organs which make her a woman and these in turn work upon all the rest. There is much insanity among women. It is really surprising that there is not more.

The troubles peculiar to their sex work strongly on the nerves. They drag upon the most delicate nerves in the body and the inflammation always present causes a debilitating drain that will enervate the most robust.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has brought comfort and health to thousands of suffering women. For many years, Dr. Pierce has been Chief Consulting Physician at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y. He has used the "Favorite Prescription" all the time, with uniform success. With it, there is no need of the commonly insisted upon distressing examinations and "local treatment." Thirty-one cents sent to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y., will bring a doctor book of 1000 pages.

A HEALTHFUL DRINK
MADDEN'S CEREAL

A DELICIOUS and HEALTHFUL DRINK.

We seldom charge our ill feelings to the true cause. CHEMISTRY proves that Coffee contains poisonous alkaloids, as in morphine, whiskey and tobacco. A SOUND, HEALTHY PERSON may be able to stand these for a time, but "a small leak sinks a big ship," and sooner or later indigestion, headache, torpid liver, weak heart, "weary, tired feeling" proves that the nervous system has been poisoned.

EVERY DAY, and perhaps every meal, the poisonous alkaloids of Coffee and Tea add fuel to the fire. Can you wonder that some organic disease is firmly seated? Health cannot return until you remove the cause. MADDEN CEREAL has the appearance of coffee, in color like Java or Mocha, and when cream is added it changes to a rich brown. A product made from blood-producing grains, it builds up, renews and makes red blood. REGULAR PACKAGE MAKES 100 CUPS. Grocers sell it at 25 cents. TRIAL PACKAGE FOR 50 CUPS, BY MAIL, POSTPAID, 25 CENTS.

MAKING GOOD ROADS.

Mr. A. W. Campbell, C.E., of St. Thomas, was recently appointed Inspector in road making for the province of Ontario and he is now engaged in visiting several parts of the province. Mr. Campbell, who was a member and officer of the Good Roads Association, has ideas on road making that will be of benefit to the rural, as well as the central populated sections of the country.

Mr. Campbell, in a recent address, enlarged upon the necessity of permanent road-making. All work done should be such that, with ordinary repairs, it will not be lost sight of in the mud of the following spring. With the present plan of dumping a load of gravel in a wet place and digging drains without providing outlets, bringing a road to a grade one season then tearing it up the next, the possibility of doing work that will last seems to be an idea not yet thoroughly grasped. The greatest and most common enemy to permanency in roadmaking is insufficient drainage. Under drainage in the making of roads is almost entirely overlooked in Ontario, and yet it is one of the first requisites; for it is by this means a firm foundation is secured. Instead of trying to cover up or soak the water in the roadbed, make drains that will carry the water away. Farmers should do away with the deep side ditches and use tile to obtain subdrainage. Make use of every natural watercourse to obtain an outlet, and do not carry over a hill by the side of a road any more water than that which naturally falls on the surface of the hill. The surface of the road should be drained and the water prevented from penetrating the roadbed. To this end the travelled part of the roadway should be crowned or rounded up, made and kept perfectly hard and smooth so as to shed the water to the side gutters. These side gutters are shallow, open ditches and should, like the underdrains, have outlets as often as practicable.

Machinery is also needed in the making of a good road, and a heavy roller should also be used.

In placing the gravel on the road a trench should be made to receive it; or in constructing a new road, having graded the road up to the height needed for the foundation, place gravel in the centre and grade up to it on the sides. The foundation should have been previously rolled to make it as unyielding as possible, and the gravel placed on in layers, and each layer thoroughly rolled. The gravel placed on the road should be clean, and free from sand and other fine stuff, which will injure the permanent solidity on the road. If pit gravel is used, it should first be screened to remove all stones of over two and one-half inches in diameter. Material of over two and one-half inches and less than four inches may be placed in the first or foundation layer of the roadbed. Stones over four inches should be broken. Creek gravel is usually cleaner, and is to be preferred. The depth of gravel placed in the roadbed will vary with the requirements of traffic. For heavy travel it will need to be twelve inches thick at the centre and nine inches at the side, these measurements being after the material has been rolled. For lighter traffic these thicknesses may be decreased to nine inches at the centre and six inches at the sides. It will be seen from this that a part of the crown is made up in thickness of gravel, and part in the earth foundation, so that allowance must be made for this in preparing the trench. Before roads can be built economically there must be concentration of labor and funds, and some system adopted whereby the work will be done uniformly, taking it up each season where it was stopped the previous year. Take up first the underdraining, putting a tile drain on each side of the road, and if the road is springy or on a hillside, use cobble stones to make blind drains, tapping the springs and leading the water to the under drains. If this is all that can be done for one year there will be at least a permanent foundation on which to build when the next opportunity comes. If, then, only the grading can be done, farmers will be able to build a good earth road, which is infinitely better than a bad gravel road for the greater portion of the year.

In conclusion, Mr. Campbell asked the meeting to take into consideration a number of points. Crown the roads sufficiently to shed the water readily into the side surface ditches, and give these drains sufficient fall to freely carry the water to free outlets. Use only clean material in road construction of as nearly uniform size as possible. Place the coarsest at the bottom. As in other work proper tools are necessary; a heavy roller is indispensable; a little roller is better than none, but a ten-ton roller does perfect work. Do everything possible to encourage the use of broad tires. When a pathmaster is given a few day's labor and a few dollars with which to make and maintain a long section of road, he knows that it is useless to undertake anything permanent. The people see that nothing permanent can be done and are careless to exert themselves beyond putting in time. More progressive farmers, rather than idle away time on the road for no purpose, devoted their attention to the farm and pay the commutation rate—or send the hired man for his holidays. Enlarge the road districts, appoint only the best men as pathmasters and keep them in office. Concentrate the forces so as to provide sufficient labor and money to warrant the undertaking of permanent work; extend it as soon as possible; make the work continuous and permanent. Let the Council provide instructions for the pathmasters which will embody all the principles of roadmaking, and secure uniformity in system and permanency of work. Pathmasters should be men who would see that the instructions are followed, that proper tools are employed, that every man and team is fit to do a fair day's work and that they do it, and generally take an interest in securing the best results. Three quarters of a million dollars belonging to the municipalities is annually expended on our roads in addition to nearly one million days' statute labor. The results are by no means what we should reasonably expect. Let Councils settle down as business men and handle this expenditure in a businesslike manner.

THE FAR-FAMED SAND BANKS

The Lake Shore House at this famous resort is having its old-time patronage this year. An unpopular lessee is no longer in control. Messrs. Dan McDonald and J. W. Hyatt, the proprietors, are conducting the establishment themselves, with the efficient aid of Mrs McDonald and Mrs. Hyatt. The change from the regime of the past two years is as marked as it is pleasant and satisfactory to the guests. The house is not a "Chateau Frontenac," a "Windsor" nor a "Quinte" in appointments, menu or service; neither is it any of these in its scale of charges. It is, however, equal to the famous hostelries I have named in this respect—it gives equally good value for the rates it charges. The chief attractions of the place, which the presence of the hotel makes suitable to the stranger, are not charged for at all. The pure, translucent waters of Lake Ontario; the cool, health producing breezes from the water; the shady groves of cedar, elm and maple; the great waves dashing upon the rocks; the musical roll of the surf as it trembles over the sand; the proximity of well cultivated farms and orchards, and many points of interest, with excellent roads to reach them or pass them on the way; and, though mentioned last, not the least attraction, the extraordinary sand banks themselves—these are ever giving pleasure, with variety to the guests of the hotel.

WIDE PATRONAGE.

July, which is not, as a rule, a busy time at summer resorts, saw the hotel well filled by guests from many parts of Ontario and from the United States. The families of some of Toronto's well-known citizens are here. Mr. Frank Yeigh, a genial, pleasant and clever man, who has done yeoman service for the Reform party, and who is now the private secretary of the new Premier of Ontario, the Hon. Mr. Hardy, is among the Toronto contingent. Some guests have recently left, but their places are being rapidly filled.

THE DRIVING.

It was a jolly party that started the other afternoon in two democrats under the guidance of Messrs. Mills and Bartlett for Point Peter. The attraction of the Point is the lighthouse and the machinery that runs the foghorn, which the pleasant keeper admitted the crowd to see and which he intelligently explained. Not all lighthouse keepers are so agreeable with visitors as the efficient keeper at Point Peter. It does not, however, require a lighthouse at the end of a drive through this beautiful county to make it enjoyable or interesting. The people are well-to-do; they are intelligent, as would be expected, considering the stock from which they spring; they are tasteful, as evidenced by many handsome houses, with well cared for gardens and lawns. As a progressive and prosperous city gives proof of its condition and impresses the stranger, so this grand old county of Prince Edward gives evidence throughout its highways and byeways that its people are in the enjoyment of comfort and affluence; "that the lines have fallen to them in pleasant places, and that they have a goodly heritage." These are the conclusions that one must reach as one drives along the beautiful road skirting East Lake on the way to Point Peter. Carried away by the recollection of the scenery, I had almost forgotten about the pic-nic party. We took tea in a beautiful grove near the light-house. Our improvised cooking range was built within ten feet of the blue waters of Lake Ontario; it was of the Bay of Quinte pattern and the ladies declared that they had never seen a better one. The tea was fit for any 5 o'clock function on Jarvis street, Toronto; but owing to the failure of those who preserved the baskets to gauge properly the appetites of 21 people there was a slight constraint necessary in the giving and the receiving of the contents. The repast in consequence lacked that gay and festive abandon which is ordinarily characteristic of a pic-nic.

I have described only one of the delightful drives of this locality. Across the beach to Wellington, and on up the shore; over to Bloomfield, or away off to Cherry Valley, or in to Picton—any of them are charming.

THE BATHING.

The bathing this year is perfect. The water is just the right temperature. The most delicate may venture in without a chill. Those who prefer a header into deep water off the rocks may have their choice. The majority choose the hard, sandy beach, where the bath houses are situated. Eleven o'clock in the forenoon is the favorite hour, and it is a jolly and happy lot of bathers that skip over the beach and into the surf when that time arrives. The boldest swimmers and the most timid bathers are equally suited; the latter disport themselves with safety on the sand bar, while the former have the whole expanse of Lake Ontario for their efforts. I have bathed at most of the famous seaside resorts in Maine, in Massachusetts, in New Jersey, in New York, and in the St. Lawrence, and I say without hesitation that the bathing here is equal to any and superior to most of them. The only thing one misses is the salt in the water, the salt in the air, and the sea weed.

BONFIRES AND CORNROASTS.

A few nights ago, and again to-night, we had a big bonfire on the shore, at which we roasted corn and enjoyed ourselves generally. A cornroast on the lake shore reminds one of a clam bake at the ocean.

UNCLE JOHN.

Mr. J. W. Hyatt (commonly known as Uncle John) is a busy man but he can still find time for a discussion or a good story. He was the principal Patron orator during the late election. He is well posted on the affairs of the nation, sincere in his convictions and in the measures he advocates. He is a reader and a thinker, and has the ability to express himself clearly and intelligently, either in conversation or before an audience. Added to this is a personality entirely unique. A sample of his honesty of purpose in politics has come to my notice. After the election, which made Mr. Pettit the M.P. for Prince Edward, friends of the new Government were anxious to secure Mr. Hyatt's influence on behalf of Mr. Laurier. Following the usual plan in politics he was asked what office he would like. Uncle John took off his straw hat, felt his bald spot a moment, as is his fashion, and, slapping his leg, said: "Well, boys, I tell you the job I want, and I'm going to have it. I'll be clerk of the weather. I want that, or nothing." Uncle John is not in politics for what he can make.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

I hear that American capitalists have a scheme in contemplation for building an electric road from Picton, through several townships, to the Sand Banks and across the beach to Wellington. There can be no doubt that such a road would be of great service to the farmers and largely promote the prosperity of the Lake Shore House.

This letter is longer than I intended it to be, but not too long for the subject I am dealing with. The sun is just sinking in the west as I write. It has now gone from sight, apparently into the lake. I linger in the hammock to watch the beauty of the scene. Across the heavens and over the lake a glow appears, which no painter, however great, could do justice to on canvas. It is first of golden hue, but changes into a gorgeous crimson, and again to blue and gold; and so it alternates, until day has slipped into night, when the curtain rises and the stars appear.

Revival of Trade.

Reports from the United States support the view that trade interests have vastly improved recently and that the business outlook for the future is encouraging. This will be welcome news to the people of Canada, since our own trade interest will be stimulated and improved. In nothing has this improvement been shown in a more marked way than by the increased sales of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Times being dull everything not absolutely needed became a luxury, and its sale became stationary. Now it is different. Sales have increased vastly, doubtless as it has proven the only safe, sure, and painless remedy for corns, and wise people will use no other.

THE HOUSEHOLD WORLD

GOOSEBERRY JELLY.

It Is Easily Made and as Light as That of the Currant.

Gooseberries make a delicious clear green jelly, quite as tart and distinctly flavored as the popular currant jelly. The method of preparing them is the same and some of the best authorities now say that inexperienced cooks should be warned that if they wish their jelly to be clean and transparent they must utterly repudiate the advice given in nearly all recipe books to squeeze the fruit through a bag.

The way to make a clear, fleckless ruby of one's glass is to carefully stem and pick over the fruit, put in a large porcelain-lined jelly kettle, with just enough water to keep the fruit from burning, and let it simmer gently until the skins burst and the juice flows freely. Let the jelly bag (of flannel) hang ready; ladle in the fruit to let it drip without interference. Sometimes the skins clog at the bottom of the bag and a wooden or a silver spoon may be used to dip out these skins.

When the juice has all dripped out—some few drops will be lost by not squeezing the bag, but these must be sacrificed to the beauty of the jelly—dip it back into the kettle, which must have been well washed in the interim, using a cup for the purpose.

For each cup of juice, add a cup of the best granulated sugar, and this must not be stinted, because unless there is plenty of sugar the whole must boil a long time before coming to a jelly, and the shorter the time involved in the whole process the better for the appearance of the conserve. If the fruit is very ripe ten minutes is generally enough time for the boiling, which should be fairly vigorous, the refuse thrown off being carefully skimmed off as it rises. A saucer set in a little ice water should be close at hand, and every few minutes a few drops of the juice poured into it to test its condition.

As soon as it shows definite signs of jellying lift off the kettle. A pan of hot water set beside it should contain the jelly glasses, which, treated in this way, will not crack when the hot jelly is ladled in. Set the glasses away to cool over night. Screw on the covers next day and keep in a dark cool place.

Obedience to Rightful Authority.

A bit of candy or a cake, surreptitiously given to a child, from whom these unnecessary articles are usually kept, not only disturbs the stomach—that would be the least part of it—but suggests a course of conduct which is unlimited in its possibilities of evil, for a luxury, harmless and even advantageous in itself, given in disregard of rightful authority, becomes an evil. Reverence for law, obedience to rightful authority, are most necessary in these days of independence, and anything which disturbs such reverence and obedience, however harmless in itself, should be scrupulously avoided. So far as an outsider is concerned parental rules for the child are absolutely inflexible, and obedience to his father's and mother's directions should be made as easy as possible to him. A similar principle should be recognized in regard to teachers. Parents are too careless in speaking disrespectfully of school rules before their children. A mistake in method of discipline is not likely to be so mischievous in its results as a spirit of rebellion against authority nourished in the child's heart. Discussion of teachers and their measures should be held in private; if they are thoroughly wrong the child should be removed from the school; if on the whole good, the errors should be excused.—Mrs. Lyman Abbott in August Ladies' Home Journal.

German Pretzels.

Two quarts of flour, one tablespoonful of butter, one teaspoonful salt, one yeast cake, two tablespoonfuls sugar, two and one-fourth cups milk. Dissolve the yeast in one-half cup of the lukewarm milk; add one tablespoonful of the sugar and mix with one cup of the flour to a soft dough. Put in a bowl, cover and let stand until very light. Mix the remainder of the flour with the salt and sugar, put the light dough in the center and mix with the remainder of the milk, working in at the same time the butter. Knead until very smooth, put in a warm bowl and set away until light. Divide the dough in small pieces, roll out in long, slightly tapering sticks, twist in pretzel shape and lay on buttered pans. When light, brush with the white of one egg beaten with two tablespoonfuls of milk and bake in a quick oven.—Table Talk.

The Care of Children's Teeth.

The care of the teeth cannot be begun too early. If a child loses those of the first set prematurely the jaw contracts, there being nothing to prevent it from so doing; the second teeth have not space to stand properly and are crowded. Particles of food lodging between the teeth cause them to decay early. It is a wise precaution to teach a child to pass a thread of silk or dental floss between the teeth after eating, as well as to brush them regularly. Salt and water is a good antiseptic, and answers for a dentifrice as well as many more elaborate and more expensive preparations.—August Ladies' Home Journal.

Anent Gloves.

At this season of the year when humidity asserts itself, gloves are found by many to be a most expensive article of the toilet, perspiration ruins them so quickly. Hands may be kept dry, however, by rubbing on them a little finely powdered lycopodium. A good wash for the hands, and one that will also retard perspiration, is made of one gramme of tincture of myrrh and one-half pint of rainwater. Wash the hands in this several times a day, and occasionally rub them with a little lavender water.

Cure for Insomnia.

A cloth wet with ice water and laid across the eyes is often a cure for the most aggravated case of insomnia.

THEY WILL NOT COME.

His Excellency the Governor-General has Cancelled His Proposed Visit to Belleville.

The following correspondence will be found, on perusal, to fully explain itself:

BELLEVILLE, July 24th, 1896.

To John Sinclair, Esq., Secretary of his Excellency the Governor-General, Rideau Hall, Ottawa.

DEAR SIR.—In acknowledging your courteous communication advising us of the proposed visit of His Excellency the Governor-General and the Countess of Aberdeen to the Fair at Belleville on the 18th September next, it is with extreme regret that we have to state that it is not intended to hold our annual Bay of Quinte District Exhibition here this year.

It is especially a matter of regret in that the Directors had anticipated with such pleasure the personal patronage and presence of His Excellency, but unavoidable circumstances have caused the postponement of the fair until next year, when it is expected to be carried on on a large scale and permanently established, and with this end arrangements are being perfected with the municipalities interested and with the Department of Agriculture. It is earnestly hoped that His Excellency and the Countess of Aberdeen will be able to pay us another visit in 1897, when we expect to have an exhibition in every way worthy of this rich agricultural and dairy district.

Permit us to assure His Excellency that the Directors highly appreciate the warm interest taken and the encouragement given by His Excellency, and as citizens they will heartily join in the loyal welcome which awaits him here.

We are, Sir,
Your obedient servants,
Sgd. W. N. PONTON,
President.
Sgd. J. M. HURLEY,
Man. and Sec.

STANLEY HOUSE, NEW RICHMOND, P.Q., Aug. 4, 1896.

DEAR SIR,—His Excellency desires me to thank you without delay for your letter of the 24th inst., which has now reached him here, and to say that he thoroughly appreciates the purpose of your directors in postponing the Belleville fair, and trusts that the new and larger scale of the undertaking in the future may bring ample reward to their endeavors.

In view of these circumstances, His Excellency will postpone for the present his intention of visiting Belleville, and will therefore ask you to cancel any former letter upon that subject—more particularly as the purpose of his tour this year is to visit as many as possible of the Agricultural Fairs of the province. Perhaps you will kindly see that this decision is made clearly known.

I am, dear sir,
Yours obediently,
Sgd. JOHN SINCLAIR,
Governor General's Secretary.

REGATTA NOTES.

Laying out the Course—Amateurs Arrive.

On Saturday evening Messrs. Russell, Robinson and Allward, amateurs, and Rice, professional, of Toronto, arrived on the mail boat and were assigned quarters in the river drivers' dining hall, close to the river. They were out yesterday for a spin and again this morning.

The Don Rowing Club, of Toronto, will send O'Connor and Marsh, in the senior singles, Greenwood, in the junior singles, and two senior four-oared crews. Wright of the Argonauts, and Ryan, of the Torontos, will also be here to row in the senior singles.

Messrs. H. Carre, W. H. Campbell, R. J. Bell, T. W. R. McRae and E. Burrell went out this morning on Mr. Burrell's steam yacht Kismet to lay out the course, which will be diagonally across the bay to a point south-east of Fairman's Island. It is flagged off at regular distances and the police boat will keep it clear during the races of steamers and small craft.

The first of the races begin to-morrow afternoon. The programme laid down, which is subject to change, is as follows:

Single Sculls, amateur, three-quarter mile with turn. Prizes: Gold medals, $30 and $15.
Canoe Race, paddling, men's single, double, blades; quarter mile with turn. Prize: Silver cup, value $20.
Professional Single Scull, 1½ miles with turn. First trial heat, 1 and 2 to qualify.
Hurry Scurry Canoe Race, 200 yards, swim 25 yards, upset twice, paddle balance of distance. Prize: Gold medal, value $20.

An Old Offence.

On May 30th, 1894, a young man called upon J. P. Purdy, of the G. T. R. freight offices, and represented himself as in hard luck. Mr. Purdy had known the young fellow, whose name was Thomas Alfred Curtis, years before and he took compassion on him, took him to his home and gave him his supper and a bed. Next morning he found his friend of early years had gone and with him $22 of his good money. He notified the police and a warrant was sworn out for his arrest.

Nothing was heard of Curtis until last spring, when the Chief of Police received word that he was serving a term in the Central Prison and would be liberated on Saturday, August 8th. Chief Newton went to Toronto on Saturday and brought his man down that evening. He will come up for trial to-morrow.

Curtis comes of a good family and is a printer by trade. He has served two terms in the Central.

SIR M. BOWELL AT TORONTO

LUNCHEON IN HIS HONOR BY SIR FRANK SMITH.

An Excursion on the Lake—Sir Mackenzie on Public Affairs—He is on Good Terms With Sir Charles Tupper—His Opinions as to the Duties of the Senate.

Sir Frank Smith had a distinguished party to lunch at the Albany Club, Toronto, on Friday, in honor of Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Adolphe Caron, who are visiting Sir Frank at his residence. Among those present were Sir Frank Smith, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Adolphe Caron, E. B. Osler, M.P., E. F. Clarke, M.P., Wm. Hendrie, C. H. Ritchie, Q.C., J. J. Foy, John Foy, W. D. McPherson, E. Bristol, Acton Burrows, G. W. Torrance, T. E. P. Trew, E. S. Cox, A. W. Smith, J. A. Donalson, J. C. Campbell, and P. H. Drapton.

Sir Frank proposed the health of Sir Mackenzie Bowell, the ex-Premier. He paid a general tribute to his faithfulness to the interests of the country, to his fidelity during very many years to Sir John McDonald and the Conservative party, to his experience as a Minister, and to his success as an administrator of some of the most difficult departments of Government.

In reply, Sir Mackenzie Bowell acknowledged the all too flattering remarks of the kind host, and said that he had but humbly tried to do his duty to his country. He had ever kept before him a high standard of duty, and whatever his shortcomings, they would not arise from a want of endeavor to do what was right. Some people had been curious to know whether he intended to retire from public life. He could assure his audience that it was not his intention to do so. As a member of the Senate he probably would have little to do but to sit around for a couple of years and see what would happen, then when the time came he would be there. (Loud cheers:)

Sir Mackenzie Bowell was interviewed by a representative of the Mail and Empire in regard to a statement telegraphed to the Globe from Ottawa representing that bad feeling prevailed between him and Sir Charles Tupper, and that Sir Mackenzie had refused to second Sir Charles' plans for the session. Sir Mackenzie said:—"There is not a scintilla of truth, so far as I am concerned, in any of the surmises in which the Globe's correspondent indulges. I did not go to Ottawa the other day particularly to see Sir Charles Tupper, but to transact business in connection with my trip to England, and some other matters of a private character. Whatever conversation I had was of a perfectly friendly nature. As far as my position in the Senate is concerned, I frankly state that I have no desire whatever to assume the leadership of the Opposition in that Chamber. In any event, I shall endeavor to do what I conceive to be my duty to my party, which to me is synonymous with the interests of the country."

"Is there any ill-feeling between Sir Charles and yourself?"

"Not a bit. I have never displayed any to him, and he has never displayed any to me."

"The Conservatives are in a majority in the Senate, are they not?"

"Yes; but that is no reason why we should offer factious opposition. When Mr. Mackenzie's Government were in power the Conservative Opposition in the Senate defeated an attempt to gerrymander one of the Hurons, and they also threw out a bill for the construction of the Nanaimo railway, but with the general legislation of the country they did not attempt to interfere. I do not think it is the function of a Senate to be at all obstructive. It is an independent body and must accept as far as possible the popular will as expressed through the ballot. That will be my position in the Senate, whether as leader or as an independent member."

Sir Adolphe Caron left for Ottawa at 9 o'clock last evening. Sir Mackenzie said adieu this morning. He will spend the day at Whitby, and will then return to Belleville.

MURRAY CANAL.

A Young Man Drowned—A Girls' Narrow Escape From a Watery Grave—Sabbath Desecration.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

MONDAY, Aug. 10.—Two sad accidents occurred here to-day resulting in the death of a young man from drowning and the narrow escape of some children from drowning and the loss of a fine young horse. James McMaster, a nephew of Mrs. Evans, of the English settlement, with a companion named Harold May went to the canal to bathe. McMaster was standing on the rip-rapping, when it rolled and he was pitched headlong into the canal. The unfortunate youth was unable to swim. May could swim, but was too frightened to give any help and so James McMaster was drowned. Boys should be trained not to lose their heads in time of danger or during accidents, a cool head and a stick or fence rail would help to save a life even if a person could not swim.

Thomas Fitzgerald and his sister Minnie (children of the bridge tender) were driving a young horse that was in the habit of running away, along the canal, when they stopped to pick up Hattie Wilkins a little neighbor girl, Albert Brooks at the same time got on the back of the rig for a ride. Hattie raised her parasol. The girl was not told that there was any danger in doing so, the horse took fright and dashed madly down the steep bank into the canal. Minnie was in the water and would soon have been lost had it not been for Albert Brooks calling out to Tom, "For God's sake Tommie save Minnie." Tommie was the nearest to his sister and only had to reach back and pull her out of the water. Hattie escaped with a few bruises and the loss of a shoe.

We are making rapid progress here in the matter of desecrating the Sabbath. We merely want to introduce the French or Continental Sabbath. We do not here take the trouble to sanctify the Lord by going to church in the morning and then do as we like the rest of the day. But God is not in our thoughts; we just go yachting and boating when we please, we dance when we like and it is no person's business, as it is a free country.

HUMIDITY.

The collar melts upon the neck,
The shirt front is a sagging wreck,
The cambric tie
Is all awry
And lacks its prime solidity;
The 'kerchief o'er our brow we flip—
From every pore we ooze and drip,
And all our glee
To miser-ee
Is turned by old Humidity.

The air's a gulf of sluggish grease,
A surf of oil, a murky fleece
The agile fly,
Stuck on the pie,
Devours it with avidity;
There's not a breeze to stir the leaf—
The long drink's respite is but brief;
And out of sorts
The dog cavorts
Froth-sculptured by Humidity.

That soon it may, oh, let us hope,
Turn into rain or toilet soap,
Or anything
To make us sing
Of our restored lucidity;
Oh, may it vanish to the sky,
Nor grease the pan the chop to fry;
We've learned enough
About the tough
Grim demon of Humidity.

MR. BLAKE IS ONE

Of the Committee to Enquire About South Africa.

He Will Investigate Along With Mr. Labouchere and Others the Doings of Cecil Rhodes and the Chartered Company—A Hope That the Imperial House Committee May be Able to Enlarge and Extend the Good Feeling Now Existing Between Britain and the Transvaal.

New York, Aug. 9.—Mr. Ford cables from London: The committee of 15 appointed to investigate South African affairs in general, and Cecil Rhodes and the Chartered Company in particular, is fairly representative, and will probably stand. Threats are made that Mr. Labouchere's appointment will be challenged on account of his fierce hostility to Rhodes, but it will be an unusual and extreme measure for his opponents to object to his service for that reason. The Parliamentary committee is supposed to represent all sections of opinion in the Commons, and Mr. Labouchere is an exponent of the most critical and hostile opponents of Rhodes, and is entitled to serve. It is not likely that the Commons will adopt the unprecedented course of displacing him, nor will the Irish members object seriously to Mr. Blake's appointment as their representative. He is not a Redmondite, nor a Healyite, but he is connected with the largest section of Nationalists, and is well adapted for committee work, having a peculiar talent for the examination of witnesses and the conduct of a legal enquiry. As an orator and debater, Mr. Blake has disappointed his friends, but he is among the best committeemen in the House of Commons. This committee will not be likely to turn over much new soil in its investigation.

The facts are now well known, and merely require to be re-stated with the authority of Parliament. The chief function of the committee will be to satisfy the just demands of the Boers upon the British sense of justice and right, and thereby lead to the reconciliation of the two races upon whose co-operation the future welfare of South Africa depends. Whether Jameson and his gentleman raiders eat prison rations and enjoy hours of elegant indolence in jail is a matter of slight importance in comparison with the real problems in South Africa, affecting the relations of antagonistic and suspicious races, and the methods of dealing with and utilizing the natives.

The quality of mercy is not strained in the Transvaal, and with justice done in England to law breakers who have defied the authority of the Crown, a way has been opened for a new era of peace and good feeling in and beyond the Rand, and the committee may be able to enlarge and extend it.

THE IRISH LAND BILL.

Several Tory Opponents Claim That the Amendments Made by the House of Lords Bettered the Bill.

London, Aug. 9.—A statement signed by the Duke of Abercorn, the Marquis of Londonderry, Col. Edward J. Saunderson, M.P., and other Tory opponents of the Irish Land Bill, has been issued. It repudiates the idea that the amendments made to the bill by the House of Lords are calculated to destroy the character of the measure and to wreck it unless the House of Commons rejects the amendments with the consent of the Upper House. The statement claims that the amendments improve an ill-drawn and an ill-arranged measure.

WAS BURIED THREE DAYS.

Hypnotic Subject Wyatt Disinterred After His Brief Season Under Ground.

Indianapolis, Aug. 8.—J. J. Wyatt was placed under hypnotic influence by Prof. Boone in this city on Tuesday last. At night he was taken to Fairview Park and buried under four feet of earth with a shaft extending from the surface to his face to give him air.

Thousands of people visited the park to look upon the living dead man, and to-night fully 10,000 were present when the earth was dug away and Wyatt was brought out. When taken out of the ground Wyatt's form was rigid, and there was no appearance whatever of life.

Five men were selected to hold him and he was placed upon his feet. Boone waved his hands before his face and Wyatt began to struggle like a madman, and he threw several men to the ground. Much excitement prevailed, the crowd scattering, and three ladies fainted from fright. Others came to the assistance of the men holding him, and after a few moments he became quiet.

A half hour later he was provided with something to eat, and with water he ate and drank heartily. He had been under ground since Tuesday night at 9 o'clock, and during that time had had neither food nor water.

A STRONG-WILLED PRINCESS.

Did Not Take Queen Victoria's Hint to Stay Away From England.

New York, Aug. 9.—A London special says: The Cowes regatta has suffered greatly in brilliancy this year from two causes—the court in mourning for Prince Henry of Battenberg and the absence of the Kaiser, whose visits in the last few years had given great eclat to the gathering, by compelling the Queen to provide certain semi-State court entertainments at Osborne. The only royal visitor this year has been the Crown Princess Stephanie of Austria, who again insisted on coming, although it had been hinted to her that the Queen would rather be relieved of the duty of seeing any foreign royalties there on this occasion. The Crown Princess has a very strong will, and her reply to this intimation was to engage rooms at the chief hotel at Ryde. Hearing this the Queen had no option but to invite her to sleep one night at Osborne. The vagaries of the Crown Princess are becoming as remarkable almost as those of her mother-in-law, the Empress of Austria.

WOLSELEY IS IN HOT WATER.

His Indiscreet Statement About the Indian Army Causes Trouble.

New York, Aug. 9.—Mr. H. R. Chamberlain cables from London to The New York Sun: There is no end to the rumpus caused by Lord Wolseley's remark a few days ago before the Investigating Committee that he would not like to lead Great Britain's Indian troops against any European soldiers. The storm of indignant protest that is already coming from India has seriously embarrassed the Commander-in-Chief, who deeply repents his indiscretion. The matter is made worse rather than better by an explanation made on his behalf to-day, in which he says that for the purposes for which it is designed the Queen's Indian army could not be better fitted.

Mothers

Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. Read the following letter:

"It is but just to write about my daughter Cora, aged 19. She was completely run down, declining, had that tired feeling, and friends said she would not live over three months. She had a bad and nothing seemed to do her any good. I happened to read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and had her give it a trial. From the very first dose she began to get better. After taking a few bottles she was completely cured and her health has been the best ever since." MRS. ADDIE PECK, 12 Railroad Place, Amsterdam, N. Y.

"I will say that my mother has not stated my case in as strong words as I would have done. Hood's Sarsaparilla has truly cured me and I am now well." CORA PECK, Amsterdam, N. Y.

The Weather.

Last week was the hottest on record in Belleville, with the temperature ranging up to 98 on Friday and 90 on four of the other days of the week consecutively. This week bids fair to beat the record, however. Yesterday the mercury marked 94, and to-day it stood at 98 at 11 a.m.; at noon 90; and at 12:45 p.m. 94. The minimum was 80, and at 8 a.m. 86.

PROBABILITIES.

Moderate to fresh winds, mostly southerly to westerly, partly fair and very warm; thunder storms in many places.

HORSE AND TRACK.

In an exhibition mile at Columbus on Friday last John R. Gentry reduced the pacing record for stallions from 2:03¾ (previously held by himself) to 2:03¼

Joe Patchen paced a mile in 2.05¼ on the half-mile track at Medford, Mass., on Saturday.

Sphinxetta, by Sphinx, won the 2.15 pace at Columbus on Saturday. Bright Light took the first two heats in 2.08¼ and 2.08¾. Then Sphinxetta captured the next three in 2.09¼, 2.10 and 2.12½.

THE GUN.

In reply to an enquiry by Secy. Templeton, of the Forest and Stream Club, Secy. McRae, of the Deseronto Gun Club, replies that a trap shooting contest, with not less eight men a side, can be arranged for the 12th or 19th inst., at Deseronto. The Club will meet on Friday night to consider the matter.

BASEBALL.

At Cleveland on Friday last the home team played an eleven innings game with Pittsburg, which resulted in an exact tie. There were 42 times at bat, 3 runs, 10 base hits, 33 put outs, 15 assists and 5 errors for each club.

YACHTING.

At Portsmouth on Saturday Saint beat Niagara. The others grounded.

At Brockville on Saturday Mischief and Anita, both Duggan boats, defeated the Yankee Vesper, which got the Ogdensburg cup on a technicality after being beaten by Sothis, sailed by Mr. Duggan.

"Canst thou minister to a mind diseased?" asks Macbeth. Certainly, my lord; the condition of the mind depends largely, if not solely, on the condition of the stomach, liver, and bowels, for all of which complaints Ayer's Pills are "the sovereignest thing on earth."

A Mischievous Dog.

The Kingston News of Saturday says: "After the shells were unloaded this morning at Swift's wharf, a big St. Bernard dog stepped on the shell owned by J. Rice, (a professional who is to row here) and put his foot through the bottom. He telegraphed away for another boat."

KING OR KNAVE?

theory that man in his final development will wholly exist on pate de foie gras. Have some now. This is the best sort—look at the truffles. Welcome to Euphrosyne Terrace, Miss Furness. Julia, give Miss Furness an oyster—she looks tired."

Marion had to make a pretence of eating, and of sipping from the teacup, the mantel-piece spilljar falling to Mrs. Snell. Fortunately her want of appetite passed unobserved by the Doctor, who, reducing his medical principles to practice, made an entire circle of the dishes, and then re-began at the beginning.

"We'll have in a grand piano to-morrow," said he, lighting a cigar. "Mrs. Wyndham Snell is passionately fond of music. You sing, of course? I've observed that a beautiful voice always goes with eyes like yours. And so do I. We'll learn some duets together. I'm an operatic tenor—up to C sharp; I've taken the top E flat, real chest voice, before now. People usedn't to know the difference between me and Giuglini; and if you sing half as sweet as you speak, we'll make a pair."

"Wyndham," said Mrs. Snell, "people don't sing before their mothers are half cold in their graves."

"Don't they? Of course not, I mean. But it don't take long to get whole cold; and then they can—eh?"

Day by day, almost hour by hour, a transformation crept visibly over Euphrosyne Terrace, Piggot's Town. The house grew gradually furnished; Marion had no longer to sleep in a chamber that a maid-of-all-work would have scorned. A cook and a housemaid followed, to get on as best they might with Mrs. Snell. The meals became frequent, less chaotic, and less cold. The threatened grand piano appeared, and, by some magic, was squeezed through the front door.

And forthwith, strange to say, the patients who had hitherto patronized the simple doorplate of E. Smith, Surgeon, felt a magnetism that drew them to that of Wyndham Snell, M. R. C. S., L. A. C., Physician, Surgeon, and Accoucheur. In the mornings the latter had no longer to stand at his parlor window, smiling, envying, and trimming his nails. He found himself in such sudden request that, had his patients only been of the paying sort, he might have set up a carriage on the strength of his practice alone. As for Julia, she was reduced to wandering about the house, and to climbing and reclimbing the stairs for want of anything in the world to do, like some ghost of a housekeeper haunting the scene of her ancient reign, and finding the repose of the grave no comfort, but a weariness to brain and bones.

Marion wrote to Guy. And if her first letter had been hard to write, what had this to be? After all it is one thing to sentence one's own heart to death—it is another thing to deal the blow. But it had to be done.

"It must all be over. Do not ask me why. It is no fault of mine—none of yours. That is all I can tell you now or ever. You must live as if there was no me in the world. That ought to be easy—for a man. It is only to look on a few weeks as if they had been a dream. Do not try to find me. You would only distress me beyond words; and so I shall take care never to be found. Only forget me—that is all."

To such, in effect, came her letter; for, though it was a long one it told him nothing more. When it was written she felt that she had been writing with frozen ink; but she could not bring herself to read it. For go it must; and if she read it, it would never go. So she signed the death-warrant, and sent it to be posted in London—that no postmark might tell tales—by Wyndham Snell. And, under the circumstances, she might as well have thrown it into the ditch where the dockleaf grew.

"For," he argued shrewdly, "there's just one certain way to make a man hunt out a girl like a bloodhound till he finds her, high or low—and that's to dare him. If that letter goes, then good-bye to Miss Marion."

She had better have thrown the letter into the ditch. The dockleaf could not read.

Perhaps it may be thought a little strange on the part of Dr Snell that, having presumably been paid his fee in advance, he should be so anxious to retain a guest whose company must thenceforth be all loss and no gain. Perhaps he did not like to take unfair advantage of his position. Perhaps he, being by no means ungifted with fancy, saw in Marion a Mascotte—a bringer of good luck to every roof that shelters her. Perhaps he had more complicated views. But, however this might be, to Julia it was all as clear as day. Where is the woman who does not believe that she can read her husband through and through? And being right in her belief six times out of seven, what wonder if she sees nothing to baffle her the seventh time?

And certainly, if men are to be judged by acts, and acts by colored spectacles, Julia, who had nothing left her to do but to watch and worry, found plenty of occupation in that way. So far as Marion knew, Dr. Snell might be a model of all the domestic virtues. But Julia could count on her fingers the number of occasions on which Wyndham had spent an evening at home during their residence in Piggot's Town—eight she made it, counting once when the line was blocked by a railway accident, and three times when he was out of sorts and wanted nursing—before Marion Furness came. Within the first nine days of her visit, however, he stayed at home no fewer than seven times. It was true he had a separate reason for every one of them. On Monday, for example, he had to read up a case of pericarditis that had come before him in the morning; on Tuesday he was tired with his growing practice, and needed to go to bed early; on Wednesday it rained; on Thursday he expected a summons from Mrs. Crisp; and so on, and so on. No possible objection could ever be made to one of his reasons, taken alone. But there was the one fact for Julia—that girl

He had not been able as yet to bring about the duet. But the grand piano had not been conjured into the house for nothing, and he was really so nothing of a musician, even though it was he himself who had said so. He could sing light and easy songs in a pleasant voice and a pleasant way, doing special justic to pathetic passages—indeed, he had quite a knack of touching those queer corners of the heart that are only to be stirred by certain scents and certain sounds, and then with a shy and secret rapture that is harder to bear than pain. Marion was in the mood to be moved by slight things; and Mrs. Snell, though impervious to music herself, could not fail to perceive how Marion listened when Wyndam played. Though tactless herself, she could be jealously aware of the effect of the subtle flattery bestowed upon the vain heart of man by silent attention; and her spirit writhed. Never had Wyndham stayed at home to play to her. It is true that there had not been till now any instrument to play on; but that was a detail. The principle remained the same.

Then a brilliancy—to her mind, at least, a brilliancy—came into his home talk that he had certainly never wasted upon his domestic hearth for many a long day.

STRAIGHT AS AN ARROW

TO THE MARK.

In all diseases that affect humanity there is some weak link in the chain of health, some spot that is the seat of the trouble. It may be the liver, it may be the stomach; perhaps it is the bowels or the kidneys; most likely it is the blood. Burdock Blood Bitters goes straight to that spot, strengthens the weak link in the chain, removes the cause of the disease, and restores health, because it acts with cleansing force and curative power upon the stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood.

With good red blood health is assured, without it disease is certain to come and Burdock is the only remedy that will positively remove all blood poisons. In ulcers, abscesses, scrofula, scrofulous swellings, skin diseases, blotches, old sores, etc., B.B.B. should be applied externally, as well as taken internally according to directions.

We've all met people who looked well no matter how old their clothes were, and envied them their happy knack. But now any of us can have gowns and wraps in which we can move around and enjoy ourselves freely, at all kinds of games or sport, and yet they will keep stylishly chic and graceful through it all if we interline them with Fibre Chamois. This popular interlining can't possibly lose its stiffness no matter what hard usage it receives or how long it is in service. And it is so light in weight that it adds no burden on hot summer days. Wouldn't it be foolish not to look for the label bearing the name on each yard. Articles of sterling merit always have cheap and worthless imitations.

RACING EVERYWHERE.

Trotting and Running Results on Saturday —The Grand Circuit.

Columbus, Aug. 8.—The plunge of Sphynxetta, by which she won the race, was the feature of the 2.12 pace, which was the last event of the Grand Circuit races. Bright Lights, who won the first two heats, was run through the last half of the third heat, and was plainly tired out. She barely escaped being destroyed. 2.12 pace, purse $1500—Sphynxetta, b.m., by Sphynx (Spear), 1; Nicol B. 2, Amos R. 3. Best time 2.08¼.

Detroit Results: First race, mile—Pepper, 4 to 5, 1; Lady Doleful, 4 to 1, 2; Fred Barr, 7 to 1, 3; time 1.44. Second race, 5½ furlongs—Dr. Catilett, 8 to 5, 1; F. F. M'CARTHY FELL AT BUFFALO.

Buffalo, Aug. 8.—The third and final day's racing under the auspices of the Buffalo Cycling Association to-day ended a brilliant if not financially successful meet. There were 5000 people present to-day when the first event, the half mile open for amateurs, started. After four trial heats, in which the best time was made by T. B. McCarthy, Toronto, the final was reached with a big field. McCarthy, who had the pole, fell just outside the tape and Higgins went down a little farther on. Horan, Buffalo, won; Mosher, Buffalo, 2; Davidson, Toronto, 3; time 1.04 2-5.

The one mile invitation, professional, the event of the day, held second place on the program. Cooper and Bald had a hard fight in the first heat, but Bald took it in 2.03 3-5, Cooper second, Tom Butler third, Zeigler fourth and McDonald last. Butler took the second heat in 2.06 1-5, Cooper ran second, with Bald third, Zeigler fourth, McDonald fifth. The third and deciding heat resulted as follows: Butler 1, Bald 2, Cooper 3, Zeigler 4. The time was 2.02 3-5. The second victory of Butler gave him the race.

The one mile handicap, professional, brought out a good field. F. J. Jenny, Utica, N.Y., 40 yards, won, in 2.07 3-5; H. P. Mosher, Cold Spring, N.Y., 80 yards, 2; F. A. Foell, Buffalo, 150 yards, 3; L. A. Callahan, scratch, finished in 2.08 1-5. The one mile Buffalo amateur championship was won by C. J. Miller in 2.14 3-5.

WHO IS MRS. MARY ROGERS?

A Woman From Canada Charged With Attempting to Burn a Buffalo Hotel.

Buffalo, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Mary Rogers, a young woman hailing from Canada, who has been employed at the State Park Hotel on Falls-street as a domestic for a few days, was arrested this afternoon by Officer Thomas Mahoney and locked up on a charge of arson. Mrs. James W. Canavan, wife of one of the proprietors, found a pile of rags saturated with grease and with an incipient fire in them, in a store room, and, knowing that no one else had been in the room this morning, made a complaint against Mrs. Rogers, who was soon to leave the hotel. Mrs. Rogers denies the charge, but it is stated that she has conducted herself in a peculiar manner. Her examination was set down for Monday morning.

ROBBED THE POSTOFFICE.

Burglars Break Open the Safe of F. A. Cole at Hampton.

Bowmanville, Aug. 9.—At an early hour the postoffice and general store kept by Mr. F. A. Cole at Hampton was broken into and the safe robbed. The thieves, who procured the tools from Clark's blacksmith shop, after cutting the safe open, carried off all the cash and postage stamps, amounting to nearly $90, besides some clothing. Chief Jarvis of Bowmanville has the case in hand, but, as yet, there is no clue to the robbers, further than that they were tracked to this town. No one was sleeping in the building last night.

Dinner to Minister Fielding.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 9.—The dinner to Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, at the City Club last night, was a quiet affair. George A. Pyke, vice-president of the club, was at the head of the table and 37 others were present. Short speeches were made by Hon. Mr. Fielding, B. Russell, M.P., T. G. Forbes, ex-M.P., and W. B. Wallace, M.L.A.

RACE WAR IN POLK CO., ARK.

Three Negro Laborers Shot Dead by Whites Who Made an Attack Upon Their Camp.

Texarkana, Ark., Aug. 9.—The race war in Polk County has broken out in earnest and as a result of the first battle three negroes are dead, eight wounded and many have been run out of the county by the whites. The trouble is between white and black laborers employed on the grading of the Kansas City, Pittsburg & Gulf Railway near Horatio, Ark. The white laborers are determined that the negroes shall not work on the road and are being backed up by citizens of the county, who have armed themselves for the purpose of running the negroes out. Thursday night a lot of whites made a raid on a camp occupied by negro laborers and three of the latter were killed, several others wounded and a number fled in terror. The names of the killed are not known. Several of the leaders of the raid have been arrested.

THE FRENCH POPULATION.

Their New Census Does Not Make a Very Good Showing.

New York, Aug. 9.—Harold Frederic cables from London to The Times: The French are taking to heart the unpleasant showing of their new census much more than they did five years ago. Their republic, in the first throes of its ecstasy at the prospect of a Russian aliance, had consoled itself by the thought that if the French population did not increase, the Russian expanded at a tremendous rate. But now a good deal of gilt is off the ginger bread. Those multiplying Muscovite hordes by no means are so definitely under the French thumb as they were expected to be, and the Russian alliance itself is openly dependent on an unbroken station of loans from French savings. These savings still make France the richest country in the world, but they also make it a shining attraction to outside robbers. Germany has now 14,000,000 more people than France, and the disparity increases with tragic certainty yearly.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian yolcano, is 3932 feet high.

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency"

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

A Sufferer Cured

"Every season, from the time I was two years old, I suffered dreadfully from erysipelas, which kept growing worse until my hands were almost useless. The bones softened so that they would bend, and several of my fingers are now crooked from this cause. On my hand I carry large scars, which, but for

THE SPORTING WORLD

Fast Wheelmen at the Island Track, Toronto.

Harley Davidson Made a Poor Showing in Championship Events—Fast Work by a Fifteen-Year-Old Boy—Young Scholes Cuts the Boys' Record—Some Hot Contests Also in Kingston—Baseball Record.

Toronto, Aug. 11.

The bicycle races attracted nearly 2000 spectators to the Island oval yesterday afternoon, who witnessed several well-contested events.

T. B. McCarthy made a successful debut as a pro, winning the professional mile open and the two-mile championship in clever style. Harley Davidson made a poor showing in both of these contests, and also finished in the ruck in the quarter-mile heat race that was won by McIntosh with Greatrix second.

Frank Moore captured the two-mile amateur championship of Toronto in good form, R. Thompson finishing ahead of John Davidson. The time in this race is a new record for Canada.

A surprise was furnished in the handicap, the winner turning up in C. Wilson, a 15-year-old lad, who was on the 150-yard mark. He finished third in his heat, and ran away from the field in the final, winning by 1-16 of a mile. Had Moore and Davidson, the scratch men, not come to grief, the youngster would likely have been pushed at the finish.

Lou Scholes, the young son of John F. Scholes, paced by Tucker and Boake, reduced the boys' record from 2.24 to 2.17, and showed up as a coming rider.

The two-mile tandem furnished a close contest, and was won by Moore and McGill.

A high wind blew from the west, which made it hard for the riders coming around the north turn, and the records made are therefore all the more creditable.

This was another well-conducted meet, like all the Ferry Co.'s bicycle events. George H. Orr was starter and referee. Summaries:

Half-mile novice, amateur—First heat: F. W. O'Connor, Q.C.B.C., 1; J. Hutchins, Wanderers, 2; C. C. Robb, Wanderers, 3. Time 1.09 3-5. Also started: G. Shepherd, W. J. Stewart, A. Grupe, G. H. Banks. Second heat: F. W. Sparling, Wanderers, 1; A. Murray, Hamilton, 2; E. A. Laver, T.A.C., 3. Time 1.07 3-5. Also started: D. Craig, A. W. Laing. Final heat: Sparling, Wanderers, 1; Hutchins, Wanderers, 2; Robb, Wanderers, 3. Time 1.21 4-5.

Quarter-mile, professional (heats)—First heat: W. McIntosh, 1; A. Young, 2; F. Young, 3. Also started: Harley Davidson, Chris Greatrix. Second heat: Greatrix 1, McIntosh 2, Davidson 3. Time 29 3-5. A. Young and F. Young unplaced. McIntosh won first place and Greatrix second.

Challenge half-mile match race between R. Cockburn and W. Shepherd—The former won in straight heats as he pleased in 1.05 2-5 and 1.07.

Two-mile amateur championship of Toronto—F. Moore, T.A.C., 1; R. Thompson, W.A.B.C., 2; John Davidson, Wanderers, 3. Time 4.29 3-5 (record). Herb Cassidy was the only other starter to stay with the pacing tandem. McGill, Meenan and McEachern also started.

Record trial, to beat boys' record of 2.24—Lou Scholes. Time 2.17.

One mile handicap, amateur—Dave Wilson, Wanderers, 1; C. Meehan, Wanderers, 2; J. Smith, Q.C.B.C., 3. Time 2.15 1-5. Also started: F. Moore, R. Thompson, John Davidson, W. Sparling, A. Murray, T. Hogan, D. Craig, F. W. O'Connor, R. Cockburn, G. Shepherd, G. H. Banks, A. McEachern, R. Gardiner, G. Gooch, S. Secord, C. C. Robb, A. W. Laing, W. J. Stewart, E. A. Laver. Davidson, Moore and Thompson, after qualifying in the preliminaries got mixed up in the stretch in the final, and were badly bruised. The winner, who started from the 150-yard mark, is a 15-year-old, and promises to be a record-breaker.

Two-mile tandem, amateur—Moore and McGill, T.A.C., 1; Tulloch and Sparling, Wanderers, 2; Boake and Tucker, Wanderers, 3. Time 4.50 4-5. Meehan and Gardner, Wanderers, also started.

Two-mile professional championship of Toronto—T. B. McCarthy 1, C. Greatrix 2, F. Young 3. Time 4.31 2-5. Also started: A. Young, H. Davidson.

One mile, open, professional—T. B. McCarthy 1, C. Greatrix 2, F. Young 3. Time 2.18 2-5. Also started: A. Young, H. Davidson, W. McIntosh.

FAST RIDERS AT KINGSTON.

Kingston, Aug. 10.—The bicycle races were hotly contested to-day. There was a very large audience, and they keenly enjoyed the sport. There were several accidents. McCall, Toronto, was thrown in the one mile professional, and received a bad cut over the eye and a bruised shoulder. In the half-mile open Axton's wheel was smashed and his shoulder hurt by a catch in a wire netting. Ladd had his right leg slit open by a fall while on a curve. The results were:

One mile novice, two heats and final—Final: J. H. Barnett, Toronto, 1; T. A. Murphy, Kingston, 2; W. C. Macdonald, 3. Time 3.02.

Half-mile open, amateur (two heats and final)—H. G. Beemer, Toronto, 1; Morrison, Smith's Falls, 2. Time 1.15.

Amateur, Gendron wheels—A. McIntosh 1, F. C. Hoog 2. Both of Kingston.

One mile open, professional—Angus McLeod, Sarnia, 1; J. H. Gratz, Toronto 2, Time 2.31 3-5.

One mile, 2.30, amateur—H. G. Beemer, Toronto, 1; T. A. Murphy, Kingston, 2; W. C. Macdonald, Kingston, 3. Time 2.40.

Two-mile, Quinte district championship, amateur—G. B. McKay, Kingston, 1; H. C. Martin, Kingston, 2. Time 5.50.

Two-mile club amateur, Herald trophy—G. F. Smith, Kingston. Time 5.46½.

Three-mile open, professional—Angus McLeod, Sarnia, 1; J. H. Gratz, Toronto, 2; Cecil Elliott, Toronto, 3. This was a fine finish; a blanket would have covered the three at the last lap. Time 7.36 4-5.

Mile open, amateur—R. O. Blayney, Toronto, 1; Morrison, Smith's Falls, 2; H. G. Beemer, Toronto, 3. The first time they raced was disallowed, as the men exceeded the time limit. The second time the mile was covered in 2.38.

Two-mile amateur, lap, pool, open—R. O. Blayney, Toronto, 1; H. C. Martin, Kingston, 2; H. G. Beemer, Toronto, 3. No time down for this.

Hunt won the bandsmen's race. The hard times procession in the morning was decidedly unique.

Mr. H. B. Brownley of Smith's Falls has been placed in the professional class by the chairman of the Racing Board.

A MILE IN A MINUTE.

Anderson Was Within Three Seconds of It in a Remarkable Ride at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 10.—E. E. Anderson rode a mile in 1.03 behind a locomotive here yesterday, making the fastest mile ever ridden on a bicycle. He attempted to ride the distance in one minute, and that he was unsuccessful was due to his pacemaker which did not keep up regular speed. At times the speed indicator in the engine registered 61 miles an hour, but it was only going at 58 miles when the starting point was struck. Anderson showed no ill effects from his great ride but that his tongue was thickly coated from the intense heat.

The rider pedaled steadily and kept well up to the engine, though he admitted afterward that his 92-gear was even too low for such rapid traveling. The crowd cheered as "Andy" flew by, and when the torpedoes signaled that the ride was over the two watches and one on the engine registered 1.03.

The intense heat did not permit Anderson's making another trial, and he will make his final trial on Aug. 23. If he did not accomplish his purpose he proved that he could ride a mile a minute. Anderson's pacemaker was the most ponderous machine that has been employed to aid a cyclist in covering ground and beating Father Time. It consisted of a locomotive, tender and a coach. The engine and tender weighed 80 tons, and the coach tipped the railroad scale at 15 tons. To this weight had to be added that of the spectators who were allowed the privilege of riding as fast as the intrepid wheelman, though on a safer basis.

The track over which the bicycle made the fastest time ever negotiated on a man-propelled vehicle was smooth as carpenter's work could make it. It was composed of two-inch white pine planks laid end to end for a distance of two miles. The lumber did not arrive until last Wednesday, and by Thursday afternoon it was all laid. The track was three feet wide between the rails and all joints were planed smooth. Every edge and every nail were carefully inspected by the chief engineer of the road Friday afternoon and pronounced as safe as human skill could make it. Sunday morning a gang of men were sent over it and swept it clean, and a guard saw that no one was allowed on it for five hours before the test was made.

WORKING ON THE ESTIMATES.

The Figures to be Laid Before the Cabinet This Week—Mr. Watson's Visit.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—(Special.)—Hon. J. Israel Tarte, Minister of Public Works, was at Alexandria on Saturday on a visit of inspection to the reformatory works there. It appears that a difference of opinion arose between Mr. Joseph Bourque, the contractor, and Mr. Fuller, chief architect of public works, regarding the foundation which is now being laid, and the contractor asked for an outside authority to be called in. This was accordingly done, and Mr. Perreault of Montreal was asked by the Department of Public Works to examine into the dispute and decide between the parties. He accordingly visited Alexandria on Saturday, and, in company with Mr. Tarte and the Government architect, went over the work. The report will be prepared at once and forwarded to the department here.

The report is current in town that Bourque, who has made little progress with his contract so far, finds that at the figure at which he took it he is going to lose money unless he can work in on extras. His price was $95,000, while the departmental estimate was $140,000.

The estimates to be laid before Parliament will be taken into consideration this week by the Ministry. In several of the departments the Ministry were busy upon them last week. The statement is reported that there will be very little change from the estimates that were brought down in January, but there must necessarily be some changes, says one Minister, from the fact that several months have elapsed since the estimates were prepared in the first place.

Hon. Robert Watson, Minister of Public Works for Manitoba, interviewed to-day, said: "You may say that my trip east has nothing whatever to do with the portfolio of the Interior. I am not after it and my business lies in an altogether different direction, being wholly with the Public Works Department. The school question, too, is not in it with me just now; there are new phases looking up in that connection at present. It was suggested to him that probably something would be made known about it by the first of the session, but he thought that it was a little early to expect anything definite. It would probably be dealt with in the Speech from the Throne. At least it would be considered of sufficient importance, he supposed, to merit attention in the Queen's Speech. Regarding Manitoba's prospects for the year, he thought that they would be well up to the mark. The crop would be one-third less than last year, but it must be remembered that last year was an exceptionally good one in the western part of the province, where there would be a falling off. It is the east that has suffered from too much rain early in the season, and hail storms did some local damage to crops. Mr. Watson will be here for a few days.

The Marine Department has sent a number of sign boards to British Columbia to be placed along the south-west coast of Vancouver Island. They are in the nature of directions to ship-wrecked mariners, informing them where they can reach different Indian villages in case they want assistance.

The Minister of Marine has ordered the Government steamer LaCanadienne to proceed to Bryan Island to rescue the crew of the wrecked barquentine William Geake. This course was adopted as the Government steamer Aberdeen was not available.

A break has occurred in the Government cable, extending between Anticosti and the North Shore of the St. Lawrence. As there is an alternate line, however, the accident is not likely to cause any break in communication, and the authorities in this city have sent a vessel to locate the break and repair the damage at once.

Hon. Dr. Borden, Minister of Militia, has brought with him to Ottawa as his private secretary Mr. Harry W. Brown of Halifax, who is a cousin of the Minister and has practised law at the Halifax bar for the last three years.

The Dominion Statistician is already at work on the year book for 1896.

A consignment of new Lee-Enfield rifles has been received here. The rifles will be given a trial at the Dominion Rifle Association matches.

Mr. Tarte leaves for Montreal tomorrow, and will speak on Wednesday at the demonstration at St. Eustache for Mr. Ethier, the new member for Two Mountains.

Hon. Mr. Fielding, Minister of Finance, has telegraphed he will be in Ottawa on Wednesday.

Mr. S. F. Perry, ex-M.P. (Lib.), has been appointed Acting Fishery Inspector for Prince Edward Island. The Inspector resigned to run as a Conservative candidate.

ENTERTAINING CANUCKS.

The Canadian Artillery Men are Now Having a Big Time in England After Their Lucky Scores.

London, Aug. 10.—The Canadian Artillery men were entertained at lunch at Woolwich to-day as the guests of the Third Kent Artillery Volunteers. Entertainments have been provided for the Canadians throughout the rest of the week. They will be banqueted tonight by the National Artillery Association at the Holborn Restaurant, on which occasion 250 persons will be present, including the Earl of Stradbroke, Lieut.-Col. of the First Volunteer Brigade, Eastern Division, Royal Artillery; Sir Donald Smith, the Canadian High Commissioner, the Marquis of Lorne, Col. Middleton and Gen. Herbert.

A Wreck on the T. & O. Central.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 10.—A wreck occurred here about 9.40 p.m. on the Toledo & Ohio Central. Three reported killed and several wounded.

THEY STRUCK IN A FOG

The Vancouver Crashes Into the Lake Ontario.

Lake Ontario Arrives at Quebec and Captain Campbell Tells His Side of the Story—He Blames the Captain of the Vancouver For the Mishap, But Captain Williams' Side Has Not Yet Been Told—The Vancouver Is Now Returning to Quebec.

Father Point, Que., Aug. 10.—The R. M. S. Vancouver that sailed from Quebec Sunday morning at 9.20 received the British mails and some passengers off here and proceeded for Liverpool at 10.30 p.m. Sunday. A dense fog prevailed, and the Father Point fog signals was fired steadily from 7 p.m. until 3 this morning. The Vancouver had to feel her way in here by the use of her lead, aided by the fog signal. About an hour and a half after passing here, while she was proceeding slowly with her whistle sounding regularly, all at once she was run into, bow on, by an inward bound steamer, her bow on the starboard side being badly smashed in, almost down to the water line. Both her anchors were carried away, with hawse pipe and her windlass broken, but her collision bulkhead remained intact. Commodore Williams maintained perfect discipline among the passengers and crew, and had lifeboats immediately ready to launch in case they had been required, but this was found to be unnecessary, and the Vancouver was turned back to Father Point, where a pilot was immediately taken to her by Mr. McWilliams, and she proceeded to Quebec for repairs. No lives were lost and the vessel is in perfect safety, though proceeding slowly. The name of the vessel collided with is unknown.

Struck the Lake Ontario.

Quebec, Que., Aug. 10.—The Beaver Line steamer Lake Ontario, Captain Campbell, arrived here shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon and proceeded to her berth at the G.T.R. wharf, Levis. The ship bears evidence of having sustained a pretty hard shock. She has a hole extending from a distance of ten feet on the port side to about 20 feet on the starboard side. The cut water is gone at that place. The hole is just under the forecastle deck and leaves open the anchor-weighing apparatus. Piled just within the hole under the forecastle deck is a mass of iron plates, iron chucks, pieces of derrick pulleys, huge iron bars, all of which were wrenched from the bows of the Vancouver. Below the gap mentioned above is another opening, measuring about 20 feet, and extending entirely on the starboard side. This opens the bows in the fore peak in the twin deck. Of the forecastle deck the rails, davits, crane and mooring chucks are gone.

Captain Campbell was seen, but was very reticent; he disliked speaking of the collision, which bothers him very much. He blames Captain Williams of the Vancouver for having kept so close to shore in the way of inward bound steamers making for the pilot grounds. The accident occurred after 11 o'clock, during a thick fog. The Lake Ontario was kept steaming at about a four-knot rate, while her whistle was kept going, with the "Beaver Line pilot signal," which is a long blast and three short ones. The Vancouver was sighted on the starboard bow nearly ahead; she crashed right in, but the Lake Ontario's bows are pointed and those of the Vancouver are nearly perpendicular. The latter's forward deck with anchors, chains, windlass and everything was moved down. Perfect order reigned on the Lake Ontario, while the Vancouver appeared to swing out the life-boats. Shortly afterwards, however, the Vancouver headed up stream. This occurred off Father Point. Captain Campbell puts the entire blame on the Dominion Line steamer. He reported foggy weather during most of the voyage and a great number of icebergs off Belle Isle.

Due at Quebec at 6 a.m.

Quebec, Aug. 11.—The Vancouver passed Grosse Isle at 1 o'clock this morning and is due at Quebec about 6 this morning.

NEARLY OVER THE FALLS.

The Thrilling Experience of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Douglass While Crossing Goat Island Bridge.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 10.—A lively experience on Goat Island bridge, above the American Falls, at Niagara Falls, took place yesterday afternoon, which no doubt will be a memorable one to Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Douglas of that place. It seems that shortly after noon, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas were crossing the bridge from the mainland in a buggy drawn by a team of carriage horses. Just before reaching Bath Island one of the horses was taken with blind staggers and began to prance wildly about, throwing the carriage alarmingly near one edge of the bridge. Many held their breath, expecting to see the horses, carriage and occupants thrown into the seething rapids, but Mr. Douglas sprang nimbly from his seat and assisted Mrs. Douglas out of the rig. In the meantime the stricken horse broke loose from the harness and sprang into the rapids. The water was swift but not deep at this point, and the effect of the cooling was instantaneous. The horse became frantic to get out and was assisted to land on the Bath Island shore not much the worse for his experience.

WAS THE YACHT LOST?

Twelve Men and Boys Who Left Camden, N.J., on the Christian Lloyd are Missing.

Camden, N.J., Aug. 10.—Twelve men and boys boarded the sloop yacht Christian Lloyd here yesterday for a sail on the Delaware River. They intended to return last night, but up to this afternoon nothing had been heard from the boat or her passengers, and anxiety is felt for their safety. The objective point of the party was Chester, Pa. In view of a storm last night, it is feared that the yacht was capsized before sail could be taken in. Inquiries were sent to Chester and other points on the river to-day, but no news of the yacht could be obtained.

Frank Conroy Must Die.

Watertown, N.Y., Aug. 10.—At Canton, St. Lawrence County, to-night, Frank Conroy was convicted of murder in the first degree for having killed his wife Kate at Ogdensburg last May in a fit of jealous rage. Justice Russell sentenced him to be executed during the week beginning Sept. 28 at Dannemora.

THEY HID THE GOLD BAR.

James E. Garrett, Formerly of Montreal, Caught Unearthing $12,000 Worth of Stolen Gold.

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 10.—James E. Garrett and three companions were caught in the act of unearthing the famous Ensenada gold bar, valued at $12,000, which was stolen from the office of M. Rivoli at Ensenada on the night of March 29, 1895. The captors of the party were Mexican officials, headed by Gov. Sanguines in person. After his arrest Garrett showed the officers where the bar was buried, and the precious metal was recovered.

Garrett spent 16 months in the Ensenada jail under suspicion of the robbery, but it could not be proved against him, and he was released July 15 last. During his confinement, Garrett, who is an Englishman and has wealthy relatives in Montreal and England, made a strong complaint to the British Government because of his alleged wrongful detention. The case at one time threatened to provoke a serious complication between Mexico and Great Britain, and is still a subject of diplomatic correspondence.

AMERICAN SILVER.

Halifax Bankers are Getting Tired of the Glut of This Coinage in Canada—Taken at a Discount.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 10.—The Halifax bankers have not yet decided to make any more than the usual discount on American silver and silver certificates, but have considered the matter, and, also, of making all drafts on American banks payable in gold.

The cashier of one of the lagest bank said to-day:; "We are not taking American silver at all except at a heavy discount, but silver notes payable in the States are equal to gold as yet,and wesare taking them at a small discount as usual, though we are considering whether it would not be advisable to accept them only at a substantial discount, and thus keep them to some extent out of the country. All the Halifax banks will possibly enter into an arrangement of this kind.

American bankers do not wish drafts from Canada to be made payable in gold under the existing circumstances, and this fact is causing comment in banking circles here.

A prominent broker said he was taking American silver at the usual discount, as it was worth as much as ever in the United States, and he believed it would hold its value for another year at least.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Directors Met in Montreal Yesterday and Declared the Half-Yearly Dividend—They are Wary.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—(Special.)—The meeting of the Canadian Pacific directorate, which took place to-day, had been looked forward to with a great deal of interest. There was a full attendance, and after the meeting was over the secretary handed your correspondent the following official statement:

"At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to-day, the usual half-yearly dividend of two per cent. on the preference stock was declared and a dividend of one per cent. for the half-year on the ordinary stock. Although the results of working for the half year have been satisfactory, the directors deemed it prudent to take a conservative course in dealing with the interim dividend on the ordinary stock, in view of the disturbed commercial and financial condition of this continent.

HOW CHADBURN ESCAPED.

A Twelve-Year Sentence Man Dons Citizen's Clothing and Walks Out With Visitors.

Leavensworth, Kas., Aug. 10.—William Chadburn escaped from the Kansas penitentiary yesterday. During the preaching in the chapel he obtained permission to go to the toilet room; instead of doing so he went to the guards' dressing room and put on a suit of citizen's clothing. There were many visitors at the chapel, and Chadburn fell in with them and marched out, passing three sets of guards. Chadburn is a Coffeyville desperado, and was committed two years ago under 12 years' sentence for highway robbery.

The Dead.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 10.—Edwin R. Brown, editor, lecturer, banker, business man and poet, commonly called the "Sage of Elmwood," died at his home last night.

London, Aug. 10.—Lady Emily Tennyson, widow of the late Lord Alfred Tennyson, the poet, died at her residence at Aldworth at an early hour this morning from congestion of the lungs.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 10.—Carroll Spence, who several years ago achieved distinction in the diplomatic service, died yesterday. He had been an invalid for 35 years. Uremic poisoning was the direct cause of death.

New York, Aug. 10.—Mrs. Susan N. Carter, who was the head of the Cooper Union Art School for 25 years, died at Arlington Heights, Mass., on Saturday. She was born in Cambridge in 1835. She wrote on art for The Century, Scribners' and other magazines, and prepared several hand books on art.

Like an open book, our faces tell the tale of health or disease. Pain and suffering and wrong living write their history on our features in unmistakable lines. Hollow cheeks and sunken eyes, listless steps and languorous looks tell of wasting debilitating disease some place in the body. It may be one place or another, the cause is generally traceable to a common source—impure blood, and impure blood starts in the digestive organs.

That most dreadful disease—consumption is what is known as constitutional. It is in the blood. In reality, it is scrofula of the lungs, and it can be cured 98 times in 100 if proper treatment be taken in its early stages. Sending good, clean, pure, rich, wholesome blood continuously through the diseased parts will gradually eradicate the disease. If the medicine taken be strongly purifying, healing and soothing, the cure will be even more rapid.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood, stimulates digestive action, searches out disease-germs wherever they exist and puts the whole body into a vigorous, strong and healthy condition. It builds up solid, useful flesh, rubs out wrinkles, brightens the eyes and makes life really worth living. A big book of 1000 pages entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," profusely illustrated, telling all about it and full of good, sensible health hints, with numerous testimonial letters and reproduced photographs and address to those cured, will be sent free to any one who sends thirty-one cents, in one-penny stamps, to prepay postage and duty only.

A HEALTHFUL DRINK
MADDEN'S CEREAL

A DELICIOUS and HEALTHFUL DRINK.

We seldom charge our ill feelings to the true cause. CHEMISTRY proves that Coffee contains poisonous alkaloids, as in morphine, whiskey and tobacco. A SOUND, HEALTHY PERSON may be able to stand these for a time, but "a small leak sinks a big ship," and sooner or later indigestion, headache, torpid liver, weak heart, "weary, tired feeling" proves that the nervous system has been poisoned.

EVERY DAY, and perhaps every meal, the poisonous alkaloids of Coffee and Tea add fuel to the fire. Can you wonder that some organic disease is firmly seated? Health cannot return until you remove the cause. MADDEN CEREAL has the appearance of coffee, in color like Java or Mocha, and when cream is added it changes to a rich brown. A product made from blood-producing grains, it builds up, renews and makes red blood. REGULAR PACKAGE MAKES 100 CUPS. Grocers sell it at 25 cents. THE REGATTA.

The sculling and sailing regatta which was to be opened this afternoon is one of the most important aquatic events ever held in Canada. Indeed, with the exception of the recent meeting at Halifax, we know of no regatta ever held in the Dominion in which so great a number of eminent professional and amateur oarsmen took part. The course is as good as can be obtained on fresh water; the arrangements for witnessing the contests could not be surpassed anywhere; and in every respect those in charge have done all in their power for providing first-class sport with pleasant and creditable surroundings.

It is not probable that the present generation will witness another such event, for those who have undergone the labor which is necessary in preparing the regatta of 1896 will never undertake such a task again.

All concerned in actively forwarding the work have done so in the interest of Belleville, and our people ought to show their appreciation by turning out in large numbers and attending the regatta.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

Mr. Laurier has taken three of the spendthrift Provincial Premiers each of whom increased very largely the expenditure of the province which he governed and added (two of them at least) to its debt, to give us a reduction of expenditure in the Dominion, despite a promised increase of some $600,000 per annum in the subsidies to provinces. Remarkable, isn't it?

But then Mr. Laurier has chosen the maladorous Tarte—associate and co-parcener of Pacaud the notorious—to give us a pure administration of the Public Works Department. Shade of Mackenzie! what next?

Mr. Laurier proposes to protect one industry at least—the verse making industry. We are afraid that Mr. Laurier's project is wrong end first. The public need is protection from, not encouragement to, the dreadful horde of "metre ballad mongers" in Canada who are loaded up for a careful shot at the public treasury under such a scheme.

It will require all the state-aided bards whom Mr. Laurier proposes to subsidize, and many more of like kind, to sing his praises strongly enough to attract public favor to his Administration. And they won't succeed, because of Tarte.

Some months ago Prof. Goldwin Smith announced that he would thence forward cease contributing to the Canadian press on public affairs; but he has recently become part proprietor of a public journal in Toronto and has taken up his old role of professing to discuss our affairs from a non-partizan stand point. Mr. Smith is an annexationist, and is masquerading before the public in a disguise which does not conceal his identity from any one. His utterances long ago ceased to have any weight in Canada or in England.

John Charlton, M. P., has proved, by a series of letters to the Globe, that he is still very wide-awake to the interests of his countrymen the Yankees, for whose advantage, as opposed to that of Canada, in the matter of an export duty on saw-logs, he worked so earnestly and successfully.

One Week's Trial of Lactated Food Will Show Grand Results.

The wise mothers of Canada who are constantly using Lactated food for their babies find no difficulty in keeping the little ones well and strong in hot weather. Lactated Food fed babies are always healthy, good natured, and full of life and activity.

If baby is not building up flesh and becoming strong with its regular supply of breast milk, supplement nature's food at once with Lactated Food, which contains every element of nourishing power. One week's trial of Lactated Food will show you grand results.

The Cheese Trade.

There is a decidedly better feeling in the cheese market, if it will only last, sales having been made at country markets at ½c to ¾c per lb over last week's prices, which advance was followed by a rise of 6d in the public cable, which would indicate that the market was getting beyond the control of English buyers, in whose hands it has been for some time past. It is now claimed that the late exceptionally low prices have stimulated consumption on the other side, and that this, combined with the small English make and the prospects of a reduced production of the fall cheese in Canada, has imparted a different complexion to the whole situation that may induce English buyers to follow up the present improvement with further additions to their cable limits. Nor ought they to complain at this, as they have forced their own terms quite long enough, and it is about time that farmers and shippers had something of a show. Last week's shipments from this port were 61,311 boxes against 70,348 boxes for the corresponding week last year, and the total shipments for the season up to the close of the last week were 619,585 boxes, against 650,057 boxes for the same time last year, showing a decrease of 32,472 boxes, while the season's export from New York are 72,700 boxes less than those of last year, making a total decrease from the two ports of 105,172 boxes. Now, if the English make is as small as stated, there may be some scrambling for cheese before the present season is closed.—Trade Bulletin.

Funny Things Come to Pass.

Perhaps the idea of wearing wooden socks might seem ridiculous, but it's just what some people in Germany are doing, and very nice socks they are too. The wood is reduced to a long silky fibre and made into a yarn out of which the socks are knit, making a warmer, more durable and just as soft protection as woollen ones. In a similar way the pure spruce fibre is made into the interlining called Fibre Chamois which provides for clothing an absolute protection against raw air and cold winds because it is a complete non-conductor of heat and cold, keeping in the natural heat and keeping out every breath of cold. This fabric has also been made waterproof so that the rain never penetrates it, and is so light in weight and inexpensive that a layer of it provides the acme of comfort for all outdoor clothing.

A Sailor's Yarn.

(J. J. Roche—Ballads of Blue Water.)

This is the tale that was told to me
By a battered and shattered son of the sea,
To me and my messmate, Silas Green,
When I was a guileless young marine:—

'Twas the good ship Gyascutus,
All in the China seas,
With the wind a-lee and the capstan free
To catch the summer breeze.

'Twas Captain Porgie on the deck,
To his mate in the mizzen hatch,
While the boatswain bold, in the forward hold,
Was winding his larboard watch.

"Oh, how does our good ship head to-night?
How heads our gallant craft?"
"Oh, she heads to the E. S. W. by N.,
And the binnacle lies abaft!"

"Oh, what does the quadrant indicate,
And how does the sextant stand?"
"Oh, the sextant's down to the freezing point,
And the quadrant's lost a hand!"

"Oh, and if the quadrant has lost a hand
And the sextant falls so low,
It's our bodies and bones to Davy Jones
This night are bound to go!

"Oh, fly aloft to the garboard strake!
And reef the spanker boom;
Bend a studding-sail on the martingale,
To give her weather room.

"O boatswain, down in the for'ard hold,
What water do you find?"
"Four foot and a half by the Royal gaff
And rather more behind!"

"O sailors, collar your marline spikes
And each belaying-pin:
Come, stir your stumps and spike the pumps,
Or more will be coming in!"

They stirred their stumps, they spiked the pumps,
They spliced [illegible] brace;
[illegible] space, [illegible] but oh!
[illegible]

They bored a hole above the keel
To let the water out;
But strange to say, to their dismay,
The water in did spout.

Oh, then 'twas the noble second mate,
What filled them all with awe;
The second mate, as bad men hate,
And cruel skippers jaw.

He took the anchor on his back
And leaped into the main;
Through foam and spray he clove his way,
And sunk and rose again!

Through foam and spray, a league away
The anchor stout he bore;
Till, safe at last, he made it fast
And warped the ship ashore!

Tain't much of a job to talk about,
But a ticklish thing to see,
And suthin' to do, if I say it, too,
For that second mate was me!

* * * * *

Such was the tale that was told to me
By that modest and truthful son of the sea;
And I envy the life of a second mate,
Though captains curse him and sailors hate,
For he ain't like some of the swabs I've seen,
As would go and lie to a poor marine.

THOMASBURG.

Aug. 11, 1896.—We have had a terrible siege here this week past. We can only describe the weather day by day as warm, warmer, very warm, hot, hotter, very hot. Monday, 3rd, was moderate, with the thermometer hovering around 80° in the shade. Tuesday was warmer and the thermometer shot up to 96° in the shade at noon. On Wednesday we had a very light sprinkle of rain in the morning and another few drops in the evening and 96° in the shade at noon; on Thursday noon 96° in the shade, on Friday 98°, on Saturday 98° and on Sunday it just boiled up to 101 in the shade. Yesterday it moderated down again to 96° in the shade and we felt some better, then we had another little sprinkle of rain. This morning the glorious sun is out again in all her glory prepared for another scorcher. Good-bye, if you never hear from us again some one may find some shrivelled scraps of us round here somewhere.

An Echo of the Past.

"Why does that ancient Miss Treadles put all those notches in her handle bar?"

"That's the way she keeps tally of the pedestrians she has run over. She was never known to spare one."

"And why is she so bitter against them?"

"They say that long years ago a pedestrian jilted her!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Now or Never.

After the young man with spectacles had dilated upon the beautiful vista formed by the level grass and arching boughs, he remarked to his companion that her friend Miss Elderly struck him as a blind, impulsive force without any sense of responsibility.

"It's easily explained. Leap year is more than half gone and the poor thing appreciates that it is now or never."

We've All Noticed It.

"You act as if you thought everything was wrong," said Billyer's wife.

"Mebbe I do," was the reply. "I try not to show it. But when I notice how willin' the mosquitoes is to bit an' how backward the fish is about doing the same. I declare I can't help thinkin' things goes a good deal by contraries."—Washington Star.

A Wonder.

Miss Crogan—Did yez see th' way Kittie Casey's puttin' on th' frills wid her biking?

Johnnie McGloo—Naw; wat kin she do?

Miss Crogan—She kin shteer wid wan hand an' hold on to her bloomers wid th' other, just like she was crossin' a muddy gutter.—Cleveland Post.

A Chicken of Another Spring.

At dinner:

Diner—Waiter, there is a slight mistake. I ordered a spring chicken and a bottle of 1384 Pommery."

Waiter—Yes, sir?

Diner—You have brought me some Pommery of last spring and a chicken of 1884.—Paris Messenger.

Anticipation.

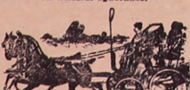
Matilda—What's the matter, Maud?

Maud—Oh, I'm dreadfully seasick.

Matilda—Why, you haven't been on the water for months!"

Maud—I know it; but I'm all the time thinking of the European trip I'm going to take next week.—Roxbury Gazette.

In Blissful Ignorance.



Young Nobby has been wondering why everyone he has met seemed to be in such extreme good humor.—Harper's Bazar.

An Odd Conceit.

Hans Schliessmann, the well-known Vienna caricaturist, has sent half a dozen letters to artists and authors of his acquaintance, writing on the envelope only, "Mr." and then adding a tiny sketch of the person in question and the designation of the quarter of the town in which he lives.

The Mystery Un[illegible].

He—They tell me [illegible] wonder never kisses that wealthy [illegible] noticed of his. What can it mean?

She—You've nev[illegible] her, have you?

The Latest Humor.

FORCE OF HABIT.

She had learned to be a rusher
In a weary business world;
And along a dizzy pathway
By life's pressing needs was whirled,
So enslaved was she to phrases
Of that hustling, bustling clime,
That when a man would wed her,
She said, "Thank you—haven't time."

HER CAKE WAS DOUGH.

A Modern Maiden Finds Honesty Is the Best Policy.

"Oh, dear," said the girl in the sailor hat, "such a time as I had yesterday."

"What is the matter now?" asked the girl in the blazer suit. "By the way, I was here yesterday and was told that you were in the kitchen—that was such an unusual thing in itself that I couldn't interrupt you."

"I wish you had," sighed the girl in the sailor hat, "I—I was making cake. I wish now that I hadn't."

"You surely never ate any of it yourself?" asked the girl in the blazer suit.

"N—no. You see, it was this way: Mr. Penandink was here and he quoted such a lot of poetry about the beauty of domesticity in women that I rashly told him that I could make cake. I—well, I did once make one with mamma and Aunt Laura to help me."

"Oh, well, it was no harm to tell him that, if—"

"He begged me to make one and let him see me do it, and I consented, so he went to the kitchen with me, helped stone the raisins and beat the eggs and succeeded in confusing me so that I—well, I forgot to put any flour in it."

"What on earth did you do?"

"Oh, I took him back to the parlor, and after a while, under pretext of seeing if it was done, I slipped out and begged mamma to make one for dinner, as he was staying on purpose to taste it."

"Well, that was a good idea, I'm sure."

"I thought so. When I got back he asked if it was done, and I said, yes; that it looked lovely—"

"But suppose he had seen—"

"Oh, I had taken care to deposit it in the garbage box myself, dear."

"And did your mamma make a cake?"

"Oh, yes; when it came to the table Mr. Penandink gave me a look across the board which said volumes; aloud, he remarked: 'I can scarcely believe that those little white hands of yours made this, Miss Dorothy.'"

"Good gracious," said the girl in the blazer suit, "are you aware that that man has an income of $6000 a year?"

"Yes, I am," replied the girl in the sailor hat, "but one glance at the slice of cake now on my plate, if not his next words, convinced me that mine was dough. He broke off a bit, then said, 'If this is the cake I watched you make, Miss Dorothy, will you kindly tell me what has become of the raisins?'"

"You don't mean to say—"

"I do; in my haste, I had neglected to tell mamma what kind of a cake to make. Oh, I tell you, Evelyn, my dear, I've decided that honesty is the best policy."

The Magic Word.

"Mag?"

No answer.

"Maggie?" he called softly.

Complete silence.

"Madge."

Not a sound.

"Margaret?"

Then he whistled softly before making his final effort.

"Marguerite?"

And a flute-like voice replied in the distance:

"Yes, darling."

Railroad Repartee.

"Here, fellow, when does the next train leave for the west?" inquired the pompous traveler of the local baggage pulverizer.

"Three minutes after it gets here from the east," and before old Pomposity could talk back he had to make a side jump of four feet and fell off the edge of the platform to dodge his own tourist's trunk.

Not Her Ideal.

Only Daughter—Mamma, I'm going to break off with Gerald.

Mamma—Why, my dear, he will make you an ideal husband. He is so scholarly, so cultured, so dignified.

"That's just the trouble. He gives me chills every time we're together. He never unbends. The Apollo Belvidere is an acrobat compared to him."

His One Salvation.

Made to Fit.

"I think that Miss Goldburn has an exquisite idea of what is appropriate in dress."

"How is that?"

"Everything she wears is rich and plain, just like herself."

Patient—I didn't.

The World's Newspapers.

A statistician has learned that the annual aggregate circulation of the papers of the world is calculated to be 12,000,000,000 copies. To grasp any idea of this magnitude we may state that it would cover no fewer than 10,450 square miles of surface; that it is printed on 781,250 tons of paper, and, further, that if the number (12,000,000,000) represented, instead of copies, seconds, it would take over 333 years for them to elapse. In lieu of this arrangement, we might press and pile them vertically upward to gradually reach our highest mountains. Topping all these, and even the highest Alps, the pile would reach the magnificent altitude of 490, or, in round numbers, 500 miles. Calculating that the average man spends five minutes reading his paper in the day (this is a very low estimate), we find that the people of the world altogether annually occupy time equivalent to 100,000 years reading the papers.

Imagine It!

Belleville without Gough's Big Clothing Store! What would it be? You'd be paying more for all kinds of Clothing and be without the great stock that gives you here vast choice and selection. We don't need to brag in the papers about the business we're doing—and we've no disposition to exaggerate values, but you who have taken advantage of our Great Composition Sale can testify that without this store such money saving would be impossible.

RETURN OF MISS MILLER.

The Talented Contralto Will Spend the Winter in Canada.

The following, from the Winnipeg Free Press of the 3rd inst., will be read with interest, as it concerns a young lady whose singing in some of the churches in this city made a highly favorable impression: Miss Edith J. Miller, whose musical career in London and Paris during the past nine months has been watched with interest by her Manitoba friends, passed through the city yesterday on the way to her home in Portage la Prairie. Miss Miller will spend the present month at home, and will be in the city in September to take part in a concert in Grace church, under the direction of Mr. James Tees. The talented contralto, to a Free Press representative, expressed in warm terms the pleasure it had given her to spend several months in the old country advancing her vocal studies. From the beginning of November to the end of April she had been under Signor Randegger in London; after that she left for Paris, and studied until July with Marchesi, the famous teacher, whose pupils include Melba and Calve. After remaining in Winnipeg and the province for a few weeks, Miss Miller will go to Toronto in November, where she sings in the Massey Music Hall. After that she will make a tour of the east. The trip is now being arranged by a concert manager. In the spring it is her intention to again return to London, and under the direction of Col. Mapleson will make a concert tour in England. Miss Miller has no desire to enter the operatic field, preferring concert and oratorio singing to any other. It was with regret that she left London, where she has enjoyed many happy months in earnest study, but she anticipates a pleasant winter among her friends in Manitoba and Ontario.

The S. S. Vancouver in Collision

A number of our citizens will be interested in the collision of the S. S. Vancouver with the S. S. Lake Ontario at Father Point on Sunday night, not only because some have sailed across "the briny" on them, but that Miss Johnson, of Chicago, who has been visiting her cousins here, Messrs. Wm. and J. W. Johnson, for the past month, sailed by the Vancouver from Montreal on Saturday morning. The Vancouver got back to Quebec this morning and Miss Johnson immediately wired, "Will be here until Sunday. All well." An account of the collision will be found in another column.

THE INTERNATIONAL REGATTA

THE PREPARATIONS ALL COMPLETE FOR THE BIG EVENT.

People Arriving From a Distance—This Afternoon's Race Officials—Sailing Craft of all Descriptions—Notes From the Training Quarters.

Everything was in readiness this morning for the International Regatta, which must certainly be one of the grandest aquatic events ever held in Canada. The professional and amateur oarsmen assembled here are among the best the world can produce and the liberal prizes assure fast racing from start to finish. The craft entered for the sailing events are the fastest of their class in fresh water and their races will afford some excellent sport. The specialties between the races will be interesting and will amply fill up the gaps in the long afternoons' amusements.

The attractions for Wednesday and Thursday evenings should draw very large crowds, as the committee have spared no expense to make the programme attractive and varied. Willie Bensley will give some daring feats on the invisible wire and barrel juggling. The Venetian carnival, something entirely new, will prove very attractive. Mr. George Fax will sing a number of the latest comic songs and the Oddfellows' band will give a programme of entirely new selections. The evening's entertainment will conclude with a grand display of fireworks, set off from a barge some distance from the grand stand.

Hardy, the champion wire walker of America, will perform before the grand stand. His feats are said to be entirely new, and he is described as one of the most daring aerialists in the world.

Prof. Rice, who has trained most of the noted oarsmen of the world, will give exhibitions of their styles of rowing and will also walk on the water. He is an expert swimmer and his performance alone will be worth the price of admission.

Last evening large numbers of citizens and visitors to the city visited the water front and looked over the grand stand. The harbor and bay was covered with all descriptions of craft, from the water-soaked punt to the trim half-rater and handsome yachts. The regatta has certainly caused a revival of aquatic amusement in the city, and it is to be hoped it will not die out after the week's events are concluded.

The yachts "Leonora," of Toronto, and the "Wildflower," of Portsmouth, arrived last evening with crews of cruisers on board. They will remain all the week. The first-class sailing skiff "Chance," from Toronto, arrived this morning on the str. Hamilton. She is in charge of her owner and builder, Mr. Spanner. Mr. Lawrence J. Levy, Hon. Secretary-Treasurer of the Royal Toronto Skiff Sailing Club, accompanied him. The half-rater "Iona" is also in the harbor.

The schrs. H. M. Ballou, John McBride and Ida Fisher were preparing this morning to take passengers out on the bay to witness the races, but were warned by the committee to desist, as they had no license to carry passengers.

Following are the race officials and official boats:

Sculling—Referee. W. H. Biggar, M.P.P.; Judges at Finish, H. Corby M.P., Sheriff Hope; Judges at turn, Cameron Brown, G. W. Ross, jr.; Timers, J. A. Borbridge, Chas. Sulman; Starter, W. H. Campbell.

Canoes and Skiffs—Judges, Thos. Ritchie, R. J. Bell; Timers, Geo. Thompson, W. W. Pope; Starter, R. S. Bell; Measurer, Geo. N. Leavens.

W. W. Power—Clerk of the Course.
Referee's boat, Kismet, E. Burrell.
Committee boat, Nellie Cuthbert.
Police boat, Curlew, A Cartwright.
Judge's boat, Iolanthe.
Judge at finish boat, Norah.

Notes.

Geo. Johnston has secured the privileges of dispensing refreshments on the grand stand. His Pride and LaTosca cigars can be bought on the stand.

All the oarsmen were out this morning putting on the finishing touches to their training. They are all in excellent health and each man has confidence in himself, which is half the battle.

Some one threw a lighted cigar in the sawdust near the grand stand last evening and started a blaze, but it was put out before any damage was done.

The swimming races will have plenty of entries, as dozens of young men and boys were making preparations for them this morning.

The boat liveries are doing a big business these days.

The strs. Merritt, Hero, Ella Ross, Deseronto and Nellie Cuthbert brought up a large number from bay ports and Kingston.

Chinese lanterns for decorating the boats for the Venetian Carnival may be obtained from Messrs. A. Cartwright, Geo. Reid or James Wallbridge, who will give all particulars concerning the decorations. The regatta office will be open from 7 to 8 this evening for the distribution of Chinese lanterns.

The races began at 3:30 this afternoon and are progressing as we go to press.

Several amateurs arrived on the mid-day trains from Toronto to-day.

The yacht "Norma" arrived to-day from Kingston with a party of young gentleman on board.

He is much pleased with the courtesy extended to him, and also much impressed with the rising and progressive city of Seattle, this having been his first visit to Puget Sound."

Light Coats and Vests.

You can get a very complete assortment of light clothing at the Oak Hall. The warm weather continues and heavy clothing is not desirable. We start light coats at 35c. and coats and vests to match at $1.50. Silk coats and vests $4 and $5. Very fine tweed and worsted goods $4 and $6. We think we have pretty nearly everything in light clothing.

Our Mineral Spring.

A great many are taking the shower baths in West Belleville. In this heated time—indeed at any time—they are most refreshing and exhilarating. Baths are only 10 cents and the water is free to all. Visitors should not fail to try our Quinte Mineral Springs. They will bear comparison with the most widely advertised. They are unique in their full natural flow.

Nervous debility is a common complaint, especially among women. The best medical treatment for this disorder is a persistent course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla to cleanse and invigorate the blood. This being accomplished, nature will do the rest.

SAW THE ECLIPSE.

The Observations of Old Sol in Darkness Were a Success in Norway and Japan.

London, Aug. 10.—Miss Mary Proctor of Ney York, daughter of the late Prof. Richard A. Proctor, the well-known astronomer, telegraphed to-day from Trondhjem, Norway, to the United Associated Presses that a fine view was had yesterday of the total eclipse of the sun from the deck of the American Liner Ohio, which was then off the Island of Stot, Norway. The sky was absolutely cloudless and the atmosphere clear, affording a perfect view of the eclipse in all its phases. The duration of the eclipse was one minute and 35 seconds. Miss Proctor, who is well known in astronomical circles, is a passenger on the steamer Ohio, which sailed from New York June 27, on a cruise to Russia, Norway, and the "Land of the Midnight Sun." The trip will occupy about two months.

New York, Aug. 10.—A special despatch was received in this city to-day from Mr. Arthur Curtiss James of the yacht Coronet, from Myanoshila, Japan, which reads as follows: "Eclipse observations only partly successful."

London, Aug. 10.—Despatches received here from Yokohama and Tokyo, Japan, say that the observations of the eclipse of the sun yesterday were very successful. The sky was clear and all of the conditions for observations were favorable. In the northern part of Japan the sky was obscured by clouds, and no observations were possible there.

Advices from Bodo, Norway, say that the observations of the eclipse at that place were perfect.

A TALK WITH SEWALL.

The Democratic Candidate for Vice-President Arrives in New York—The Chances in Maine.

New York, Aug. 10.—Arthur Sewall, the Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate, arrived here at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Sewall was immediately driven to the Fifth-avenue Hotel.

When a representative of the United Associated Presses interviewed him to-night, he said:

"I had an uneventful trip, and except for the heat I might add I fairly enjoyed the trip. I have no news of moment just now. Up our way we are making converts to the cause which we represent. You see the trouble down east is that the silver question is not thoroughly understood there. The people have not had the question presented to them as fully as those of the west have. They must be educated.

"I think we will carry Maine, because I think the people do not yet understand our movements. When Mr. Bryan makes two or three speeches up in New England the people will think better of the silver movement.

"I expect Mr. Bryan to reach New York to-morrow night. Mr. Jones will meet both of us in conference to-morrow evening. Until that conference is had I have no idea what will be done. The National Executive Committee will meet at noon to-morrow, when no doubt the selection of National headquarters will be decided upon. Mr. Bryan favors Chicago, I understand, and if some very good reason is not given against it I think the committee will defer to his wishes in that respect."

ANOTHER BIG STRIKE.

This is at the East End of the Josie Works—Lieut.-Governor Patterson at the Rossland Camp.

Rossland, B.C., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—A big strike has been made in the east end of the Josie works, recently commenced through the Poor Man's tunnel, of three feet of ore. Soon after the Josie ground was entered its ore body commenced to widen and is fully six feet wide at a depth of 100 feet. The ore is of a high grade.

A party, composed of William Whyte, superintendent of the C.P.R.; Lieut.-Governor Patterson of Manitoba, and J. A. M. Aikins of Winnipeg, arrived Saturday and are visiting the mines. They are greatly astonished at the wonderful extent and showing of the camp.

Blaze at Bradford.

Bradford, Ont., Aug. 10.—About 3 o'clock last night fire did about $500 damage to the interior of the Roman Catholic Church in this village. The vestry of the church with its contents, including the priests' vestments, was entirely consumed. The fire had made considerable headway before it was discovered, and had it occurred later in the night the church would undoubtedly have been consumed.

AN IMMENSE LIBRARY.

That of the British Museum Has Nearly Forty Miles of Shelves.

Sir E. Maunde Thompson gives some figures to show the extent of the library of printed books at the British Museum, and the rate of increase at which it has grown. More than half a century after the foundation of the museum the library had not increased even threefold. In the year 1821 there were less than 116,000 volumes. But twenty years had not elapsed when these had more than doubled in number. In 1838 there were computed to be 235,000 volumes in the department. Twenty years later these again had more than doubled. In 1858 there were 550,000 volumes. Having once obtained an impetus, the mass rapidly increased and this moment the number of volumes is calculated to amount to the enormous total of 1,750,000, not counting single sheets or parts of works that are accumulating.

The space which this mass of printed material occupies has to be reckoned in miles. The shelves of the reading room and iron galleries constructed around it, which are known as the new library, all told, extend to more than eight and twenty miles; those in the rest of the department to eleven miles. It may be noticed that this total of thirty-nine miles is nearly the same as that of the shelving of the French National Library, according to recent calculations. The prospect of increase of this mileage may be viewed with comparative equanimity in connection with the storage of the ordinary octavos of literature, but when once contemplated the rapid growth of newspapers the limits of the available space within the present buildings are almost within sight.

The Former Slave Market.

On benches so placed as to command a good view where the buyers, coarse-looking Turks, whose calm, searching gaze seemd to take in every detail. The merchant conducting the sale stood before them, talking and gesticulating with great vehemence. He turned to one of the pens, which was filled with young Circassian women, most of whom were very handsome. They were seated close together on the ground in an attitude of listless despondency their white garments showing around them, and as they gazed up at me with their sad, dark eyes, I felt painfully how they must envy the free and happy stranger who came to look on them in their infancy and misery.

The slave-trader, came forward, followed by a phlegmatic-looking Turk, and seizing one of the women by the arm, forced her to stand up before this man, who, it appeared, wished to buy her. He proceeded to inspect her, very much in the same manner as he might have examined a horse or a dog, and his decision was unfavorable; he turned away with a contemptuous movement of the head, and the slave-merchant, in a rage, thrust back the unfortunate girl, who sank down trembling, among her companions in captivity. This scene was as much as we could stand, and we left the place hurriedly at once; it is well indeed that such rites can be witnessed no more; at least in Europe.—Blackwood's."

ELECTRICAL INSPECTION.

SEVERE TESTS APPLIED TO THE APPARATUS IN USE.

Visit of Mr. Johnson, Inspector for Eastern Ontario—He Finds the Machinery in use at the Works Exceedingly Accurate—The Watt System.

(Kingston News.)

Mr. William Johnson, Inspector of Electric Lights in the districts extending from the county of Ontario to the Province of Quebec, is in the city testing the meters at the Electric Light, Heat & Power Company's works. The Inspector arrived in the city on Thursday night, and has been busy ever since in testing the accuracy of the machinery at the works. Last year an act was put in force by the Dominion Parliament, which provided that inspectors should be appointed to examine the meters at electric light stations, so that the consumer could rest assured that he was getting all the light he was paying for.

On Thursday evening he inspected the voltage supplied from the dynamos attached to the incandescent system, and the finger of the dial pointed directly to 110 volts, which is the correct amount of power the dynamos are supposed to give, and there it stayed "as steady as a rock." Mr. Johnson expressed himself as greatly pleased with the test as far as he had gone, and complimented the management on the accuracy of the machinery. The manner of testing the voltage is by attaching a wire to a volt meter, which is the standard for making tests of this kind. There is a dial on the top of the machine, the hand on which indicates the power passing over the wire. The law allows a variation of 3 per cent. If the percentage is higher or lower than three per cent. the company is liable to a fine of $50. If the company guarantee to give 110 volts, and the register shows that there are only 100 volts passing over the wire, the light becomes poor and weak. If the indicator shows that the power is above 110 volts, the lights are liable to be burnt out. So, to prevent the company from supplying poor light, and to protect the consumers' lamps from being burnt out, the power is subjected to a searching test. Mr. Johnson said to The News reporter that on Thursday evening when the whole incandescent system was in operation, the needle stuck straight to the required figure, 110, and did not vary a hairbreadth from the mark. The needle varied a point or two in yesterday afternoon's test, because there were but few lights in operation.

Mr. Johnson then called the attention of The News man to the cut-off on the switch-board, and explained that a large number of consumers think that the current is passing through the meter all the time, and that they are paying for more electricity than they are using. He illustrated the point by turning on the switch. The disc on the meter remained motionless. He then turned on one light, and the disc revolved very slowly. As more lights were added the flat copper disc in the meter revolved more rapidly, but immediately when the lamps were turned out, or the switch was cut off, the dial stopped short.

In the case of a direct reading meter, as soon as the apparatus is found to be correct, the Government seal is placed on it and it is supposed to last five years. The bills for light at the power house are made out on the Watt system, which is determined by multiplying amperes by volts, and the result is Watts.

During the remainder of his stay in the city Mr. Johnson will test meters at various points. At some of the stations he has visited in his district, he has found the power supplied as much as six points above the 110, and in some other places the indications lacked six of the required number. In each of these cases a fine of $50 was imposed.

Mr. Johnson also gave a demonstration to show the number of candle-power of an incandescent lamp.

The Inspector is greatly pleased with the Kingston plant. He says that in the matter of switchboards the Trenton Power Company have probably the best in Canada.

That the Government was not too soon in enacting some regulations about electric light meters is borne out by statements made to us by the Inspector. He told us of one place where the meters were all from five to twenty-nine per cent. too fast, of another where those in use in two churches were respectively sixteen and nineteen per cent. too fast, while one in a hotel was seventeen per cent. slow. He spoke of another town where the only two meters that were much out of the way were those of the President and Vice-President of the Company and these were fifteen per cent. fast.

$85.00 for $70.00 with 5% additional for cash, is what the Ashley Carriage Works startles the public with on buggies. They claim that their buggies and other vehicles are superior to any others offered in the city, having A. wheels, hand forged iron work; excellent painting and trimming. This seems to be a rare chance for quick purchasers, as the stock is limited. Other rigs at proportionate prices.

The Weather

The oldest inhabitants have been racking their brains for recollection of a parallel to the current heated term in length and in severity, but in vain; no such weather has prevailed in the memory of man. There have been thunder-storms to the north, south, east and west of the city, but none have reached Belleville for several days. Last night was a scorcher up to midnight. The minimum was 74; at 8 a.m. 80; and at noon 92.

PROBABILITIES.

Moderate to fresh southerly to westerly winds; generally fair and very warm, with showers or thunderstorms, chiefly at night, becoming cooler to morrow.

The Wheat Question.

It is now estimated that the total spring and winter wheat crop of the United States will be over 365,000,000 bushels, which shows quite a decrease upon last year's actual yield. It appears that the spring wheat crops will fall considerably short of last year, both in Canada and the United States; and latest advices from the winter wheat regions state the threshings have proved very unsatisfactory of late. The State report of the Missouri wheat crop now places it at 12,700,000 bushels against 18,600,000 bushels last year. The price of wheat in Chicago has fluctuated between 57⅞c to 58⅞c September, and 60c and 61c for December; and despite all the many discouraging crop reports, it seems a difficult matter to make decided headway. Any decided advance one day appears to be lost the next; but if the reports of the large decreased output of the United States are confirmed, we shall probably see a firmer market and higher prices. The fact of the matter is, however, that people take no heed of these adverse crop reports, and therefore they have not the immediate effect on prices as used to be the case in former times. More attention now seems to be paid to the fact that we are into a new cereal year, with a visible supply of wheat in the United States and Canada in excess of that of a year ago by 8,217,000 bushels, while it showed a decrease of 16,000,000 bush. at this time last year.—Trade Bulletin.

—The storms that visited western Ontario on Saturday, Sunday and Monday did great damage. The lightning was particularly severe, causing many fires. The wind unroofed some buildings and the hail in places destroyed crops.

Revival of Trade.

Reports from the United States support the view that trade interests have vastly improved recently and that the business outlook for the future is encouraging. This will be welcome news to the people of Canada, since our own trade interest will be stimulated and improved. In nothing has this improvement been shown in a more marked way than in the increased sales of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Times being dull everything not absolutely needed became a luxury, and its sale became stationary. Now it is different. Sales have increased vastly, doubtless as it has proven the only safe, sure, and painless remedy for corns, and wise people will use no other.

Relief for Lung Troubles

The D&L EMULSION

In CONSUMPTION and all LUNG DISEASES, SPITTING OF BLOOD, COUGH, LOSS OF APPETITE, DEBILITY, the benefits of this article are most manifest.

By the aid of The "D. & L." Emulsion, I have got rid of a hacking cough which had troubled me for over a year, and have gained considerably in weight. I liked this Emulsion so well I was glad when the time came around to take it.

KING OR KNAVE?

It is true that better circumstances may send a man's spirits up, just as a good meal decently served may keep a man at home whom a diet of pickled gherkins quite naturally drives abroad. Altogether, a sensible woman might have found plenty of reasons for a sudden change of habits without looking for them in another woman's eyes; and a yet more sensible woman would have invented even more reasons than she found. And a consciously plain woman like Julia is bound to be supremely sensible, or supremely a fool. The poor plain woman sat over her poor plain sewing in the evening (the one occupation she could retain in her own hands), and watched his brilliancy and her beauty till the needle seemed to mistake her flesh for the calico. Not that for a moment she found any blame for Wyndham. What could he, poor fellow, do, with his susceptibility and his own power to charm, when a pretty girl was making eyes at him, and looking melancholy and demure, and humoring his musical hobby, and altogether behaving as only those quiet girls know how?

If only Marion had known through what sort of spectacles her hostess was watching her, she would indeed have stared.

However, she had other things to think of than what might be going on in the grim abode of Mrs. Snell's brain to say nothing of the Doctor's; and if only Mrs. Snell could have seen how little room the Doctor occupied in the mind of his guest, it is she who would have stared. Even as things were, she knew they [illegible] pretty widely [illegible] the water gained [illegible] [illegible] Marion, after the usual late breakfast, asked Mrs. Snell for permission to help her in her sewing.

"I must do something," she pleaded; "and I used to do all the sewing, when—"

She stopped short—the time had not yet come when she could speak of her mother to a woman who kept her at arms' length.

"Thank you, Miss Furness," said Mrs. Snell, snapping her scissors and her words at the same time; "but I've always done Dr. Snell's sewing myself; and it's too lyte to chynge—thanking you all the syme."

"Is there nothing I can do—till my father comes?"

"Till what, Miss Furness?"

"Till my father comes."

"Oh—you're going away, then?"

"I don't know," sighed Marion. "I don't know anything yet—I suppose I shall. . . . I only know one thing. I can't go on doing nothing all my days."

"It hasn't seemed to me like as if you'd found things so dull here, Miss Furness."

"Dull? Indeed, no! But if it had been—I'm sure you've both of you been very kind, and I'm sure I don't know why. Is it for my father's sake. Have you known him long?"

Some such question she had been burning to put ever since she began to realize that her father was long in coming—indeed, had she been less anxious she would have put it long ago, in spite of Mrs. Snell's repellant ways.

"Yes," said Mrs. Snell. "He won't have spoke much of us, though I dursay—no more than of Bot'ny B'y."

Marion flushed crimson. This was not what she had meant to hear. Not that she suspected Mrs. Snell of finding any comfort in alluding to matters that are generally ignored among friends.

"I know—but—he was innocent," said she hotly, but yet somewhat feebly.

"Yes, Miss Furness. Of course. People that go to Bot'ny B'y always are. Anyhow they're no worse than them that don't go; so it's all the syme," said Mrs. Snell bitingly, and making her calico scream. "But all the syme, Miss Furness—and though you mayn't think it, I can't help speaking out my mind if I were to die for it—I'd sooner he'd styed there, and not come troubling respectable people over here."

Marion had never noticed anything in any woman so witchlike as Mrs. Snell's manner this morning. Hitherto she had seen in her hostess only an ungainly, self-effaced, silent person, capable of being shrewish now and then, hard and unattractive, but otherwise over-shadowed by her husband's airy brilliancy. This morning, however, her grimness was positive and emphatic; there was an almost cruel glow in her naturally dull eyes, and she bit off the ends of her cotton as if she were snapping live flesh by deputy. And there is a way of sewing in which the operator ceases to be the diligent and homely housewife, and resembles nothing but a handmaid of Lachesis—a stitcher of shrouds.

It was as if she had suddenly caught a glimpse of some profound tragedy enacting itself in a back kitchen—a drama of passion grotesquely emphasized by vulgarity. She seemed for a moment to see into a soul that she could not comprehend; and the baffling glimpse was not a pleasant one. Marion had no special gift of insight; but most of us can see by flashes now and then—and what she saw was that this ill-fashioned automaton was even as herself—a woman with a soul. It was like picking up what seemed like a dead stick, and suddenly feeling it twist and wriggle in one's hand.

Perhaps Mrs. Snell perceived some symptom of a start, or some shadow of a shudder, letting her know that she might enjoy five delightful minutes' vengeance on a girl whose eyes Wyndham, inspired by champagne, had only yesterday compared to stars in a haze. Stars in a haze, indeed—gas-lamps in a fog, more likely, Mrs. Snell had thought with scorn.

"Of course you're not answerable for your father," said see, "so don't take offence when there can't be blame. All I know is there's some innocent people better in jyle than some guilty ones out; and Adam Furness is one . . . of the innocent ones, of course; oh, of course, one of the innocent ones! As I said before, those sort always are."

"I wish, Mrs. Snell," said Marion, very quietly indeed, "you would tell me all you know of—of my father. It's always best to know the worst that can be said of anybody at once; and then you see, there can never be anything worse left to hear. And—for that—for the very worst, I mean, I don't think I can do better than come to you."

She looked her hostess very steadily in the eyes as she spoke, and was met by a sharp, quick glance that seemed to say, "Oh, oh, my young lady! you've got a spice of spirit, have you, behind those lackadaisical ways? Then so much the worse for you."

"I'm sorry you've that opinion of me, Miss Furness," said she. "As if I was always on the look out for evil when I'm the last ever to do such a thing. Only I take people as I find 'em—that's all. When I see a young woman making a fool of a man—not that a man needs much making—I can't pretend I don't. And when I see an escaped convict coming back from the bushes to make mischief of all sorts in a happy English home, I can't undertake to approve."

"Well," said Marion, "I suppose my father will soon come; and then I shall soon go. Never mind telling me any more."

"There's no call to snap one so short up," said Mrs. Snell, who had no intention of losing such a chance of giving a few bad minutes to a girl with stars in a haze. "I'm sure I'll tell you everything, and

THIS HEAT IS AWFUL.

Heavy Death Rate in American Cities.

Hundreds of People Have Been Prostrated in Other Cities—They Are Sweltering and Suffering at Chicago—Dead Animals Everywhere—Deaths at Providence, Hartford, Baltimore and Jersey City—Factories at Troy Closed.

New York, Aug. 10.—The hot weather of last week continues with no immediate indications of relief. The rate of mortality has increased alarmingly, and unless cooler weather develops soon a still greater death rate is probable. The total deaths directly attributable to the heat from Tuesday of last week until yesterday are 75.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 10.—There is no abatement in the frightful heat from which this city has suffered during the past ten days. Yesterday, according to the Government reports, St. Louis was the hottest city in the United States, the official temperature being registered at 99 degrees. Reliable surface thermometers registered 104. There were 49 cases of heat prostration reported to the health authorities in the past 24 hours. Of these nine were fatal. Deaths from the effects of the heat since Monday are placed at over 75.

Sweltering at Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—This has been another terrible day at Chicago. In poverty-stricken districts the agony was awful to contemplate. All night the miserable wretches sweltered and panted in vain for a breath of refreshing air. They slept, or tried to sleep, by thousands on the sidewalks or the paving stones. The city ambulance and patrol wagons from the police stations were kept on the run all night long, bearing the victims of the heat to hospitals. This morning men walked through the streets without coat or vest and panted and sweat and suffered for want of fresh, cooling air. Prostrations from heat began to be reported as early as 8 o'clock. Animals overcome by the heat lay dead in almost every ward in town. The first death from heat reported to the police was that of Fred Retter, a laborer, at 959 Seminary-avenue, He died at 8.55 o'clock.

Sixty-Three at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Aug. 10.—The maximum reached by the Weather Bureau today was 92.9 degrees, 4 degrees lower than yesterday. There was also a falling off in the fatalities and prostrations from yesterday, when 23 deaths occurred and 50 people were overcome by the heat. The deaths reported to-day were 14, and the prostrations 30. In the past six days 63 people have died here from the heat, and nearly 200 have been admitted to the hospitals suffering from exhaustion.

Other Deaths From Heat.

Providence, Aug. 10.—Four deaths from the heat have been reported here.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 10.—Two persons died from the effects of the heat here to-day.

Baltimore, Aug. 10.—Since the present hot spell began in this city there have been 24 deaths directly attributed thereto and 67 prostrations.

Jersey City, N.J., Aug. 10.—There were numerous prostrations this morning, and four more died from the heat.

Factories Closing at Troy.

Troy, Aug. 10.—There are five cases of prostration in the hospital. Work in factories is being suspended on account of the heat. Temperature at 11 a.m., 88 in the shade.

A STORM AT SAGINAW.

Many Buildings Were Unroofed and Electric Light Towers Blown Down—Loss $100,000.

Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 10.—A terribly destructive wind and electrical storm swept over this city about 2 o'clock this morning. The spire of the Jefferson Church, 100 feet high, was struck by lightning and levelled to the ground and a portion of the edifice was unroofed. The works of the Bartlett Machine and Illuminating Company were unroofed and the powerhouse of the Union Street Railway Company suffered in like manner. Erd's Piano Factory, Wickes Bros.' Boiler Shop, Melz, Smart & Co.'s warehouse, Palmerton's Woodenware Works, the Saginaw Basket Factory and Bliss & Van Aughen's Mill were unroofed or otherwise damaged. Hundreds of chimneys were blown down and thousands of trees uprooted and lumber piles scattered. The Vincent Hotel was struck by lightning and slightly damaged, and John Peterson's residence was struck and destroyed. Nine electric light towers were blown down. No casualties have been reported. The damage will reach $100,000.

YELLOW JACK IN CUBA.

Over Two Thousand Persons Sick in the Hospitals of the Island.

Havana, Aug. 10.—A Government force under command of Gen. Godoy, while conveying a supply train from Minas to Guayamaro, was attacked three times by 2000 rebels under Aveline Rosas. Each time, according to Gen. Godoy, the insurgents were repulsed with a total loss in the three fights of 19 killed. The Spaniards lost four killed, and two captains, a lieutenant and 23 privates wounded.

Capt.-Gen. Weyler has announced his intention of decorating all the members of the column who took part in the "brilliant action" at Guatao in February last. The "brilliant action" at Guatao, for participation in which decorations are to be conferred on the Spanish officers and men, occurred on Feb. 22. The town is only seven miles from Havana. A detachment of Spanish troops who were pursuing a small band of rebels from Punta Brava entered Guatao after the rebels had passed through it on their retreat, and murdered 22 non-combatants, among whom were some Spaniards, sick men, and a number of boys. The "brilliant action was, according to accounts from several different sources, simply a massacre of defenceless persons who had nothing to do with the rebellion.

Over 10,000 sick soldiers are in the various military hospitals. Of this number 2200 are suffering with yellow fever.

A Barn Burned.

Zurich, Ont., Aug. 10.—During a thunderstorm last night a large barn with its contents, also a driving shed belonging to Peter Bender of the Brownson line, was struck by lightning, totally burning everything.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—Receipts at the East Abattoir this morning were average, but the heat seemed to have affected business somewhat. A fair export trade in sheep and lambs was done, however, and prices were moderately satisfactory. The receipts were: Cattle 450, at 2½c to 3½c live weight; sheep and lambs, 800, at 3½c for sheep and $2.50 to $3.50 each for lambs; calves, 380, at $1.50 to $6.

BAD BLOOD.

Bad blood courses through the veins and arteries just the same as good blood does, but good blood carries with it health, while bad blood distributes diseases throughout the whole body.

Good blood means vigor. Bad blood sows the seed of scrofula, ulcers, abscesses, boils, blotches, skin diseases, and almost all the ills that flesh is heir to. To get health we must cure the bad blood, and is Burdock Blood Bitters, which removes all impurities from the blood by its action on the stomach, liver and bowels, thus carrying off all morbid and effete matter, and purifying, cleansing and healing every organ of the body.

Rich Red Blood

is thus created, which is a guarantee of health and happiness.

A FUNNEL-SHAPED CLOUD

Passed Over the Town of Amhersburg and Picked the Roof Off a Hotel.

Amherstburg, Aug. 10.—About 2.30 to-day the heavens in the west became suddenly dark, and a few minutes later a funnel-shaped cloud came down the river with great velocity. It turned to the east and passed over the town, and carried the roof of the Lakeview House across the street as an ordinary wind would pick up a piece of paper off the street. Fortunately it did not descend. It was accompanied by heavy rain. There were a number of pleasure boats capsized in the river, but no lives were lost. One large yacht, sailed by Leo Keena of Detroit and two companions, was capsized in the river and was carried five miles out into the lake. They were picked up by the tug LP.Smith in an exhausted condition in the bottom of the boat.

THE IRISH LAND BILL

Passes Its Third Reading in the House of Lords—Lord Salisbury's Silence a Matter of Comment.

London, Aug. 10.—There was an atmosphere of compromise in the House of Lords to-day when the Irish Land Bill came up on its third reading. The Marquis of Lansdowne, Secretary of State for War, submitted three amendments, which were somewhat in favor of the landlords, and these were accepted by the House. About a dozen amendments were offered by landlords, but after brief debates they were withdrawn. Speaking on the motion that the bill be passed on its third reading, Earl Spencer (Liberal) contended that,if the measure was passed as it had been altered, it would be a serious damage to Ireland, and would also damage the strength and independence of the House of Lords.

The bill then passed its third reading.

Lord Salisbury's silence regarding the measure continues to be much commented upon.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height,

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidney Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

A Sufferer Cured

"Every season, from the time I was two years old, I suffered dreadfully from erysipelas, which kept growing worse until my hands were almost useless. The bones softened so that they would bend, and several of my fingers are now crooked from this cause. On my hand I carry large scars, which, but for

AYER'S

Sarsaparilla, would be sores, provided I was alive and able to carry anything. Eight bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured me, so that I have had no return of the disease for more than twenty years. The first bottle seemed to reach the spot and a persistent use of it has perfected the cure."—O. C. DAVIS, Wautoma, Wis.

NEWS FROM OTTAWA.

British Columbia Indians Think They Saw Andree's Air Ship.

The Chances are, However, That They Were Mistaken, as the North Pole Balloonist May Have Been Delayed Owing to Holes in the Gas Bag–Li Hung Chang's Trip Through Canada–Premier and Ex-Premier Under the Same Roof.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—(Special.)—An interesting announcement was conveyed in a telegram received by the Government to-day from Mr. Vowell, Indian Superintendent for B.C. The message reads as follows: "Credible information has been received by Agent Lomas from two Indian parties separated by long distance, at the time of observation, that the Andree balloon had been sighted, lat. 55.15. longitude 127.40, pursuing a nearly northerly course."

Agent Lomas is stationed at Quamichan, in the northerly part of Vancouver Island, but his jurisdiction extends to a portion of the mainland. The Andree balloon expedition to the North Pole has been greatly discussed in the public press. In May last, at the request of the King of Sweden and Norway, a notice was published on this continent, asking that the balloon, if sighted, be immediately reported to the Swedish Government. Andree and his adventurous companions were waiting at Amsterdam Island, Spitzbergen, at the extreme north of Norway, last week for a favorable wind, but no information has reached here that the balloon had actually started. If they had left and the balloon reported is theirs, instead of being nearer the North Pole, they are 15 degrees further south of it in B.C. than when they left Amsterdam Island. Further tidings will be eagerly awaited.

The point at which the balloon is said to have been seen is about 100 miles up the Skeena River and nearly 500 miles north of Victoria, B.C. On the other hand news has been received from Spitzbergen to the effect that Prof. Andree has discovered four holes in his big airship and had not started. —Ed. World.

Li Hung Chang, the great Chinese statesman, has not been asked to visit Canada as the guest of the Dominion Government, but to utilize the Canadian route on his way home, for which purpose our Government will furnish him with the necessary transportation.

The Minister of Militia has decided to hold camps of exercise in the different military districts, as far as is practicable, next month. This is in accordance with the views of the militia, as forwarded to the Department by the Deputy Adjutants General. In Ontario camps will be held in districts 1, 2, 3; in Quebec in 5, 6 and 7, and in the Maritime Provinces in 8, 9 and 12. The camp in district No. 4, the Ottawa district, will be held next spring.

Mr. Otto J. Klotz, of the Surveyor-General's staff, has a party of topographers at work on the coast line of Lake Erie, from the Grand River to Point Pelee. It is many years ago since the Canadian shore of Lake Erie was surveyed, and, in view of the determination to strenuously protect Canadian fisheries, it has been thought prudent to run the boundary line again through Lake Erie, and for this purpose an accurate topographical map of the shore line is necessary. In this way there can be no question of territorial jurisdiction.

Application was made to the Fisheries Department to-day through the Collector of Customs at Charlottetown, by the captain of an American fishing vessel, having a modus vivendi license, for permission to land a cargo of herring and dispose of it at Charlottetown, on payment of duty. The request was refused, as there is nothing in the convention of 1818 or terms of license entitling vessels to such a privilege.

The Premier and ex-Premier of Canada slept under the same roof last night. Sir Charles Tupper had been down to Quebec meeting Lady Tupper, who is returning from the Old Country, and arrived at the Russell last night. With him are Lady Tupper and Miss Tupper, also Mr. Stewart Tupper of Winnipeg and Master Chas. T. Tupper of Winnipeg. The two latter left for Winnipeg this afternoon. Sir Charles and Lady Tupper will be domiciled at the Russell for a few days until their new dwelling is ready.

An excellent bon mot of Sir Charles is going the rounds here just now. The other day he was accosted on the street by a leading citizen of Ottawa, a Liberal by the way, who congratulated the ex-Premier on his apparent good health. "Yes," remarked Sir Charles, "I must say I have had a good outing."

A suggestion has been made to the Minister of Militia to furnish free ammunition for the D.R.A matches. As this will be the last year for Martini-Henry ammunition, this would be one way in which to dispose of any surplus on hand. It would, however, materially change the complexion of the D.R.A. meeting, as doubtless the number of competitors would be greatly augmented, necessitating a longer time in which to fire matches.

The analytical staff of the Inland Revenue Department have been engaged for some time on samples of maple sugar this spring in different parts of the country. The result will form the basis of an interesting bulletin to be issued shortly. Much adulteration has been found, glucose syrup being mixed with the maple very largely. Then birch and hickory extracts are employed to flavor the product and give it a taste like the proper article.

An analysis is also being made of infants' foods for sale in the Dominion, and the results will be made known shortly. The waters of the Banff Springs have been tested, and many new points have been discovered about them that were not known before.

Pepper is one of the food products that is found to be greatly adulterated, and a sample that has come into the possession of the department this week will probably lead to prosecution of the manufacturers.

Sir James Grant, ex-M.P., has accepted a pressing invitation to attend the annual meeting of the British Association in Liverpool next month. He will be the guest of Earl Derby, Lord Mayor of Liverpool.

It is understood that employes of the Civil Service will receive their month's pay on Saturday, as another warrant went down to Cascapedia yesterday for His Excellency's signature.

Hon. T. M. Daly, ex-Minister of the Interior, is busy upon the preparation of his report on immigration, and has submitted an interim report to the department. The report is likely to be a very lengthy one.

Mr. MacFarlane, Chief Dominion Analyst, is expected home from Europe about the 23rd instant. He has been engaged in looking into, among other things, the question of the disposal of sewage in large cities.

Col. Aylmer, Adjutant-General, is in communication with the officer commanding at Halifax, N.S., in regard to sending representatives of the regular army to the D.R.A. meeting at Ottawa.

Sir Henry Joly is applying the pruning knife to the staff of his department, two of the local excise officers having received their walking tickets from end of month.

Judge Jamieson of Wellington county was in the city to-day. He is holidaying in this district.

Mr. Brodeur, M.P., Government nominee for the Deputy Speakership, was in the city to-day. He is here to meet Mr. Edgar, Speaker-designate, who is expected here this week.

Hon. John Costigan will attend the Irish National convention, to be held in Dublin early next month.

The thermometer in Ottawa registered 96 in the shade on Sparks-street to-day.

Martin O'Hara of Fitzroy, who shot his son James last week, died this afternoon.

Hon. Mr. Vail, ex-Minister of Militia, is in town.

CLIFFORD SIFTON HERE.

The Politician From Manitoba Dwells in Golden Silence When Political Matters are Touched Upon.

Toronto, Aug. 12.

Hon. Clifford Sifton of Winnipeg, Attorney-General of Manitoba, registered at the Queen's last evening. He informed a reporter that he had come east by boat down the lakes to Buffalo, and that he would remain in Ontario for some days.

Mr. Sifton is lately, like some other politicians, cultivating the sphinx attitude. As long as the talk was on general topics he was fairly communicative, but as soon as politics were touched he became as silent as the great Egyptian mystery or Alex Smith.

Asked who he thought would be made Minister of the Interior, the politician of the Prairies observed: "I have nothing to say."

Queried as to whether he had a cinch on the sit himself, he wouldn't talk at all.

The scribe bombarded the hon. gentleman with a running fire of questions concerning the prospects of Mr. Laurier's settling the school problem, but none of the shots penetrated.

Finally, one item of information was elicited from the Western statesman, and that was to the effect that he was going down to Ottawa to see the Premier in a day or two.

Mr. Sifton is, for a constitutionally thin man, growing rather stout. His face is much rounder and healthier-looking than when he spoke at Massey Hall some months ago.

MAY CLAIM INDEMNITY.

The Italian Government Making Official Enquiries Into the Circumstances Surrounding the Louisiana Lynchings.

Washington, Aug. 11.—Baron Fava, the Italian Ambassador, who is summering at Bar Harbor, has telegraphed the State Department in accordance with cabled instructions from his Government, asking for official information regarding the lynching of three alleged Italian subjects in Louisiana as reported in the newspapers yesterday. The State Department has promptly called on the Governor of Louisiana for a full report of the occurrence in order that a suitable reply can be made to the Ambassador. If it can be found that the Italians were naturalized American citizens the enquiry will stop as the Italian Government can no longer take any interest in the affair, but if, as in the cases of a similar lynching of Italians in Louisiana and Colorado, the men are shown to be aliens to the United States, an indemnity will undoubtedly be demanded and Congress asked to appropriate for that purpose as it did in former instances. Secretary Olney's policy is to readily grant to foreign powers exactly the same treatment as he insists upon when American citizens meet with indignities abroad.

DID 20 MEET DEATH?

A Disastrous Fire in New York–Explosions Cut Off All Possible Means of Escape.

New York, Aug. 11.—It is believed that about 20 persons were burned to death in a fire which broke out shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon in the six-storey brick building at 465 and 467 Greenwich-street, occupied by the A. K. Warren Electrical Works. What caused the fire is not known, but a few minutes after the outbreak several explosions occurred, which cut off the escape of many of those in the building. A man's body could be seen on the fire escape of the fourth floor. About 50 men were working in the building, and it is not believed that more than 30 escaped. Two men who got out of the building were so badly burned that they had to be taken to the Hudson-street Hospital.

CROPS IN THE STATES.

The Cotton Crop Has Suffered Greatly From Hot Winds.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The weather bulletin for the week ended yesterday says: Intense heat and general lack of rain, conditions which characterized the preceding week in the Southern States, have continued during the week ending Aug. 10, and have affected the principal crops in that section very unfavorably. While the week has been excessively warm throughout most of the country east of the Rocky Mountains, the injurious effects of the heat upon crops have been largely confined to the Southern States, and cotton is the crop that has suffered to the greatest extent. Late corn has been injured to some extent by hot winds in portions of Kansas and Southwest Nebraska, and in the southern portions of Missouri and Illinois it is suffering from drought. Generally throughout the Southern States corn has not made favorable progress during the week, but in the great corn states of the central valleys and northwest, the crops are maturing rapidly under most favorable conditions, and much of the early planted corn as far north as Iowa will be made by Sept. 1, much earlier than usual. The general condition of tobacco is promising. The crop is much in advance of the season and cutting is now in progress in Ohio, Pennsylvania and New England.

Opposition to Mr. Blair.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 11.—At a Conservative convention at Gagetown to-day, R. D. Wilmot was chosen to oppose Hon. Mr. Blair, Minister of Railways, in Queen's-Sudbury. George F. Baird, the late Conservative member, opposed opposition to Blair at the present time, but Hon. Mr. Foster insisted on a contest and carried the day. Mr. Baird then left the convention.

Gold for Canada.

New York, Aug. 11.—The sum of $100,000 gold was withdrawn from the sub-Treasury to-day for shipment to Canada.

THE TURKISH DEVILS

Are Now Wreaking Their Vengeance on the Unfortunate Cretans–9000 Refugees Flee From Their Fury.

London, Aug. 11.—The Daily News will to-morrow publish a despatch from Athens saying that there are now about 9000 Cretan refugees at the Piraeus, the port of Athens whither they fled to escape the fury of the Turks. These people are fed by the Government, which also finds quarters for them. Arrangements are being made to distribute them among the provincial towns. The despatch adds that six more villages in the vicinity of Canea, the principal town of Crete, are reported to have been sacked and burned by the Turks.

To Protect the Unfortunates.

London, Aug. 11.—The Chronicle will to-morrow say there is reason to believe that Great Britain and Russia have arrived or are arriving at an understanding to save the Armenians and Cretans from further outrages by the Turks. France, it is said, concurs in the arrangement, which provides that a British fleet shall protect Crete, and that Russia will send military residents to the principal towns of Armenia, keeping an army within their call.

LOVE DREAM BROKEN.

Lightning Struck Dr. Pressey at His Betrothed's Side.

The Storm's Fury Had Frightened Her and He Had Sought to Reassure Her When the Awful Flash Came–In an Instant He Lay Lifeless at Her Feet–The Strange Effects of the Electric Fluid in the Room–A Love Dream Broken.

Bangor, Me., Aug. 11.—Dr. Wilmer L. Pressey, a Harvard medical student, was killed by lightning at his mother's summer cottage at Islesboro yesterday afternoon, while his right arm rested on the shoulder of his fiance. His body was peculiarly marked by the lightning bolt, and a bright red scar was left over his heart.

Mr. Pressey, who was 22, left the public schools of Bangor to study medicine in Baltimore, later going to Cambridge to continue his course. Meantime he had become betrothed to Miss Brown, whom he met at Islesboro, down the bay. This summer the young woman's family decided to come to the hotel at Ryder's Cove, attracted there as much by the beauty of the place as by the fondness for it which their daughter had conceived. Dr. Pressey left a hard winter of work and study in Cambridge to come to Islesboro, and he brought with him his yacht Mallard, for a cruise about the bay with Mr. Brown and his daughter. The Browns stayed at the hotel and the Presseys were in a cottage on the shore front, north of the hotel and the steamer pier.

Yesterday afternoon all the residents along Penobscot Bay were treated to an unusually severe electrical storm. Miss Brown was in the Pressey cottage passing the afternoon, and the rest of the family were at the hotel. In the Pressey cottage there were four other persons, Dr. Pressey, his mother, his brother Frank, and a servant, Margie Bissell. They were indoors, but had no reason to fear the shower, and went about preparing a light lunch. Dr. Pressey was making a lemonade with the wooden squeezer. Mrs. Pressey, her son Frank, and Margie Bissell were in the dining room in the front part of the house. Dr. Pressey and Miss Brown were in the living room, adjoining and opening out of the front of the house by a wide door.

As the shower appeared to grow in intensity, Miss Brown became timid. She stood by the table and Dr. Pressey stood beside with the lemon squeezer in the right hand. As she expressed some terror at such a brilliant display of lightning he threw his right arm about her shoulders to reassure her.

While Dr. Pressey and his betrothed were thus conversing, the air was suddenly filled with a dreadful flame, the house and all about it were shaken by the deafening crash, every inch of air seemed to be crammed with blaze and noise. When the first shock had cleared away Dr. Pressey lay on the floor, while over him kneeled the distracted girl to whom he had just been offering assurances of safety, trying with bare hands to beat out the flames that burned his clothing.

Dr. Pressey had died instantly on the striking of the bolt. The lightning had struck the right hand, which lay as a shelter on the shoulder of Miss Brown, and which also clutched the lemon squeezer. This latter instrument was crushed to splinters by the contact. The lightning struck the back of the young man's head and ran down his arm. Then it went into his right side and then to his left, leaving a bright red mark on his breast, and passed out of the body near the heart, which it stilled forever. The flame of the fluid must have been intense, for it burned the hair and eyebrows on the body severely.

Without doubt the presence of Dr. Pressey's arm on his fiance's shoulder saved her life. The shattered house was a sorry sight. The lightning had wholly perforated its every part, and signs of its terrific force were to be seen everywhere. In the kitchen, the cooking utensils were piled up in disorderly heaps and punctured through and through by the electricity, while every joint of the building seemed to be wrenched apart.

Large kettles in the kitchen were bored through as if by a steel projectile and from one side of the house to the other passed an enormous bolt which, measured by the hole it made, must have been several inches in diameter. The ledge on which the house stands was struck by the departing lightning, which cut a piece as large as a washbowl out of the solid rock. The other occupants of the building were affected by the shock, which deafened all of them for many hours.

INTERVIEWED THE POPE.

Archbishop Langevin Has Consulted His Holiness Regarding the Manitoba School Question.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—A letter received from Archbishop Langevin in Rome states that he has had a satisfactory interview with Pope Leo on the Manitoba school question. His Grace returns to Winnipeg in September.

LI WANTS RAILROADS.

The Chinese Envoy Believes in Advocating Progress, Industry and Commerce in His Native Land.

London, Aug. 11.—A reception and banquet were given by the London Chamber of Commerce in honor of Li Hung Chang, the Chinese statesman, who appeared in the picturesque garb of his native rank, including the famous yellow jacket and peacock feathers. He wore, in addition, the decoration of the newly-instituted Victorian Order that has been conferred upon him by the Queen. Li Hung Chang made a speech, which was interpreted to his hearers. In the course of his remarks, he declared that as long as he lived he would advocate progress, industry and commerce in his native land, and that he would specially urge that the remotest corner of China be made accessible by railroads.

Keep Up Your Policies.

Orillia, Aug. 11.—The frame building on Mississaga-street, occupied by Mr. George E. Whiten as a photo gallery, was gutted by fire about 9 o'clock this morning. There was a small insurance on the building, but Whiten's stock was uninsured, his policy lapsing two weeks ago, after having been in force for 20 years. The firemen did excellent service in controlling the flames.

13,966 Deaths From Cholera.

Cairo, Aug. 11.—The official cholera returns show that on Sunday and Monday there were throughout Egypt 322 deaths from cholera. Since the outbreak of the disease there have been 13,966 deaths.

WON BY METEOR.

London, Aug. 11.—The Royal Victoria Club regatta began at Ryde to-day. There was a fine wholesale breeze from the north. The match for yachts exceeding 40-rating was contested by the Britannia, Caress, Satanita, Ailsa and Meteor. The boats sailed over the long course, about 50 miles. The race was won by the Meteor, which finished at 4.24.41.

DO THE PROTESTS DROP?

Justice Ferguson Will Give His Decision on Lawyer Bristol's Application at Osgoode Hall To-Day.

Toronto, Aug. 12.

It will be shown to the political world before the day is out whether or not the petitions filed by the Grits against Ontario Conservative members of Parliament are valid.

At Osgoode Hall yesterday Barrister Edmund Bristol pleaded to have the protests against Major Beattie of London and Messrs. Osler and Clarke of West Toronto set aside. Mr. Douglas appeared for the London petitioners, and Mr. F. K. Denton for Librarian Preston's backers.

Mr. Bristol based his motion on the ground that the petitions were filed with Mr. Holmested, a registrar and accountant of the High Court of Justice, and that he was not the proper person, not the "Clerk of the Crown," within the meaning of the statute, provided for the presenting of petitions.

The arguments, which were elaborate and occupied several hours, centered upon the statutes and rules of the court.

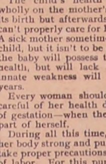
Hon. Justice Ferguson had not prepared his judgment last night, but he will read his written decision on the cases this afternoon.

No matter what the finding is this will not be the end of the cases, for both sides say if the judgment goes against them they will appeal to the Divisional Court.

WHAT WAS THE WEAPON?

John McCarthy of Montreal Seriously Hurt in a Fight Over a Dog.

Binghamton, N.Y., Aug. 11.—John McCarthy, aged 21 years, of Montreal, became engaged in an altercation over his dog in the United States Express Office at the D., L. & W. Depot, in this city, at an early hour this morning, and was finally struck by Peter Hensbury, one of the employes. Later he was picked up on the street in a dazed condition and removed to the hospital, suffering from a badly broken nose and concussion of the brain. Hensbury was arrested and will be held awaiting developments. He claims he struck McCarthy with his fist, though McCarthy says he was hit with a piece of baggage.



Motherhood is the acme of womanhood. It rounds out a woman's life and completes her most important mission in the world. The bearing and rearing of healthy, happy children is the chief achievement of any woman's life.

Health is an inheritance due to every child and within the reach of every parent to bestow. It is something that costs no money and is more precious than a mountain of diamonds.

The child's health depends almost wholly on the mother's, not only before its birth but afterwards. A sick mother can't properly care for her child's health. A sick mother sometimes bears a healthy child, but it isn't to be expected. Maybe the baby will possess the appearance of health, but will lack stamina. Maybe innate weakness will develop in after years.

Every woman should be particularly careful of her health during the period of gestation—when the child is really a part of herself.

During all this time, she should keep her body strong and pure and she should take proper precautions against her time of labor. For this purpose Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is prescribed. It has been used in thousands of cases, with the most gratifying results. It is a tonic to the whole body, but particularly to the organs distinctly feminine. It cures all female troubles and promotes regularity.

A large book (1000 pages profusely illustrated), written by Dr. Pierce, entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser" will be sent to those who will send thirty-one cents, in stamps, to prepay postage and duty only.

A HEALTHFUL DRINK
MADDEN'S CEREAL

A DELICIOUS and HEALTHFUL DRINK.

We seldom charge our ill feelings to the true cause. CHEMISTRY proves that Coffee contains poisonous alkaloids, as in morphine, whiskey and tobacco. A SOUND, HEALTHY PERSON may be able to stand these for a time, but "a small leak sinks a big ship," and sooner or later indigestion, headache, torpid liver, weak heart, "weary, tired feeling" proves that the nervous system has been poisoned.

EVERY DAY, and perhaps every meal, the poisonous alkaloids of Coffee and Tea add fuel to the fire. Can you wonder that some organic disease is firmly seated? Health cannot return until you remove the cause. MADDEN CEREAL has the appearance of coffee, in color like Java or Mocha, and when cream is added it changes to a rich brown. A product made from blood-producing grains, it builds up, renews and makes red blood. REGULAR PACKAGE MAKES 100 CUPS. Grocers sell it at 25 cents. TRIAL PACKAGE FOR 50 CUPS, BY MAIL, POSTPAID, 25 CENTS.

THE AMERICAN SILVER NUISANCE.

History repeats itself. Twenty-seven years since, about four years subsequent to the conclusion of the great American civil conflict, Canada was badly afflicted with what was then termed "the silver nuisance." The country was flooded with American silver to the exclusion of Canadian change and bank dollar bills. This silver had flowed in from the States in a continuous stream from the commencement of the war in 1861 till 1866 for the purchase of Canadian produce and supplies for the use of the American army. American gold being at a high premium, averaging 120 during the war, was not to be had; the "greenback" and other paper money was at a high discount in comparison with the gold premium, and hence all the available silver coin in the North was scraped together for transmission to Canada. At the close of the war, our people found themselves prolific of the white metal; the banks refused it on deposit; and though some merchants took it at par—the notice, "American silver taken here," appearing in many a store window—yet the presence of so vast a quantity, estimated then at $5,000,000 of this depreciated coinage, was indeed a commercial nuisance, ranging as it did in discount of from 7 to 10 per cent. At length Sir Francis Hincks dealt with the matter; an appropriation placed in the estimates enabled the then Government to arrange with the banks for the handling of the alien coinage, the bulk of which was either shipped back to the States, or sent to Great Britain as bullion to be recoined into honest Canadian silver currency. The rapid disappearance of this American silver money caused a shrinkage of "change," and temporarily to meet this inconvenience, our Government issued a fractional paper currency of the value of 25c, called "scrip"—then facetiously termed "shin-plasters"—which served till our new silver currency was ready. There is a good deal of this scrip, four to a dollar of gold value, yet current; these small bills bear the date 1 March, 1870. Since that period, the public has not lacked an ample supply of Canadian silver and bronze one-cent coinage for the convenience of making change.

The repetition of history in the case of silver lies in the fact that we are again face to face with another plethora of American silver, which threatens to become a loss to the public generally. So far, this recent importation has not been at a discount; but its presence as a circulating medium is an evil and a nuisance, inasmuch as it is liable at any time to become depreciated 40 to 50 per cent. from its face value; it is also a nuisance, displacing, as it does, so much Canadian silver. The volume of this American silver is not considered sufficiently large to demand legislative assistance to displace it; but it should be the policy of our Canadian banks by a united effort to rid the country of the incubus. The banks might invite their customers and the public to deposit with them all American silver which is not defaced, and receive in exchange Canadian. A small charge of one per cent. would be sufficient to cover the expense of subsequent shipment. The American silver thus banked, would be forwarded to the various bank agencies in New York, and currency or sterling drafts drawn against it. Such an arrangement would greatly assist the public, and the banks as well in two ways; first by getting rid of a foreign coinage, which is intrinsically worth only 55c on the dollar as metal, and may recede in value further; and, secondly, by relieving the banks of silver currency, of which they have a redundance in their vaults. Surely, the Canadian chartered banks can at little cost or trouble to themselves perform this service for the public generally. Now is the time, before the American silver problem is solved one way or another. In Montreal, the movement against the acceptance of American silver at par has already begun, and the example there set in the commercial metropolis of the Dominion will doubtless spread to the west before long. It is sincerely to be hoped that our banking establishments will soon be prepared with some joint scheme for relieving the public, especially in the West, from the presence of American silver, which has already again become "a nuisance," and promises shortly to involve the public generally in serious loss.

Revival of Trade.

Reports from the United States support the view that trade interests have vastly improved recently and that the business outlook for the future is encouraging. This will be welcome news to the people of Canada, since our own trade interest will be stimulated and improved. In nothing has this improvement been shown in a more marked way than in the increased sales of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Times being dull everything not absolutely needed became a luxury, and its sale became stationary. Now it is different. Sales have increased vastly, doubtless as it has proven the only safe, sure, and painless remedy for corns, and wise people will use no other.

CONSECON.

This pretty little village ought to be more extensively advertised as a summer resort. There is a well kept hotel where good board can be had. The place is not out of range of civilization; railway, telegraph, telephone and postal conveniences are at hand. You can have your choice of three fine bodies water for boating and fishing. The place is generally cool, both in summer and winter.—Rev. Mr. Beamish, with wife and daughter, have been spending a few weeks at the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. Robinson.—Appearances are deceitful and you sometimes generally cannot tell, but it looks as if one of our popular young ladies was going to be led captive in Cupid's bonds to a home in Uncle Sam's country.—The English church people are going on with more improvements in their church. The seats that are in use now were put in as temporary ones when the church was built nearly sixty years ago. The new pews have been ordered and will be soon put in the church. James & Bro., of Trenton, are making the pews. The people deserve help in their good work of restoring that fine old church. When the restoration is complete it will be one of the prettiest churches in the county.

REALISTIC UNTO DEATH.

A Fatal Accident Which Occurred on the Stage of the Novelty Theatre, London.

London, Aug. 11.—A fatal accident occurred last night at the Novelty Theatre, where the play "The Sins of a Night" is being played. Mr. Crozier was playing the part of the villain, and the plot provided that he should be stabbed in the last act. The play ran along as usual until the stabbing scene, when, in some manner unexplainable, instead of a harmless blow being delivered, the dagger penetrated Crozier's breast, inflicting a wound which caused his death in a few minutes. Consternation prevailed among the members of the company. A physician was hastily summoned, but his services were of no avail. The spectators were not aware of the terrible mistake that had been made, and Crozier's realistic fall was greeted with applause.

AFTER THE COLLISION.

The Steamship Lake Ontario Reaches Montreal After Her Encounter With the Vancouver.

Montreal, Que., Aug. 11.—The steamship Lake Ontario of the Beaver Line, which vessel came into collision with the Vancouver on Sunday night, arrived in port shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon. The blow which the vessel received in the starboard bow from the Vancouver has torn an ugly gash in the Lake Ontario, which will take both time and money to repair. From the stem, back at least 15 feet on the starboard bow, are two great rents. Here the half-inch plates of which the vessel is constructed are bent and twisted out of all resemblance of their original shape. The holes in the vessel are both fortunately several feet above the water line. It is said that permanent repairs mean the opening up of the entire bow. What will be done with the vessel is not yet decided upon, though in all probability she will be placed in the drydock at Quebec as soon as that structure is vacated by the Vancouver.

WHO IS THE SUICIDE?

The Remains of a Man Found Near Courtright—Evidently an American From the Description.

Courtright, Aug. 11.—About noon yesterday the body of a man was found in Jenkyn's woods, one mile east of here. He was about 55 or 60 years of age, height about 5 feet 5 inches. There was nothing much but skeleton left. His hair was mostly grey, and he seemed partly bald. One tooth in each side of the lower jaw was gone. The teeth of upper jaw seem to be all gone. He was dressed in black gaiter square-toed shoes, No. 7; grey woolen pants; small light-striped white woolen socks; black worsted coat and vest, with silk binding. They appeared to be American goods. He wore a dark soft felt hat, white linen shirt and stand-up collar. No laundry marks are visible. An American bulldog 32-calibre revolver was found near the right hand, with two chambers empty.

JUST LIKE HER MAJESTY.

The Queen Does Not Believe in Commemorating Her Sixty Years' Reign in Advance of the Time.

London, Aug. 11.—The Queen on June 20 next will have reigned for 60 years, a reign longer than that of any previous British sovereign, and lately many schemes have been mooted for a proper observance of the occasion. Most of the plans advanced provided for the commemoration of the event before the full 60 years had passed, but they have all been disposed of by an official intimation from Her Majesty, who makes it known that while she is gratified by the evidences of loyalty and affection displayed by her subjects she wishes that should she be spared to rule for 60 years any celebrations shall be reserved until that period shall have been actually completed.

DID HE JUMP OFF?

The Terrible Injuries Which Robert Dixon of Brantford Received While Getting Off a Train in Motion.

Brantford, Ont., Aug. 11.—Robert Dixon, a laborer in W. Buck's foundry, was found about 7.30 last evening alongside the G.T.R. track, about half a mile from town, in a very critical condition. He was removed to the hospital, and, after examination, it was found that Dixon had received a very serious scalp wound, broken shoulder, broken back and other injuries. Dixon, it is said, was on the outgoing special excursion train last evening, but whether he fell off or jumped off the train it is not at present known, but it is supposed he jumped off.

Domestic Cruelty.

"So Mrs. Bilker has got a divorce?"

"Yes, she discovered that Mr. Bilker had been hiding his small change every night under a flower pot in the back yard."

Her Sacrifice.

"Did Mrs. Jones give up her bloomers to please her husband?"

"No; but her pug dog wouldn't come near her when she had them on."

Two Sides.

"What do you know about finance? You never had a dollar!"

"What the deuce do you know? You never had to hustle for one."—Detroit News.

Just as Bad.

"Does your girl ever give you the marble heart?"

"No, but she often turns the cold shoulder."

WORK AS BEST WE CAN.

We would have inward peace,
  Yet will not look within;
We would have misery cease,
  Yet will not cease from sin;
We want all pleasant ends, but will use no harsh means.

What was the wise man's plan?
  Through this sharp, toil-set life,
To work as best he can,
  And win what's won by strife—
But we an easier way to cheat our pains have found.

Is it so small a thing,
  To have enjoyed the sun,
To have lived light in the spring,
  To have loved, to have thought, to have done,
To have advanced true friends, and beat down baffling foes?

I say: Fear not! Life still Leaves human effort scope,
But since life teems with ill,
  Nurse no extravagant hope;
Because thou must not dream, thou need'st not then despair.
—Matthew Arnold.

Personal Mention.

About £500 has been subscribed to the fund for the erection of a memorial to Thomas Hughes at Rugby.

The Bishop of Peterborough has finished a monograph of Queen Elizabeth on which he has been engaged for some time.

Lord Richard Nevill, aid-de-camp to Lord Brassey, Governor of Victoria, has had a miraculous escape from death in the hunting field.

Within the year there have died in Massachusetts four ex-Governors and one Governor, namely: Ex-Gov. Alexander H. Rice, died July 22, 1895; ex-Gov. Oliver Ames, died Oct. 22, 1895; ex-Gov. George D. Robinson, Feb. 22, 1896; Gov. Frederick T. Greenhalge, March 5, 1896, and ex-Gov. William E. Russell, July 16, 1896.

Matthew L. Brett, who died the other day at Washington Ind., was State Treasurer of Indiana during the war. He refused to turn over the State funds to Gov. Morton to be used for war purposes, whereupon the Governor made private loans, holding himself responsible for their payment until a loyal legislature should appropriate funds.

They Wear Lighted Lanterns.

The last new craze in Paris is said to be the wearing of a lighted lantern as a personal ornament. The fashion originated with a speculative manufacturer, whose "petites lanternes" were bought by tens of thousands at the fair of Neuilly.

The lantern is very small and neat, and made in a Gothic form after an ancient model; it is only of tin, but is sufficiently solid; it has well fitted glass plates, is about the size of a walnut, burns for some hours, and is sold at the price of six sous. Almost everbody who returned from the Neuilly fair to Paris, as a correspondent tells us, looked as if he were outwardly symbolising the Midsummer Saint, John the Baptist, "a burning and a shining light." The men and boys had the little lanterns in their hats, and the ladies carried them in their bouquets.

Sweeping an Invalid's Room.

We all know how untidy a sick room becomes and how annoying the dust of the sweeping is to the patient. "To remedy this," said a trained and capable nurse recently; "I put a little ammonia in a pail of warm water, and with my mop wrung dry as possible go all over the carpet first. This takes up all the dust and much of the loose dirt. A broom will take what is too large to adhere to the mop and raise no dust. With my dust cloth well sprinkled I go over the furniture and the room is fairly clean."—Troy Times.

A Betrothal in Germany.

One of those days when Gretchen, with the consent of her parents, is engaged, it is not a quiet happiness, a secret whispered with private congratulations and happy blushes. Cards are sent at once to all the friends and acquaintances making the great announcement, and the betrothed pair are presented to everybody at a ceremonious reception. Gretchen is a good housekeeper and Fritz has money. Let us congratulate them and offer flowers. —Chamber's Journal.

Even Non-Cyclers Can Do This.

Avoid all sweetened drinks when riding, as they only serve to increase your thirst. If you want a stimulating, and at the same time beneficial, drink, take a bottle of ginger ale, the imported if obtainable, empty the contents into a large glass, have a fresh egg broken in it and the whole well shaken until thoroughly mixed. The result will be entirely satisfactory.

Dufferin as an Arctic Explorer.

Among the arctic explorers is Lord Dufferin, who more than fifty years ago was in the northern seas in the yacht Foam. At Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland, he made the acquaintance of Prince Napoleon, who was also yachting off the coast of Iceland. Lord Dufferin pushed up to the dangerous seas off the island of Spitzbergen.

Queen Victoria's Friend.

The Dowager Duchess of Atholl has the distinction of being Queen Victoria's most intimate friend. She has held important posts in the royal household for a period of some fifty years. Her Majesty finds in the Duchess a wise counsellor and a thoroughly congenial companion.

Victor Hugo was born as Besancon in 1802. He died at Paris eleven years ago. Now, as his centenary approaches, the citizens of Besancon are bestirring themselves, and a statue is to be erected next year.

The Most Prolific Kingdom.

The little kingdom of Saxony, in Germany, is increasing faster in population than any other part of the empire. It now has 3,753,262 people on a territory not much larger than Rhode Island.

The Matabele Rebels.

London, Aug. 11.—A despatch to The Times from Cape Town says that a proclamation has been issued which extends the time of grace for the surrender of the Matabele rebels to Sept. 28.

Recuperating the Soil.

The best way to supply nitrogen to the soil it to plow in clover. The mechanical condition of the soil furnished by a great amount of humus is a great advantage. On a bare soil without sufficient humus a tree does not do as well apart from the fertilizing. We can supply a concentrated fertilizer having a large percentage of potash and a sufficient quantity of phosphoric acid and supply the nitrogen by plowing in clover. I never seed down an orchard except with red clover that should be plowed under when it gets to its very best. Do not apply any stable or barnyard manure at all to the orchard. It can be better furnished by plowing in a heavy crop of clover, and the other ingredients supplied by ashes.—G. C. Gaston to Ontario Fruit Growers' Association.

Philosophy.

Have you heard Miss Edythe Chapman's definition of philosophy? A theatrical friend tells me that in the course of a conversation with Miss Chapman, not very long ago, he said to her, banteringly:

"I don't believe you know the meaning of philosophy."

"Oh, yes I do," answered the clever actress, "philosophy is the fortitude with which one endures the misfortunes of other people."—Washington Post.

Imagine It!

Belleville without Gough's Big Clothing Store! What would it be? You'd be paying more for all kinds of Clothing and be without the great stock that gives you here vast choice and selection. We don't need to brag in the papers about the business we're doing—and we've no disposition to exaggerate values, but you who have taken advantage of our Great Composition Sale can testify that without this store such money saving would be impossible.

Are You Tired

All the time? This condition is a sure indication that your blood is not rich and nourishing as it ought to be and as it may be if you will take a few bottles of the great blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla. Thousands write that Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured them of that tired feeling by giving them rich, red blood.

HOOD'S PILLS act easily and promptly on the liver and bowels. Cure sick headache.

—Two sunstrokes, one fatal, took place in Montreal on the 11th.

—Arrangements for holding the militia camps are now well under way.

—Winnipeg's rate of taxation for the current year will be two cents on the dollar.

—The Security Bank, of Duluth, and the Murray Hill Bank, of New York, have closed.

—Martin O'Horo, who shot his son in a quarrel in Fitzroy and was knocked down by another son, died in the hospital at Ottawa on the 11th.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. E. North went out for a sail from Owen Sound on Wednesday. A big storm came up and they were probably drowned.

A horse attached to an express waggon took fright on Front st. yesterday afternoon and dashed into a phaeton, in which were seated two ladies. No one was hurt, but both rigs were damaged.

Hanlan would no doubt be champion today if Cereal, the hot food drink, had been discovered earlier. Tea and coffee will undermine any constitution, while Cereal renews and builds up. Ask your grocer for a package.

The report was current on the street this morning that the Str. North King had run aground near Brighton this morning with a large excursion party on board for the regatta. The report could not be verified.

The general opinion is that the English crew cannot win the four-oared race and the reasons given are that they have been drinking tea and coffee instead of Cereal, the new food drink. Get a package from your grocer and you will soon discover its wonderful properties.

Mr. Legate, Traveller for McCormack & Co., London, says: "Miller's Compound Iron Pills restored me to health after a month of prostration from nervous shock and loss of blood." He says, "Their effect on me was simply marvellous; people say they never saw me looking so well." Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

Died in Thurlow.

George A. Grier, son of Archibald Grier, died on Tuesday night at his father's residence, in the 3rd concession of Thurlow, from typhoid pneumonia. Deceased, who was 34 years of age, was widely known and much respected. He was a member of the Methodist church.

"Canst thou minister to a mind diseased?" asks Macbeth. Certainly, my lord; the condition of the mind depends largely, if not solely, on the condition of the stomach, liver, and bowels, for all of which complaints Ayer's Pills are "the sovereignest thing on earth."

FIRST DAY OF THE REGATTA

A HEAVY WIND STOPPED TWO OF THE SCULLING EVENTS.

The Canoe Races Were Well Contested—A Great Race in the Professional Singles—Hanlan Won From Eddie Durnan—A Free Show for Many People—Prof. Rice's Exhibitions—To-Day's Programme—Notes of Interest.

The International Regatta opened yesterday afternoon under most unfavorable auspices, the wind stirring up such a swell on the bay that it was impossible to send the scullers out till after seven o'clock, and even then it was not fit water for such fragile craft. The attendance—that is those who paid admission to the grand stand or the steamers—was not large, but about as large as could be expected for a first day.

Capt. Smith, of the schr. H. M. Ballou, certainly deserves to be prosecuted for his action in taking between two and three hundred people out on his vessel to see the races after being warned by Mr. Porter, Chairman of the Transportation Committee, not to do so. The schr. Eliza Fisher also started with a large crowd on board, but went back. We understand action will be taken against Capt. Smith. Although a long fence was built along the bay shore, a large crowd gathered at the eastern end and witnessed without price or compunction. Several parties saw the events from an elevated position near Rathbun's offices.

About three o'clock the sailing craft in the harbor began to move out into the bay to take up places of vantage along the course and several steam yachts and launches also moved outward. Mr. E. Burrell's trim little steam yacht Kismet towed the yacht Iolanthe, which was used by the judges at the starting line. She dropped her anchor to the leeward end of the starting line, but it did not hold and she drifted on a pile of stone dropped there by the dredge some time ago. The Kismet made several unsuccessful attempts to pull her off, but she was on hard amidships and could not be dislodged. She was finally worked off by listing her and hoisting her mainsail.

The Norah, which was used by the judges at the turn, was towed to her position, and then the steamers began to go out.

THE RACES.

The first event on the programme was the canoe race, paddling, men's single, double blades, ½ mile with turn. Prize, silver cup, value $30.—There were only two entries for the event, namely W. T. Lawless, Ottawa Canoe Club, No. 1, and F. Allward, Toronto, No. 2. Lawless led from the start and finished an easy winner in 6m 46s.

The next event on the programme was the professional singles, but the heavy sea running would not allow of their being started.

The next race called was the Canoe Race, paddling,—Men's tandem single blades; ½ mile with turn. Gold medals, value $20 and $10. Only two canoes faced the starter, occupied by the following paddlers: W. T. Lawless, Ottawa, and J. A. Russell, Toronto, No. 1; W. H. Renolds and F. A. C. Bickerdike, of the Lachine Club, No. 2. No. 1 canoe took the lead from the report of the starter's gun and maintained it throughout the whole distance, winning by eight length in 5m 37 4-5s.

The Hurry Scurry Canoe race, 200 yards, swim 25 yards, upset twice, paddle balance of distance, prize, gold medal, value $20, only brought out two starters, W. T. Lawless, of Ottawa, and Geo. J. Thompson, of this city. The canoes were anchored and the men were started from the police boat about twenty-five yards distant. They had to swim to their canoes, break the anchor line, get into the canoe upset twice and then paddle to the finish line. Lawless is a fine swimmer and reached his canoe first. He made two very neat upsets, turning the boat completely over while in it and righting it without any water in it. Thompson came to grief in trying to turn his canoe and did not finish. Lawless' time, 2:45.

It was still too rough to bring out the scullers and it was announced that the races would be postponed till 7 o'clock. Most of the people left the stand, not caring to wait an hour. At 7 o'clock the wind had subsided, but there was still a heavy swell. The men came out however at 7:10 and lined up for the Professional Single Scull—¾ of a mile with turn, 1st Prize $50, 2nd Prize $10. The starters were Eddie Durnan, Toronto, No 1; Ed. Hanlan, Toronto, No 2; J. G. Hackett, Rat Portage, No 3; E. Rogers, Worcester, Mass., No 4, and Geo. Bubear, London, England, No 5. At the report of the gun Hanlan and Durnan caught the water together and started on even terms, pulling 36 strokes to the minute. Rogers was only a few feet behind and Hackett and Bubear followed in the order named. The water was too rough for Bubear and he dropped out when about one-eighth of a mile from the starting point, and Hackett gave up a minute later. Hanlan and Durnan had dropped their stroke to 32, but Rogers maintained a vigorous pull. Hanlan gradually pulled away from Durnan, but did not steer a good course. He was first to the turn, however, by a length, Durnan coming about next, followed by Rogers, whose work had evidently told on him. The race home between Hanlan and Durnan was a pretty one and from the grand stand they appeared to be about on even terms within 100 yards of the finish. Hanlan spurted on the last fifty yards and crossed the line two lengths ahead of his nephew. The winner's time was 10:51 2-5, which, considering the rough water, was fast rowing. About one hundred persons witnessed the race from the grand stand and gave Ned an ovation when he crossed the line and again when he passed the stand on his way to the training quarters. Hanlan again proved his ability to row well in rough water, the sea, if anything, being rather to his liking. Durnan was applauded for his game tussle with his big uncle. Rogers finished several lengths behind Durnan, he having slacked up when he saw the race was lost.

As it was late and the attendance was small it was decided to postpone the amateur singles and the professional four-oared races till to-day, and this closed yesterday's programme.

Notes.

Prof. James Rice gave exhibitions of fancy rowing in front of the grand stand during the afternoon and also walking on the water, etc. All his feats are clever and he was warmly applauded.

Much amusement was created by several young men attempting to do Rice's water walking feat. Their movements and falls in the water were anything but graceful.

Hardy's wire was not in position and he could not give his exhibition, but it was put on to-day.

There were several book-makers present, but they were closely watched by the police and consequently did no business.

There are fakirs by the score in the city, but they will find that they have struck the wrong place to do business, as Chief Newton has instructed his men to suppress any games of chance.

Officer Hayes made an imposing spectacle on the bow of Mr. Cartwright's steam yacht Curlew, which was used as police boat.

The refreshment booths did not do a rushing business, but hope to do better to-day.

This being the clerks' half-holiday it is expected there will be a big rush for admission to the grand stand. It is by far the most comfortable place from which to view the races, as several who went out on the steamers yesterday were not at all satisfied with the view.

The Oddfellows' band were present all the afternoon and furnished plenty of first-class selections. They appeared somewhat picturesque in their white linen coats and broad-brimmed straw hats.

Power Bros.' official programme gave full particulars of the entries and starters and was much appreciated by those who secured them.

Whilst the men were engaged in putting up one of the large poles on the barge for Hardy to give his performance, it fell with a heavy crash. Fortunately no one was injured, the only damage done being the breaking of a portion of the rail.

The Programme Committee met last evening and decided to put on the events left over from yesterday this afternoon. The events for this afternoon are skiff races, professional four-oared, punt races, amateur single scull and professional doubles.

The Course Committee decided last evening to lay out a three-quarter mile course along the north shore of the bay, and if the wind blows from the same direction it did yesterday the new course will be used.

Durnan (Hanlan's nephew) is a worthy scion of the Hanlan family. It was a rare thing to see uncle and nephew finish first and second in such a field of oarsmen. Their education on the rough water of Toronto bay stood them in good stead.

Mr. E. Burrell's steam yacht Kismet was an excellent referee's boat, and Mr. Cartwright's steam yacht Curlew was an efficient police patrol.

We wish to draw particular attention to this evening's entertainment. The programme to be presented upon the floating barge in front of the grand stand will be well worth the price of admission. Beside this, the Venetian Carnival will be a most attractive spectacle, and the fireworks from a barge in the bay will make a beautiful sight. The grand stand will be lighted by electric light.

Hanlan said that the waves at the turning buoys were waist high when the professional singles was rowed.

The two professional four-oared crews were out this morning timing themselves over the course. The water was like glass.

The Str. Merritt brought nearly 300 passengers up from Napanee and intermediate points this morning.

The Str. Nellie Cuthbert towed up a number of sailing skiffs from Picton this morning.

The Hero brought about 300 people from Kingston and other points.

Now for Bicycle Suits.

They save your good suits you know and are just the color for dust and mud, a proper thing for business or most any wear; if you are a wheelman. Institution Notes.

Dr. J. B. Murphy, Superintendent of the Asylum for the Insane, Brockville, is spending a few days at the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb with Superintendent Mathison. Mrs. Murphy, Stearn, Marguerite, Leo and Gerald are also here, the guests of Mr. Mathison's family.

Mrs. Craig and her son, Roland, of Guelph Agricultural College, are visiting Mrs. R. Mathison and Miss Walker, at the Institution for the Deaf.

Miss Walker, Matron of the Institution, has returned from a visit to Hamilton, Berlin and the Muskoka District.

Miss Lily N. Metcalfe has just returned from her holidays at Peterborough and vicinity, where she had a lovely time.

Mr. Douglas, Storekeeper, is enjoying a well-earned rest.

General repairs are going on round and about the Institution. Painters, plasterers and cleaners generally are fixing up for the re-opening on the 16th of next month.

Ellis Goes to the Central.

After several years of a more or less chequered career Clem Ellis has struck a snag and will spend the next four months in the Central Prison. He was convicted of breaking into D. Gerow's house on Cedar Island some weeks ago and Judge Lazier passed the above sentence on him this morning. Thos. Grills, who was with Ellis at the time, got one month in gaol. Wilson, the other man of the party, has not been caught yet.

Miss Andrews on the S.S. Vancouver.

Miss Andrews, formerly with Messrs. Geo. Ritchie & Co., is a passenger on the disabled S.S. Vancouver at Quebec. Miss Andrews' perils by land and sea would make quite a history. Our citizens all remember that she was one of the victims of the St. George accident, the effects of which it is said she will never recover from, and now, as she is on her way to England (it is said to be married there), she suffers from the shock of the collision of the S.S. Vancouver with that of the S.S. Lake Ontario.

$85 for $75.

$85.00 for $70.00 with 5% additional for cash, is what the Ashley Carriage Works startles the public with on buggies. They claim that their buggies and other vehicles are superior to any others offered in the city, having A. wheels, hand forged iron work; excellent painting and trimming. This seems to be a rare chance for quick purchasers, as the stock is limited. Other rigs at proportionate prices.

GATHERING OF THE CLANS.

This year's grand gathering of the Clans is to be held at Massassaga Park on Wednesday, Aug. 26, two weeks from today, and promises to be a greater success than any of its predecessors. Three "crack" pipers and dancers from the 48th Highlanders, Toronto, have already entered for a number of the events. The full I.O.O.F. band will be in attendance as will also a quadrille band from Trenton and a full complement of Highland pipers. Two or three large steamers will convey Belleville people to the Park from 9 a. m. until well on in the evening. See bills and programmes for full particulars.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Teachers and Caretakers Appointed—A Number of Accounts Passed.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Education last evening the following members were present: S. A. Moore, Chairman; J. L. Biggar, R. Bogle, Rev. Canon Burke, W. W. Chown, I. Diamond, Dr. Eakins, Wm. Johnson, S. S. Moore, H. Pringle, W. C. Reid, Wm. Tennent and Thos. Wills.

After the reading of the minutes of last meeting communications were read from Jas. A. Chisholm, asking for a share of the insurance on the High School building. Referred to Finance Committee; a statement from R. Powell as to old iron bought from Board; from Toronto Blind Co., as to blinds for schools, and a circular from the Education Department as to authorized books.

The Finance Committee recommended the payment of accounts aggregating about $50.

The Committee on School Management reported that fifty-two applications had been received for positions on the teaching staff of the Public Schools. They recommended that Miss McCaughey be appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Palen on the Central School staff at a salary of $350 per annum. They also recommended that Miss Nellie W. Myers be appointed to fill the position in No. 3 school made vacant by Miss Frost at a salary of $350 per annum. There were thirteen applications for the position of Classical Master in the High School and the committee recommended the appointment of Mr. W. Libby, of Toronto, at a salary of $800 per annum.

The above reports were passed without amendment.

Moved by Mr. Johnson, seconded by Mr. I. Diamond, that the Sites, Building and Repairs Committee have power to build necessary walls and other supports in the basement of the High School as may be deemed necessary.—Carried.

It was decided to advertise for a new caretaker for the High School.

Mrs. Ada Lazier was re-engaged as caretaker of No. 3 school.

The Board adjourned.

BELLEVILLE MARKETS.

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE,
August 12, 1896.

The farmers being busy with their harvest work but little business has been doing on the market day by day.

Grain—Prices are purely nominal, in absence of transactions.

Provisions show no change.

Hogs—live and dressed—are very much depressed and our quotations are outside figures.

Potatoes—New are lower and declining, as the main crop is now coming into market.

Hay is steady at $8 to $10.50.

Pork is lower, as per quotations.

Other articles unchanged.

WHEAT—60c to 65c.
BARLEY—30c to 35c.
RYE—40c to 43c.
OATS—20c to 22c.
PEAS (Common)—40c to 45c
BUCKWHEAT—33c.
BUTTER—Roll, 10c to 20c.
EGGS—10c. to 12c. per doz.
LIVE HOGS—$3 to $3.50 per 100 lbs.
DRESSED HOGS—$4.50 to $5.00.
DRESSED BEEF—4c to 5½c
LAMB—6c. to 8c.
HIDES.—No. 1, $5.50
VEAL HIDES—6c per lb.
DEAKINS—30c.
WOOL—18c.
LAMB SKINS—35c.
TALLOW—Rough, 1½c.
TALLOW—Rendered, 3c.
LARD—9c. to 10c.

HAY—New, $8 to $10.50 per ton.
CHICKENS—30c. to 50c. per pair.
DUCKS—50c. to 60c.
TURKEYS—50c. to $1.50.
ONIONS—20c. per peck.

Montreal Markets.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—Grain—Business is very slow. A sample of this year's wheat, grown at Plumcoulee, Manitoba, was shown on 'change to-day by the Lake of the Woods Milling Company. The wheat is No. 1 hard and of excellent quality. Wheat, No. 1 hard, nominal; wheat, No. 2 hard, nominal; peas, per 60 lbs, afloat, 55c to 55½c; oats, No. 2 white, in store, 26c; rye, No. 2, nominal; barley, feed, 33½c to 34c; barley, 44c to 46c; buckwheat, per bush, 39c to 39½c.

Flour—There is a fair demand for flour and prices were well maintained. Straight rollers, $3 50 to $3 75; do. bags, $1 70 to $1 75; strong bakers', Manitoba, best brands, $3 30 to $3 55; spring patents, Manitoba, $3 70 to $3 90; winter patents, Ontario, $3 60 to $3 75.

Meal—Rolled, per brl, $2 60 to $2 80; standard, per brl, $2 70 to $2 80; standard, per bag, $1 30; granulated, per brl, $2 75 to $2 85; granulated, per bag, $1 35 to $1 40.

Feed—Bran, $11 to $11 50; shorts, $12 to $13; mouille, $15 to $18.

Cheese—The market for western is nearly ½c firmer. There was between 4,000 and 5,000 cheese received from the French district today, which sold on the wharf at 7½c, 7⅝c and 7¾c. As the last figure is extreme even for finest western the situation is difficult to explain.

Butter—There is a fair trade at very firm prices; one sale took place to-day at 17½c.

Eggs—Wholesale lots or candled stock have sold as low as 8½c, but 8¾c is the usual price.

Provisions—There is very little doing and prices remain unchanged. Canada short cut mess per brl, $12 to $13 50; Canada short cut clear, $11; hams, city cured, per lb, 7½c to 10c; bacon, per lb, 9c; lard, pure Canadian, per lb, 7c; lard, common refined, per lb, 5c.

Nervous

People find just the help they so much need, in Hood's Sarsaparilla. It furnishes the desired strength by purifying, vitalizing and enriching the blood, and thus builds up the nerves, tones the stomach and regulates the whole system. Read this:

"I want to praise Hood's Sarsaparilla. My health run down, and I had the grip. After that, my heart and nervous system were badly affected, so that I could not do my own work. Our physician gave me some help, but did not cure. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Soon I could do all my own housework. I have taken Hood's Pills with Hood's Sarsaparilla, and they have done me much good. I will not be without them. I have taken 13 bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and through the blessing of God, it has cured me. I worked as hard as ever the past summer, and I am thankful to say I am well. Hood's Pills when taken with Hood's Sarsaparilla help very much." MRS. M. M. MESSENGER, Freehold, Penn.

Cured

...etty little village ought to be more extensively advertised as a summer resort. There is a well kept hotel where good board can be had. The place is not out of range of civilization; railway, telegraph, telephone and postal conveniences are at hand. You can have your choice of three fine bodies water for boating and fishing. The place is generally cool, both in summer and winter.—Rev. Mr. Beamish, with wife and daughter, have been spending a few weeks at the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. Robinson.—Appearances are deceitful and you sometimes generally cannot tell, but it looks as if one of our popular young ladies was going to be led captive in Cupid's bonds to a home in Uncle Sam's country.—The English church people are going on with more improvements in their church. The seats that are in use now were put in as temporary ones when the church was built nearly sixty years ago. The new pews have been ordered and will be soon put in the church. James & Bro., of Trenton, are making the pews. The people deserve help in their good work of restoring that fine old church. When the restoration is complete it will be one of the prettiest churches in the county.

KING OR KNAVE?

welcome, seeing you want to know. Didn't your mamma ever tell you why Adam Furness was sent to Bot'ny B'y? No? 'Twas for forgery—which people used to be hanged for; and serve 'em right, say I. Because then, when they get free, they can't come mischief-making over them that may have their weak points, like the men, poor creatures, can't help having some, but would be right enough if they're only let alone. Perhaps, Miss Furness, you'll perceive why I've no love lost for Adam Furness when I tell you he's been our ruin—and maybe he's being our ruin over again. That's why people ought to be hanged; of course, meaning nobody in particular, Miss Furness, and nyming no nymes; but scores of 'em, all the syme. I'll tell you the whole story of one of the sort, if you've never heard it, and haven't got anything to do."

"You must go on now," said Marion. "I have heard too much not to hear all."

"I don't know about 'must,' Miss Furness. But, to oblige you, I will. . . . Meaning nobody in particular and nyming no nymes. . . . Dr. Snell, when first I knew him, was assisting a medical gentleman in a dispensary—wild he was, like a young man will be that's worth his salt, but as clever as he's high, and if they say there was any wickedness in him, then they lie. You'll understand, Miss Furness, that the girls used to be after him, poor fellow in rocks and shoals. However, he married the only one of 'em all that never lifted a finger out of her way for him: which that one was me. . . . Of course, a man like him, with his talents and accomplishments, could't be expected to spend all his evenings at home, especially when the dispensary shut up because of an unfortunate accident without Wyndham being to blame, and when he took to lecturing on Poetry, and Noses, and those sort of things, and acting, when he wasn't kept out by jealousy. So one evening he brought home a friend—Mr. Adam I'll call him, not to be nyming nymes. Everybody's Adam, you know, in a kind of a way. I didn't take to Mr. Adam. And I didn't take to him any the more when it seems Dr. Snell had recognized him for a bachelor friend who'd been sent for forgery to Bot'ny B'y. I never did take to Dr. Snell's bachelor friends—they all seemed to have been in trouble of some sort, except the doctor and one that was killed on a railway before he had time. And what was more, Mr. Adam couldn't be fairly at large; for it stands to reason that when a man used to be transported, he couldn't be back again in London in three years. So he had to be an escaped convict, which makes it all the worse; for that's the law. So you'd have thought Mr. Adam would have given Dr. Snell a pretty wide berth, but not he. Mr. Adam was just a devil—not a man. I didn't see things clear then, being only an innocent slip of a girl——"

So Mrs. Snell had once been a girl; and, as it is always the smallest trifles that catch the mind the most when the heart is the most absorbed in great ones, Marion caught herself vaguely speculating what kind of girl Mrs. Snell could ever have been, or how long it took, and by what process, to develop any kind of girl into a Mrs. Snell.

"But I grew wiser, very soon. This was that devil's game—to mix my husband up with all his wickedness, so that he couldn't dare tell 'split' is the word they use. And Dr. Snell, being, with all his genius, just as innocent and unsuspecting as a baby, he fell into the trap, and in a couple of weeks he daren't call his soul his own."

"What trap?" asked Marion, gradually feeling her eyes giving way before Mrs. Snell's unwavering gaze.

"Ah! indeed! But that I've no call to say. It's enough, I should think, that poor Wyndham, instead of being President of the College of Physicians, and me being Lady Snell, has had to grind and grovel away in Piggot's Town. But I did think we were rid of him—and now——"

"And now, Mrs. Snell?"

"And now, as if he hadn't done enough, he's sent you here to steal away my own husband's fancy under my own very eyes!"

She could not have meant to bring her triumph to a more complete climax, but the thrust was irresistible, and passion had carried her away. An iceberg could not be expected to keep its head if it suddenly discovered itself to be a volcano—Etna would be outdone.

Marion's brain whirled and reeled as if Mrs. Snell had risen and dealt her a sudden blow with her open hand. What could it mean? That she had been listening to her father's story she had of course been perfectly aware: but this last monstrous charge had thrown discredit on every word. That she should have been sent into Piggot's Town to make love to Dr. Wyndham Snell—it would be ridiculous had she been in any other mood; there had been a time when she could have laughed it away with a word; as something too utterly absurd to cause even a moment's shame. Before she could recover her wits, Mrs. Snell amazed her still more by bursting into tears.

Nor did poor Mrs. Snell know in the least how to cry. She had no doubt had plenty of cause, but had hitherto had no leisure for learning the useful but dangerous accomplishment of graceful tears. Her eyes swelled and boiled over; her sharp nose reddened and swelled; and the tracks of the tears down her cheeks were too plainly to be seen. And then she did not let the rain come, as another woman would, but fought hard to swallow it down.

"It is hard," she said. "After working for him—and being true to him—all the years, 'n years, 'n years, and now just when we're better off, and patients coming at last—to have another woman come between and you so pretty, and he such a Fool!"

Hideous and grotesque as was the sight, Marion could not help feeling overwhelmed with pity for the woman who had been nursing such a monstrous delusion.

is in store for the house-wife who has never kept Johnston's Fluid Beef on hand ready for immediate use, for making Beef Tea, Gravies and Soups.

Johnston's Fluid Beef. Convenient. Economical.

16 oz. Bottle, $1.00.

It certainly spoils half the pleasure of a boating trip of any kind when the dampness or crushing ruins the style of your once jaunty suit. This never happens when a Fibre Chamois interlining is used because no amount of moisture, creasing or hard usage can take the stiffness out of it. Skirts and sleeves made on it have all the style and grace of the first day of wear right through the whole season. These points, as well as its extra light weight, have made it the only popular interlining for all kinds of outing suits.

But buy Fibre Chamois, the genuine goods, with the label on every yard, because its many worthless imitations always give disappointing results.

ONE VATICAN ORGAN

Talks of the Triumph of the Liberals in Canada as an Important Chan e.

Montreal, Aug. 11.—(Special.)—The French Liberals have grown delirious over their victory and are now publishing in all their papers the following comments of one of the Vatican organs, La Vera Roma, on the results of the recent elections in the Dominion. That well-informed Macaroneite says: "The general elections for the Dominion Parliament have resulted in the return of 118 Liberals, 86 Conservatives and 8 Independents. The Conservative party in Canada represents the Anglo-Protestant denomination, while the Catholics belong to the so-called Liberal camp. This explains the great importance of the recent election in the Dominion of Canada. It now appears certain that a new Cabinet will be formed, presided over by Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, a Catholic of French origin, who is much esteemed for his honesty and eloquence, and who enjoys a good reputation even among the English."

L'Electeur, Hon. Mr. Laurier's pocket organ, publishes the above and attempts to make capital for its leader notwithstanding the Italian newspaper's lamentable ignorance of Canadian politics.

A Manitoba gentleman, while discussing Hon. Mr. Watson's probable entry into the Dominion Government, stated to-day that the prospective minister cannot possibly be elected in Brandon, where the cry has been raised that no outsider need apply. "Mr. ... has been a failure in Manitoba," he went on, "and if ... truth in the story. Pre... must be wanting to ... be way. At the last ... Philosophy.

Have you heard Miss Edythe Chapman's definition of philosophy? A theatrical friend tells me that in the course of a conversation with Chapman, not very long ago, to her, banteringly:

"I don't believe you know the meaning of philosophy."

"Oh, yes I do," answered the clever actress, "philosophy is the fortitude with which one endures the misfortunes of other people."—Washington Post.

...gistered over 90° in the shade, being the hottest day known in Montreal since 1889. John Connolly, who lives at 460 St. Dominique-street, succumbed to the heat while coming down town at 2 o'clock. He was taken to the hospital, where he died almost immediately.

Hon. Mr. Tarte and several more Liberals will speak to-morrow at St. Scholastique, County of Two Mountains.

THEY WANT McCARTHY TO SAY

Whether He Intends to Resign His Seat for Brandon Mr. Sifton's Name Still Mentioned for a Portfolio.

Winnipeg, Aug. 11.—(Special.)—The Brandon Liberals, who elected D'Alton McCarthy, are eager to discover whether he intends resigning the Brandon seat, but can get no satisfaction from him. Attorney-General Sifton, who in reality won Brandon for Mr. McCarthy, has gone east to have a consultation with him and after this conference there may be some announcement.

The impression still prevails that Mr. Sifton will stand for Brandon as Minister of the Interior. He had promised Joseph Martin not to stand in his way, but Mr. Martin seems to be out of it now altogether.

Editor Richardson of The Tribune, member-elect for Lisgar, leaves for Toronto to-morrow.

CRISIS IN THE STATES.

The Security Bank of Duluth Closes Its Doors to Claimants.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 11.—The Security Bank of Duluth, one of the largest state banks in Minnesota, closed its doors this morning. The following notice was posted on the door: "Heavy and unlooked for withdrawals of deposits and the impossibility of making speedy collections have compelled us to close our doors. We think depositors need have no fear regarding the ultimate safety of their funds. (Signed) W. P. Lardner, cashier."

The failure has caused considerable excitement, and further failures are feared. The bank was organized in 1889, with Joseph Sellwood president and J. W. Paine cashier. The capital stock is $100,000; surplus $10,000, and average deposits $425,000.

The Republican Campaign.

New York, Aug. 11.—The Republican campaign in this city will be formally opened on the night of Aug. 27 with a big indoor mass meeting, at which ex-President Harrison will be the principal speaker. General Powell Clayton, who is in charge of the speaking arrangements of the National Committee, to-day received a letter from General Harrison saying he would be willing to make a speech here on Aug. 27.

OUR MAIL.

Our mail brings us every day dozens of letters about Burdock Blood Bitters. Some from merchants who want to buy it, some from people who want to know about it, and more from people who do know about it because they have tried it and been cured. One of them was from Mr. J. Gillan, B. A., 39 Gould Street, Toronto. Read how he writes:

GENTLEMEN,—During the winter of 1892 my blood became impure on account of the hearty food I ate in the cold weather. Ambition, energy and success forsook me, and all my efforts were in vain. My skin became yellow, my bowels became inactive, my liver was lumpy and hard, my eyes became inflamed, my appetite was gone, and the days and nights passed in unhappiness and restlessness

For some months I tried doctors' and patent medicines of every description, but received no benefit. Being advised by a friend to try B.B.B., I am glad to have the opportunity of testifying to the marvellous result. After using three bottles I felt much better, and when the fifth bottle was finished I enjoyed health in the greatest degree, and have done so from that day up to date. Therefore I have much pleasure in recommending B. B.B. to all poor suffering humanity who suffer from impure blood, which is the beginning and seat of all disease.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

MR. BRYAN NOTIFIED

Of His Nomination for the Presidency

The Free Silver Orator Discusses the Money Question and Uses All the Arguments in Favor of Bi-Metallism—Claims that Monometallism is Tyranny and Endeavors to Show How Free Coinage of Silver Would Benefit Farmers, Laborers, Merchants and Manufacturers.

New York, Aug. 12.—William Jennings Bryan and Arthur Sewall were formally notified to-night that they were the choice of the Democratic party for the highest offices in the gift of the people of the United States. The occasion was one to which the entire country had been looking forward for many weeks, and interest had risen to the boiling point, through repeated promises and hints that the speech the young Nebraskan would deliver would exceed in eloquence, vigor and magnetism his effort before the Chicago convention. Whatever might be the political inclination of any person who attended the ratification of the Democracy at Madison-square Garden, he must have been permeated with the blindest prejudice not to have been thrilled by the excitement and the enthusiasm which prevailed during the entire time the notification ceremonies lasted. The presence of so stupendous a crowd of human beings was in itself an eloquent tribute to the importance attached to the occasion.

The opening of the doors was followed by a hurrying, scurrying rush of feet, and in they came, shouting, jumping, shoving, pushing, all intent on reaching the places best available to see and hear. Outside the Garden the wildest excitement had been prevailing. Over 1000 uniformed policemen were stationed in and about the hall. The crowd began to assemble shortly after 6 o'clock and an hour later the avenues leading to the Garden were literally thronged with the waiting multitude. At 7 o'clock the doors were thrown open, and, despite the efforts of the police to restrain them, the crowd on either side made desperate rushes for the entrances. In the struggle there many women fainted and had to be carried away. The police finally began using their clubs in an effort to restore order. A wild scene of turmoil ensued at the main entrance. From floor to roof the Garden was crowded with human beings before the exercises began.

It was just 8 o'clock when the principal actor of the evening entered. When he stepped on the stand and was recognized by many in the audience, a great cheer went up. At 8.15 o'clock Senator Jones (Ark.), chairman of the National Committee, nominated as chairman of the meeting, Hon. Elliott Danforth of New York.

Mr. Danforth presented Governor N. W. A. Stone, Missouri, chairman of the Committee on Notification.

Mr. Stone made a brier speech, full of jingoism, and giving a twist to the British lion's tail, and der[illegible]nding the participants in the Chicago convention, after which he formally notified Mr. Bryan of his nomination. Then a man began to wave a big flag over Mr. Bryan's head. Cheer followed cheer and pandemonium broke loose.

Although the cheering thousands in the hall were hot of body and hoarse of throat, they rose as a man when the chairman stepped forward and introduced Mr. Bryan. Then came a demonstration that far exceeded those that followed the mention of Mr. Bryan's name previously in the evening. Men and women rose to their feet and cheered. On the platform, in the boxes, up in the galleries, people were shouting like mad. Men waved their coats and their hats, while women fluttered fans and handkerchiefs. Mr. Bryan held up his hand for silence. It was like an incentive to yell louder. Mr. Bryan made an effort to speak. His voice was drowned in the wild howl. Again he held up his hand and again the cheering rose to its might. Finally the nominee began to speak slowly, but was obliged to stop several times, for the demonstration had sporadic spasms before it died. His voice was firm, but it showed signs of hoarseness.

Mr. Bryan read from manuscript but occasionally he dropped the sheets of paper, and spoke earnestip and vehemently, without looking at them. The peroration was spoken without a glance at the manuscript, and for that reason it had greater effect.

MR. BRYAN'S SPEECH.

The Young Orator Read From Manuscript But Made a Good Impression.

"I shall at a future day formally accept the nomination which is now tendered by the Notification Committee, and shall then touch upon the issues presented by the platform," said Mr. Bryan. "It is fitting that at this time I speak at some length in regard to the campaign upon which we are now entering. We shall defend with all possible vigor the position taken by our party(Our campaign has not for for its object the reconstruction of society. We cannot insure to the vicious the fruits of a virtuous life; we would not invade the home of the provident in order to supply the wants of the spendthrift; we do not propose to transfer the rewards of industry to the lap of indolence. Property is and will remain the stimulus to endeavor and the compensation for toil. We believe, as asserted in the Declaration of Independence, that all men are created equal; but that does not mean that all men are or can be equal in possessions, in ability or in merit; it simply means that all shall stand equal before the law, and that Government officials shall not, in making, construing or enforcing the law discriminate between citizens. I assert that the property rights as well as the rights of persons are safe in the hands of the common people.

"Those who stand by the Chicago platform believe that the Government should not only avoid wrong-doing, but that it should also prevent wrong-doing, and they believe that the law should be enforced alike against all enemies of the public weal. They do not excuse petit larceny, but they declare that grand larceny is equally a crime; they do not defend the occupation of the highwayman who robs the unsuspecting traveler, but they include among the transgressors those who, through the more polite and less hazardous means of legislation, appropriate to their own use the proceeds of the toil of others..

"Now let me ask you to consider the paramount question of this campaign—the money question. It is scarcely necessary to defend the principle of bi-metallism. No national party during the entire history of the United States has ever declared against it, and no party in this campaign has had the temerity to oppose. The gold standard has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. Take from it the powerful support of the money-owning and the money-changing classes, and it cannot stand for one day in any nation in the world. It was fastened upon the United States without discussion. There can be no sympathy or co-operation between the advocates of a universal gold standard and the advocates of bi-metallism.

"What is the test of honesty in money? It must certainly be found in the purchasing power of the dollar. An absolutely honest dollar would not vary in its general purchasing power; it would be absolutely stable when measured by average prices. A dollar which increases in purchasing power is just as dishonest as a dollar which decreases in purchasing power.

"It cannot be successfully claimed that mono-metallism or bi-metallism or any other system gives an absolutely just standard of value. Under both mono-metallism and bi-metallism the government fixes the weight and fineness of the dollar, invests it with legal tender qualities, and then opens the mints to its unrestricted coinage, leaving the purchasing power of the dollar to be determined by the number of dollars. Bi-metallism is better than mono-metallism, not because it gives us a perfect dollar, but because it makes a nearer approach to stability, to honesty, to justice, than a gold standard possibly can. Any legislation which lessens the world's stock of standard money increases the exchangeable value of the dollar; therefore the crusade against silver must inevitably raise the purchasing power of money and lower the money value of all other forms of property.

"Our opponents err in supposing that we have reached the end of the evil results of the gold standard; we have not reached the end. The injury is a continuing one, and no person can say how long the world is to suffer from the attempt to make gold the only standard money. The same influences which are now operating to destroy silver in the United States will, if successful here, be turned against other silver-using countries, and each new convert to the gold standard will add to the general distress. So long as the scramble for gold continues prices must fall, and a general fall in prices is but another definition of hard times.

"The farmers are opposed to the gold standard because they have felt its effects. Since they sell at wholesale and buy at retail, they have lost more than they have gained by falling prices, and besides this they have found that certain fixed charges have not fallen at all. The farmer has thus found it more and more difficult to live. Has he not a just complaint against the gold standard?

"The wage-earners have been injured by the gold standard and have expressed themselves upon the subject with great emphasis. In February, 1895, a petition, asking for the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver, at 16 to 1, was signed by the representatives of all, or nearly all, the leading labor organizations and presented to Congress. Wage-earners know that, while a gold standard raises the purchasing power of the dollar, it also makes it more difficult to obtain possession of the dollar; they know that employment is less permanent, loss of work more probable, and re-employment less certain. A gold standard encourages the hoarding of money, because money is rising; it also discourages enterprise and paralyzes industry. On the other hand, the restoration of bi-metallism will discourage hoarding, because when prices are steady, or rising, money can not afford to lie idle in the bank vaults. The farmers and wage-earners together constitute a considerable majority of the people of the country. Why should their interests be ignored in considering financial legislation? A monetary system which is peculiarly advantageous to a few syndicates has far less to commend it than a system which gives hope and encouragement to those who create the nation's wealth.

"It is only necessary to note the increasing number of failures in order to know that a gold standard is ruinous to merchants and manufacturers. These business men do not make their profits from the people from whom they borrow money, but from the people to whom they sell their goods. If the people cannot buy, retailers cannot sell, and if retailers cannot sell, wholesale merchants and manufacturers must go into bankruptcy.

"Those who hold as a permanent investment the stock of railroads and of other enterprises are injured by a gold standard. The rising dollar destroys the earning power of these industries without reducing their liabilities, and as dividends cannot be paid until salaries and fixed charges have been satisfied, the stockholders must bear the burden of hard times. Salaries in business occupations depend upon business conditions, and the gold standard both lessens the amount and threatens the permanency of such salaries.

"The professional classes, in the main, derive their support from the producing classes, and can only enjoy prosperity when there is prosperity among those who create wealth. Hence it will be seen that a large portion of those who may find some pecuniary advantage in a gold standard will discover that their losses exceed their gains."

Mr. Bryan then quoted Senator Sherman's speech, delivered in 1869. When Mr. Sherman describes contraction of the currency as disastrous to all the people, except the capitalists, out of debt and those who stand in a position similar to his, he is stating a truth which must be apparent to every person who will give the matter careful consideration. Mr. Sherman was at that time speaking of the contraction of the volume of paper currency, but the principle which he set forth applies, if there is a contraction of the volume of the standard money of the world.

The Chicago platform presents a clear and emphatic demand for the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the aid of the consent of any other nation. When we ask that our mints be opened to the free and unlimited coinage of silver into full legal tender money, we are simply asking that the same mint privileges be accorded to silver that are now accorded to gold.

Under the bi-metallic system, gold and silver are linked together by law at a fixed ratio, and any person or persons owning any quantity of either metal can have the same converted into full legal tender money. If the creditor has the right to choose the metal in which payment shall be made it is reasonable to suppose that he will require the debtor to pay in the dearer metal, if there is any perceptible difference between the bullion values of the metals.

This new demand, creating a dearer metal, will make that metal dearer still, while the decreased demand for the cheaper metal will make that metal cheaper still.

If on the other hand the debtor exercises the option, it is reasonable to suppose that he will pay in the cheaper metal, if one metal is perceptibly cheaper than the other; but the demand thus created for the cheaper metal will raise its price, while the lessened demand for the dearer metal will lower its price. In other words, when the creditor has the option, the metals are drawn apart; whereas when the debtor has the option the metals are held together. Society is therefore interested in having the option exercised by the debtor. Indeed, there can be no such thing as real bi-metallism, unless the option is exercised by the debtor. The right of the debtor to choose the coin in which payment shall be made extends to obligations from the Government as well as to contracts between individuals. A Government obligation is simply a debt due from all the people to one of the people, and it is impossible to justify a policy which makes the interests of the one person who holds the obligation superior to the rights of the many who must be taxed to pay it.

It is assumed by some that greenbacks and treasury notes are responsible for the recent drain upon the gold reserve; but Mr. Bryan denied this and declared that the true cause was that they were redeemed at the option of the holder of the notes and not at the option of the Government, and it is impossible to estimate the amount which may hereafter be issued if this policy is continued. The Bank of France exercises the right to redeem all bank paper in either gold or silver, and yet France maintains the parity between gold and silver at the ratio of 15 1-2 to 1, and retains in circulation more silver per capita than we do in the United States.

There is an actual necessity for bi-metallism, as well as theoretical defence of it. The restoration of bi-metallism in the United States will take away from gold just so much of its purchasing power as was added to it by the demonetization of silver by the United States. The silver dollar is now held up to the old dollar by legal tender laws and not by redemption in gold, because the standard silver dollar is now redeemable in gold, either in law or by administrative policy.

Mr. Bryan closed with a greeting from the West to the East, and said he expected co-operation in the effort to bring about freedom of conscience, freedom of thought and freedom of speech. The United States should, he said, be an example in all that is good and the leading spirit in every movement which has for its object the uplifting of the human race.

Governor Stone then formally notified Mr. Sewall of his nomination for the Vice-Presidency, and spoke briefly, after which the meeting closed.

ANOTHER CRASH IN THE FOG.

The Steamer Neptune Driven Against the Bow of the Scandinavian in the St. Lawrence.

Quebec, Aug. 12.—Another disaster has occurred in the St. Lawrence below Quebec. The acident is entirely due to the heavy fog prevailing on the river. The SS. Neptune, Captain Allen, which sailed from here last night with a lumber cargo from Montreal and Quebec, collided with the Allan Line steamer Scandinavian, Captain McAdam, which left here yesterday, bound for Glasgow. The Neptune arrived here at about 8 o'clock to-night, and the correspondent interviewed Pilot Godbout.

The pilot states that the collision took place at 10 o'clock in the Lower Traverse, a channel running east and north half a mile wide. The Traverse is about three miles long with a six-knot current, and during springtide, which prevailed to-day, the current is much swifter. Pilot Godbout thought it advisable to anchor, but he would not make up his mind to let go anchor in such a strong current. Fog came on at the upper entrance of the channel as he was passing the upper lightship. He at once caused the engine to slow down and the vessel proceeded at very slow speed.

When the Neptune had run down about three-quarters the distance of the channel, the look-out man reported a bell off the starboard bow. As it is well known a bell is rung on board vessels at anchor during a fog to prevent collision, the vessel's course was altered to port and the vessel, a Black Diamond boat, lying at anchor, was passed. Another bell again off the starboard bow was reported, and Pilot Godbout ordered the helm to be put astarboard, but before the vessel had gone fifty feet distance a steamer's bow appeared about the starboard forerigging of the Neptune. This was the Scandinavian riding with two anchors out. The current carried the Neptune broadsides across the bows of the Allan Liner with a terrific force. Both vessels quivered from stem to stern. The engines of the Neptune were full speed astern when the vessel was sighted, but headway could not be slackened in time to avert the crash.

The Neptune has [illegible] cut fully fifteen feet wide and extending below the water line. The collision was so heavy [illegible] the port side opposite [illegible] out about six or se[illegible] tune kept on [illegible] astern of [illegible]

VENCEDOR IS SPEEDY.

She Had a Brush With Vivia at Cleveland.

Canada Defeated Zelma None Too Easily—Other Canadian Yachts Won—Bicycle Meet at Port Hope—Result of the Racing at Detroit—Hamilton Beats Guelph at Baseball—National League Record.

Cleveland, Aug. 12.—(Special.)—Vencedor, which is lying quite close to Canada in Cleveland harbor, went out with the racers to-day, and from the way in which she walked to weather of Vivia showed that she is no mean opponent for the Canada. The latter defeated Zelma not too easily.

Vencedor and Vreda sail to-day in the fifty-five foot class, and a line may then be taken on the former as the relative merits of Vreda and Canada are well known to Toronto yachtsmen. Vencedor was measured late last evening, and her dimensions have not yet been made public, but so far as one can tell by her appearance she is a much larger and more powerful boat than Canada.

Three classes of yachts were entered in the races to-day—46, 40 and 25-footers. In the 46-foot class the Canada won, Zelma second. The Vivia won in the 40-foot class and the Sybil in the 25-foot.

Winnipeg Four Won at Saratoga.

Saratoga, Aug. 12.—The opening day of the 24th annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen drew a good attendance to Saratoga Lake, where seven events on the program were rowed under fairly good weather conditions. The New York A.C. carried off two firsts—the intermediate eight-oared shell race and intermediate doubles. All the races to-day except the eight-oared were rowed one and a half miles, with a turn, both start and finish being opposite the bluff at the north end of the lake, and the whole course in plain view of the spectators.

Pair-oared shell race—Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia, 1 ; Pennsylvania Barge Club, Philadelphia, 2. Time 9.59½. Race protested ; awarded to Pennsylvania Barge Club.

Four-oared shell race, intermediate—Won by Ariel Boat Club, Baltimore ; Detroit Boat Club second. Time 9.11.

Single-sculls, first heat—Bush Thompson, Argonaut Rowing Club, Toronto, 1 ; Jos. J. Whitehead, Riverside B.C., Massachusetts, 2 ; W. S. McDowell, Delaware B.C., Chicago, 3. Time 10.18¾.

Second heat senior single-sculls—J. B. Juevenal, Pennsylvania Barge Club, 1 ; Fred Cresser, Vesper B.C., Philadelphia, 2 ; C. E. Bulger, Albany B.C., 3. Time 10.49.

Eight-oared shell, intermediate—New York A.C., 1 ; Laureate B.C., Troy, 2. Time 8.26.

Four-oared senior shell—Winnipeg R.C., Winnipeg, 1 ; Institute R.C., Newark, N.J., 2. Time 8.59½.

Intermediate double sculls—New York A. C. 1, Pennsylvania Barge Club 2. Time 9.21.

Foul breath is a discourager of affection. There are more reasons than one for this. Foul breath is always an indication of poor health—bad digestion. To bad digestion is traceable almost all human ills. It is the starting point of many very serious maladies. Upon the healthy action of the digestive organs, the blood depends for its richness and purity. If digestion stops, poisonous matter accumulates and is forced into the blood—there is no place else for it to go. Before this, the fermented, putrid matter has indicated its presence by making the breath foul, the complexion sallow and muddy, the eyes dull and the head heavy. By and by, the germ infected poisonous matter in the blood causes weakness or inflammation in some part of the body. A HEALTHFUL DRINK
MADDEN'S CEREAL

A DELICIOUS and HEALTHFUL DRINK.

We seldom charge our ill feelings to the true cause. CHEMISTRY proves that Coffee contains poisonous alkaloids, as in morphine, whiskey and tobacco. A SOUND, HEALTHY PERSON may be able to stand these for a time, but "a small leak sinks a big ship," and sooner or later indigestion, headache, torpid liver, weak heart, "weary, tired feeling" prove that the nervous system has been poisoned.

EVERY DAY, and perhaps every meal, the poisonous alkaloids of Coffee and Tea add fuel to the fire. Can you wonder that some organic disease is firmly seated? Health cannot return until you remove the cause. MADDEN CEREAL has the appearance of coffee, in color like Java or Mocha, and when cream is added it changes to a rich brown. A product made from blood-producing grains, it builds up, renews and makes red blood. REGULAR PACKAGE MAKES 100 CUPS. Grocers sell it at 25 cents. BICYCLE BENEFITS.

The gladness of the many who go spinning down the roads on wheels and who think nature's blunder was in not making wheels a part of man's anatomy, seems to bring sadness to other whose wares are no longer in such demand as before the invention of pneumatic tires and ball bearings. The enthusiastic being who has his bicycle cares for little else than good roads and fair weather—about the sum of his imperitive needs is a cheap suit of outing clothes, a cyclometer and a place to lay his weary body at night. This sudden restriction of his demands and the putting of his $100 into a wheel are said to have caused a serious disturbance of the industry and commerce of the world. We are asked not only to sympathize with those who no longer sell their goods because people buy wheels with their money, but also to feel alarm over what is called the virtual waste of $100,000,000 in five years for mere pleasure. Instead of buying watches which promote promptness and which have an intrinsic value, and pianos for the cultivation of a divine art and the disturbance of unmusical neighbors, and various other useful things; instead of living well and learning good morals at the theatres, people whose means are limited save their money in order to purchase bicycles with which to run down stout persons and baby carriages. The engaged or newly married couples no longer use their small savings to add to the furnishing of a home, but to buy tandems. Industrial enterprises long established and counting on certain net profits are forced to the wall for lack of patronage.

However deplorable all this may appear to be, the benefits surely exceed the harm. There is no enthusiasm that takes such absolute possession of young and old as the bicycle enthusiasm. Men and women will do for a wheel what they would never do for torture. Above everything they will economize, giving up their dearest and most deeply rooted vices. The result is that persons who never before owned a single article that cost $100 have their wheels of the latest model. Probably more than half of those who have spent $100,000,000 for bicycles in the past five years had to economize severely to pay their share. This means an average saving of many millions a year by persons few of whom ever saved anything before. To them are opened pleasures such as they never experienced, never hoped for and would never have had but for the bicycle enthusiasm. The coming of the wheel has worked a revolution in the lives of hundreds of thousands, physically, morally and socially—for the formation of bicycle clubs has brought to many opportunities for pleasant and profitable acquaintance.

The industrial consequences are not as serious as they are sometimes represented to be. Thousands of mechanics who were idle or working on short time and low wages, easily adapt themselves to the work of constructing bicycles. In spite of many failures of wheel works, owing to a lack of capital or sharp competition or whatever the cause may be, a large number of bicycle establishments run two forces of men and work day and night in order to meet the demand for their product. More machinists are helped than hurt by the change. The falling off of business in many lines has been followed by an increase of business in lines that are related to the bicyle business. The best thing of all is that habits of thrift have been established. Men and women have found how easy and how satisfying it is to save money by denying themselves things that are not necessary to their happiness. They do not stop saving when their wheels are paid for. They are not going to do without watches long or without other useful things. They have learned how to economize, and this will enable them to buy more watches than were ever bought before. In the meantime the watch factories can keep their fires going for the making of cyclometers. Considering this fact, that the enthusiasm for bicycles has taught hundreds of thousands how to save money, it may be said that the coming of the wheel has done more for mankind than any other invention of modern times.

Revival of Trade.

Reports from the United States support the view that trade interests have vastly improved recently and that the business outlook for the future is encouraging. This will be welcome news to the people of Canada, since our own trade interest will be stimulated and improved. In nothing has this improvement been shown in a more marked way than in the increased sales of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Times being dull everything not absolutely needed became a luxury, and its sale became stationary. Now it is different. Sales have increased vastly, doubtless as it has proven the only safe, sure, and painless remedy for corns, and wise people will use no other.

TIME AND ETERNITY.

REV. DR. TALMAGE TELLS WHEN THEY BEGIN AND END.

The Gospel of Good Cheer For the Sorrowing at the Close of Life's Day—Word Pictures of the Lengthening Shadows.

Washington, Aug. 9.—Dr. Talmage's subject to-day lights up the sorrows of this life and sounds the gospel of good cheer for all who will receive it. His text was Luke xxiv, 29, "Abide with us, for it is toward evening."

Two villagers, having concluded their errand in Jerusalem, have started out at the city gate and are on their way to Emmaus, the place of their residence. They go with a sad heart. Jesus, who had been their admiration and their joy, had been basely massacred and entombed. As with sad face and broken heart they pass on their way, a stranger accosts them. They tell him their anxieties and bitterness of soul. He in turn talks to them, mightily expounding the Scriptures. He throws over them the fascination of intelligent conversation. They forget the time and notice not the objects they pass and before they are aware they have come up in front of their house. They pause before the entrance and attempt to persuade the stranger to tarry with them. They press upon him their hospitalities. Night is coming on and he may meet a prowling wild beast or be obliged to lie unsheltered from the dew. He cannot go much farther now. Why not stop there and continue their pleasnt conversation? They take him by the arm and insist upon his coming in, addressing him in the words, "Abide with us, for it is toward evening."

The candles are lighted, the table is spread, pleasant socialities are enkindled. They rejoice in the presence of the stranger guest. He asks a blessing upon the bread they eat, and he hand a piece of it to each. Suddenly and with overwhelming power the thought flashes upon the astonished people—it is the Lord! And as they sit in breathless wonder, looking upon the resurrected body of Jesus, he vanished. The interview ended. He was gone.

With many of us it is a bright, sunshiny day of prosperity. There is not a cloud in the sky, not a leaf rustling in the forest, no chill in the air. But we cannot expect all this to last. He is not an intelligent man who expects perpetual daylight of joy. The sun will set after awhile near the horizon. The shadows will lengthen. While I speak, many of us stand in the very hour described in the text, "for it is toward evening." The request of the text is appropriate for some before me. For with them it is toward the evening of old age. They have passed the meridian of life. They are sometimes startled to think how old they are. They do not, however, like to have others remark upon it. If others suggest their approximation toward venerable appearance they say, "Why, I'm not so old after all." They do, indeed, notice that they cannot lift quite so much as once. They cannot walk quite so fast. They cannot read quite so well without spectacles. They cannot so easily recover from a cough or any occasional ailment. They have lost their taste for merriment. They are surprised at the quick passage of the year. They say that it only seems a little while ago that they were boys. They are going a little down hill. There is something in their health, something in their vision, something in their walk, something in their changing associations, something above, something beneath, something within, to remind them that it is toward evening.

The great want of all such is to have Jesus abide with them. It is a dismal thing to be getting old without the rejuvenating influence of religion. When we step on the down grade of life and see that it dips to the verge of the cold river, we want to behold some one near who will help us across it. When the sight loses its power to glance and gather up, we need the faith that can illumine. When we feel the failure of the ear, we need the clear tones of that voice which in the olden time broke up the silence of the deaf with cadence of mercy. When the axmen of death hew down whole forests of strength and beauty around us and we are left in solitude, we need the dove of divine mercy to sing in our branches. When the shadows begin to fall and we feel that the day is far spent, we need most of all to supplicate the strong, beneficent Jesus in the prayer of the villagers, "Abide with us, for it is toward evening."

The request of the text is an appropriate exclamation for all those who are approached in the gloomy hour of temptation. There is nothing easier than to be good natured when everything pleases, or to be humble when there is nothing to oppose us, forgiving when we have no inducement to fraud. But you have felt the grapple of some temptation. Your nature at some time quaked and groaned under the infernal force. You felt that the devil was after you. You saw your Christian graces retreating. You feared that you would fall in the awful wrestle with sin and be thrown into the dust. The gloom thickened. The first indications of the night were seen in all the trembling of your soul. In all the infernal suggestions of satan, in all the surging up of tumultuous passions and excitements, you felt with awful emphasis that it was toward evening. In the tempted hour you need to ask Jesus to abide with you. You can beat back the monster that would devour you. You can unhorse the sin that would ride you down. You can sharpen the battleax with which you split the head of helmeted abomination. Who helped Paul shake the brazen gated heart of Felix? Who acted like a good sailor when all the crew howled in the Mediterranean shipwreck? Who helped the martyrs to be firm when one word of recantation would have unfastened the withes of the stake and put out the kindling fire? When the night of the soul came on and all the denizens of darkness came riding upon the winds of perdition, who gave strength to the soul? Who gave calmness to the heart? Who broke the spell of infernal enchantment? He who heard the request of the villagers, "Abide with us, for it is toward evening."

One of the forts of France was attacked, and the outworks were taken before night. The besieging army lay down, thinking there was but little to do in the morning, and that the soldiery in the fort could be easily made to surrender. But during the night, through a back stairs, they escaped into the country. In the morning the besieging army sprang upon the battlements, but found that their prey was gone. So, when we are assaulted in temptation, there is always some secret stair by which we might get off. God will not allow us to be tempted above what we are able, but with every temptation will bring a way of escape that we may be able to bear it.

The prayer of the text is appropriate for all who are anticipating sorrow. The greatest folly that ever grew on this planet is the tendency to borrow trouble. But there are times when approaching sorrow is so evident that we needed to be making special preparation for its coming.

One of your children has lately become a favarite. The cry of that child strikes deeper into the heart than the cry of all the others. You think more of it. You give it more attention, not because it is any more of a treasure than the others, but because it is becoming frail. There is something in the cheek, in the eye and in the walk that makes you quite sure that the leaves of the flower are going to be scattered. The utmost nursing and medical attendance are ineffectual. The pulse becomes feeble, the complexion lighter, the step weaker, the laugh fainter. No more romping for that one through hall and parlor. The nursery is darkened by an approaching calamity. The heart feels with mournful anticipation that the sun is going down. Night speeds on. It is toward evening.

You have long rejoiced in the care of a mother. You have done everything to make her last days happy. You have run with quick feet to wait upon her every want. Her presence has been a perpetual blessing in the household. But the fruit gatherers are looking wistfully at that tree. Her soul is ripe for heaven. The gates are ready to flash open for her entrance. But your soul sinks at the thought of a separation. You cannot bear to think that soon you will be called to take the last look at that face which from the first hour has looked upon you with affection unchangeable. But you see that life is ebbing and the grave will soon hide her from your sight. You sit quiet. You feel heavy hearted. The light is fading from the sky. The air is chill. It is toward evening.

You had a considerable estate and felt independent. In five minutes on one fair balance sheet you could see just how you stood in the world. But there came complications. Something that you imagined impossible happened. The best friend you had proved traitor to your interests. A sudden crash of national misfortunes prostrated your credit. You may to-day be going on in business, but you feel anxious about where you are standing, and fear that the next turning of the wheel will bring you prostrate. You foresee what you consider certain defalcation. You think of the anguish of telling your friends you are not worth a dollar. You know not how you will ever bring your children home from school. You wonder how you will stand the selling of your library or the moving into a plainer house. The misfortunes of life have accumulated. You wonder what makes the sky so dark. It is toward evening.

Trouble is an apothecary that mixes a great many drafts, bitter and sour and nauseous, and you must drink some one of them. Trouble puts up a great many packs, and you must carry some one of them. There is no sandal so thick and well adjusted but some thorn will strike through it. There is no sound so sweet but the undertaker's screwdriver grates through it. In this swift shuttle of the human heart some of the threads must break. The journey from Jerusalem to Emmaus will soon be ended. Our Bible, our common sense, our observation, reiterate in tones that we cannot mistake and ought not to disregard. It is toward evening.

Oh, then, for Jesus to abide with us. He sweetens the cup. He extracts the thorn. He wipes the tear. He hushes the tempest. He soothes the soul that flies to Him for shelter. Let the night swoop and the euroclydon cross the sea. Let the thunders roar. Soon all will be well. Christ in the ship to soothe His friends. Christ on the sea to stop its tumult. Christ in the grave to scatter the darkness. Christ in the heavens to lead the way. Blessed all such. His arms will inclose them, His grace comfort them, His light cheer them, His sacrifice free them, His glory enchant them. If earthly estate take wings. He will be an incorruptible treasure. If friends die, He will be their resurrection. Standing with us in the morning of our joy and in the noonday of our prosperity, he will not forsake us when the luster has faded and it is toward evening.

Listen to Paul's battle shout with misfortune. Hark to mounting Latimer's fire song. Look at the glory that has reft the dungeon and filled the earth and heavens with the crash of the falling manacles of despotism. And then look at those who have tried to cure themselves by human prescriptions, attempting to heal gangrene with a patch of court plaster and to stop the plague of dying empires with the quackery of earthly wisdom. Nothing can speak peace to the soul, nothing can unstrap our crushing burdens, nothing can overcome spiritual foes, nothing can open our eyes to see the surrounding horses and chariots of salvation that fill all the mountains, but the voice and command of Him who stopped one night at Emmaus.

The words of the text are pentinent to us all, from the fact that we are nearing the evening of death. I have heard it said that we ought to live as though each moment were to be our last. I do not believe that theory. As far as preparation is concerned we ought always to be ready, but we cannot always be thinking of death, for we have duties in life that demand our attention. When a man is selling goods, it is his business to think of the bargain he is making. When a man is pleading in the courts, it is his duty to think of the interests of his clients. When a clerk is adding up his accounts, it is his duty to keep his mind upon the column of figures. He who fills up his life with thoughts of death is far from being the highest style of Christian. I knew a man who used often to say at night "I wish I might die before morning!" He became an infidel.

But there are times when we can and ought to give ourselves to the contemplation of that solemn moment when to the soul time ends and eternity begins. We must go through that one pass. There is no roundabout way, no bypath, no circuitous route. Die we must, and it will be to us a shameful occurrence or a time of admirable behavior. Our friends may stretch out their hands to keep us back, but no imploration on their part can hinder us. They might offer large retainers, but death would not take the fee. The breath will fail, and the eyes will close, and the heart will stop. You may hang the couch with gorgeous tapestry, but what does death care for beautiful curtains? You may hang the room with the finest works of art, but what does death care for pictures? You may fill the house with the wailings of widowhood and orphanage—does death mind weeping?

This ought not to be a depressing theme. Who wants to live here forever? The world has always treated me well, and every day I feel less and less like scolding and complaining. Bu yet I would not want to make my eternal residence. I love the clouds and bathe my so blue sea of heaven. But I exp the firmament is rolled away scroll to see a new heaven, gr higher and more glorious. You to be willing to exchange your bo that has headaches and sideaches a weaknesses innumerable that limps with the stone bruise, or festers with the thorn, or flames on the funera pyre of fevers, for an incorruptibl body and an eye that blinks not befora the jasper gates and the great whi throne. But between that and th there is an hour about which no m should be reckless or foolhardy. doubt not your courage, but I tell that you will want something than a strong arm, a good a trusty sword when you com last battle. You will nee robe than any you have i robe to keep you warm

Circumstances do not make so much difference. It may be a bright day when you push off from the planet, or it may be a dark night and while the owl is hooting from the forest. It may be spring, and your soul may go out among the blossoms, apple orchards swinging their censers in the way. It may be winter and the earth in a snow shroud. It may be autumn, and the forests set on fire by the retreating year, dead nature laid out in state. It may be with your wife's hand in your hand or you may be in a strange hotel with a servant faithful to the last. It may be in the rail train, shot off the switch and tumbling in long reverberation down the embankment—crash, crash! I know not the time. I know not the mode. But the days of our life are being subtracted away and we shall come down to the time when we have but ten days, then nine days, then eight days, then seven days, then six days, then five days, then four days, then three days, then two days, then one day. Then hours—three hours, two hours, one hour. Then only minutes left—five minutes, four minutes, three minutes, two minutes, one minute. Then only seconds left—four seconds, three seconds, two seconds, one second. Gone! The chapter of life ended! The book closed! The pulse at rest! The feet through with the journey! The hands closed from all work. No word on the lips. No breath in the nostrils. Hair combed back to be undisheveled by any human hands. The muscles still. The nerves still. The lungs still. The tongue still. All still. You might put the stethoscope to the breast and hear no sound. You might put a speaking trumpet to the ear, but you could not wake the deafness. No motion. No throb. No life. Still, still!

So death comes to the disciple. What if the sun of life is about to set? Jesus is the dayspring from on high; the perpetual morning of every ransomed spirit. What if the darkness comes? Jesus is the light of the world and of heaven. What though this earthly house does crumble? Jesus has prepared a house of many mansions. Jesus is the anchor that always holds. Jesus is the light that is never eclipsed. Jesus is the fountain that is never exhausted. Jesus is the evening star, hung up amid the gloom of the gathering night!

You are almost through with the abuse and backbiting of enemies. They will call you no more by evil names. Your good deeds will no longer be misinterpreted nor your honor flched. The troubles of earth will end in the felicities! Toward evening! The bereavements of earth will soon be lifted. You will not much longer stand pouring your grief in the tomb, like Rachel weeping for her children or David mourning for Absalom. Tears wiped away. Sorrows terminated. No more sounding of the dead march. Toward evening! Death will come sweet as slumber to the eyelids of the babe, as full rations to a starving soldier, as evenin to the exhausted work- take on its sunset psalm, every ests trans- air.

THEY WANT COLD STORAGE.

Mr. Laurier and His Colleagues Heard a Number of Delegations at Montreal Yesterday.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—(Special.)—Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. Sidney Fisher and Hon. R. Dobell arrived in the city to-day, and were interviewed by several organizations regarding cold storage on rail and steamers. Those who took part in the conversation with the Ministers are as follows: D. M. McPherson of Lancaster, President of the Dominion Dairy Association; Mr. David Rogers, M.P., Frontenac, representing the Board of Patrons of Industry of Ontario; Mr. McDonald, representing Patrons; Mr. John McKergow, representing the Butter and Cheese Association; Mr. J. De LaTache, director of the Quebec Dairymen's Association; Mr. Dunlop, secretary of the Fruit Growers' Association of Quebec; Mr. Henry Wade, Toronto, President of the Eastern Dairymen's Association of Ontario; Mr. D. Derbyshire, President of the Ontario Creamery Association; Mr. R. G. Murphy, secretary of the Eastern Dairymen's Association; Mr. M. K. Everett, representing Brockville Dairymen's Board of Trade; Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, representing the Board of Patrons of the Province of Quebec and P.E.I.; Mr. Walter Smith, representing the Grand Board of the Patrons of Industry of the Province of Quebec.

Strong pleas were entered for cold storage in cars and on board of ocean steamers. The Premier and his colleagues listened to all that was said, and informed the members of the deputation that their representations would have the serious consideration of the Ministry.

THE ENGLISH FOUR IN FRONT

SOME SPLENDID RACING AT THE SECOND DAY'S REGATTA.

The Sailing Skiffs Made Exciting Races—Several Mishaps—The Punt Races—The Four-Oared Race Was Exciting—The Evening's Programme—Events This Morning.

The weather on the second day of the regatta was bright and smiling, but no more suitable for sculling in fine boats than was that of the day before; for a strong wind from the south-west blew slantingly across the course, which, in fact, had to be altered by placing a new set of marks far to the northward of the former line, so that the oarsmen would have the wind up and down the course—"on end," as they term it.

Being a half holiday, the attendance was very large. It is estimated that the sport was witnessed by not less than 4,000 people, who thronged every point of vantage as was the case on the day before, and crowded steamers, schooners, yachts, sailing skiffs and row-boats. On the stand were probably 1,000 persons. In fact, the face of the water presented a brilliant and enlivening spectacle. All that was lacking was smooth water, but that persistently refused to come, and the audience bore disappointment with the philosophical remark that nobody could control the elements—on the Bay of Quinte, at any rate.

If the weather was unsuitable for racing in shells, however, it was very good indeed for the sailing races. The for local skiffs and canoes up to 20 ft. water line was first called. Following are the entries, with their corrected length expressed in feet:

	ft.
Ma Belle—G. Hulme	16.00
——— Hamilton	14.09
Canoe—G. Thompson	14.05
Roma—J. Wallbridge	14.00
Montauk—F. W. Burrows	14.00
——— W. Larue	12.08

The course was triangular, namely from off the end of the Grand Junction wharf to a flag off Rossmore, thence to a flag off Fairman's Island and back to the starting point twice around. One gun to get ready; second gun 5 m. later to start. The breeze was fresh from the south-west but the start was a straggling one, instead of being sharp and seamanlike. MaBelle, which had much the best of the start, turned the south buoy 2 minutes ahead of the Roma, with the Hamilton boat next and the others strung out. Roma, which was going well and seemingly closing the gap between her and the leader, suddenly took a knock down and a moment later capsized and was out of it. Ma Belle made a mistake at the second mark and Hamilton turned it ahead of her. It was a hard thrash back to the starting point, in which Hamilton gained. Just before coming about for the starting point, Hamilton got in trouble with his jigger, the sheet of which got lost and then she fouled the dinghey of the yacht Madge, which big blundering box lay at anchor in the way, despite the efforts of the judges to get her clear of the course. MaBelle thus got a long lead. Meantime the Roma's crew had been picked up by the Annie Lake. Hamilton's skiff became disabled near the Rossmore mark and retired, leaving it virtually a walk over for MaBelle, which finished at 4:20. Larue followed at 4:35; and Montauk at 4:43. The accidents are much to be regretted, as the winner would have been hard pressed by Roma and Hamilton.

Following is the record of the race:

	Start.	1st Round.	Finish
1. G. C. Hulme's "MaBelle"	3:32:00	4:00:00	4:20:06
2. W. Larue's skiff	3:34:00	4:05:00	4:35:00
3. F. W. Burrow's "Montauk"	3:34:00	4:06:10	4:43:00
0. L. H. Hamilton	3:34:00	4:01:00	drop out
0. J.E. Wallbridge's	3:34:00	capsized

THE PUNT RACE.

This contest was productive of the usual amusement, the manœuvres before the start being full of excitement to the tars themselves. The starters were Sol. Mouck, E. Caton, W. Andrews, W. Mathieson and J. Whelan. The course was from the front of the grand stand to a flag a mile south-east, twice around. Mouck won by 45s. from Andrews, who made a big gain on the second round. Some very good work was done by the "square-toed" fellows, and these uncouth looking craft made excellent weather of it. Andrews made a great gain upon Caton's big craft in the second round. The record is as follows:

1. Sol Mouck's "Quinte Girl"	4:20:00	4:41:00	5:02:30
2. E. Caton's "Sawdust Maid"	4:20:00	4:47:30	5:03:15
3. F. Andrew's "Tornado"	4:20:00	4:42:10	5:05:00
4. J. A. Matheson's "Sidney Girl"	4:20:00	4:46:00	5:07:00

THE PROFESSIONAL FOURS.

At 5:30 the wind had gone down considerably and the swell had subsided sufficiently to allow the scullers to start. W. H. Biggar, M. P. P., Referee, called out the professional four-oars for their race of ¾ of a mile with turn for a purse of $100. At 6:15 the two crews entered pulled out to the starting line, where they were delayed a few minutes while the police boat cleared the course. There was much speculation on the part of the spectators as to the two crews' chances of success and opinions were about evenly divided. There was very little betting and even money was the rule. The Canadian-American crew appeared confident and smiled their recognition to friends on the grand stand, while the Englishmen presented a stolid indifference to their surroundings. The crews were seated as follows: In the English boat Bubear was stroke, Gibson No. 3, Barry No. 2 and Haines bow; in the Canadian-American boat J. Hackett was stroke, Rogers No. 3, Hanlan No. 2 and Durnan bow.

Everything being in readiness the two boats took their positions on the line. At the report of the starting gun both crews caught the water together, but the Canadian-American crew's first stroke was not very effective and the Englishmen gained a slight advantage which, however, the other crew soon made up. The Englishmen pulled 44 strokes to the minute at the start and the Canadians contented themselves with 41. The steering of both crews on the way to the turning point was not good, but the Englishmen kept nearer to the line. From the stand it looked as though the Canadians began to turn a few seconds ahead. When the boats straightened away for home both crews steered well and it was a pretty race to the finish. The Canadians splashed a great deal, while the Englishmen pulled a clean, strong stroke and slowly but surely pulled away from the other boat. At a hundred yards from the finish the Canadians were two lengths behind and put on a final spurt to overhaul the Englishmen, but the latter had the race well in hand and crossed the line in the good time of 11m 16 2-5s. The Canadians crossed the line 11m 21s from the start, a length and a half behind the English crew. The turn was made 5m 15s from the start.

The winning crew were loudly cheered as they crossed the line and the steamers about the line saluted them with a whistle chorus. The Englishmen appeared quite fresh, while the Canadians had the appearance of being blown. The race was a pretty and exciting one throughout and there was no certainty in it till the crews were within two hundred yards of the finish.

This race closed the afternoon's programme and the spectators hurried away to their suppers.

How They Saw It.

The English and the Canadian crews, on being seen after their return to the boat house, agreed on only three points in connection with the race, which were that the water was rough, that the course was a long three-quarters of a mile, and that the Englishmen won. Hanlan, who was first seen, said that his crew were two lengths ahead at the turn, but that the English crew gained three lengths in turning. Bubear, the English stroke, said his crew were half a length behind at the turn, and that they gained two lengths in turning, which lead they held to the end, no material gain being made by either crew on the return. A simple calculation, by time and distance, shows that the losers were a length and a half behind at the finish.

The specialties during the afternoon in front of the grand stand were varied and afforded splendid amusement. James E Hardy, the intrepid young wire walker, performed several daring feats on the elevated wire, such as standing on his head, lying on his back, walking backward and forward blindfolded and other clever tricks. His performance was very clever and he is undoubtedly able to fulfil all he claims to do.

The Venetian Carnival.

The Amusement Committee have every reason to be proud, and are to be congratulated upon the success of last evening's entertainment. Everything that could be done for the entertaining of the spectators was done, and nothing occurred to mar the proceedings. Shortly after 8 o'clock the steam yacht Curlew left the harbor, having in tow a flotilla of row and sailing boats, which were artistically decorated with Chinese lanterns, bunting and streamers. The scene as they circled around the bay was indeed an inspiring one. At intervals colored lights were displayed and fireworks set off, which did much to make a brilliant spectacle, and one which delighted the large crowd present. Fireworks of various designs and brilliancy were discharged at the north-east end of the grand stand, making a pretty spectacle.* In front of the centre of the grand stand upon a large barge a varied and excellent programme was carried out. The barge had been artically decorated for the occasion with evergreen, bunting and flags. It was well lighted with two locomotive head lights and a large number of Chinese lanterns were also displayed. The scene was one which had never before been seen in this section of the country. The I.O.O.F. silver band were present and enlivened the proceedings with their fine selections. In front of the grand stand the bay was covered with various craft. The steamer Armenia came up from Deseronto with a large excursion party, and had on board the Deseronto band, which discoursed a number of selections whilst sailing about the harbor.

The programme upon the barge was opened up by a selection from the I.O.O.F. band. Mr. Geo. Fax was next called upon and gave one of his songs in his usual fine style and was compelled to respond to an encore. Mr. E. W. Bensley gave an excellent performance upon the slack wire, demonstrating that he is without doubt a peer in his profession. His every manoeuvre was done with grace and ease and at the conclusion he was loudly applauded. He also gave an exhibition of balancing a barrel, and revolving it upon his feet.

James E. Hardy, the noted high rope walker, gave an exhibition which pleased all. Although the light was dim in the air where he performed his feats he nevertheless did them in such a manner as to win the admiration of all. He is without doubt one of the best in his profession, and well earned the applause which greeted him at the conclusion.

Mr. Jas. Bensley gave an exhibition of balancing upon a pyramid of bottles, which astonished the spectators. As was announced at the entertainment he is without doubt the cleverest performer in this specialty and has no superior if any equal. This part of the performance was most interesting.

Mr. Geo. Fax was again called upon and sang two comic songs. The band then played the National Anthem and the delightful entertainment was brought to a close.

THIS MORNING EVENTS.

In order to clear up the programme of events left over from previous days the Programme Committee decided last evening to pull off three events this morning, the amateur singles, professional doubles and the sailing race for the half-rater class. There were about three hundred spectators on the stand when the half-raters were sent off at 11 o'clock.

At 11:15 the amateur single scullers were called out for a race of ¾ mile with turn for gold medals valued at $30 and $15, and two seniors, J. A. Russell, of the Toronto Rowing Club, and L. Marsh, of the Don Rowing Club, Toronto, faced the line. Russell was the favorite The two were sent off with little delay and both caught the water almost at the same instant. Marsh pulled much the clearer stroke and steered a better course than Russell, who pulls a short choppy oar and was very erratic in his steering. It was a procession to the turning buoy—¾ mile from the starting line—and Marsh went around about two lengths ahead. On the way home Russell pulled up on the leader and it looked as though he would win, but Marsh fought him off and crossed the line a short length ahead in 1:58½.

There was quite a swell near the turning buoys and this interfered considerably with the oarsmen, but the time, 11:58½, for amateurs is considered quite fast pulling.

Only two boats entered for the half-rater race, namely Ionyia, owned by Bert Saulter, of Toronto, and Zephyr, owned by H. L. Reynolds, of Picton. The course was triangular, mile legs, twice around, 6 miles in all, for prizes of $40 and $10. The boats did some clever manœuvring at the line for the windward. Shortly after the start the Ionyia drew up on the Zephyr, and to prevent the former from passing the latter luffed and fell across the course, causing a foul. The Zephyr reached the buoy at Rossmore first and finished the first round 30 sec. ahead. She gained gradually until she was about a minute ahead at the buoy at Fairman's Island, but shortly after turning on the last leg she fell into a calm and the Ionyia passed her and crossed the line 1 sec. ahead, but the Zephyr will probably be given the race on time allowance.

Notes.

Prof. Rice gave his exhibitions of sculling again and was loudly applauded. His feat of walking on the water also took well.

The greasy pole walking by men and boys furnished a lot of amusement.

The number of rowboats and other small craft at the starting point was almost bewildering. One would hardly believe there were so many small boats in the city.

One of the most welcome visitors is Mr. Levy, Secretary of the Lake Sailing Skiff Association, who cheerfully undertook the work of computing the time allowances, and assisted the starters and timers in an efficient manner.

The admission to the grand stand this evening will be 15 cents and the programme will be better than last evening, owing to the fact that every defect will be overcome.

A lad named Perkins, whilst walking the pole extending out over the water, fell off and sustained a severe wound in the breast by coming in contact with a nail.

There is a big fleet of sailing craft of all descriptions in the harbor. The Picton Skiff Sailing Club have several very pretty boats and they are fast ones too.

The Merritt and Hero both brought large excursions from down the bay to-day.

The street cars are doing a land office business these days and are giving good service.

The candy booths have not made a fortune yet, but they are living in hopes of better days.

Men's $5 Suits.

This is a very low price for a suit of clothes, and yet the Oak Hall can fit you out at this price in a suit that will surprise you for fit, finish and wear. One thing sure, our clothing is the best and our $5 suits are equal to anything offered in Belleville at $7 and $8. If you don't believe us take a look around and see for yourself.

ENGLAND'S GREAT PAINTER DEAD.

Sir John Millais' Succumbs to Cancer of the Throat.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Sir John Millais, President of the Royal Academy, died this afternoon. On May 10 last he underwent the operation of tracheotomy for the relief of a cancer of the throat, and never fully rallied from its effects.

THE ACCIDENT TO THE VANCOUVER.

A Passenger's Description of it.

We have been permitted to publish a letter received yesterday evening from Miss Johnson, of Chicago, who was a passenger on the S.S. Vancouver.

S. S. Vancouver, Monday noon.—You will be surprised to hear that instead of being on our way across the Atlantic we are very slowly steaming back up the river to Quebec with a hole in the steamer's bow that you could drive a team through. I went to bed early last night after finishing my letter to you, but was awakened about midnight by a terrible crash, which made the boat tremble and quiver like a leaf. I jumped up, got something on me as quickly as possible and went on deck to see what had struck us. Everything was to me confusion and excitement. Some of the passengers thought the ship would settle to the bottom in an hour. However, I met a gentleman who said that she was struck in the bow, but not below water mark, and as there was no sea on he did not think that she would ship water to any great extent before morning. However the lifeboats were all swung out ready for any emergency, and are still hanging over the side. We are creeping along very slowly, but all excitement is quieted down. Like all the passengers, I was terribly frightened, but did not lose my presence of mind, as did many of the men on board. One old gentleman rushed on deck clad in his night-robes and life preserver around his waist. How long he expected to keep from freezing I don't know, for it was very cold.

The time being midnight and a dense fog, all added to the terrors of the hour, but, thank God, no lives were lost, although a couple of the sailors in their bunks in the forecastle had a marvellous escape.

Quebec, Tuesday, 7:30 a.m.—I have just been off to take a look at our ship, and it is the worst looking smash you ever saw. Anchors, windlass and about twenty feet of the ship carried clear away. Thank God I have quite recovered from the fright and am very well.

HASTINGS GOLD REGION.

Cheering News—The English Syndicate at Work on the Deloro Mines—They Will Operate on a Large Scale.

From a gentleman who has been for some years intimately connected with mining matters in North Hastings and who is eminently qualified to judge of such things, we learned yesterday that an English syndicate has purchased the Deloro mine with the intention of working it on a large scale in the near future. In fact they have an expert on the ground at present, have pumped out the main shaft, and are preparing to operate the mine. One of the chief promoters of the syndicate has sailed from England and will soon be on the ground. The company who have taken up the industry are men of wide experience in mining matters and have unlimited capital. They have secured options on between 10,000 and 12,000 acres of mining land in North Hastings and are looking out for more. The company have had the property purchased examined by several famous experts, and are well satisfied with the result. Indications point to a boom in the near future to the mining industry in North Hastings.

Gloom

Of ill health, despondency and despair, gives way to the sunshine of hope, happiness and health, upon taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it gives renewed life and vitality to the blood, and through that imparts nerve strength, vigor and energy to the whole body. Read this letter: "Hood's Sarsaparilla helped me wonderfully, changed sickness to health, gloom to sunshine. No pen can describe what I suffered. I was deathly sick, had sick headaches every few days and those terrible tired, despondent feelings, with heart troubles so that I could not go up and down stairs without clasping my hand over my heart and resting. In fact, it would almost take my breath away. I suffered so I did not care to live, yet I had much to live for. There is no pleasure in life if deprived of health, for life becomes a burden. Hood's Sarsaparilla does far more than advertised. After taking one bottle, it is sufficient to recommend itself." MRS. THE OBJECTIONS OVERRULED

Mr. Justice Ferguson Says the Petitions Were Filed With the Proper Person.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 13.—Justice Ferguson this afternoon gave judgment on the preliminary objections to the election protests in West Toronto and London. He found that Mr. Holmstead, Registrar of the Chancery Division, with whom the petitions were filed, was the proper official with whom to file the petitions, and therefore dismissed both motions to have the petitions set aside.

Mr. Bristol, for the respondents in the petitions, gave notice that he would appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada against the decision.

Death of Mrs. H. E. Holden.

After an illness extending over a period of four months Mrs. Martha A. Holden, widow of H. E. Holden, died at an early hour this morning. The cause of death was rheumatic fever. The deceased was born in the city 33 years ago, being the youngest daughter of the late ex-Mayor W. A. Foster. Mr. Holden died a few years ago, being an insurance agent. Three young children, two boys and a girl, are left to mourn the loss of a loving mother. Deceased was widely known as a lady of estimable character and her demise will be regretted by a host of friends. The funeral will take place on Saturday at 2:30 to St. Thomas' church.

Mr. Legate, Traveller for McCormack & Co., London, says: "Miller's Compound Iron Pills restored me to health after a month of prostration from nervous shock and loss of blood." He says, "Their effect on me was simply marvellous; people say they never saw me looking so well." Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st,

KING OR KNAVE?

"You may as well shake hands," said Marion, coldly. "Of course, I can't go away without saying good-bye. And of course I can't stay where where——"

"Where?" asked the doctor himself, with a pleasant smile. "And what, as well? What did I hear about good-bye?"

Had he not occupied the doorway, Marion would have left the room at once, leaving Mrs. Snell to explain, and have got her things ready for starting by the time that the explanation was over. As it was, however, she could only retreat to the new mirror over the fireplace, and turn her back upon any storm that was to come.

And it did come. She saw in the mirror the doctor's pleasant smile suddenly turn into a singularly ugly and unpleasant one.

"Julia," said he, "they don't build thick walls in Piggot's Town, and I heard every word. This young lady's father has placed her under my protection; and she shan't be insulted by you, if you were fifty wives. As if I—a gentleman, if ever there was one—would take advantage of a beautiful and charming girl; as if a young lady like Miss Marion—but what's the good of arguing with a born fool! No, Miss Furness—you shall not be driven away. This home is yours; and if you go, then—mark my words, Mrs. Wyndham Snell—I go too. There, Miss Furness, you can't say the age of chivalry is dead. I'm your friend; and—halloa?"

"Let me pass, if you please," said Marion, sweeping past him, neither he nor she knew how.

CHAPTER VII.

NUMBER SEVENTEEN.

"Well—and why not?" asked John Heron, in his hearty way.

Guy Derwent was so taken aback at seeing the Marchgrave banker in the tap-room of the Green Cheese, Blink Lane, that he failed to perceive how John Heron had seemed for a moment the more startled of the two; for he had indeed given a gasp of breath, and had glanced hurriedly and anxiously round the room before becoming himself again.

"I don't know why not but all the same you're the last man I dreamed of meeting here," said Guy.

"You're another, if it comes to that," said John Heron. "I should have thought there was nobody I was less likely to meet in a place like this than you."

"Don't you remember—this was the place where Mrs.——"

"Ah—I remember now. Well?"

There was certainly something odd in John Heron's voice—something tight and constrained. Even Guy, preoccupied as he was, noticed it now. He would have suspected any other man of having something more than dined, and of keeping himself something more than sober by force of will.

"They have been here. . . ."

"Yes?"

"And have gone. But, by good luck, I met this gentleman, who tells me that a letter is waiting for me at——"

"Home? Ah! Then of course you will fly on the wings of the wind. I've got a little account to settle here at the counter—I'll join you outside in half a minute, if you can wait so long; and I'll walk or cab with you as far as our ways lie together."

Guy was not sorry to find himself again in such fresh air as Blink Lane was able to afford. Bidding a cordial good-night to Dr. Snell, who had returned to his flirtation, he reflected, in the doorway, on the as yet unexplained oddness of such a meeting, and on the fertility of life in coincidences ever since he had met with Marion—that most marvellous coincidence of all in a lover's eyes—until the banker rejoined him.

"Then all's well that ends well," said the latter. "Have a cigar. You seem wool-gathering, Guy."

"Yes—all must be well now—or very soon."

"I'm going to lay you a wager, to bring you down from the clouds." There was no trace of embarrassment about John Heron any longer. "I'm going to lay you ten to one that you're wondering how I came to be at the Blue Stilton, or whatever it's called, and you're shy of seeming to pry into the doings of an old friend. You ought to be ashamed of yourself, Guy Derwent. Why, I'd ask you what you were up to if I met you after midnight in my strong room."

"It did seem odd that both you and I should be at the least likely place for either of us at the very same hour."

"Ah—when you're a dozen years older you'll find it an uncommonly little world. I never wonder at coincidences. I only wonder when a single day goes by without one, or two, or three. Perhaps there was something a trifle odd about you being there. But my seeming eccentricity was the very simplest thing in the world. Ah, those docks—they'll have more to answer for than bringing a steady country banker into public-houses, and Pink Cheddars, and all sorts of wicked ways. I've been interviewing a contractor—a man who once carried a hod, and now throws about millions. But his heart's a hodman's still; and instead of asking me to dine at the Reform, he, in the fulness of his hospitality, thought that he couldn't give me a greater treat than by taking me to 'a snug little shop, sir, where they broil you the best steak this side Temple Bar, and wash it down with the finest port wine that's brewed.' And, on my word, he wasn't far wrong."

"All the same," persisted Guy, "it is strange."

"Of course it is. And so is everything. The only really strange things are those that aren't strange at all. . . . So you're off home by the next train?"

"Of course I am."

"And then?"

"Wherever Fate may call me."

"Meaning the fair Marion?"

"They mean the same to me, Heron. . . . No; don't tell me that nothing is strange. It is strange that here, in England, with the postoffice and the telegraph at our service, and with all the will in the world to meet, two sane people should have been playing a maddening game of hide-and-seek for all this while. One would think the very devil was in it somewhere. And there's somebody else I want to find, as well as Marion."

"Her mother? Well—when a man is hunting high and low for his mother-in-law I suppose one must own that there is something strange, after all, in the world."

"No—her father. The unspeakable scoundrel—to be hounding a poor lady about in this way. I'm looking forward to a solitary interview with Mr. Furness one of these fine days. Next to Marion and her mother, he is the creature I'm more anxious to meet than anybody else in the world."

"If you did meet him—what should you do?"

Guy shrugged his shoulders. "I don't think there's much need to consider that," said he. "Anything that will give this poor lady peace, whatever it may be."

Nervous debility is a common complaint, especially among women. The best medical treatment for this disorder is a persistent course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla to cleanse and invigorate the blood. This being accomplished, nature will do the rest.

A CAUCUS TO BE HELD

Sir Charles Tupper Issues a Call to Conservatives

How the Ottawa Newspapers View the Statements of Whip Taylor in North Grey Regarding the Conservative Party and Remedial Legislation—Trouble Over the Laurier Government's Legal Patronage—Mutiny on the Cruiser Lansdowne—An Ottawa Fireman Killed—A Successful Emigration Agent's Work Capital Jottings.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—(Special.)—Sir Charles Tupper has caused an urgent circular to be sent out to Conservative Senators and members of the Commons, asking them to attend a party caucus, to be held in this city next Wednesday morning. At this meeting the question of the party leadership will be decided, and the future policy of the party, especially on the school question, will be discussed.

The local newspapers have much to say on Mr. Taylor's statements at Owen Sound last Friday. The Free Press to-night puts the matter thus: "Great surprise is expressed at the statement made by Mr. George Taylor, chief whip of the late Government, in North Grey, to the effect that Remedial Legislation is no longer a part of the Conservative policy. It was distinctly announced as such by Sir Charles Tupper in the statement that he published after the overthrow on June 23, and local politicians are wondering when and by whom the change was made. The fact of the matter is that there is nobody to authorize any statement of the Tory policy. The party is without a head, and Mr. Taylor's announcement bears no more force than the assertion of any other individual Tory."

The Journal, formerly independent, but with Grit leanings these days, puts the matter as follows: "After delivering his message, Mr. Taylor urged the electors of North Grey to rebel against French domination, as he pictured Mr. Laurier's rule. He supported his appeal by repeating misstatements which The Journal once before corrected, namely, that Quebec has seven Ministers in the Laurier Cabinet and Ontario four. The actual facts are that Quebec has six Ministers and a Solicitor-General; two of the Ministers, however, being without offices or salaries, and that Ontario has five Ministers, all full-fledged. Mr. Taylor thus is in the position of a man who not only attempts to arouse bigotry and sectional prejudices, to serve party ends, but who bolsters up the attempt by false statements."

At the risk of displeasing The Journal your correspondent ventures to remark that if Mr. Taylor is wrong, so also is The Journal wrong. Quebec has seven representatives in the Ministry of Mr. Laurier, five of whom are members of the Cabinet, and two are not, viz., Sir Henri Joly and Mr. Fitzpatrick. That two members of the Cabinet are unpaid matters little. They have equal voice and vote with their more fortunate salaried colleagues. On the other hand, Ontario has five representatives in the Laurier Ministry, Messrs. Scott, Mowat, Cartwright, Mulock and Paterson, the first four of whom only have seats in the Cabinet.

There is a lively war going on in the local Liberal camp over the distribution of Government and legal patronage. A score of protests was showered at Sir Oliver Mowat when the announcement appeared in the papers that Chrysler & Lewis had been instructed to enter an appeal from the decision of Mr. Justice Burbidge in the Connolly case. There are quite a number of aspirants for the legal work of the Government here. It is said that Mr. Frank Latchford, who is a very active Liberal, will get a share of it. Mr. W. H. Barry is on the cards for a slice, or, at any rate, thinks he should be.

The regulations respecting the importation and exportation of horses have been amended by a recent order in council, and notice has been sent to Collectors of Customs of changes embodied in it. The proposed inspection at Quebec of horses imported from Europe is made subject to the direction of the Minister of Agriculture, so that on his special order such horses may be inspected at Montreal. Horses in transit through Canada from one part of the United States to another part must be accompanied by a certificate of health, signed by a qualified veterinary surgeon. Settlers' horses entering Canada are to be subject to such inspection as the Minister of Agriculture may direct, and entry shall be prohibited of any "settlers'" horses found, on inspection, to have contagious disease. The scale of fees for the inspection of "settlers'" horses is to be determined by the Minister of Agriculture.

The newspaper despatch that there had been trouble on board the Government cruiser Lansdowne was the first intimation which the Department had received of the affair. Much annoyance has been caused by the publication of the news in advance of its reaching the department and the Minister has caused enquiries to be made on the subject. From all that can be learned here, eight of the crew were charged with mutiny and were sentenced to various terms of imprisonment. The trouble arose over the quality of food supplied to the men.

The Lansdowne has sailed for the Straits of Belle Isle, with W. B. Dawson, tide surgeon for the Department, on board. Mr. Dawson is about to spend some weeks between the eastern end of Anticosti and the Straits of Belle Isle, making observations on the tides and currents.

A sad accident occurred to-day on the occasion of a fire alarm from box 23, which is situated in a dangerous locality in the vicinity of the lumber piles. At the corner of Bridge and Duke-streets there is a bad hole on the roadway. Reel No. 7 got a fearful shaking-up in its dash over the hole, and Guardian John Lowry, who was driving, was thrown from the box seat. He fell under the wheels of the reel, which passed over his chest, inflicting such injuries that he died in a few minutes. Lowry was greatly esteemed and his death has caused quite a gloom in the community.

Ernest J. Wood, ex-member of the Manitoba Legislature, who has been acting as special emigration agent for the Dominion Government in the Midland counties of England, arrived in the city last evening from the Northwest. Mr. Wood brought out to Canada the first of the personally conducted parties of this year. It consisted of 120 persons, with an average capital of $1500. About 40 of these were located in Ontario and Quebec, a like number in Manitoba, 20 in the Territories and 20 in British Columbia. Mr. Wood has since 1893 delivered several hundred lectures in various parts of England, and with excellent success, as in three years he has sent out about 1100 persons, with an aggregate capital of one million dollars. Mr. Wood leaves for England on Saturday.

MINERS ENTHUSIASTIC

Over the Fine Strikes Made in the Mugwump and Young America Claims in Rossland, B.C.

Rossland, B.C., Aug. 12.—(Special.)—The camp has been aroused to additional enthusiasm by strikes in Mugwump and Young America. Solid ore of high grade was found in Mugwump at a depth of only 20 feet under the ground. The vein runs parallel to the War Eagle vein, and just north of it. Young America is on Deep Park Mountain, south of Rossland. The ledge was six feet wide when opened, and fine copper ore was exposed within a foot or two of the surface. It is one of the richest looking finds ever made in camp. Samples from both Mugwump and Young America will be forwarded to Toronto Exposition to-morrow.

The Bowels.
A constipated condition of the bowels causes the accumulation of waste and effete matter, which poisonously impregnates the whole system by being taken up by the blood. Hence Bad Blood, Headache, Biliousness, Fevers, Foul Humors, Pimples, Blotches, etc.
Burdock
acts thoroughly on the bowels, removing all effete and waste matter, and cleansing the entire system.
It heals all sores, ulcers, abscesses and broken out surfaces of the skin so completely that not even a scar is left. In all skin diseases it should be taken internally and applied externally, according to directions.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Billious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

WHO'LL GET THE JOB?

Joe Martin's Friends Have Not Yet Given Up.

Is Clifford Sifton Conferring With the Powers at Ottawa on the School Question?—New Regulations Regarding Bicycles Brought Into Canada by Tourists—Mr. Paterson's Appointment the Talk of Gossips—Field Gun Practice—Annual Report of the Superintendent of Insurance—Sam Barnett's Catering Pleased the Liberals in the Big Commons Building—Ottawa Topics.

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—(Special.)—From present appearances Mr. Laurier is not having a very easy task in selecting a Minister of the Interior. Mr. Sifton, Attorney-General for Manitoba, is still in the city, and it is generally conceded that he would make an excellent Minister of the Interior, but the course seemingly is not quite clear for Mr. Laurier. The Manitoba Liberals appear to be divided into factions, one set pulling against the other. Strong influence has been brought to bear on Mr. Laurier in favor of Joe Martin, and it is possible that even yet the Premier may have to take him, although Mr. Martin will be a bitter pill for the party to swallow. While there are not a few who admire Mr. Martin's belligerency, yet generally he is detested on account of his boorishness and uncouthness of manner; and while the official Liberals regretted the loss of a seat for Winnipeg, yet there were not a few who rejoiced that Joe Martin was out of the House.

The Government organ here gives currency to the rumor that Mr. Sifton's business here is connected with the school question, and that there is no immediate prospect of him or any one else being taken into the Government as Minister of the Interior.

So far as the Manitoba school question is concerned, the matter has not been taken up officially by the Government, although there have been informal talks amongst the Ministers. The question, however, cannot be staved off very long, as immediately Parliament meets explanations will be asked of the Government, and an endeavor made to elicit the policy they intend to pursue.

The Department of Customs has had prepared a form of application for permission to import bicycles (not new) when brought into Canada by tourists or others. The new regulation applies to cyclists who may come from Europe and who are not consequently members of the L.A.W. In the case of members of the League of American Wheelmen, no money deposit is required when a bicyclist brings his wheel into the country. All that he is required to do is to deposit his L.A.W. certificate at the nearest Custom House. In the case of tourists, either from Europe or the United States, if they be not members of the L.A.W. a deposit is exacted equal to the amount of duty upon the retail price of the bicycle. The new permit just out has to be filled up by the tourist, and when his wheel is re-manifested out of the country the amount deposited on it is refunded to the party who may have brought the wheel into Canada.

Great interest is being manifested here in the result of the North Grey election. Many Liberals have wondered how it came about that Mr. Laurier chose Mr. Paterson as a member of his Government, when there were other good men available who had been fortunate enough to secure election on 23rd June. Among those were Mr. Lister, Mr. McMullen and Mr. William Gibson. It will be observed that The Globe has taffied these gentlemen since the elections, and held out the hope that a portfolio will be theirs "some day." Mr. Lister, it is said, was very wrathy that he was turned down for Mr. Paterson, but what helped the present Controller of Customs was the fact that he was a business man, and it was to minimize the cry that there were too many lawyers in the Cabinet that led to the selection of Mr. Paterson over either Mr. Lister or Mr. Mills.

Talking about Mr. Mills reminds one of the possibility of his securing a seat on the Supreme Court bench before Christmas, as it is definitely understood that Mr. Justice Gwynne will retire on the expiration of his present leave. If he does not manifest a disposition to step out it is not unlikely that he will be superannuated, whether he will sit or not.

A special militia general order issued this morning states that the annual gun practice of detachments from field batteries of active militia in Ontario and Quebec will be carried out at Laprairie, near Montreal, from August 31 to September 8. Detachments of "A" and "B" Field Batteries will arrive at camp at Laprairie on the dates given below and will remain for two days' practice. Each detachment will consist of from two to four combatant officers and twelve non-commissioned officers and gunners, six of whom at least must be non-commissioned officers. The dates are: Montreal, Aug. 31; Quebec and Shefford, Sept. 1; London and Welland Canal, Sept. 2; First Brigade, Guelph, Sept. 3; Ottawa and Durham, Sept. 4; Hamilton and Toronto, Sept. 5; Kingston and Gananoque, Sept. 7.

Detachments may arrange to arrive at camp on the evening before the above date or on the morning of the dates given.

Lieut.-Col. Wilson, R.C.A., has been appointed camp commandant, while Capt. O. Pelletier will act as camp adjutant.

Field Batteries not in the foregoing list will perform their annual practice at local headquarters.

A return of comparative efficiency for the field batteries which performed their 12 days in camp in June, this year, showed that none of them touched the Ottawa battery, which was at that time only allowed eight days. The Guelph battery scored 510 points to the Ottawa battery's 519, Toronto 509, Welland Canal 477.

In the matter of militia equipment, it is learned that something has been done towards securing a new outfit, but nothing definite, and it is said that a modification of equipment, known to the force here as the invention of Surgeon-Major Oliver of Halifax, may have a chance of being selected.

The annual report of the Superintendent of Insurance has been issued. During the year 1895 the business of fire insurance in Canada was carried on by 35 companies. Of these, six were Canadian, 21 British and eight American. The cash received for premiums during the year in Canada has amounted to $6,943,382, being greater than that received in 1894 by $232,013. The amount paid for losses was $4,993,750, which is greater than that paid in 1894 by $404,387. The gross amount of policies, new and renewed, taken during the year by fire companies was $667,639,048, showing an increase of $14,049,620 over the amount taken in 1894. The increase in the amounts of insurance taken in 1895, as compared with 1894, among Canadian companies is $9,005,528. Among British companies there is an increase of $1,527,809, and among American companies there is an increase of $3,516,283.

The total death list rate was 11,092 in 1895, compared with 10,340 in 1894. The total amount of policies in Canada, taken during the year 1895, was [illegible] which is less than the amount taken in 1894 by $5,184,069. The Canadian companies show a decrease in 1895 of $760,692, whilst in 1894 they had an increase of $580,927. The American companies have a decrease of $4,543,789, while in 1894 they had a decrease of $3,495,122; and the British companies have an increase of $123,422, whilst in 1894 they had an increase of $246,361, the total decrease in 1895 being $5,184,069.

The Governor-General will arrive in town on Monday or Tuesday. The preliminary proceedings at the opening of Parliament on Wednesday will not, as usual on such occasions, call for his presence. Deputy Governor Sir H. Strong will preside. The Speaker, having been elected, will present himself to the Governor-General on Thursday, and Parliament will be opened with the customary Speech from the Throne.

Dominion Statistician Johnson is seeking information regarding the public libraries of Canada. He has issued a circular calling for the number of volumes to be found in each; also classes of books, and the position that each institution occupies in regard to financial support, whether it is dependent upon subscription or endowed.

Sam Barnett of Toronto has secured the House of Commons restaurant for the coming session. He has managed it well for the past two or three years. He will have the Senate restaurant as well.

The Journal says the Ottawa Liberals, who were applying for the Commons restaurant, are going to make a protest to Mr. Edgar when he reaches here, against Mr. Barnett's appointment. Toronto is sometimes called "Hog-town," but verily in matters of Government pap Ottawa seems to be wanting everything.

The Free Press (Liberal) says the Q.C. list was considered by Sir Oliver Mowat, whose able report to council against the document brought about its cancellation by order in council.

The Minister of Trade and Commerce is looking into the question of trade between Canada and the West Indies and Australia. Since 1891 there has been a systematic effort on the part of Canada to build up trade with the West Indies, but results so far have not been encouraging. This is held to be due to the difference in freight rates as between Canadian ports and New York, plus the rates for internal transportation in Canada to the seaboard.

W. G. Gerald, Assistant Commissioner of Inland Revenue, is at present inspecting the Ontario distilleries. He will be in Toronto to-morrow.

IMPERIAL HOUSE PROROGUED.

The Queen's Speech Refers to the Soudan Expedition and the Rebellion in Matabeleland—Indian Affairs.

London, Aug. 14.—The Queen's Speech proroguing Parliament was delivered to the House of Commons at 6.15 o'clock this afternoon. The speech says:

"My relations with the powers continue to be friendly.

"The hostile movements of the Dervishes in the Valley of the Nile against the positions occupied by Italy east of that river convinced me that it was necessary for Egypt to take steps towards arresting their advance. By my advice and sanction an expedition has undertaken to restore to the Government of the Khedive, as far as Dongola, the territory which was lost a decade ago. The operations of the expedition are proceeding, and by the brilliant action at Ferket a large proportion of the territory has already been recovered.

"The condition of portions of Turkey continues to cause anxiety, and at present Crete is the principal centre of the disturbances. I have observed strict neutrality, but, in conjunction with the powers, I endeavored to reconcile the contestants by proposing a system of government which should be equally acceptable to Christians and Mussulmans.

"I regret that a serious rebellion, signalized with cruel murders, has broken out in Matabeleland, the rising having extended into Mashonaland. The work of defence and repression has been undertaken, the settlers displaying great courage. They have since been reinforced by Imperial and other troops."

The speech referred to the Matabele country, and expresses hope that the rebels will shortly accept the clemency which has been offered to them.

Referring to the matter of the delimitation of the Indian frontier, the speech says that the agreements between the Shah of Persia and the Ameer of Afghanstan upon the subject are friendly to the Chitrals. Relief garrisons sent to Chitral have received the co-operation of the tribesmen.

Her Majesty expressed her thanks to the House of Commons for their provisions and services for the year, and concluded by saying that she has given her consent, with pleasure, to the measures for naval defences, for lessening the agricultural taxes, for the protection of the cattle import from disease, and measures for various other purposes, including the Irish Land Bill.

In bidding farewell to the members of the House, Her Majesty prays that they may receive the blessings of Providence and rest from their labors.

Parliament was formally prorogued to Oct. 31.

BODY IN A CESSPOOL.

Woman Charged With Murdering Her Invalid Husband.

A Hard-Working Railroad Carpenter, Whose Health Had Broken Down, Was Left to the Care of His Wife and, Not Having Been Seen Since September, the Neighbors Became Suspicious—Investigation in Her Cellar Led to the Ghastly Discovery.

New York, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Phebe Wilson, an old resident of Flushing, L.I., was arrested yesterday on suspicion of having murdered her invalid husband and hidden his remains in a cellar cesspool for many months.

The woman's arrest followed soon after the discovery of the badly decomposed body which, headless and almost fleshless, was found in a noisome pool under her kitchen. She denied guilt, stoutly at first, afterward hysterically, but the evidence against her seemed so strong that no hesitation was manifested in taking her into custody, and all formalities were waived.

The crime, if crime it be, is the most brutal and cold-blooded in the history of that district.

Edward Wilson, a hard-working railroad carpenter, after over forty years' toil, rendered helpless by acute inflammatory rheumatism, became dependent upon the poor bounty of his wife, whom he had supported to the best of his ability.

He was carried back to his home in September last, after he had been obliged to give up his position on the New York & Northern Railroad on account of his physical disability. His wife received him coldly and made no attempt to conceal her annoyance at having to provide for him during the remainder of his natural days. However, she took him in and allowed it to be understood by her townsmen that she would take care of him as best she could.

The day Edward Wilson was lifted into the dingy little two-storey frame house at No. 94 Pine-street, that day he disappeared from the face of the earth. Never since has he been seen by any of his kind, save only his wife, until yesterday, when his mutilated body was dragged from the black water of his own cellar by Inspector Roff.

Rightly to understand the enormity of the murder of which she is suspected, it must be borne in mind that Mrs. Wilson is about 55 years of age, had been the wife of the man for nearly 40 years, and so far as could be learned, had always borne a good reputation.

The mystery deepens when it is noted that no wound was found upon the body, say, rather the skeleton, for only enough flesh remained upon the face and trunk to make possible the identification of the remains as those of Edward Wilson. The head was detached from the body, but whether it had been cut away immediately after death, or eaten off by the action of the water, not even the most skilful physician in Flushing could say. No cause of death was revealed by an autopsy.

The history of the mystery is interesting, and altogether out of the ordinary line of criminal work.

A few days ago the following letter was handed to Constable Slavin:

"Dear Sir,—Will you please investigate the mysterious disappearance last September of Edward, better knwn as 'Pony' Wilson of Pine-street, Flushing.

"He was sick and unable to leave his bed at that time. Mrs. Wilson confronts every enquiry at the house with contestable stories, and will not give his address. If alive, where is he?

"Citizen."

Imediately upon the receipt of this letter Constable Slavin began an investigation.

He visited Mrs. Wilson and asked for information of her husband.

"He is with his relatives in the east," said the woman, halding the door of her house in such a manner that Slavin could not well enter without forcing his way.

Slavin plied her with many further questions, but all he could elicit from her was the statement that Wilson was "in the east, she couldn't say just where, and she didn't know when he would return." So he interviewed the neighbors, and from them he obtained much more satisfactory information.

They told him they had at one time heard moans and groans coming from the Wilsons' home, and that those sounds plainly were not uttered by Mrs. Wilson. The bedridden husband, they said, had not been seen since the preceding September, and there was nothing to prove that he was still alive further than that of his wife's statement. Furthermore, they informed him, Mrs. Wilson had long ago refused to admit any one to her house on any pretext, and that, they hinted, looked very suspicious.

Inspector Roff went to the Wilson home about 9 o'clocq yesterday morning and told Mrs. Wilson he wished to inspect her premises. She was feeding her chickens and cats in the back yard and appeared to be much annoyed by the Inspector's intrusion.

He found the place encumbered by large quantities of refuse, which, however, did not account to him for the odor that seemed to come from the house. He traced this to the cellar and said he must go downstairs.

Mrs. Wilson protested that her cellar was clean, but Roff, who was looking for something more than mere rubbish, persisted.

Roff groped his way down the cellar stairway, closely followed by Mrs. Wilson. He found everything reeking with filth and warned her she must institute a thorough reform at once.

Roff pulled down the pile of boards that covered the pool, and as fast as he did so, Mrs. Wilson tried to replace them unobserved.

Finally he struck something that made him start. With the crook of his stick he brought it to the surface. Then he fell back, almost overcome.

"Never mind that; it's only rubbish the rats have caried into the cellar," said Mrs. Wilson, anxiously.

Roff drove her out of the cellar, and turned her over to a man he had stationed outside. Then he returned to the cesspool and dragged his find out of the water. It was a headless body.

The left foot, too, was missing, and there was little flesh on any of the bones. Plainly it had been in the water for a long time.

The arms were bound tightly to the sides with several coils of three-quarter of an inch rope.

Inspector Roff found the head after much trouble, and by the light of the candle recognized it as that of Edward Wilson, whom he had known for many years. There was little of the face, but the grey mustache and the general outline of the features made him positive in his identification.

TO FIRE KICKERS OUT.

Members of the Democratic National Committee Not in Sympathy With Bryan Must Go.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Despatches from New York to the effect that Senator Jones, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, had declared open war on those members of the National Committee not in sympathy with the election of Mr. Bryan, and had determined to oust them and substitute men more zealous in the cause, attracted a great deal of atention about headquarters to-day. While there was no one present authorized to speak for the chairman, there was a general opinion that the reported position he had assumed was the only one he could hold, and that it was absolutely essential in order to bring the party machinery in working harmonious condition. Senator Faulkner, chairman of the Congressional Committee, took the ground that the chairman had the authority to oust such men as declined to follow the behests of their party and substitute others, that in doing so he acted for the National Committee, which was the sole representative of the National convention, and the only organization that lived over from one convention to another. Should Chairman Jones, he said, find that the policy he has outlined meets with too much opposition, he could easily accomplish the same result by appointing the men from the states in "rebellion," with whom he desires to supplant the regular members of the committee, to places on the Executive Committee, which will have the active management of the campaign.

Many Felt Sore.

New York, Aug. 14.—It is said that nearly all the Southern and Western men who came to New York to attend the meeting of the Democratic National Committee and the notification meeting, have left for home very much disgusted with the treatment they received from New York Democracy. Many of them, it is asserted, declared before going that they were in favor of letting New York go by default in this campaign and devoting their energies to the West and South. It is further stated that they made urgent appeals to Senator Jones to refuse to establish even a branch headquarters in New York.

WINNIPEG ITEMS.

Manitoba Creameries Shipping Butter to China and Japan—Railway Man Cut to Pieces.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—Friends of Joseph Martin, evidently with authority, declare positively that Mr. Laurier has promised Mr. Martin the portfolio of the Interior. They say Mr. Laurier told Mr. Martin to go and find a seat and he would give him the vacant Cabinet position.

The Manitoba creameries have just begun their shipment of butter to China and Japan, and are likely to build up a big and profitable trade.

Winnipeg people are indignant over the statement that Manitoba will have no wheat for export this year. Members of the Grain Exchange say there will be from twelve to fourteen million bushels of wheat for export.

Andrew Maher, railway laborer of Portage la Prairie, while drunk, fell asleep on the railway track. A passing train cut him to pieces.

Mr. Maxwell, M.P. of Vancouver, and Nicholas Flood Davin, M.P., are here en route to Ottawa.

Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, M.P., leaves for Montreal in a few days. He will attend the Conservative caucus at Ottawa. He may take a hand in the North Grey election.

At a meeting of the Liberals held at Portage la Prairie, strong resolutions were passed urging Mr. Laurier to appoint Joseph Martin as Minister of the Interior.

DR. NANSEN'S RETURN.

The Scientific Successes of His Observations are Said to Have Been Magnificent.

Vardoe, Norway, Aug. 14.—Dr. Nansen, whose return from the Arctic regions was announced yesterday, says the Fram drifted with the ice in a westerly direction to 84 degrees and he expects the vessel will eventually arrive at Spitzbergen. He adds that wherever they penetrated they found the ice broken. In consequence of the scarcity of dogs with the expedition, Dr. Nansen was compelled to turn back at 86.15. He says that with a sufficient number of dogs and canoes the Pole would have been reached. The land voyage was most arduous, but extremely valuable scientific rules were obeyed. In the autumn of 1895 Dr. Nansen reached the north coast of Franz Josefland and built a stone house in which he lived the whole winter. The Jackson-Farnsworth expedition arrived at Franz Josefland during the following spring.

The Jackson Expedition Safe.

London, Aug. 14.—The Jackson expedition is safe at Franz Josefland. The Windward left the Thames on June 10 to take supplies to the Jackson expedition, and not to bring the men back as was generally believed and currently reported. The Windward is understood to have accomplished her task, and presumably found Dr. Nansen with the Jackson party. The commander of the Windward telegraphed to-day that Jackson was relieved. Dr. Nansen was in Franz Josefland last June.

You can carry the little vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets right in the vest-pocket of your dress suit, and it will not make even a little lump. The "Pellets" are so small that 42 to 44 of them go in a vial scarcely more than an inch long, and as big round as a lead pencil.

They cure constipation.

One "Pellet" is a laxative; two a mild cathartic. One taken after dinner will stimulate digestive action and palliate the effects of over-eating. They act with gentle efficiency on stomach, liver and bowels. They don't do the work themselves. They simply stimulate the natural action of the organs themselves. That is where they differ from all other pills. That is what makes them better than all other pills. You don't become a slave to their use as with other pills, because their help lasts. Once used, they are always in favor.

CAUTION.—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—it's an easy name to remember. Don't let a designing druggist talk you into "something just as good." He makes more money on the "just as good" kind. That's why he would rather sell them. That's why you had better not take them.

For a free sample (4 to 7 doses) of "Pleasant Pellets," address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

AQUATIC SPORTS.

Whilst, it is very much to be regretted, the gentlemen who gave so freely of their means and time to forwarding the Belleville regatta did not realize their expectation of a financial success, they yet succeeded in presenting to the public one of the best rowing regattas—all things considered—ever held in Canada. The management, however, made a mistake in placing the price for seats on the grand stand at too high a figure, and had the mortification to see thousands of people, whose admission fees should have gone to swell their receipts carried out on the bay in craft the owners of some of which, and some excursion managers, most unjustly interfered and profited by their appropriation of the labors and expenditures to which they did not contribute as much as a "thank you," for the money which they so unfairly acquired.

Some persons, too, attacked the sport provided as immoral. Never was there a more unfounded or uncalled-for attack made. Rowing is everywhere recognized as one of the strongest deterrents of intemperance and all enervating vices. An oarsman must be temperate and live in accord with nature's laws, in order to be successful. In yachting, and in sailing generally, the men must have clear heads and eyes undimmed by liquor. And so, indeed, in all branches of manly sport and exercises which are calculated to keep sound the minds and bodies of those who actively engage in them. Aquatic sports, however, have the preference of those who are practically acquainted with the subject and speak from knowledge, in that they are free from the objectionable features which attend some other classes of sport.

One thing which has been demonstrated in connection with the regatta is that our pretty bay is not well adapted for racing in shells, excepting in the mornings, owing to the daily occurrence of strong breezes in the afternoon. The effect of this will inevitably be to lead to a revival of interest in yacht racing, in which Belleville for several years stood at the head on the lakes, until the progress of improvement in deep draught yachts in the larger classes left us in the rear, with no prospect of joining the procession again, because of the shallow water in our bay. Now, however, that competition in small yachts has been revived by the gift by the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club, of New York, of a cup for small yachts of from 15 to 25 ft. corrected length, there is a chance for Belleville to regain her reputation. Next year there ought to be some 15 footers in this city, and after it shall have been decided, as next year's race will decide, whether the international cup shall thereafter be raced for by yachts of 15 ft., 20 ft. or 25 ft. corrected length, it is not unreasonable to expect that small craft enrolled in the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club will be striving to emulate the doings of such famous craft as the Atalanta, Norah, Dauntless, Iolanthe, Katie Gray, Kathleen, Surprise, Peerless, Minnie A., Wideawake, Sunbury and others, which, under the flag of the B. Q. Y. C., swept the board of prizes during several years and won the highest honors in international racing.

In a business sense the regatta did a good deal for our merchants, tradesmen and hotel keepers by attracting a large number of people to town, and this will be an additional satisfaction to the promoters and managers of the affair; and we are sure that all our citizens will unite in thanking them for the efforts which they made to benefit Belleville and to provide a seasonable entertainment of the highest possible merit.

A Montreal Business Man

Won the Battle Through His Wife's Advice.

A short time ago a Montreal business man returned from a New York private hospital, to which institution he had gone st February for treatment.

e case was a serious one—kidney dis- nd had baffled the skill of the local The New York specialist, after a ttention could not hold out s of a complete cure, but ued treatment. ight cal tter results, ained for some [illegible] but finally left for home sick, [illegible] and despondent. Upon his arrival in Montreal, friends were alarmed when they found his condition had not improved, and some recommended a sea voyage.

The sick man's wife having heard of the wonders accomplished by Paine's Celery Compound in cases of kidney disease, urged her husband to give it a trial. A supply of the medicine was procured and used faithfully, and the diet list—prepared specially for those afflicted with kidney troubles—was closely followed.

After three weeks' use of Paine's Celery Compound, a blessed and happy change was observed. The patient was brighter and stronger, no constipation, no back aches, urine was more natural in color, and appetite was healthy and established.

After due care and attention, and the use of Paine's Celery Compound, this Montreal merchant is well and attending to business to-day.

Poor sufferer from kidney trouble, what think you of this Montreal case? Will not the same treatment bring you the health and freedom from disease that you so much desire? Yes, we are certain it will. Paine's Celery Compound will quite renew your life, and give you a long lease of happy days. Use the kind that cured the Montreal merchant; remember there are imitations, and very worthless ones too. 'Tis "Paine's" that makes people well.

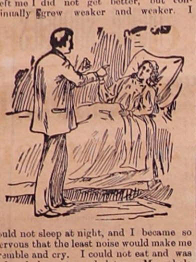
DOCTORS GAVE HER UP.

REMARKABLE EXPERIENCE OF MRS. SALOIS, OF ST. PIE.

LAGRIPPE, FOLLOWED BY INFLAMMATION OF THE LUNGS, LEFT HER ON THE VERGE OF THE GRAVE—HER WHOLE BODY RACKED WITH PAIN—HER HUSBAND BROUGHT HER HOME TO DIE, BUT SHE IS AGAIN IN GOOD HEALTH.

In the pretty little town of St. Pie, Bagot county, is one of the happiest homes in the whole province of Quebec, and the cause of much of his happiness is the inestimable boon of health conferred through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. Eva Salois is the person thus restored, and she tells her story as follows:—Like a great many other Canadians, my husband and myself left Canada for the States, in hope that we might better our condition, and located in Lowell, Mass. About a year ago I gave birth to a bright little boy, but while yet on my sick-bed I was attacked with la grippe, which developed into inflammation of the lungs. I had the very best of care, and the best of medical treatment, and although the inflammation left me I did not get better, but continually grew weaker and weaker. I could not sleep at night, and I became so nervous that the least noise would make me tremble and cry. I could not eat and was reduced almost to a skeleton. My whole body seemed racked with pain to such an extent that it is impossible for me to describe it. I got so low that the doctor who was attending me lost hope, but suggested calling in another doctor for consultation. I begged them to give me something to deaden the terrible pain I endured, but all things done for me seemed unavailing. After the consultation was ended my doctor said to me, you are a great sufferer, but it will not be for long. We have tried everything, we can do no more. I had therefore to prepare myself for death, and would have welcomed it as a relief to my suffering, were it not for the thought of leaving my husband and child. When my husband heard what the doctors said, he replied then we will at once go back to Canada, and weak and suffering as I was we returned to our old home. Friends here urged that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills be tried, and my husband procured them. After taking them for some weeks I rallied and from that on I constantly improved in health. I am now entirely free from pain. I can eat well and sleep well, and am almost as strong as ever I was in my life, and this renewed health and strength I owe to the marvellous powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in gratitude I urge all sick people to try them.



Dr. Williams' Pink Pills create new blood, build up the nerves and thus drive disease from the system. In hundreds of cases they have cured after all other medicines had failed, thus establishing the claim that they are a marvel among the triumphs of modern medical science. The genuine Pink Pills are sold only in boxes, bearing the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Protect yourself from imposition by refusing any pill that does not bear the registered trade mark around the box.

Think It Over.

Have you ever heard of a medicine with such a record of cures as Hood's Sarsaparilla? Don't you know that Hood's Sarsaparilla, the One True Blood Purifier, has proved, over and over again, that it has power to cure, even after all remedies fail?

If you have impure blood you may take Hood's Sarsaparilla with the utmost confidence that it will do you good.

Cholera Infantum and Other Ills

They are Doing Deadly Work.

During the heat of summer, cholera infantum, dysentery and diarrhœa are very prevalent in every section of the land.

Your earnest desire is that your baby should pass through the heated term without suffering from any of the above terrible complaints.

If you are truly wise, you will at once begin to use Lactated Food for the little one, so that its strength and vitality will be increased.

The strongest babies that you see around you are fed and nourished on Lactated Food, the only food that guarantees safety from the evils of summer.

Thousands of letters from thankful mothers give strong testimony for Lactated Food. Many infants who were at the point of death were saved and made well, and are now strong and hearty.

A HARD GAME TO LOSE.

After Fourteen Innings Scranton Defeats the Torontos.

Scranton, Aug. 14.—Scranton and Toronto battled for 14 innings to-day before a victory came to the locals. A base on balls, a triple by J. O'Brien, and Eagan's single gave Scranton two in the first. Toronto tied the score in the fifth on Wright's triple, a hit by pitcher and Truby's single. T. O'Brien's double and Wright's single gave Toronto one in the 13th. Scranton tied the score on Moss' single and Kiester's triple. Scranton won out in the 14th on O'Brien's single and Massey's double, which came after two were out. The fielding on both sides was very brilliant. Score:

Scranton ..	2	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	—4

First in the Estimation of Canadian Women.

Diamond Dyes the World's Leaders.

The women of Canada many years ago selected the Diamond Dyes as the standard dyes for home dyeing. This selection has proved a wise one. The quality of the Diamond Dyes has never deteriorated; they still stand first as the brightest, strongest and fastest colors, and never fail to do what is promised for them.

Many inexperienced buyers are put to great loss and inconvenience by using the crude and imitation dyes.

If every buyer insisted upon having the "Diamond," profit and pleasure would always result from the dyeing operation. Beware of imitations; ask for the Diamond Dyes; take no other make.

TWO GOOD DAYS OF SPORT.

THE CLOSE OF THE BELLEVILLE INTERNATIONAL REGATTA.

Hanlan and Rogers Divide First and Second in the Big Single Scull Race—Durnan and Rogers Win the Three Mile Double—Some Good Amateur Races—The Englishmen Won the Four-Oared Race Easily—Notes.

The last two days of the regatta furnished the most amusement, as the water was in better condition and the races more keenly contested. The steamers which left the harbor on Thursday with passengers to witness the races were well patronized, but the stand at no time was half filled.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON'S EVENTS.

The attendance on Thursday afternoon was not up to that of Wednesday afternoon, but the card of events was much better and they were all cleared off, although it was nearly eight o'clock when the last race was rowed.

The first event of the afternoon was the sailing skiff race for 20 ft. boats. There were only two boats entered, the Chance, O. Spanner, of Toronto, and Tiza, Conger and Fraser, Picton. The Chance had to allow the Tiza 9 seconds on measurement. The wind was light and fluky on the first round of the 3 mile course, but it freshened on the second round into a good sailing breeze and the Tiza drew away and won easily. Following is the starting and finishing time:

Boat.	Start.	Finish.
Tiza	2:00:00	4:15:20
Chance	2:00:00	4:31:39

At 2:10 the 16 ft. and 18. ft. boats were started. The starters were Quinte, Vampa and Viva, of Picton, and J. E. Wallbridge's Roma, No Name and Ma Belle. The latter two dropped out on the second round. As with the 20 ft. class it was a drifting match for the first round, after which the wind freshened out of the west and the little fellows scudded along under all canvas. The Picton boats finished first, second and third in the following time, Roma being fourth:

Quinte	4:31:10
Vampa	4:31:31
Viva	4:33:20
Roma	4:34:30

The decision of the race has not yet been given as the time allowances were not figured out.

In the race for local boats over 20 feet water line three boats started, the Urnorna, G. A. Reid; Woodduck, J. D. Doyle; Montauk, F. W. Burrows. The Montauk was disqualified, as she was not of the prescribed measurement. The boats drifted on even terms over the first two legs of the course, but the wind freshened at the south buoy and the Urnorna drew away from the others and finished a mile ahead of the Wood Duck, which was a considerable distance ahead of the Montauk. Following is the time of start and finish:

Boat.	Start.	Finish.
Urnorna	2:30:00	4:15:20
Wood Duck	2:30:00	4:30:30

There were four sculling events during the afternoon and in two of them the finishes were close and exciting.

The first race was the junior singles ¾ mile with a turn and the starters were Greenwood, of the Dons, and Robinson and Allward, of the Torontos. The men rowed the course to the southeast. Allward was taken sick and dropped out before he reached the turn. Greenwood led Robinson all the way and won by five lengths in 11:41 3-5.

The professional doubles ¾ mile dash, for a prize of $50, brought out three boats, with the following crews: No. 1, Hackett and Hanlan; No. 2, Bubear and Barry; No. 3, Rogers and Durnan. At the start, which was from the buoys opposite Buck's mill, the three crews splashed considerably, but came along on pretty even terms until half the distance had been traversed, when No. 1 and No. 3 began to pull away from the Englishmen, who quit about 200 yards from the finish. It was a pretty race between the other two, but Rogers and Durnan had the lead and increased it when they began to spurt at the finish. No. 3 crossed the line winners by two lengths in 5:16 3-5 and Hanlan and Hackett followed it 5:20 2-5.

The amateur junior double scull race was the best contest of the afternoon and won by a few feet. It was a ¾ mile dash and two crews started, Allward and Robinson, and Marsh and Greenwood. It was nip and tuck all the way and there never was a length between them. By almost superhuman efforts in the last three lengths Allward and Robinson got their boat over about ten feet in advance of the other, in 6:22 3-5, and Marsh and Greenwood crossed in 6.24. Robinson was blowed and nearly fainted after he crossed the line, but soon revived when water was thrown on him. It was a popular win, as the winning crew were much the lighter men.

The last race, the professional single scull, 1½ miles with turn, for prizes of $300, $150 and $50, was called at 7:30 and it was then growing dusk. Hackett, Hanlan, Durnan, Rogers and Bubear came out. At the starting gun all the men except Rogers got away even, and he was only a few feet behind. Hanlan first showed in front hard pressed by Durnan and Hackett, with Rogers and Bubear close to the bunch. They continued in this order, except that Hanlan drew away to the turn at Beech Point, where he was two lengths ahead. On the way back, however, Rogers overtook and passed Hanlan and won by over two lengths in 20:32 3-5. Hanlan crossed in 20:42 and Durnan third 21:11. Bubear was fourth and Hackett fifth. Hanlan claimed a foul against Rogers immediately after the race. He said Rogers rowed into his water and caused him to stop rowing. Rogers claimed he was not out of his water and that Hanlan fouled him. The referee, W. H. Biggar, saw the foul, but would give no decision until he saw the course by daylight and saw whose water the foul occurred in. Hanlan said he slowed down after the foul and did not try to beat Rogers out.

Hanlan claims he would have won the race had not Durnan paced him too hard on the way to the turn and then slacked off and let Rogers beat him home.

The referee decided that the professional single should be rowed over, but Rogers demurred and he and Hanlan decided to divide first and second money and Hanlan withdrew his protest.

Hanlan wants to row any man now in America for any distance from one to five miles for any sum from $1000 to $5000.

THURSDAY EVENING.

The entertainment provided on Wednesday evening was so favorably commented upon by the large number of people present that on Thursday evening there must have been at least two thousand people present. The programme was better than that of the previous evening and every one was greatly delighted with the entertainment.

FRIDAY'S PROGRAMME.

Although a proclamation had been issued by the Mayor for a civic holiday yesterday, through some misunderstanding or hitch non of the stores on Front st. closed in the forenoon and very few in the afternoon. It was generally admitted, however, that it had little affect on the attendance, which was small in the forenoon, and not more than five hundred were present in the afternoon.

In the forenoon there were two sculling races, both of which were keenly contested.

The first race called was the amateur intermediate single scull, ¾ mile dash. Robinson, Allward and Greenwood started and made a pretty race. Allward pulled to the front and beat Greenwood out by half a length, Robinson being about three lengths behind. Time, 5 min. 57 1-5 sec.

The professional double scull, 1½ miles with a turn, for prizes of $300, $100 and $50, brought out four boats, manned by Barry and Bubear, Durnan and Rogers, Hanlan and Hackett, and Rice and Haines. The four boats got away to an even start and it was about even up for a mile, when the Englishmen showed in front and rounded the turning buoy half a length ahead of Rogers and Durnan, with Hanlan and Hackett close up. On the way home Rogers and Durnan overtook and passed the Englishmen, and these two crews made a pretty race for the finish. Rogers and Durnan got to the line first in 19:55 1-5, with Bubear and Barry a length and a half behind. Hanlan and Hackett slackened down when they saw there was no hope of winning and Rice and Haines did not cross the line at all.

The first event of the afternoon was a matched race between canoes owned by Mr. Norman, of Picton, and Geo. Thompson, jr., of this city. Thompson allowed Norman's boat two and a half minutes. The boats crossed the line on the start at 2:20:45. Thompson finished at 3:07:30 and Norman's canoe finished at 3:20:05, Thompson thus winning the race by 10m 5sec.

When the professional single scull ¾ mile dash, for a purse of $50, was called there was quite a heavy swell on the bay and only two men started, namely Hanlan and Durnan. Hanlan won by four lengths in the good time of 4:21. Durnan crossed in 4:50 4-5.

Two boats started in the amateur senior double scull race, ¾ mile with a turn, Ryan and Russell, and Greenwood and Marsh. The latter two led after the start, and were several lengths ahead, but they shipped some heavy seas and came very nearly being swamped. They rowed ashore and emptied the water out of their boat, while Ryan and Russell crossed the line in 12:18, very good time for the water they rowed in.

Several events of an amusing character were put on in front of the grand stand before the final race was rowed. The first was a swimming race in which nine young men entered. The race was fifty yards with a turn. T. Jordan won easily, with F. Andrews second.

Hardy gave his performance on the high wire and then followed another attempt on the part of about a dozen men and boys to walk the greasy pole for a prize of $1.50. No one could accomplish the feat.

The duck hunt was the most amusing event of the afternoon. A duck was liberated in the water and several men in boats attempted to catch it. John Perkins captured it several times, but it was claimed a foul, as he did not stay in his boat. The prize was awarded to Sol. Mouck.

Prof. Rice repeated his exhibition, and then followed a tub race, which was won by W. Lynch, with Sol. Mouck second.

The race that had caused most speculation during the week was the four-oared professional, 1½ miles with a turn, for a prize of $500. The English crew were the favorites, but the Canadian-American crew were not without backers. It was about six o'clock when the two crews rowed round to the starting point. Not much time was lost in sending them off, and the Englishmen caught the water first and pulled a stroke of 40 to the minute, while the Canadian-American crew contended themselves with 38. The Englishmen forged ahead, but did not steer as well as the Canadians and crossed their line about half a mile from the start. The foreigners reached the turning buoy five lengths ahead and held their own for half a mile, when they eased down. About one hundred yards from home the Canadians put on a final spurt, but could not catch the Englishmen, who crossed the line in 18:58 a length ahead of their opponents.

Hanlan was seen after the race and admitted his crew was fairly beaten. He says the Englishmen have the swing that must win, when backed up by such powerful men as compose the crew. Durnan talked of protest, but Hanlan would not allow him to enter one. Rogers was not satisfied that the Englishmen could win had his crew been boated as well as the others.

Hanlan congratulated Bubear on his success after the race.

Notes.

Mr. Reynolds claimed the half-rater race for Zephyr on time allowance, measurement showing a difference of 46 seconds in her favor; but Mr. Saulter demurred, contending that there is no time allowance in this class—that they have a standard of limit to go by, which they may not exceed, with no allowance for falling short of it. The matter will be decided by Mr. McRae under the rules of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club of New York.

The quiet, civil demeanor of the English crew, who took everything philosophically, won them many friends. In fact all the men—Rogers not excepted—were civil and patient in dealing with the public, some of whose questions and comments must have been trying to the patience of the oarsmen.

Hardy, the wire walker, had a narrow escape from serious injury last evening. He was helping to take down the poles on which his wire was strung on the barge, when one of them fell and grazed by him. It broke the railing and tumbled into the bay.

Mr. E. Burrell's steam yacht Kismet, which he generously loaned the Committee during the week, made a very efficient Referee's boat, as she is fast and handy. Mr. Burrell should certainly receive the warmest thanks of the Committee.

Dow Claus, of Brighton, formerly of this city, was down yesterday to see the races with a party on his handsome sailboat "Gladys." She is as trim a craft of her kind as has been seen here in many a day, and a beautiful sailer.

Hanlan gave an exhibition of fancy sculling in front of the grand stand yesterday which was loudly applauded. He showed himself to be a perfect master of the frail shell.

Hanlan's challenge is mainly directed against Rogers, between whom and himself feelings are not unanimous, unless it be in the matter of not exactly liking each other.

A small black yacht capsized in front of the grand stand on Thursday and the way the crew righted her won the applause of the spectators.

Mrs. Phillips, of Rednerville, had her pocket picked of her purse containing $1.50, on Thursday on the grand stand.

Some one stole a pair of duck pants, a sweater and a cap from Mr. O. Spanner's skiff Thursday evening.

Hanlan and his crew will remain till Monday, and the Englishmen do not go away till Tuesday.

Rogers was the "kicker" of the party. He growled at almost everything, seemingly on principle.

The amateur junior double scull race was not rowed, as those entered did not feel in condition for it.

The performance before the grand stand during the afternoon was fully up to previous days.

Several of the Picton skiffs left for home Thursday evening in tow of the Nellie Cuthbert.

Most of the amateurs went to Toronto last night.

Coming Next Year.

The Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows have accepted the invitation tendered them by the brethren of the Belleville Lodges to hold their annual meeting in Belleville in 1897. The Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. is one of the largest bodies of the kind in Canada, the membership being about 6 0, and there are many eminent men amongst its members. Messrs. C. H. Vermilyea and P. W. Fairman returned from Sarnia this morning. They had a hard fight to get the lodge for Belleville next year, only beating Galt by two votes. The hotel accommodation in Sarnia was entirely inadequate, and very little was done by the reception committee in the way of receiving guests.

$85 for $75.

$85.00 for $70.00 with 5% additional for cash, is what the Ashley Carriage Works startles the public with on buggies. They claim that their buggies and other vehicles are superior to any others offered in the city, having A. wheels, hand forged iron work; excellent painting and trimming. This seems to be a rare chance for quick purchasers, as the stock is limited. Other rigs at proportionate prices.

A Sparring Exhibition.

A number of pugilist from Toronto, under the management of Charlie Hall, gave an exhibition at the opera house last evening before a small audience. Alex. Revinnie boxed three rounds with Jack Riordan, of Toronto, and outpointed him. K. Sanford did a clog dance and Jack Crawford and Chas. Richardson gave an exhibition of wrestling. There was an amusing three round bout between the Mercy brothers, of this city, and two other boys gave a bout. Alex. Revinnie and "Burglar Jack" boxed three rounds, honors about even. As a wind up Jack Crawford sparred three rounds with Ed. Coughlin and displayed great science and agility.

JOCKEY MARTIN'S MURDER.

Detectives Have Hopes of Convicting the Guilty Parties.

Toronto News: The murderers of Jockey Joe Martin may yet swing on the gallows. The police are aware of the fact that several people in this city know all about the tragedy, but the dificulty has been to make them tell the truth. The murder was the result of a plot in which several were concerned directly and there are several others, confidants of the principals, who could tell much if they wished. The hope is entertained that the secret may evidently leak out and that evidence to prove the existing strong suspicion may be forthcoming.

It is thought that the detention of Sankey Hilts, of Munroe street, is due to a suspicion that he may be mixed up in the case in some way. Yesterday he completed a term for housebreaking, but he was not given his freedom. He was held on a further charge of stealing three wrenches from Thompson Bros., the King street east carriage makers, for whom he once worked. This charge is merely a bluff. The police want him for a deeper reason, and Crown Attorney Curry refused to accept less than $2,000 bail. The detective department is endeavoring to hold him until some information which has been received has been verified or disproved.

The Modern Knight.

These are certainly not the days of chivalry and romance; of long haired poets and clinging females. The tendency is toward practical and even the inventions nowadays are mostly objects of utility, something which saves time and gives comfort and ease. We are quick to appreciate and use anything which increases our comfort, especially if it be in the way of clothing. Let anybody once realize the magnificent healthful warmth which Fibre Chamois will add to his clothing and he will certainly be provided with this inexpensive equipment against all freaks of the weather. This interlining is made from pure spruce fibre and is a complete non-conductor of both heat and cold so that a layer of it through clothing, keeps out the fiercest winds and preserves the natural heat of the body.

A Good Idea.

It has been suggested that a race for local sailing skiffs be arranged to take place off Massassaga Park on the day of the Scotchmen's celebration. Now that an interest has been awakened in the sport by the races of this week, we think it would be a good idea to have a race, for which at least seven boats would enter. Let some one take up the matter.

Revival of Trade.

Reports from the United States support the view that trade interests have vastly improved recently and that the business outlook for the future is encouraging. This will be welcome news to the people of Canada, since our own trade interest will be stimulated and improved. In nothing has this improvement been shown in a more marked way than in the increased sales of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Times being dull everything not absolutely needed became a luxury, and its sale became stationary. Now it is different. Sales have increased vastly, doubtless as it has proven the only safe, sure, and painless remedy for corns, and wise people will use no other.

Mrs. Holden's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Martha A. Holden took place this afternoon to St. Thomas' church and a large number of friends and relatives attended. Rev. The Most Economical ...House Warmer

The "Kelsey" Corrugated Warm Air Generator.

Any ordinary Hot Air Furnace will produce heat if you will only supply enough fuel. The "Kelsey" has several special and valuable features but most important is that it will give more heat with less fuel and is the most durable heater made.

The "Kelsey" fire pot being constructed of several upright, tubular, corrugated, cast iron sections (see cut) around which the fire passes and up through which the cold air passes while being heated, and this entire section being wrapped with a heavy steel casing which becomes heated by the fire striking it when passing down outside of upright sections towards smoke pipe, it in turn warms the air that passes up between this steel casing and the galvanized iron casing, this explains why the "Kelsey" has three times more radiating surface and warm air capacity than an ordinary Furnace. The "Kelsey" heats every room evenly, wheresoever located, with a nice, mild, healthful warm air that will not injure your furniture.

The "Kelsey" will heat rooms 60 feet distant.

The "Kelsey" does not heat your cellar.

The "Kelsey" is absolutely gas and dust proof.

A Thousand People at the Owen Sound Meeting

In the Interests of the Conservative Standard Bearer, Mr. McLauchlan—Rousing Speeches Were Made by the Candidate, Whip Taylor, Dr. Sproule, Dr. Nesbitt, N. C. Wallace and Mr. McNeill—No Remedial Legislation For the Conservatives Now.

Owen Sound, Aug. 14.—(Special.)—A big meeting was held here to-night for Mr. McLauchlan, the Conservative candidate. One thousand people were present, and great enthusiasm prevailed. The speakers were the candidate, Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, Messrs. George Taylor, M.P., Alex. McNeill, M.P., Dr. Sproule, M.P., and Dr. Beattie Nesbitt. Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P., was to have spoken, but at the request of Mr. McLauchlan took charge of a meeting in the country.

Mr. John Chisholm, a veteran worker, was chairman at the great gathering in the City Hall. He called on Mr. McLauchlan as the first speaker. That gentleman received a tremendous ovation. He briefly and clearly enunciated his position on the various questions involved in the campaign. As to Remedial Legislation, he said: "I reaffirm what I said in the last contest, that I would oppose to the last any Remedial Bill introduced in Parliament, no matter by whom." Dealing with the trade question, Mr. McLauchlan declared himself an unswerving supporter of the N.P., which he said had built up Canada and made it the best country in the world to live in.

Chief Whip Taylor said he had been attacked by the newspapers of Quebec for his statement made here last Saturday that Mr. Laurier had not dealt fairly with the Province of Ontario in apportioning portfolios. He reiterated that Quebec had been given seven positions in the new Administration and Ontario only five. The Globe had said that this was not true. He challenged The Globe or any other paper to disprove it. Mr. Taylor also dealt with the statements made by Mr. Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright during the general elections, and said that he was in a position to know that Mr. Laurier had promised his French supporters in caucus a stronger Remedial Bill than that introduced by Sir Charles Tupper. The Conservative party was now through with Remedial Legislation.

Dr. Beattie Nesbitt eulogized Clarke Wallace, and appealed to the electors of North Grey to return a Clarke Wallace man in the person of Mr. McLauchlan.

Dr. Sproule dealt at some length with both the tariff issue and Manitoba schools. On the Manitoba school question, Mr. Paterson's position was undefined and unsatisfactory, but he was a member of a Government whose leader had promised to exhaust the powers of the constitution, if necessary. Mr. Paterson had voted against an export duty on logs, and for this reason alone he should be defeated.

Hon. N. Clarke Wallace met with a perfect storm of cheers. The school question was not yet settled, he said. The recent letter of Archbishop Langevin proved that another attempt would be made by the hierarchy to force Parliament to take coercive measures. Mr. Laurier could have had the question settled in six hours had he accepted the standing offer of the Manitoba Government to do away with religious instruction in the Public schools, allowing ministers of the various denominations to give such instruction after hours. A commission had been promised. This was a subterfuge. No commission was needed, as all the facts were known now.

Mr. McNeill said that no country in the world had been built up without protection, yet Mr. Paterson had promised to destroy this protection. That gentleman was also a coercionist, for he had accepted office in the Government of Mr. Laurier, who had distinctly declared that he was prepared in the last resort to support Federal interference with Manitoba. The speaker was one of those who thought that party lines had been drawn too hard and fast in Canada, and he, with a few other Conservatives, had broken from their party when they considered it necessary. He asked the honest Liberals of North Grey to do the same in the present crisis.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Taylor announced the receipt of a telegram from Mr. Hugh John Macdonald, saying he would leave Winnipeg for Owen Sound on Sunday and would remain in North Grey till the close of the fight.

OLD WOMAN'S TRAGIC DEATH.

Fell From the Third-Storey Window of the House of Providence Last Night.

Toronto, Aug. 15.

Eliza Brown, a 90-year-old woman, who was an inmate of the House of Providence, Power-street, fell from a third storey window of that institution shortly before 9 o'clock last night and was instantly killed.

The old woman had only been an inmate a month or so and very little is known about her or where she came from. She was very feeble and it is supposed that while sitting on the sill of the window, which is in her sleeping room, she overbalanced and fell a distance of about 30 feet.

Coroner Johnson has issued a warrant for an inquest on Monday, but it is hardly likely that it will be held. It is not supposed that it was a suicide, as the police of No. 4 division knew nothing of the occurrence up to 1 o'clock this morning, nor was the Coroner aware of the facts of the case.

THE WAVE OF SUICIDE.

W. H. Nelson, a Prominent Kingsville Grocer, Shoots Himself in a Cemetery

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 14.—A Kingsville, Ont., despatch says that W. H. Nelson, a prominent grocer of Kingsville, at 2 p.m. to-day, left his business, walked up to Greenhill Cemetery, sat down by a grave and deliberately shot himself through the lungs, very close to the heart, with a revolver. He now lies in a very critical condition with slight hopes of recovery.

Hanged Himself at Buffalo.

Buffalo, Aug. 14.—Michael Daley, a switchman in the employ of the New York Central road, killed himself early this morning by hanging. Daley's wife has been sick for several months and this fact evidently made him despondent. At 5.30 this morning his children found him dead. He had fastened a rope around his neck, attached it to the bed post and sat down, slowly strangling.

The L. A. W. Championships.

Louisville, Aug. 14.—The races of the National L.A.W. meet to-day in the finishes and the time made bordered on the sensational. One of the most important world's records, the one mile competition, was broken.

The one mile national championship was decided so far as the present progress of the circuit is concerned. It was won by Tom Butler. Arthur Gardiner did the record-breaking in the mile open, paced by John S. Johnson and J. W. Parsons, the Australian champion, with 13 starters in the race. Gardiner rode the mile in 2.01, beating the record of 2.01 4-5 established by Bald just a week ago at Buffalo. He won by a phenomenal sprint in the stretch, which he entered ten lengths behind Sanger, who led the field. Cooper was not entered in this race.

In the third-mile national championship, Cooper, who won, had the closest call of the year. He beat Owen Kimble across the tape only half the diameter of his front wheel. Bald was third, a length behind Kimble. The others were bunched behind.

WINNIPEG'S BIG AD.

Winnipeg, Aug. 14.—(Special.)—Winnipeg rowing enthusiasts are determined that the four-oared crew which won and beat all records shall go to Henley next year. They will ask the City Council and Local Government for a grant towards expenses. They urge that such grant would be justified in that the appearance of the crew at the great Henley regatta would give Winnipeg and Manitoba a bigger advertisement than all the immigration agents can.

GAUDAUR IN ENGLAND.

London, Aug. 14.—Several well-known sporting men met Jake Gaudaur, the oarsman, at Waterloo railroad station on his arrival here to prepare for his match with James Stanbury, the Australian champion, involving the championship of the world and a purse of from $2500 to $5000, which will be decided during the afternoon of Sept. 7. Gaudaur was heartily welcomed, and proceeded to Putney, where Clasper is building a new boat for him. The oarsman said he never felt in better condition.

ISOLDE BEAT METEOR.

London, Aug. 14.—The Royal Victoria Yacht Club regatta was continued at Ryde to-day. The principal race was for the Commodore's Cup, course round the Isle of Wight, 50 miles. The weather was rainy and the breeze westerly. The starters were Meteor, Isolde, Ailsa, Britannia, Satanita and Caress. The 40 rater Isolde won the first prize on time allowance, and the second prize was won by Meteor. The Isolde finished at 5.02.12 and the Meteor at 4.23.10.

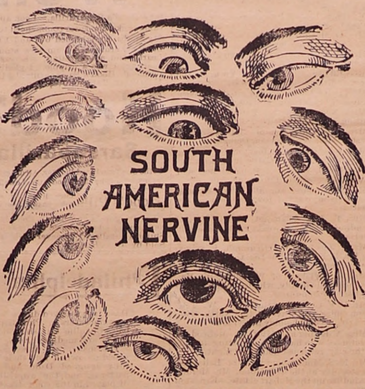
THE EYES OF THE WORLD

Are Fixed Upon South American Nervine.

Beyond Doubt the Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

WHEN EVERY OTHER HELPER HAS FAILED IT CURES

A Discovery, Based on Scientific Principles, that Renders Failure Impossible.



In the matter of good health temporizing measures, while possibly successful for the moment, can never be lasting. Those in poor health soon know whether the remedy they are using is simply a passing incident in their experience, bracing them up for the day, or something that is getting at the seat of the disease and is surely and permanently restoring.

The eyes of the world are literally fixed on South American Nervine. They are not viewing it as a nine-days' wonder, but critical and experienced men have been studying this medicine for years, with the one result—they have found that its claim of perfect curative qualities cannot be gainsaid.

The great discoverer of this medicine was possessed of the knowledge that the seat of all disease is the nerve centres, situated at the base of the brain. In this belief he had the best scientists and medical men of the world occupying exactly the same premises. Indeed, the ordinary layman recognized this principle long ago. Everyone knows that let disease or injury affect this part of the human system and death is almost certain. Injure the spinal cord, which is the medium of these nerve centres, and paralysis is sure to follow.

Here is the first principle. The trouble with medical treatment usually, and with nearly all medicines, is that they aim simply to treat the organ that may be diseased. South American Nervine passes by the organs, and immediately applies its curative powers to the nerve centres, from which the organs of the body receive their supply of nerve fluid. The nerve centres healed, and of necessity the organ which has shown the outward evidence only of derangement is healed. Indigestion, nervousness, impoverished blood, liver complaint, all owe their origin to a derangement of the nerve centres. Thousands bear testimony that they have been cured of these troubles, even when they have become so desperate as to baffle the skill of the most eminent physicians, because South American Nervine has gone to headquarters and cured there.

The eyes of the world have not been disappointed in the inquiry into the success of South American Nervine. People marvel, it is true, at its wonderful medical qualities, but they know beyond all question that it does everything that is claimed for it. It stands alone as the one great certain curing remedy of the nineteenth century. Why should anyone suffer distress and sickness while this remedy is practically at their hands?

B FOR THE BLOOD

B. B. B. Turns Bad Blood Into Rich Red Blood.

BBB FOR THE BLOOD

In Spring Time get Pure Blood by using B.B.B.

No other remedy possesses such perfect cleansing, healing and purifying properties as Burdock Blood Bitters. It not only cleanses internally, but it heals, when applied externally, all sores, ulcers, abscesses, scrofulous sores, blotches, eruptions, etc., leaving the skin clean and pure as a babe's. Taken internally it removes all morbid effete or waste matter from the system, and thoroughly regulates all the organs of the body, restoring the stomach, liver, bowels and blood to healthy action. In this way the sick become well, the weak strong, and those who have that tired, worn out feeling receive new vigor, and buoyant health and spirits, so that they feel like work. If your appetite is poor, your energy gone, your ambition lost, B.B.B. will restore you to the full enjoyment of happy vigorous life.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

CURE

Sick Headache and relieve all the troubles incident to a bilious state of the system, such as Dizziness, Nausea, Drowsiness, Distress after eating, Pain in the Side, &c. While their most remarkable success has been shown in curing

SICK

Headache, yet CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and preventing this annoying complaint, while they also correct all disorders of the stomach, stimulate the liver and regulate the bowels. Even if they only cured

HEAD

Ache they would be almost priceless to those who suffer from this distressing complaint; but fortunately their goodness does not end here, and those who once try them will find these little pills valuable in so many ways that they will not be willing to do without them. But after all sick head

A TISSUE OF SLANDER

Sir Charles Tupper Gets Back at Mr. Glen.

He Is Astonished that Any Man Would Have the Audacity to Issue Such a Mass of Falsehoods When Men Are Alive Who Can Prove Their Falsity—It Is Made on the Supposed Authority of a Man Who Is in His Grave—If Any Responsible Man Repeats These Assertions He Will Have an Opportunity of Proving the Accusations.

Ottawa, Aug. 16.—(Special.)—Ottawa people take little stock in F. W. Glen's recent attempt to blacken the character of Canadian public men. Sir Charles Tupper was asked to-night for his views of Mr. Glen's letter. He replied: "All I can say is that the statements put forward by Mr. Glen are a tissue of slander as baseless as they are malignant. I am astonished that any man, however unscrupulous, would have the audacity to issue such a mass of falsehoods when men are alive who can prove their falsity. It is true that Mr. Bunting is in his grave, but Lord Mount-Stephen and Sir Donald Smith remain with us, and are able to say how little truth there is in these charges."

"Do you intend to take any formal means of vindicating your character?" the ex-Premier was asked.

"I think," Sir Charles replied, "the story bears all the marks of a lie upon its face. It refers to circumstances alleged to have occurred sixteen years ago, and these, although known to a number of men, are assumed to have been kept from leaking out in all that period. It is made on the supposed authority of a man who is in his grave and unable to disclaim the language attributed to him. It attempts to besmirch the character of a number of gentlemen of the highest standing. All these things, I say, create an overwhelming presumption against its truth. At the same time, if Mr. Glen will furnish security for costs in Canada or if any responsible man or newspaper will repeat his assertions, I shall immediately enter suit and give my libeller an opportunity of proving his accusations. If he is afraid to do so, I shall have to be content with leaving him and his slanders to the judgment of the community.

What is to become of Sir Richard Cartwright? is a question suggested by the announcement of The Free Press (Liberal) that the Department of Trade and Commerce is to be wiped out of existence at the coming session of Parliament. Possibly the Interior portfolio is being kept unfilled in order that when the shuffle which must take place when the departmental reorganization is consummated, a place may be found for Sir Richard.

The opening of Parliament this week will bring to the Capital a larger crowd of visitors than have attended any similar function in recent years. Special rates are given on all lines of railway running into Ottawa, and it is said that from Montreal alone will come four excursions. Seven hundred people from Kingston and along the St. Lawrence to Prescott are coming through for the occasion.

Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Aberdeen have come to the conclusion that it is too hot for the holding of formal entertainments at Government House during at least the early part of the session. There will therefore be no State dinner at Government House on the night of the opening of Parliament, and no State reception as in other years. The men who are obliged to appear in their heavy Windsor uniforms or in military uniform at these State receptions must be rather gratified than otherwise.

Numerous entertainments at Government House of an informal character are on the cards. Everybody knows what pleasant garden parties the present occupants at Government House have given, and the comfortable and unceremonious style of costume His Excellency and the members of the staff adopt at these garden parties. His Excellency has invited all his masculine guests to follow his lead and do away with the formality of top hat and frock coat, coming to his garden party in flannels or tweeds as they would go to a picnic. There are to be two garden parties a week during the session and of course some dinners.

A lesson to the civic contractors is conveyed in a case just reported to the Customs Department. Two or three weeks ago the City Council of Victoria, B.C., awarded to a local contractor, J. W. Keller, the contract for supplying a quantity of sewer pipe. There were only two tenders, Keller and the British Columbia Pottery Company. Both quoted prices for 9-inch pipe, while for 10-inch pipe Keller quoted 35 1-2 cents and the British Columbia Pottery Company 38 cents. Though there was only this small difference of 2 1-2 cents in one class of pipe, the City Council decided to give the contract for the foreign-made pipe. Ten days ago a consignment of pipe was brought in by Keller from Seattle for the city contract and Collector Milne found that while the smaller size had been entered at the Customs it was the larger size that was being brought in. Accordingly he had the pipe seized, and on its being measured up it was found that the value was $200 more than that which Mr. Keller had put on the article. The duty at 35 per cent. on the article came to $70, so that Mr. Keller had to pay to the Customs $270 before the pipe was handed over. This means that he had to buy his pipe twice over, once at Seattle and once from the Customs.

As foreshadowed two or three days ago by your correspondent, the Minister of Militia has authorized the free issue of ammunition to competitors taking part in the Dominion rifle matches commencing here on the 31st inst. This free issue is to be made for this year only, as it will use up the stock of Martini-Henry ammunition on hand. The Minister, in making this concession, apart from recognizing the importance of the association, considers that in all probability this will be the last year in which the Martini-Henry rifle and ammunition will be shot with.

Mr. Tarte is being urged to renew his demand for an enquiry into the conduct of the partisan political character of certain Quebec judges. The present Minister of Public Works submitted a motion to this effect in the House in 1894, but nothing was done. The Free Press says it is rumored there are one or two judicial officers whose conduct calls for investigation, and as the name of the entire bench is besmirched by the bad behavior of one, the innocent and well-doing will no doubt be very glad if Mr. Tarte takes the hint. The interests of the Province of Quebec require that the bench should be unimpeachable.

J. H. Ross, a member of the Executive of the Northwest Assembly, is in the city and had an interview with Mr. Laurier yesterday. He will remain in the city for a couple of weeks. Mr. Ross says crops all over the Territories are in [illegible]

Arpaul T. Dumas, D.L.S., arrived yesterday from Lake Temiscamingue, where he was engaged by the Hudson Bay Company and the Oblat Fathers in sub-dividing into village lots some lands around the fort. Mr. Dumas says some of the crops in the Temiscamingue are exceedingly good. All the lands surveyed by the Quebec Government are already taken, and there are even some settlers on lands not yet surveyed.

BRITISH COLUMBIA MINES.

Wonderful Development as Shown by the Official Returns Received at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 16.—(Special.)—No better proof of the wonderful mining development which is taking place in British Columbia could be forthcoming than the official returns prepared by British Columbia authorities and forwarded to the Dominion Government. In 1894 the aggregate value of the precious metals mined in British Columbia was $1,000,000. Last year it reached the grand total of $5,038,375, and this year the output promises to be still greater. For the period in 1896 ending July 15, practically only three months from the opening of the season, the total quantity of ore produced in Kootenay was 56,910 tons, of which 14,797 was exported. The estimated value of ore smelted and shipped to July 15 was one million and three quarter dollars. Owing to the boom now in progress, the suggestion comes from the west for the organization of a Dominion Bureau of Mines. The Geological Survey Department is devoting attention to the wonderful Rossland country and is sending two skilled surveyors there.

For some years the Geological Survey Department has had geologists engaged in making topographical and geological surveys of parts of British Columbia. The examination of the rocks has been very thorough, and the results have been set forth in voluminous reports illustrated by maps showing the rich formation and configuration of the country. Each of these maps represents a tract of country fifty miles square. The last to be published was that of Kamloops and vicinity, and last year the work on the Shuswap district was completed, though the maps and report will probably not appear for another year.

Mr. J. McEvey, B.A.Sc., of the survey staff, who received his training under Dr. Dawson, has just arrived in Rossland preparatory to beginning work from the Columbia River westward. He will be met there by R. G. McConnell of the same staff, who has been engaged for two years in the Slocan, and the two will work together for the remainder of the season. An accurate contour map will be made, showing the distribution and formation. The work will occupy more than one season.

MR. BLAKE AS LEADER.

Delegates to the Dublin Convention Say That is the Only Solution of the Irish Problem.

Montreal, Aug. 16.—(Special.)—It looks as if the Canadian delegates to the Irish pacific conference, to be held so soon in Dublin, have about made up their minds that the only solution of the vexed question will be found in the choice of the Hon. Edward Blake as leader and consolidator of the different Irish factions now represented in the Parliament at Westminster. A leading Irish-Canadian told your correspondent to-day that the feeling at home was so bitter between the Parnellites, the McCarthyites and the other sections into which the Home Rule party were divided as to make it absolutely necessary to select a leader outside of the ranks of the Irishmen proper and that Edward Blake was the man for the position. The same gentleman is also authority for the statement that Hon. Mr. Costigan, Archbishop Walsh and other leading Canadian delegates were most anxious that Mr. Blake should accept the leadership of the Irish Parliamentary party.

SHAMROCKS BEATEN.

Tecumsehs Played All Round Them on Saturday.

Montreal's Irishmen Outplayed All Along the Line, and It Was Not Until Near the Close That They Scored a Goal—4000 Gather Around the Island Oval and See a One-Sided Contest.

Toronto, Aug. 17.

The Tecumsehs made a run-away game of it Saturday with the Shamrocks at Hanlan's Point, and wound up with a 6-to-1 victory. No one would have thought it, but that's the result, and the big crowd wondered at the close how the Capitals won by 5 to 1 a week before. Burns was back, and the Ferrymen's home showed up superbly, although they lacked accuracy and speed in shooting at times, notably in the first game.

There was very little wagered on the result, Shamrock money being generally out of sight. Thus the Montreal Irishmen were not confident before the start. They figured that with O'Brien and Murray off the defence, and O'Meara, Danaher and Tansey off the home, they would be in the air and totally unable to show their old-time combination. Still, with 40 men at practice every night, it was expected the places of the veterans would be easily filled with livelier and just as reliable men. And none of the visitors showed up individually weak. It was the team play of the Tecumsehs that was vastly superior to that of the green-shirted Shamrocks, and the score just about represents the play.

On the Islanders' side, little Macdonald was replaced at centre by Peaker, while Quinn went between the flags and Davis played cover-point. Barney has a bad leg. Some Toronto Irishmen say that he never did like to run up against Wall. The sprints during the game were generally in favor of the visitors.

At the start it was fast and furious. The men stuck to their checks in desperate fashion, and a killing pace was set. Tecumsehs' great combination work soon asserted itself, and the ball went north to stay. Half a dozen times they had it right in the mouth of goal, but Stinson and Sparrow worked heroically and effectively, and it was not until they had struggled 17 minutes that Cross accepted the easy chance that had so often been missed before.

The lightning speed continued, with the locals still forcing the play, and Murphy scored in short order. It was in the third game that the Shamrocks showed superior form, and it looked as if they would surely score. But, instead, the ball went through at the other end. The Tecumsehs had the advantage in the fourth, but in the fifth the Shamrocks again pressed, and Wall sent in a shot that just grazed the stick on the outside. Then the ball went down and the score was 5 to 0. Just as time was up, McKeown swiped the ball past Quinn at close quarters and broke the Shamrocks' goose-egg.

To the wonderful work of Patterson on the defence and Burns on the home is mostly due the lobsided score, while all along the line the locals played like winners.

About 4000 gathered around the oval in perfect weather. They cheered when Pete Knowles won the toss, and kept it up for two hours. Even they had enough Irish in them to applaud Erin's sons for their lucky stroke at the close. The games were scored as follows:

First—Tecumsehs, Cross, 17 min.
Second—Tecumsehs, Murphy, 4 min.
Third—Tecumsehs, German, 5½ min.
Fourth—Tecumsehs, Cross, 3 min.
Fifth—Tecumsehs, Cross, 10 min.
Sixth—Tecumsehs, Burns, 5 min.
Seventh—Shamrocks, McKeown, 19 min.

The teams and officials were:

Shamrocks—McKenna, goal; Stinson, point; Sparrow, cover; Dwyer, Moore, Hinton, defence; O'Brien, centre; Kelly, Murphy, McKeown, home; Wall, outside home; Tucker, inside; M. J. Polan, captain.

Tecumsehs—Quinn, goal; Patterson point; Davis, cover; Grimes, Yorke, Hartley, defence; Peaker, centre; Murphy, Burns, Cross, home; McVey, outside; German, inside; P. Knowles, captain.

Referee—Dr. Roberts. Umpires—J. J. Manning and Fred Killer. Timers—Messrs. Cook and Rose.

CORNWALL IN GREAT FORM.

Cornwall, Aug. 16.—The Cornwall Lacrosse Club added another victory to their string to-day by turning the tables on the Montreal team, by whom they were defeated in the beginning of the season. Yesterday they shut the Montreal team out with a score of 7 games to 0, with about 35 minutes to play. The first three games were very closely contested, especially the third, which lasted 15½ minutes. Cornwall scored the first game in 2¾ minutes, the second in 13, the third in 15½, the fourth in 1½, fifth in 1, the sixth in 2½ and the seventh in 3½. Although there was nearly 35 minutes to play, the visitors did not care to have a larger score piled up against them and withdrew from the field. The Cornwalls, with the exception of McLennan, Crites, Reviere, Turner and Jack Adams, are all of home production, and bid fair to lowering the Capitals' colors when they meet them here in September. They are training hard and will endeavor to once more demonstrate their superiority over the Shamrocks in Montreal next Saturday.

OPENING DAY AT SHEEPSHEAD.

Ogden Captures the Rich Futurity—Connoisseur Wins at Detroit.

Sheepshead Bay, Aug. 15.—The Futurity was run here to-day and was won by Ogden. The horses were called to the post at 4.50 o'clock. They finally got away in good order, with Rhodesia and Ornament a trifle in front. Tuberville rushed Ogden, the colt from Montana, to the front and set a merry clip, followed by Rhodesia, Ornament and Bastian. They ran in this order for a quarter, where Sloane became anxious on Ornament and moved up into second place, Rhodesia dropping back to third and later out of it altogether. Bastian took Rhodesia's place, and so they ran to the dip. There Ogden was leading and going easy, while Sloane was shaking Ornament up a trifle. As they ran to the bend Sloane sent Ornament along, and in a twinkling he was at Ogden's head. The crowd began to yell "Ornament wins." Others cried, "Newsgatherer," mistaking Ogden's colors for those of McCafferty. The two colts came on together head and head for a sixteenth of a mile. Then Sloane suddenly went to the whip. Tuberville redoubled his efforts and drew away slowly but surely, and finally crossed the line a winner by a length and a half from Ornament, who was four lengths in front of [illegible]. Scottish Chieftain was fourth, five lengths back. The time was the fastest Futurity ever run. The best previous time, 2.11, was made by The Butterflies in 1894. The race was worth in the neighborhood of $48,000 to the winner and the aggregate value was nearly $60,000.

THE L.A.W. RACES.

Some of the Professionals Have a Scrap on the Track.

Louisville, Aug. 15.—The last day of the races of the L.A.W. National meet ended with a quarrel among the racing men on account of fouling, the equal of which has not been seen on the national circuit this year. The trouble arose in the five-mile national championship race, in which were entered all the cracks in attendance at the meeting. Cooper started the fouling by trying to push Bald off the pole with his hand. Bald retaliated, and after that example from the leaders nearly every man who wanted the pole got it by pushing. Protests were entered with President Elliott of the league by Bald against Cooper; Cooper against Bald; Coburn against Cooper and Gardiner against Callahan. The finish was: Cooper, 1; W. E. Becker, St. Paul, 2; E. S. Acker, Philadelphia, 3. The time was 12.18 2-5. The officials disqualified Cooper for fouling, and the race was given to Becker, with Acker second and Nat Butler third. There is no appeal from this decision. A heavy rainstorm prevented the running of the last race on the card, the professional trial for one mile, unpaced, and that event was called. Fully 10,000 people were in attendance. There was no meeting of the Racing Board to-day, as had been expected, and the matter of charges, almost all the amateurs that were entered in the national meet race, that they were in the pay of manufacturers, will be investigated at a called meeting, if at all. Summaries:

Half-mile, national championship—First semi-final—Tom Cooper, Detroit, 1; Arthur Gardiner, Chicago, 2. Also started: C. R. Coulter, J. F. Starbuck, W. Coburn. Time 1.12 2-5. Second semi-final—E. C. Bald, Buffalo, 1; Tom Butler, Boston, 2; F. H. Allen, Syracuse, 3. Also started: Ray McDonald, A. D. Kennedy, Louis Challenger, Con Baker. Time 1.08. Final—Tom Butler, Boston, 1; E. C. Bald, 2; Arthur Gardiner, Chicago, 3. Also started—Tom Cooper, F. H. Allen. Time 1.15 3-5.

One-mile handicap, amateur—Final—J. J. Howard, St. Louis (20), 1; C. C. Ingraham, Dixon (scr.), 2; W. E. Lum, Montgomery (15), 3; S. J. Bornwasser, Louisville, 4; F. R. Watterly, St. Louis (30), 5. Time 2.14 2-5.

Two-mile state championship, amateur—W. H. Seaton, Louisville, 1; F. D. Michener, Louisville, 2; V. E. Dupre, Louisville, 3. Time 5.01 3-5.

One-mile open, professional—Final—W. Coburn, St. Louis, 1; F. H. Allen, Syracuse, 2; E. C. Bald, Buffalo, 3. Time 2.19 2-5.

One-mile, amateur, 2.30 class—Final—C. R. McCarthy, St. Louis, 1; Lou Coburn, St. Louis, 2; Stuart Leathers, Louisville, 3. Time 2.15.

Two-mile handicap, professional—Final—W. C. Sanger, Milwaukee, 1; A. D. Kennedy, Chicago (20), 2; L. A. Callahan, Buffalo (20), 3. Time 4.25 2-5.

One-mile, open—C. C. Ingraham, Dixon, 1; B. Samberg, Port Huron, 2; J. J. Howard, St. Louis, 3. Time 2.24.

Five miles, national championship—W. E. Becker, St. Paul, 1; E. S. Acker, Philadelphia, 2; Nat Butler, Boston, 3. Time 12.18 2-5. Cooper, winner, and Callahan, third, disqualified for fouling.

A BOARDING HOUSE TRAGEDY.

Alois Dinkelman Shoots His Wife, Scares His Boarders and Then Ends His Own Life.

New York, Aug. 16.—A double tragedy was enacted on the top floor of the boarding house at 145 West 20th-street, conducted by the deceased husband and wife, early this morning. Alois Dinkelman, about 53 years old, and whose appearance denotes that he was refined and educated, in a fit of temper, or temporary insanity, brought about by business reversals, killed his wife Adelheid by shooting her through the heart. After shooting his wife Alois ran from the room holding a revolver in each hand, and shouted that there were burglars in the house.

James Kermode, a boarder in the house, whose room is opposite that of Dinkelman and wife, in relating the story of the tragedy, said he was startled about 5 o'clock by the report of a revolver. Hurrying to the hall, he saw Dinkelman going towards the stairs. As the murderer reached the stairs he fired a shot, which was followed by cries of "Police!" and, looking over the banister, Kermode saw Philip Molloy, another boarder, running downstairs, pursued by Dinkelman, the latter firing a number of shots at him. Molloy escaped unhurt and summoned the police. Dinkelman then ran upstairs, and, meeting Kermode, told him in reply to a query as to what was the matter, that there was a thief in the house. He then walked into his room, banging the door after him. A few minutes later another loud report was heard coming from Dinkelman's room. Meanwhile Molloy returned with an officer, and, going into Dinkelman's room, found Mrs. Dinkelman lying in a corner dead. The murderer was still breathing, and an ambulance was summoned, but when it arrived Dinkelman was dead. The Dinkelmans had been married 24 years, and were considered to be in comfortable circumstances, but reverses came, and then the couple resorted to keeping a boarding house.

Healthy, happy babies are generally the offspring of healthy, happy mothers. It would hardly be natural if it were otherwise. The baby's health and happiness depend on the mother's. The mother's condition during gestation particularly exerts an influence on the whole life of the child.

Impure blood, weakness and nervousness in the mother are pretty sure to repeat themselves in the child.

If a woman is not careful at any other time, she certainly should be during the period preliminary to parturition. It is a time when greatest care is necessary, and Nature will be the better for a little help. Even strong, well women will find themselves feeling better, their time of labor shortened and their pains lessened if they will take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. To those whom troubles peculiarly feminine have rendered in any degree weak, it will prove a veritable blessing. It is a good general tonic for the whole system, and at any time will promote the proper and regular action of all the organs. It is a medicine for women only and for all complaints confined to their sex is of inestimable value.

Dr. Pierce has written a 1000 page book profusely illustrated called "The People's Medical Adviser," which will be sent on receipt of thirty-one cents in stamps, to prepay postage and duty only. It's a complete family doctor book.

"THE MASTERS OF THE ADMINISTRATION."

Mr. J. Israel Tarte's share in the McGreevy-Connolly charges was never more succinctly and truthfully told than by the Toronto Globe, at the time Tarte first attempted to claim credit for his part in the business. The Globe thus summed up the matter:—

> "Le Canadien (Tarte's paper) received large sums ($30,000 in all) from Thomas McGreevy, Murphy and Robert, when the row commenced, attempted to exact first $10,000 and then $75,000 from Thomas McGreevy and the Connellys by threatening to print the letters. It was then that Tarte decided to take the side of virtue. They furnished the ammunition in the hope of forcing the Dominion ministers to persuade Thomas and the Conollys to pay the sweat money. Tarte appeared as the champion of public morality. He would have deserved much more credit, however, had he applied himself to the elucidation of the whole truth. As it was he screened his own operations."

That was the Globe's honest opinion of the affair and of Tarte's connection with it, at a time when all the essential facts were fresh in its mind. Since then all the additional facts disclosed have only tended to show up Tarte in a still worse light. It must, therefore, be painful to self respecting Grits who, like the Globe, know the kind of material he is made of, to have to acknowledge such a man as one of the party's leaders, the man who more than any other man controls and guides the leader of the party.

Mr. Natanael Mortonson, a well-known citizen of Ishpeming, Mich., and editor Superior Posten, who, for a long time, suffered from the most excruciating pains of rheumatism, was cured, eight years ago by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, having never felt a twinge ot it since.

MINORITY RULE.

The official figures from the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery show that in Ontario the Conservative candidates polled 27,717 more votes than the Liberals; in Nova Scotia, 1,586 more; in New Brunswick, 2,732 more; and in Manitoba, 3,940 more. In these four provinces the Conservatives polled in all 35,975 more votes than the Liberals.

In Quebec Mr. Laurier's candidates polled 13,898 more votes than the Conservatives; in Prince Edward Island, only 37 more; in British Columbia, only 247 more; and in the Northwest Territories, 1,881 more.

It is thus seen—when it is remembered that Mr. Laurier's majority in Parliament is 13 over the Conservatives and independents combined—Mr. Laurier is Premier not because the people of all the provinces of Canada expressed by their votes their confidence in him and the politicians who are associated with him in the present Government, but because the Conservatives were divided and because the mass of the voters in one province, Quebec, swung in solidly behind him.

The new Parliament is made up of 113 Liberals elected by 397,194 votes, 88 Conservatives elected by 413,006 votes and 12 Independents, elected by 80,511 votes.

The hair, when not properly cared for, loses its lustre, becomes crisp, harsh, and dry, and falls out freely with every combing. To prevent this, the best dressing in the market is Ayer's Hair Vigor. It imparts that silky gloss so essential to perfect beauty.

"IT WILL NOT DOWN."

The Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Globe says "the school question, which is the scapegoat for many midsummer fancies, is not troubling the Laurier Cabinet any." In that case, comments the Winnipeg Free Press, perhaps the Laurier Cabinet will have the goodness to complete itself at once by the appointment of some suitable person to the office of Minister of the Interior. The impression is very general that the position has not been filled because of this very question. If this is a mistaken belief we do not see any possible excuse for further delay, especially as Northwest interests are supposed to be more or less prejudiced by it.

Sure to win.

The people recognize and appreciate real merit. That is why Hood's Sarsaparilla has the largest sales in the world. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures—absolutely, permanently cures. It is the One True Blood Purifier. Its superior merit is an established fact, and merit wins.

Hood's Pills are easy to take, easy to operate, cure indigestion, headache.

Failure and Success.

It is often all the little things that constitute the wide difference between success and failure. Some men, earnest in purpose, capable in many ways, seem unable to discern the import of minor, nevertheless important elements, and neglect in consequence to grasp the opportunities that if accepted would carry them on to victory. In the same way people are imposed upon by mercenary druggists, who, to gain an additional profit, practice the dishonest method of substitution. Calling for Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, they accept some worthless flesh-eating substitute, only to be disappointed or suffer injury. Putnam's Corn Cure is the only reliable one.

A PORTRAIT'S EYES.

WHY THEY FOLLOW AN OBSERVER ROUND THE ROOM.

The Latest and Best Things Culled From the World of Science—Some Big Things—The Sum and Substance of Many Matters.

Wollaston's curious discovery, says Notes and Queries, was that by adding to each pair of eyes a nose directed to the right or the left the eyes lose their front direction, and look to the right or left, according to the direction of the nose. By means of a flap representing the lower features in a different position, as Dr. Wollaston remarks, "a lost look of devout abstraction in an uplifted countenance may be exchanged for an appearance of inquisitive archness in the leer of a younger face turned downward and obliquely toward the opposite side."

As by changing the direction of the lower features we change the direction of the eyes, so by changing our position the eye of the portrait apparently follows us. If a vertical line be drawn through the tip of the nose and halfway between the eyes, there will be the same breadth of head, of cheek, of chin, and of neck on each side of this middle line, and each iris will be in the middle of the whole of the eye. If we now move to one side the apparent horizontal breadth of every part of the head and face will be diminished, but the parts on each side of the middle line will be diminished equally, and at any position, however oblique, there will be the same breadth of face on each side of the middle line, and the iris will be in the centre of the whole of the eyeball, so that, being on a flat surface, the iris will be seen in front of the picture or obliquely.

Cause of the Colors of the Sea.

An interesting series of experiments on the transparency of liquids is described by M. W. Spring in the Bulletin of the Royal Academy of Belgium. The first of M. Spring's papers deals with the colors of the alcohols as compared with water. None of the alcohols observed were colorless when the thickness of fluid was 26 metres; methyl alcohol appeared greenish blue, ethyl alcohol the same, but of a less warm color, and amyl alcohol greenish yellow. The pure blue color observed in water becomes thus modified by the admixture of more and more yellow as we pass from one term of the homologous series of compounds to the next. The absorbing powers of the various liquids for ordinary light were also observed, and it was found that these formed a descending series, the simplest substance—water—offering the greatest resistance to the passage of light seen by the eye. In a second contribution, the same writer discusses the temperature at which the connection currents begin to produce opacity in a column of water of given length. Where the length is 26 metres the smallest difference of temperature that will suffice is about 0.57 degrees, and is comparable with that which doubtless exists in lakes and seas. The author concludes that we have here an explanation of the varied colors so often seen on water. These, Nature says, result from the differences of temperature caused by sunshine, on the one hand, and by the cooling action of wind blowing on the surface, on the other.

Absorbing Power of Soil.

As a preliminary experiment in coloring flowers Dr. Russell has tested the power of the soil to retain the various salts proposed to be used in the case of white pelargoniums. He took two glass tubes, a foot in length, and three-quarters of an inch in diameter, and drawn out at one end. These were filled with soil from a garden, the amount being 8 1-2 cubic inches. He poured in a solution of sulphate of copper (13 grains to the pint, or quarter of an ounce to a gallon). The water which came through was tested; but 4 1-3 pints passed through before any sulphate appeared, and that only after one month; 56 grains were held by the soil. Similarly with sulphate of iron, 3 1-2 pints of the solution passed through before any iron was present in the water. This took twenty-eight days, so that 47 grains were held by the soil. The next experiment was made with ammonium salts. Ammonium nitrate was poured on the soil (13 grains to the pint); 4 ounces came through before the ammonium salt was found. The soil thus retained 2 3-4 grains. This took only three-quarters of an hour. Ammonium chloride.—With this salt, 5 ounces passed through before ammonia was detected; therefore, the soil held 3 1-2 grains. It ran through in half an hour. The significance of these experiments showed that unless the salt be placed directly in contact with the roots, it might be retained in the soil, and no result would follow.

Breeding Place of Thunderstorms.

Mr. H. Harries read a paper on "Arctic Hail and Thunder Storms," in which he showed that the commonly accepted opinion that hail and thunder storms are almost, if not quite, unknown in the Arctic regions is incorrect. He had examined 100 logs of vessels which had visited the Arctic regions, and found that out of that number no fewer than 73 showed that hail was experienced at some time or other. Thunder storms were not so frequent as hail, but they have been observed in seven months out of the twelve, the month of greatest frequency being August. Mr. Harries is of opinion that the breeding place of thunder storms in these high latitudes is in the neighborhood of Barent's Sea.

Why Lightning Sours Milk.

A German scientist states that lightning, being either a sudden current or an oscillating one, induces currents in all neighboring conductors, and as the current strength is enormous, the inductive action extends to thousands of metres, thus inducing currents that have appreciable chemical action; it is the chemical action of these currents that causes milk to become sour by the decomposition of the soluble components of the milk, which produce acids, and these in turn cause the milk to curdle.

IN FASHION'S REALM

Hints as to Materials and Styles that Are and Will Be in Vogue.

Chiffon and mousseline de sole are now made with much more stiffness than when the material was first brought over, and it is quite possible to have entire gowns made of these, even for water-side wear, provided the linings used are of good enough quality, says Harper's Bazar. By good enough is meant heavy enough. The most brilliant colorings are used in these materials, but, as has been said, are toned down by the linings and trimmings. One noticeably pretty gown, made of the brightest apple green, is an exquisitely delicate shade when made up over white silk and trimmed with black, while a yellow, so brilliant that it is dazzling to the eyes, assumes an odd, soft, warm shade lined with heliotrope and trimmed with white lace and the inevitable touches of black, which are again seen on every smart gown. It was made with a ruching of the material separated and also headed by bands of very narrow black velvet ribbon, the waist finished around the shoulders also with a ruche and the narrow black velvet. A black velvet velt and bow of ribbon velvet two inches wide, and very odd sleeves in big puffs separated by the black velvet, completed this extremely odd design. The bright yellow gown, which was made up over heliotrope, had each seam of the skirt outlined with a band of lace insertion, and ruches of lace were put on in scallops around the skirt. The waist, while a deep frill of lace was put on bertha fashion, but caught in at the armholes and then falling a second time over the sleeves. A folded belt of black satin shaped like a corselet was trimmed in front with two rows of rhinestone buttons, while at the back the same ribbon was drawn down through a rhinestone buckle and fell in long ends to the very hem of the gon. The touch of black sounds very daring, but it gave a point of color that was most effective.

Care of Gloves.

Always stretch them out smooth and put in a box without doubling when removed from the hands. A nice addition to the glove box is a scented satchet, giving the gloves a delicate odor when worn.

An error that is commonly made is that of mending kid gloves with sewing silk, as the silk cuts the kid and shows the mend more plainly, while fine cotton thread gives a much more satisfactory result. If the gloves are torn, put a piece of silk of corresponding shade under the torn part, baste carefully so as not to reveal the stitches on the right side and then draw up the rent with cotton thread.

A few good glove cleaners are recommended, but it is generally better to send the glove to one who makes this his business than to experiment on them, for, like the mending, it is a trade in itself. But, whenever you do, take warning by the fate of a nice pair of driving gloves we once had, and never try to polish them up with French shoe dressing. The way it came about, we read in one of the papers that an application of this liquid would renew the youth, and beauty of old and badly-soiled kid gloves, and deeming newspaper lore to be relied upon, we put it into effect, but, alas! the result was a revelation. To be sure, there were no soiled spots remaining visible, but the shine on those gloves made them positively reflective, and the way they adhered to the reins turned our thoughts to agricultural affairs and molasses candy. In conclusion, we have only to say: Mend, patch, clean or wash your gloves, but never try French shoe dressing. It doesn't work.

Treatment of the Shoulders.

Though great width across the shoulders is not now a part of the style, yet blouse trimmings continue to show a certain preoccupation with the shoulders. The eye is carried out over the sleeve with either a yoke collar or equalets sewed into the armholes, or a longer equalet that huns from the neck over the shoulder seam to fall upon the sleeve. This last is sometimes tucked, and may be bordered with lace or a ruffle so as to almost as large as a yoke. As a variation the popularity of the wide corselet belt has suggested the application of trimming to the lower half of the blouse, that is worn with a narrow belt. Thus a green etamine blouse has flax-colored guipure applied to the lower part in strips running up and down, with the upper ends pointed and a narrow edge of lace running around and joining the points into one outline. The close part of the sleeve is covered with the lace and the upper part is left plain. The effect is really the same as that of a yoke and equalets, only the position of the trimming reversed. An infinity of changes are played on the bolero, which taken altogether is perhaps the most successful idea of the summer.

Foreshadowing Next Winter.

That next winter is to see our arms tightly encased in sheathlike sleeves there seems very little doubt. There is a marked shrinking in size already, and the exaggeratedly large sleeve already looks passe. The new styles, though, are too extreme to become popular at once, and they are certainly most unbecoming. Two silk waists just finished to wear with duck skirts are very odd. One of flame-colored taffeta; changeable from the deep flame to pale yellow, has the fronts of the waist in full folds crossed over the bust; the sleeves fit tight to the arm, except just at the elbow where there is a clear, full puff that looks like a pin-cushion. The other model is of shaded mauve silk, and the sleeves are shirred from shoulder to wrist; apparently the silk used is very narrow, for the edges stick out "like quills upon the fretful porcupine," and look like ridges up and down the arm. No softening effect of lace or embroidery is on these waists, which have just been turned out by one of the smartest modistes.—Harper's Bazar.

Why It Was Rejected.

Alphaca, as I predicted, has not had great success with Parisians, who have preferred, on the whole, to choose for their outing gowns either pique or serge. This material started out the season with a blast of trumpets, but must now be hunted for in the dark corners of the shops. The manufacturers counted without the host. It has a quality too poor; it is inflexible and refuses an intimate relation with the figure, and women have very generally rejected it for gowns.—Paris correspondent Indianapolis News.

An Enormous Pie.

Under different skies jubilees and celebrations partake of varying characteristics. In Yorkshire and in some other parts of England also, every occasion for rejoicig is marked by the baking of a huge pie, which, after being exhibited, is devoured by all the inhabitants, says the New York Journal.

At Denby Dale, a Yorkshire hamlet, for instance, the other day, the people celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the repeal of the corn laws by constructing an enormous pie 6 feet 6 inches wide and 1 feet 6 inches long. The dimensions of the indigestion which followed are not given.

This is not so large as the pie that this same village built on another anniversary some years ago, which was drawn through the place with thirty-two horses, headed by three brass bands, and was afterward put away under the waistcoats of the Denby DaWlers. It is said that some of the older inhabitants still retain portions of it in their osseous formation.

The Guildhall Library.

The city of London can be congratulated on having purchased for the Guildhall library the splendid philological library of the late Prince Lucien Bonaparte, who died a few years ago in England. It was Prince Lucien, by the bye, whose will contained the queer request that the last letter addressed to him by Queen Victoria should be placed in the pocket of the evening dress coat in which he was buried.—Marquise de Fontenoy, in Chicago Record.

French Currency.

The richest country in the world, so far as currency is concerned, is France, where the people have $36.81 of currency per capita. Next comes Australia, $26.05 a head; the United States is third, $26.02; the Netherlands fourth, $24.34; then follows Portugal, $21.08; and Great Britain, with $20.44 a head, is sixth.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

HER MORNING ROOM.

WHICH IS SIMPLY THE OLD SITTING ROOM IN MODERN GARB.

How It Should Be Furnished to be Up-to-Date—The Materials and the Colors—It Need Not Be Expensive, But It Must Be Tasteful and Nice.

Every well-appointed house nowadays must have a morning room. In olden days we used to say "sitting room," but we have changed all that now; we have glorified the room and placed "morning" where "sitting" had previously stood from time immemorial, says the New York Journal.

The most charming morning room that I know is all done up in delft blue and pale yellow. Blue, indeed, is always a favorite color for a morning room. "Give me plenty of blue, in plates, in hangings, in tiles, and I can make a morning room out of a dry goods box!" one lively girl was heard to exclaim the other day.

Matting—a pretty China matting—is the most appropriate floor covering, with any number of Japanese rugs, or only one large one, as you please, the trail of blue being over it all. There is a large open fireplace, where wood burns cool mornings and evenings, for this morning room is in a house intended for summer occupancy. The mantel is rather an elaborate affair of whitewood, built up with shelves which reach nearly to the ceiling, and glass doors in front, any quantity of pretty bric-a-brac reposing within.

All about the fireplace, above, on either side and on the hearth, are white Minton tiles, those above the fire place being decorated in blue, with a pretty design of broad garlands, caught here and there in graceful loops and knots.

All the windows have fine muslin curtains, caught back, with overdraperies of pale yellow China silk. The same form the portieres at the folding doors leading into the dining room on one side and the hall on the other. There is a small writing desk in one corner of the room, where the mistress, her family or her guests find everything at hand to answer any letter received in the morning mail. There are two or three book cases of whitewood, with the ends painted in blue, garlands, and an appropriate text, like, "Oh, for a book and a quiet nook!"

A comfortable lounge, with the pillows in shades of blue or yellow, invites to ease, also pretty chairs of various descriptions, all of willow, as well as the little low rack for newspapers, the magazine table and the table for general use.

Across one side of the room runs a narrow shelf, about three inches wide, where photographs, vases and various odds and ends most do congregate.

Above hangs a lot of old English sporting prints; quite in keeping with these is a collection of whips, canes and hunting crops, which find a local habitation upon a door leading into a closet. The walls are generously supplied with pictures, engravings, etchings and photographs of Tom in his dog cart, or Harry and his four-in-hand, or Daisy paddling her canoe. Perhaps here and there is a water color, but no oil paintings, as you value your reputation. Just as many odd bits, placed here and there about the room, as you like. Bits picked up during your travels in England, Italy, Egypt, Mexico, or on "bargain day" at a Fifth avenue shop, but let everything be blue or yellow, for blue is heaven and yellow is sunshine.

Household Furniture and Decoration.

Between the reign of Louis XVI. and the time of Napoleon, France passed through the most painful events of her history. The rule of the great general brought about a complete change in everything. The society which sprang into existence during the revolution was too new and too uncultivated to appreciate this dlicacy of workmanship, which was superseded by false and heavy magnificence. Articles of furniture were now covered with useless attributes, such as the arms of armchairs transformed into the necks of swans, feet of chairs representing burning torches or filled quivers, tables supported by sphinxs or dolphins, and "bedsteads made in the form of boats destined to descend the river of life," etc.

The wars of Napoleon called the attention of the people to art in other lands, and, as the result we see in the furniture of this period the introduction of Grecian, Egyptian, and Syrian forms. Ancient Greek tripods, the figure of the winged victory, and Roman faces with an ox in the centre, antique helmeted warriors used on medallions and various mythological characters were much employed in this style; also representations of the battles of Napoleon, in which the Emperor poses as a Roman general.

Dr. Kalke says of this style: "Farewell to your marqueterie and Boule, your ribbons, festoons and rosettes of gilded bronze; the hour has come when objects must be made to harmonize with circumstances." Such was the point of departure from the brilliant Renaissance.—Harper's Bazar.

Soiled White Straw Hats.

At this season of the year the care of white straw hats is as important as any other domestic item. To remove the soiled, stained look, which is just about now becoming universal, brush the hat thoroughly, then add a little ammonia to some water and scrub with a brush rubbed in castile soap. If any stains resist this treatment, apply a little lemon juice and two cents' worth of powdered yellow sulphur. Rub this mixture into the straw and then remove it with a damp cloth. Do not attempt to wear the hat before it is thoroughly dry.

The Recognized Finish.

The recognized finish to every well-made skirt is a narrow inside foot-frill, pinked at either edge, which should be caught to the facing every few inches, otherwise it is apt to turn up.

A Furniture Hint.

To remove the finger marks from varnished furniture, rub them with cloth dampened with sweet oil. To remove them from oiled furniture, use kerosene oil.

The New Summer Girl.

"Billy, did you have a good time across the lake?"

"Lovely! Every girl at the hotel took me out in her boat and did all the rowing."—Chicago Record.

Fortified.

"Is your new maid satisfactory, Mrs. Osmond?"

"I'm delighted with her; she is so homely that book agents never attempt to step inside of the front door."

Convincing Proof.

"Fleming won't allow his wife to get trusted. He says she hasn't any judgment."

"That's so. She showed her want of it when she married him."

MOIRA.

AUG. 15.—The sad news of the death of Mr. Abraham Caldwell, who it is thought was one of the victims of the dynamite explosion near Whitney, was recieved last week. The young man was the only support of his aged father and mother and the sad news seems more than the grief stricken mother is able to bear. He belonged to Orange Lodge No. 300, and was also a member of the C.O.O.F. at Beulah. The exact cause of his death has not yet been ascertained. A funeral sermon will be preached in the Methodist church on Sunday next by the Rev. R. L. Edwards.—The Hornerites are holding a tent meeting in Philips' grove. Miss Mock, an evangalist, has charge of the meetings. Large crowds attend, but they report a small increase in their membership.—Mr. Thos. Stout, county road master of Madoc, has been at work with a gang of men for about two weeks, in consequence whereof our gravel road has undergone some much needed repairs. Good roads mean good homes and good government.—Mr. B. L. Wilkes has returned from the north country, where he has been engaged putting up a brick residence for Mr. James English, Reeve of Madoc.—We are pleased to report that the members of Mr. S. N. Salisbury's family, who were ill, are able to be around again.—Messrs. G. H. Wilkes, J. F. Herity and H. Brown took in the regatta at Belleville on Thursday.

The Great Welsh Water Scheme.

The proposal of the Glamorganshire County Council may be regarded as the most comprehensive water scheme ever contemplated. This scheme was to create a water authority under the Public Health Act, which would include the counties of Glamorgan and Carmarthen, with part of Cardigan, Brecon and Monmouth; and its first object as defined by the promoters was to acquire possession of the available watersheds, gradually construct storage reservoirs, and take measures for the supply of the districts within the area of the authority's jurisdiction. The idea of preserving "Welsh water for the Welsh" was an ambitious one, as we pointed out at the time, and it promised to be an expensive one as well. The gathering grounds to be scheduled extended over 122 square miles on the head waters of the Usk, the Irvon, and the Towy. A reservoir costing $6,000,000 was to be constructed near Trecastle, with a capacity of 4,538,000,000 gallons, supplying 12,000,000 gallons a day. Other reservoirs, fourteen in number, were to be added as time went on, to bring up the potential daily supply to 115,000,000 galons. The ultimate expenditure could only be a matter of approximate calculation, but with the purchase of land and all comprised, it was estimated at somewhere about $50,000,000.

HOME FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

Mr. Charles Taylor Tells a Reporter Something About That Country.

Mr. Charles W. Taylor arrived home on Saturday evening from South Africa, where he has been for over a year engaged in business with Mr. Fred Lingham. He left Delagoa Bay on the 25th of June and was 32 days reaching Southampton. He spent some time in Lonodon and New York.

"How are the Belleville boys doing in South Africa," asked the reporter.

"Well," replied Mr. Taylor, "there are not many of them there so far as I could learn. I saw Harry Smart at Delagoa Bay. He is employed by a railway company and is doing well. Harry Stroud has had a severe attack of fever, but is now recovering. James Deegan, a nephew of Mr. Thos. Hanley, is doing well at carpenter work. I did not know Angus Dickson's address, so I did not see him."

"How are chances for smart men in that country?" queried the reporter.

"South Africa," said Mr. Taylor, "is not a white man's country, and very few can stand it in the fever districts along the coast. There is plenty of work for skilled labor, but the ordinary workingman had better stay here. Every steamer that arrives is crowded and the people are flocking into Johannesburg at the rate of about 500 per day. I don't see what they were going to do. Of course, people who have been disappointed are leaving for home as fast as possible and you have to book two months ahead to get passage on a steamer. I offered a large sum for a berth on the steamer Drummond Castle, which went down off the coast of France early in the summer. I knew about thirty of the men on board and I was well acquainted with the young man who was saved."

Mr. Taylor said things had quieted down since the Transvaal trouble, but its effects were still felt. Mr. Fred Lingham was again at work at his business and doing well. He has offices at Johannesburg and Delagoa Bay. Mr. Taylor supervises the shipping matters at the Bay and has done well himself.

Mr. Taylor says Johannesburg has a healthy climate, as it is 6000 feet above the sea level. He had helped three consumptives on the boat at Southampton on his trip out. They went to the Free States and when he met them some months afterwards he did not recognize them, so healthy had they grown. Mr. Taylor has taken on about forty pounds of flesh. He will remain here till February if the climate does not drive him out.

SPORTING NEWS.

Brief Notes of the Happenings in the Arena of Legitimate Sport.

HORSE AND TRACK.

The mare Daisy Wilson, which paced in 2:20¼ at Newburg, Ohio and won two races, is only 13 hands 1 inch high.

Amos R., 2:11¾, pacer, is but 14 hands high.

Dan T., 2:07¾, the latest pacing sensation, wears tight bobbles.

The average speed at the Columbus meeting broke the record. The 34 heats trotted ranged from 2:09¼ to 2:18¼ and averaged 2:12 3-5. The 33 heats paced ranged from 2:01½ to 2:25¾ and averaged 2:09 3-5.

John R. Gentry, 2:03¾, worked a mile on Buffalo track on Friday in 2:03. The track record is 2:04½.

Joe Patchen has been a half in 57 seconds.

Ed. Geers does not believe in shortening the races.

The 2:10 list has received over 16 additions so far this year.

The pacer St. John, which won races during July at Napanee, Kingston and other places, is believed to be a ringer and his identity is being looked after.

The grand circuit meeting at Fort Wayne closed on Saturday. Lottie Loraine won the 2:09 pace after losing the first heat to Colbert. The second heat was paced in 2:08¼, and all the others were under 2:10. Lilly Young captured the 2:17 trot in straight heats, 2:12½ being the fastest. Miss Finley in the 2:25 pace and Harry C. in the 2:30 trot were the other winners.

THE OAR.

London, Aug. 15—(Telegram cable)—This morning Jake Gaudaur, of Canada, and James Stanbury, of Australia, drove in a coach and four to The Sportsman office and there signed articles of agreement to row on September 7, from Putney to Mortlake, the Thames championship course, for the championship of the world, a purse of $2,500 and The Sportsman's Challenge Cup. Gaudaur, who looks in the pink of condition, is apparently pleased with the boat now being constructed for him at Putney by Clasper, and which he saw on the stocks yesterday.

To the Editor of the INTELLIGENCER.

The Regatta. The Boys and The City.

SIR,—I am not one of those who say "I told you so," nor do I believe that any of the subscribers to the guarantee fund grudge a dollar of their payments, nor is there a man in Belleville who does not appreciate the public-spirited and self sacrificing efforts of many of the committee and officials of the Regatta—now a memory of the past. While we must all deplore the lamentable financial results, yet it is an experience which will have the practical effect of teaching that the day of the high-priced Professional is over, that four days are too long a period over which to extend events which must from their nature be of a very similar kind, and that success can only attend large events which have been planned and contracted for weeks (and months) before hand. Men usually lay out their summer campaigns in May and June, and only the errant travellers are diverted from regular routes. It is asked why Halifax Regatta was so successful when Belleville failed to draw from a distance? We must not forget that Halifax has the prestige of a larger and a military city and had the assistance of a squadron of the British fleet with their magnificent display of power and skill. No complaint can be made about our night exhibitions, which were both beautiful and interesting, and probably no city in Canada could show a grander panorama of natural beauty than that which in daylight met the view from the grand stand east and west. Those who did not use the grand stand (from which everything was visible), do not know what they missed. Another good result of the regatta is that our bay of Quinte has been well advertised and has become a reality to many to whom before it was but a geographical name on the map. This is the true principle of progress to utilize and put forward our natural resources and advantages, And in this connection I believe I state the opinion of every thoughtful citizen, that our agricultural surroundings are and must be our main and permanent support, and all regret that trade and friendly relationship with our farmer friends has been discouraged rather than fostered this year. The feeling outside at the dropping of the Agricultural Exhibition has surprised even the directors themselves, who knew well the good the annual exhibition did Belleville, not merely in the money brought and trade centered here, but in the co-operation of many representative men of the county (not citizens) who gave their time and labor gratuitously in the city's interest. How much better expended would $3000 have been if permanently invested in proper agricultural and athletic grounds with a mile and other smaller tracks and all modern requisites, giving yearly and continuous results. However when the regatta has been proved to be possible, that is when there has been shown to be enthusiasm and money enough in Belleville to raise $3000 for a temporary thing, may there not be a reasonable expectation of raising $3000 next year for a permanent thing, to the support of which the Council, next to be elected, should be pledged before our franchise is exercised. Another good result of the regatta is the manifestation to ourselves of our needs, as well as our advantages. The bay may be picturesque, the waters may be clear and cool, the breeze may be refreshing, but how many of us ever can enjoy all this more than a few days during the entire summer. Those with money can, those without money can't. Take the average small boy, or big boy, where can they swim? Every week we read from some indignant citizen of boys bathing—actually bathing, in the water! There should be baths—baths closed, and baths open. There should be direct free public access to some water front park. Twenty-five years ago, my comrades will remember with what pride we Bay of Quinte youngsters at college in Toronto showed the inland boys how to breast the waves off the old northern dock there, and they seemed to expect Belleville boys to lead either as amphibious, or as cricketers, or in the race. I have made special enquiry, and I find that it is different now, at least in regard to swimming. There is not such free access to the water. There is not the training or the mutual pride in aquatic sports and aquatic feats, The Boys' Brigade is a recognized success; let us organize a Naval Brigade also. There are plenty of boys and plenty of waves. Talk the matter up. Meanwhile, we don't want the earth, but we do want the bay—free for all—it is the heritage of our youth. The bridge gives a certain opportunity to those who can afford to cross it. The excursion boats all need searchlights. Will not the press turn the editorial searchlights upon what will go far to build up this city and make it a good place and a healthy place to live in.

Yours, &c.,
W. N. PONTON.

HILLIER.

AUG. 17.—The much needed rain came yesterday. Buckwheat that was just in blossom is greatly helped by this fine shower. —Most of the grain, with the exception of peas, is inside the barns.—Most of the peas around here are being cut with the pea harvesters. Those that have none of their own hire someone else's.—Apple buyers are already on their rounds. J. Ward, of Consecon, is around buying early apples for his evaporator, the price paid being 20c per 100 lbs. The quality of apples never was better in this section than now.—Several from here took in the trip by the C.O.R. to Trenton, thence by the Ella Ross to Picton, returning home by the C. O. R., for the small fare of 75c. They report a pleasant time.—Several from this place are thinking of taking in the cheap trip to Manitoba next week.—Greg. Tittus and wife spent Sunday last in this place visiting relatives.—Levi Palmer and wife were visiting at Egbert DeLong's, near Picton, on Saturday and Sunday.

NEW YORK'S BIG BUILDING.

IT IS THIRTY STORIES ABOVE THE PAVEMENT.

Level With Cheops.—Sketch of the Latest Office Reared in Gotham.

Think of a building thirty stories high! Think of a building weighing a hundred million pounds—as much as three-quarters of a million men of average weight! Think of a building with hundreds of feet, many of these weighing fifty-five tons, of single steel girders. Think of a building that will have nearly a thousand offices, and house by day a population of three or four thousand souls.

And, last of all, think of this—the tallest office structure upon this earth, simply as a business investment of a syndicate of capitalists, who find this as good a way as any as any to plant their money. There must be profit in tall buildings. The one referred to is the new structure now going up in Park Row, just at the lower end of the post office building, and within a stone's throw of the new sky scraper, the St. Paul, on the site of the old Herald building at Ann street and Broadway.

The St. Paul building, which is being built for Mr. Havemeyer, the sugar king, is 306 feet from curb to cornice, and overcaps by a few feet the beautiful structure erected at the corner of Pine and Broadway, a few blocks below, opposite the Equitable building, by the American Surety company. The structure of the American Surety company in turn is a few feet higher than the soaring pile which the American Tract society erected at the corner of Nassau and Spruce streets.

The building of the American Tract society, still in turn, was a few feet higher than the thin jutting clifflike affair erected by the Manhattan Life Insurance company at No. 66 Broadway, which, again, is higher than the addition to the Mutual Life Insurance company's building in Liberty street.

These comparisons are being run over simply to remind our readers of what a large number of great office structures have been stealing up in this already over crowded and congested portion of Manhattan Island; of how each one has gone steadily higher, and yet a little higher, than its next door neighbor, until the shadow they cast throws into the shade and cuts off from the sunlight buildings, some of them a hundred or more feet away, which a few years ago were regarded as wonders.

And now, as if to cap the climax, comes a structure in Park Row, a full eighty feet higher than the St. Paul building—higher than the famous Masonic Temple of Chicago—higher, in fact, than any structure designated for the habitation of man upon this round globe.

As said, there must be money in tall buildings. The Park Row affair is not designed as an advertisement. In this way the Park Row structure is additionally remarkable, for it shows that a party of capitalists, counting in such men as Charles R. Flint, Geo. R. Read, William M. Ivins and others, see it to their interest to purchase this desirable but high placed property and put thereon the tallest structure in the world.

The leap of a clear eighty feet, or more than thirty-five per cent., between two buildings whose construction was almost simultaneously begun, as in the case of the St. Paul and the Park Row building, is one of the most prodigious strides which has been made since the era of tall buildings set in. The Park Row building will be twenty-seven stories high for its full width. The side ornamentations will carry it three stories higher, or thirty in all. The cupola forms the thirty-first.

The Park Row building will be 386 feet in height from curb to cornice, and will have a frontage in Park Row of 103 feet.

The total cost of the building exclusive of the land on which it is reared, will be above a million dollars. In its construction it does not present any novel points over other tall buildings of a similar type. In its foundations the architect, R. H. Robertson, of No. 160 Fifth avenue, has followed the style which he adopted, and it is believed initiated, in the substructure of the American Tract Society building, of which he was also the designer.

The building rests upon piles driven through the sand, one to each square of eighteen or twenty inches. The piles are driven down below the water line, cut off and capped, so that they will not rot, and upon this rises the structure of cement, granite and steel which holds the colossus up. Several of the steel beams, the girders, which are used to carry the weight of the outer walls to an inferior base, cantilever fashion, weigh, as already noted, some fifty-five tons. That is heavier than an ordinary locomotive. Only modern steel making, with giant trip hammers and monster forges and colossal cranes, could ever turn out such ponderous billets of steel as this. So far as can be seen even the wonder of the construction of the pyramids grows dim beside feats like this, which are now every day affairs. If this building, with its foundation, could be set in a scale pan, it would balance a thousand locomotives of the ordinary type. Into the scale against it you could put the entire population of the city of Boston, or for that matter the whole population of several states of the west. And as for height, it will be far higher than the apex of Trinity spire, a full hundred feet above the topmost point of Bunker Hill monument. Its flagstaff will be on a level with the summit of Cheops.

What you want when you are ailing is a medicine that will cure you. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla and be convinced of its merit.

Where They Come From.

Every young reader has heard pussy called tabby, but all do not know that tabby cat was named after Atab, a famous street in the old city of Bagdad. On this street the merchant sold a beautiful watered silk called atabi. In modern days this silk has been styled taffeta. The wavy marking of the silk was thought to resemble pussy's coat of fur.

Jet derives its name from a river in Lycia—the Gagates—in the bed of which were found smooth black stones called gaet, of which jewelery was made.

A pamphlet is a bound book in paper. A long, long time ago a Greek lady wrote the history of the world in 35 little books, which, after her, were called Pamphylia.

Humbug is a bit of fun aimed at Hamburg, in Germany, which city was rather famous for getting up sensations which turned out to be nothing very wonderful after all. Hamburg news was humbug.

Dollar is from the German thaler, named from Thal, in Bohemia, where were located the silver works which made this coin.

Money traces its history to a remote period, when the coinage of the Romans was struck at the temple of the goddess Juno Moniete.

Hops.

According to vote of the New York Hop Growers' Association the prices to be paid pickers and box tenders were fixed as follows: Pickers to be paid 20 cent a box when boarded by grower; 30 cents a box when they board themselves (a decrease of five cents); box tenders to be paid 75 cents a box when boarded by grower, and $1 a box when they board themselves. The box is to be of standard size, 18x26x36 inches.

Boils

It is often difficult to convince people their blood is impure, until dreadful carbuncles, abscesses, boils, scrofula or salt rheum, are painful proof of the fact. It is wisdom now, or whenever there is any indication of blood, to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and prevent such eruptions and suffering.

"I had a dreadful carbuncle abscess, red, fiery, fierce and sore. The doctor attended me over seven weeks. When the abscess broke, the pains were terrible, and I thought I should not live through it. I heard and read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I decided to take it, and my husband, who was suffering with boils, took it also. It soon purified our

PICTURE FRAMING DONE TO ORDER.

A Friend of the Helpless.

The other evening in New York a policeman was strolling along one of the upper West Side streets not far from a stone-yard. Presently a white bulldog ran toward the policeman, barking as if for aid. The policeman was quite struck with the way in which the dog would give his bark and then bound back into the yard. He decided at last that he would see what the dog was trying to do, He followed him into the yard, and on the ground was a little white bundle. The policeman struck a match, and the little white bundle proved to be a baby. The policemen picked it up, almost afraid that the dog would bite him, but instead he wagged his tail and gave every evidence of being quite pleased at the policeman's act. The dog trotted along by the side of the policeman until the latter went into the station house. When the policeman stopped the dog wagged his tail and looked up into his face. When the policeman went into the station house the dog followed him, seemingly listened to what he said, and when the door was opened walked out. Evidently the little baby was a stranger to the dog. He had found it in this lonely place, and then done what he could to have the baby cared for. The policeman says that this is just a common street dog—probably one of the kind that naughty boys would think it great fun to tease and to tie a tin pail to his tail and send him frightened down the street. But this dog was a real hero, and showed himself much more human than the boys who delight to torment him.—The Outlook.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

Where They Were.

Two kittens were born in a large warehouse. These kittens were very frolicsome, and became great favorites. One day the men employed could not find the two kittens. They hunted and hunted, but found no trace of them. About four weeks afterward it was necessary to tear away a part of the platform in front of the building. To the surprise of the workmen, under this platform was a rat-trap, and in the rat-trap were the two kittens. Their mother had found them and had nourished them all the time they were in the trap. They had grown so large that they were very much crowded in their tiny wire house, from which the men soon liberated them.

The Right Proportions.

Bridget is an excellent cook, but, like most women of her profession, she is opinionated, and insists upon making all her dishes strictly according to her own recipes. Her mistress gives her very full swing, not only as to cooking, but as to the purchase of supplies. The other day her mistress said to her: "Bridget the coffee you are giving us is very good. What kind is it?" "It's no koind at all, mum," said Bridget: "It's a mixter." "How do you mix it?" "I make it one-quarter Mocha and one-quarter Java and one-quarter Rio." "But that's only three-quarters. What do you put in for the other quarter?" "I put in no other quarter at all, mum. That's where so many sphiles the coffee, mum—by putting in a foorth quarter."—New York Observer.

Mr. Legate, Traveller for McCormack & Co., London, says: "Miller's Compound Iron Pills restored me to health after a month of prostration from nervous shock and loss of blood." A PRAISEWORTHY SCHEME.

The Salvation Army Will Have a Thanksgiving Festival.

The annual harvest festival scheme in connection with the Salvation army will be held throughout Canada, Newfoundland, Northwest America and Bermuda, on Saturday Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 29, 30, 31 and Sept. 1. The officers of the various corps are instructed to visit friends and collect from them anything they are able to contribute, whether it be in cash or otherwise. Gifts of produce, groceries, fruit, grain, cattle, poultry, or anything of any description which is salable will be acceptable. Ater the collection of these various articles a sale of the same is arranged for the Tuesday night, and the proceeds placed into one common fund to help the army financially. The Commissioner, Miss Booth, hopes also by the scheme to replenish the storehouses of the various institutions, such as rescue homes for fallen women, men's shelters, children's institutions, etc., so that it will be unnecessary to spend money on these articles during the fall and winter.

Not Far Away.

She was a dear little girl only 3 years old. She had got tired playing around her mother's kitchen, and so she wandered out of doors and was not missed for some time. Then how frightened her mother was! She told all the neighbors, and searching parties were made up, the surrounding woods thoroughly hunted over, men got into waggons and drove about the roads, stopping at every house to inquire for a little fair-haired girl, with a doll, who had gone away from home When all the people had scattered, and the houses about were quite deserted, in came the little girl with her hands full of flowers. She had been in a neighbor's yard two doors away. It is always safe to look for everything that is lost, even babies, near home.—The Outlook.

KING OR KNAVE?

"Well. . . . A pleasant journey home. I wish I could travel down with you, instead of when the docks will let me. I've got another appointment before turning in—so I must shake hands now. Here our ways divide."

"When shall you be back at Marchgrave?"

"To-morrow, I hope. Good night."

"Good-night, Heron."

John Heron, having shaken hands cordially with Guy, lighted a fresh cigar and stepped out more briskly. The two had left the city behind them long ago, by way of Fleet Street and the Strand; and the banker now struck from Pall Mall to the north-west, always walking, until he reached Upper Vane Street, which as every Londoner knows, has joined Huntley and Eastwood squares ever since the days of Queen Anne. It was not an unlikely place for a contractor, or Parliamentary agent, or anybody in a great solid and respectable way of business, to be found in after office hours; for an aristocratic flavor still lingers about it, and it is still quite common to see a blazoned hatchment over the central drawing-room window, just as it is by the side of the front door to find an extinguisher like a Pierrot's cap—a relic of the days when link men used to wait up n sedan chairs. It is not a very long street, but tolerably broad; and its tall brick houses, with generously wide entrances and double doors, sombrely absorb, instead of reflecting, the gaslight by night and the sunlight by day. It is not a lively street; but it has a quiet, comfortable and even distinguished air, and the respectability of its address is undeniable—eminently suitable for people who, if not social roses themselves, are sufficiently well off to pay for the privilege of living well within the perfume of the roses. No brass plate, except one, hardly larger than a visiting card, on the door of a fashionable physician, marks the professional element that had no doubt crept in of late years; nobody as yet—ostensibly at least—conceals a contraband lodger; and butlers and broughams are still as numerous as normal human nature, which really loves dulness in the depth of its heart, can desire. There is a legend that a lady from the opera, who used to sing on Sundays with all her windows open, once sojourned in Upper Vane Street; but not for long. And there was yet a darker legend—but nobody was ever quite able to gather its nature, except that it concerned Number Seventeen.

Upper Vane Street runs north and south, Huntley Square being at the north end; and at the back of the western side—there are special reasons for special accuracy—runs Eastwood Mews, a cul-de-sac with an entrance into Eastwood Square. Of this western side, with backyards and offices running to the mews, the central numbers are Sixteen, Seventeen and Eighteen.

Number Eighteen was in the occupation of two elderly maiden sisters, Miss Burdon and Miss Charlotte Burdon, who held a long lease of the house, and an ample income from the Funds—quiet ladies of ecclesiastical tastes and habits, aristocratic connections, and early hours.

Number Sixteen was in the occupation, still following the directory, of a Mr. Ward—a quiet bachelor, occupied in the City, with some one of those multifarious pursuits which, being 'in the City,' include alike the lending of millions and the borrowing of half-crowns—in his case an eminently respectable and profitable one, or he would not be in Upper Vane Street. He was also understood by the neighboring butlers and their subordinates to be of a scientific turn, for he had a room in the upper part of the house fitted up as a laboratory, of which he kept the key and did all the cleaning like a prudent man. The service of the two houses was rather lopsided, the Miss Burdons keeping the regulation butler three coachman, and a boy in livery; Mr Ward, only an elderly cook and a middle-aged housemaid, whose places were nearly sinecures.

Number Seventeen was empty—a fact possibly due in some measure to the legend that nobody rightly knew.

Few people are fully aware of the number of houses in London to which such dim legends cling. Some day, perhaps, the heading "Haunted Houses" will be made a regular feature in the Court Guide. And then people will foolishly wonder that there are so many in a city which plumes itself, not without good cause, on being the most enlightened in the world. Foolishly, because the wonder should be all the other way. How is it that, many as they would seem, they are really so few? The Wonder is that every house built more than a generation ago does not swarm with ghosts. For what are ghosts but visible memories? And how it is that anybody can fail to see the innumerable memories with which every London house must needs be haunted, is past all understanding.

However that may be, Number Seventeen, Upper Vane Street, was empty, and yet was not to let, so far as anybody could tell. How that came to happen might well have been food for all manner of comment and gossip in many parts of the world; but Upper Vane Street—above stairs, at least—was not inquisitive, while below stairs there seemed nothing odd in the vacancy of a house where no servant would have lived for treble wages. The Miss Burdons had plenty of interests, domestic, ecclesiastical and social, without bothering themselves over strangers' house property—indeed, they rather preferred an empty kitchen next door, considering that gossip is too precious a thing to be let out of the drawing-room. And Mr. Ward, on the other side, had his chemicals; which is to say, that he had no turn for any gossip that did not concern some scandal or other about the conduct of Ethyl or Aniline—who are not young ladies, despite their names. And so up and down the street on both sides—for neighbors in Upper Vane Street were real Christian neighbors—they did as they would be done by, and avoided the faintest knowledge of one another, as all really good neighbors do.

However, there was, both by day and by night, something about Number Seventeen to catch the eye of any commonly observant stranger—such, for instance, as John Heron. Between its two next door neighbors it looked both deaf and blind. There was a gas lamp right in front, as if to draw particular attention to its peculiarities. And the rays fell upon blindless and curtainless windows, looking like black sockets without eyes, and yet staring. John Heron was certainly not a man sensitive to fanciful impressions. But any daring financier must have a good share of imagination somewhere about him, and he could not help a curious glance at Number Seventeen, before he knocked and rang at Number Sixteen—Mr. Ward's. Possibly, however, he was only thinking whether the purchase of a lease in so good a neighborhood as Upper Vane Street might not be a good investment of spare funds. He had not become the great man he was without keeping his eyes open for chances, both great and small, here, there and everywhere.

TOLLGATES BURNED.

Two of Them Fired Near Toronto on Sunday.

No Clue to the Incendiaries So Far—The City Fire Brigade Called Out to One of the Gates—A Similar Outrage Was Perpetrated Four Years Ago—Threats Have Been Made of Late owing to More Stringent Collection of Tolls.

Toronto, Aug. 17.

The tollgate on Yonge-street, just beyond the city limits, and what is known as the check gate at Deer Park, were set on fire by parties unknown at 3.30 o'clock on Sunday morning. Policeman Crowley of No. 5 Precinct saw the flames issuing from No. 1 tollgate, and summoned the fire brigade, who extinguished the blaze. The check gate, however, was burned to the ground.

High Constable Jones was notified of the occurrence, but so far there is no clue to the identity of the firebug. At about 3 o'clock Policemn Crowley saw a man come from the direction of the gates and turn along Wickson-avenue, but it is not known who he was.

It appears that there has been some dissatisfaction existing on the part of parties passing through the gates for some time past. Until a short time ago Mr. Mowat was lessee of No. 1 gate, but it has lately passed into the care of Mrs. Atkinson. Gate-keeper Mowat was easy on the patrons of the road, giving some people credit and allowing others the privilege of single fare. Since Mrs. Atkinson has taken hold, she and her two sons have been running the gate in a more businesslike manner, and this has not been agreeable to some of Mr. Mowat's delinquents. Until a couple of months ago it was possible for those desirous of doing so to evade payment of toll by going around the gate via Reservoir Park-avenue-road and St.Clair-avenue, but since the erection of the check gate at Deer Park this evasion of the toll is not feasible. This may have had something to do with yesterday morning's incendiarism.

Mr. Atkinson intimated last night that it was probably some sorehead, owing to the determination on the part of the lessee that toll should be paid. Often people driving through have referred to the demolition of other tollgates, and have hinted that these gates would, perhaps, suffer, but Mr. Atkinson cannot recollect any particular person having said this.

The places were set on fire through holes being made near the bottom, and the ignition of coal oil, which had been poured through the apertures.

No. 1 tollgate was burned down before, about four years ago.

TO CLEAR THEM OUT OF ESSEX.

Warning Has Been Given That the Remaining Two Gates Will be Fired.

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 16.—Another tollgate outrage is reported from Essex county. Some men went to the gate at Ouellette's Corners and partly tore it down, but left after notifying Mrs. Smith, the tollkeeper, that next week they would return and burn this gate and the gate at Grand Marais, the only gates left standing at present. The gates destroyed during the recent riots are not rebuilt.

GREATER QUEBEC.

Premier Flynn Announces That a Dominion Order-in-Council Confirms the Boundary of the Big Province.

Montreal, Aug. 16.—(Special.)—Hon. E. J. Flynn, Premier of the Province of Quebec, had a pleasant surprise in store for his hearers at the agricultural meeting at Oka the other day. He announced in fact that a few days before Sir Charles Tupper forwarded his resignation to the Governor-General an order in council had been passed confirming the right of the Province of Quebec to certain northern territories hitherto in doubt rather than dispute. Hon. Mr. Flynn, when Commissioner of Crown Lands, some years ago, made a complete study of the question of Quebec's northern boundary, and the honorable commissioner's finding was embodied in a resolution adopted by the Legislative Assembly of this province in the year 1886, just previous to Hon. Mr. Mercier's advent to power. Since then the Dominion Government's surveyors have carefully looked into the question, and in their reports to the Ottawa Government fully confirmed the contention of the Quebec officials as to where the exact boundary of this province is located. It is a mistake to suppose that the recent order in council makes any transfer from the central Government to the Provincial authorities, for, as a matter of fact, the Department of Crown Lands of this province took possession of the territory which lies between Lake Temiscamingue and James Bay some time ago, and the order in council adopted by the Tupper Government was merely a confirmatory act on the part of the Federal authorities. It was formerly held that the height of land constituted the northern boundary of the Province of Quebec, yet this for years had been disputed by the engineers in the employ of the Crown Lands Department in the Ancient Capital, and it appears that after a good many years this contention has been found to hold good by both the Quebec and Canadian officials. It is said that, apart from the great timber reserves, there is at least 30,000,000 acres of arable land in this greater Quebec of the north and that homes will there be found for a very large population. The question now is, will Hon. Mr. Laurier and his colleagues allow this order in council to go into effect?

SAFE BLOWERS AT HAMILTON.

Professional Cracksmen Do a Lot of Work for Little Gain.

Hamilton, Aug. 16.—(Special.)—About 4 o'clock yesterday morning burglars successfully cracked the safe of the Hamilton Engine Packing Company in Alanson-street, but got away with only $5, the same amount of postage stamps, a gold and a silver watch, a revolver and a number of valuable papers. The explosion awakened the family of Alex Grant, who lives close by, and upon looking out saw smoke in the factory and heard men hammering. Mr. Grant aroused J. H. Clappison, who lives some distance away, but when the men returned the night artists had decamped. The police were telephoned for, but it was some time before the patrol arrived. When it got there the officers endeavored to trace the footprints, but were thrown off by four tramps in a barn, whom they thought were the burglars, and arrested them. The tramps were discharged at the Police Court. The artists were evidently experts, as they first tried to drill the safe, but then decided to blow it.

TWO GREAT OLD HEADS.

Li Hung Chang Pays a Visit to England's Grand Old Man, Gladstone—They Were Photographed Together.

London, Aug. 16.—Li Hung Chang visited Mr. Gladstone yesterday at Hawarden Castle, and the two carried on quite a long conversation through the medium of an interpreter. The meeting took place in the drawing-room in the presence of Mr. Gladstone's family. The Chinese statesman complimented Mr. Gladstone upon his services to his country, to which the latter replied that he had done all he could, but would have liked to have done more. In accordance with Chinese etiquette, Li Hung Chang propounded numerous questions, chiefly relating to public topics.

In replying to one of the questions Mr. Gladstone advocated economy in public expenditures, whereupon Li Hung Chang said that the revenue of Great Britain was so large that she could afford to dispense with economy.

Mr. Gladstone adduced reasons why economy was a necessity, and Li remarked that British interests in the trade of China were greater than those of all the other powers combined. Mr. Gladstone thereupon entered upon a strong advocacy of free trade, and said he hoped Great Britain would always be as attached to this system as she is now. He added that he rejoiced that China was also mainly a free trade country.

Li Hung Chang interposed with the remark that it was necessary to place some restrictions upon the merchants. Chinese finances, he said, needed constant consideration and discussion. China could not be properly developed until it was intersected with railways.

Li Hung Chang and Mr. Gladstone were later photographed together. After leaving Hawarden Castle Li Hung Chang proceeded to Barrow.

BLOWN OUT INTO THE LAKE.

Mr. A. Peate and Miss Darch of Bowmanville are Supposed to Have Been Lost.

Bowmanville, Ont., Aug. 16.—This afternoon Mr. A. Peate and Miss Darch went out on the lake in a small skiff. Shortly afterwards a heavy wind sprang up, and they were noticed outside the harbor, drifting outward. As they did not return shortly after another boat went out to assist them, but could get no trace of them. Fears are entertained for their safety, as a heavy sea is rolling.

$50,000 DAMAGE

Was Done at Barrie and Allandale on Saturday by a Sudden Cloudburst—G.T.R. Train Service Thrown Out.

Barrie, Ont., Aug. 16.—Not since the flood of June 5, 1890, have the citizens of Barrie witnessed such a storm as visited here Saturday. Until 1 o'clock the day seemed perfect, large excursions being brought in by steamers Enterprise and Islay. About 1.30 thunderclouds gathered from the south and the wind became very fierce, tearing down many large trees, also the roof of Anderton's Brewery. About 4 o'clock the rain began to fall in torrents, washing out the roadway along Peel-street. The worst flow was down Clapperton-street, which was also badly damaged by the flood of 1890. The current turned at the Five Points, and ran along Dunlop-street. At 6 o'clock a stream fully a foot deep was running along the pavement on the south side of Dunlop-street. The cellar of Cashman & Perry's store, along the north side, was filled with water, and even the store to the depth of several inches. Shortly after 6 the rain ceased, leaving the marks of its work on nearly every street of the town.

It is hard to believe that yesterday's storm could cause such serious loss to the Grand Trunk Railway. The yards at Allandale are in a state of turmoil, tracks being ripped up, cars thrown on end and some buildings completely destroyed.

Residents say had the storm continued half an hour longer the G.T.R. station and restaurant would have been washed away, the track in many places being washed away, causing much delay to traffic. The train leaving Toronto at 5.15 for here could get no further north than Lefroy, the passengers being brought from there to Barrie by boat. The damage to the town and Grand Trunk will be at least $50,000.

At the Union Station last night The World learned that the storm came up with great rapidity about 5 o'clock, and burst over the Northern yards at Allandale, washing away, it is estimated, some three hundred yards of track and burying several freight cars which were lying in its path. The town is somewhat of a railway centre, and, consequently, plenty of men were on hand to repair the damage without outside assistance. Everything is expected to be in good running order late to-night, so that trains will probably run to-morrow morning on schedule time. Passengers by the morning train for Barrie and the north will arrive at their destination all right, but those leaving in the evening will not get past Craigville.

For the convenience of local traffic a special went out to the latter place at 3 o'clock this morning. Arrangements have been made to accommodate all passengers, however, as the Midland train that is to leave at 8.20 will go at 8.30 this morning, and will reach Barrie and all points north via Georgetown, while a special will leave for Craigville at the same time. The damage cannot as yet be ascertained.

TWO WERE DROWNED.

A Terrible Accident at Amherst, N.S.—The Yacht Capsized and the Tide Carried Away the Victims.

Amherst, N.S., Aug. 16.—A terrible accident occurred near here late yesterday afternoon, whereby two young and useful lives were suddenly cut short. A man named Smith, belonging to Boston, who has been spending the summer at Minudie, built a yacht, and yesterday afternoon, with two young men, Cormier and Brien, went up the river to try her. The centreboard of the yacht became fastened in the flats and immediately upset, filling with water, and sank. The three young men clung to the shad nets which are strung along the river. After sinking the boat came up, and young Smith, who could swim, jumped from the nets and, catching hold of the boat, was saved. Brien and Cormier clung to the nets and the tide soon washed them off, when they immediately sank. Fishermen on the shore saw the accident, but were, owing to the want of boats and the force of the tide, powerless to render any assistance. Brien was the son of Savien Brien, aged 30 years, married and small family. Cormier, about 19 years of age, was employed with Rufus Hibberd, Lower Cove, and unmarried.

A FRIGHTFUL BOLT.

Lightning Strikes a Boat in the Napanee River, Killing Two Girls on Their Way to Sunday School.

Napanee, Aug. 16.—About 11 o'clock this forenoon during a heavy thunderstorm three little girls were crossing Napanee River, about four miles up in a boat on their way to Sunday school, when lightning struck and killed two of them and rendered the other unconscious for a time. The ages of the dead girls were about 10 and 12 years. One was named Lindsay and the other Ellis.

MAULED BY THE THREE PETERS.

William Roach of Wheatley Was Badly Handled by Intoxicated Indians.

Wheatley, Aug. 15.—William Roach was badly injured by Indians at Fox's mill, about three miles west of this place, yesterday afternoon. Roach was in a buggy when the Indians came along, all more or less intoxicated, and began abusing him. He told them to go about their business. They then threatened to kill him, and, jumping out of their rig, frightened Roach's horse. When Roach jumped out to catch his horse the Indians struck him on the head with a whip stock, rendering him unconscious. They then kicked and struck him several times, leaving him for dead. He was picked up soon after, and Dr. Sutherland sent for. He is badly cut down the head and face, but will likely recover unless inflammation sets in. Three of the Indians, Thomas, Joe and John Peters, have been arrested. The officers are looking for two others who were with them.

How He Strikes Back.

The editor of the St. Augustine, (Fla.) News, who presumably has had his pet corn stepped on, tells the truth after the following fashion: "Suppose a newspaper man, every time he hears of a man who severely criticises him or his paper in public, should retaliate by holding up to the public gaze the faults and shortcomings of said fault-finder, what would be the result? Why, the criticiser would think himself terribly outraged and would thirst for gore. Then the poor quill driver would get shot or shoot somebody. The patient beast of burden, the country journalist, never does this except under great provocation. It isn't because he is afraid to do it, but because he isn't mean enough. He allows men to go around trying to destroy his business. He hears his paper called a worthless sheet because the editor in doing his duty has stepped on somebody's toes. Such worthless scoundrels should receive no mercy at the hands of the press."

SKIN DISEASES

Spring firstly from impure blood, and are aggravated by a morbid condition of the system, and by local causes of irritation, etc. The real cause is impure blood, and there is no skin disease which Burdock does not cure if taken internally and applied externally according to directions. It heals up the skin and drives out the disease. Salt Rheum, Tetter, Shingles, Scurf, Erysipelas, Scrofula, Scrofulous Sores, Ulcers, Abscesses and all similar diseases are invariably cured by the intelligent use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

THE GOLD DEMOCRATS

Repudiate the Platform Adopted at Chicago.

An Address Issued by the Executive of the Sound Money Section of the Democratic Party Denouncing the Action of the Convention in Declaring for Free Coinage—A Call to the Faithful to Attend the Indianapolis Convention.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—A meeting of the National Executive Committee of the Gold Democratic party was held at the Palmer House to-day.

The principal business which called the committee together was the preparation and adoption of an address to the Democratic voters of the country. A sub-committee was chosen to draft the address, and after four hours' deliberation the deliverance was made.

The address is mostly a laudation of the Democratic party, and calls for freedom of speech, freedom of conscience, freedom of trade and freedom of contract, and says if those principles are abandoned the party ceases to exist. Then the address deals with the Chicago convention, as follows:

"It was not within the power of the majority of the delegates assembled at Chicago to bind the Democrats of the United States to a platform inconsistent with the party's principles, or to any action that should result in their surrender. In violation of the trust committed to them, a majority of the delegates assembled in that convention, ignoring the rights of the minority, unseated regularly elected delegates to make places for others in sympathy with themselves. They proclaimed a sectional combination of the South and West against the North and East. They impeached the honesty and patriotism of President Cleveland, who, under exceptional embarrassments, produced by past errors of legislation, has heroically maintained the honor and integrity of the republic.

"The platform proposes to degrade the coin of the United States by means of the free, unlimited and independent coinage of silver by our Government, and by the exercise of power of the nation to compel the acceptance of depreciated coins at their nominal value, thereby working an injustice to creditors, defrauding the laborer of a large part of his earnings and savings, robbing pensioned soldiers of a part of their pensions, contracting the currency by the expulsion of gold coin from circulation, injuring if not destroying domestic trade and foreign commerce.

"While professing to advocate a policy of bi-metallism, it censures the present Democratic Administration for maintaining the parity of gold and silver. It proposes to reduce this country to a condition of silver mono-metallism, with its vacillating and unreliable standard of values, and tends to bring the farmer, the wage-earner and the salaried man to the wretched condition of the same classes in countries in which the silver standard prevails, and where the rewards of agriculture and labor are lower than anywhere else in the world.

After pointing out further details in which it is claimed the Chicago convention violated Democratic principles, the document concludes:

"In this crisis there is at stake more than the possibility of temporary victory. The honor and perpetuity of the Democratic party are at stake. A political organization that is untrue to itself, its principles, its history and traditions is disgraced and dishonored. The existence of our great historical party that has withstood the assaults of every foe is threatened by reason of the recreancy of many of its members. That this party as we have known it may not die, let the faithful of years rally round its historic banner, reform its broken lines and with abiding faith in the final triumph of its principles unite to restore the name Democrat to its former meaning and proud distinction.

"To this end we request all Democrats who are opposed to the platform adopted and the candidates nominated at Chicago to organize in their respective States and to send representatives to the convention of the National Democratic party to be held at Indianapolis on Wednesday, Sept. 2, 1896, in accordance with the call heretofore issued by the National Committee. (Signed) W. D. Bynum, chairman; John R. Wilson, secretary; Charles Tracey, J. M. Faulkner, F. W. M. Cutcheon, Ellis B. Usher, S. H. Holding, F. W. Lehman, W. B. Haldeman, John P. Hopkins, Executive Committee of the National Democratic party."

THE BRYAN DEMOCRATS.

Meeting of the Campaign Committee at Washington—Billy to Speak in Buffalo.

Washington, Aug. 17.—The Democratic Campaign Committee was in session for three hours this afternoon. Senator Bacon, just returned from a trip to the Pacific Coast, reported to the committee that he found the whole coast and the country from the Pacific to the Mississippi River ablaze with enthusiasm for the Democratic and the free coinage platform. Senator Bacon declared that the party would have no trouble in carrying the whole of that part of the country for the ticket.

Although no official program has been arranged, it is unofficially announced that after Mr. Bryan speaks at Buffalo and Erie on the 26th and 29th inst., he will go direct to Lincoln and remain until after the first week in September.

Stewart Not Satisfied.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Senator Stewart is not satisfied with the reply made by Senator Thurston in explanation of the charge contained in a speech delivered at Madison, Wis., July 31, to the effect that Mr. Bryan had been the paid agent of the silver mine owners, which was published this morning.

THE FIRST IN CANADA.

Calcium Carbide, the Base of Acetylene Gas, is Now Being Made in Merritton.

Merritton, Aug. 17.—The machinery of the new acetylene gas works has been started, and the first calcium carbide ever produced in this country was made.

The lever was handled by Mrs. Willson, the charming wife of the inventor of the new process of making gas, and everything worked smoothly. The generators, water-wheel and other machinery are of the best, and it is worth while to walk through this new industry and watch the manufacture of carbide.

Work is nearing completion on the large annexes to the main building. The buildings give the locality a changed look, and will prove a boon to the little town beneath the mountain.

KILLED UNDER A TENDER.

A Fatal Accident at the Grand Trunk Shops at Stratford.

Stratford, Ont., Aug. 17.—A fatal accident occurred at the Grand Trunk shops this morning. A gang of men were engaged in jacking up a tender for the purpose of placing it on trucks. One end had been safely loaded, and while the men were working at the end the jack slipped, allowing the tender to fall on James Brownlee, catching him in a doubled-up position. He was removed to the hospital. His back was broken and he was badly bruised. He lingered until this evening, when he died.

CANADA GETS THERE.

Our Manufacturers are Now Selling Household and Office Furniture in the United Kingdom.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Consul James B. Taney writes the Department of State from Belfast, Ireland, that the Canadians are making great efforts to introduce household and office furniture in all parts of the Kingdom. One agent of an Ontario firm, within a week, took orders for about $5000 worth of furniture in Belfast and in Dublin for about $10,000 worth. "If American manufacturers," says Mr. Taney, "desire either to retain or increase their trade they should understand that it will be necessary to give it the most careful attention in directions that are comparatively new to them."

"Their representatives must be prepared to meet representative manufacturers of other countries, who are taking great pains to extend their trade."

Mr. Taney says that in this connection it is not too much to say that the Canadians are not only making vigorous efforts to divert export trade from other countries to their own, but are quite successful, not only in many branches of manufactured goods, but also in products of the farm. In fact, evidence is not wanting that the vast resources of Canada are being utilized more generally and successfully in their industrial arts, trade and commerce with the United Kingdom, than at any period of her history. Each successive year finds her people elbowing their way more extensively into the foreign trade and successfully competing with the exporters of other countries and in lines, too, which were entire strangers to them."

RIOTING IN BELFAST.

This Occurred in Connection With the Nationalist Demonstrations in Favor of Amnesty to Irish Prisoners.

Belfast, Ireland, Aug. 17.—Serious rioting occurred here this morning in connection with the Nationalist demonstrations in favor of granting amnesty to the Irish political prisoners. There were several processions of Nationalists through the streets as a beginning, and they finally were merged into a large procession, headed by bands and men armed with spears. The procession soon attracted an immense crowd of people, and stone-throwing commenced. This served to enrage the Nationalists, and the bandsmen attacked the crowd with their spears, wounding many persons. The police charged the rioters and used their batons freely, with the result that several persons were hurt before order was restored. The rioting caused the greatest excitement throughout the city, and further disturbances are feared this evening if the Nationalists carry out their threat of returning in very much greater strength and marching in procession throughout the main streets of Belfast. The police, however, are taking steps to make a display of force calculated to prevent any further rioting.

DESERTED IN OTTAWA.

Mrs. Fannie Pollock Finds Her Wayward Husband in Chicago Living With Another Woman.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—A morning paper says after a search of 16 months, during which she visited nearly all the principal cities in the Middle and Eastern States, Mrs. Fannie Pollock last night found her husband, Alexander Pollock, at 160 South Morgan-street, and had him placed under arrest on charges of desertion and bigamy. Pollock deserted his wife and two children while they were changing cars in Ottawa, Canada, leaving them penniless. On Jan. 30 Pollock was married to Rose Linger at Buffalo. With his new wife, and accompanied by her father and mother, Pollock came to Chicago and purchased a jewelry store at Morgan and Madison-streets, and was conducting the business under the name of Jacob Saxe, assumed by him prior to his marriage with Rose Linker. When his young wife learned the truth she swooned.

BURNED THEIR BABY.

A Dreadful Affair Near Winchester Said to Have Been Caused by Carelessness and Smoking.

Cornwall, Aug. 17.—The 3-year-old daughter of Elias Pratt was found burned to death near Winchester last week. It appears that Pratt and his wife and child secured a house about one and a half miles from the village. Their things had not yet arrived from Brockville, where they had been living, but they proceeded to occupy the house. Next afternoon, both went out, locking the house up, the child being asleep upstairs. Mrs. Pratt was the first to return a couple of hours later, and she found the house a mass of flames, despite the efforts of the neighbors, who had been vainly endeavoring to extinguish the fire. She told them that the child was inside, but the fire was so far advanced that no one could enter the building. The charred remains of the little one were afterwards found, and as several ugly rumors were afloat Dr. Backlock, coroner, held an inquest, at which Mr. and Mrs. Pratt and several neighbors gave evidence. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, and charging gross negligence in leaving the child alone in the house. Mrs. Pratt was the little girl's stepmother. It is generally supposed that a spark from Pratt's pipe, which he was smoking when leaving, set fire to the shavings and thus caused the conflagration.

GRAND TRUNK AFFAIRS.

If the Soreheads in Great Britain Would Keep Quiet Mr. Hays Might Show Them a Surprise Later.

London, Aug. 17.—The friends of the Grand Trunk Railway do not share the pessimistic talk which the half-yearly traffic statement has produced.

The Westminster Gazette on Saturday afternoon added its voice to The News and The Financial Times in declaring the outlook poor. It says the deficiency for 1896 will exceed £100,000, and this makes a total deficiency for three years of £400,000. It predicts, seeing the position of affairs in the United States, that the company will soon be unable to provide for debenture interest and lenders will then cease providing money.

On behalf of the Grand Trunk, it is noted its position is slowly improving and deficiency of the combined system on meeting fixed charges for the past half year was £88,000, being £13,000 better that the first half of 1895. The danger of a renewed rate war is regarded as a bad feature.

Emperor William's Big Ideas.

London, Aug. 17.—The Standard will to-morrow publish a despatch from Berlin, saying it is stated that at Emperor William's request Admiral Tirpitz has drafted a new bill for submission to the Reichstag, demanding more than a million marks for naval purposes.

MR. BALFOUR DYING.

All Hope Given Up and Relatives Summoned

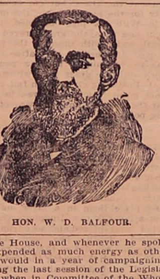
To the Deathbed in the Parliament Buildings—The Circumstances Surrounding His Fatal Illness are Exceptionally Sad—He Suffered Violent Hemorrhages on Sunday Night—A Futile Consultation of Physicians Yesterday—Premier Hardy, who is in Parry Sound, Has Been Sent for.

Toronto, Aug. 18.

Thousands of people all over the province will be shocked to learn that Hon. W. D. Balfour is at the point of death. Stricken suddenly with acute inflammation of the lungs, the Provincial Secretary lies at the Parliament Buildings waiting the last summons. The fact that there is no hope has been communicated to him and his family have been called to the chamber of death. The Minister may linger on for a few days, but the end is likely to come before another sun has set.

The circumstances surrounding his fatal illness are exceptionally sad. Called only a few weeks since to serve his country as one of Her Majesty's Ministers, he is to be cut off just as he has attained such an honorable position as few men arrive at.

Mr. Balfour was never a strong man, and for years past his health has been miserable. But, as is often the case with men physically weak, an indomitable spirit of energy has kept him up and enabled him to overcome all obstacles that lay in the path of his advancement. And, indeed, the fierce flame of life which burned within him has tended more than anything else to exhaust his enfeebled frame. Excited and feverish, though able, have been most of his recent public utterances, whether at the hustings or on the floor of the House, and whenever he spoke he expended as much energy as other men would in a year of campaigning. During the last session of the Legislature, when in Committee of the Whole House, he frequently spoke on matters affecting his constituents and the province at large, his physical weakness and nervous temperament were most apparent.



HON. W. D. BALFOUR.

The honorable gentleman's last public speech was made at Amherstburg on Aug. 4, when for an hour and a half he addressed an open air meeting of his fellow-citizens, who on that date re-elected him by acclamation as a member of the Hardy Government. The effort was a trying one for him, and it probably precipitated his terrible illness.

On Monday night he left Amherstburg, and, traveling all night, reached the city on Tuesday morning, and immediately repaired to the Parliament Buildings. He seems to have, during the trip, contracted a heavy cold, but this did not deter him from entering with vigor into the work of straightening up the affairs in his newly-acquired department. For three days he labored at his desk, but had to take a rest on Thursday. On Friday night, not feeling any better, he wired Mrs. Balfour to come to the city, and on Saturday, on her arrival, she was surprised to find her husband confined to his room. His illness was not considered critical, however, until Sunday night, when the invalid suffered from violent hemorrhages of the lungs.

Yesterday Drs. McPhedran and Amyot, in consultation, acknowledged the extreme lowness of the patient's condition, and it is understood they informed the anxious wife that there was no hope of his recovery.

Premier Hardy was summoned from Parry Sound, and is expected in town this morning. Hon. J. M. Gibson, in response to a telegram, came down from Hamilton and spent the day at the Parliament Buildings. All the other Ministers are away holidaying—Mr. Harcourt in Europe, Mr. Harty in the Maritime Provinces, Mr. Dryden in Northern Ontario, Mr. Davis in Muskoka, Mr. Ross in New York State and Mr. Bronson somewhere else.

All day yesterday, as the suffering Minister lay in his apartments in the eastern wing of the Legislative pile, everything was kept as quiet as possible. The elevators ceased running and visitors and officials walked on tip-toe as they passed the sick chamber. Last evening, at Mrs. Balfour's request, Housekeeper O'Brien had the patient removed to his old quarters in the Speaker's chambers in the western wing, where quiet could be more easily maintained.

As the news of the Minister's illness spread abroad, many friends came during the evening to enquire as to his condition.

Mrs. Balfour was joined during the day by Mr. and Mrs. David Balfour, her husband's father and mother, who came over from Niagara Falls South by the Niagara boat. Two sisters and other relatives of the Minister's, who have also been called to his bedside, are expected to arrive to-day.

At 8.30 p.m., in response to a query from Mr. John Auld of Amherstburg, the dying man's partner in business, a message was sent, stating that the patient's illness was critical.

Half an hour later Dr. Wilson of Amherstburg, the Balfour family physician, reached the sick chamber, where he was joined in consultation by Drs. Amyot and McPhedran. At midnight, when they left the chamber, the Minister was sinking.

William Douglas Balfour was born on Aug. 6, 1851, at Forfar, Scotland, and, therefore, is a comparatively young man. He is a member of the great Kincardineshire family of Balfours, his father being David Balfour, and his mother's maiden name Janet Dougal. Coming to St. Catharines, Ont., at the age of 6, with his parents, he was educated at the Grantham Academy. In 1874, at Grosse Isle, Mich., he took to wife Josephine, eldest daughter of Col. T. F. Brodhead, an ambitious woman, and one who has afforded her husband much aid in his onward march in life.

A journalist by profession, he, in 1872, established with Mr. Matheson The St. Catharines Daily and Weekly News, and two years later he and Mr. John Auld started The Amherstburg Echo, which the two have ever since conducted.

Mr. Balfour always took a great interest in local educational and agricultural matters, having been chairman of both the St. Catharines and Amherstburg Public School Boards, and for 12 years President of the South Essex Agricultural Society and Farmers' Institute. In 1879 he was an unsuccessful candidate for the Legislature in South Essex, but was elected for that constituency in 1882, and has held the seat ever since. In 1894 he succeeded Hon. Mr. Ballantyne as Speaker of the House, holding that position till about four weeks ago, when, on Sir Oliver Mowat's removal to Ottawa, he succeeded Hon. J. M. Gibson as Provincial Secretary.

Mr. Balfour carried through the House bills for the improvement of the law of libel and for the restriction of the bonus-granting powers of municipalities. A hobby of his was womanhood suffrage.

In religion Mr. Balfour is a Presbyterian. His family consists of four boys and four girls, the eldest son, now 19 years of age, being a pupil at the Guelph Agricultural College.

At 2 a.m.

At 2 a.m. Mr. Balfour was in the same condition, the end being expected at any moment.

OVATION TO LIEUTENANT MUNRO.

The Thoroldite Did Well at Bisley, and His Townsmen Showed Their Marked Appreciation of His Work.

Thorold, Aug. 17.—A grand reception was given to-night to Lieut. Munro, a Thoroldite, who has been so successful at Bisley at the late rifle matches, and who just returned home this evening. He was met at the Grand Trunk Station by Capt. Stull's troop of cavalry of Virgil, two fire companies and brass band of Merritton, the 19th Batt. bugle band of St. Catharines, under Col. Carlisle; the Thorold brass band and Thorold fire companies, the town fathers, and the citizens and visitors in carriages and thousands on foot lined the streets.

After the procession formed and paraded the principal streets of the town, a halt was called at the grand stand, where an address was presented, and replied to in a neat little speech from the gallant lieutenant. Patriotic speeches were delivered also by William McCleary, M.P., Mayor McGill, John H. Thompson of The Thorold Post, William Williams, Jos. Battle, James Buttler, George Turner, John McDonagh, D. B. Crombie, Col. Carlisle, Capt. McMicking and William Dougan. The guest of the evening was then escorted to his home. The fine music of the visiting bands and the excellent drill of the fire companies were much appreciated by the people. Refreshments were served in the Town Hall to the visitors.

A DISASTROUS CLOUDBURST.

Much Damage Done in St. Louis County, Mo.—A District a Mile Wide Was Devastated.

St. Louis, Aug. 17.—The midnight storm raged for two hours Saturday night, blew a perfect gale in St. Louis County and was followed by a cloudburst that swept away dwellings, drowned cattle and paralyzed two railroads by washing away miles of track, culverts and trestles. The storm centre followed the River Des Peres Valley from Merrimac Heights, and eastward, concentrating its greatest force in the vicinity of Webster Grove, Brentwood, Maddensville, Bartolds and Clayton, where the wind blew a perfect hurricane, uprooting and destroying hundreds of trees, unroofing houses and barns and destroying fences, corn fields and haystacks, and the cloudburst that followed devastated a district a mile wide. Nearly a thousand feet of track and road ballast of the Creve Coeur branch of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, between Lake Junction and Mentor Station, were washed away. The Housman line, however, was not so fortunate. The line was badly wrecked at three different points, and no cars were operated east of the River Des Peres up to a late hour last night. Over 500 feet of roadbed and tracks on the north and south road between the River Des Peres and Brentwood were carried off by the flood and strewn over the 22-acre tract.

TOM DEVANEY GETS LOOSE.

One of the Irish Dynamiters Quietly Released From Portland Prison Yesterday.

London, Aug. 17.—Thomas Devaney, one of the Irish dynamiters, who, in Edinburgh, in 1883, was sentenced to penal servitude for life, was released from Portland Prison this morning. Great precautions were taken to prevent his being recognized, as it was believed that the Irish and Irish sympathizers might attempt to make a demonstration. Immediately after his release, Devaney took a train for Glasgow.

A CONFIDENTIAL CHAT

between two men or women generally develops the fact that one or both are troubled by sickness of some kind. One man is all right except his rheumatism, another has a "slight touch" of dyspepsia, another has bilious headaches, and another is too nervous to sleep well. What's to be done about it?

The situation is serious. Little things have a way of getting big. Big diseases are bad things. Sleeplessness brings irritable nerves, loss of flesh, loss of appetite. Sleepless people soon get their bodies into such a condition that disease-germs find it easy to lodge there and propagate. People die from the aggravation of an aggregation of little things. The more promptly a disease or disorder is met the more quickly it is cured.

Most all sickness starts in the stomach, liver or lungs. Rheumatism, scrofula, eczema, consumption, come about because insufficient, impure or impoverished blood is present. The diseased blood finds the weakest spot in the body and a local symptom appears. If the impurity is supplanted with good, rich, red, healthy corpuscles, the disease will have nothing to feed on. If the proper cleansing medicine is sent to the seat of the trouble, it will force out the germs and repair the damage done.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a cleansing, purifying medicine, a blood enricher, a nerve strengthener. It is an efficient tonic, aids digestion, creates healthy appetite and healthy flesh. It does not make people "fat." It makes them strong. It makes useful flesh—solid muscle. It will cure any sickness that has its source in the digestive organs, or through them in the blood.

FACTS THAT CANNOT BE CONTROVERTED.

A great deal has been written about the duty on pork and hogs and the hardships imposed upon consumers thereby, remarks the Montreal Trade Bulletin, an able and thoroughly independent journal which has a leaning towards free trade, when the fact of the matter is that the products of the hog are actually selling retail in Chicago for more money than consumers in this city are paying. Take for instance lard, which is being retailed in Chicago at 1c to 2c per lb. higher prices than in Canada. Also in cut meats, such as hams, consumers in Chicago are paying 1c to 2c per lb. more than in Montreal. The same thing exists in the matter of barrelled pork, consumers having to pay fully as high prices in the United States as in Canada. "Oh! but," say some of our rabid free traders, "that is morally impossible! it cannot be." But if these doubters will go and live in the big cities of the United States for a few months, they will soon find out how much more they have to pay for everything, both as regards food products and wearing apparel, in the States than in Canada, except in the matter of coal oil. The reason for this is that Americans are thorough believers in the preservation of their home markets for themselves, and would rather pay higher prices for their home manufactures than those of foreigners. Nothing can better illustrate this than a published report of an interview which appeared in a Western paper, between Mr. Pillsbury, the great Minneapolis flour magnate, and a reporter. The latter asked the flour king what he meant by stating that he had made no money on his large exports of flour for a long time past, and how he made his profits. To this Mr. Pillsbury is said to have replied:—"I make my profits in "the home markets, and all our surplus "output has to be realized on abroad "for what it will bring," or words to that effect. This is the great secret of Canada's trade relations with the United States, and the former country must guard herself against being made the dumping ground for American surplus manufactures and products "for what they will bring." And now, as regards our protective duty on hogs and their products, it is a fact that since we ousted the monopoly which the Chicago packers possessed in Canada, our farmers have raised ten hogs to one before; our packers of pork and manufacturers of cut meats have not only been able to control the home trade in these articles, but have built up an important export business in hams and bacon, these latter being of such superior quality in the judgment of British consumers that they are fast supplanting the American products; and, what is more, our people never before paid so little for their hogs, pork, lard and cut meats as they are doing to-day, however paradoxical this paragraph may read. It is a fact that the imports of Canadian bacon into Great Britain during the past six months have increased to the extent of nearly 400 per cent., as compared with those of the corresponding period last year. We must still impress upon the minds of those entrusted with the commercial destinies of Canada, what the Trade Bulletin has unflinchingly preached, namely, that situated as we are beside the highly protected Republic of the United States, there is no analogy between Great Britain and Canada on the free trade question, and the great Thunderer, the London Times, has fully borne us out in this oft repeated assertion.

What They do in Germany.

Dutch Peasants are proverbially stolid and slow, but they are quick enough to grasp new ideas for increasing their comfort. For years they have used wooden sabots for footwear on account of their lightness and warmth; and now they have stockings made of a yarn which is spun out of pure wood fibre; and their coats and vests are interlined with Fibre Chamois, which is nothing more nor less than a wooden cloth, made as it is entirely from Spruce Fibre. These same stolid peasants realize thoroughly the non-conducting properties of the wood and avail themselves of the inexpensive warmth it provides. Fibre Chamois has a world wide reputation as a warmth giving interlining, for it is so light that its presence is hardly felt in a garment and yet it gives an absolute healthful protection from the coldest blasts of a long stormy winter.

THE FETISH OF FREE TRADE.

THE SATURDAY REVIEW'S TRENCHANT ARTICLE.

How Foreigners are Enabled to Successfully Compete With British Manufacturers—Protected by Their Governments.

The Saturday Review publishes the following article under the heading "The Fetish of Free Trade":

There is a great deal of luck about the writing of books, as about everything else. We say this in no disparagement of Mr. Ernest Edwin Williams, whose book "Made in Germany," deserves all the public attention which it has received. The facts set forth are of the highest importance to the nation; they are arranged with lucidity and precision; the conclusions drawn from them are sound, and indeed irresistible; and throughout the hundred and seventy-five pages of which this unpretentious volume is composed, the style is earnest, without being didactic, and though always animated, is never inaccurate or exaggerated. The book is eminently practical in tone and purpose. Sensible advice—the most difficult thing in the world to give without offence—is administered to the British manufacturer with rare tact. Mr. Williams drives nail after nail into the coffin of free trade without indecent chuckling, and reaches the mind of his reader by conviction rather than by clamor. Yet, when we have said all this, we are bound to add that everything Mr. Williams tells us we have been told before. Mr. Williams has but collected, skilfully and industriously, information that has been published piecemeal for many years past. It is true that the birch rod produces more effect than the switches of which it is composed. But Mr. Williams has not even been the first to bind these switches together. Mr. James Lowther and Mr. Brookfield and Lord Masham have been preaching his sermon up and down the country for a long time, and in the various publications of the Fair Trade League we have seen something very like "Made in Germany." Mr. Williams, however, has had the cleverness to hit upon a telling title, and—this is where the luck comes in—he published at a moment when the Emperor of Germany had succeeded in exciting all the latent prejudice of Englishmen against a trade rival.

It was, indeed, high time that some one attacked, boldly and resolutely, and with the necessary equipment of facts, the fetish of free trade. The abolition of the corn laws, and the introduction of the system of free imports constitutes quite the most remarkable transaction in modern history. In the first place the question was never really argued, either in Parliament or out of doors. In his speeches on the corn law Mr. Disraeli complainted bitterly that no agricultural statistics, as to the productive capacity of Great Britain or to the effect of free importation, had been laid on the table of the House of Commons. The elaborate tables now published yearly by the Board of Trade and the Board of Agriculture were unknown at the time when Sir Robert Peel, with the assistance of the Whigs and Radicals, revolutionized our tariff system. In the second place, as Mr. Lecky points out, in the whole history of political imposture there is no more striking instance of success than the way in which the manufacturers managed to persuade the public that their agitation was a national and unselfish one, and that they had always been on the side of a liberal and unrestricted policy. As a matter of fact, there is not a manufacture in Great Britain that has not been defended in the narrowest spirit of the most brutal and selfish monopoly. Burke lost his seat at Bristol for advocating a very moderate measure of free trade. The abolition of the corn duties was a mere conspiracy on the part of the commercial class to lower the wages of their operatives at the expense of the landlords.

In their greed for a thousand per cent., and in their hatred of a class of which they were socially jealous, the manufacturers did not stop to enquire whether the ruin of the landlord did not ultimately mean the ruin of the farmer and the laborer. But even Peel and Cobden, with the assistance of the new voters of the Black Country, could not have broken down Protection without the powerful co-operation of circumstances. Half a century ago England really did enjoy industrial supremacy. We banked and manufactured and carried for the whole world. At such a moment the theory of free imports wore a very plausible appearance. We knew that other nations must come to us for our manufactures; we on our side were rather short of corn, for the time. Opening our ports meant admitting corn, not manufactures. The fatal blunder lay in imagining that this state of things would continue. In the fifty years that have intervened between 1846 and 1896 foreign nations have borrowed our money to make their railways and telegraphs, they have copied our processes of manufacture, and they have built their mercantile fleets, until London has ceased to be the bank of the world, until there is not a market where foreigners do not run us neck and neck, and until by means of subsidies the carrying trade is rapidly passing from British to foreign bottoms. The British manufacturer now sees himself hoist with his own petard. Adversity has softened his heart. He is now beginning to see that what was sauce for the landlord is sauce for him, and that after all there was a great deal of truth in what Disraeli and Bentinck said when they defended agriculture against the great treason of Sir Robert Peel.

It is indeed time that someone should say the word which most men are thinking. It is indeed time that something should be written on our fiscal policy. For it is an extraordinary proof of the sleepiness of the British mind, and its great unwillingness to unlearn the lesson of its youth, that no standard work on the subject of Political Economy has appeared since that of John Stuart Mill. The old doctorine of the balance of trade, for instance, still flourishes in our text books. That doctrine of course is that our exports pay for our imports, and that any success of the latter represents the profits of our traders. There are three root fallacies involved in this theory, which are thus expressed by Adam Smith or Mill: "Upon equal or only nearly equal profits, every individual naturally inclines to employ his capital in the manner in which it is likely to afford the greatest support to domestic industry, and to give revenue and employment to the greatest number of people of his own country." ("Wealth of Nations"). A century ago, when the foreign trade was attended to with considerable risk from the state of war in which we lived, this was no doubt true. That it is no longer true, and that a large class of traders have grown up in this country (many of them foreigners by birth or origin), whose sole business is the importation of foreign goods, is perfectly well known to every one. Here is the second fallacy.

"The annual revenue of every society," says Adam Smith, "is always precisely equal to the exchangeable value of the whole annual produce of its industry or rather is precisely the same thing with that exchangeable value"; or, as Stuart Mill puts it more shortly, "the imported commodity is always paid for, directly or indirectly, with the produce of our own industry." Seeing that in 1895 the value of our imports exceeded the value of our exports by £190,000,000, while between 1872 and 1892 the value of our exports had fallen from £256,257,347 to £226,169,174, or from £8 1s per head to £5 11s 31 per head, this fallacy is pretty well knocked on the head. Mr. Williams tells us that in '65 the average price of cotton piece goods was 5.05d per yard, and in '94 it was 2d. Printed linens have declined from 9.21d per yard in '65 to 5.27d in '94; and galvanized iron has receded from £25.04 per ton in '65 to £11.49 in '94. The third fallacy, which underlay the policy of free imports, is thus formulated by Mill: "The cost of carriage is a natural protecting duty, which free trade has no power to abrogate." We commented some weeks ago upon a very remarkable speech made by the Duke of Bedford, in which His Grace, who may be regarded as the depository of the Whig tradition, declared that it was this expectation which induced the Whigs to adopt free trade. Lord John Russell thought that freights would always operate as a protection to British agriculture. In the days of sailing vessels the calculation was not wholly foolish. But steam, security and competition have so altered the carrying trade that grain is often carried for nothing as ballast, while in many cases it costs less to send a consignment from New York to Liverpool than from Liverpool to London. The Duke of Bedford who is candor itself, expressly admitted that the cost of carriage had altogether failed to operate as "a natural protecting duty" for the benefit of home produce. To sum up, all the arguments on which the policy of free imports was based have been destroyed by the events of the last fifty years. Unless we wish ourselves to be destroyed for the sake of a theory, we must re-write our political economy and revise our tariff. Mr. Midshipman Easy consoled himself for being mastheaded by the reflection that he had the best of the argument with the Captain. How long will our manufacturers and farmers console themselves for being ruined by reading the triumphant arguments of Sir Robert Giffen and Lord Farrer?

A book like "Made in Germany" must do much to awaken the public to the grave peril to which our national industries are exposed by foreign competition. We cannot reproduce here the figures and calculations of Mr. Williams; his book must be read. One instance we will give of what he calls "the wrecking" that has gone on in the Black Country. "Between 1796 and 1871 the number of South Staffordshire's blast furnaces increased from 14 to 163.

In the latter year she attained her zenith. Her decline since then has been practically continuous; till in June '95 the number of furnaces in blast stood at 19! . . . The net fall is tremendous; the total output of iron in '71 being 725,716 tons, whilst in '94 it was only 315,924 tons." We cannot, as we said, go into details, for which we refer our readers to Mr. Williams, as a witness who has been unshaken by the severest criticism. Broadly, the position is this. We admit imports from every nation in the world duty free. No other nation in the world admits imports from Great Britain duty free. The only articles which we tax in our tariff are those which we cannot produce at home, and therefore which do not compete with home products—French and Spanish wines and spirits, and tea, coffee and cocoa, the latter almost entirely shipped from our own colonies of India and Ceylon. We have bound ourselves by treaties with Germany and Belgium to prevent by our Imperial power our own colonies from granting more favorable tariffs to ourselves than to Belgium and Germany. Nearly all foreign Governments, by means of subsidies and bounties on exports, help their own manufacturers to beat the British manufacturer, not only in neutral markets, but in his own home market. The carrying trade is literally being filched from British ships by bounties.

Norway is one of the poorest countries in the world, yet the Norwegian Government has just granted a subsidy to a Norwegian line of steamers between Newcastle and Stavanger, which seriously threatens Messrs. Wilson's line between Hull and Gothenburg. Messrs. Wilson with no hope of success, probably, asked the British Government, the richest in the world, for a corresponding subsidy to keep their ships afloat. Of course the request is refused, and immediately an angry correspondence bursts forth in the papers. How selfish of the Messrs. Wilson! How impudent! Why should we help them to earn a living? etc. Well, but the Norwegian Government see a very good reason why they should help their steamers to take the trade away from ours. And so it is with one British industry after another—silk, sugar, iron and steel, leather, stationery, toys. We have lost many markets, as Mr. Williams points out, by our stupid conservatism. But we have lost many more owing to the action of foreign Governments, which, if we are to be saved, must be counteracted by the action of our own Government. The only really protected class in this country are the rentiers, or drones who live on the interest of capital. How long will it be before we learn that the workers are equally, or even more, entitled to protection.?

Failure and Success.

It is often all the little things that constitute the wide difference between success and failure. Some men, earnest in purpose, capable in many ways, seem unable to discern the import of minor, nevertheless important elements, and neglect in consequence to grasp the opportunities that if accepted would carry them on to victory. In the same way people are imposed upon by mercenary druggists, who, to gain an additional profit, practice the dishonest method of substitution. Calling for Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, they accept some worthless flesh-eating substitute, only to be disappointed or suffer injury. Putnam's Corn Cure is the only reliable one.

PASTURE FOR SWINE.

RESULTS OF CAREFUL EXPERIMENTS EXTENDING OVER FOUR YEARS.

Eleven Short Paragraphs Which Put These Conclusions in Short and Understandable Fashion—The Utah Tests Which Have Been Much Talked Of.

Exercise, good air and sunshine play a much greater part in pig raising than most people commonly suppose. It is for this reason that the western practice of relying quite largely on grazing for the nourishment of swine is so successful.

This has never been so clearly demonstrated as by a series of pig feeding tests extending over four years, made by Mr. A. A. Mills, of Utah. We give the results below:

1—Pigs allowed to run at large over 18 acres of good pasture and fed a full ration of grain made the most rapid growth and required the least grain for one pound of gain.

2—Pigs confined in movable pens in the pasture grew more slowly than those running loose, and required an increase of 20 per cent. of grain to make one pound of growth.

3—Pigs at pasture, fed under three different conditions, gained 92.5 per cent. more and ate but two per cent. more than the pigs getting grass and otherwise similarly fed, but confined in pens. The grain required to produce one pound of gain was increased 40 per cent. with those in pens over those in pasture.

4—Pigs fed but part rations of grain at pasture made satisfactory gains. Those at pasture getting the three-fourths grain ration gained more than those fed a full grain ration and grass, either in the yard or in the pens.

5—Pigs pastured without grain made about the same growth for three seasons in succession, thus averaging .36 of a pound a day.

6—As nearly as can be judged, exercise alone increased the gain 22 per cent., and the amount eaten but 1.5 per cent., but decreased the amount required for one pound gain 22 per cent.

7—Grass when cut and fed green to pigs, whether fed in pens or yards, or with full or part grain rations, or without grain, proved to be of very little value.

8—Pigs confined in pens and fed on grass alone, mostly lucerne, for 91 days, lost over a quarter of a pound per day.

9—The average of the pigs fed on grass gained a little more than those without the grass, but not enough to pay for the extra feed in the grass.

10—With the pigs confined in the hoghouse pens, the grass proved beneficial, while with those in the yard it proved detrimental, the latter requiring more grain to make a pound of pork with the grass than without it.

11—Pasturing either with full or with part grain rations appeared to be by far the cheapest and best way of making pork.

Potting Soil.

If not already done, no time should be lost in preparing suitable soil for potting plants in autumn. Decomposed sods form the best possible basis for such a soil. Cut pieces of sod out 12 inches square and two inches thick and place them in a layer, on these put a layer of cow droppings, then another layer of sod, and so on until the desired quantity has been obtained. Leave the top flat so that the rain will soak through it. During the dry weather it is advisable to throw water over it from time to time, or, still better, soap suds from the wash tubs. Before potting the plants, the heap should be thoroughly worked over and sifted, adding about one-third of its quantity of fine sand. One reason for poor success with plants in winter is because the proper preparation of potting soil has been neglected.

To Keep Butter Firm Without Ice.

A correspondent of Hoard's Dairyman gives the following method of keeping butter firm without the use of ice: "Take a tight box (ten or twelve inches high, twelve to fourteen inches wide, and eighteen to twenty-four inches long), that can be got at any grocery store; put a loose shelf about five inches from the bottom, on which to place the butter. Set a dish containing water in the bottom of the box, and place the butter on the shelf. Take a piece of cloth large enough to well cover the butter and drop over the edge of the shelf into the dish of water. Moisten the cloth, spread it over the butter and let the end drop into the dish of water, and it will take up the water so as to keep the butter cool and hard and free from salt crystals and in fine shape for table use. Toweling crash is the best cloth to use for the purpose. The box should have a cover."

Distribution of Breeds.

Recent statistics show, says the Country Gentleman, that the most popular fowl in America to-day is the Plymouth Rock. Next comes the Leghorn, famous as the best egg-producer; then the Wyandotte, Cochin, Brahma, Langshan, Minorca, Game, Hamburg, Java, Polish, Bantam and oddities, such as Japanese Silkies; then Guineas, Dorkings, Dominiques, White Wonders, Argonauts, Aztecs, Sumatras, Anconas, Pea-fowls and Pheasants. After these rank turkeys, ducks and geese. At least 80 per cent. of the breeders of poultry keep the Plymouth, about 75 per cent. the Leghorn, and so on down to the last varieties named.

The Hawks.

The chief of the Division of Ornithology of the United States Department of Agriculture, has examined the stomachs of over three thousand hawks and owls freshly killed, and almost invariably found them filled with mice, rats and injurious insects. He states that of the seventy species found and three of these are so rare as to be of no practical danger. He advises the adoption of a policy that will keep them away from the hen coops and permit them to live and help exterminate our enemies.

The Speed of Insects.

It is the popular belief that the flight of birds is much swifter than that of the insects, but a number of naturalists who have been making a study of the matter think that such is not the case.

A common house fly, for example, is not very rapid in its flight, but its wings make 800 beats a second, and send it through the air 25 feet, under ordinary circumstances, in that space of time. When the insect is alarmed, however, it has been found that it can increase its rate of speed to over 150 feet per second. If it could continue such rapid flight for a mile in a straight line it would cover that distance in exactly 33 seconds.

It is not an uncommon thing when traveling by rail in the summer time to see a bee or wasp keeping up with the train and trying to get in at one of the windows. A swallow is considered one of the swiftest of flying birds, and it was thought until recently that no insect could escape it.

A naturalist tells of an exciting chase he saw between a swallow and a dragon fly, which is among the swiftest of insects. The insect flew with incredible speed, and wheeled and dodged with such ease that the swallow, despite his utmost efforts, completely failed to overtake and capture it.

A new soporific, to which the name pellotin has been given, has been discovered in a Mexican cactus called anhalonium. The native Mexicans eat slices of the plant, which they call jellote. Its hypnotic alkaloid has been separated by Dr. Hefter of Leipzig. One grain of pellotin is equal in its effects to 15 1-2 grains of trional and 31 grains of hydrate of chloral. It is effective in quieting delirium tremens only in large doses.

It talks to me of persons long gone by,
And of those passing now that brightly shine
And fill the burdened moment with their light.
No freight train draws such a commodity
Of various wares as this thing brings to me
Of information; heav'n and day and night,
Ocean and sea, are plundered of their sweets
To give me what my soul so gladly greets.

A boy named Wm. Cumming, who claims to be an orphan, has been doing the town for a week, says the Brockville Times. He applied for shelter last night at the police station. He was held this morning and this afternoon sent to the Marchmont Home at Belleville. He is about thirteen years of age.

Coffee cloggs the liver and retards digestion. Madden Cereal aids digestion and acts like a crust on the liver. Grocers sell it.

Hurt in a Runaway.

Mr. Earl Caldwell and Miss Kathleen Phillips were driving down the Kingston Road last evening when a dog jumped into the road and frightened the horse. The animal shied and threw the occupants of the buggy out. Miss Phillips was badly shaken up and had her face scratched, but Mr. Caldwell escaped with a few bruises. A young lady and gentleman came along and brought the two young people to the city, their horse having run away and smashed the buggy.

Good Collars for 5 cts.

Just placed on the Oak Hall counter, 40 to 50 dozen slightly soiled collars, sizes from 13½ to 17½, both stand up and turn down, all go at 5 cts. each. We cannot afford room for this line longer than a week, and they must be cleared in that time.

Mutilated Silver.

The Grand Trunk has the following notice posted up in the freight office:

"We cannot receive any silver that is mutilated in any way, or worn smooth."

This action is taken on account of the banks refusing to accept such coins from the company.

IF YOUR EYES

Need medical treatment we won't sell you glasses simply to make a sale—and let your headache continue until you find the true cause from some one else. If you simply need glasses we will tell you so and provide the remedy. But if there is the remotest need for the more thorough work of an oculist, we'll also tell you so—and charge nothing for the discovery. We correct all non-organic eye defects.

THE CATTLE STEALING CASE

WESLEY REID, JOHN YOUNG AND GEORGE YOUNG ON TRIAL.

Important Evidence by Several Witnesses—Seventeen Cattle Were Stolen From the Marsh—Robt. McDavid Recovered One of His Other Witnesses Describe Their Cattle—Further Evidence to be Heard.

The trial of Wesley Reid, John Young and George Young, charged with stealing fourteen head of cattle, the property of Robt. McDavid and others, in the township of Tyendinaga on July 17th, was commenced in the County Judge's Criminal Court this forenoon before Judge Lazier. County Crown Attorney Anderson conducted the prosecution and Messrs. W. B. Northrup and E. Guss Porter defended the prisoners.

It was admitted by the defence without evidence that there were seventeen head of cattle in the marsh on the Indian Reserve on July 17th, and also that there were no cattle there the property of the prisoners.

Robt. McDavid was the first witness. He described the cattle lost by him. He testified that he had got a white heifer back from Napanee on a farm a short distance from the railway station. His cattle were dehorned.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter witness said his cattle were not remarkable in color, and that dehorning was quite a common practice. Cross-examined by Mr. Northrup, witness said the white heifer found at Napanee was worth $25 to him, but she was unfit for the Montreal market. She would not sell for more than the freight on her from Napanee to Montreal.

Eleazar Williams was next called and described the steer lost by him. He knew McDavid's cattle by a V shaped notch on right ear.

Cross-examined by Mr. Northrup witness said there were five hundred or six hundred acres in the marsh and cattle could get out on the road if they wished. Cross-examined by Mr. Porter witness said twelve head of cattle were missed from the marsh last year and three of them were afterwards found drowned.

Geo. Cole testified to losing a heifer and having found it where McDavid found his, at Napanee.

Cross examined by Mr. Northrup witness said his heifer was thin.

Ridley Cole described the two cattle lost by him.

John Robertson, who lost two head of cattle, gave a description of them. His cattle were dehorned and had rings in their ears.

Abraham Maracle, who owns part of the marsh on which the cattle were, next gave evidence. He swore that one of McDavid's cattle was seen on the road on July 18th and came back to the marsh that forenoon. No cattle wandered off the marsh this year.

Cross-examined by Mr. Northrup, witness said he did not know the cattle were gone till July 23rd. About the 1st of August he found that one of McDavid's cattle had come back to the marsh. Mr. McDavid brought back a white heifer on August 9th. When he missed the cattle he went down the gravel road towards Napanee. At Mr. Porte's, about three and a half miles from the Marsh, he was informed that some cattle had been driven by there on the night of July 17th, and that one had been dropped there. He had inquired of Henry Oliver, below Deseronto, and had been told that six or seven head of cattle had come by his place a few days ago. He said they were red and white and roan, and he (witness) said Mr. Oliver's description tallied with those lost.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter, witness said it would be a difficult matter for one man to drive a drove of cattle through the the marsh, but four men could drive them out.

Re-examined by Mr. Anderson, witness said he knew prisoners. They lived about a mile from the marsh.

At 12:30 the court adjourned for lunch and resumed at 2 o'clock.

Wm. Young was the first witness called after dinner. He lived near Shannonville. He remembered the 17th of July. He was at work at Isaac Smart's and George Young came to him and told him his sister was ill. He then told him he wanted to drive some cattle and that he could make as much as he would in three or four days on the farm. They went to Shannonville and went to George Young's place Saw John Young there, and the three of them walked to Mud Creek marsh. Got to the marsh about six o'clock and met Wesley Reid there out on the marsh in the bushes. Reid sorted out some cattle pasturing on the marsh and picked up some more and drove them down to an enclosure near the bay. There were about twenty head driven into the enclosure. Reid then went away and did not come back. George Young went away and brought a dark iron grey horse and covered buggy. A black cow and a couple of others got away. George Young said it was time to start with the cattle. They drove the herd towards Shannonville past Mr. Blanchard's, George Young in the rig and John Young and witness driving cattle. A dog barked at Mr. Blanchard's and witness heard a window rattle in the house. They then proceeded on past Scrimshaw's house, and thence to Milltown, where George Young said Wesley Reid was to meet them. Reid was not there, but George Young drove off and got Reid. Reid sorted out some small ones and drove them in an opposite direction. It was ten o'clock or after when they left the marsh. It was between 11 and 12 o'clock when they reached Milltown. The witness and the two Youngs went on toward Napanee. When near Napanee they met a waggon with two men in it. They went to Napanee and drove the cattle into the station yard near the freight shed. It was just getting daylight when they reached Napanee. George Young counted the cattle and he found sixteen in the herd. John Young started for Shannonville after six o'clock and he and George Young went down town. Witness wanted to go with John, but George told him to stay and come with him. They met a man named Pete on the sidewalk in front of the Tichborne House and they had a few drinks and then breakfast there. George Young gave witness $1 at the Tichborne House. Wesley Reid came in on the mixed train and he and Young went down street together.

Witness' evidence not concluded as we go to press.

London Barges.

In the weird light of the smoky evening half a dozen barges, some already under jury masts, are making their way on the top of the flood into London. They form a long perspective as they approach the Tower bridge, and are lost sight of in the yellow mist of the setting sun. They are loaded down to their hatches, and some of them have sailed from far up the coast, perhaps in half a gale of wind, to deposit their cargoes in the quiet reaches of the dreamy upper Thames. Others hail from the Medway—"the other river," as they call it on the Thames—and those who know Rochester and Strood bridge will be familiar enough with the sight of them here. On Monday morning—time, to the bargemen, always waiting upon tide—the Medway fleet gets under way. It is worth seeing this on a bright morning when the wind is fair; each vessel beating up out of its own river, and coming about into the Thames, adds something to the interest of the scene.

Standing on the Essex side, one can, on a clear day, see some way up the Medway, now thick with sail, and follow the fleet along the Isle of Grain opposite, and far up the Thames, beyond the long, low line of of Canvey, disappearing at last as it bears northward up the Lower Hope. Thus, toward evening, in company with their various sea-going companions, these Medway craft enter the gloom and haze of London, each one as much at home in this crowded thoroughfare as in the lower reaches or along the coasts north and south of the Thames estuary.

Here, while some, taken in hand by the free watermen, "sweep" up on the flood tide, their long oars, or "sweeps," serving to help their dangerous passage under the arches of the bridges, others are taken in tow by one of the tugs—the Vixen, the Scorcher, or the Storm King, perhaps—and soon a long black string of deeply laden hulks, often lashed together, two by two, go steaming past the Nine Elms, Chelsea, and Hammersmith, to find a peaceful berth possibly behind the eyots of Isleworth or Richmond, until once more they are freighted outward to their own river, or to face the open sea.

It Was Alive.

One of the English papers tells a very funny story about a sparrow. It says the sparrow was so small that it had hardly more than the promise of a tail. It was standing at the railing of the London Zoo; on the other side of the railing was a rhinoceros, very sleepy. It was so still that the sparrow, hopping about, hopped on it as if it had been the trunk of a tree. The sparrow hopped along its back towards its head, and then out on to the little horn on the nose of the rhinoceros. Possibly it tickled the rhinoceros when it got there, for the rhinoceros snorted. The poor little sparrow was simply paralyzed with fright. At last it moved to a corner, where it huddled as tightly as it could against the wall, and after a little gave out the saddest, most mournful little chirps, which seemed to say to those who watched it "I hadn't the smallest notion that the thing was alive." The gentleman who tells the story said that he was the more impressed because the sparrows were always so perfectly self-possessed. You watch one get on the track in front of a horse-car, and see how it will just fly out of the way of the horses, and go on attempting to find something to eat as through nothing had happened. A clanging fire-engine coming around a corner will startle a flock of sparrows, who will fly in the air and almost immediately, as soon as the engine has passed, settle back on the very spot from which they were frightened.—The Outlook.

"BONNY CLABBER."

Old-Fashioned Article Has a Flavor That Will Excite the Appetites of Epicures.

In spite of the prejudice that little Miss Muffet's misfortunes may have excited in the younger members of the community a dish of "curds and whey" is not to be despised. Eaten as it should be, with the freshest and ripest of berries and the dantiest of rusks, it has a pastoral flavor that will entice the appetite of the ennuied bon vivant, says a contributor to Cooking.

Under the name of "bonny clabber," this is a favorite southern dish. It is not merely "clabbered" milk, but milk left to stand just long enough to become jellied before the whey has separated from the curd. The process may be hastened by rennet, when it is known as "rennet custard," or it may be kept just to the point where the heat of the atmosphere turns it to a firm jelly. The result is practically the same. At the south "bonny clabber" is seldom sweetened, but is served with plenty of sugar and grated nutmeg strewn over it.

Rennet custard, on th contrary, is usually sweetened and flavored with wine. Put half a teaspoonful of rennet in a quart of milk fresh from the milking or heated to 100 degrees. Add about five tablespoonfuls of sugar and two of Maderia. Stir the milk thoroughly, and let it stand in a warm place for twelve hours, or until it hardens. It must be set in the dish it is to be served in. Some housekeepers prefer to serve it in individual cups. As soon as it is a firm jelly it should be set on the ice.

No desert is more wholesome. It is an admirable dish for the children's supper table, and for this reason the wine should be omitted. The snowy little mounds should be turned out of the small cups in which they were set and dredged with sugar. A candied cherry cut in fine bits and scattered over each one will make this simple dish acceptable to almost any child. A rennet custard or any kind of curds and whey should be served as soon as possible after it is formed and been chilled. Strawberries are especially nice with "bonny clabber," which is served with sweetened cream.

Reading Few Books.

Some persons who plume themselves on their culture say that a few good books are sufficient for them; they thank heaven that they can read their old favorites again and again, and that they seem ever fresh, says the New York Mercury. This is a very noble positon to accupy from a literary point of view, no doubt; but if what they say is true they must read these immortal works without much attention, or else have very short memories.

People of ordinary memories are apt to remember much of even a good book, after reading it a half-dozen times, and prefer to take up some other publication, even if not so good but is not so stale.

It may be a great misfortune to be so uncultured as not to have a desire to keep reading older books, since when one is laid on the shelf by illness, it is difficult to find something to read.

The reviewers are not always to be trusted, or their tastes may differ from our own, and that they have praised to the skies we find sometimes of a less celestial character. The man in health has no such troubles. When time is heavy on hand, he has a hundred were of accelerating it besides reading, but the sick man has no alternative. His eye glances along the bookcase and beholds nothing of which he is not weary; he resembles the bee that has exhausted the contents of a garden, and is disgusted to find on inspection that he has visited every flower already. The books, however, that have come from the library he has found unreadable, and there is nothing for it but to return to his old friends.

A Tall Crown Princess.

The immense height of the Crown Princess of Denmark, says the London Mail, continues to be a surprise to all the people who have had the honor of meeting her and to others who have seen her Royal Highness walking. It is no wonder Prince Charles of Denmark is so tall. It is difficult to realize that the Crown Princess is 6 feet 2 inches. Mlle. Clary, the first sweet heart of the great Napoleon, was the grandmother of the Crown Princess and only for a quarrel which broke off the engagement Mlle. Clary would have been Empress of France. But she married Bernadotte, afterwards King of Sweden, at that time only a general, and her son married the Netherlands heiress, with the fortune which is now enjoyed and very much increased by thrift and judicous investment by the Crown Princess of Denmark.

PERKINS WASN'T WORRYING.

A Man Who Had a Good Thing and Wise Enough to Know It.

A boy told me which street to take to get to the county jail, and I found it to be a dilapidated old frame structure, without any surrounding yard. At the front door, which stood wide open, was a man sitting on a chair and nodding in sleep, but he roused at my footsteps and wanted to know my business.

"I understand there is a prisoner here named Joe Perkins," I replied.

"Yes, thar be."

"In for murder?"

"That's it."

"Going to be hung in about two weeks?"

"Yes; goin' to be hung if the wheel don't skip a cog somewhar'. You wanted to see him, eh?"

"Yes, I thought I'd have a chat with him."

"In the newspaper line?"

"Yes."

"Wall, drive ahead. I ain't much on the gab, but I reckon I kin answer most questions."

"But you are not Joe Perkins!" I exclaimed, as I stood off and looked at him.

"If I ain't you'll hev hard work te find him around yere," he quietly replied.

"But you are not in jail!"

"It's what they call in jail, and the best they do fur me."

"And what's to prevent your running away?"

"Nuthin', except that I hain't got nuthin' to run with and no place to run to and that I'm gettin' powerful good board yere. I never hev run away from a good thing yit, and it's purty late to begin now."

"But you are under sentence of death and are to be hung in twenty days!"

"Y-e-s, I've heard of it, but I'm not worryin'. Say, stranger, don't write me up as standin' in the shadder of death."

"You wont hang?"

"Of course not! That sentence was all bluff to beat the fellers over in Kansas what wanted me fur hoss stealin'. Even if it wasn't the boys would come in yere on hangin' day and cut the rope, and like enough put the judge up in my place. I'm jest loafin' arond and livin' high, and when I git a good ready I'll steal the sheriff's horse and ride over into Cherokee and resume bizness. Thanks fur the tobacco, and if I ever happen to hold ye up jest shout yer name and I'll let you pass on!"

That

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become enervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that

Tired

Feeling by great force of will. But this is unsafe, as it pulls powerfully upon the nervous system, which will not long stand such strain. Too many people "work on their nerves," and the result is seen in unfortunate wrecks marked "nervous prostration," in every direction. That tired

ing is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is, therefore, apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember that

The Horse Found.

About five weeks ago Albert Thrasher, of Thrasher's Corners, had a valuable young horse stolen from him and although enquiry was made in every direction no trace of it could be found till one day recently his son G. G. Thrasher, barrister, of Stirling, was in Marmora and he saw his father's horse driven through the village. He sent out a constable who found the animal in the possession of a farmer named Wm. Clue, about ten miles from Campbellford. His sons had traded a good horse for the animal one night after dark, and now he is out a horse. Mr. Thrasher's horse was brought to the city to-day.

Fire in Rawdon.

During the electric storm on Sunday morning Mr. Charles Wright's barn, in the 10th concession of Rawdon, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed with its contents, which included the bulk of the season's crops. The building, which was valued at about $500, was insured. The contents were insured for $500 in the Mercantile. Mr. Wright has been exceedingly unfortunate in the matter of fires caused by lightning, as his house and barn were in previous years burned by the electric fluid.

Mr. Natanael Mortonson, a well-known citizen of Ishpeming, Mich., and editor Superior Posten, who, for a long time, suffered from the most excruciating pains of rheumatism, was cured, eight years ago, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, having never felt a twinge of it since.

The Dull Summer Season

So much dreaded by the average merchant, has had no terrors for us this year.

Thanks to a choice stock, liberal prices and a knowledge of the wants of our customers, in addition to a little extra push—the trade has been very satisfactory.

We still have some excellent bargains left.

SPORTING NEWS.

Brief Notes of the Happenings in the Arena of Legitimate Sport.

YACHTING.

Summing up Canada's chances in the international race, the Mail and Empire remarks: "As regards the prospects of Canada in the contest opinions seem pretty evenly divided. She is by all means the latest triumph of her designer's art; she has had a splendid coaching in her trials against a well tried boat, Zelma; and she is being sailed by one who can safely be said to be one of the best theoretical and practical amateur sailors in Canada. Vencedor's recent victory over Vreda can scarcely be used as a comparison for Canada, as at no time was the syndicate craft given a fair trial with Commodore Boswell's boat, and it is also well known and admitted by her owner that Vreda is not by any means an allround fast yacht. The cause of this is that her head sails are not a good fit, and that while she may win easily under certain conditions, yet under different circumstances she may, and has proven to be, disappointing in her performances."

At Southsea yesterday Meteor won from Ailsa, Britannia and others. In the twenty-raters class Saint won.

The New York Herald publishes the opinions of the famous Duncan and other British racing skippers, who consider Meteor much inferior to Valkyrie III.

Three or more 90 footers will be built in Britain for next season's sailing.

BASEBALL.

KING OR KNAVE?

It is magnetism, however, of one sort or another, whatever we may call it, that rules the world—from the stars in their courses to the meeting between a mutton chop and a hungry man; from love and hate to a passing glance at one stone rather than another by the wayside. There was real, tangible reason why the glance of John Heron, or of any other passer-by, should seek for a moment to penetrate the blackness of those blank, staring eyes without balls. For there was life behind them, dead though they seemed.

Had any glance pierced far enough, it would have entered a large upper room at the back of the house, without any window, and ventilated, not lighted, from above, so that neither daylight could pass into it from without, and no lamplight out of it from within. There were two doors—once more to be precise, for cause—one opposite to where a back window should have been; the other apparently in the party wall on the south side. The floor was heavily carpeted with several thicknesses of drugget, and the same stuff was hung from the cornice, instead of paper, over the walls, so as to effectually imprison even more than ordinary sounds. The furniture was still more peculiar than the hangings. A stove was brought out into the room from the north wall, furnace fashion, supplied with large fixed bellows and a pipe for smoke, which, instead of passing through the roof, traversed the ceiling and disappeared in the wall above the opposite door. There was a dull fire in the stove, and on a bench hard by was a row of crucibles. On other benches ranged along the wall were singular little engines composed of screws and cylinders, with boxes of punches, drills and other instruments not usual in any recognized trade. A large bare table, stained and burned, bearing a shaded lamp, occupied the middle. The general aspect of the room was confused; but a very cursory glance was enough to show anybody who knew anything about the conditions of work that tha seeming confusion was systematic, and arose from having everything to hand.

Nevertheless, half smithy, half laboratory, as the room appeared, it was not Number Sixteen where Mr. Ward studied chemistry, but Number Seventeen, with which he had no more concern than the Miss Burdons on the other side.

There was plenty of space for the three occupants of the house which looked to passers-by so forlornly empty. Two of the three were men; the third was a girl, who sat on a low stool in front of the furnace, warming her toes and staring at the embers.

Of the two men, one was sitting, with dangling legs, on the centre-table—a short, thick-set figure with close-cropped hair and a dark red beard, covering jaws and throat, with moustache of the same color, through which the mouth was scarcely to be seen. The hair bristled down in a peak over a low but broad forehead, well developed over the eyebrows; and under these, deeply set and singularly close together, were a pair of eyes as blue and as cold as steel. A thick, depressed nose, narrow at the bridge and broad at the nostrils, scarcely projected beyond the high cheek bones. His breadth of chest and shoulder, and his length of arm, promised unusual strength; while an almost savage gravity about the pale, pitted, bearded face, and the cold blue eyes, argued ill for him against whom that strength should be used.

The second, leaning over one of the long benches, and examining some small object held so closely to his face that he nearly swept it with his eyelashes, was the very opposite of the other, beyond that both were dressed in a sort of loose blouse, scorched and stained. He was probably somewhat the younger of the two; but the peculiarities of his face and figure made his age hard to tell. A large head, of which the forehead seemed to run up all the way to the crown, with cadaverous features and scanty, silken, colorless hair, hung forward as if too heavy for the slender neck that was prevented from balancing it properly by shoulders that came nearly up to the projecting ears, between which a narrow chest sank into a hollow channel, giving scarcely room for the lungs. Besides being thus deformed, the man was pitiably, though not repulsively ugly, with his long, weak nose, his chinlessness, his lantern cheeks, his sallow complexion and long thin lips, of which the lower seemed to have insufficient muscular force to keep it from falling. Nevertheless there was a sort of refinement about the face, though perhaps due only to physical feebleness, and there was something more than refinement about the soft, white hands, with supple joints, and long, tapering, pointed fingers, of which one of Dr. Snell's duchesses might be proud And when the ill-made, twisted, sickly scarecrow laid down what he was examining, and turned towards the lamp, then blazed out of that blurred and feeble face two great black burning eyes that seemed to have been made for an emperor.

"Cynthia," said he, in a voice harshly thin from weakness, "look at this. Will it do?"

The girl seemed to prick her ears like a dreaming spaniel at the sound of a whistle, tossed back her curls, and did not rise from her stool—she sprang.

And if her fellow-tenants of Number Seventeen in Upper Vane Street, the demure and the conventional, were strange in their several ways, she was far more strange in hers. She gave one at once the impression of a fairy—small and slender, upright as a dart, and swift as lightning. Perhaps she was pretty; but he would have been a strange creature who cared, or would have troubled himself to examine, point by point, a face which, had it been downright ugly, would still have had its charm. Nobody could have told from memory, and scarcely even when in her presence, whether she was dark or fair, pink or pale. He would only have noticed, and therefore only remembered, a small face sparkling all over with a hundred moods and humors at once—a face so speaking that one seemed to hear it rather than to see. The man with the red beard, as he swung his legs and smoked a long pipe with a painted China bowl, might have thought he saw a meeting between life and death as the girl with the sunlight sparkling out of her turned to the corpse-like creature with the blazing eyes.

"Will it do? Won't it do! Gloriously," she almost sang.

"You are quite sure?"

"Why, Stephen, you know it will. What a fellow for doubting you are! Now, old Red Beard there never doubts anything or anybody—he couldn't, if he tried. Perhaps you'll doubt that next," said she, throwing herself up on tiptoe, dropping him a kiss between the eyes, and then darting far enough back for his great purblind eyes to see nothing of her but her smile.

"And perhaps I do," said he, with the film of a sigh.

Cynthia—as he had called her—laughed.

"No, you don't," said she.

"Then I do. . . . Just that one thing. Cynthia, are you quite, quite sure that the die—this die—will do?"

"Why this, more than any other, owl that you are?"

"Because it's my last—there. And because I want my last piece to be a masterpiece. That's why."

"Your last, Stephen?"

"Yes. I've made up my mind——"

(To be continued.)

A VERY STRONG TEAM

The Canadian Eleven to Play in Philadelphia.

Hamilton Will Have the Largest Representation With Three Players—Toronto Has Only a Pair, But They are Good Uns—Halifax Has the Captain—Brilliant Cricketers Who Could Not Take the Trip Because of Business Arrangements—Other Sporting News.

Toronto, Aug. 18.

Canadian Cricket Association representatives met last night at the Walker House for the purpose of selecting the eleven to meet Uncle Sam's team in the annual contest at Philadelphia next September 4 and 5. There were present Messrs. D. W. Saunders in the chair and also representing Vancouver; J. E. Hall, Hon. Sec.-Treas., representing Halifax; K. H. Cameron, Ontario Association; A. Gillespie, Hamilton and Ontario Association; A. H. Collins, London and Toronto; H. J. Martin, Rosedale; H. F. Petman, Hon. Assist. Sec.-Treas. The team.

George S. Lyon, Rosedale.
A. Gillespie, Hamilton.
W. H. Cooper, Trinity and Toronto.
P. C. Goldingham, Toronto.
J. Horstead, Chatham.
W. A. Henry, Halifax (captain).
J. M. Laing, Toronto.
Fritz Martin, Hamilton.
J. A. McIntosh, Halifax.
H. B. McGiverin, Hamilton.
M. A. Walker, London.

The game will likely be played on the Germantown grounds, Wissahickon. K. H. Cameron will act as Canadian scorer and A. Fleet umpire. Some surprise may be expressed at the selection of the Haligonians, although Henry should fill the office of captain satisfactorily. Saunders and Terry was unable to take the trip, while Wadsworth has been on an extensive camping outing, which interfered with his practice. E. G. Rykert and D'Arcy Martin are not on the eleven, as some of their friends expected. Dean and Leigh of Parkdale and Forrester of Rosedale were also passed over. Several spare men were selected, but it was thought best to withhold their names for the present. The men chosen met with no opposition at the meeting, as a ballot was not required in any case. A practice match will likely be arranged for the last of the month.

McIntosh and Horstead will do the wicket keeping for the Canadian team. McGiverin, Cooper, Laing, Goldingham, Gillespie, Lyon, Martin and Walker are all capable of doing good work with the ball. Without Saunders and Terry it looks a weak batting team.

The Phillies will treat the International match with Canada as a good practice prior to meeting the Australians, but the Canadians may fool them with the unanimously selected team.

The Australians have positively refused to come to Canada, as a sufficiently large gate could not be guaranteed them.

TO PLAY IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—The Australian cricketers will play here Oct. 14 and 15. The match has been arranged by the Wanderers Cricket Club, after a correspondence (covering two months), with John P. Greene of Philadelphia, who is arranging the American end of the Antipodeans' tour. The Wanderers have not yet made any plans as to the team which will oppose the Australians. They certainly will make the Chicago side a representative one. One of the questions to be decided will be whether to play on even terms or to have 15 or 18 men on the Chicago side.

OLD COUNTRY SWINDLERS.

Canadians Warned by the High Commissioner Against Fakirs—General News From Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 17.—(Special.)—The first of the reports of the High Commissioner has called the attention of the Government to the complaints which have reached England from Canada respecting an organization called the International Patentees' Agency, which has been advertising extensively in Canada, to procure patents in Europe for Canadian inventors on payment in advance of certain sums of money. The association had its headquarters in Victoria Chambers, Chancery-lane, and from information obtained in Scotland Yard it appears to be a first-class swindle agency. It consists of one man, who previous to turning his attention to Canada operated successfully in the United States until the Government of that country took the matter up and caused a warning to be published for American inventors. Sir Donald Smith advises that a similar warning be conveyed to Canadians who may be interested in patents.

Col. Bacon, secretary of the D.R.A., has received an application from the adjutant of the 1st Royal Berkshire Regiment, stationed at Halifax, for copies of the annual program of the D.R.A. It is hoped here that a detachment of the Royal Berkshires will take part in the coming matches at Rideau Range.

Mr. Edgar, prospective Speaker of the House of Commons, has gone carefully into the matter of the sessional employes of the House. The sessional clerks, 25 in number, will be retained, they being considered as permanent employes. Of the 45 messengers, etc., 20 will be laid off, those who are retained being the cream of the staff.

Mr. J. H. Ross, member of the Executive of the Northwest Assembly, had an interview with Messrs. Laurier, Scott and Fielding, in regard to Northwest affairs. The outstanding debt of the Northwest Exhibition is one of the matters which must be disposed of. An item was put in the estimates by the late Government to partly cover this indebtedness, but it was not passed. The financial part of the exhibition was under the control of Lieutenant-Governor Mackintosh. It will take about $14,000 to pay the debts, for which there were no funds. Although the Dominion Government is not obliged to meet these debts, having only agreed to give a grant to the exhibition, which has already been paid, it is likely that the Laurier Government also will place a sum in the estimates to cover the amount required, as most of the accounts are due to working men.

Saturday was civil service pay day, and to the great disappointment of the clerks the monthly cheques were not forthcoming. The warrant for His Excellency's signature was duly sent to Cascapedia, but two reports are in circulation, one that Lord Aberdeen refused to sign it, the other that the despatch missed him on the way down.

Messrs. Sifton and Cameron, who are now in town, were the two members of the Manitoba Government who had a conference with Messrs. Dickey and Desjardins and Sir Donald Smith in Winnipeg during the last session in regard to the school question. There is no doubt but that their chief mission here at the present time is to consult with Mr. Laurier, Mr. Tarte and Sir Oliver Mowat as to a final settlement of the school matter. Until that is accomplished, says The Journal, there will be no Minister of the Interior.

The Cabinet sat for three hours this afternoon and nearly completed the preparation of the estimates for presentation to Parliament.

Lieut.-Col. Lake has gone to England on departmental business.

Mr. Bourassa, M.P. for Labelle, is spoken of as the mover of the address in the Senate in the event of Mr. Lemieux not undertaking the task.

It is more than likely that Dr. Bechard, the new Senator from Quebec, will move the address in the Senate, and Senator Power will second it.

Senator Pelletier, Speaker of the Senate, arrived to-day and took up his residence in the Senate wing.

Mr. Laurier, along with Mr. Edgar, this morning had a look over the sessional rooms for the Ministers at the House of Commons.

The corporation will present an address of welcome to the Premier on the occasion of his taking up his permanent abode in Ottawa.

The Board of Customs is in session here to-day.

Principal Grant was in the city today on his way home from England. Mr. Sandford Fleming, who was a fellow-passenger with the Principal, returned home to-day.

Sir Henry Joly de Lotbiniere arrived in the Capital last night from Quebec.

Hon. L. H. Davies is Acting Minister of Railways and Canals in the absence of Hon. A. G. Blair.

The Hon. M. Adams arrived to-day for the session.

Hon. Mr. Costigan and Chevalier John Henry left for New York to-day en route for the Irish National Convention at Dublin. Although Mr. Costigan was the mover of the Irish Home Rule resolutions of 1882 in the Canadian Parliament, this will be the first time in which he has set foot on the soil of the Green Isle.

Members of high standing of the Committee of Independent Foresters arrived here to-day, preparatory to the meeting of the High Court of Ontario, which opens to-morrow. The Russell House is the headquarters of the delegates and Host St. Jacques is having the balcony of the hotel tastefully decorated in their honor.

Mrs. Jane Anne Lewis, a woman 55 years of age, was found drowned in Patterson's Creek this morning. Deceased had a married daughter and a son about 18 years of age. The circumstances point to suicide while affected by some mental malady.

Among the members who arrived here to-night were Messrs. Boyd and Roche from Manitoba; Erb, South Perth; Ratz, North Middlesex; Copp, Digby and McLellan, Inverness.

Lightning Fires the Georgian Bay Company's Mills and Storehouse at Port Severn—75 Families Suffer.

Waubaushene, Ont., Aug. 17.—During a terrific hail storm yesterday morning the Georgian Bay Lumber Company's mill, store and storehouse at Port Severn were struck by lightning and completely destroyed. The strenuous efforts of the men prevented the fire from spreading into the lumber yard, and many million feet of lumber were saved. Had it not been for the heavy rain there is no doubt that the whole village would have been swept. As it is, over 75 families will suffer by this loss.

Later—The amount of loss by fire is placed at $50,000; partially insured.

RICKARD WANTS A DIVORCE.

He was Married at Kingston in July, 1886—An Application at Buffalo.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—William Edward Ricard has begun an action in the Supreme Court for an absolute divorce from Regina Magdalena Ricard. The divorce is sought on statutory grounds. Mr. Ricard also demands that he be given the custody of his two children. The couple were married at Kingston, in the Province of Ontario, Canada, on July 28, 1886. A man named Kennedy of Newark, N.J., is mentioned as the co-respondent.

LORD DUFFERIN'S SUCCESSOR.

Sir Edward Monson, British Ambassador to Austria, Goes to Paris.

London, Aug. 17.—Sir Edmund Monson, British Ambassador to Austria, has been appointed to succeed Lord Dufferin as Ambassador to France. Sir Horace Rumbold, at present British Minister to Holland, will succeed Sir Edward Monson.

SUMMER COMPLAINTS in Children or Adults

A SERIOUS CASE.

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & CO.

I Used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for my little boy for summer complaint and it cured him. He was so bad that he had convulsions and would strain so that he ruptured himself, but as soon as I got the extract for him he got well.
MRS. ELIZA M. OVERHOLT,
Fonthill, Ont.

Mrs. Sequel—I understand your husband can't meet his creditors. Mrs. Equal—I don't believe he wants to, especially.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

"Jenkins claimed that I insulted him." "Did you give him satisfaction?" "Guess I did. He pounded me until he was tired."

TO BE REMOVED.

All the effete or waste matter of the system is removed by a perfect action of Laxative Liver Pills. Thus they prevent as well as cure Sick headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Jaundice, Dizziness, etc.

"I'm going to swear out a warrant against the weather man." "What for?" "Malicious scorching."

CURES SUMMER COMPLAINT.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for twelve years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer complaints. In our family it has never failed to cure any case. MRS. BENJ. LONGLEY,
Chatham Ont.

Mount Emmons, 13,694 feet, is said to be the highest in Utah.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue."

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels, therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height,

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidney Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency"

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forget this.

Pine Knot is the highest place in Kentucky—1428 feet.

If your children are troubled with worms, give them Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; safe, sure, and effectual. Try it, and mark the improvement in your child.

Mount Whitney is the highest peak in California—14 898 feet.

If you are tired taking the large old fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

Warren is located on the highest land in Illinois—1005 feet.

Those unhappy persons who suffer from nervousness and dyspepsia should use Carter's Little Nerve Pills, which are made expressly for sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic sufferers. Price 25 cents.

Mount Rich, 3506 feet high, is the tallest in South Carolina.

Ill-fitting boots and shoes cause corns. Holloway's Corn Cure is the best article to use. Get a bottle and cure your corns.

One of the largest peaks of the Andes is Sorato—25,380.

REPLY TO MR. BRYAN

Bourke Cockran Speaks for Sound Money.

Honest Democrats Will Not Follow the Lead of the "Rag of Populism"—Repudiation of Honest Indebtedness Cannot be Endorsed by True Citizens of the Republic—Free Silver Coinage Would Not Raise the Wages of the Workingman.

New York, Aug. 18.—The mass meeting of the Democratic Honest Money League was held this evening under the most favorable auspices. The weather was all that could be desired, clear and delightfully cool, and about 18,000 persons turned out to hear ex-Congressman W. Bourke Cockran's reply to the speech of William Jennings Bryan, delivered in the same amphitheatre last Wednesday night.

At 8.25, when Mr. Cockran came in, every seat was occupied. Mr. Cockran was received with prolonged cheers.

Major Byrne immediately advanced to the front of the platform and when at 8.30 order was restored, he called the meeting to order in a brief speech.

When he named Hon. Perry Belmont as chairman, the cheering was renewed. Mr. Belmont, in taking the chair, said:

Fellow Democrats—We have all come here to listen to the speech of the evening. This is a time for very plain speaking. We want no victory under a false flag. The Democratic standard was supplanted at Chicago by the rag of Populism, which we firmly refuse to follow to the discredit of the nation. The banner of the Democracy, protecting under its broad folds all the aspirations of liberty-loving humanity, representing popular constitutional self-government, we now raise here to-night, battle-worn by more than 100 years of honorable political warfare.

Mr. Belmont summed up thus:

"The issue, stripped of all verbiage and sophistry, of all sectionalism, and prejudice, is now, as it was before the nomination of Mr. Bryan, one of morals, of honesty. I will not question the motives of any one and far be it from me to say that all the supporters of this extraordinary movement we oppose are intentionally dishonest; but to speak plainly, I do say that behind them are unscrupulous men, and crude and flimsy free silver literature, clearly dishonest in purpose, for they lead directly to repudiation, to fiat money, the degradation of the Supreme Court by political control, an unconstitutional impairment of the obligations, and interference with the freedom of contracts, a reckless attack upon our national and monetary integrity, as well as upon our whole system of commercial credits. We cannot compromise with such doctrines which menace the form and very existence of our Government.

Mr. Belmont concluded his remarks at 8.45. When he introduced the speaker of the evening, the vast auditorium was immediately in an uproar and a great ovation was tendered the ex-Congressman. Men and women stood in their places and cheered themselves hoarse, at the same time waving the small American flags vigorously.

Mr. Cockran at length secured order, and plunged at once into his subject. He said:

"Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen, Fellow Democrats, All,—With the inspiring strains of that national song still ringing in our ears, who can doubt the issue of this campaign? That issue has been well stated by your presiding officer. Stripped, as he says, of all verbal disguise, it is an issue of common honesty, an issue between the honest discharge and the dishonest repudiation of public and private obligations.

"A Democratic convention may renounce the Democratic faith, but the Democracy remains faithful to Democratic principles. Democratic leaders may betray a convention to the Populists, but they cannot seduce the footsteps of Democratic voters from the pathway of honor and of justice. Fellow Democrats, let us not dismiss from ourselves nounce the Democratic faith, but the Democracy remains faithful to Democratic principles. Democratic leaders may betray a convention to the Populists, but they cannot seduce the footsteps of Democratic voters from the pathway of honor and justice, the fact, that we bear in this contest a serious and grave and solemn burden of duty. We must raise our hands against the nominee of our party, and we must do it to preserve the future of that party itself. We must oppose the nominee of the Chicago convention, and we know full well that the success of our opponents will mean our own exclusion from public life, but we will be consoled and gratified by the reflection that it will prove that the American people cannot be divided into parties on a question of simple morals or of common honesty.

"The people of this country will not change the institutions which have stood the tests and experiences of a century for institutions based upon the fanatic dreams of Populist agitators. The American nation will never consent to substitute for the republic of Washington, of Jefferson and of Jackson, the republic of an Altgeld, a Tillman or a Bryan.

Mr. Cockran then, at considerable length entered into a discussion of the silver question, as elucidated by Mr. Bryan at the notification meeting, and paid particular attention to the heretic statement that free silver coinage would increase the rate of wages of the workingmen.

"I am a little puzzled," said the speaker, "when I read the speech to decide just what Mr. Bryan himself imagines will be the fruit of a change in the standard of value throughout this country. For my part I am willing to state here that if Mr. Bryan could show me that by any means known to heaven, or known to earth, any means revealed to the comprehension of man, wages could be increased, I will be ready to support him here and now. I know of no test of prosperity absolutely infallible, except the rate of wages paid to laborers. Where the rate of wages is high there must be prosperity. Where the rate of wages is low there must necessarily be distress. If, then, Mr. Bryan can show me that by the enforcement of any portion of his program wages will be increased in this country, I will not only support him, but I will recognize him as the wisest orator that ever opened his mouth on a platform since the beginning of the world. But in searching through the whole realms of Populistic literature with which this country has been flooded for four years, I have never yet found one syllable which showed me a Populist expected to increase the rate of wages.

"Now, in order to understand the significance of the remarks that wages is the only test of prosperity we have to consider, for a moment just what is meant by the term wages. Wages, as I suppose everybody here understands, is that part of the laborers' product which is given to himself in compensation for his toil. If, for instance, I be engaged in the manufacture of chairs and if I can make five chairs every day worth $20, and the rate of my wages is $4 a day, what I actually get is one chair out of the five which I make. The other four chairs, the other four-fifths of my product, are devoted to the payment of all the other labor that has been expended in preparing the element out of which the chair was made; to the man who felled the tree in the forest, the person who sawed it in the mill, the carrier who transported it, the workman who prepared its component parts, and the profit on the capital which set all this labor in motion. It is plain, however, that I could not take one chair home with me at night and attempt to settle my bills with it, for the moment I undertook to divide the chair among my creditors, that moment it would lose its value; so, instead of taking the chair, which I cannot divide, I take its equivalent in money, which I can divide, but my wages all the time are fixed by the quantity of my own products.

"Mr. Bryan tells us that he wants to cheapen the dollar, that he wants to increase the volume of money. Nothing is more common than the statement that money and property are identical. They are not. Redundancy of money does not prove my prosperity. There may be a very large volume of circulating medium and very great poverty. The issue of paper money simply is no more an increase of wealth than the issue by an individual of his promissory note would show an increase of his property. As a matter of fact an increase in the coinage is no proof of an increase in property, but may be a strong proof of a decrease in wealth."

After further arguments on the wages question, Mr. Cockran went into the subject from the farmer's standpoint, and concluded with a peroration which brought out great cheering. The speech was well received.

BLOOD ON GERHOLD'S CLOTHING

And Other Evidence Cause His Arrest on a Charge of Murder—The Boom in British Columbia.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 18.—(Special.)—From headquarters at both Regina and Prince Albert to-day came denials of the reported mutiny among the Mounted Police. The whole story arises out of the fact that the commandant at Prince Albert is unpopular and some of the police have asked the Government to hold an investigation.

In connection with the murder of Joseph Henry at Rapid City, Arthur Gerhold, a young Englishman who lived with him, has been arrested. The men had quarrelled. Blood was discovered on Gerhold's clothing and there is other strong evidence of guilt. Gerhold was sent to this country by one of the English benevolent institutions.

His Honor Lieut.-Governor Patterson, General Superintendent Whyte of the C.P.R., and Mr. Irving, manager of Bradstreet's at Toronto, have just returned here from a trip through the Kootenay gold mining districts of British Columbia. They say that the merchants of Eastern Canada cannot conceive of the extent of the operations there or the vast field for trade. Americans are securing the bulk of the trade in the district and a railway is needed through the Crow's Nest Pass to keep business in its legitimate channels.

MR. BALFOUR THE SAME.

There Is No Change In His Condition, But the Physicians Hold Out No Hope.

Toronto, Aug. 19

Hon. W. D. Balfour, though very low, is still in the land of the living. Dr. Graham, the lung specialist, was called in to consult with Drs. McPhedran, Amyot, Fisher and Chamberlin yesterday, but no hope is held out of Mr. Balfour's recovery. Dr. Fisher, the family physician, who knows the patient's constitution best, thinks that the Provincial Secretary may linger on for a few days yet. Death is likely, however, to come at any moment. It is only the pluck and energy of spirit which have characterized the dying man's whole career that have prevented his passing over ere this to the great majority.

Nourishment is being administered to the invalid in the form of beef tea, milk and the whites of eggs, but it is difficult for him to retain even such light foods on his stomach.

The stricken Minister is now surrounded by his wife, father, mother, eldest son and three sisters, who anxiously watch the slightest change in his condition.

At 2 o'clock this morning the physician in attendance on Hon. Mr. Balfour at the Parliament Buildings reported that there was no change in the sufferer's condition.

William Demands Obedience.

Berlin, Aug. 18.—The Emperor received the First Guards at Potsdam to-day, and addressed the regiment upon the subject of the battle of Gravelotte, of which to-day is the 26th anniversary, and in which the First Guards took part. His Majesty delivered his usual speech, ending with the words: "I expect your absolute obedience to the King."

TORONTO MARKETS.

Flour—The market is unchanged. Straight rollers are quoted at $3.10 west, and new wheat and straight rollers at $2.95.

Bran—The market is steady, with cars quoted at $8.50 west, and shorts at $9 to $9.50.

Wheat—The market is quiet. New white is quoted at 61c, and old at 64c to 65c on Northern. Old red nominal at 63c to 64c outside. No. 1 Manitoba hard is quoted at 70c to 71c, Toronto freight, and No. 1 Northern at 69c.

Barley—Nothing doing, and prices are purely nominal.

Oats—The market is firm, with offerings light. White is quoted at 19½c and mixed at 18½c west.

Peas—The market is quiet and prices are steady. New sell at 43c and old at 45c west.

Oatmeal—Business quiet, with prices nominal at $2.40 on track.

Corn—The market is dull and prices nominal.

Rye—New rye is quoted outside at 34c to 35c.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

The receipts to-day were 63 car lots. As a rule the quality of cattle offerings was poor, while the demand is chiefly for choice. This resulted in a slow market. Choice export cattle sold at 3¾c to 4c per lb. and ordinary at 3½c. Bulls for export rule at 3c per lb. The best butchers' cattle sell at 3c to 3¼c per lb., good to medium at 2¼c to 2¾c, and inferior at 1¾c to 2c. Milch cows unchanged at $18 to $30 each, and calves at $2.50 to $5.50 per head.

Sheep are unchanged, with shipping qualities selling at 2¾c to 3c per lb., and butchers' sheep at 2½c. Spring lambs sell at $2.25 to $3.25 each.

Hogs are firm, with receipts of 500 head. The best sell at 4c to 4⅛c per lb., weighed off cars, thick fats at 3¼c, stores not wanted, sows at 3c and stags at 2c per lb.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 18.—At 6 o'clock this evening the large frame dwelling on Clifton-avenue, owned by Mrs. McMahon, and occupied by George Waters and Wm. Klans, was discovered on fire. Damage to building by fire and water, $500; to contents, $200; covered by insurance.

ALL EYES ON OTTAWA

The City Filling Up With Politicians.

Changes in the Commons Quarters Consequent Upon the Advent of the Liberals—Legislation will Be Light—Two Toronto Husbands Who Are After Bills of Divorce—Principal Grant Talks About His Recent Visit to the Old Land—Major McGillivray will Resign, Says the Big Doctor.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—(Special.)—Incoming trains to-day have brought senators and members from far and near. The fact of the Conservative caucus being called for to-morrow morning accounts for the unusually early influx. Everything is in readiness for the opening of Parliament.

The proceedings to-morrow will be confined to the election of a Speaker, and the formal opening will not take place until the following day (Thursday), when the Speech from the Throne will be delivered by His Excellency the Governor-General.

Room 16, the Liberal headquarters this year, has been put in order for the supporters of the Government, and number 6 has been assigned to the Opposition. The walls have significantly been tinted blue. A splendid painting of Sir John Thompson on the wall meets the eye of the visitor.

Mr. Laurier will have the room formerly occupied by Sir Charles Tupper, at the entrance of the library, and Sir Charles, should he be elected leader of the Opposition, will take Mr. Laurier's old room in close proximity to No. 6.

Mr. Russell, the new member for Halifax, will move the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, and R. Lemieux of Gaspe will second it.

The legislation promises to be light this session. Notice has been given for 36 private bills, in which are included three divorce bills. Out of the 36, 24 pertain to railways, 4 to banking and commerce and 5 come under the heading of miscellaneous.

The divorce applications are as follows: Albert Nordheimer of Toronto, from his wife, Edith May VanKoughnet, who is now residing in London, England; C. E. U. Pointon of Toronto, from his wife, Lillian; Adeline M. Lawry of Hamilton, from her husband, T. H. Lawry, now residing in Oklahoma, Adultery is alleged in each case.

Among the railway bills is one in which the C.P.R. and G.T.R. are jointly interested, the measure seeking to confirm the agreement granting running powers to the C.P.R. over the tracks of the G.T.R., between Toronto and Hamilton, for a period of 50 years.

The Department of Indian Affairs has been notified that the fifth and last party of refugee Cree Indians from the United States have reached the international frontier under the escort of a troop of United States cavalry. The total number of Crees transported from the United States to Canadian territory in the past few weeks is 526.

On Monday next the work of fitting up the D.R.A. Camp on Rideau Range will begin. There are to be more bell tents for competitors and more marquees on the camp ground than ever before. Preparations are being made for an exceptional meeting. The free ammunition is likely to largely increase the number of competitors. The social features of the meeting promise to be of an exceptionally attractive character.

Dr. Oronhyatekha, Supreme Chief Ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters, was asked to-day what the Supreme Secretary, Major McGillivray, proposed doing in regard to his seat in North Ontario. The reply was that he would resign from the representation as soon as it was possible for him to do so.

Principal Grant of Queen's University is still in town. Speaking to-night, he said the object of his trip to England was to get a professor of Latin for Queen's, the position having been rendered vacant by the removal of Prof. Fletcher to Toronto University. A large number of applications from men of high standing and scholarly attainments had been made to the trustees of Queen's, and the Principal went to Great Britain to personally enquire into the fitness of the candidates. While there he met many leading and representative men, and by request of the editor wrote an article on the relations of Canada and the Empire for The National Review, in which he showed the true feelings of Canadians on the matter, as to which the English public have hitherto derived their impressions from misrepresentations of Mr. Goldwin Smith. The Principal expressed himself as delighted with the greatly increased interest in Canada, and its people which was now entertained in every quarter in Britain, compared with the ignorance and apathy he met with some years ago. He found prevalent a desire to understand the resources of this country, its social condition, its industrial progress and its national aims. He found also a more intelligent and well-informed comprehension of Canada than he had been accustomed to. Among causes which had operated in raising the status of this country in the eyes of the British, he said, was the firm and resolute stand taken by Canada when this country was threatened with war last December. This was an object lesson which the most superficial could understand, and made a profound impression on the public mind. Principal Grant leaves for Kingston to-morrow.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell arrived here this evening. Although the matter is not definitely settled, and the ex-Premier would vouchsafe no information on the subject, the general impression is he will lead the Opposition in the Senate.

Senator Donald Ferguson and Hugh John Macdonald were also among to-day's arrivals. The latter was most warmly greeted. Men who had never seen him before gazed after him and mentally sized him up. He goes to North Grey to-morrow or Thursday.

The general impression is there will be no vote on the Speakership, as the full Conservative representation is not here. Mr. Foster will not reach Ottawa for nearly a week.

The Cabinet was at work to-day on the Speech from the Throne.

Abnormal Heat in Russia.

Odessa, Aug. 18.—Abnormal heat, similar to that which prevailed in the United States, is prevailing throughout the south of Russia. The heat is so intense that all outdoor work is frequently suspended. During the three weeks which have been marked by the high temperature the mortality has increased from 27,000 to 45,000, as compared with the preceding three weeks.

MORE TROOPS FOR CUBA.

Spain Will Send 40,000 Men to Become Victims of Yellow Jack.

New York, Aug. 18.—A special to The Herald from Madrid says: The first embarkment of 14,000 troops for Cuba will commence at Santander August 23, terminating August 26. The second will take place from August 30 till September 6, after which date the cavalry will embark. By September 11 the whole expedition of 40,000 men will have left the peninsula.

INCITING TO MUTINY.

Many Arrests Were Made in Barcelona Yesterday, Including an Ex-Minister of War and a General.

Barcelona, Aug. 18.—Ever since the recent rioting in this city, the authorities have been on the alert to prevent a recurrence of the disorders. A close watch has been kept on certain Republicans, who, in conjunction with other members of the party throughout Spain, were believed to have been active in fomenting the late disturbances. As a result of this surveillance, Senores Marti and Ribot, both Republican members of the Cortes, and 15 others, were to-day arrested. It is charged that they are implicated in a conspiracy having for its object the creation of disorders in connection with the coming embarkation of reinforcements for the army in Cuba. It is believed that the Republicans have made attempts to tamper with the loyalty of the troops and sought to induce them to mutiny rather than serve with the colors in Cuba. This plan is thought to have been effectively frustrated, and no trouble is apprehended when the 40,000 men destined for service in Cuba are despatched to the island.

The most important arrest that has been made is that of General E. Stebanez, who was Minister of War in the Republican Government which followed the abdication of King Amadeus in 1873.

THE AMERICAN BAR.

The 19th Annual Meeting of the Association Opens at Saratoga To-Day.

Saratoga, Aug. 18.—The 19th annual meeting of the American Bar Association, which opens here to-morrow in Convention Hall, will, in all probability, be the most successful in every respect of any ever held. The presence of Lord Russell of England has awakened a widespread interest; many of the most distinguished men of the country will attend. Senator Gorman of Maryland, Senator Gray of Delaware, Judge L. E. Wales, Wilmington; United States Judge O. P. Shires of Iowa, Judge L. D. Brewster of Danbury, Conn., and Judge Howe of New Orleans, have arrived, and others are coming in by every train. It is said that the attendance will be fully three times as large as that of any previous year.

Lord Russell and party will arrive here this evening. The debates on the various papers presented will be exceptionally interesting, particularly those on "International Arbitration" and on "Legal Education."

DEVANEY HEARS THE NEWS.

The Freed Irish Dynamiter Has Learned of Parnell's Death.

Glasgow, Aug. 18.—Thomas Devaney, the Irish dynamiter, who was sentenced in Edinburgh in 1883 to serve a term of life imprisonment and was released from Portland Prison yesterday, has arrived here. Devaney says that John Daly will be set at liberty next week. He had no knowledge of any of the important events which had occurred outside the prison walls during his incarceration, and expressed great surprise at hearing that Parnell was dead. Devaney said to friends with whom he talked that his prison life was an experience too awful to admit of description. During the whole time of his imprisonment, he said, he never once had the slightest chance to escape.

THREE WERE KILLED

And Others are Believed to be in the Ruins of a Collapsed Building.

Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 18.—About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon an old four-storey frame building, known as Music Hall, which was being dismantled, collapsed, killing at least three men and injuring many more. It is probable that there are several persons in the ruins besides those known to be there, as no trace of them can be found. The men were employed by Schmidt Bros. of Superior, Wis., who had the contract for removing the building. The known dead are William Dean, contractor; Halvor Olsen and Nicholas Roach.

All Quiet in Belfast.

Belfast, Aug. 18.—The city is perfectly quiet to-day, and there is a total absence of popular excitement or any outward trace of the rioting which occurred yesterday. Of the persons arrested for participation in yesterday's disturbances, two Nationalists were sentenced, one to one month's imprisonment and the other to two months' for assaulting the police, and a number were discharged with fines.

THAT LUMP in a man's stomach which makes him irritable and miserable and unfit for business or pleasure is caused by indigestion. Indigestion, like charity, covers a multitude of sins. The trouble may be in stomach, liver, bowels. Wherever it is, it is caused by the presence of poisonous, refuse matter which Nature has been unable to rid herself of, unaided. In such cases, wise people send down a little health officer, personified by one of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, to search out the seat of trouble and remove the cause. One little "Pellet" will remove a very big lump and act as a gentle laxative. Two "Pellets" are a mild cathartic. A short "course" of "Pellets" will cure indigestion permanently. It will cure constipation. After that, you can stop taking them. A good many pills act so violently as to derange the system, and in its disordered state, digestion will not go on without a continued use of the pills. That's the worst feature of most pills. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets never make slaves of their users.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets—it's an easy name to remember. Don't let a designing druggist talk you into "something just as good." He makes more money on the "just as good" kind. That's why he would rather sell them. That's why you had better not take them.

Whenever they are tried, they are always in favor, so a free sample package (4 to 7 doses) is sent to any one who asks. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE "FREE SILVER" HUMBUG.

The true inwardness of the so-called "free silver" movement and the wholly inconsistent positions which the propagandists of that delusion are obliged to assume in order to furnish the semblance of an argument in support of their fad have been most forcibly and convincingly made apparent to the meanest comprehension by the New York Commercial Advertiser. In its comments on the case which was presented in New York by Mr. Bryan, the nominee of the silver mine owners, our contemporary demonstrated the inconsistency of the "boy orator's" assumptions as follows:

> In one place he declares with prolonged reiteration that we need to have money cheapened; that the gold dollar is a dishonest dollar; that its purchasing power has increased until it procures to-day an altogether unjust amount of the necessaries of life. This assertion is a demand that every wage earner, every pensioner, every life insurance policy holder and every savings bank depositor shall vote to reduce the value of the money he receives and the money that he has invested. In another place Mr. Bryan declares with equal positiveness that with free coinage "a silver dollar will be worth as much as a gold dollar." Manifestly both of these statements cannot be true, for they squarely contradict each other. When the Populist candidate says "we contend that free and unlimited coinage by the United States alone will raise the bullion value of silver to its coinage value, and thus make silver bullion worth $1.29 per ounce in gold throughout the world," he refutes his own arguments in behalf of a "cheaper" dollar.

Next it was able to refute, by appeal to the result of experience, the fallacious but flattering assertion that the unlimited coinage of silver would raise the price of that metal to $1.29 per ounce. Why stop at $1.29 per ounce, or any other fancy figure? Why not, by the use of the magician's wand of unlimited minting raise silver to an equality with gold in value, ounce for ounce? The proposition needs but to be stated in order to be laughed at. And yet it is not one whit more absurd than Mr. Bryan's contention. On this point the Commercial Advertiser remarks:

> As a matter of fact, the free coinage of silver would not raise the price of silver bullion to $1.29 per ounce measured in gold. If it would do this there would be no cheapening of money and no rise in the general prices of products. This Government has vainly tried the experiment of keeping up the bullion value of silver by coining great quantities of it. In the fifteen years from 1878 to 1893, under the Bland-Allison and Sherman acts, the United States purchased for monetary purposes the enormous amount of about $575,000,000 of silver, reckoned at its coinage value. And while it was doing this the bullion price of silver, to use Thomas B. Reed's expressive phrase, "fell like lead." In other words, it went down from $1.20 per ounce in 1877 to about half that in 1894. In face of this striking object lesson it is the height of folly for Mr. Bryan to declare that unlimited coinage by this country would bring silver back to a parity with gold.

In view of these facts there will be few in Canada who will not unite in the conclusion which our contemporary expresses, as quoted herewith—in fact no other conclusion is possible, on the face of the facts:

> This is not what the advocates of free coinage want. What they are after is not bimetallism, but silver monometallism, with a debased and fluctuating currency and the repudiation of practically one half of all existing public and private debts.

Canada has no sympathy for the revolutionists across the lines who are seeking to destroy the financial stability in order to secure the reins of government. Their project is simply chimerical.

The Apple Trade.

Messrs. Woodall & Co., of Liverpool, in their annual report of apple crop in the United Kingdom for 1896 say that the results are much less favorable for our growers than last year, especially as the districts which produce most fruit give the worst returns.

The past season was, they say, comparatively unimportant, the total imports into Great Britain being 788,000 barrels, against 1,438,200 barrels in the previous season. The quality and condition (especially of Canadian) were generally good, and a much larger quantity could have been disposed of without affecting prices. The English crop last autumn was the largest on record, and it was thought that "American" and Canadian fruit would not be wanted, but as soon as good sound varieties—especially Baldwins—began to arrive their superiority at once asserted itself, and throughout the entire season there was an active demand at a comparatively high range of prices, this being particularly the case when Canadian shipments came to hand, which again confirms the opinion that the English apple crop interferes very little with the consumption of "American" and Canadian fruit.

The prospects for the coming season are, Messrs. Woodall think, very good, "for not only is our own crop short, but the unprecedentedly hot weather has hurried all fruit forward, and by the time American and Canadian apples arrive there will be little, if anything, to compete with them. The latest reports from the continent point to a similar state of things prevailing there."

The total imports into Great Britain during the past season, from United States, Canada and Nova Scotia, were as under:—Liverpool, 438,354 brls.; other ports, 349,646 brls.; total, 788,000 brls. Against same period, 1894-95, 1,438,000 brls.; 1893-94, 175,000 brls.; 1892-93, 1,204,000 brls.

Failure and Success.

It is often all the little things that constitute the wide difference between success and failure. Some men, earnest in purpose, capable in many ways, seem unable to discern the import of minor, nevertheless important elements, and neglect in consequence to grasp the opportunities that if accepted would carry them on to victory. In the same way people are imposed upon by mercenary druggists, who, to gain an additional profit, practice the dishonest method of substitution. Calling for Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, they accept some worthless flesh-eating substitute, only to be disappointed or suffer injury. Putnam's Corn Cure is the only reliable one.

WHEN THE OLD BAND PLAYS.

There's a jingle in the meter
That is worthy an ovation,
And a smoothness in the measure
With a perfect intonation;
While the air is so delightful
And the music so entrancing,
That in spite of all my efforts
These old feet will go to dancing!
For it brings back recollections
Of my boyhood days,
And my pulses throb with vigor
When the old band plays;
Oh, my nerves are all a-jingle,
When the old band plays.

So we gather on the corner
When the shades of eve are falling,
While the cricket chirps in measure
As the whip-poor-will is calling,
And we watch the band assemble,
While we note their preparation;
And they smile with satisfaction
At our evident elation;
For our hearts are beating music
To those old-time lays,
And it thrills us through with pleasure
When the old band plays;
There is sadness mixed with laughter
When the old band plays.

Yes, I know I'm getting feeble
And these limbs are growing older,
And the summers now are warmer,
While the winters seem much colder,
And these hands will often tremble,
Which were once so firm and steady;
While I'm often sadly thinking,
"For the final call I'm ready!"
As the people have no patience
With my old-time ways;
But my youth comes leaping backward
When the old band plays;
I'm a boy again in feeling
When the old band plays.

As I shut my eyes, in fancy,
I can see the couples forming
For a dance at some gay party,
Or a good old-time house-warming;
And the belles and beaus are nervous
In their keen anticipation;
Only waiting for the music
To begin their jubilation;
Then I note the smiling maidens
And their winsome ways,
And again I choose my partner
When the old band plays;
How we "sashay down the middle,"
When the old band plays.

When the final call shall summon,
And the joys of earth I'm leaving,
If you, then, are at my bedside
Do not spend your time in grieving;
Rather, cheer me in those moments
With some pleasant recollection
That will frighten all my sorrows;
Quickly banish my dejection,
Then I trust you won't refuse me,
Or look on me in amaze,
If I ask to wait a moment
While the old band plays;
I would take my last, long journey,
While the old band plays.

Young Banklerk—Mr. Richman, I have called to tell you that I have taken the liberty to—"

Mr. Richman (interrupting)—Yes, yes, I know! You have taken the liberty to fall in love with my daughter, and now you've come for my consent to marry her. Well, you can't have her! You'll have to excuse me now. I'm busy."

Young Banklerk—Excuse me, sir, but you're mistaken. I wanted to say that I took the liberty to keep up the margin on that D., L. and X. stock which you bought yesterday. It dropped eight points about an hour ago, but it has recovered since, and is now four points above the figure at which you bought it. I'd advise you to sell.

Young Banklerk (outside)—Good thing he never reads the papers and pretends that he doesn't speculate. Otherwise he'd be sure to find out that that stock never dropped a point.—Cleveland Leader.

Ferocious Mosquito.

"Do you find many mosquitoes in your part of the city?" one Pittsburger asked of another.

"I would not put it that way," was the latter's reply. "I would say that many mosquitoes find me. I do not know when I have seen so many, I suppose the damp weather we have had is responsible for their number and ferocity."

"Speaking of their ferocity, a friend of mine told me yesterday that he was lying on a lounge in his bedroom on Sunday afternoon, close to a window protected by a wire screen, and that several mosquitoes gathered on the outside and actually forced an entrance by prying the strands of wire apart with their fore feet until a space big enough for them to come in was made. My friend is a reputable man, and a church member."

"Well," said the other man, "I don't see why you make the addition to your story. Mosquitoes would just as lief eat church members as any other class of people."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

The Queen's Gold Plate.

The St. James' Gazette says that the gold plate of Windsor Castle consists of about 10,000 pieces. It is kept in the gold pantry, which is an iron room situated on the ground floor under the royal apartments. The clerk of the pantry gives it out in iron boxes and receives a receipt for it. It is carried by special train, under escort of a guard of soldiers, and delivered to the butler at Buckingham Palace. He gives a receipt for it, and is responsible for it while it remains at the palace. The same formalities are observed in taking it back, and all persons concerned are glad when it is once more restored to the safekeeping of the gold pantry. The total value of the plate in this department is nearly £2,000,000. A great deal of it dates from the reign of George IV., but among the antiquities are some pieces which were taken from the Armada.

FLYERS AT PETROLEA.

Toronto Riders Capture a Good Many Events—Representatives of the Oil Town Make a Good Showing.

Petrolea, Aug. 18.—The Civic Holiday here to-day was celebrated at home. At 11 o'clock in the morning there was a grand bicycle parade in Turkish costume, in which there were about 40 lady riders; a monster trades procession and callithumpians. At 2 o'clock bicycle races, at 4 o'clock a baseball match and in the evening a brilliant display of fireworks at the park and the "Lady of Lyons" by the William Owens Company at the Opera House. The bicycle races, which were run in the face of half a gale of wind, were well attended, and the following are the results:

Mile, novice—George Peat, Petrolea, 1; L. McLean, Marthaville, 2; A. Watkins, Toronto, 3. Time 2.39.

Half-mile, open, professional—First heat—J. B. McCarthy, Toronto, 1; F. W. Young, Toronto, 2; Roy Gordon, Toronto, 3. Time 1.07 2-5.

Second heat—Cecil Elliott, Toronto, 1; Alf. E. Young, 2; Chris Greatrix, Toronto, 3. Time 1.07 2-5.

Final heat—J. B. McCarthy, Toronto, 1; Chris Greatrix, Toronto, 2; F. W. Young, Toronto, 3. Time 1.07 3-5.

Two-mile handicap, amateur—John Schaeffer, Detroit (50 yards), 1; C. S. Porter, Detroit (75 yards), 2; C. Mahan, Toronto (40 yards), 3. Time 5.02 3-5.

One-mile handicap, professional—T. W. Van Tuyl, Petrolea (125 yards), 1; Cecil Elliott, Toronto (25 yards), 2; C. Greatrix (25 yards), 3. Time 2.20 2-5.

Half-mile, open, amateur—First heat—R. A. Craise, Petrolea, 1; John Schaeffer, Detroit, 2; R. E. Axton, Toronto, 3. Time 1.12 3 5.

Second heat—E. A. Moore, Deer Park, 1; R. Thompson, Toronto, 2; H. G. Beemer, Toronto, 3. Time 1.11.

Final heat—F. A. Moore 1, H. G. Beemer 2, R. Shompson 3. Time 1.08 2-5.

Two-mile club handicap, for the Corey Cup—R. A. Craise won Time 5.15 4-5.

Two-mile handicap, professional—Chris Greatrix, Toronto (50 yards), 1; John Harley, Petrolea (125 yards), 2; J. H. Gratz, Toronto (125 yards), 3. Time 5.02.

One-mile, open, amateur—F. A. Moore 1, R. E. Axton 2, H. G. Beemer 3. Time 2.22 2-5.

One-mile, open, professional—J. B. McCarthy 1, F. W. Young 2, A. McLeod 3. Time 2.25.

In this race Cecil Elliott came in second, but was disqualified for ungentlemanly conduct in purposely fouling McLeod, and the referee suspended him for an indefinite period.

The baseball match was between the Athletics of Port Huron and the Petroleas. The score was 8—3 in favor of Petrolea.

BUTLER BEATS BALD.

Erie, Pa., Aug. 18.—The National Bicycle Circuit meet was very successful in point of attendance and entries, but in the middle of the afternoon a heavy rain fell, making an intermission of half an hour necessary.

In the mile novice, amateur, John H. Clemens of Erie won in 2.43; John C. Tabb, Erie, 2; Charles Gierke, Northeast, 3.

In the mile open, professional, final heat, Tom Butler of Cambridgeport, Mass., won; E. C. Bald, Buffalo, 2; F. B. Rigby, Toledo, O., 3. Otta Maya, A. D. Kenedy, A. C. Mertens, W. H. Williamson, J. P. Bliss also rode. The prizes were $100, $50 and $25 in gold. Time 2.24 2-5.

One mile, amateur, final heat—J. F. Higgins, Buffalo, 1; Julius Hampel, Erie, 2; Harry B. Wood, Cleveland, 3. Time 2.33.

THE DEMOCRATIC TANGLE.

Chairman Bynum Believes a Third Ticket Will be Nominated.

Indianapolis, Aug. 18.—Chairman Bynum and Secretary Wilson of the National Democratic Executive Committee, arrived from Chicago to-day. Mr. Bynum says New York will send a full delegation of 72 members and a large number of visitors to the national convention. Maryland will reconsider the action taken against the nomination of a third ticket, and will probably be well represented. Mr. Bynum says there seems to be a belief in some quarters that a third ticket will not be placed in the field. He said that such a supposition is out of the question, and a ticket will be nominated just as sure as the convention meets. One of the greatest acquisitions to the third ticket, leaders say, is ex-Gov. Jones of Alabama, who is out flat-footed for sound money and a Democratic sound money ticket.

DOES THE FULLER CARRY ARMS?

A Wild Rumor That the Hoodoo Vessel Is Bound for Cuba.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 18.—Wild rumors are in circulation here as to the nature of the cargo carried by the barquentine Herbert Fuller, which sailed hence yesterday, ostensibly for Rosario. The same stories were afloat shortly after the Fuller arrived here with the three murdered victims on board and it is not believed there is any foundation for them. They are to the effect that the vessel is only partly loaded with lumber, of which there is no more than enough to conceal a cargo of provisions and war supplies, intended for the Cuban rebels, and that she is bound for the Cuban coast.

The London Police Force.

The strength of the London police force consists of one chief commissioner, three assistant commissioners, five chief constables, thirty-one superintendents, 597 inspectors, 1,834 sergeants and 12,754 constables, making a grand total of 15,225 of all ranks.

HE OBEYED ORDERS.

James O'Connor Dunn Had Been Brought Up in the Right Way.

James O'Connor Dunn was an Irishman, six feet tall, straight as an arrow, well educated, precise in his language, and gifted with a rich bass voice that readily compassed the English tongue with only the slightest preceptible trace of a brogue.

He had been a soldier in the British army, and a brave one, too, to which the vivid scar of a saber cut across the right cheek bore eloquent testimony, and although he had retired from army life and left his native land to accept a place as foreman on a railroad pier in New York city, he retained his soldierly instincts, and all his work was performed with martial precision and regularity.

There was no hesitating or beating about the bush with James O'Connor Dunn. When he had anything to do he went at it with the energy and directness of a bayonet charge.

If there was any one thing that Dunn prided himself on more than another it was obeying orders. One day the agent in charge of the pier, an irascible and pompous old fellow, called him to the office and said to him:

"See, here, Dunn! Why do you allow Mr. Baggs to run all over the pier whenever he pleases, just as if he owned the place?"

"Why, I supposed it was all right, sir," was the reply. "You have never given me any orders to the contrary, sir, and he is a big shipper over the road, so I—"

"I don't care a continental if he is," interrupted the agent, angrily. "He has given us about trouble enough with his snopping around and finding fault and I give you your orders, right now, to keep him off the pier. The next time he comes into the building all you have to do is to collar him and run him out. Understand?"

"Yes, sir," meekly responded Dunn.

"All right; then see that you do it."

"I'll not forget it, sir," said Dunn, turning away and going back to his duties.

One afternoon a few days later Mr. Baggs rushed into the agent's office in a great state of excitement and with the appearance of a man who had been fooling with a cyclone, and complained that while quietly and peaceably walking through the freight house, looking for some goods which he was exepecting to arrive, he had been suddenly set upon by the foreman in charge, who had seized him by the collar and hustled him unceremoniously out of the building.

The agent, who had forgotten all about his order given in the heat of passion, and in any case did not expect it to be thus literally construed and carried out, at once sent for Dunn, who presently appeared, towering up in the doorway and gazing down upon his accuser and his employer, with the imperturbable calmness and majesty of the sphinx.

"What in thunder did you mean by throwing this man out of the building?" roared the pompous little agent, directing what was meant for a withering glance at the foreman.

"I meant to do exactly what you told me to, sir," rejoined the foreman, who was not withering to any perceptible extent just then.

"What I told you to?"

"Exactly, sir. Last Monday morning, sir, you gave me strict orders to keep Mr. Baggs off the pier, thereafter, and said the next time he came into the building I was to collar him and run him out; and that is precisely what I did, sir. I'm an old soldier, and I always obey orders, sir!"

And gravely giving the military salute, James O'Connor Dunn, ex-soldier and disciplinarian, "right-wheeled" and marched out, leaving his employer to explain to the indignant Mr. Baggs and smooth down his ruffled plumage as best he might.

On another occasion the agent, wishing to learn if there had been any consignees inquiring for marble of which quite a number of shipments had accumulated on the pier, called out to Dunn as he was passing the office:

"I say, there, Dunn! Have you seen any marble men around the dock today?"

"Marble men," to the agent meant consignees of marble, but J. O'Connor Dunn had not been brought up to that loose way of speaking English, and drawing himself up to his full height, he dignifiedly responded:

"I am not aware, sir, of there being any statuary there!"

It Was True.

Late in the evening a report spread through the train that we had a fellow-passenger a man worth $20,000,000, who had gotten on at Buffalo. I made inquiry of the porter of my car and he replied:

"Dat's what dey say, sah, but yo' can't allus tell. He's in de next car, but I can't dun say if he's rich till mawnin'."

Next morning the porter beckoned me into the smoking compartment and said:

"Dat story was all true, sah."

"Then he's worth $20,000,000, eh?"

"All of dat, an' mebbe mo'."

"How did you find out?"

A TUG BURNED.

The James Clark Made a Total Wreck at Michael's Bay on Saturday.

Collingwood, Aug. 18.—Capt. J. W. Darling arrived here this afternoon by the steamer Majestic. He reports that the tug James Clark, owned by Capt. J. Craig and himself, was burned to the water's edge near Michael's Bay on Saturday morning. Capt. Darling, when interviewed by the representative of the Associated Press, stated the tug left Collingwood Thursday with a scow in tow, and was lying to when the fire was discovered by Capt. Craig. The fire was first noticed at 3 o'clock around the boiler, from which it is supposed to have originated. Every effort was made to extinguish the flames, but all proved futile. The boat was beached on a reef in Michael's Bay, two miles from shore. She will be a total loss. She was valued at $5000, and was partially insured.

Handsome women every where, no matter how graceful and lovely they are, realize the necessity of also having their clothes graceful and stylish to properly set off their charms. A limp and poorly hanging costume will spoil any one's appearance while a stylishly stiff gown falling in the proper modiste folds will cover a multitude of defects in the wearer. That is why Fibre Chamois is equally popular with all women. It gives a flexible willowy grace to sleeves and skirts—a pliable stiffness that can't be exhausted—a durable style that is just as chic and charming at the end of the season as at the beginning. It is the back-bone of all stylish effects in gowns or wraps and yet is of such feathery lightness that its presence is never felt. Save yourself from disappointing imitations by finding the label on each yard.

Five Houses Destroyed by Fire Last Night.

At 6:30 last night five dwelling houses on Baptiste street, in Trenton, with barns and other outbuildings, were destroyed by fire.

Particulars have not been received, but it has been learned that three of the houses were occupied by Alex. Monteney, J. L. Dafoe and James Kobald.

Mr. G. R. Blount, Methodist minister, Dresden, Ont., says: "After a prolonged attack of La Grippe, I was very nervous and weak, and troubled with severe pains. I took one box of Miller's Compound Iron Pill and am perfectly well now." Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

Married Last Evening.

Mr. John Cassidy, blacksmith at Rossmore, was married last evening to Miss Jessie Gerow, youngest daughter of Daniel Gerow, living near Corbyville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. V. H. Cowsert, at his residence about 8 o'clock.

Mr. Natanael Mortonson, a well-known citizen of Ishpeming, Mich., and editor Superior Posten, who, for a long time, suffered from the most excruciating pains of rheumatism, was cured, eight years ago, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, having never felt a twinge of it since.

Mr. Owen Clawson, a Brantford merchant, died on Monday night from eating cooked toadstools, believing them to be mushrooms.

THE CATTLE STEALING CASE

WESLEY REID, JOHN YOUNG AND GEORGE YOUNG ON TRIAL.

Important Evidence by Several Witnesses—Seventeen Cattle Were Stolen From the Marsh—Robt. McDavid Recovered One of His Other Witnesses Describe Their Cattle Further Evidence to be Heard.

The cattle stealing case continued until seven o'clock last evening, when it was enlarged till Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Following is the continuance of William Young's testimony, who was in the box over three hours:

Witness and Young came back to Shannonville on a freight train and then after dressing themselves they came to Belleville on the mixed. George Young gave him $6 at Gibson's hotel and other sums. They went to the show and went home that night. George Young said Reid had bought the cattle from Will Driver and some man out back. He had seen a white heifer down in the marsh and knew it as one of the cattle he helped to drive down. He remembered her, as she was always behind. He saw a little red heifer, which he also recognized as one of the herd driven off. George Young came to his (witness') place on Sunday, the 26th July, and told him that he and his father had got into trouble over the cattle. He wanted witness to get his father and his wife to swear that he (witness) was home on Friday night. George Young said he could get Mrs. Foot to swear he was home on Friday night. Thos. Dean came to him and in consequence of what he told him he went to see Wesley Reid, but did not see him. John Young took no other part in the transaction other than help drive the cattle.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter—Witness admitted that he had been accused of stealing traps and axes. He had no suspicion of the cattle being stolen until he was threatened with arrest.

Cross-examined by Mr. Northrup the witness told materially the same story, but by comparison with his evidence at the preliminary hearing it was shown that there were several points left out in the former, which were brought out in the latter.

Mrs. Young, wife of the previous witness, was next called. She testified to her husband being away during the night of July 17th and to his coming home on Saturday morning between nine and ten o'clock. She also said George Young had come to her place on the following Sunday and asked for her husband, who was not at home. She had told George he knew he had hired her husband to drive the cattle. George told her not to tell any-one about it. Cross-examination brought out nothing new.

Andrew Stratton was the next witness. He swore that George Young came to his place in Shannonville on July 17th and wanted to hire his grey mare about eight o'clock in the evening. He wanted it to go to the station to get a girl to take down near Deseronto. He got the mare and a buggy from another party. The mare was a dark grey and the buggy had a top on it. John Young brought the horse back next morning from the direction of Napanee. John said George had gone to Belleville on the train.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter, witness said his horse was a slow beast and not much used to roading. She showed no signs of a long drive when she returned.

Isaac Smart testified to hiring Wm. Young and his working part of July 17th. He left between two and three o'clock in the afternoon with George Young, one of the prisoners.

Hannah Scrimshaw was next called. She was awakened on the night of July 17th between 11 and 12 o'clock by cattle in front of her house. There were some spotted cattle in the herd. There were two men driving the cattle and one in a buggy behind. One of the men drove a cow off the sidewalk in front of their house, and from the sound of his voice she thought it was John Young, one of the prisoners. There were quite a number of cattle in the herd.

Cross examined, witness said her eyesight was not very good. Mr. Williams came to her place one day before any arrest were made and they had talked about the herd of cattle which passed their door. Could not identify positively either of the men driving the cattle.

Pelletier was next sworn. He was a butcher in Montreal. He had bought a carload of cattle from Mr. Dow. One was a spotted steer, a large brown steer, one a red steer with horns cut. There were fourteen young cattle. Some of them had a piece of tin on the ear.

The butcher who killed the cattle was examined. There were some steers and young heifers in the lot. Several of the cattle had their horns cut off. There were only four or five in the lot with their horns complete. His evidence and that of Pelletier were taken through Mr. Jas. Mackie, sr., as interpretor.

Cleaning Up.

We find it very necessary at the Oak Hall time of the year to clear off the broken lines, odd lots and slow sellers, in every department. This will mean a saving of from 25 to 50 per cent to many a calculating pocket-book. Boys' suits, men's suits, summer coats and vests, summer trousers. Come and see the money we can save for you on summer clothing.

WAS IT MURDER?

Quarrel Among a Gang of Toronto Toughs Results Fatally.

Charles Murray the Victim—Wm. Badgeley, of Belleville, Arrested—Others of the Crowd Being Sought—Fought Over Liquor.

The Jarvis street gang, an organization of the worst young men in Toronto, went out for a good time on Monday night, and before the members had finished their jollification one of them had received fatal injuries. His name was Charles Murray and he lived at 24 McCaul street.

The debauch which the gang began was to celebrate the release from prison of George Badgeley, who has spent the last three months in the Central.

LOOKING FOR TROUBLE.

A dozen of his friends came across Adelaide street from Jarvis street a few minutes before 11 o'clock in search of fun. They were all partially intoxicated. Policeman Forrest followed them along Adelaide street to York, where the crowd turned south to King, and then went west. Forrest went down York to Pearl, the street parallel with King, and, with Policeman Sockett, went across to Simcoe street. Here they waited for the arrival of the Jarvis street contingent, and, after some time, the crowd scurried up Simcoe street and spread in all directions.

In the meantime, the crowd, on reaching King street, had stopped for more drink, and the division of the liquor is said to have occasioned a quarrel. There was a slight scuffle, and then one man staggered back, and, throwing his hands in the air, fell to the pavement, his head striking the kerb. The others all turned when they saw what had happened, and fled. At the same moment, a Mrs. Webster, who saw the fight, rushed around the corner to the policemen, and told them of the occurrence.

HIS INJURIES FATAL.

The injured man was carried into Kip Huff's restaurant. He was unconscious and vomiting profusely. The men who stood about declared him intoxicated, and, as he rallied, and partially regained his senses, he was sent home in a hack. The driver, Jos. Ryan, had some difficulty in moving him, but attributed it all to liquor. His condition became rapidly worse, and Dr. Pepper was called, who found the young man's skull so badly fractured that his life could not be saved. He lingered until 7 o'clock next morning, and died without regaining consciousness again.

The seriousness of Murray's injuries being unknown to the police, no effort was made to capture his assailants until next morning. Then William Badgeley was arrested in his bed in a house in lower Jarvis street.

"I was with the gang," he said, on being brought to the police station, "and I saw the scuffle, but I don't know who hit Murray. Certainly; I was there."

AFTER THE WHOLE GANG.

This was all Badgeley would say. He would not tell who was with him, but the police hope to arrest each one of the company.

Badgeley is a young man of 29 years, with a sallow complexion, and a scar on his right temple. He has a very bad record, and has been in prison intermittently since his fourteenth year. He is a Belleville boy, and a lather by trade.

Badgeley has served terms in gaol for stealing from Benjamin Culp, of 352 Spadina avenue; C. E. Woolnough, 210 Queen st. west, and Geo. Terry, 9 Widmer st. His latest term of imprisonment was given for walking up to a beer waggon on the street and stealing a keg of beer, while the driver's attention was diverted.

THE VICTIM'S CAREER.

Charles Muray, the dead man, was unmarried. He lived with his mother and sisters at 24 McCaul street, and was of quite respectable character.

A wound on the back of his head, at the right side, shows where a blow was either delivered or where he struck the pavement.

ANOTHER BADGELEY.

A brother of the suspect now under arrest, Wm. Badgeley, named Harry Badgeley, will also be taken into custody. Other members of the gang are Geo. Redpath, Harry May and Burt Lyons. The men against whom bystanders are said to be prepared to give evidence, are the first two mentioned.

The Badgeley boys are well-known here, where they lived till about eight years ago, when they moved to Toronto. They were sons of Robert Badgeley, who at one time kept the Mansion House, and later was hostler at the Dominion House. The boys bore a bad reputation here and were mixed up in several scrapes.

TERRIBLY SUDDEN DEATH.

Mrs. (Rev) T. J. Thompson Dies at Kingston This Morning.

KINGSTON, Ont, Aug. 19.—The wife of the Rev. T. J. Thompson, of Belleville, died here this forenoon. She was found yesterday afternoon in a stupor. Two doctors and a trained nurse worked with her all night. The alternative being a premature confinement or death, she succumbed at 9.40 to-day

The above despatch reached us this afternoon and it will be read by the many friends of Rev. Mr. Thompson and his late wife with deepest regret. Deceased, whose maiden name was Hattie M. Baker, of Kingston, was married to Rev. Mr. Thompson in that city on December 5th, 1895, and came immediately to this city. She was visiting in Kingston, while her husband was taking his holidays in Philadelphia.

Miss Hattie M. Baker entered Queen's University in 1887, and graduated in 1892. Her University course brought her distinction, and she was classed as one of the most brilliant women who had passed through the University. She distinguished herself particularly in Natural Science, and graduated with the degree of M.A. In 1883 she was appointed to the teaching staff of the Collegiate Institute, Kingston, which position she held till a few months before her marriage.

During her residence in this city she has made many warm friends by her kindly unassuming manner and lovable disposition. To Mr. Thompson we extend our warmest sympathy.

THE CARMAN OPERA HOUSE.

It has Been Leased by an Experienced Amusement Caterer.

The Carman Opera House has just been leased for a term of years to a new firm of theatrical managers, Messrs Le Clair & Lesse, of Montreal, who will open the house during the second week in September. Mr. Le Clair is an old hand in the theatrical business, having been for a number of years in the employ of Messrs. Sparrow & Jacobs, of Montreal and Toronto, and has a large acquaintance among the leading theatrical men of the continent. He has served his apprenticeship from the bottom rung of the ladder. The policy of the new management is laid out on broad and liberal lines. With close relations with the big New York booking offices, they are placed in a position to secure for the Carman the best, and only the best, of the theatrical companies playing in this part of the Dominion; and long experience will enable them to avoid those companies with glittering promises and poor performance. Every effort will be made to secure for the Carman good, clean, up-to-date productions, which will not be dependent upon promises, but upon substantial and recognized reputations as entitling them to the patronage of the people of Belleville. Courtesy to all, is to be the watchword of the new management, and Mr. Le Clair states that in this respect he is determined that the Carman's reputation shall be of the very best.

The house is now undergoing a thorough overhauling and will be in the best of order when the season opens.

"If we only can secure the patronage of the people of this charming city," said Mgr. Le Clair, "we are quite certain that our new venture will be a complete success. We are certainly not going to allow any inattention or want of enterprise in our part to interfere with the successful consummation of our plan, which is to make the Carman the leading place of amusement between Montreal and Toronto. It can be done, and all we ask from the people of Belleville is the patronage our efforts deserve. We do not want people to attend poor performances and I think we can safely promise that the occasions on which they will be justified in staying away on this account will be few and far between. We are liable to be fooled by promises at times, but our connections enable us to keep a close eye on the attractions booked to appear at the Carman, and when we find it is not up to the representations on which we engaged it the people of this city can depend that that company will not appear on the boards of our theatre. We cannot afford it; we have a reputation to make and it is only by living up to the promises we make that success can be achieved. We intend making every effort to make the coming season the best dramatically in the history of the city."

We extend our best wishes to the new management.

McGill College.

The McGill College calendar for the session of 1896-7 has just been issued and intending students will do well to consult its pages, especially as there are some rather important changes in the regulations. A department of architecture has been established and lectures will begin this year. The department of chemistry and mining will also be placed in a thoroughly efficient condition. The erection of a large building, to be donated by Mr. W. C. McDonald, will be proceeded with immediately and fully equipped with the most recent apparatus in chemistry, mining and metallurgy. The department of classics has been further strengthened by the appointment of Prof. Frank Carter, M. A., and Mr. S. B. Slack, M. A., to the positions respectively of Professor and Lecturer in Classics.

Slaughter of Bass.

No wonder that black bass have become few and small since the use of gill nets at all seasons has been allowed. One day recently there was a shipment of 1300 pounds of bass made to the States from the Lambert fishery, near Deseronto. It is high time that anglers united in a petition for the abolition of gill nets and the cessation of summer fishing in the bay. Otherwise bass and pickerel will be exterminated.

The Weather.

A strong and cold north wind prevailed during the night. Minimum 57; at 8 a.m. 57; at noon 70.

PROBABILITIES.

Fine; not much change in temperature to-day; a little warmer Thursday.

Horse and Buggy Recovered.

The Chief of Police received a postal card from C. A. Wells, liveryman at Kingston, this morning, informing him that a young man about 18 or 20 years of age had hired a rig from him on Sunday last and had not returned. The man wore dark clothes and was smooth shaved. The horse was a brown mare and was hitched to a new top buggy. Officer Hayes started out and soon found a horse and buggy answering the description at the Dominion House. The hostler said three men brought it there about five o'clock on Monday evening, but he could not describe the men. They had not returned since and no trace of them has yet been found.

A Large Excursion.

A special train came in about 10 o'clock this morning over the Midland Ry. from Campbellford conveying the annual excursion of the Methodist church Sunday School of that town. They were taken to Rathbun's wharf, where they embarked on the Ella Ross for Twelve O'clock Point. The party numbered about 375 persons, and came down in eight coaches. They returned early this evening after spending a delightful day.

WHY IS IT?

Why is it, when there are any special doings in Belleville, our store is soon recognized by strangers as THE resort of the city?

Where can I get a good lunch?
Who has the best Ice Cream?
Where can I get a cool, refreshing drink?
Who keeps the best Confectionery in Belleville?

These are only some of the questions strangers are sure to ask, and the answer is almost invariably "DICKENS."

KING OR KNAVE?

"Indeed, you've done no such thing. Your mind, indeed! That's my business. You forget that when people's minds want making they've got to come to me."

"Let him speak," said Red Beard, in a slow, foreign drawl. "It is good, once upon a dime, to hear the tongue of a man."

"Meaning I talk too much," said Cynthia. "Of course I do. And if I had twenty tongues I'd talk twenty times more. And if you don't like it, Stephen does; and if Stephen doesn't, I do. And if I don't——"

"Hush," said the other. "I have made up my mind, queer as that may seem. I only wish I'd made it up ever so long ago. I didn't rebel against social tyranny to become a slave. Now, look here, Cynthia, and look you too, Peterson. What's the good of all this slaving out of one's brains to me and you?"

"I know," said Red Beard. "It means a great pig vortune—once upon a dime."

"Fudge!" cried Cynthia, with sparkling eyes. "It means—Fun! If I was asked what life I'd choose, I'd say the one I've got now. Just think, you dull, greedy Red Beard; and you Stephen. Why, it's like living a play; not going home and taking off one's tights and spangles when the curtain comes down, and then waiting till to-morrow, but the real thing—real police, real villains, real secret passages, real money—ah, and real leading lady, and all. And if you'd only half an ounce more pluck, Stephen, there'd be a real hero as well. Yes—it is just fun to be making our own money instead of working and starving for it, like some of us used to do; and if we made less, it's fun to be ghosts and live in a haunted house that gives everybody the creeps to pass by. Do you know, I dressed myself in a sheet the other night and stood at the drawing-room windows. I did indeed!"

"What?" cried Red Beard, with a sound as if a wolf were swearing deep down. "You are invernally mad—Gott in heaven, if you was seen!"

"Stupid! As if being seen wasn't half the fun; and half the safety, too. The next moonlight night we'll stand at the window all three; we shall make a lovely trio—me the ghost, you the ogre, and Stephen the vampire; and we'll grin. I wonder when there's the next full moon."

"Fortune—Fun!" said Stephen, flashing scorn. "Much of them come to me. It's always some day—some day—some day. And as for fun!" And indeed he looked like one who had never known any such thing, even in a dream. "There's my last die; and——"

Cynthia drew herself up to her full height—not a fraction under five feet one and regarded him gravely.

"Stephen," said she, "where are you going? What are you going to do?"

"Anywhere—anything."

"Ah, I understand. No—you cannot, you, a great, the very greatest artist, mean to desert your art. That is impossible. Nor can you, a great revolutionist, be going to be false to your cause—the Ann—what is it?—Nihilation of Law. I understand. You are a man; and you are going to desert me. . . . Very well, then. All right—good-bye."

"Don't be a born idiot, Cynthia! Of course you're coming too."

"What—to anywhere? Not I. What does it matter to me? You'll be all right. I've no doubt there'll be scores of girls, ever so much taller than me, who'll be only too happy to sew on your buttons and keep your pencils pointed and your burins and needles ground and spot flaws in your work, and run your errands, and—and make all sorts of fools of themselves. I'm only of use to you here, where else you'd have nobody at all."

"Am I an artist, Cynthia? Yes or no?"

"You know you are. There. Good-bye."

"And yet you ask me to stay here—slaving for a convict, and——"

"'A convict, and——?' Go on, Stephen Ray," said Adam Furness, entering from the side door and closing it behind him. "On second thoughts, though, don't go on. There's no call to play pot and kettle. It's always waste of time."

"I suffered for a Principle," said Stephen sullenly. "For the eternal right of every human being to equality of Fortune——"

"A Principle. So did I, Come, none of that cant. I'm an ex-forger, and you're an ex-thief; and I suppose our principle, deep down, was pretty much the same. Ah—there you are, Cynthia; bright and bonny. Well, Petersen—how have things been going? Nothing wrong?"

"Nothing wrong, Adam Furness, but that this girl is a fool, to brank at ghosts; and that Stephen Ray, he talks of I know not what absurd——"

"Absurd or not absurd," said Stephen Ray, "I've done my last stroke of work here."

"Indeed?" asked Adam Furness, lifting his brows. "Cynthia—what the devil does the fellow mean?"

"He says the place doesn't suit him," said she demurely, "and so we've been saying good-bye."

"Well—it's a free country; and if you can't keep him, Cynthia, I'm sure it's not for me to try. He won't peach, because he daren't," he said with an absent sigh. "Well, Ray—if we must part we must; no doubt a fellow of your talents has only got to cant hard enough to find somebody sof-headed enough to put faith in those fine white fingers. And now—don't stare—I'm going to retire from business, too."

"You, Adam Furness?" exclaimed Red Beard. "No. You do no such thing!"

"Yes. I; and you, Peter Petersen; and Father Isaacs; and the Count; and Jellitt; and the Knacher; and I'd have said Stephen Ray, if he hadn't taken French leave. And I'll tell you why. We've not done badly; but we're going to make so big a coup this time that if we don't retire on our winnings we shall be a pack of fools."

"I wait," said Red Beard, resuming his pipe, "to know the little kame."

"It's told in a dozen words. And it means seventy thousand pounds."

"Seventy thousand pounds," said Red Beard. "That is a great big Zum."

Cynthia had subsided back to her stool, and fell to grinding the point of an etching needle while she hummed a tune. Stephen Ray sat apart, making charcoal scrawls on the surface of one of the long benches and wiping them off again.

"Yes; it is a biggish sum. The Count has got the office that a million roubles in specie have got to be paid next New Year's Day—old style, of course, which gives us time to the good—to the Khan of Moulkhend, wherever that may be—somewhere in Tartary, I suppose. Of course it's secret service; or else there'd be nothing in my idea. Now, what is to prevent our receiving the million roubles, and paying the Khan of Moulkhend?"

Red Beard shook his head.

"Everything is to prevent," said he.

"It's risky—I know that. So risky that this must be the last time. Listen to my plan. All that has to be done is to contrive so that the Khan of Moulkhend's agent for receiving the Czar's little present shall be one of ourselves; or rather not one of ourselves, but somebody who will serve us innocently. Very well. I hear from the Count that the money is to be paid to Moshel Kraff, who keeps a bank at

FORESTERS DIVIDED.

Three High Courts in the Province of Ontario.

The Central Court Will Have About 11,000 Members, While the Eastern and Western Courts Will Have About 8000 Each—The 300 Delegates Received a Warm Reception From the Civic Authorities at the Capital.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—(Special.)—The question of the division of the High Court of Ontario of the Independent Foresters into two or three high court jurisdictions is the chief topic for consideration at the present High Court meeting, which opened here this morning. The Foresters lost no time in getting down to a consideration of this important matter. About 300 delegates were in attendance. At the morning session the reports of the high officers were presented and referred to different committees.

Mr. Robert McNair, High Chief Ranger, alluded in his report to the fact that it was 11 years since the High Court of Ontario met in Ottawa. At that time the membership was 3046, now it is 97,000. Eleven years ago the surplus fund was $28,036; to-day it is $1,794,340. During the year 2867 had been added to the membership roll. Important legislation was secured by the Executive Council from the last Parliament, notably the privilege of making annual returns to the Government and inspection of the books by the Superintendent of Insurance, and the right of making a deposit with the Government for the security of the membership. While the superintendent required only $75,000 deposit, the Executive had placed $100,000 with the Government. The action of the Supreme Court in amending its constitution and laws, so as to give to those deserving of it $4000 or $5000 benefit certificates, has also been endorsed and confirmed by Parliament.

The High Secretary's report showed a substantial increase in membership, and that 61 new courts had been organized during the year, including 25 by officers of the Supreme Court.

The High Treasurer's report stated that since the close of the year, there had been paid on account of supplies $3000, and there is still owing on this account $7253. All other accounts have been paid, with the exception of a few small items, which will not aggregate more than $250. At the present time there is a balance in the treasury of $1285.

The High Court Inspector's report was eminently favorable.

The auditors, in their report, regretted the large amount still owing for High Court dues by subordinate courts, and stated that there is still a substantial amount owing for supplies that should be reduced. The High Secretary had written off all bad debts and included in statement of assets only such property as would bring a direct return. The balance of cash in the hands of the High Treasurer on June 30 was $624.65.

Addresses of welcome were presented by the local courts and by the Mayor and the City Council, to which High Chief Ranger McNair made appropriate replies. Mayor William Borthwick was made a Forester at sight by Big Chief Oronhyatekha.

In the afternoon the delegates were given an electric whirl round the city by the Local Reception Committee.

At 4 o'clock work was resumed, when the special committee appointed to consider the question of dividing the High Court reported in favor of a division into three high court jurisdictions—eastern, central and western, the central to consist of Halton, Peel, Cardwell, Simcoe, York, Ontario, Durham, Victoria, Muskoka and Algoma; all east of the said counties to constitute the High Court of Eastern Ontario; all west to constitute the High Court of Western Ontario. The principle embodied in the report was discussed at great length by, among others, the following brethren: Dr. Thompson (Toronto), A. N. Payne (Ottawa), W. T. R. Preston (Toronto), Callender (Brantford), Cameron (Galt), Rev. W. B. Carey (Kingston), and Cameron (Lucknow).

At the evening session the Credential Committee reported that 330 delegates were in attendance. The High Councillor ruled against recognizing the rank of Bro. Harper, A.P.H.C.R., of Ohio, now resident in Ontario. The feeling of the High Court was in favor of recognizing Bro. Harper.

The debate on the division of jurisdiction was continued by A. W. Fraser (Ottawa), William Drennan (Kingston), Rev. Ker (St. Catharines), Hunter (Toronto), A. Munro Grier (Toronto), Murton (Oshawa), McCormack (St. Thomas), Collins (Toronto) and others.

At 10.30 the previous question was carried, and the High Court divided on the committee's recommendation to divide the High Court.

The result was as follows: For a division into three High Courts, 241, against 135; majority for 106. The result was hailed with loud cheers.

The remaining clauses of the report were adopted and the High Court adjourned at midnight.

The division line agreed upon will give 11,000 members to the Central High Court and 8000 to each of the other High Courts.

BILLY GOAT'S BANQUET

Costs Him His Life Because He Ate $17 in Bills and Wouldn't "Cough Up."

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 18.—John Schaeffer, employed by the Keystone Axle Company, a week ago Saturday drew $17 as his week's pay. The money was in bills. Putting it in the pocket of his coat, he started for home. On the way he stopped to pitch quoits and hung his coat upon a fence. During the game Charley Riley's billy-goat browsed along on the other side of the fence. Seeing the coat, he nibbled at it and ate out the pocket containing the money. Alderman S. F. Kerr refused to receive an information charging the goat with larceny, but advised Mrs. Riley to sell the animal to Schaeffer. The latter could then kill the goat and recover the money. Master Charles Riley cried and refused to part with his pet. Then Mrs. Riley gave the animal an emetic, but the goat refused to "cough up" the money. As Schaeffer was determined, Mrs. Riley sent the goat to a slaughter-house, where it was killed. Enough fragments of the money were recovered to show that the goat had eaten $17 and the Treasury officials, to whom the pieces had been sent, notified Schaeffer to-day that they would pay the full amount.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue."

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels, therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency"

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forget this.

MR. EDGAR IS SPEAKER

Commoners Are Through With the Preliminaries.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Welcomes Sir Oliver Mowat to the Ranks of the "Old Ladies"—How the New Commoners Signed the Roll—Mr. Laurier Was Dressed For the Occasion—Sir Charles Tupper Suggested a French-Canadian Speaker.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—The first session of the eighth Parliament of Canada has traversed one lap on its course. To-morrow it will peg on another round and the next day it will get on full steam.

Both in the Senate and the House of Commons the proceedings were of considerable interest, although to-day the public seemed to centre their thoughts on the lower chamber. The galleries of the Senate were not more than half-filled when Speaker Pelletier entered and took his seat in the chair usually occupied by Clerk Langevin. Prayers were read by Ven. Archdeacon Lauder in his rich Irish brogue, interested lookers-on getting the full benefit. There were about 35 senators present at this time and it was remarked that Senator Scott and Sir Mackenzie Bowell had changed sides. Beyond this the senators occupied their usual seats.

Prayers over, the new Speaker intimated that a commission had been issued to him as Speaker of the Senate, which was read by the assistant clerk. This business having been transacted, Messrs. Scott and Power escorted Senator Pelletier to the Speaker's chair.

While the commission was being read our own Sir Oliver Mowat toddled into the chamber. He was as bright as ever and wearing the smile, so childlike and bland, to which the Ontario people are so accustomed. One of the first to greet him was Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who, after a hearty hand-shake, congratulated him that he was about to join the "old ladies." Sir Oliver replied smilingly: "Well, I don't look very much like an old lady," at which they both laughed. The conversation was cut short by the announcement that there were members below the bar waiting to be introduced.

The following senators were then introduced:

Sir Oliver Mowat, by Messrs. Scott and Power.

L. J. Forget, by Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Senator Masson.

F. Bechard, by Messrs. Scott and McInnes.

Sir Oliver recited the oath of allegiance in a clear voice, and, having signed the roll, took his seat.

These preliminaries over, Senator Miller dropped a little bomb shell in the senatorial camp by intimating that under the rules, the Senate could not meet till 3 o'clock, whereas this afternoon they had met at 2.30 and it was only by accident that he had heard of it and was present at that hour. He threw out the dreadful suggestion that Sir Oliver was not legally a member of the Senate.

Sir Oliver Mowat said that he would take care five years hence, if a new Speaker were appointed, that this irregularity would not occur again. (Laughter.)

Sir Mackenzie Bowell said he was gratified to hear Sir Oliver's prophecy. It was to be hoped, however, that five years hence the responsibility would not devolve upon him, Sir Oliver, to select a Speaker. After five years' experience in the country, the probability was that there would be as great a political revolution as there had been in the past few weeks. He promised that the Opposition would endeavor, so far as they could, to keep the Government in the right path.

Mr. Masson said that Mr. Scott had been acting as leader during the afternoon, but Sir Oliver Mowat had assumed the duty. He thought the House ought to know which honorable gentleman was to be the leader.

There was some laughter at this remark, and then the matter dropped.

The Senate adjourned during pleasure, when Sir Henry Strong entered, took the chair in his capacity as Deputy Governor, and black rod was instructed to summons faithful Commons. This having been done, the Commons were duly informed that his Excellency did not see fit to declare the reasons for summoning Parliament until the Commons had elected their Speaker. So with this slap in the eye the faithful Commoners went back to their own House and proceeded to carry out the gubernatorial injunction.

The Chamber of the Commons was crowded to excess by visitors to the city. In the morning there had also been quite a gathering in the historic chamber. Dr. Bourinot, Clerk of the House, and his assistant, Mr. Rouleau, were on hand shortly before 12 o'clock to swear in the new members. Promptly as the hands of the clock touched the point indicating the mid-day hour, Messrs. M. C. Cameron, Huron; Julius Scriver, Huntingdon; Dr. Rinfret, Lotbiniere, and Dr. Migneault, Yamaska, laid their hands on the Holy Writ and had the oath administered together. Then Messrs. Scriver and Cameron signed the roll together. The attaching of signatures soon became general. Hon. Mr. Tarte and Hon. Mr. Fisher took the oath at the same time. R. Henry, the man who struck Billy Paterson of Brant, and Joseph Seagram, the new member for North Waterloo, were another pair who assumed full rights to sit in Parliament at the same time. By 1 o'clock nearly all the members had been sworn in, and in this way the course was cleared for the afternoon proceedings.

In the Speaker's Gallery there was quite a bevy of ladies, prominent amongst them being Madame Laurier, radiant and smiling. Next to her was seated Mrs. Edgar, a trifle nervous at the ordeal which was awaiting her liege lord.

Looking over the members of the House, it did not seem as if more than 20 seats were vacant. Clerk Bourinot was in his place at the head of the table, and when Black Rod came in that functionary's first observations were addressed to Mr. Clerk. Once in five years Black Rod varies his bow, the sight of which is long remembered by him who sees it. To-day was the occasion of the quinquennial obeisance. To-morrow, when he enters the chamber, Black Rod will show his bald pate to the Speaker. To-day, with a kind of Saratoga glide, he twirled it from one side of the House to the other, in deference to the members. The new men were highly delighted at the performance and cheered uproariously.

The visit to the Senate did not take long. Settled once more in their places in the Commons, there was a pause, when Mr. Laurier entered. The leader of the Government looked spick and span. He wore a black morning coat and vest and grey trousers, and carried a new silk hat, cane and tan gloves in his hands. His followers cheered him enthusiastically.

The Clerk called order, and the Premier rose. Addressing Dr. Bourinot, he said that in accordance with the intimation just conveyed by the representative of the Crown, and according to the well-known usages of Parliament, the duty now devolved upon the House to select a Speaker. He proceeded to speak of the importance of the position, how in the old days the Speaker was the channel of communication between the Commons and the Crown, and how important the duties were at a time when the relations between the Crown and the Commons were hazy and undefined. In later years they had become more clearly defined, and now embraced almost wholly the duties of presiding over deliberations of the Commons. The occupant of the position required to be possessed of a sound and prompt judgment, a judicial mind, a thorough knowledge of the law and constitution of Parliament, fairness and impartiality.

He submitted that in all these respects Mr. Edgar was well qualified to be Speaker of the House. Old members agreed with him that in Mr. Edgar's hands the rights and privileges of the Commons would be in safe keeping, that he would discharge the duties with favor to none, and with fear of none, that he would indeed be the first Commoner in the land. He moved, seconded by Sir Richard Cartwright, that Mr. J. D. Edgar, member for West Ontario, do take the chair of this House as Speaker.

Sir Charles Tupper, who was received with loud Opposition cheers, said he did not rise for the purpose of opposing the motion. On the contrary, he believed the duties of the high office of Speaker would be discharged with great ability and impartiality by the hon. gentleman just named, but he desired to express the regret of members of the Opposition that it had been found necessary to depart from the time-honored principle of electing alternately a French or English Speaker. (Hear, hear, and some oh, nos.) That was the uniform practice of the House, and while not making any exception to the appointment of Mr. Edgar he could only express his regret that the customary practice had been departed from. (Opposition cheers.)

Dr. Bourinot put the motion to the House and declared Mr. Edgar duly elected Speaker.

The new Speaker was thereupon escorted to the dais by Mr. Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright, and the mace, insignia of authority, was placed on the table.

The new Speaker, standing on the second step of the dais, conveyed to the House his sincere and hearty thanks for the high honor done him by electing him as Speaker. He said it would be his pleasure as well as his duty to endeavor to deserve this high honor by dealing with all questions which came before him officially with firmness and impartiality. He was fully sensible of his own unfitness for this position, but he relied confidently on the co-operation of the hon. members on both sides to assist him in maintaining their rules and regulations, in vindicating their rights and privileges, and in preserving the freedom and dignity of debate according to ancient usages. (Applause.) Mr. Edgar repeated his observations in very good French, and was on the conclusion thereof loudly applauded by both sides. He then took the chair.

On motion of Mr. Laurier the Commons then adjourned.

JAMES M'KAY A BIGAMIST.

A Nova Scotian Arrested in New York on a Serious Charge.

New York, Aug. 19.—James McKay, a native of Nova Scotia, 40 years old, who is charged with bigamy, was arraigned for examination before Magistrate Mott this morning. The complainant, Mrs. Charlotte A. McKay, testified that she was married to McKay at Pine Grove, N.S., Sept. 8, 1877, and that on June 11, 1896, McKay was married to Miss Anna A. Bowler, in this city. Documentary proof of both marriages was offered in evidence. Several witnesses testified to the fact that McKay had lived with the complainant as his wife, both in Nova Scotia and this city. McKay was held in $1000 bail for the grand jury.

HAS CROSSED THE BAR

Hon. W. D Balfour Passed Away Last Evening.

This is the Second Time the Huge Pile in Queen's Park Has Become the Death Chamber of an Honored Provincial Minister—Mr. Balfour's Career From Newsboy to Crown Adviser—How He Was Lost in a Snowstorm, Which Event Made Him Frail in Body for Life—The Funeral Arrangements.

Toronto, Aug. 20.

A second time has the huge legislative pile in Queen's Park become the death-chamber of a member of the Ontario Government. Hon. W. D. Balfour passed over the bar to the great majority last evening. The Provincial Secretary was surrounded by his loved ones when he breathed his last. The summons came five minutes after 6 o'clock, just as the Minister was in his delirium, vigorously addressing an imaginary audience of his electors.

Yesterday morning Mr. Balfour seemed stronger than he had been for days, and Dr. Fisher of Amherstburg went so far as to hold out hopes of his patient's recovery. Drs. McPhedren and Amyot, the other attendant physicians, however, shook their heads, and thought that the end could not be far off. As the day wore on the dying man became weaker, and it was evident that the sand in the glass would soon run out. The Minister himself, though from the first he had fought the fatal malady with all the energy and courage characteristic of his whole career, during the afternoon recognized that his time was at hand. He recalled the death a few years ago in the Parliament Buildings of a former Minister of Public Works, and remarked to his attendant, Mr. Samuel Dunbar, that it was going to be a "case of Christopher Fraser."

Then, as the tide of life gradually ebbed, his mind was filled with reminiscences of his early boyhood, and he spoke of how, as a wee lad, he had sold papers on the streets of St. Catharines as a newsboy.

Shortly after 5 o'clock the attendant saw that the hand of death was approaching and summoned the members of the dying man's family to his bedside. His father, mother, wife, sisters and eldest son entered the chamber, and the Minister, recognizing each, beginning with his wife, faithful helpmeet, bade them all an affectionate farewell. During these hours, Rev. Ross G. Murison of Toronto University was also admitted to minister to the spiritual wants of the passing man.

Half an hour before the end Mr. Balfour began to sink rapidly, and, when he became unconscious, all retired from the chamber except Dr. Fisher and the male nurse. In the last few moments the Minister essayed several times to rise in his bed and he was speaking in his well-known restless manner when his spirit crossed the bar.

It seems especially sad that Mr. Balfour should be cut off while comparatively a young man—he had only reached his 45th year—when he had just arrived at the goal which for years he had been struggling towards. Only the other day he remarked to his father that he was at last in a position to help him. The Minister made his will on Tuesday and it is understood that he dies a comparatively poor man. Owing to his long-standing infirmity, he was never able to secure insurance on his life, and he leaves little but an interest in The Amherstburg Weekly Echo, in the conduct of which Mr. John Ault was his partner.

When a boy, not yet in his teens, Mr. Balfour sold newspapers to pay for the text books he needed at school, and apropos of this, Mr. David Balfour, his father, tells of the beginning of the dead man's physical infirmities. When out disposing of his dailies in the streets of St. Catharines, he got lost in a snow storm. After a long search his father found him, and carried him home. As a result of his exposure on that occasion, he contracted inflammatory rheumatism, which enfeebled his whole frame for life. Ever afterwards he suffered from weak lungs, a specially severe attack on which has finally carried him off.

Hon. A. S. Hardy returned from a fishing expedition in Parry Sound about an hour after his colleague's decease. He was camping on an island in Georgian Bay, and none of the messages concerning Mr. Balfour's illness reached him until late on Tuesday night, when it was too late to catch a train for Toronto. He started for the city early yesterday morning, however, and was shocked when he got here to learn of the fatal termination of the Minister's attack.

On his arrival, the Premier hurried to the Speaker's chambers, where Mr. Balfour lay since Monday night, and condoled with the afflicted family. Mr. Hardy seemed to deeply feel the loss the Government and province have sustained.

Of the other Ministers, Hon. J. M. Gibson will arrive in town to-day and Hon. Mr. Ross will likely come over from the New York State health resort where he has been spending the last few weeks. Hon. Messrs. Dryden, Davis and Bronson may be able to pay the last honors to the dead, but of the other two Ministers, Hon. Mr. Harty is at Government House, Prince Edward Island, and the other, Hon. Mr. Harcourt, is in Europe.

Under the direction of Housekeeper O'Brien the funeral arrangements have been completed, and Mr. Rosar has been secured as undertaker. All day to-day the body will lie in state in the Parliamentary Reception Room, and to-morrow at 8.15 a.m the coffin will be removed to the Union Station at 9.05, entrained for St. Catharines, where the remains will be laid to rest in the Balfour family burial ground. It was intended to convey the body to Amherstburg, and inter it amidst the people of Essex, whom the dead served so long in the Legislature, but as it is understood Mrs. Balfour intends removing her residence from that town, it was decided to bury the Minister with his people.

Mr. Balfour and his sons adhered to the Presbyterian faith, and though his widow and daughters attend the Roman Catholic Church the funeral will be conducted by a minister of the Scottish body.

It is understood that the available Cabinet Ministers will be among the pallbearers at the funeral.

A number of telegrams of condolence were received by Mrs. Balfour from many parts of the country last evening, and many friends in the city, to whom the news of the death quickly spread, called at the Parliament buildings.

Is Dr. Gallagher Insane?

London, Aug. 19.—Officials at the United States Embassy to-day said they had not been informed when Dr. Gallagher, the Irish political prisoner, would be released. The Parnellites claim that he has lost his reason, but the Home Office declines to state whether he is insane or not. The Home Office informed the Embassy that, while Dr. Gallagher is in bad health, he is able to be removed.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

It Is a Pretty Meagre Bill of Fare That Will Be Submitted to Parliament To-day.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—The Speech from the Throne was finally agreed upon in council to-day. It is a pretty bald document. It will announce that the Government will not submit any legislation this session, that Parliament is called with the specific object of voting the necessary supplies. During recess the Government will take up the question of tariff reform and will invite the views of mercantile committees, with the object of submitting to Parliament next session a tariff for revenue only.

In reference to the Manitoba school question it is stated in the speech that the Government hope by next session to have this matter settled to the satisfaction of all parties. The speech, however, does not convey any hint as to the manner in which this will be brought about.

AN ATTRACTIVE WOMAN

If a woman is not attractive, there is something wrong. Any woman can be attractive if she will make the effort. It isn't altogether a question of beauty. It's largely a matter of health. The bloom and glow of health go far toward bringing beauty. A clear skin, bright eyes, red lips and the vivacity which bodily good feeling brings, will make even a homely woman handsome.

Half of the women one meets are semi-invalids. Failure to heed the warnings of outraged nature—failure to give the help needed by the most delicate and sensitive organs—little troubles ignored until they have become dominant—disease allowed every chance to spread and gain a settled seat—these things bring about the sunken, circled eyes, the hollow cheeks, the pale and sallow skin, the flabby, strengthless flesh, which characterize the appearance of the woman who suffers from "female weakness."

THE FOREIGN POLICY.

In conversation with a reporter for the Chicago Recorder, Mr. Laurier renewed the unpatriotic denunciation of Canada's position under the fishery treaty of 1818 which he made at St. Thomas eight years ago, and for which the Globe took him so sharply to task that he was obliged to abandon the missionary work on which he was at the time engaged.

Now, however, that Mr. Laurier is Premier and that there is no immediate necessity for placating the outraged loyalty of the people, the Globe puts the telescope to its blind eye and "can't see it." The Mail and Empire, however, comments so pointedly upon the Premier's utterances that we are tempted to reproduce our contemporary's article, which is as follows:

Mr. Laurier told an audience during the campaign that in the event of a Liberal victory he would promptly send a commission to Washington to get a treaty of reciprocity, and that if Lord Salisbury objected to the terms he would tell that nobleman to confine his attentions to England. This talk pleased the Anglophobes in his party mightly. It suited La Patrie, and lent strength to that department of Liberalism which exists for the purpose of relieving us of the British yoke. The new Premier has not carried out his programme as yet. But he has laid the foundations for it by issuing to the press of the United States what is described as an interview with the correspondent of a Chicago paper.

The details of the conversation are remarkable. Mr. Laurier opens with the statement that our relations with the people of the United States have not been friendly for some time past, and that he hopes for "renewal of neighborly relations" in the future. This is a serious accusation. If a private individual were to say that we are, or that we have been, unfriendly and unneighborly to the United States the story might pass without notice. But Mr. Laurier is the Premier of Canada. He speaks officially, and, so far as the people next door can judge, by the book. His charge therefore is calculated to affect Unted States sentiment disadvantageously to us. If it is true, Mr. Laurier should substantiate it. If it is not true he should retract it, and that without delay. That Mr. Laurier can prove his damaging assertion there is no reason to believe. Questions have arisen betweec Canada and the United States, as questions always do, and always will, arise between contiguous countries. Canada, in all these matters, has never done anything more unfriendly than to sustain to the best of her ability her own side of her case. What would Mr. Laurier have had us do? In the fishery dispute we negotiated a treaty of settlement, and offered a modus vivendi pending its acceptance by the United States. In the Behring Sea matter the whole question went to a commission of arbitration. Should we have allowed the fishery question to be settled as Washington desired, without protest? If so, what did Mr. Laurier mean when he complained that the treaty was too friendly to the United States, in that it gave our neighbors less than they wanted, but still more than they were entitled to? Should we have conceded the claims of the United States in respect to the Behring Sea question? If so, what did Sir Richard Cartwright mean by declaring in one of his Oxford speeches that although our views had been to a very large extent sustained by the Paris tribunal, we had been "sacrificed again"? After having proclaimed to the United States our alleged condition of unfriendliness—a proclamation which is perhaps the customary preliminary to diplomatic negotiations—Mr. Laurier proceeds to tell our neighbors what he intends to do in order to renew friendly relations. In the first place, he thinks there should be a treaty governing the fishery question similar to that of 1871 and that of 1854. This is what the late Government proposed both in 1888 and 1891. Then, there should be an international arrangement, under which an enlarged Canadian canal system might be used by the shipping of both Canada and the United States. The late Government appointed a commission to act with a commission from the United States on this very question. Finally, there should be reciprocity in natural products, "and such manufactured articles as may be mutually agreed upon," and "the question of the bonding privilege" should be taken up with the rest.

Mr. Laurier is liberal in his programme. There is no "bonding question" except in the minds of his United States allies, who want to renounce the existing treaty in order to squeeze us into annexation. But he officially acknowledges a "bonding question," and proposes to give the United States in return for its solution, and for admission of our products to an already well stocked market for agricultural produce, first, the free use of the fisheries, as under the treaties of 1854 and 1871; and, secondly, the run of Canada for certain lines of manufactures—manufactures such as we are engaged in producing, and not manufactures in which we do not participate, for there would be no advantage to the United States in that. The proclamation issued by the Premier to the press of the United States ought, as a confession of wrong-doing in the past, and as a pledge to give up everything in the future, to be exceedingly valuable to the diplomats with whom Mr. Laurier proposes some day to negotiate.

Correcting the Children.

Indian mothers resort to a curious method to keep babies from crying. At the first attempt to cry on the part of an infant the mother places her hand over its mouth and pinches its nose so that it cannot breathe. Naturally it stops crying. In an instant it is allowed to breathe [illegible]. This operation, repeated whenever the baby begins a[illegible] soon persuades the child that it is its own act—the effort to cry—which produces the uncomfortable choking fit. It soon decides that the game is not worth the candle, and stops its wails.

Now, it is too much to expect the Canadian mother will resort to this heroic measure to persuade her infant that crying is unnecessary, but will she perhaps see the moral in the proceeding? Herbert Spencer points the same in his essay on Education, when he advises the parents to follow the methods of nature in their correction of children. A child touches a hot stove and its finger is burned. He does it again, and again his finger is burned. Every time he tries it the punishment is ready. Probably the second attempt cures him, and never again while he lives does he voluntarily try the temperature of a piece of heated iron on his exposed skin. It is not the violent spasmodic punishment that mean[illegible] [illegible]ction of a child's faults. R[illegible]

WINTER WHEAT.

Leading Varieties Throughout Ontario—Results of Co-operative Experimental Work.

Mr. C. A. Zavitz, experimentalist to the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, reviews the work of testing varieties of wheat last year in this province, and gives the results:—

Within the past seven years one hundred and thirty-three varieties of winter wheat have been very carefully tested in the experimental department at the Agricultural College, Guelph. Besides ascertaining the comparative yields of grain and straw of the different varieties, the wheats have been closely examined each year for their quality of grain, time of maturity, strength of straw, freedom from rust, etc., in order to determine which kinds will give the most satisfactory results when grown under uniform conditions. After the various varieties have been carefully stated at the college for a few years those which have given the best satisfaction are selected for distribution throughout Ontario. This system of co-operative experimental work enables the farmers to determine for themselves which of the leading varieties will give the best results upon their own particular farms. As a practical result from obtaining information in this way, hundreds of farmers are now growing varieties in their regular farm practice which were entirely unknown to them a short time ago. For instance, the Dawson Golden Chaff variety of winter wheat, which has recently given such high average yields of grain per acre, both at the college and throughout Ontario, was scarcely known except in one neighborhood near Guelph until it was sown in our experimental grounds in 1891, and afterwards distributed for co-operative experimental work. This is now one of the most popular varieties in winter wheats in this province.

In the fall of 1895 nine leading varieties of winter wheat were distributed in this way. They were divided into two sets, with five varieties in each. The Dawson's Golden Chaff was used in both sets to form a basis by which the results of all the varieties could be compared with one another. Each person who wanted to conduct an experiment stated in his application which set he desired, and the five varieties in the set selected were sent to his address, with full instructions for conducting the experiment. The grain was sown at the rate of one and one-third bushels per acre, upon plots exactly uniform in size and shape. The yields per acre have been calculated from the actual results obtained from the plots.

Ninety reports of carefully conducted experiments have been received this season up to the time of writing. As these came from twenty-seven of the counties in Ontario, the results should be of real practical value to the farmers of the province.

The following table gives the comparative results of straw and grain per acre of the winter wheat varieties tested during the past season on 90 Ontario farms:—

	Tons.	Bush. 60lbs.
Dawson's Golden Chaff	1.29	26.9
Jones' Winter Fife	1.45	25.1
Pride of Genesee	1.30	[illegible]
Early Red Clawson	1.27	24.9
Surprise	1.27	23.8
American Bronze	1.31	23.7
Early Genesee Giant	1.26	23.1
Bulgarian	1.20	21.3
Jones' Square Head	1.12	20.2

CONCLUSIONS.

In average yield of winter wheat per acre, Dawson's Golden Chaff stood highest among eleven varieties tested over Ontario in 1893, nine varieties in 1894, nine varieties in 1895, and nine varieties in 1896. Also among fifty-three varieties grown at the Agricultural College for five years in succession.

In the co-operative experiments for 1896 Dawson's Golden Chaff, Jones' Winter Fife and Pride of Genesee gave the best yields on heavy soils, and Jones' Winter Fife, Dawson's Golden Chaff and Surprise on light soils.

Pride of Genesee, Dawson's Golden Chaff, and Jones' Winter Fife made the best appearance in the spring of 1896.

Early Genesee Giant, Early Red Clawson, Dawson's Golden Chaff, and American Bronze possessed the stiffest straw in 1896.

Pride of Genesee, Jones' Winter Fife, Bulgarian, and American Bronze produced the greatest length of straw.

Dawson's Golden Chaff, Bulgarian, and Pride of Genesee were the least, and the Surprise, Early Genesee Giant, and American Bronze were the most affected by the rust.

Early Red Clawson and Dawson's Golden Chaff were the first to mature, and the Pride of Genesee, Early Genesee Giant, and Bulgarian were the last to mature.

Dawson's Golden Chaff, Surprise, and Early Red Clawson produced the plumpest grain, and Jones' Winter Fife and American Bronze the most shrunken grain.

Dawson's Golden Chaff was decidedly the most popular variety with the experimenters in each of the past four years; and in 1896, it was chosen by about fifty per cent. of the farmers who sent in full reports, as being the best among the varieties tested.

Six varieties of winter wheat have been tested over Ontario for three years in succession, with the following average results in bushels of grain per acre:—Dawson's Golden Chaff, 31.8; Jones' Winter Fife, 29.2; Early Genesee Giant, 28.5; Early Red Clawson, 28.3; American Bronze, 27.8; Surprise, 27.8; and Bulgarian, 27.2.

Reports of successful experiments with winter wheat have been received this season from twenty-seven counties in Ontario—sixteen of which are situated east and eleven west of the city of Guelph.

The principal failures in the winter wheat experiments, not included in this report, were caused by winter-killing, grasshoppers, accidents, etc., and in some instances by the experimenters not conducting the tests in exact accordance with the instructions given.

Of the two hundred and eighty-four experimenters who have reported the results of their tests for 1896, only three speak of wishing to discontinue the co-operative experimental work, and much interest has been manifested throughout.

Varieties which have given good average results in the experiments at the college for a few years have also given good satisfaction throughout Ontario.

SEED FOR TESTING.

In the following table will be found three sets of winter wheat varieties which will be sent free, by mail, in half-pound lots of each variety, to farmers applying for them who will carefully test the three kinds in the set which they choose, and will report the results after harvest next year. The seed will be sent out in the order in which the applications are received as long as the supply lasts:—

Set No. 1.—Dawson's Golden Chaff, Early Genesee Giant, Early Red Clawson.

Set No. 2.—Dawson's Golden Chaff, Pride of Genesee, Poole.

Set No. 3.—Dawson's Golden Chaff, Stewart's Champion, Siberian.

Each person wishing one of these sets should write to the Experimentalist, Agricultural College, Guelph, mentioning which set he requires, and the grain, with instructions for testing, and blank form on which to report, will be furnished, free of cost, to his address, until the supply of grain for distributing becomes exhausted.

POULTRY & BEES.

HOW HENS VARY AS LAYERS.

The Law of Averages Applied by a Scientific Poultry Raiser.

In regard to the number and size of eggs, I remember two pullets that laid much larger eggs than others of the same age and breeding, and more than the average number. One of the pullets was somewhat undersized. There were also two other pullets laying very small eggs and much more than the average in number, blank days occurring at long intervals. These observations extended only during the few months of hatching, not for the entire season. So far as breeds go, it has been my experience to get the fewest eggs from hens laying larger ones. From Houdans, laying very large eggs, very satisfactory numbers were obtained.

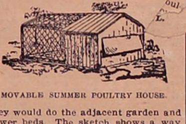
Leghorns gave more of considerably smaller size, and Hamburgs produced a much greater number of very small eggs. The Houdans, however, were confined much of the time, the Leghorns some of the time, while the Hamburgs had almost unlimited run most of the year. This was fifteen or twenty years ago, and I cannot now give more specific records, for I did not then appreciate the importance of collecting them. Later experience with Minorcas, which laid very large eggs, was to the effect that they were less prolific than the Leghorns.

Eggs from nine Leghorn hens, laying on the average for year 143 eggs, averaged 1.80 ounces each, while eggs from nine other hens, fed the same and whose average egg production was a fraction over 93 eggs, averaged 1.91 ounces each. Two hens, averaging 114 eggs each during their second year produced eggs that averaged 1.98 ounces in weight and two other similar hens, whose egg production was 75 eggs each laid eggs averaging exactly the same in weight. A Cochin hen, whose eggs averaged 2.22 ounces in weight, laid 123 during the year.

Another (same breed and food) laid 130 eggs, averaging 1.90 ounces. Of two Leghorns whose eggs averaged the same in weight—viz., 2.01 ounces—one laid 132 eggs and the other 62 eggs during the year. Individual instances show such variations as to indicate no general relation between number and size of eggs, and enough data are not available to justify conclusions from the averages. I have always thought, however, that the hen laying very large eggs, as a rule, laid fewer than the average.—William P. Wheeler, in Rural New Yorker.

Hens in the Orchard.

Many farmers and orchardists would like to have hens in the orchard for the good their presence would do the trees, were it not that the fowls must be kept confined because of the damage they would do the adjacent garden and flower beds. The sketch shows a way to keep one or more flocks of hens in an orchard. A light, low house, made of half-inch matched stuff, has a wire run attached to the end, as shown in the illustration. The house has no floor. The eggs are gathered by opening the hinged board in the end. Low trucks are attached to the corners so that the whole can be moved occasionally to a new location. It can thus be moved up and down beside the rows of trees, stopping for a day or two under each tree, scratching, fertilizing the ground and destroying insects. The fowls all do well under such conditions and their presence will be of great value to the orchard. The lower sill of the sides of the house should continue out and form the base of the sides of the run.—American Agriculturist.



MOVABLE SUMMER POULTRY HOUSE.

Rouen and Pekin Ducks

Rouen and Pekin ducks are the two most popular breeds. The former are very handsome, much resembling the wild Mallard duck in plumage. They are very easily raised, the young being hardy and thrifty and grow rapidly. They are awkward in gait, and dull and heavy in appearance, but they are hearty feeders and lay on fat rapidly and attain very large size. Pekin ducks are natives of China and are very popular as their desirable qualities have become fully known. They are often mistaken for geese because of their loose, fluffy feathers and broad, square bodies. They have yellow bills, orange colored legs and their plumage is creamy white and of considerable value. A full grown pair weigh from 12 to 18 pounds. They are very prolific, beginning to lay early in the season and continuing until late in summer. They are hardy, easily raised, and bring good prices. There is a widespread notion that ducks will not flourish unless they have a pond or stream of water in which to bathe and swim, but this is not necessary. The most extensive duck growers provide only sufficient water for drinking purposes. Ducks find most of their living themselves and can be raised very cheaply.—Farm and Home.

AN UNHEEDED MOTTO.

How Mr. Jawney Proved the Silliness of His Neighbor's Wife.

"It's queer how some people will argue and argue and put all their domestic peace to flight disputing about the merest trifle," said Mr. Jawney to his wife one evening. "I was over to Tom Dawson's the other day and he and his wife got into a regular quarrel over whether some little trifling event Tom had been talking about occurred on Tuesday or Wednesday. It wasn't of the slightest consequence which day it occurred."

"Well, I suppose that Mrs. Dawson felt that she was right about the day it occurred," said Mrs. Jawner.

"Well, what if she was?" said Jawner a trifle sharply. "It didn't make a straw's difference whether it occurred on Tuesday or Saturday."

"Why did Dawson argue about the matter then?"

"Well, why did his silly wife make herself ridiculous disputing about it?"

"She wasn't any sillier than he was."

"She was, too."

"I'd like to know how you make that out?"

"Because she began the argument."

"That was no reason why Dawson should keep it up. If he'd been a gentleman he——"

"He was as much of a gentleman as she was a lady. It was very bad manners for her to break into his conversation as she did."

"It was worse manners for him to quarrel with her before a third party. Why didn't he pass it over by saying lightly, 'Very well, my dear, perhaps it was Tuesday?'"

"Because he felt sure that it happened on Wednesday."

"What if it did? You've said over and over that it was of no consequence when it happened."

"Yes, and that's what made Mrs. Dawson's interference so perfectly idiotic."

"Yes, and it's what made Dawson's performance so unutterably absurd. I don't blame her a bit."

"I don't blame Dawson. If the thing happened on Wednesday I'd hold out for Wednesday, by George!"

"Yes, you're just that pig-headed, John Jawney!"

"Pig-headed! I'd say pig-headed if I were you, Maud Jawney! People who live in glass houses would do well not to throw stones."

"That's gentlemanly now, isn't it? You and Tom Dawson would make a good match for each other."

"Yes, and you and Dawson's wife would make a perfect team; hanged if I wouldn't!"

"Go on insulting me!"

"You begun it!"

"I never!"

"You did!"

"I say I didn't!"

"I say you did."

And the dispute in which Dawson and his wife had engaged was tame compared to that which now began in the Jawney family, regardless of the fact that there was a cardboard and crewel motto on the wall urging them "Be Not Disputatious."

Honor Was Left Unsatisfied.

Some years ago Dr. Virchow, the eminent man of science, had been sharply criticising Prince Bismarck, who was then chancellor. At the end of a particularly bitter attack Bismarck felt himself personally affronted and sent seconds to Virchow with a challenge to fight a duel. The man of science was found in his laboratory, hard at work with experiments which had for their object the discovery of a means of destroying trichinae, which were making great ravages in Germany.

"Ah," said the doctor, "a challenge from Prince Bismarck, eh? Well, well, as I am the challenged party, I suppose I have the choice of weapons. Here they are!"

He held up two large sausages which seemed to be exactly alike.

"One of the sausages," he said, "is filled with trichinae—it is deadly. The other is perfectly wholesome. Let his excellency do me the honor to choose whichever of these he wishes and eat it, and I will eat the other."

Though the proposition was as reasonable as any duelling proposition could be, Prince Bismarck's representatives refused it. No duel was fought, and one accused Virchow of cowardice.—San Francisco Examiner.

Two Wise Geese and the Pigs.

A gentleman living in eastern Georgia owned a pair of geese and some halfgrown pigs, both of which resorted to a small plum thicket on the hillside to pick up the fallen fruit.

A small branch of one of the trees was broken and bent down to the ground, and the geese had somehow discovered that by catching the end of the branch in their bills and shaking the tree by means of it they could bring down the plums.

The pigs, seeing what was going on, soon found it to their interest to follow the geese to the plum thicket.

The geese would shake the tree, and the sound of a grateful shower of fruit would be heard, and before they could eat the plums the pigs would have greedily gathered up most of them. Greatly exasperated, and with good reason, one of the geese would seize a pig by the ear, while the other marched on the other side of him, screaming and scolding. In this way, beating poor piggy with their wings at every step, they would escort him to the top of the hill and there let him go.

Then they would return and shake the tree again, with a similar result.

Absent-Mindedness.

Judge Hawley of the United States Circuit Court related recently from the bench a good story of the expense of a distinguished lawyer and United States senator whose name was not mentioned. This prominent member of the bar was very absent-minded at times. One morning he was on his way to court in a great hurry and happening to overtake a friend, remarked: "I dressed in such haste this morning that I forgot my watch." A little further on he said: "I wonder if I have time to go back and get it?" and, as he spoke, he pulled out his watch from his pocket. "No, I have not time," he concluded, after consulting the dial, and he walked on. Nearing the court house, he hired a messenger to go for the watch, paying him $1 for the service. The messenger returned with the information that the timepiece could not be found, whereupon the lawyer exclaimed: "That is very strange!" Then he took a swift glance at his watch, and said, "It makes no difference, anyhow. I can do without it. The judge is late, and there is plenty of time." And he paid the messenger another dollar.—San Francisco News.

BELLEVILLE MARKETS.

INTELLIGENCER OFFICE,
August 19, 1896.

Grain—Receipts have been very light, as prices are down out of sight and farmers have been busy with their harvest work. A week or two hence there will no doubt be some trading. Meantime prices are lower declining.

Butter—In consequence of dry weather and poor pasturage, prices have advanced and now range from 18c. to 25c., with very little choice to be had. Creamery of excellent quality is being largely used to supply the demand for home consumption. It is bought at from 22c. to 25c.

Hogs—There is virtually no market for live hogs, which are selling at from $2.50 to $3.25 per 100 lbs. Of dressed hogs there are very few offering. Dealers offer $4 to $4.50 per 100 lbs.

Eggs are lower, at 9c. to 10c., with small demand for exportation.

Hay is dull and a trifle lower at $8 to $10.

Pork is lower, as per quotations.

MAYNOOTH.

AUG. 17.—Farmers in this vicinity are now busy harvesting. Crops are not as good as were expected on account of the dry weather. We had a very refreshing rain Saturday night, which no doubt will help the green crop greatly.—Our cheese factory is not making as many cheese now as it did some time ago, on account of poor pasture.—We are glad to welcome again in our midst our teachers, who arrived Saturday. The schools all re-opened to-day.—Mr. Puffer, our Methodist minister, preached last night from Hebrews, his text being "How shall we be saved if we neglect so great salvation?" the truth of which he brought out very clearly. Mr. Puffer is an able speaker and is liked very much in this community.—No doubt every one around here is looking forward with anxious eyes to the big day expected at our fair which will be held early in October. We hope to have a better fair than Coe Hill.—Many of our hunters are waiting anxiously until the deer season opens. Game is scarcely as plentiful around this year as last.—A very pleasant evening was spent by a considerable number of our young people at Mr. Roddy's, near Maynooth. The evening sped very quickly and it was not until morning that some laid their sleepy heads and tired feet to sleep.

Failure and Success.

It is often all the little things that constitute the wide difference between success and failure. Some men, earnest in purpose, capable in many ways, seem unable to discern the import of minor, nevertheless important elements, and neglect in consequence to grasp the opportunities that if accepted would carry them on to victory. In the same way people are imposed upon by mercenary druggists, who, to gain an additional profit, practice the dishonest method of substitution. Calling for Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, they accept some worthless flesh-eating substitute, only to be disappointed or suffer injury. Putnam's Corn Cure is the only reliable one.

ODDFELLOWS' DECORATION.

Belleville and Mizpah Lodges Pay Tokens of Respect to Their Dead Brethren.

Yesterday was the day fixed for the annual decoration day of the local lodges of the I.O.O.F., and the weather conditions were of the most favorable character. Despite this fact the gathering at the cemetery in the afternoon was not nearly so large as upon former occasions, nor was the turnout of the order as large. The str. Nellie Cuthbert carried quite a number of people from the city, but by far the greater number either drove or walked.

The cemetery looked well, considering the terrible heat that has prevailed for the past two weeks. Many plots, other than those of Oddfellows, were handsomely decorated with flowers and foliage, many persons both from the city and surrounding country taking their floral tributes to place upon the graves of their departed friends.

The brethren of Belleville and Mizpah lodges, to the number of nearly one hundred, headed by the I. O. O. F. band, marched to the boat and reached the cemetery at 3:30. They formed in procession at the cemetery wharf and marched to the chapel plot, the band playing a dead march. Upon arriving there the brethren formed a circle and the Rev. A. L. Geen, P.G., invoked the divine blessing upon their proceedings.

Rev. W. J. Saunders, Past Grand Chaplain, delivered a short address, in which he admonished the brethren to live blameless lives that they might partake of the joys everlasting. He called upon them to emulate the virtues of their deceased brethren and so show to the world at large that they were not Oddfellows in name alone, but were willing to extend a helping hand to the needy and distressed when called upon to do so.

The brethren then proceeded with the ceremony of decorating the graves of their deceased brethren to the number of 37.

Three graves have been added since last decoration day, namely Lyman Moore, Alexander McCoy and Richard Ham. On each grave was placed three links of beautiful flowers and a bouquet. While the ceremony was in progress the band rendered a number of sacred selections. The last of those who went to the cemetery reached the city about six o'clock. Those who walked found it very dusty.

"HO FOR ROCHESTER."

The str. Columbian will leave Rathbun's wharf on Saturday night (Aug. 22nd) at 11.45 p.m., returning in time for business on Monday morning, giving 15 hours in Rochester. Fare for round trip, only $1.50.

Best time, 2.11¼.

YACHTING.

Canada a Wonder.

A self-sufficient yachting critic sent the following to the Montreal Star: "At the centennial regatta in Cleveland the Canada sailed away from her American competitors, and her running, especially to windward, has been pronounced something remarkable." Unless this critic should have got mixed in his terms, Canada must indeed be a wonder. No other yacht has ever been observed "running" to windward, and Canada will surely defeat the Yankee representative, provided that she does so in the race. Seriously, however, it is disgusting to see such demonstrated ignorance published in a newspaper, which presumably has a competent sporting editor.

The Baron's Death.

London, Aug. 19.—A coroner's inquest was held at Ryde to-day on the body of Baron Von Zedtwitz, the owner of the yacht 'Isolde,' who was killed by the collision of the 'Meteor' with the 'Isolde' yesterday. The captains of the yachts 'Isolde,' 'Britannia' and 'Meteor' were examined, and the jury returned a verdict that the Baron's death was due to the purely accidental collision of the boats.

QUOITING.

The Heather Quoiting Club of Toronto have decided to hold their annual tournament and championship games on their grounds on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd of September, when about $150 in cash prizes and the Dominion championship gold medal, valued at $150, will be played for. Particulars and programmes can be had from J. J. Coulter, Secretary Treasurer, Armory Hotel, Toronto.

THE OAR.

A special cable to the Evening Telegram says:—Oarsman Gaudaur was out for a spin twice to-day. He is settling down to a conscientious course of training, is becoming rapidly acclimatized, and will give a good report of himself.

Bubear and Gibson, of the English four-oared crew, have left for home, but Haines and Barry are still in Toronto.

ANGLING.

The Forest and Stream Club will have their final bass fishing competition for the season to-morrow afternoon.

A 17 lb. maskinonge and some smaller ones were caught this week near Long Point. Two large ones were hooked but escaped.

CRICKET.

At Napanee on Tuesday, Picton defeated the home club by 25 runs.

What you want when you are ailing is a medicine that will cure you. Try Hood's Sarsaparilla and be convinced of its merit.

DESERONTO.

AUG. 19.—A sad drowning affair occurred here last night. Two French boys, named Dubois and Cerrier, aged about 15 years, employed in the match factory, were drowned in the bay in front of Deseronto while bathing. They left their homes about 7 p.m., saying they were going to see a game of ball played, and not returning their parents became alarmed and a search was instituted. About ten o'clock their clothes were found on the shore and near the same spot their bodies were recovered about midnight. No one knows how the fatality occurred, as there were no eye-witnesses. Their parents and relatives are distracted with grief.

—Forty employes of the Grand Trunk car works at Brantford have been discharged.

"My baby had croup and was saved by Shiloh's Cure," writes Mrs. J. B. Martin, of Huntsville, Ala. Sold by Alex. Ray.

—Another shipment of gold from New York to Canada, amounting to $100,000, was made yesterday.

For depression of spirits, nervousness and general weakness, Miller's Compound Iron Pills are a sure cure. 50 doses, 25 cents. Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

THAT DEADLY CROSSING.

AGED CLERGYMAN STRUCK BY A TRAIN NEAR KINGSTON.

Rev. J. H. Stewart, a Methodist Pastor at Cataraqui, Driving Home When the Engine Crashed Into His Buggy.

KINGSTON, Aug. 19.—Rev. J. H. Stewart, of Cataraqui, driving from this city about 11 o'clock last night, was struck by a Grand Trunk engine at the Cataraqui crossing which has long been known as a death trap, and instantly killed. He was thrown about 160 feet, and every bone in his body was crushed. He was 60 years of age, and a Methodist.

Mr. Stewart had been in the city consulting with city clergymen. Soon after the accident, the horse, not hurt, wandered home, a half mile away, and an alarm was raised, and the painful discovery made.

The engineer had remained at the crossing until the body was secured.

The deceased was born at Newburgh, and entered the ministry in 1864. His ministrations were confined to charges in Montreal Conference, and included Elgin, Manotic, Billings' Bridge, Vankleek Hill, Pakenham, and he was in his second year at Cataraqui. A wife and four sons survive. One son is a book-keeper in the Royal Paper Mills, East Angers, Que.

Double-Breasted Suits.

The Oak Hall are just starting to receive new fall clothing. We placed in stock this week a large case of double-breasted tweed suits at $6, $7, $8 and $10, all made up in the very latest style out of good wearing materials. This is a good opportunity for early buyers. Our $7 and $8 lines are particularly good value.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

George Badgeley, Formerly of Belleville, Remanded at Toronto.

At the Police Court in Toronto yesterday morning Geo. Badgeley was charged with the murder of Charles Murray. He was not asked to elect or plead, but was given a formal remand for a week. Badgeley, who is quite a young man, looked very pale and distressed as he stood in the dock, and his mother, a respectable looking woman, who was present, cried bitterly all the time. The case against him will not be proceeded with till after the Coroner's jury bring in their verdict. It is expected that other arrests will be made in the meantime. The police are looking at present for Harry Badgeley, brother of the prisoner, and Bert Lyons, a friend of theirs who was present at the time of the affray.

Postponed.

The Str. Hero's popular Friday trip to Kingston has been postponed until August 28th. Keep date open.

Stole a Steam Yacht.

On Monday afternoon two men were on Mill Island in the vicinity of where Mr. Anson Cartwright usually moors his steam yacht, Curlew, and they asked him if he would loan the boat to go to Ottawa. He refused and they went away. The boat was missed yesterday and the two men are suspected of taking her. She was seen at Massassaga Park on Tuesday by Capt. Hart, of the Annie Lake, and went east. One of the parties under suspicion is a college student from Ottawa, who has been out with Mr. Cartwright on several occasions. Mr. Cartwright is in Peterborough. The police are looking up the case.

A Vicious Animal.

Mr. T. Good, Murney st., is the owner of a vicious dog, which has been complained of before in these columns. It was afterwards claimed that the dog was "peaceful and inoffensive." How peaceful and inoffensive he is was proven this afternoon, when he attacked and mangled Robbie Ford, son of Mr. J. D. Ford, Murney st. The youngster was severely bitten in the neck and throat, and probably will never have a closer call for his life. Dr. Youker attended him.

There is Gold in Madoc.

The Madoc Review says: The late gold find on Mr. Thos. Cross' property in this village may develop into a big mine in the near future. Mr Cross, a few weeks ago, sent samples of the ore for assay to J. T. Donald, M. A., of Montreal, Analyst Chemist and Assayer, who has just made his report, which is as follows:—

Gold 1 oz., 0 dwts, 10 grs., per ton $20.
Arsenic (element) 7.08%
Gold value, $21.10 per ton.
Equivalent arsenical oxide, 9.08.

The percentage of arsenic indicates that the ore contains about 24% mispickel.

He Got the Horse.

C. A. Wells, liveryman, of Kingston, came to the city and took away his horse, which was left on Monday evening at the Dominion House. He told the hostler that he did not know the man who hired the rig and would say nothing about him.

The Weather.

The temperature during last night fell quite close to the frost line, the minimum being 42; at 8 a.m. it was 62; and at noon 76.

PROBABILITIES.

Fine and a little warmer.

The hair, when not properly cared for, loses its lustre, becomes crisp, harsh, and dry, and falls out freely with every combing. To prevent this, the best dressing in the market is Ayer's Hair Vigor. It imparts that silky gloss so essential to perfect beauty.

THE SALUTE WAS DEATH.

Harry Dine of Picton Lost His Life Giving a Bridal Couple a Send-Off—The Cannon Exploded.

Picton, Aug. 19.—A sad accident occurred here at 2.30 this afternoon, by which a young lad named Harry Dine lost his life. A wedding party had just embarked on the steamer Deseronto, and while the steamer was passing the Seed Company's dock, young Dine, who had previously procured a small cannon and placed it on the dock for the purpose of firing a salute, fired it, resulting in the bursting of the cannon, a piece of which struck him on the head, tearing away the right eye and part of the skull making a frightful wound, through which the brains oozed. He was in an unconscious state for about an hour, when death terminated his sufferings.

Just Too Late.

"We are now coming to the tunnel," said the cautious lover, "and according to the foolish tradition of others in love we must kiss each other. I mention it because I did not wish to surprise you."

"Nothing that you could do would surprise me," she said.

"D-o-do you see any one we know?"

"Not a soul."

"Nor any one that knows us?"

"No, no."

"I suppose there isn't any sticking plaster on your face?"

"No. Why?"

"It might betray us. I read of a young man like me, who kissed a girl like you when they were going through a tunnel."

"Well, what of it? How slow you are."

"The sticking plaster was on her face when they went in; when they came out it was on his."

"How lovely. We are nearly through the tunnel."

"Then it must be now or never," said the cautious lover, and the passengers smiled audibly for the train emerged into the broad daylight just as he saluted his girl with the long-deferred kiss.—Detroit Free Press.

Some Beresford Stories.

A laborer once wrote to Lord Charles Beresford saying that his wife had just had twins—a boy and a girl—and he wanted to call one "Lord Charles Beresford Brown" and the other "Princess of Wales Brown." Lord Charles gave his permission, and obtained that of the Princess. Four months later the man wrote again: "I am happy to inform you that 'Lord Charles Beresford Brown' is well and strong, but that 'Princess of Wales Brown' died this morning."

Lord Charles is a man of few words and those very much to the point. Speaking in the House of Commons one day, in reference to the Arab slave dealers, he said with great emphasis: "Mr. Speaker, we ought to catch these men, give 'em a fair trial, and then hang 'em."

Unconventional Lord Charles has always been. Receiving an invitation to dinner at Marlborough House one evening, he replied by wire:

"Sorry can't come. Lie follows by post."—Strand Magazine.

Vinegar and Goose.

Dr. Lenigar, a titular archbishop, a man of great wit, happened in a mixed company to be introduced to a Mr. Swan, a gentleman of a cynical turn of mind, whose practice it was to attempt to raise a laugh at the expense of some of the company. They sat near each other at table, where the doctor engaged general attention by his sprightly manner.

Mr. Swan, to silence him, said:

"Doctor, I forget your name."

"Lenigar, sir," returned the archbishop.

"Is ask your pardon," replied Swan; "I have the misfortune scarcely ever to recollect names. You'll not be offended, therefore, if in the course of conversation, I call you Dr. Vinegar?"

"Oh, not at all, sir," returned the doctor. "I have the very same defect; and it is probable, though I now name you Swan, I may by and by call you Goose."—London Answers.

Miss Chilledame—Don't you know that nature rebels against laziness? A man can get nothing in this world without labor.

Wresting Offen—Humph! Can't he? He can git hungry, I guess.—Harper's Bazar.

An Absent-Minded Man.

I will tell you while I can
Of an absent-minded man,
And an absent-minded man was he,
Who forgot an unkind word
Just as soon as it was heard,
Such an absent-minded man was he.
In political debate
Now, I can truly state,
Such an absent-minded man was he,
His opponent on the street
With a hand-shake he would greet,
Such an absent-minded man was he.
Once he left a goodly store
At a poor, old widow's door,
Such an absent-minded man was he,
And, although 'twas all the same,
Quite forgot to leave his name,
Such an absent-minded man was he—
You see—
Such an absent-minded man was he.

A Surprise.

Some time ago I had occasion to be abroad of one of our large liners, when I observed an old lady looking over the ship.

After walking around for some considerable time she came across a sailor pumping fresh water from below, when she suddenly exclaimed:

"Lor', sir, I did not know you had a well aboard here."—Answers.

An Interrupted Explanation.

The scientific magnate had been lecturing the dinner party, and they were feeling a little overwhelmed.

"It is a curious thing," he said, "that if I stand on my head the blood rushes to it. If I stand on my feet it doesn't rush to my feet."

"Perhaps," said the host, nervously anxious to break the silence, "your head is emptier than—" The explanation stopped short.—Paris Messenger.

No New Symptoms.

"Well, Mr. Badger, how are you breathing now?"

"Just one breath at a time, doctor—same as I always do."

Sour

Stomach, sometimes called waterbrash, and burning pain, distress, nausea, dyspepsia, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This it accomplishes because with its wonderful power as a blood purifier, Hood's Sarsaparilla gently tones and strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, invigorates the liver, creates an appetite, gives refreshing sleep, and raises the health tone. In cases of dyspepsia and indigestion it seems to have "a magic touch."

"For over 12 years I suffered from sour

with severe pains across my shoulders, and great distress. I had violent nausea which would leave me very weak and faint, difficult to get my breath. These spells came oftener and more severe. I did not receive any lasting benefit from physicians, but found such happy effects from a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I took several bottles and mean to always keep it in the house. I am now able to do all my own work, which for six years I have been unable to do. My husband and son have also been greatly benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla—for pains in the back, and after the grip. I gladly recommend this grand blood medicine." MRS. THE CATTLE STEALING CASE.

More Corroborative Evidence Presented by the Crown To-day.

The hearing of evidence in the cattle stealing case was not resumed till 11 o'clock this morning, although it should have begun at 10 o'clock. The Judge was engaged in another matter and the large number of witnesses had to wait.

Mr. Anderson read the evidence of Frank Bowen. Said he started for Belleville on Friday morning, July 17th, and four or five miles this side of Napanee he met a drove of cattle. He was in a spring waggon. It was quite dark. There was a buggy accompanying the cattle. He called out "Hello, Wess!" but received no answer. He thought it was Wesley Reid; as he had heard he was going to ship cattle.

Mr. Anderson also read the evidence of Edward Westmoreland, who shipped cattle at Napanee with Reid on July 17th. Some of the cattle Reid shipped were small. Some of them were dehorned. Reid sold his cattle at Montreal to a man named Dow. Reid got $17 per head for his cattle. Both of these witnesses were examined at the preliminary hearing.

The first witness called this morning was James Brant. He was on the Mud Creek Marsh about six o'clock in the evening of July 17th in company with Herbert Brant, looking for a cow. They saw Wesley Reid, who said he was looking for cattle which he had bought from Wm. Driver. Reid was on Mr. Maracle's part of the marsh. Reid asked witness the way out of the marsh. Did not know McDavid's cattle.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter witness said he did not watch Reid after he met him. Reid appeared lost when he met him. As soon as he told Reid the way out he (Reid) started in that direction. Mr. Driver had cattle on the marsh.

Herbert Brant was next called. His evidence agreed with that of the former witness in every particular.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter witness said Reid did not attempt to conceal himself.

Thomas Blanchard was the next witness. He lived on the Reserve, near the marsh. He remembered the night of July 17th. After he had gone to bed about ten o'clock he was awakened by a dog barking and he got up. He saw a herd of cattle pass the house and with them was a rig. Two men were driving the cattle. It was too dark to distinguish who drove the cattle. Heard some one say "Get out," to the dog. The cattle were going towards Shannonville. Next day he found some of the fence at the marsh laid up where it had been down previously. He saw George Young at Isaac Smart's on Friday afternoon. He saw George and William Young on his way home. They overtook him on the road.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter witness said his family turned the cattle back into the marsh when they strayed out. He was not suspicious when he saw the cattle.

The Paragon of Exhibitions.

The major part of the entries having now been made for Toronto's big exhibition, which is to be held from August 31st to September 12th, it is possible to state definitely that the scale of the exhibition will really be grater than ever. Never before did the exhibits cover such a wide range as they will this year. The governments of Ontario, the Dominion, and British Columbia will make special exhibits of the wealth of the earth, while the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. will supplement these displays by showing cereals, vegetables and minerals from many points on their lines, to the extent of double what the Company has shown in other years. There will be Edison's wonderful Eidoloscope, an electric theatre; Ontario Trotting Horse Breeders' stake races; Lockhart's performing elephants; the magnificent historic spectacle, entitled the "Feast of Nations" and commemorating the 'Taking of the Bastile," and a thousand and one other things; while in consideration of the cattle being on show the first week the railways have agreed to grant one fare for the round trip for the entire exhibition from all points in Canada, and to run a special cheap excursion the first week, on Sept. 3rd, and two the second week.

Mr. G. R. Blount, Methodist minister, Dresden, Ont., says: "After a prolonged attack of La Grippe, I was very nervous and weak, and troubled with severe pains. I took one box of Miller's Compound Iron Pill and am perfectly well now." Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

WHY IS IT?

Why is it, when there are any special doings in Belleville, our store is soon recognized by strangers as THE resort of the city?

Where can I get a good lunch?
Who has the best Ice Cream?
Where can I get a cool, refreshing drink?
Who keeps the best Confectionery in Belleville?

These are only some of the questions strangers are sure to ask, and the answer is almost invariably "DICKENS."

KING OR KNAVE?

Oufa, on behalf of the Khan. Now, I know, of my own knowledge, that Moshel Oufa is under obligations to an English financier never mind names—who has the strongest possible reasons for serving me. Wheels within wheels, you know; and I haven't laid my plan without putting a magnifying glass to every cog and every screw, like Cynthia there to the point of a needle. Very well. I go to my English friend—a most respectable man, by the way—and I say, 'Lend me a clerk to do me a little confidential business at——'"

"But will he this vriend?"

"He will. And what's more, Moshel will be instructed to employ this particular clerk in this very affair. You may leave all that to me. And the clerk will carry out our specie, in sealed packets, for delivery to the Khan, and have clear instructions to bring us home what he receives from the Czar. We have only to make the best exchange we can of the good roubles into English gold—and there you are."

"Ah. It is a beaudiful idea. A beaudiful idea. All but when the Khan finds himself zold."

"Let him. A Tartar Khan isn't an expert; and ten to one our roubles will be scattered about all over Tartary before some Jew or other gets hold of a sample. But even if he does find out the trick, what then? Either he'll try to sell somebody else with them, or he'll complain to the Russian Government. The Russian Government won't dare to make a fuss—they'll come down secretly on Moshel. Moshel will either pay up, with interest, or pass on inquiries to my English friend. My English friend will at once pass them on to the British Foreign Office. And then Russia will bow politely, and say, 'Never mind. All right. We made a little mistake, thank you—that's all.'"

"Ah! So! I gomprehend."

"And the difference between the cost of making our roubles and the value of the real ones, allowing for incidental expenses and probable loss on exchange, will be, at the very least, seventy thousand sterling. Only we must get an extra good die. Let me see—we'll put on the Knacker. I don't think he's ever yet tried his hand at a rouble; but he must make a trial piece or two. And we must look sharp—a million coins aren't to be turned out in a day."

Cynthia swung herself round, stool and all.

"Then that you shan't!" she cried. "The Knacker! Why he's not to be trusted with a teetotal medal. Stephen—don't sit there, messing the clean bench like a baby. You're the only man—man I deed!—that can do it; and do it you shall."

"No," said Adam Furness, sharply and shortly. "This isn't a game at play."

"Oh, I wish I were a man! Stephen—don't you hear? They think the Knacker a better artist than you."

"Than me?" cried Stephen, blazing around. "Give me your sharpest pencil, Cynthia, and a scrap of tracing paper. . . There! Let the master of the Russian mint beat that for a rouble if he can."

Adam Furness took the delicately pencilled design, and handed it to Red Beard, who nodded silently.

"It's a pity a great pity," said Adam. "I shall keep this, of course, though the Knacker won't like to work from another man's design."

"Cynthia!" said Stephen feebly, almost with a moan.

"Well? What is it now?"

"I must do just this one die more."

Then it was Cynthia who almost sighed. She had conquered—but it was the artist, not the man.

At last, after what seemed like a snail's crawl, the express reached Marchgrave. Guy, late as it was, let himself into his office with his latchkey; and there, sure enough, was a letter from London. It was in a strange hand—no doubt from Marion. He tore it open, his heart beating. And he read:

"Sir,

"If you want to see Miss M. F., come to Euphrosyne Terrace, Belvedere Road, Piggot's Town, London, N. Dr. Wyndham Snell on the door.

"Your obedient servant,

"SOMEBODY YOU DON'T KNOW."

CHAPTER VIII.

CATCHING A TARTAR.

Marion had learned, all in a moment, what it means to be in a passion. She darted upstairs, threw herself into her own bedroom, locked the door behind her, and then paced up and down like an imprisoned storm.

Mrs. Snell's accusations had been less insulting than the Doctor's defence. The wife had the excuse of jealousy, which is as unanswerable as that of any less extreme form of madness. But there was something about Wyndham Snell's style of chivalry which showed that the jealousy was not entirely smoke without fire. She had never dreamed that there were such people in the world; she knew there were none on that other and rougher side whence she had come.

The idea of its entering any human brain to conceive so monstrous an imagination as that she, Marion Furness, could seem, even by accident, to flirt with Wyndham Snell! It was too outrageous for comedy—it made her cheeks burn and her ears tingle even now that she was alone. And for the Doctor himself to have heard the charge, and yet to have interfered in that odious way! What could her father have meant by bringing her and leaving her here? Her father! The burning and the tingling ceased, and left her cold.

Of the story of his crimes and his punishment, and of the evil influences he appeared to exhale, she could make nothing. But she could not avoid a full measure of fear. She had felt bound to be his champion in the presence of Mrs. Snell; but she had no right to suppose that the abominable woman had been lying. And what had become of him? Since the day of her mother's death he had never sent her so much as a message. Except that she knew him by sight, he was as much a stranger to her—indeed, more a stranger than before the day of her mother's flight from him in terror. If she had not already sent that letter of dismissal to Guy, she could never have had the heart or the strength to send it now. Had she really, in her deepest heart, even when she forbade him to seek her out, meant that he should take her at her word? Well—he had done so; it was true that she was hidden away past finding out; but still she had a sort of instinct that a true knight and lover is not to be baffled as if he were a police-constable. She would never marry him, of course—but if he had only found her out, despite all her precautions, and come to her against her will!

Surely there was no girl in the whole wide world so utterly defenceless and alone. Her mother dead; her lover bidden to forget her; her father a man to be feared, and as likely to be her foe as her friend; no creature to speak to except a woman who had insulted her, and—Dr. Snell. And what sort of thing was her life to be? There was but one certainty about it that it could not go on like this for another day. How could she endure to sit again at the same table with her host and hostess, after the scene she had just left behind?

BICYCLE CRACKS AT SARNIA.

McLeod Beat McCarthy in the Half Mile Open—McCarthy Downed Davidson in the Mile Final.

Sarnia, Aug. 19.—The sixth annual race meet of the Sarnia Bicycle Club was held to-day, Civic Holiday, on the club's grounds and track, Bay View Park. About 3000 people were present. The weather, though quite cool and a fresh wind blowing from the north, was altogether very pleasant.

A great disappointment was experienced on the failure of the matched race between the two local riders, McLeod and Loughead, Loughead telegraphing in the forenoon from Indianapolis that he had missed the train and could not be present. However, the day's program furnished excellent sport, and with the exception mentioned was first-class in every respect. Results:

Novice, 1 mile, amateur—First heat—C. M. Peck, St. Clair, Mich., 1; Leroy MacKenzie, Leamington, 2; J. W. Hutchins, Toronto, 3. Time 2.34¾. Also started: A. H. McAuley, Pt. Edward; Wm. Wadland, Sarnia; M. J. Rolly, Petrolea.

Second heat—Thompson, Toronto, 1; A. Y. Yearsley, Windsor, 2. Time 2.56½. Also started—James N. Stewart, Port Huron; Joseph Adcock, Birmingham, Mich.; John A. Bain, Port Huron; E. A. Laver, Toronto.

Final: C. M. Peck, St. Clair, Mich., 1; Thompson, Toronto, 2; Leroy Mackenzie, Leamington, 3. A. Y. Yearsley, Windsor, and J. W. Hutchins also started.

A time limit of 2.40 was placed on the final, which was not reached, and the race was declared off.

Half-mile, open, professional—First heat—A. McLeod, Sarnia, 1; A. E. Young, Toronto, 2; Greatrix, Toronto, 3; Harley, Petrolea, placed for pacing. Time 1.37 1-5. Also started: G. A. Grant, Detroit; Cecil Elliott, Toronto; McColl, Toronto; Gordon, Toronto; Cooper, Brantford.

Second heat—McCarthy, Toronto, 1; Wills, Toronto, 2; Davidson, Toronto, 3; Westbrook, Brantford, placed for pacing. Time 1.08. Also started: Gratz, Toronto; Van Tuyl, Petrolea.

Final: A. McLeod, Sarnia, 1; McCarthy, Toronto, 2; Westbrook, Brantford, 3 for pacing.

One mile, open, amateur—First heat—Blayney, Simcoe, 1; Thompson, Toronto, 2; John Davidson, Toronto, 3; Craize, Petrolea, placed for pacing. Time 2.35. Also started: Patton, Croswell, Mich.

Second heat—Axton, Brantford, 1; Moore, Toronto, 2; Graves, Toronto, placed for pacing. Time 2.32. Also started: Porter Detroit; Schafer, Detroit; Yearsley, Windsor.

Final heat—Moore, Toronto, 1; Axton, Brantford, 2; Graves, 3, for pacing. Time 2.33 1-5.

One mile, open, professional—First heat—Davidson, Toronto, 1; McColl, Toronto, 2; Harley, 3, for pacing. Time 2.36 3-5. Also started: Young, Toronto; Grant, Detroit; Elliott, Toronto; Wills, Toronto; Westbrook, Brantford.

Second heat—McCarthy, Toronto, 1; Greatrix, Toronto, 2; Cooper, Brantford, 3, for pacing. Also started: A. E. Young, Toronto; F. W. Young, Toronto; Gratz, Toronto; Van Tuyl, Petrolea. Time 2.35.

Final heat—McCarthy, Toronto, 1; Davidson, Toronto, 2; Greatrix, Toronto, 3. Time 2.25 2-5.

Two-mile handicap, amateur—Blayney (scratch), Simcoe, 1; Axton, Brantford (scratch), 2; Port, Detroit (75 yards), 3. Time 5.10. Also started Craize, Petrolea; Moore, Toronto; Patton, Croswell, Mich.; Peck, St. Clair, Mich.; Ashplant, London; McKenzie, Leamington; Thompson, Toronto; Graves, Toronto; Davidson, Toronto; Hutchins, Toronto.

Two-mile, tandem—Greatrix and Elliott, Toronto, 1; McColl and Gratz, Toronto, 2. Time 5.06. Only two started.

Angus McLeod rode an exhibition half-mile, paced by tandem, in 1.01 2-5, also an exhibition mile, paced by two tandems, in 2.11 2-5. McLeod established the half-mile record for the Sarnia track, but failed to make a mile record, the tandems not having on enough steam.

CANADA'S FINAL TRIAL.

The Canadian Defender Allowed the Zelma a Good Margin and Then Won.

Put-In-Bay, Aug. 19.—The Canada has finished her last race prior to the cup races and has demonstrated her superiority over any boat built by the Canadian designers in the past. Her speed has been tested in various races with the Zelma of late, and in to-day's races she showed up better than ever. The Czarina of Toledo was also entered in the race. By the corrected time, with the Canada allowing the Zelma 48 seconds, she defeated her by 1 minute and 38 seconds. The Czarina was beaten by 44 minutes.

The Canada left imediately after the race for Toledo, where she will go into the dry dock to prepare for the cup races.

In the 30-foot class the Hiawatha of Hamilton won out from the fast American boats, making the course of 10½ knots in 1.56.19. The Lucy of Detroit finished second in this class, but was disqualified for carrying too much live ballast, and the Nox of Rochester was given second place.

The Typhoon of Toledo won in the 25-foot class. Time 2.31.22. The Marie M. of Kelly's Island was second and the Brownie of Toledo third.

The special race for catboats went to the Katrina of Put-in-Bay in 2.33.41, while the Restless of Toledo won the race for Naphthas.

FORESTERS' HIGH COURT.

A Satisfactory Financial Report—Places Chosen For Next Year's Meeting—Officers Chosen.

Ottawa, Aug. 19.—(Special.)—The Independent Foresters' High Court concluded its work to-day. Bro. Cumberland read the report of the Finance Committee, which was very satisfactory to the High Court, and was unanimously adopted.

In reply to several members, the Supreme Chief Ranger explained that the special endowment feature of the order was dropped by the Supreme Court itself. In New York and other States they found that they would be barred out of almost every state of the Union. With regard to annuity endowment, he said the inspectors of insurance had decided that the annuity benefit brought them under the provisions of the Insurance Act.

Matters of interest to the order were dealt with in a business-like way, and officers were elected for the Eastern and Western courts.

Toronto, Foresters' Island Park and Brantford were chosen for the meetings of the three High Courts next year.

The officers chosen for the Western Court are:

William H. Wardrope, Hamilton, high chief ranger; Rev. Archdeacon Davis, London, past high chief ranger; A. T. Bacchus, Aylmer, high vice-chief ranger; F. E. McCormick, St. Thomas, high secretary (accl.); Frank Adams, London, high treasurer; J. A. Davidson, Stratford, high counsellor.

The Supreme Chief Ranger announced the following officers appointed to the two new High Courts: Central High Court of Ontario: H.C.R., L. I. Barclay, Cobourg; P.H.C.R., A. W. Milne, Toronto; H.V.C.R., W. B. Saunders, Stayner; H. Secretary, R. J. Middrie, Creemore; H. Treasurer, A. Fleming, Toronto; H. Physician, Dr. Rose, Toronto; H. Counsellor, D. W. Chapple, Uxbridge; H. Auditors, GeorgeE. Challes, W. T. R. Preston, Toronto; H. Chaplain, Rev. J. H. Shepherd, Coldwater; H. Journal Secretary, G. J. Hearn, Tottenham; H. S.W., A. W. Duncan, Sault Ste. Marie; H. J.W., H. M. Little, Kilsyth; H.G.B., J. W. Paynten, Owen Sound; H.J.B., A. Dobson, Cannington; H.M.A., H. Dickson, Eglington; H. Con., W. R. Key, Guelph; H. Mess., C. Kelly, Victoria Corners.

For the Eastern High Court: H.C.R., Rev. R. McNair, Carleton Place; P.H.C.R., R. Matheson, Belleville; H.V.C.R., George Spence, Cobourg; High Secretary, G. L. Dickinson, Manotick; H. Treasurer, M. B. Mallory, Campbellford; H. Physician, Dr. Clark, Tamworth; H. Com., A. W. Fraser, Ottawa; H. Auditors, J. G. R. McCann, Kingston, T. H. Meldrum, Peterboro; H. Chaplain, Rev. Canon Carey, Kingston; H. S.W., G. H. Groves, Carp; H. J. W., Dr. Bayne, Pembroke; H. S. B., S. Henry, Maxville; H.J.B., William Miller, Brockville; H. Marshal, J. H. Gobld, Smith's Falls; H. Conductor, Thomas Butler, Ottawa; H. Messenger, William McPherson, Williamstown.

Western High Court appointed officers: High Chap., Rev. J. H. Courtenay, Port Stanley; H.J.S., R. A. Harrington, Chatham; H.S.W., E. O. Zimmerman, Hamilton; H.J.W., J. T. McPherson, Bothwell; H.S.B., H. Pratt, London; H.J.B., R. Foster, Hamilton; H.M., J. M. Woodwiss, Kingsville; H. Con., G. W. Holman, Exeter; H. M., W. Swett, Sarnia; H.A.M., W. L. Wilson, Waterdown.

Dr. Thompson, Toronto, presented the report of the Finance Committee of the Central High Court. It recommended that the High Secretary receive $300; High Treasurer, $100; High Auditors, $15; Journal Secretary, $10. After a lively discussion the report was adopted.

A cordial vote of thanks was tendered to Dr. Oronhyatekha for his services.

Votes of thanks were tendered to returning officers and the press and the meeting adjourned sine die at 1.30 this morning.

A DAY WITH THE RACERS.

Corrigan's Captain Rees Beats the Canadian Jumpers at Detroit.

Detroit, Aug. 19.—Three favorites, a well-played 5-to-1 shot and a couple of outsiders captured the money to-day. The results were as follows:

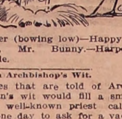
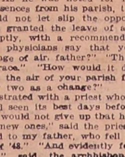
THE INTRODUCTION.



The carving fork—Mr. Pitcher, allow me to introduce you to my friend, Mr. Bunny.



The pitcher (bowing low)—Happy to meet you, Mr. Bunny.—Harper's Round Table.

An Archbishop's Wit.

The stories that are told of Archbishop Ryan's wit would fill a small volume. A well-known priest called upon him one day to ask for a vacation on the ground that his health required it. As he was noted for his frequent absences from his parish, the prelate could not let slip the opportunity. He granted the leave of absence promptly, with a recommendation. "The physicians say that you need a change of air, father?" "They do, your grace." "How would it do, then, to try the air of your parish for a month or two as a change?"

He remonstrated with a priest whose silk hat had seen its best days before the war. "I would not give up that hat for twenty new ones," said the priest. "It belonged to my father, who fell in the rising of '48." "And evidently fell on the hat," said the archbishop.

A SERIOUS CASE.

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & Co.

I Used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for my little boy for summer complaint and it cured him. He was so bad that he had convulsions and would strain so that he ruptured himself, but as soon as I got the extract for him he got well.

MRS. ELIZA M. OVERHOLT,
Fonthill, Ont.

Mrs. Sequel—I understand your husband can't meet his creditors. Mrs. Equal—I don't believe he wants to, especially.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

"Jenkins claimed that I insulted him." "Did you give him satisfaction?" "Guess I did. He pounded me until he was tired."

TO BE REMOVED.

All the effete or waste matter of the system is removed by a perfect action of Laxative Liver Pills. Thus they prevent as well as cure Sick headache, Constipation, Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Jaundice, Dizziness, etc.

"I'm going to swear out a warrant against the weather man." "What for?" "Malicious scorching."

CURES SUMMER COMPLAINT.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for twelve years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer complaints. In our family it has never failed to cure any case. MRS. BENJ. LONGLEY.
Chatham Ont.

Mount Emmons, 13,694 feet, is said to be the highest in Utah.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue."

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels, therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have clapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forfet this.

Pine Knot is the highest place in Kentucky—1428 feet.

If your children are troubled with worms, give them Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; safe, sure, and effectual. Try it, and mark the improvement in your child.

Mount Whitney is the highest peak in California—14 898 feet.

If you are tired taking the large old fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

Warren is located on the highest land in Illinois—1005 feet.

Those unhappy persons who suffer from nervousness and dyspepsia should use Carter's Little Nerve Pills, which are made expressly for sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic sufferers. Price 25 cents.

Mount Rich, 3596 feet high, is the tallest in South Carolina.

Ill-fitting boots and shoes cause corns. Holloway's Corn Cure is the best article to use. Get a bottle and cure your corns.

One of the largest peaks of the Andes is Sorato—25,380.

ALL THE SHOW OVER

And the Commoners Will Now Get to Work.

Black Rod and His Costly Bows Were the Only Interesting Features of the Opening of Parliament—Mr. Laurier Not Yet in a Position to Make a Statement Regarding the So-Called Settlement of the Manitoba School Question—Sir Charles Tupper Wants the Correspondence in Connection With the Resignation of the Late Ministry to be Laid on the Table.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—(Special.)—A more beautiful day for the formal opening of Parliament could not have been selected by Old Probs. The crowd on the hill has never been greater than that which assembled to see the outside show of this day's function. Owing to the fact that this was Ottawa's Civic Holiday, hundreds of Ottawa people who rarely have the opportunity of being present at the opening or closing proceedings of Parliament were in attendance to-day. It was 3 o'clock when the Governor-General reached the Senate Chamber, His Excellency's carriage being accompanied by the usual escort of Dragoons. Entering the Senate Chamber, Lord Aberdeen was accompanied by a brilliant suite, including General Gascoigne, Col. Aylmer, and other officers. It was noteworthy that none of the Cabinet Ministers were in their official uniform, presumably that the tailor is still at work on them. Sir Oliver had his K.C.M.G. star on his left breast. Lady Aberdeen preceded His Excellency into the Senate Chamber by a few minutes, being accompanied by Lady Marjory Gordon and her two sons, the latter being arrayed as pages of the time of Louis Quatorze. The chairs, usually occupied by the senators, were filled by a bevy of ladies. It is remarkable how many new faces there were amongst them. Most of them wore high-necked dresses, a few decollete costumes being observable. Black rod having been duly despatched to summon the faithful Commons, the members of the lower House came in, preceded by their Speaker and mace.

Hon. Mr. Edgar informed the Governor-General that the choice of the House of Commons had fallen upon him to be their Speaker, and he prayed for the members thereof customary parliamentary privilege. This His Excellency was pleased to accede to the Speaker, Speaker Pelletier being his mouthpiece.

The Governor-General then read the following Speech from the Throne:

Hon. gentlemen of the Senate and gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The necessity of making provisions for the public service has compelled me to summon you together at this somewhat inconvenient season.

It is impossible to lay before you at this session the public accounts for the past year, or indeed any of the reports usually submitted to Parliament. Under these circumstances and in view of the fact that you will be required to re-assemble early in the ensuing year it does not appear expedient to invite your attention to any measures beyond the passage of the supplies.

The operation of the tariff will be made the subject of careful enquiry during the recess, with a view to the preparation of such a measure as may, without doing injustice to any interest, materially lighten the burden of the people.

Immediate steps will be taken to effect a settlement of the Manitoba school question, and I have every confidence that when Parliament next assembles this important controversy will have been adjusted satisfactorily.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The estimates for the current year will be laid before you forthwith.

Honorable gentlemen of the Senate and gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I hope that when you will have given the necessary attention to the consideration of the year's supplies, I may be able to relieve you from the duty of further attendance at this session of Parliament.

The formal proceedings then closed. After the floor had been cleared, the Senate resumed in session and a short discussion took place as to when the debate on the address would be commenced. It was agreed to meet again on Tuesday evening next at 8 o'clock. It is significant, as showing that the Minister of Justice is to be the leader of the Senate, but, although Mr. Scott was present, Sir Oliver acted as spokesman for the Government and moved the adjournment of the House.

Over in the Commons Chamber there was as great a rush to the galleries as to the Senate. The Commons met at 3 o'clock and duly waited the summons from the Governor-General. Black rod tickled the new members by his genuflexion and a great crowd trooped over to the Senate Chamber to see the sight. On returning, the Speaker informed the House that the Governor-General had been pleased to accord the customary privileges. The usual formal bill respecting administration of oaths of office was introduced by Mr. Laurier.

The Speaker informed the House that, "to prevent mistakes," he had secured a copy of the speech which His Excellency had delivered.

A short colloquy took place between the Premier and Sir Charles Tupper as to when the debate on the address should be commenced.

Sir Charles stated that, as many members were away, Monday would be the most convenient day. He said he desired also to ask that there be laid on the table of the House the correspondence which took place in connection with the resignations of the late Government. It was very desirable to have that correspondence before the House when the address was being considered, as it would enable them to deal with the question of the change of administration at the same time as they were dealing with the address.

Mr. Laurier, in assenting to the commencement of the discussion on Monday, said he would not like to break the pleasant harmony which had existed so far and hoped it would continue to the end of the session. With regard to the correspondence referred to, he could not give an answer at that moment, but would do so to-morrow.

It was decided to strike the usual standing committees. On motion of Mr. Laurier, the following gentlemen were appointed a committee to supervise the debates of the House: Messrs. Beausoleil, Monet, Haley, Charlton, Somerville, Richardson, Scriver, Ellis, Choquette, LaRiviere, Taylor, Earle, Davin, Craig and Bergeron.

Mr. Laurier stated that the proportion of Liberals and Conservatives was that which prevailed last session.

Sir Charles Tupper thought that nine Liberals and six Conservatives was not a fair distribution, considering the relative proportion of members on both sides of the House. He asked the Premier if he had looked into that question

Mr. Laurier said that he had, and the difference was so minute as not to be worthy of a change. (Laughter.) The committee was appointed as stated.

Sir Charles Tupper said he desired to take the opportunity of asking the First Minister whether the statement in the public press was true that negotiations now pending on the school question were likely to result favorably. The hon. gentleman was well aware of the great anxiety felt on both sides that the question should be brought to a satisfactory conclusion as early as possible, and it would be a great source of relief to the House to learn that the newspaper statements were well founded, and that a satisfactory arrangement was likely to be reached.

Mr. Laurier: "I have great pleasure in informing the hon. gentleman that at my invitation Mr. Sifton, Attorney-General of Manitoba, came down with a view to arranging with the Government for negotiations in regard to the settlement of that important question. Further than this I am not at liberty to say at present."

The subject then dropped and the House adjourned.

In view of the decision reached not to take up the address until Monday, there will be little doing in the House to-morrow. It has not yet been decided whether an amendment will be moved by the Opposition to the address. That depends upon circumstances, and will doubtless be the outcome to the Conservative caucus which will be held next Wednesday, unless Mr. Foster can be here in time for a meeting on Tuesday.

The point involved in Sir Charles Tupper's question in the House had reference to the difference of opinion between His Excellency and the late advisers in reference to the filling of certain vacancies in the public service before Ministers went out of office, when Lord Aberdeen refused to sanction the appointments suggested. It is understood that the members of the late Government formally placed on record in a letter to His Excellency, their dissent from the position which he took, and reasons which impelled them at that particular time to resign their portfolios. It is this document, with any answer thereto, which Sir Charles Tupper is anxious to have laid before Parliament.

Mr. Britton of Gananoque had an interview with Mr. Davis to-day in regard to the international arrangement which has been in existence for the last year, in regard to fishing in the St. Lawrence near the Thusand Islands by American tourists. This arrangement has not yet been crystallized into shape, the New Yorkers not having embodied in law the proposal to suspend the operation of the Alien Labor Law as against Canadians, and Mr. Britton urges that steps be taken to bring about this result at as early a date as possible.

A. D. Provand, M.P. for Blackfriars, Glasgow, Scotland, and a director of the Chignecto Ship Railway, is in the city to urge the Government to extend the time for the completion of the work, in order to enable the company to earn the subsidy voted by Parliament. The Government has arranged to give Mr. Provand a hearing, although it is dollars to doughnuts that they will not facilitate the earning of the subsidy in any way. It will not be judicious, however, for them to make any announcement on this subject for the present, as a protest is hanging over the head of Logan, the new Liberal M. P. for Cumberland, through whose constituency this railway would run if it is ever to be completed.

M. C. Cameron is after the scalp of Capt. A. W. McGregor of the Government steamer Bayfield, who, he alleges, has, for the past 15 years been an active canvasser for the Tories and who, he says, abandoned his survey work to vote for the candidate in West Huron on June 23. Mr. Cameron will ask if Captain McGregor got leave from Parliament. Mr. Cameron is also after Capt. Dunn of the cruiser Petrel, who, he says, conveyed voters to Owen Sound on that vessel.

Very little comfort can be gleaned from the figures of the banks' statement for July, which has just been issued. However, it is not unusual to find a falling off from the preceding month. The bank notes in circulation on July 31 amounted to $29,575,380, being a reduction from June 30 of $761,464. Upon turning to the column, the greatest amount of notes in circulation at any time during the month we find $31,172,494, which is $208,101 more than appeared under that heading for June. The balance due to provincial governments increased $2,233,552; people's deposits, withdrawable on demand and after notice, increased $3,278,993; deposits between banks increased $339,051; balances due to banks and agencies in the United Kingdom show a reduction of $1,781,428, while the total liabilities increased $3,150,885. Specie and Dominion notes increased $695,599, notes and cheques between banks declined $1,350,656, balances due from banks and agencies in foreign countries were reduced $1,771,343, while an increase of $4,995,065 is shown in banks and branches in the United Kingdom. Investments in permanent stocks seem to have been favored, Call loans on stocks and bonds shows plainly the state of the market in these commodities by a further reduction of $371,959. Current loans increased $745,762; overdue debts remain practically unchanged. Total assets increased $3,459,915, and directors' liabilities decreased $279,724.

The High Court of Eastern Ontario Independent Foresters had an informal meeting this morning, when matters of interest to the order were discussed. Great enthusiasm prevailed. On motion the meeting placed itself on record as adverse to mileage or per diem allowance to delegates next year in order that the High Court might start with a clean sheet financially, as an incentive to the court to increase its membership.

It is understood that D'Alton McCarthy will resign his seat for Brandon this week.

The impression seems to be growing that if the Manitoba school question be settled before the next session, as the Government promise will be the case, Clifford Sifton will be the next Minister of the Interior.

Mr. Tarte's tomahawk is still being wielded. Four officers in the secretary's branch and four in the architect's branch of the Public Works Department are the latest to get their marching orders.

Mr. Maclean, East York, gives notice of a bill for the better protection of railway employes.

The question of aid to the Dominion Exhibition at Toronto next year was brought before Messrs. Cartwright and Tarte to-day by the Toronto representatives in Parliament. Sir Richard Cartwright informed them that a subcommittee would be appointed to look into the matter and would hear the representatives of both the Toronto and Montreal people.

Only Seven Have Been Killed.

Key West, Fla., Aug. 20.—Among the passengers on the Mascotte last night was Arthuro Elvarez, member of the the last expedition of the Three Friends. He reports that only seven members of the expedition have been killed to date, and five made prisoners. The others, numbering about 40, with all the ammunition, are with Gen. Aguierre near Havana.

THERE IS NO FRICTION.

But the Fast Atlantic Steamship Matter is Suspended Just Now.

London, Aug. 20.—The statement conveyed in a New York cable despatch published here that friction has arisen between the Canadian and Imperial Governments in regard to the establishment of a new fast Atlantic mail service between Canada and Great Britain is denied upon the highest authority. The fact is that the matter had been entirely suspended, pending the decision of the new Canadian Ministry.

MONEY USED JUNE 23

Thousands of Dollars Spent in Quebec.

More Money Reported to Have Been Spent in the District of Montreal in June Than During Any Contest Since Confederation—The Laurierites Also Said to Have Bled to the Tune of $20,000 in St. Lawrence Division, All of Which Will Come out in the Election Court.

Montreal, Aug. 20.—(Special.)—When the history of the last general election comes to be written it will be seen that the Liberals spent more money in the district of Montreal than during any other contest since Confederation. As yet all the subscribers to this heavy fund are not known, but if some of their names are mentioned, the surprise would be general throughout the Dominion. It is said that $25,000 came from a gentleman who was formerly on the Conservative side, and in fact he is known to have contributed $5000 to his old political associates

It will not be surprising when your correspondent declares, upon the authority of a gentleman who knows the ins and outs of Liberal election procedure, that the heaviest amount spent by the Laurierites in any one division was disposed of in the County of Beauharnois. To those who supposed the Liberals had no money at the beginning of the contest, Mr. Tarte's candidature against Mr. Bergeron appeared foolhardy, to say the least, but these people were not aware how effectually the great purist had burnished his political arms to invade the Conservative stronghold. It appears that the Hon. Mr. Tarte asked for $15,000, and that amount was given the committee to corrupt the fine old County of Beauharnois, and every dollar was spent in the futile task of winning over the constituency to Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Mr. Tarte and political purity. Thus it will be seen that Mr. Bergeron had a hard road to travel as all he could scrape together was $2000, in order to combat Mr. Tarte and the $15,000 which the great apostle of purity had at his command.

Another costly election was that of Mr. Geoffrion for in Chambly-Vercheres, as in Beauharnois, the Liberals had a fund ten times more extensive than the Conservatives, and the strangest part of the whole business was a large subscription against Hon. Mr. Taillon by a well-known Tory contractor, and a man whom Hon. Mr. Laurier and all his colleagues, save Mr. Geoffrion, have roundly denounced on almost every hustings in the Dominion.

Ald. Penny was elected in St. Lawrence division because his friends paid for the honor to the tune of $20,000, all of which will come out in due time before the election court. With one or two exceptions, the Conservative managers left their candidates with scarcely any money at all to meet the torrents of gold that had been placed at the disposition of the Liberal committees, and now people have come to realize the correctness of the ante-election report published in this column to the effect that foreign manufacturers were about to take a hand in the conflict.

In Yamaska, Mr. Vanasse had just $300 to carry on his election, and he came within 16 votes of redeeming the constituency.

THE DEAD SECRETARY.

Hon. W. D. Balfour's Body Will be Buried at Amherstburg Instead of St. Catharines, as Reported.

Toronto, Aug. 21.

The arrangements for the disposal of Hon. W. D. Balfour's body were yesterday changed. Instead of being interred at St. Catharines, the remains will be laid to rest at Amherstburg in the midst of the people whom the dead served so well in life.

It was decided yesterday that the pall-bearers should be Premier Hardy, Hon. J. M. Gibson, W. A. Charlton, M.L.A.; Josept Tait, ex-M.L.A.; Col. Clarke, Clerk of the House, and Sergt.-at-Arms Glackmeyer. As Hon. Mr. Hardy, however, was seriously indisposed last evening, he may not be able to officiate, and in that case Hon. Thomas Ballantyne, ex-Speaker of the Legislature, will take his place.

The members of the family who will accompany the body are: Mr. and Mrs. David Balfour, father and mother of the deceased; Mrs. Balfour, the widow; three sisters of the dead, his eldest son, and Mr. Broadhead of Grosse Isle, his brother-in-law.

A large contingent of Amherstburg people had arranged to come to Toronto to attend the funeral at St. Catharines, but yesterday they were telegraphed of the alterations made in the program.

Up in Queen's Park all day yesterday the Union Jack floated at half-mast in honor of the dead, and many called to pay their last respects to the departed, among these being Dr. McMahon, ex-M.P.; Mr. Cowan, the former member for Essex, and Mrs. G. W. Ross. Messages of condolence were received from Lieut.-Gov. Kirkpatrick, Sir Oliver Mowat, Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. David Mills, Hon. G. W. Ross, Dr. Willoughby, J. P. Whitney, J. L. Haycock, G. F. Marter and others.

Among the floral tokens or regret which surrounded the casket as it lay in the legislative pile were: A handsome wreath from the members of the Ontario Government, bearing the motto, "Our Colleague"; a large wreath of red and white roses from Hon. J. C. Patterson, Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba, with the legend, "In memory of the old days when we were members of the Essex County Council together"; and a pillow of roses from the people of the dead Minister's own town, inscribed simply "Amherstburg."

CIVIL ENGINEERS AT BUFFALO.

Prof. Galbraith of Toronto Presents a Report on Symbols for Text Books.

Buffalo, Aug. 20.—The fourth annual meeting of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education was called to order this morning by President Professor Mansfield Merriman. There were more than thirty members of the society present. This was the first meeting of the affiliated societies of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, whose convention begins on Saturday.

After Prof. Merrian's address and discussion thereon, Prof. J. Galbraith of Toronto presented the report of the Committee on Uniformity of Symbols for Engineering Text-Books. I. O. Baker is chairman of this committee, but Prof. Galbraith presented only a partial report. The committee was continued in office with instructions to report more at length next year at the fifth annual meeting. Other technical papers were read and discussed. The sessions will last during the balance of the week.

FEMALE FREAKS.

The First Woman's Train Leaves Syracuse for Cape Vincent—They Run the Engine and Collect Tickets.

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 20.—The first woman's train in the world left here to-day for the Thousand Islands, over the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railroad. The train is run by the Woman's Christian Association of this city, who formed themselves into a tourist company for the purpose of running the train and also operating the steamboats on the St. Lawrence River during this personally-conducted tour. The engine was started by Mrs. James K. McGuire, wife of the Mayor of Syracuse, and each car in the train had a woman conductor, in uniform, and a woman chaperon. The Thousand Islands' Steamboat Company's steamers run in connection with this tour will also be officered by the women, the women having appointed a commodore, captain, mate, purser, steward, cook, engineer, fireman and crew to serve on each excursion steamer. The train consisted of 12 vestibule cars, including the Wagner palace cars, and carried about 600 passengers.

SUE KITTIE AT DETROIT.

A Second for Rossmar and Third Place for Kapanga Colt.

Detroit, Aug. 20.—The layers of odds had matters pretty much their own way at Grosse Point to-day, but two favorites winning. The talent got badly dumped in the second race, when Scarf Pin, who was heavily played and backed down to 15 to 20, failed to show. Brown Girl, who was backed down from 30 to 1 to 15 to 1, won easily. Summaries:

First race, 6 furlongs—Canfield, 8 to 5, 1; Brandoc, 30 to 1, 2; Sobriqpet, 20 to 1, 3. Time 1.15½.

Second race, 5½ furlongs—Brown Girl, 15 to 1, 1; Katie W., 15 to 1, 2; Evaline, 4 to 1, 3. Time 1.08¾.

"TAKEN IN."

"I used often to read the newspaper aloud to my wife," said Bert Robinson, "and once I was fairly 'taken in' by a patent medicine advertisement. The seductive paragraph began with a modest account of the sea-serpent, but ended by setting forth the virtues of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which, it was alleged, was a cure for all Bronchial, Throat and Lung troubles, and would even cure Consumption, if taken in time. The way I was taken in was this: I had lung disease, and I bought a bottle of the remedy; I was a stranger to it, and it took me in—and cured me." Robinson's experience is identical with that of thousands of others. So true is this, that after witnessing, for many years, the marvelous cures of Bronchial, Throat and Lung affections wrought by this wonderful remedy, its manufacturers feel warranted in saying that this remedy will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. This may seem like a bold assertion to those familiar only with the means generally in use for its treatment; as, nasty cod liver oil and its filthy emulsions, extract of malt, whiskey, different preparations of hypophosphites and such like palliatives.

The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering coughs, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 1000 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and 31 cents in stamps. You can then write those cured and learn their experience.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

The Globe's announcement that the Manitoba school question has been settled is a dodge to affect the result of the election in North Grey.

The Ontario and other Grit journals have failed, so far, to trot out their objection to non-resident candidates in the case of the Hon. Wm. Paterson, who is seeking election in North Grey. But it is only in the case of Conservatives that the Grits raise the "non-resident" cry.

The untimely death of Mr. Balfour, Provincial Secretary, will be sincerely regretted by the people of Ontario. Mr. Balfour was a man of ability who made his own way in life—a man of the right stamp, whose future was full of promise.

In nominating Mr. Andrew Patullo, editor and proprietor of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review, as Sir Oliver Mowat's successor in the Legislature, the Liberals of North Oxford have chosen wisely and well. Mr. Pattullo is not only one of the most able and scholarly of Canadian editors, but he is a politician of moderate views and a highly capable man of affairs, as witness his great prominence in connection with the dairying industry and the good roads movement. Mr. Pattullo will no doubt be elected, and should his party remain in power he will, in the course of time, occupy a high position in the Government.

There will now be a grand scramble for the late Mr. Balfour's position, with Mr. Stratton, of Peterborough West, leading in the contest.

The fight in North Grey is a hot one. Mr. Paterson's opposition to Orange incorporation may prove his undoing. Both parties have sent many of their best known stumpers into the riding.

Cross petitions have been entered against the too well-known Preston in West Toronto and "I bet you" Cook, in East Simcoe. As the Montreal Gazette aptly says: "Mr. Preston resigned the post of librarian of the Ontario Legislature to carry the Laurier banner during the general election, and was reappointed immediately after his defeat. He was not contented with his good fortune, but made himself busy promoting the contestation of his opponent's seat. Now he is getting some of his own medicine, and it serves him right."

The trouble with Mr. Laurier is that he assumes that our Government has been too harsh with the Yankees in our dealings with them. The contrary was the case.

Mr. Laurier does his best to invite the Yankees to make themselves unpleasant towards Canada by speaking of the so-called "bonding privilege" as a favor for which we ought to give them privileges in return. On the contrary, it was conclusively shown, whilst the subject was under discussion some years ago, that although the repeal of the bonding regulations would necessarily cause some disturbance of trade it would, within twelve months, prove one of the most advantageous steps ever taken on behalf of Canada, as it would compel our people to use Canadian steamships and railways and hasten the establishment of our fast line on the Atlantic.

ADVANCE PAYMENT.

HAMILTON, Ont., Aug. 13th, 1896.

The Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association,
Cor. Duane & Broadway, New York, N. Y.

DEAR SIRS,—I have to thank you for advance payment of two hundred dollars ($200.00), received through Mr. E. S. Miller, on Provincial Provident Policy 1537, carried by my late husband.

I cannot but appreciate the generosity of the company in offering to advance me 10% of the face of the policy as soon as the death occurred, and before proofs were completed, to enable me to meet funeral and other necessary expenses. It shows a willingness on the part of the company to treat claimants liberally, and to do more than is required under contract.

Yours truly,

Failure and Success.

It is often all the little things that constitute the wide difference between success and failure. Some men, earnest in purpose, capable in many ways, seem unable to discern the import of minor, nevertheless important elements, and neglect in consequence to grasp the opportunities that if accepted would carry them on to victory. In the same way people are imposed upon by mercenary druggists, who, to gain an additional profit, practice the dishonest method of substitution. Calling for Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, they accept some worthless flesh-eating substitute, only to be disappointed or suffer injury. Putnam's Corn Cure is the only reliable one.

LATEST FUN.

A seven-year-old girl was asked what she thought was a "boy's delight." She replied, "Girls." Her questioner expected her to say pie.

Lady Customer (in china shop)—Do you break these sets?

Dealer—No, madam; the purchaser's servants usually attends to that.

Sentimental Young Lady—Ah, professor, what would this old oak say if it could talk?

Professor—It would say, "I am an elm."

"Johnny, what would your dear mother do if you should come to her some day and tell her you dearly, dearly loved your studies?"

"Lick me fur lyin'."

"Fanny, I have told you again and again not to speak when older persons are talking, but wait until they stop."

"I've tried that already, mamma. They never stop."

"Bridget, you've broken as much china this month as your wages amount to. Now, how can we prevent this occurring again?"

"Oi don't know, mum, unless yez raises me wages."

The Best of Evidence. Johnny Tommy Brown's mother makes him go to Sunday School every Sunday. Mamma—Why do you say she makes him go? Johnny—Because he goes.

"I suppose you know all about the financial question?" said the intimate friend. "I don't say that I know all about it," replied the candidate, "but I know enough not to talk about it."

The National Association of Dentists, in session at Saratoga, has appointed a committee "to select suitable and appropriate colors for the association." What's the matter with yell-oh and old gold?

Teacher (meaning the Spanish Armada)—What was it that Philip II. of Spain sent over to England? Something of considerable strength, termed the Spanish—the Spanish what, Mary? Mary—The Spanish onion, Ma'm.

"How old is your baby, ma'am?" "Just ten months." "Does she walk?" "Once in a while she staggers a few steps, sir." "Hem! takes after her father. Can she talk?" "She jabbers all the time, sir." "Hem! takes after her mother."

Madge—Oh, girls! Such good news! Twenty men have just arrived at the hotel! Chorus Where? (A rush for the hotel.) Five minutes later. Madge—Well, I don't care! I thought they were men. How was I to know that the Amazon cyclers were coming down to day?

Professor—This star is so far away from the earth that a cannon ball shot from this earth would be more than a thousand years reaching it.

Young Lady (earnestly)—But, Herr Professor, why should we shoot the pretty star?

Society Editor—Mr. Wills tells me that his family will spend the summer in the mountains, and his wife says they will go to the seashore. Had I better defer mentioning the matter until I get more definite information?

Managing Editor—I don't see what more definite information you want. She told you they were going to the seashore, didn't she?

The other evening Toddletums called his papa to tell him that he couldn't get to sleep for the mosquitoes.

"Never mind, Toddle; just put your head under the clothes, where they can't get at you."

Toddletums did so, but in a little while he peeped from under the clothing. A firefly happening along at moment set him yelling. "It's no use, papa. I hid under the clothes, and now they've gone off and got lanterns to find me with."

"There's no such thing as perfection in this world," said the philosopher.

"Right," assented the colonel. "Even whiskey has to be nigh fifty puhsent water."

"Sir, your son's performance on the French horn is excrable. It will drive everybody from my house. You told me he was a teacher."

"I did not. I said he was a tooter."

Dipson—Ye gods! isn't this theatre hot! And think of it, they say in the papers that they provide iced air for their patrons!

Dobson—So they do. Didn't you notice it on the face of that young man in the box office?

Mrs. Hilby—Goodness! What luck that Willow woman has!

Mrs. Hilby—What's happened now?

"Why, she's actually got the St. Vitus dance!"

"And you call that luck?"

"Certainly. Just think how it must make her diamonds sparkle."

"Do you think the devil is married?"

"I guess so."

"Some flame of his, I suppose."

Physician—You say that lunatic is a married man. How do you know?

Assistant—He was found roaming about in a dry goods store, mumbling: "Yard of crepon, spool of silk, bathing suit."

"This, ladies and gentlemen, is the celebrated trick mule, Dot," said the clown, as the beast was being led into the ring. "After many years of effort, I am able to say I can make him do anything he wants to."

Little Brooklyn girl of five to lady whom she was visiting—You ought not ter let your little boy say "nit," because it's slang. Lady—You are right, my child; you don't say it, do you? Little girl—Nit.

Mr. Hayseed, (after a long, weary wait in a New York restaurant)—Seems to me that briled Philadelphia spring chicken we ordered is a long time coming. Mrs. Hayseed (resignedly)—I 'spose the train 's off the track.

"Have you watered the cattle yet?" asked the farmer of his son. "Not a head of 'em. I heerd you say at the grange last night that any of those fellers caught watering stock ought to be sent to the penitentiary. I'm taking no chances."

"The present trouble is that there are too many men for the number of jobs," said the amateur lecturer on the situation. "And that ain't all, mister," interrupted Dismal Dawson. "Another trouble is that there is too much work to the job after a man gets it."

Johnnie's Ma—Johnnie is doing so nicely in school. The teacher thinks everything of him. She has given him such a pretty pet name. What is it they call you at school, Johnnie?

Johnnie (sententiously)—Rubber-neck.

"Isn't that a very slow horse of yours?"

"Well, he isn't much for speed, but he's easily frightened and runs away a good deal, so he gets there just the same."

"Why do you wear bloomers?" he asked.

"Well," she replied thoughtfully, "I think tights are a little too immodest."

NORTH GREY FIGHT.

Minister Paterson's Good Chance for Defeat.

The McLauchlan Men Are On Their Mettle—The Late Mr. Clark's Majority in Keppel Will Be Found With the Conservatives—Hugh John Macdonald Receives a Right Royal Welcome in Owen Sound—Meetings Everywhere—Mr. Laurier May Take a Hand in the Struggle.

Owen Sound, Ont., Aug. 20.—(Special.)—As the close of the bye-election campaign in North Grey approaches, the interest is becoming more and more intense. Tuesday next is polling day, and each party is doing everything possible to ensure the success of its candidate. The constituency is literally overrun with politicians from all over the country and largely-attended meetings are held nightly in the different polling divisions. Hon. Hugh John Macdonald arrived here to-day on the noon express from Toronto, accompanied by Major R. R. McLennan, M.P. of Glengary, George Taylor, M.P., the Conservative whip; Edward Cochrane, M.P. for Northumberland; Nat Boyd, M.P. of Marquette; Mr. Bell, M.P.; Mr. Dimock, M.P. of Nova Scotia, and others, who are to remain here till the close of the campaign to take an active part in it.

Mr. Macdonald and his party were met at the depot on his arrival by the Citizens' Band and a large assembly of citizens who accorded him a most enthusiastic and flattering reception. A large procession was formed and proceeded through the principal streets of the town, which were gaily decorated and festooned with colored bunting, while flags were flying from all the principal buildings.

After the procession an impromptu meeting was held at the Market square when Mr. Macdonald was presented with a eulogistic address by the North Grey Conservative association, to which he replied in becoming terms.

The candidate, Mr. McLauchlan, also made a short address.

Mr. Macdonald proceeded this afternoon to Desboro, in the township of Sullivan, where he is to address an important meeting to-night, and the other gentlemen have distributed themselves throughout the constituency.

Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, Dr. Sproule, M.P., Col. Tyrwhitt M.P., Mr. McNeill M.P., W. F. Maclean M.P., and many other leading Conservatives have been doing good work during the past fortnight.

Many prominent Liberals are also stumping the riding, among whom are William Mulock, Postmaster-General; Mr. Paterson, the candidate, Dr. McDonald M.P., T. Bain M.P., Dr. Landerkin M.P., M. K. Cowan M.P., J. F. Lister M.P., Dr. Horsey. Mr. Laurier, it is also reported, will be on the scene before the close of the campaign.

There is every indication of a close election, and though each party is outwardly confident, yet neither seems inclined to neglect anything which may add to its chances of success. Mr. Paterson undoubtedly chose a hard constituency when he made this his choice, and there is a good prospect of his being again beaten. There is a very strong sentiment throughout the riding against bringing in an outsider, which will lose the Liberals many of their supporters in the bye-election, and this, along with the loss of the good majority the late A. R. Clarke's township, Keppel, gave him, which was heretofore Conservative, is relied upon to cause Mr. Paterson's defeat.

A large meeting is to be held in Owen Sound to-morrow night, which is to be addressed by Hon. Hugh John Macdonald, Hon. N. Clarke Wallace and others.

DEATH OF WILLIAM BROWN.

Assistant General Freight Agent of the C.P.R. Dies at Portland, Ore.

Vancouver, BC., Aug. 20.—A message received from Portland, Oregon, announces the death of William Brown, assistant general freight agent of the C.P.R., and Canadian agent of the Canadian-Australian line. Mr. Brown went to Portland a fortnight ago on a business trip and was taken ill with dysentery, from which he died. The deceased was a well-known railway man, having worked his way up from the position of agent at a small eastern Canadian station. Before coming here he was connected with the Denver & Rio Grande. His brother, Mr. D. E. Brown, is general agent of the C.P.R. at Hong Kong.

DON'T POUND DYNAMITE.

An Awful Affair in Parry Island—Two Men Blown to Pieces and a Third Will Die.

Parry Sound, Aug. 20.—A terrible accident occurred on Parry Island this afternoon. It appears that a number of men were blasting in the rock cut near Rose Point, and in putting in a heavy charge of dynamite they had occasion to pound the charge down, when it exploded. Two of the men, named Jim Smith and the foreman, Arthur Hillman, were killed, the latter having his arms blown off and his leg shattered. John Olsen, who was one of the gang, was badly injured.

THE CYCLISTS' ROUND.

Harley Davidson Won the Twenty-Five Championship of Canada and Made a New Record.

Chatham, Aug. 20.—The second annual meet of the Chatham Cycle Club was held here to-day and was by consent of all who have followed the Western Ontario circuit the best of the series. With one exception all the fast men of Ontario and several from the United States were here, and every event was a battle from tape to tape. The event of the day was the race for the 25-mile professional championship of Canada. Harley Davidson captured the prize, followed by about a foot by Chris Greatrix of Toronto, Alf. Young of Toronto being a good third. A new record was established, the race being done in 1.01.46. This announcement was greeted with tremendous applause. The results of the other events were as follows:

One mile novice, amateur—C. E. Reid, London, 1; J. W. Hutchins, Toronto, 2; Ray McKenzie, Leamington, 3; C. T. Lamson, Detroit, 4. Time 2.35 4-5.

Two-mile handicap, professional—R. E. McColl (125 yards), 1; J. F. Esperon (100 yards), 2; J. H. Gratz, Toronto (125 yards), 3. Time 4.39 3-5.

Two-mile lap race, amateur—R. E. Axton 1, F. A. Joseph 2, O. Wanderer 3. Time 5.23¼.

This evening the club held a promenade concert in the Drill Hall.

CANADA AND VENCEDOR.

Toledo, Aug. 20.—(Special.)—The Canada arrived here from Put-in-Bay late on Wednesday, and was hauled out on the Shanes Marine Railway early yesterday morning. The Vencedor is docked at Craig's dry dock on the opposite side of the river.

The Canada has much the fairer lines of the two, but the Vencedor shows great power in heavy weather and should prove a flyer. It is the general opinion, however, that in moderate or light winds the Dominion's representative will prove the speedier boat; even in heavy weather the Canada should have a good chance.

It has been figured out that Vencedor ought to win easily because she defeated Vreda by 27 minutes in Cleveland, and Canada has never beaten Zelma by more than 5 minutes, while the latter usually sails on pretty even terms with Vreda. The weak point of this chain of reasoning is that the course in Cleveland was 21 miles, while the 5-minute defeat which Canada administered to Zelma was over a 6-mile course. Added to this Zelma can defeat Vreda, and the latter met with a series of mishaps in the Cleveland race which practically cut off ten or fifteen minutes from Vencedor's winning margin of time.

FUNNY CLERGYMEN.

Some Rare, Racy Stories of Wearers of the Cloth in New York.

"The Lord is in His holy temple; will the sexton please shut the door?"

There is an Episcopal minister in town who entertains his congregation with such running comments on what passes before him while he reads the service. As he rarely changes his tone his people are constantly pursuing him with perplexed glances through the prayer book. Occasionally the connection between things mundane and spiritual are so closely made that they occasion embarrassment, as when in the midst of a peroration about the scarlet woman he called to a well-known pewholder to move over and give the lady a seat.

When preaching, the same minister keeps one hand or the other jingling coins and keys in his pocket, so as to be plainly heard throughout the church. These apparently he provides for the purpose, for one Sunday, by some mischance, one pocket being empty, he stopped deliberately, emptied his pockets like a boy, and divided the contents between th two,, after which he proceeded smoothly and cheerfully through his sermon.

It was another clergyman, who, feeling the moral necessity of having money in his pockets, borrowed $5 of a member of the congregation in the vestibule, which immediately after the service he paid back. An empty purse, he confessed, took away all his self-confidence.

These idiosyncrasies endear clergymen to their congregations, who relate them as do parents the antics of spoiled children.

There is another New York clergyman who is always late at church. He comes up the aisle swinging his hat; then tossing it on the pulpit sofa, says: "Let us pray" before the hat has landed. When he has pronounced the benediction, by the time the "Amen" has reached the back seats he is off.

This same man preaches from little scraps of paper, which, as he uses them he drops on the floor. By the time he is through his sermon he is standing shoe deep in manuscript. While the congregation is singing he is scurrying around on the floor gathering up the scraps. When he prays he keeps his eyes open, tracing out the cornice of the church.

Those familiar with Dr Richard Storrs will recall how he always preached to the top right hand corner of his church, mourning over its sins and urging it to repent. While his wonderful descriptive powers would send his congregation from church as if under a spell, he would himself hasten to get hold of some member by the arm and tell funny stories by the yard.—New York Journal.

When Wilberforce was a candidate for Hull, his sister, an amiable and witty young lady, offered to give a new gown to the wife of every man who voted for her brother. When she made this offer at a political gathering some one shouted, "Miss Wilberforce forever!" Whereupon she pleasantly observed, "I thank you very much for the good-will expressed, but, really, I do not wish to be Miss Wilberforce forever!"

THE CATTLE STEALING CASE.

More Corroborative Evidence Presented by the Crown To-day.

FRIDAY, Aug. 21.

The cattle stealing case was continued yesterday afternoon and at 6:30 was adjourned till 9:30 this morning.

The first witness in the afternoon was Priscilla Hill, who lives at Mr. Blanchard's, the former witness. She was at Mr. Blanchard's on July 17th and went to bed before ten o'clock. She was aroused by dogs barking. Got up and saw quite a few cattle on road coming towards Shannonville. Heard a voice on the road. There was a buggy ahead of the cattle. The horse was a grey. There were two men behind the cattle, but could not distinguish who they were.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter, said she could not see clearly that night. She could not distinguish the color of the cattle or the horse for sure. It was not an unusual thing for cattle to come that way.

Cross-examined by Mr. Northrup, witness said she had heard the cattle were stolen a few days after the 17th. She would not swear the horse was a grey.

Milo Smart, the next witness, lived on the road between Milltown and Napanee. Saw a drove of cattle go past his place between twelve and one o'clock towards Napanee. Could not tell the color of the cattle. Went down the road to look for his own cow. There was a buggy with the cattle. Could not say whether there were more than two men with the cattle or not. One of the cattle of the drove turned back and a young man ran after her. He finally let her go. The heifer came back with his cow and stayed with her. He saw her afterwards on the marsh. She was lame in the left front leg. Did not recognize the man after the heifer. Nobody chased him.

Cross-examined by Mr. Northrup, witness could not say whether there was more than one man in the buggy.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter, witness said he did not have the matter recalled to his attention for about a week after. He lived about three miles below Milltown.

John Little was next called. Lived at Milltown and went to bed shortly after dark on night of July 17th. He was awakened by dogs barking and cattle bawling. He got up and went down the road a short distance. Only saw one cow, going east. Thought he heard a rig going past the house before he got up. Saw Wesley Reid on the Reserve that day. That was three-quarters of a mile from the marsh. He said he was going to Dice's and Driver's. He left him and went towards those places.

John Doxstator, sworn, said he lived at Milltown. Was awakened by dogs and went out doors. Saw some cattle going east. Saw a buggy and horse with them and two men. Was within a few feet of the men; could not describe the cattle. Men asked him for a drink. Had worked for Wesley Reid and had talked with him since the trial began; Reid had told him if folks told the truth he was not afraid of the result of the trial. He admitted he did not want to come to court. The man who stood closest to him asked him for a drink. Saw some spotted cattle, but could not say what the others were like.

Cross-examined by Mr. Northrup, witness said there was a lot of talk about the case at Milltown. Could see the two men distinctly when they asked him for a drink, and they were neither the Youngs nor Wesley Reid.

Thomas Lund, the next witness, lived in Napanee. Remembered Saturday, 18th of July. Three stray cattle came on his farm that day. They were there until they were claimed by Cole and McDavid. His barn was six hundred yards from the station yard. The cattle were not fat enough for beef.

Cross-examined by Mr. Northrup, witness said the cattle had to cross two railway tracks to get to his place.

Roger Richardson, switchman at Napanee station, was the next called. He was working nights when these cattle came into the yard on the morning of July 18th. Did not notice the men, but there were two or three men with them. He thought it was between five and six o'clock the cattle came in. The cattle left Napanee on Saturday evening for the east.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter witness said it was quite light when the cattle came into the yard. He went to Queen's hotel and woke up Mrs. Wheeler, who keeps the house, at six o'clock Saturday morning. He did not remember whether it was before or after he took in the lamps that the cattle came in. He usually went after the lamps at five o'clock.

Leo Trimble was next called. He lived at Napanee and went to the station about ten o'clock on Saturday morning, July 18th. He helped ship about twenty-two that morning. He only noticed one of the animals, that was black and white. He saw Reid on Saturday evening, but could not say that he was there in the morning.

Herbert Trimble, a brother of the former witness, was next called. Was at the station at Napanee on Saturday morning, July 18th. Saw some cattle in the yard; thought there were about twelve. Saw Wesley Reid at the station about ten o'clock.

Fred Sager was the next witness. He lived in Napanee. At the Tichborne House on Saturday, July 18th, he met Peter Davy and three strangers. He identified George Young as one of the strangers. He described Wm. Young as one of the others. He (witness) was called "Baldy." They afterwards went to the Queen's hotel and had drinks and the two Youngs went to the station to catch the train for Shannonville.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter, witness said Will Young drank whiskey at the Tichborne House. It was the first time he had ever seen any of the party except Peter Davy. First saw them about 7:30. Will Young came to see him near Napanee last evening. It was dark and he did not know him. He would not swear positively that George Young was the man he saw in Napanee. Will Young told him it was not George Young who came back with him from Napanee on the morning of July 18th.

Cross-examined by Mr. Northrup, witness said William Young appeared quite flush on the morning he met him in Napanee.

Samuel Barber was the next witness. He remembered the 18th of July. Saw William and George Young coming from the east. They got off below Shannonville.

Cross-examined by Mr. Porter, witness admitted he had talked with Mr. Williams about the case and had told him that he saw the Youngs on the train.

Nelson Storms, sworn, said he was working on the railroad near Shannonville on the morning of July 18th. Saw George Young on top of a train going west.

Dr. Alex. Embury was called to testify to the illness of Mr. Scrimshaw, of Shannonville, a former witness. He said the old gentleman was liable to take a convulsion at any moment and not reasonably fit to attend court.

The hearing of evidence was resumed this morning at 10 o'clock. Eleazar Williams was called to testify to the illness of Marshall Scrimshaw. Witness said he was unable to attend. This concluded the evidence for the Crown.

Mr. Northrup and Mr. Porter, on behalf of the prisoners, asked for their discharge, on the ground that the Crown had not proven them guilty. They went through the Crown's evidence and endeavored to show that no case had been made out. The Judge decided that he could not discharge the prisoners without further consideration. After consultation the defence decided to put in evidence.

The first witness called for the defence was Dr. Whiteman, of Shannonville. He remembered Wesley Reid cutting burdocks near his place on or about the 18th of July. He examined Marshall Scrimshaw yesterday and he considered him fit to come to the city to give evidence.

Cross-examined by Mr. Anderson, witness said the old gentleman was weak. Could not remember the day Reid cut the burdocks by his house.

William Driver was the next witness. He lived about two and a half miles from the marsh. Saw Wesley Reid on July 17th at Doreen's hotel in Shannonville, about 8:30 in the morning. He told him he had some cattle down on the marsh to sell and he drove Reid down between 9 and 10 o'clock to see the cattle. Reid looked at them and afterwards bought them for $32.50. One was a white and the other was spotted. Witness had seventeen head of cattle on the marsh, and Reid looked at about eight or nine of them.

Cross-examined by Mr. Anderson, witness saw several other cattle there when he was at the marsh. He saw the two cattle Reid bargained for on the following Monday. They were not taken away.

Samuel Geddes was next sworn. Wesley Reid had bargained with him for some sheep prior to the 18th of July. He was talking of going to look at the sheep, which were near the marsh.

James Keller, sworn, said he lived at Milltown and remembered the night of the 17th of July. Was awakened and got up about 12 o'clock and saw two men driving cattle. Was within ten feet of one of the men, but did not recognize him. He knew all three of the prisoners well. The other man was across the road. There was a man in the buggy with the cattle. The man nearest him was a large, stout man.

Cross-examined by Mr. Anderson, witness said the night was middling dark. His clock struck 12 immediately after he came into the house. Did not know how the man was dressed nor whether the cattle were young or old.

Thomas Trimble was the next witness. He had bought cattle for Reid for three or four years. They had made a shipment from Napanee on July 14th and there were nine head left over from that shipment, and they were sent out to Mr. Haycock's to be kept till the 17th. They were brought to Napanee on Saturday, July 18th. When he came to the station that morning he found two men there with a number of cattle, which they wanted to sell. They wanted $15 per head, but he offered them $13 and they accepted the offer. He met Reid afterward and he drew $600 from the bank and gave him $500. He met the man afterward from whom he had bought the cattle and paid him. He did not know the man. He was a man about 5ft 7in, stout build and black beard. Neither of the Youngs was the man, nor was Will Young, the man. The man from whom he bought the cattle said his name was Haycock. Those were the cattle Wesley Reid took to Montreal.

HO FOR ROCHESTER!

A Discouraging Law.

This taking your best girl with you to get a marriage license, and having the family history of you both explored by the courteous official for the benefit of the statisticians at Toronto, is not likely, says an exchange, to make the matrimonial gate any easier to pass for the bashful youth and blushing maiden. It was hard enough for the amorous youth to get a license "on the quiet," without dragging the lady in, and when the pair have to put in an appearance the people are bound to have an idea of what is going on. But the ladies can be depended upon, we suppose, not to falter in the path of duty. The marriage license issuer who has a large circle of friends ought to receive more invitations to tea, or drop around for an hour or two in the evening, than he has been accustomed to in the past. One would think that the Legislature would have found out a less discouraging way of encouraging matrimony.

Mr. Cartwright's Yacht Found.

The police have been informed of the whereabouts of Mr. Anson Cartwright's yacht Curlew. It appears a young Albert College student named Manchester, whose home is in Ottawa, took the boat from her moorings at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning. He engaged a boy named John Flagler, who is a call boy at the G. T. R. station, to run the engine. They went down the bay as far as Camp Meeting Cove, where they struck a bar. After getting clear they proceeded to Deseronto and thence up the Napanee river to Napanee, where the boat was tied up. Flagler came home Wednesday morning, but said nothiug about the matter till he saw the account of the boat being stolen last evening's in papers.

Manchester told Flagler he had bought the yacht and wanted to take her to Ottawa. It is supposed Manchester has gone home. Mrs. Cartwright sent a man after the boat to-day.

A Valuable Pamphlet.

A new time table of the whole Grand Trunk system has lately been issued. It is the first time that the Chicago & Grand Trunk has been included in a time table with the remainder of the road. The pamphlet will be quite valuable to travellers. It gives the total mileage operated as 4,168 miles, distributed as follows: Grand Trunk, 3,512; Chicago & Grand Trunk, 335; Detroit, Grand Haven & Milwaukee, 189; Toledo, Saginaw & Muskegon, 97; Cincinnati, Saginaw & Mackinaw, 53. A list of all the principal Grand Trunk officials is given.

It Does Not Pay.

We would respectfully but most emphatically remind our readers that this hot weather it does not pay to go without Tan Shoes. Haines & Lockett have reduced prices for this month. You can get lots of comfort out of Tan Shoes and you need all you can get this hot weather.

Where They Sit.

Mr. Corby's seat in the Commons is No. 131, which is in the third row, opposite the Clerk's table, one row behind Hon. Messrs. Haggart and Montague, and his desk-mate is Mr. Reid, of Grenville. Mr. Carscallen sits at No. 161, two seats in rear of Mr. Corby, with Mr. Blanchard. Mr. Hurley sits at No. 99, in the back row of the Government benches, with Mr. Rogers.

AN EMINENT CANADIAN DEAD

Sir David Macpherson Expires on the Steamship Labrador.

RIMOUSKI WHARF, Aug. 21.—Sir David Macpherson, of Toronto, member of the Canadian Senate, died on board the steamer Labrador from Liverpool last Sunday. The Labrador passed here this morning for Quebec.

[Sir David Macpherson, who was born in Inverness, Scotland, in 1818, played a prominent part in Canadian history. Coming to Canada at the age of 17, he married in 1844 Elizabeth Sarah, eldest daughter of William Molson, and amassed a large fortune as a contractor on Canadian railways. He represented Saugeen Division in the Legislative Council from 1864 until the Union, and was then called to the Senate. He was Speaker of the Senate and member of the Government without portfolio from 1880 until 1883, when he resigned the Speakership and was appointed Minister of the Interior, which office he resigned in August 1885. Sir David, by his famous expose of the financial situation in 1877, did much towards the defeat of the Mackenzie Government in 1878. Amongst his family is Mrs. G. A. Kirkpatrick, wife of the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario.—ED. INTELLIGENCER.]

Yankee Money Refused.

The Montreal Witness of yesterday says: "And now the United States bank bills—greenbacks, or whatever other name they may be termed—are on the sick list. A Witness reporter went the rounds of several of the banks to-day to ascertain if it were true that they were refusing American bank notes. At the Bank of Montreal the receiving teller said that that bank was refusing to take United States bills or silver from any one. The Molsons Bank and the Banque Nationale are charging one per cent. discount. At the Merchants' Bank the reporter was informed that they were still taking American bills, but that the matter of refusing them was under consideration by the authorities."

Cheese Markets.

Brockville, Aug. 20.—1,200 boxes were boarded, of which 400 boxes were white and the balance colored; 8¾c was offered for colored and 8½c for white, but none were sold.

Brighton, Aug. 20.—810 boxes colored were boarded; about 200 boxes sold at 8½c.

Barrie, Aug. 20.—811 boxes of colored were boarded; 183 sold at 8½c, 41 boxes at 8½c and 203 boxes at 8 5-16.

Quick Ocean Travelling.

Mr. C. M. Reid returned home last night from Europe, after two months' absence on a business trip for Messrs. Geo. Ritchie & Co. Mr. Reid came out on the S. S. Majestic and had a remarkably quick passage, the Majestic beating all her previous records by 12 minutes. She made the voyage from Queenstown to New York in 5 days, 17 hours and 56 minutes. The sea was as calm as the Bay of Quinte all the way over.

The Weather.

Finer or more seasonable weather, barring rather too great a degree of cold at night, could scarcely be desired. Last night's minimum was 48; at 8 a.m. 69; and at noon 82.

PROBABILITIES.

Generally fair and comparatively warm; showers in a few places.

School House Burned.

About 3 o'clock Thursday morning the West Ward Academy, at Napanee, was badly gutted by fire. The loss, which is estimated at about $4,000, is fully covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated from the heating of some old rags used in oiling the floors.

ON THE WRONG SIDE.

The Kentucky colonel had just been rescued from a watery grave in the bottom of the Mississippi River.

"Where am I?" he asked feebly, as he opened his eyes.

"Safe on shore," replied one of the rescuers.

"On which side of the river?"

"The Iowa side."

For a moment the news seemed to overcome him, and he turned sorrowfully toward the river.

"Just my luck, to land in a prohibition State," he said with a sigh. "Throw me in again."

Mothers

Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. Read the following letter:

"It is but just to write about my daughter Cora, aged 19. She was completely run down, declining, had that tired feeling, and friends said she would not live over three months. She had a bad and nothing seemed to do her any good. I happened to read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and had her give it a trial. From the very first dose she began to get better. After taking a few bottles she was completely cured and her health has been the best ever since." MRS. ADDIE PECK, 12 Railroad Place, Amsterdam, N. Y.

"I will say that my mother has not stated my case in as strong words as I would have done. Hood's Sarsaparilla has truly cured me and I am now well." CORA PECK, Amsterdam, N. Y.

Be sure to get Hood's, because

TRAP SHOOTING.

THE CORBY PRIZE.

The Class A. trap shooters of the Forest and Stream Club concluded this season's competions for the Corby prize last night. The conditions were favorable and the scores were as follows:

	Singles.	Doubles.	Total
H. Hamilton	1,0,1,0,1,1	00,10 0'	6
M. B Jamieson	0,1,1,1,0,1	11,10,11	9
L. Hamilton	0,0,1,0,0,1	01,0 ,w	3
R. S. Bell	1,1,1,1,1,0	10,1,11	10

H. Hamilton was the winer; L. Hamilton was second; and Bell and Jamieson divided third.

THE BIGGAR PRIZE.

The Biggar prize was next competed for, but nearly approaching darkness reduced the scores of most of the men. This match was open to both classes, the result being made up from an aggregate of four scores, with a handicap added. The handicap was not known, having been prepared by a disinterested party, sealed and placed in the hands of the Secretary and not broken until after the competition. Last night's scores were:

	Single	Doubles.	Ttl.
G. J. Johnston	1,0,1,1,0,0	[illegible],10	4
H. Hamilton	0,0,0,1,1,1	11,11,11	9
M. B. Jamieson	1,0,1,0,0,1	10,10,11	7
L Hamilton	1,1,1,1 0 1	10 11 10	9
R. S. Bell	1,0,1,1,1,0	11,01,00	7

The prize winners, as determined by the handicap, were as follows:

	Scores.	Hdcp.	Total.
1. H. Hamilton	9,9,8 6	10	42
2. R. S. Bell	9,7,7,7	9	39
3. M. B. Jamieson	7,7,6,6	12	38

Geo. J. Johnson, with a handicap of 15, scored 37, and L. Hamilton, whose handicap was 4, also scored 37.

There are two matches yet to be shot for the Porter prize by Class B. men.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Patchen Equals the Record.

At Portland, Maine, on Wednesday, Joe Patchen went against the world's stallion pacing record of 2.03¼, held by John R. Gentry, and made a mile in 2.03¾, and a second mile, half an hour later, in 2.03¼, thus equalling the record.

Bryson in Good Order.

Buffalo, Aug. 20.—Robert J. did the trick to-day with his rival Frank Agan. The first race, the 2.16 trot, brought out only four of the fifteen entries, and of these no one had a chance except Chance himself, who simply walked away from his field and won in straight heats. In this race a large delegation of Canadian visitors watched with much interest the performance of the Caledonia stallion Bryson, who is matched to trot Geneva for $1,000 at Hamilton next week. They timed him separately two heats in a shade over 2.13, and got the impression that Geneva has a hard race before him next week. Bryson is in fine order just now, while Geneva will be trotting his first race of the season.

The feature of the day was of course the free-for-all pace, in which Robert J., Frank Agan and W. W. P. scored for the word. Robert J. drew the pole and went the distance without a skip. Agan held his wheel to the left, lapped him on the three-quarters, and came into the stretch with a good fighting chance, but the little gelding outfooted him from the distance pole and won by a good length in 2.04, the track record. The second heat was a repetition of the first, except that W. W. P. acted badly on the first half and failed to save his distance. In the third heat Robert and Agan got off well together and at the half Agan showed in front, but Robert recovered lost ground before the stretch was reached and beat his opponent home handily.

The third race, the 2.10 class pace, brought out a field of nine, and was not finished. Summaries:

First Race—2.16 class, trotting; purse $2,000—Chance, b.g., by Mohican; H. Y., Haws. Johnson, Pa. (Haws) 1, 1, 1; Rifle, 3, 2, 2; Azmon, 2, 3, 3; Bryson, 4, 4, 4; Time, 2.15, 2.13¼, 2.12½.

Second Race—Free-for-all, pacing; purse $3,000—Robert J., 1, 1, 1; Frank Agan, 2, 2, 2; W. W. P., 3, dis. Time, 2.04, 2.03¼, 2.05½.

2:10 class, pacing; purse $2,000 (unfinished) Sphinxetta, b m., by Sphinx (Spears), 2, 1, 1, 3, 8; Miss Rita, 1, 2, 4, 2, 2; Heir-at-Law, 8, 7, 2, 1, 1; Gazette, 3, 3, 6, 4, 3; Starplex, 4, 8, 3, 5, 7; Gold Band, 6, 5, 8, 8, 4; Fred K., 7, 4, 7, 7, 6; Nettie Jefferson, 5, 6, 5, 6, 5; S. R., dis. Time, 2.08¾, 2.09¾, 2.11¾, 2.09¼, 2.12

NO DRINKERS WANTED.

The Grand Trunk Rigidly Enforcing the Rules.

The Toronto Star says: The new management of the Grand Trunk have made a great many changes, but nothing has attracted more attention than the enforcement of the company's rules with regard to the liquor habit. No man who is intoxicated or whose breath has the least taint or smell of strong drink is allowed to take his position on the train. The rule has almost been a dead letter and unless an employe was palpably incapacitated for work nothing was said.

Less than a week ago a "round a horn" conductor was taken from his train in the yards at Stratford and shipped back to Toronto, where he found his dismissal awaiting him.

The rule may have been a dead letter before the new managment took hold, but it will now be stringently enforced. The enforcement has caused considerable talk, but the same regulations are in use on all the great American roads.

WHY IS IT?

Why is it, when there are any special doings in Belleville, our store is soon recognized by strangers as THE resort of the city?
Where can I get a good lunch?
Who has the best Ice Cream?
Where can I get a cool, refreshing drink?
Who keeps the best Confectionery in Belleville?
These are only some of the questions strangers are sure to ask, and the answer is almost invariably "DICKENS."

MAKE THE BEST OF IT

THIS LIFE A PROBATIONARY GROUND FOR HIGHER TRAINING.

Therefore, Prune and Graft the Tree for the Fruits of the Spirit and Become Immortal Against the Day the Body Falls Where It Must Lie.

Washington, Aug. 16.—Dr. Talmage to-day discusses a question that everybody some time discusses. It is one of tremendous import, Shall we have another chance? The text is Ecclesiastes ii, 3. "If the tree fall toward the south or toward the north, in the place where the tree falleth there it shall be."

There is a hovering hope in the minds of a vast multitude of people that there will be an opportunity in the next world of correcting the mistakes of this, that however complete a shipwreck we may make of our earthly life it will be on a beach upon which we may walk to a palace; that as the defendant may lose his case in a circuit court and appeal it and have it go up to the supreme court of chancery and all the costs thrown over on the other party, so a man may lose his case in this world, but in the highest jurisdiction of eternity have the decision of the earthly case set aside, all the costs remitted and the defendant be triumphant forever.

The object of my sermon is to show you that common sense declares with the text that such an expectation is chimerical. "If the tree fall toward the south or toward the north, in the place where the tree falleth there it shall be." There are those who say that if the impenitent and unforgiven man enters the next world and sees the disaster, as a result of that disaster he will turn, the distress the cause of his reformation, but we have 10,000 instances all around about us of people who have done wrong and disaster suddenly came upon them. Did the disaster heal them? No; they went on.

There is a man flung of dissipations. The doctor says to him, "Now, my friend, if you don't stop drinking and don't stop this fast life you are living you will die." The patient thanks the physician for his warning and gets better. He begins to sit up, begins to walk around the room, begins to go to business, and takes the same round of grogshops where he got his morning dram, and his evening dram, and the drams between. Down again. Same doctor. Same physical anguish. Same medical warning. But now the sickness is more protracted, the liver more obstinate, the stomach more irritable, the digestive organs more rebellious. But still, under medical skill, he gets better, goes forth, commits the same sacrilege against his physical health. Sometimes he wakes up to see what he is doing, and he realizes he is destroying his family, and that his life is a perpetual perjury against his marriage vows, and that that broken hearted woman is so different from the roseate wife he married that her old schoolmates do not recognize her on the street, and that his sons are going out in life under the taunt of a father's drunkenness, and that his daughters are going out in life under the scarification of a disreputable ancestry. His nerves are all a-jangle. From crown of head to sole of foot, he is one aching, rasping, crucifying, damning torture. Where is he?

He is in hell on earth. Does it stop him? Ah, no! After awhile delirium tremens pours out upon his pillow a whole jungle of hissing reptiles. His screams horrify the neighbors as he dashes out of bed crying, "Take these things off me!" He is drinking down the comfort of his family, the education of his children, their prospects for this life and perhaps their prospects for life to come. Pale and convalescent he sits up. Physician says to him: "Now, my good fellow, I am going to have a plain talk with you. If you ever have an attack of this kind again, you will die. I can't save you, and all the doctors in creation can't save you."

The patient gets up, starts out, goes the same road of dissipation and is down again, but this time medicines do not touch his case. Consultations of physicians say there is no hope. Death ends the scene. That process of inebriation and physical suffering and medical warning and dissolution is taking place within a stone's throw of where you sit and in every neighborhood of Christendom. Pain does not reform. Suffering does not cure. What is true in regard to one sin is true in regard to all sins, and yet men are expecting in the next life there will be opportunity for purgatorial regeneration. Take up the printed reports of the prisons of the United Sates and find that the vast majority of the criminals were there before, some for two times, three times, four times, six times; punished again and again, but they go right on. Millions of incidents and instances working the other way, and yet men think that in the next world punishment will work out for them salvable effects. Why, you and I cannot imagine any worse torture from another world than we have seen men in this world, and without any salutary consequence.

Furthermore, the prospect of reformation in another world is more improbable than here. Do you not realize the fact that a man starts in this world with the innocence of infancy? In the other case, starting in the other world, he starts with the accumulated bad habits of a lifetime. Is it not to be expected that you could build a better ship out of new timber than out of an old hulk that has been ground up in the breakers? If starting with comparative innocency the man does not become godly, is it possible that starting with sin a seraph can be evoluted? Is there not more prospect that a sculptor will make a finer statue out of a block of pure white Parian marble than out of a black rock that has been cracked and twisted and split and scarred with the storms of a half century? Could you not write a last will and testament, or write a deed, or write an important document on a pure white sheet of paper easier than you could write it upon a sheet scribbled all over with infamy and blotted and torn from top to bottom? And yet there are those who are so uncommon sensical as to believe that though a man starts in this world with infancy and its innocence and turns out badly, in the next world he can start with a dead failure and turn out well.

"But," say some people, "we ought to have another chance in the next world because our life here is so very brief. We scarcely have room to turn around between the cradle and the grave, the wood of the one almost striking against the marble of the other. We ought to have another chance because of the brevity of this life." My friends, do you know what made the ancient deluge a necessity? It was the longevity of the antediluvians. They were worse in the second century than in the first, and worse when they got 300 years old, and worse at 400, and worse at 500, and worse at 600, and worse at 800, until the world had to be washed and scoured and scrubbed and soaked and sunk and anchored a whole month under water before it was fit for decent people to live in. I have seen many pictures of old Time with his scythe to cut, but I never saw any picture of Time with a chest of medicines to heal. Seneca said that in the first few years of his public life Nero was set up as an example of clemency and kindness, but he got worse and worse, the path descending, until at 68 years of age he was the suicide. If 800 years of lifetime could not cure the antediluvians of their iniquity, I undertake to say, that all the ages of eternity would be only prolongation of depravity.

Again, I wish you further to notice that another chance in another world means the ruin of this. Now, suppose a wicked man is assured that after a lifetime of wickedness he can fix it all right up in the future. That would be the demoralization of society that would be demolition of the human race. There are men who are now kept on the limits of sin by their fear. The fear that if we are bad and unforgiven here it will not be well with us in the next existence is the chief influence that keeps civilization from rushing back into semi-barbarism, and keeps semi-barbarism from rushing back into midnight savagery, and keeps midnight savagery from rushing back into extinction. Now, the man is kept on the limits of sin. But this idea coming into his soul, this idea of another chance, he says, "Go to, now. I'll get out of this all there is in it. Come, gluttony and revenge and uncleanliness and all sensualities, and wait upon me. It may abbreviate my earthly life by dissoluteness, but that will only give me heavenly indulgence on a larger scale in a shorter length of time. I will overtake the righteous before long. I will only come in heaven a little late, and I will be a little more fortunate than those who have behaved themselves on earth and then went straight to the bosom of God, because I will see more and have wider excursion and I will come into heaven via gehenna, via sheol!" Hearers! Readers! Another chance in the next world means free license and the demolition of this. Suppose you had a case in court, and all the judges and all the attorneys agreed in telling you the first trial of it—it would be tried twice—the first trial would not be of very much importance, but the second trial would decide everything. On which trial would you put the most expenditure? On which trial would you employ the ablest counsel? On which trial would you be most anxious to have the attendance of all the witnesses? "Oh," you would say, "if there are to be two trials, and the first trial does not amount to much, the second trial being everything, everything depending upon that, I must have the most eloquent attorney, and I must have all my witnesses present, and I will expend my money on that." If these men who are impenitent and who are wicked felt there were two trials, and the first was of no very great importance, and the second trial was the one of vast and infinite importance, all the prepartions for eternity would be post mortem, post funeral, post sepulchral, and this world would be jerked off into impenitency and godlessness. Another chance in another world means the demolition of this world.

Furthermore, my friends—for I am preaching to myself as well as to you; we are on the same level, and though the platform be a little higher than the pew, it is only for convenience, and that we may the better speak to the people; we are all on the same platform, and I am talking to my soul while I talk to yours—my friends, why another chance in another world when we have declined so many chances in this? Suppose you spread a banquet and you invite a vast number of friends and among others you send an invitation to a man who disregards it or treats it in an obnoxious way. During 20 years you give 20 banquets, a banquet a year, and you invite your friends, and every time you invite this man who disregards your invitation or sends back some indignity. After awhile you move into a larger house and amid more luxuriant surroundings, and you invite your friends, but you do not invite that man to whom 20 times you sent an invitation to the smaller house. Are you to blame? You would only make yourself absurd before God and man to send that man another invitation. For 20 years he has been declining your offers and sending insult for your kindness and courtesy, and can he blame you? Can he come up to your house on the night of the banquet? Looking up and seeing it is a finer house, will he have any right to say; "Let me in. I declined all those other offers, but this is a larger house, a brighter house, a more luxuriant abode. Let me in. Give me another chance?" God has spread a banquet of His grace before us. For 365 days of each year since we knew the difference between our right and our left He has invited us by His providence and by His spirit. Suppose we decline all these offers and all this kindness. Now the banquet is spread in a larger place, in the heavenly palace. Invitations are sent out, but no invitation is sent to us. Why? Because we declined al lthose other banquets. Will God be to blame? Will we have any right to rap on the door of heaven and say, "I ought not to be shut out of this place; give me another chance?" Twelve gates of salvation standing wide for free admission all our life and then when the 12 gates close we rush on the bosses of Jehovah's buckler, saying, "Give me another chance!"

You see common sense agrees with my text in saying that "if the tree fall toward the south or toward the north, in the place where the tree falleth there it shall be." You see this idea lifts this world from an unimportant way station to a platform of stupendous issues and makes all eternity whirl around this hour. Oh, my soul, my soul! Only one trial, and all the preparations for that trial to be made in this world or never made at all. Oh, my soul, my soul! You see this piles up all the emphasis and all the climaxes and all the destinies into this life. No other chance. Oh, how that intensifies the value and the importance of this chance. Alexander and his army used to come around a city, and they would kindle a great light, with the understanding that as long as that light was burning the city might surrender and all would be well, but if they let that light go out then the battering rams would swing against the walls and there would come disaster and demolition. Oh, my friends, all you and I need to do to prepare for eternal safety is just to surrender to the King and Conqueror, Christ. Surrender hearts, surrender life, surrender everything. The great light keeps burning, light kindled by the wood of the cross, light flaming up against the dark night of our sin and sorrow. Oh, let us surrender before the light goes out and with it our last opportunity of making our peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. Oh, my brother, talk about another chance; this is the supernal chance. In the time of Edward II., at the battle of Musselburg, a private soldier saw that the Earl of Huntley had lost his helmet. The private soldier took off his helmet and went up to the Earl of Huntley and put the helmet on his head. Now, the head of the private soldier uncovered, he was soon slain, while his commander rode in safety through and out of the battle. But it is different in our case. Instead of a private offering a helmet to an earl, it is the King of heaven and earth, offering a crown to an unworthy subject, the King dying that we might live! Oh, tell it to the points of the compass, tell it to-day and night, tell it to earth and heaven, tell it to all the centuries and all the millenniums that God has given us such a magnificent chance in this world that we need no other chance in another:

A dream. I am in the burnished judgment hall on the last day. The great white throne is lifted, but the Judge has not yet taken it. While we are waiting for His arrival I hear the immortals in conversation. "What are you waiting for?" says a soul that went up from Madagascar to a soul that went up from America. The latter responds: "I was in America forty years ago, and I heard the gospel preached, and I had plenty of Bibles in the house, and from the time that I knelt at my mother's knee in prayer until my last hour I had great opportunities, but I did not improve them, and I am here to-day waiting for another chance." "Strange, strange," says the soul just come up from Madagascar. "Strange. Why, I never heard the gospel call but once in all my life, and I accepted it, and I don't want another chance." "What are you waiting for?" says one who on earth had very feeble intellect to one who had great brain, and whose voice was silvery, and who had scepters of power. The latter replies: "I had great power on earth, I must admit, and I mastered languages and I mastered libraries, and college conferred upon me learned titles, and my name was a synonym for eloquence and power, but somehow I neglected the matters of my soul, and I must confess to you I am here to-day waiting for another chance."

Now the ground trembles with the advancing chariot. The great folding doors of the burnished hall of judgment are thrown open. "Stand back," cry the ushers, "and let the Judge of quick and dead pass through."

He takes the throne. He looks off upon the throngs of nations come to the last judgment, come to the only judgment, and one flash from the throne reveals it to all the others. And then the Judge says, "Divide!" and the burnished walls echo it, "Divide!" and the guides angelic answer "Divide!" and the immortals are rushing this way and that, until there is an aisle between them, a great aisle, and then a vacuum, widening and widening until the Judge looks to one side of that vacuum, and addresses the throng and says, "Let him that is righteous be righteous still, and let him that is holy be holy still." And then turning to the throng on the other side of the vacuum, he says: "Let him that is unjust be unjust still, and him that is filthy be filthy still." and then He stretches out both hands, one toward the throng on each side the vacuum, and says, "If the tree fall toward the south or toward the north, in the place where the tree falleth there it shall be!" And then I hear something jar with a great sound. It is the closing of the book of judgment. The Judge ascends the stairs behind the throne. The hall of the last assize is cleared and shut. The high court of eternity adjourned forever.

SIR OLIVER'S HOPE

That the Manitoba School Question Will be a Thing of the Past by Next Session.

Ottawa, Aug. 20.—(Special.)—In the Senate this afternoon, after opening ceremonies were concluded, Sir Mackenzie Bowell said, without entering into the merits of the speech from the throne, he was very much gratified to notice a paragraph in the speech indicating that there was a probability of the very vexed question which had agitated the people of the country for the last few years being finally settled. From recent editorial comment in the organs of the Government he had been led to believe some arrangement had been made by which a final settlement had already been reached and the Government might be able to inform the House what that arrangement was. He had no wish to press for an answer at the present moment, but desired to call the attention of the House to the fact that statements had frequently been made by journals supporting the Administration to the effect that the Manitoba school question had been finally settled. He trusted the Government would be prepared when the question came up for discussion to take the country into its confidence and let it be known what the settlement was. No one would rejoice more than he to see this question removed from the political arena to-day.

Sir Oliver Mowat said with regard to the Manitoba school question he was glad that Sir Mackenzie had read with such care what appeared in the Reform press. In this instance he had read them more carefully than he (Sir Oliver) because he did not happen to read what Sir Mackenzie had said had appeared there. The Hon. gentleman was hurrying the matter a little too fast. The Government did not undertake and did not expect to be able to have everything settled this session, but it did hope that before another session the question would be removed out of the way.

Mr. Masson: Then what appeared in the papers that the question had been settled, is not the case?

Sir Oliver Mowat: No, the question is not settled, but we have no doubt it will be finally settled. We are on the way to it and I think if we accomplish that, my hon. friend will consider it good work, although we may not be ready this session to report.

The motion to adjourn until Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock was adopted.

UNCLE SAM DONE UP.

The U.S. Government Suing Sheep Importers From Canada for $100,000 for Alleged Undervaluation.

Buffalo, N.Y., Aug. 20.—The United States Government is trying to collect over $100,000 penal duty from five firms on the Live Stock Exchange. It wants $50,000 from Rice & Whaley, an equal amount from the Matheson Live Stock Commission Company, and from C. Feiffer and Windsor Brothers, Swope, Hughes, Waltz & Benstead, and the Rollinger Live Stock Company sums ranging from $600 to $2000. All the parties are heavy dealers in sheep and import heavily from Canada. The owners of sheep in Canada, before shipping to this country, must file with the nearest United States Consul an invoice, showing the value of the consignment. The Treasury officials claim that if the sheep are sold at a higher figure, additional duty must be paid. The dealers have failed to do this for many years, and for not doing it the Government imposes a penal duty of 20 per cent. This duty has been imposed, and the Treasury Department is now trying to collect the amount. The officials do not claim that there has been an attempt to cheat the Government, but are trying to take advantage of a technicality.

At the opening of the season last year a Treasury Department inspector told the commission men to put in totals in case of an advance, so it is evident that he looked at the matter just as the commission men did. The commission men say that the statements filed by the Canadian owners should not be considered, as frequently the sheep are sold in this country at a lower figure than that given by the owners, and the Government does not return a cent in such cases.

A SERIOUS CASE.

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & CO.

I Used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for my little boy for summer complaint and it cured him. He was so bad that he had convulsions and would strain so that he ruptured himself, but as soon as I got the extract for him he got well.

MRS. ELIZA M. OVERHOLT,
Fonthill, Ont.

Mrs. Sequel—I understand your husband can't meet his creditors. Mrs. Equal—I don't believe he wants to, especially.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

"Jenkins claimed that I insulted him." "Did you give him satisfaction?" "Guess I did. He pounded me until he was tired."

TO BE REMOVED.

All the effete or waste matter of the system is removed by a perfect action of Laxative Liver Pills. Thus they prevent as well as cure Sick headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Jaundice, Dizziness, etc.

"I'm going to swear out a warrant against the weather man." "What for?" "Malicious scorching."

CURES SUMMER COMPLAINT.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for twelve years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer complaints. In our family it has never failed to cure any case. MRS. BENJ. LONGLEY.
Chatham Ont.

Mount Emmons, 13,694 feet, is said to be the highest in Utah.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue."

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels, therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very billous habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height,

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Laugton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian yolcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alta is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency"

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forget this.

Pine Knot is the highest place in Kentucky—1428 feet.

If your children are troubled with worms, give them Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; safe, sure, and effectual. Try it, and mark the improvement in your child.

Mount Whitney is the highest peak in California—14 898 feet.

If you are tired taking the large old fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

Warren is located on the highest land in Illinois—1005 feet.

Those unhappy persons who suffer from nervousness and dyspepsia should use Carter's Little Nerve Pills, which are made expressly for sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic sufferers. Price 25 cents.

Mount Mich, 3500 feet high, is the tallest in South Carolina.

Ill-fitting boots and shoes cause corns. Holloway's Corn Cure is the best article to use. Get a bottle and cure your corns.

One of the largest peaks of the Andes is Sorato—25,380.

Well Satisfied with Ayer's Hair Vigor.

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray. I began using Ayer's Hair Vigor, and was so well satisfied with the results that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It requires only an occasional application of AYER'S Hair Vigor to keep my hair of good color, to remove dandruff, to heal itching humors, and prevent the hair from falling out. I never hesitate to recommend Ayer's medicines to my friends."—Mrs. H. M. HAIGHT, Avoca, Nebr.

SENATE LEADERSHIP.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Asked to Take the Position.

Chinese in British Columbia Ask Li Hung Chang to Appoint a Mongolian Consul in That Province—Chinese Exclusion Asked—A New Dominion Cruiser—Does Mr. Laurier Intend to Hand Canada Bodily Over to Uncle Sam?—Notes from Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Although Sir Mackenzie Bowell is reluctant to assume the Opposition leadership in the Senate, yet the overwhelming consensus of opinion among his friends in the Upper House is so favorable to him that it is expected he will accede to the request. No better tribute to the sterling honesty and admiration he commands could be found than in the fact that Sir Mackenzie is practically the unanimous choice of his colleagues for the leadership of the Opposition in the Senate. A round robin is being circulated asking him to assume the duties.

Mr. Leofred of Montreal had an interview with several members of the Government to-day in reference to the opening of a mining exhibition in Montreal. He has secured the promise of aid from some of the Provincial Governments, and is asking for a contribution from the Federal Government. Mr. Fisher practically admitted that at no distant date the Government would open a mining office in Montreal, and instal therein as chief of this bureau a skilled mining expert from British Columbia.

The trade returns for the month just passed, being the first of the current fiscal year, are encouraging, the exports showing an increase of $415,026. Imports, on the other hand, show an increase of $1,715,782, and the duty collected an increase of $58,216. Coin, presumably American silver, to the value of $831,068, was exported. The total value of the free goods entered last month was $4,895,389. Of this coin and bullion was included, amounting to $1,273,638.

The Chinese residents of British Columbia have placed upon Mr. Parmelee, the controller of Chinese immigration, the duty of presenting to Li Hung Chang when he comes here a petition asking for the stationing of a Chinese Consul in British Columbia. A communication received at the department to-day states that recently the Chinese entertained in Victoria Gen. Won Au Pong, of military rank second degree, and requested that he present to His Excellency, Li Hung Chang, a petition which they had formed. Fearing that he would not be in Ottawa to deliver it in time to the Viceroy, they sent along the document to the department here. It is a very pretty document, done throughout in Chinese characters, and bearing, in addition to the petition itself, a long list of signatures, and for neatness of execution would do credit to any professional penman or artist. They ask in the petition that the Viceroy visit Victoria, B.C., the centre of Chinese population in the Dominion. Li Hung on his arrival here will be duly informed of the desires ow his fellow countrymen on the coast, and the latter will be informed by wire of his decision.

The Bishop of Moosonee James, from the far-away region of James Bay, is a visitor in the capital to-day. His trip to Winnipeg from James Bay took six weeks to come up the Albany River by canoe, reaching Wabigoon on the C.P. Railway. The Indians along the route he found in a fairly good condition. This season's hunting has been up to the average. The assistance that he obtained for the Indians within the bounds of his diocese was of great service. The Bishop is erecting a new mail service from Winnipeg to York Factory, on the shore of Hudson Bay, also another mail service up to Athabasca, Saskatchewan and Mackenzie River region, in the far north. These points are not included in any mail service.

Rev. G. R. Maxwell, M.P. for Burrard, on being interviewed, said that, as to changes in policy, the people of British Columbia wanted a careful revision of the tariff. They do not want anything done hastily, but they want a revision made in the general direction of taking the taxes off necessaries. The other important question there is the exclusion of Chinese. A duty of $500 per head would satisfy the people at present if the total exclusion could not be arrived at. In business matters, the chief interest is gold mining. Parts of the country where it was not thought gold would ever be fonnd now swarm with prospectors, and the people in some quarters are growing quite excited over the chances of lighting on a fortune.

A new cruiser has been added to the Dominion fisheries protection fleet. It is called the Osprey, and makes the ninth of the fleet under command of Commodore Spain. The launching of the craft has just taken place. Mrs. L. H. Davies, wife of the Hon. L. H. Davies, performed the ceremony. The craft is one of the very best in the fleet, and will go right into commission at once.

The new Government dredge, which has been building since last year at Levis, for the Department of Public Works, has been completed, and will go down to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and possibly around to the coast to the Maritime Provinces, without delay, starting this week.

Dr. Peter Bryce, Provincial Health Officer, came to town on Wednesday and went out to Britannia to inspect the place with eespect to water and drainage. This morning he went on a trip to the far end of the Parry Sound line in order to see what facilities there are for a sanitarium.

Hon. Robert Watson, Commissioner of Public Works in the Manitoba Government, had an interview with Messrs. Fielding, Davies, Tarte and Sir Richard Cartwright this forenoon on Western matters. Mr. Watson leaves for Western Ontario tonight.

Sir Charles Tupper, speaking to your correspondent to-night, said he regarded Mr. Laurier's admission this afternoon as of most vital importance. It was evident he was prepared to hand this country over to the United States.

Mr. Haggart will move for a return showing names of all persons dismissed from office, or superannuated since July 11, and names of those appointed to office since that day.

Major Hughes will ask if the Government intends to abandon the Trent Canal works.

Dr. Landerkin has bought a bicycle. He takes his first lesson to-morrow. The members of the Press Gallery Cycling Club are to assist in holding the doctor on his wheel.

Mr. Davin will move that the time has arrived when the Territories should be treated on the same footing as the organized provinces, that an annual subsidy should be voted for carrying on the Government of the Territories, calculated on the same basis as that of Manitoba.

A deputation of Quebec men interested in the proposed dead meat project, which is said to have its headquarters at Quebec, will interview the Government on Monday.

C. W. Gauthier of Windsor is here pressing for extensive fishing privileges from the Detroit River to the Lake of the Woods.

The Rouge members from Quebec are casting around for the purpose of getting rid of some of the French translators of debates. Four are lated for decapitation, Messrs. Venasse, Bernard, Bouchard and McLeod. A son of Dr. Fiset, M.P., and A. Geoffrion, a relative of the Minister without portfolio, are on the list for appointment.

Hon. Dr. Geoffrion was sworn a member of the Privy Council this afternoon. Owing to His Excellency's absence this was not possible before.

Sir C. H. Tupper will ask the Government whether Controllers are members of the Cabinet, and what assurances, if any, were given to them before they took office.

Mr. Geoffrion has called a meeting of the Libral members for Montral District, who are members of the bar, for next Wednesday, to decide questions of legal patronage. Similar meetings of the Liberal members from other sections of the country are to be held. The Government is so pestered with applications from Liberal lawyers that it has adopted this method of getting rid of these importunities.

Blaze at Alexandria.

Alexandria, Aug. 21.—About 3 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the stables belonging to D. & A. McPhee, which spread quite rapidly, destroying them, also those of the St. Lawrence Hotel. The hotel was also gutted and D. & A. McPhee's store, J. McLeister's drug store and the Misses McDonald's millinery store. The greater part of the goods from the several stores were carried out and strewn along the streets and were damaged more or less. The loss is not yet known. It is partially covered by insurance. Cause supposed to be incendiarism.

THE NORTH GREY BATTLE.

Hon. Hugh John Macdonald Says the School Question Is a Dead Issue With the Conservatives.

Owen Sound, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—The meeting addressed to-night by Hon. Hugh John Macdonald and other Conservative speakers was the greatest gathering of the kind since Hugh John's father visited Owen Sound in 1886. If popular enthusiasm may be depended on as a criterion in such cases, the Grits will be disappointed in the vote of Owen Sound next Tuesday and very grievously disappointed, too. Fully as many people were turned away from the Town Tall as obtained entrance. The old building was crowded to the doors, not even standing room being left, and from the opening of the meeting to its close it was one long ovation to representatives of the Conservative cause.

Mr. S. Lloyd, ex-President of the Board of Trade and prospective Mayor, was chairman. In opening the meeting he characterized as a deliberate untruth the report that he and other prominent Conservatives of Owen Sound were giving Mr. Paterson their support.

Mr. McLauchlan, the Conservative candidate, was the first speaker and made the best political address of his life. He met with a great reception. When he stood up the crowd cheered for several moments. He said that if the North Grey election served no other purpose, it had brought about a reunion in the Conservative party and the Laurier Government would have to take notive that they had a solid and determined opposition to deal with.

Mr. Adam Bell, M.P. for Pictou, surprised the audience with his eloquence, and he will no doubt prove one of the strongest acquisitions to the party in the new House. He was glad to be standing for the first time on the same political platform with the son of Sir John Macdonald. The extremes of the east and west were meetoing together in North Grey and they could do so because the peculiar work of the Conservative party was that it had one policy and one hope for every part of the Dominion. He charged the Liberals with having won upon one cry here and another there, but although they had even they did not know at this moment what their policy was. It was the duty of North Grey to speak out so loudly and distinctly that they would be forced to adopt a safe and conservative policy. Mr. Bell did not believe the victory of the Grits was altogether a bad thing, however. It was a blessing in the sense that it would force that party, for the present, at any rate, to abandon the crazy fads they had followed since 1878.

The chairman, in calling on Mr. Macdonald, said he hoped that in the near future he would be the leader of a reunited Conservative party and that he would be able to serve his country with as much honor as his father had done.

Hugh John was presented with a bouquet by little Georgie Creighton, daughter of Mr. George Creighton, president of the Conservative Association, and the audience rose and cheered itself hoarse when the member for Winnipeg kissed the little maiden.

Hugh John made an effective speech. For over an hour he held the attention of the audience, interspersing his more serious utterances with funny stories and flashes of wit, which kept everyone in good humor. After dealing with the local aspects of the campaign, he launched into a discussion of national issues. He predicted that Mr. Laurier's commission on the Manitoba school difficulty would be composed of Sir Henri Joly, who was a declared advocate of Separate schools; Sir Oliver Mowat, who was the champion of the Separate schools system of Ontario, and a third member, not yet known. The first men they would consult on going to Winnipeg, he ventured to say, would be the Archbishop of St. Boniface and Joseph Martin, who had declared the present school act of Manitoba to be rank tyranny. What, then, was to be expected but that in the end the settlement to be effected by Laurier would be more favorable to the Roman Catholics than the late Remedial bill. But, however that might be, the Conservative party, being in opposition, were now rid of this question and would vote according to their individual preferences.

Mr. Macdonald went at great length into a history of the parties and compared their records, much to the disadvantage of the Liberals. He would not say the present Government were disloyal, but they had among their number some very suspicious individuals—Laurier of musket fame, besides Cartwright, Fielding and others—who had never had the earmark of true British subjects. There was no way in which a check could be given so effectively to the dangerous elements of the Liberal party as by redeeming North Grey.

In conclusion, the speaker read the following telegram from the president of the Winnipeg Conservative Association:

"Report about settlement of school question is believed here to be a dodge to help the Government in the North Grey election. The minority have not been consulted at all, and the Provincial Premier knows nothing about the matter."

ARRESTED AT BUFFALO.

Joseph McCleary, a Canadian Lacrosse Man, Alleged to Have Put Up a Bunco Game.

Buffalo, Aug. 21.—Joseph McCleary, at one time a prominent lacrosse player, a Canadian, but lately a resident of this city, and a reputable building contractor, was arraigned in the Police Court this afternoon on a charge of grand larceny. With Archie C. Rollins, a Canadian foot racer, he is accused of putting up a job to bunco Joseph W. Shefter of Washington-street out of $100 in money which had been put up as stakes. The same game is said to have been worked at Niagara Falls and Lockport. The case was adjourned until to-morrow. McCleary was committed to jail for further examination, and Rollins was held as a witness.

TERROR IN MOROCCO.

Discovery of a Plot to Dethrone the Sultan—Four Governors Killed by the Plotters.

London, Aug. 21.—A despatch to The Central News from Tangier says a plot has been discovered at Marrasch aiming at the dethronement of the Sultan of Morocco, Mulai-Abd-El-Azib, in favor of his elder brother, Muley Mahomet. Four provincial governors have been murdered by the plotters. Wholesale arrests have been made in connection with the conspiracy, and a general state of terror prevails among the inhabitants.

IS LI A BOODLER?

Admiral Dunlop, Formerly of the Chinese Service, Says He is a Fair Sample of One.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Admiral Dunlop, formerly of the Chinese service, is here en route for home. He has a very fair opinion of Li Hung Chang and says the ex-Viceroy is a confirmed boodler, having made all of his immense fortune, the largest in China, by means that would be most dishonorable in any other country. The Admiral adds that Li was in semi-disgrace when he left China, and will probably not be restored to favor, as a great many think he has made enough money and should now give others a chance.

Politics and Bullets.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 21.—As a result of a sidewalk discussion on free silver, J. E. Rath, a retired manufacturer, shot at Horace Weyman, an Englishman, three times, one of which shattered the bone of Weyman's right arm. Rath was arrested. Weyman is a cousin of Stanley Weyman, the English novelist.

MR. LAURIER'S SCHEME

He Would Let the Yankees in on Our Fisheries.

He Says the Interview With Him Published in The Chicago Record is Substantially Correct—He Also Proposes Joint Control of the International Canal System in Canadian Territory—Sir Charles Wants the Papers in Connection With the Resignation of the Late Ministry.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—"Substantially correct," was the admission which Mr. Laurier made to-day to Mr. Haggart's inquiry respecting the now famous interview which originally appeared in The Chicago Record and has been published extensively in Canadian newspapers. In the course of this interview Mr. Laurier suggests that, with a view to putting an end to the friction which has existed between the United States and Canada, there should be joint use by the Canadian and American fishermen of the fisheries of both countries. In other words, that as the United States fishermen have depleted their own inshore fisheries they should now be permitted to work havoc with their destructive methods of fishing within the three-mile limit of the Canadian coast. Mr. Laurier also suggests that this should be a joint control of an international canal system in Canadian territory.

Mr. Haggart asked to what extent the newspaper statements were correct.

Mr. Laurier said Mr. Haggart was rather inquisitive. When he asked him to answer whether an interview of two or three columns in length was correct, he, Mr. Laurier, assumed it was substantially correct.

At the opening of the House seven petitions for private bills were presented. The Speaker said with the consent of the House he would recognize the practice that if any question on the order paper was not asked or a motion moved that the order should be considered dropped unless allowed to stand at the request of the Government.

Sir H. G. Joly informed Mr. Wood that it was not the intention of the Government to make any changes this year as to the selection of grain standards which would require any amendment of the Inspection Act. The department was considering several minor features which the Act permits to be dealt with departmentally, but he was unable to state positively that any changes would be made this year.

Sir Henry also informed Mr. Wood that it was not the intention of the Government to adopt the metric system of weights and measures in lieu of the system now in force in Canada. It was practically optional now under the statute.

On a motion to adjourn, Mr. Laurier stated with regard to the correspondence between the late Prime Minister and the Governor-General, which Sir Charles Tupper had asked for yesterday, the Government had the assent of His Excellency that the correspondence should be brought down as soon as the address was passed.

Sir Charles Tupper said it was very desirable to have this correspondence previous to the passage of the address. There was no reason why it should be withheld. As it involved a great constitutional question it was very desirable that the House should have an opportunity of discussing that matter in connection with the passing of the address. It was usual for Ministerial explanations either from those who had formed the new Ministry or those who had held portfolios in the retiring Ministry to be submitted to Parliament at the very earliest possible moment. The House and the country were entitled to know as early as possible the circumstances attending the resignation of one Government and the formation of another. He hoped therefore the First Minister would reconsider that matter and, having obtained the assent of the Governor-General to bring down the correspondence, he should not delay its presentation to Parliament.

Mr. Laurier said he had serious doubts as to the constitutionality of the contention that this correspondence should be brought down and form part of the debate on the address. If this matter was going to be discussed it should be debated as a question of propriety by itself and not mixed up with the address. As for any Ministerial explanations regarding the Cabinet changes, he was not aware that any were necessary, when a new Government was formed consequent upon the result of an appeal to the people. He thought the better plan would be to discuss the address, simply the questions arising out of the speech from the throne. When the papers were laid before the House and they involved any controversial matter an opportunity would be given to discuss them.

Sir Charles Tupper stated that the correspondence affected the very point at issue. The resignation of the late Government had a most important bearing on the situation, and he hoped the First Minister would give his most careful consideration and see his way clear to bring the papers down with as little delay as possible.

Mr. Laurier informed the leader of the Opposition that the statement of the Governor-General's warrants would be presented to the House on Monday.

Replying to Col. Tisdale, Dr. Borden said the last report of the commandant of the Royal Military College would be presented to Parliament.

The House adjourned at 3.40.

MARTIN'S FRIENDS ALARMED

Because of the Rumors Flying About to the Effect That Sifton Will Get That Portfolio.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Friends of Joseph Martin are becoming alarmed at the reports from the east regarding the selection of Mr. Sifton as Minister of the Interior. They declare the portfolio has been promised to Mr. Martin by Premier Laurier and that there will be treachery if he does not get it.

The Free Press has an editorial on the alleged school question settlement, in which it says: "The public is not prepared to excite itself over a mere announcement that the local and Dominion leaders are agreed what shall be done. Nothing short of the actual details of any arrangement will cut any figure in the minds of the people here. The fact that a settlement will be arrived at was a foregone conclusion, no matter which party ruled at Ottawa. The nature of the settlement will interest Manttobans, because they are the people who will be affected by it. As to how the announcement just made will affect the election in North Grey they care very little, in common with the rest of Canada. The people here will look with satisfaction at the final removal of the question from the party arena."

Sifton Goes to Winnipeg.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Messrs. Sifton, Watson and Cameron, members of the Manitoba Government, had an interview with Messrs. Cartwright, Davies and Tarte this morning, when the Manitoba school question was discussed once more. Mr. Sifton left for Winnipeg on the afternoon train to communicate with his colleagues the result of his mission to Ottawa.

MR. BALFOUR'S FUNERAL.

There Was a Large Turnout of Leading Citizens, Notwithstanding the Early Hour.

Toronto, Aug. 22.

At 7.30 yesterday morning the remains of the late Hon. W. D. Balfour were removed from Toronto for burial. An hour earlier the funeral service of the Presbyterian Church was said over the body in the reception room at the Parliament buildings by Rev. Ross G. Murison of Toronto University and Rev. J. Wilson of Niagara Falls South. Despite the early hour a number of friends of deceased were present to pay their last respects to the dead. Among these were: Hon. J. M. Gibson, Commissioner of Crown Lands, representing the Government; W. A. Charlton, M.L.A., of South Norfolk; G. F. Marter, M.L.A., North Toronto; D. M. Macpherson, M.L.A., Glengarry; and J. W. St. John, M.L.A., West York, representing the Local Legislature; Mr. Arthur Kirkpatrick, representing the Lieutenant-Governor, who is in Montreal; Controller Lamb and Controller McMurrich, representing the Mayor and Corporation; Captain McMaster, Reeve Hill, Hugh Miller, J. A. Proctor, Peter Ryan, Rev. Dr. Barrass, Joseph Tait, Warden Gilmour, Dr. McPhedran, William Houston, Thomas Caswell, William Edwards, J. E. Edwards, G. E. Lumsden, J. I. McIntosh, Dr. T. F. Chamberlain, R. Christie, James Noxon, L. V. Percival, Henry Totten.

Owing to indisposition Premier Hardy was unable to be present.

At the conclusion of the brief service the casket was closed and removed to the Union Station, where it was entrained for Windsor.

The pall-bearers were Hon. J. M. Gibson, Col. Clarke, Clerk of the House; W. A. Charlton, M.L.A., Dr. Gilmour, Joseph Tait, ex-M.L.A., and Sergeant-at-Arms Glackmeyer.

The following gentlemen, besides the father, mother, wife, son and three sisters of deceased, accompanied the body on its last journey: Hon. J. M. Gibson, Col. Clarke, W. A. Charlton, W. McGregor, M. K. Cowan, D. M. McPherson, Sergt. Glackmeyer, J. I. McIntosh, the deceased Minister's private secretary.

Arrival at Windsor.

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 21.—The body of the late Hon. W. D. Balfour arrived here at 2 o'clock p.m. from Toronto. It was taken to Amherstburg at 4 o'clock this afternoon by the steamer Imperial. A large number of representative citizens of the county were present on the arrival of the train, among whom were Wm. McGregor, M.P., M. K. Cowan, ex-M.P., and Wm. J. McKee, M.L.A., H. W. Allen, ex-M.P., Reeve Cole, Judge Horne and Police Magistrate Bartlett.

People Wept at Amherstburg.

Amherstburg, Aug. 21.—The remains of Hon. W. D. Balfour arrived here about 5.30 p.m., in the steamer Imperial, from Windsor. Besides the funeral party which left Toronto, there were about 200 friends from Windsor. The remains were followed to the Hon. gentleman's late residence by a very large number of friends. Hundreds wept in the street as the remains passed, as he was loved by his friends and admired by his political enemies, while all feel the loss the west has sustained by his demise. Hundreds from town and country are taking a last look at him to-night.

ATTRACTIVE FIGURES come with good health. It is easily seen when a woman has perfect health, her face and figure show it. The painful disorders and diseases that afflict womankind make themselves seen as well as felt. Dull eyes, blotched or sallow face, and a wasted form, follow them. This is the time to turn to the right remedy. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription builds up and strengthens the system, and regulates and promotes every proper function. It's a quieting, soothing nervine. It corrects and cures, safely and surely, all those delicate derangements, weaknesses, irregularities and diseases peculiar to the sex.

For young girls just entering womanhood; woman at the critical "change of life"; and every woman who is "run-down" or overworked, it's something to remember that there's a medicine that will help you.

"FEMALE WEAKNESS."

MRS. BYRON DANARD, of Milford, Prince Edward Co., Ont., Canada, writes: "A few years ago my health failed. I was troubled with female disease in its worst form, having been afflicted about fifteen years. I was also troubled with constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness and ringing in my head, nervous prostration, hysteria, loss of memory, palpitation of the heart, together with 'that tired feeling' all the time. I consulted several physicians—no one could clearly diagnose my case and their medicines failed to give relief. After much persuasion I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—have taken five bottles and am a well woman doing my housework; from a run-down condition I have been restored to health. I feel it my duty to recommend your 'Favorite Prescription' for ladies afflicted with female diseases as I have been."

THE GAME LAW.

For the information of our readers we make the following extracts from the act recently passed in the Ontario Government for the better protection of deer. We advise hunters and others to cut them out and preserve them for reference. Here are the clauses:

1. No person shall at any time hunt, pursue, kill, wound or capture any deer in the water of any river or lake within the limits of Ontario, or immediately after leaving such waters, and any person carrying a rifle, carbine or shot gun, and stationed in a canoe, skiff, punt or boat of any kind, at or near the place where hunted deer are likely to enter the water during the open season, shall prima facie be deemed to be engaged in hunting or pursuing deer within the meaning of this section.

2—(1) No person who is not a resident of and domiciled in the province of Ontario shall hunt, take, kill, wound or destroy any deer without first having obtained a license in that behalf under the provisions hereinafter set forth.

(3) Every such license shall be signed by the chief fish and game warden and countersigned by the provincial secretary or his deputy, and shall be in force for one season only, and the fee for such license shall be two dollars.

(3) There shall be attached to each license two shipping coupons, one of which shall be signed and detached by the person to whom the license is issued in the presence of the shipping agent at the point of shipment and attached to each deer or part of a deer about to be shipped, and such coupon shall be cancelled by the carrier on arrival at the point of destination by writing across the face thereof "cancelled."

(4) Sub-section 5 of section 2 of the Ontario Game Protection Act, 1893, is hereby repealed and the following substituted therefor:

"(5) No common carrier or other person "shall transport or have in possession for "that purpose in this province, after the "same has been killed any wild deer, or "the skin thereof, or any venison, save "only from the first day of November to "the twenty-second day of November in each year, unless accompanied by an affidavit that the "same was hunted and taken during the "open season, and unless there be attached "thereto one of the shipping coupons belonging to the license authorizing the "shipper to hunt or kill deer as provided "by this act."

(5.) The said license to hunt deer and the shipping coupons thereto attached may be in the form set forth in the schedule to this act, and shall be printed upon strong manilla paper, and shall be issued by the chief game warden and the warden upon application therefor.

(6.) Every person engaged in the hunting or killing of deer shall on request by any person whomsoever, at all reasonable times and as often as reasonably requested, produce and show such license to the person making the request, and if he shall fail or refuse to do so he shall forfeit any such license he may possess, and shall, if found hunting, taking, pursuing, killing, wounding or destroying any deer animal, and on proof of such request and failure or refusal, be deemed to have violated the provisions of this section.

(7.) Any person offending against any of the provisions of this act shall be liable for each offence to a fine not exceeding $50 nor less than $20, together with the costs of prosecution, and in default of immediate payment of such fine and costs shall be imprisoned in the common gaol of the county where such conviction shall take place for a period not exceeding three months.

The season for ducks commences on the 1st of September.

For partridge, snipe, woodcock, plover, squirrels, etc., September 15th.

For deer, from November 1st to 15th.

Be Sure You are Right.

and then go ahead. If your blood is impure, your appetite failing your nerves weak, you may be sure that Hood's Sarsaparilla is what you need. Then take no substitute. Insist upon Hood's and only Hood's. This is the medicine which has the largest sales in the world. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the One True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills are prompt, efficient, always reliable, easy to take, easy to operate.

ACCOUNTED FOR.

"How her face lights up!" exclaimed Mr. Hiland, who was talking of Miss Bellefield to Miss Homewood.

"It does, indeed," replied the latter young lady.

Mr. Hiland knew that the two girls were rivals, and so he wondered at such disinterested commendation, until Miss Homewood added:

"Yes, her face certainly does light up wonderfully. I suppose that it is the effect of her lantern jaws."

Quick and Magical Results When Lactated Food is Used.

The best Canadian physicians daily prescribe and recommend health-giving Lactated Food.

In the hot summer weather, every baby should be fed on this satisfying and nourishing food. It is a shield and defence against all the fatal summer ills that send so many little ones to the grave.

Lactated Food gives sweet sleep and rest to the cross and feverish baby. After a few weeks' use of this wonderful food you see magnificent results—plump limbs, chubby faces, firm flesh, hard muscles and rosy complexion.

Dear mother, if your little one is weak, frail and half dead this summer, just try a tin of Lactated Food, and you will soon note a happy change.

A Fibre Chamois Ad.

Men, as a rule, care more for comfort than for style, still no man is averse to a neat well-hanging coat, that keeps its shape through all kinds of knocking around. This is one of the extras that Fibre Chamois furnishes when used as the interlining in men's clothing. It not only makes garments thoroughly weather proof, providing a healthful warmth which can't be penetrated by the severest wind or cold; but its flexible spring and stiffness make the coat or vest fit well and keep its proper hang till worn completely out. And the beauty is that it is so light you wouldn't know you were carrying anything extra around, and so cheap that it is in every one's reach.

The Love of God.

Searching for strawberries ready to eat,
Finding them crimson, large and sweet,
What do you think I found at my feet,
Deep in the green hillside?

Four brown sparrows, the cunning things,
Feathered on breast and back and wings,
Proud of the dignity plumage brings,
Opening their four mouths wide.

Stooping lower to scan my prize,
Watching their motions with curious eyes,
Dropping my berries in glad surprise,
A plaintive sound I heard.

And looking up at the mournful call,
I spied on a branch near the old stone wall,
Tumbling and twittering, ready to fall,
The poor little mother bird.

With grief and terror her heart was wrung,
And while to slender bough she clung,
She felt that the lives of her birdlings hung
On a more slender thread.

Ah! birdie, I said, if you only knew,
My heart was tender and warm and true!
But the thought that I loved her birdling too,
Never entered her small brown head.

And so through this world of ours we go,
Bearing our burdens of needless woe,
Many a heart beating heavy and slow,
Under its load and care.

And oh, alas! if we only knew
That God is tender and warm and true,
And that He loves us through and through,
Our hearts would be lighter than air.

The Dark Night!

If You Would Avoid Its Terrors and Sufferings

Be Wise and Use Paine's Celery Compound.

The dark night of sorrow, suffering and terror has come to many a man and woman in our midst, and hope has almost fled from the troubled and anxious heart.

The shadows and small clouds, or, in other words, the symptoms of disease that were noticed and felt some time ago, were disregarded, and the sufferers now find themselves completely overwhelmed, and are calling for succor and release.

To the disease-burdened we would say, despair not. You may renew life and establish a condition of health that will cause your friends amazement and wonder. Paine's Celery Compound will do the good work for you. It restores lost vigor and vitality, gives new, fresh blood, braces up the nerves, and builds up flesh and muscle.

Paine's Celery Compound—the century's wonder—is no new and untried remedy. It has been tried and tested for years, and has proved triumphant in the most obstinate cases. It has saved life after all other medicines failed, and has the approval of the best medical men on this continent.

It the shadows of disease are hovering over you, if you are not as bright, energetic and strong as you were some weeks ago, a few doses of Paine's Celery Compound will tone up your whole system, cleanse the blood, correct indigestion, sharpen the appetite, and give you a vim and vigor that you will thoroughly appreciate.

By all means give Paine's Celery Compound a fair and honest trial at this season, and you will be compelled to sing its praises as thousands of others have done. Get the genuine "Paine's," as there are vile imitations.

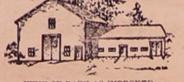
A "MIXED FARMING" BARN.

How to Increase the Capacity of a Barn For Dairy Purposes.

The barns on many farms heretofore devoted to "mixed farming" have but limited accommodations for cows. When starting to work up a dairy, as many farmers are now doing, more barn room becomes a necessity. It is the purpose of this article to show how the ordinary barn may have its capacity greatly increased for dairy purposes—and that, too, at a very small expense.

With the addition of a silo, which the dairyman must of necessity have, it is not necessary to increase the storage capacity of the barn, but simply the cow quarters. The silo is put in the middle of the long hay-bay that usually runs the length of one side of the barn, while the addition is made at right angles to the feeding floor, the original cattle quarters and the side of the barn, in the form of an "ell."

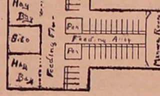


VIEW OF BARN AS IMPROVED.

The new arrangement is shown very clearly in the diagram of the interior which is given.

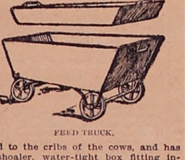
Two calf pens are conveniently located in the angles formed by the two lines of cattle stalls. More room can be made for calves, if needed, in the manure room that is located at the outer end of the addition. Into this is wheeled each day the manure from the two lines of cows, when it is covered with litter and kept solidly tramped by hogs or young stock running upon it. Large doors at one side permit a cart to be backed into this manure room to be loaded.

Yards can be made on both sides of this addition, thus keeping the cows in smaller herds when turned out. The addition may be made high enough, if desired, to afford a chamber for storage purpose, or for a tool room and workshop. It is desirable to have cattle quarters warm when one lives in northern latitudes. I should, therefore, advise sheathing up on the inside of the studding, using the ordinary boarding and building paper on the outside of the studding. The making of such a dead-air space will greatly assist in keeping the interior warm, while the smooth sheathing will do away with many nooks and corners where dust and filth may collect.



INTERIOR IMPROVED BARN.

For economy in feeding with such an arrangement of the stock, it will be wise to have a feed car or truck to run along the feeding floor and through the feeding alley. A design is given herewith. This is arranged to hold a goodly quantity of ensilage to be carried to the cribs of the cows, and has a shoaler, water-tight box fitting inside the top, which can be put in place when the less bulky grain ration is to be fed. A handy car can also be constructed for wheeling out the manure to the manure room, making it of a form to be easily dumped, though a wheelbarrow will answer the purpose very well.—Country Gentleman.



FEED TRUCK.

Feeding Corn and Beets.

An extensive cattle feeder of Nebraska, who feeds 1900 acres of corn of his own raising and 100 tons of beets a year, has kept careful accounts of his operations for the last ten years. From that record the following facts are given:

For the first nine years the cost per head ranged from $14 to $32.39, but in 1893 he began feeding beets and corn, which had been cut and cured in the shock and then run through a shredding machine, ear, stalk and blade, all of which is by the machine reduced to the condition of coarse hay. The cost of harvesting, shocking, shredding and feeding is three cents per bushel of grain and $1.87 per ton of fodder.

The 1900 acres averaged 40 1-2 bushels of corn and a ton and a half of fodder per acre. The beets (sugar beets) yielded 30 to 50 tons per acre, counting tops and all, and were fed whole. Both cattle and hogs are fond of them, and it was found that after cutting them the first few days cattle learned to bite them off as a boy bites an apple. Since adopting this ration the cost of fattening cattle has never exceeded $10 per head. No cholera has ever occurred among hogs following the cattle while feeding beets. It is estimated that beet tops from beets used in sugar making are worth on an average $3 per acre for cattle food.—Wisconsin Agriculturist.

Drawing the Last Drop.

The Massachusetts Board of Health reports that one-third of the milk first drawn from a Jersey cow contained 86.66 per cent. of water and 3.88 of fat. The "middle third" contained 84.60 per cent. water and 6.74 fat; while the "strippings" contained 82.87 per cent. water and 8.12 per cent. of fat. This shows how necessary it is to draw the last particle of milk.

A Good Idea.

If there is no shade in the pasture and the field is next to the woods, fence in an acre or two of the wood lot for a cow shade; it will pay.

A GOOD SAMARITAN.

HAVING FOUND HEALTH HE POINTS THE WAY TO OTHERS.

HIS ADVICE WAS ACTED UPON BY MR. MILES PETTIT, OF WELLINGTON, WHO, AS A RESULT, NOW REJOICES IN RENEWED HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

(From the Picton Times.)

Mr. Miles Pettit, of Wellington, was a recent caller at the Times office. He is an old subscriber to the paper, and has for years been one of the most respectible business men of Wellington. He is also possessed of considerable inventive genius, and is the holder of several patents of his own inventions. The Times was aware of Mr. Pettit's serious and long continued illness, and was delighted to see that he had been restored to health. In answer to enquiries as to how this had been brought about, Mr. Pettit promptly and emphatically replied "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did it." Being further interrogated as to whether he was willing that the facts should be made public, he cheerfully consented to give a statement for that purpose, which in substance is as follows:—He was first attacked in the fall of 1892, after assisting in digging a cellar. The first symptom was lameness in the right hip, which continued for nearly two years.

It then gradually extended to the other leg and to both feet. The sensations were a numbness and pricking, which continued to get worse and worse, until he practically lost control of his feet. He could walk but a short distance before he would give out, and he would be obliged to rest. He felt that if he could walk forty rods without resting he was accomplishing a great deal. He had the best of medical attendance and tried many medicines without any beneficial results. He remained in this condition for about two years, when he unexpectedly got relief. One day he was in Picton and was returning to Wellington by train. Mr. John Soby, of Picton, was also a passenger on the train. Mr. Soby, it will be remembered, was one of the many who had found benefit from Pink Pills, and had given a testimonial that was published extensively. Having been benefitted by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills he has ever since been a staunch friend of the medicine, and noticing Mr. Pettit's condition made enquiries as to who he was. Having been informed, Mr. Soby tapped him on the shoulder and said, "Friend, you look a sick man." Mr. Pettit described his case, and Mr. Soby replied, "Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I know from experience what virtue there is in them and I am satisfied they will cure you." Mr. Pettit had tried so many things and failed to get relief that he was skeptical, but the advice was so disinterested, and given so earnestly that he concluded to give Pink Pills a trial. The rest is shortly summed up. He bought the Pink Pills, used them according to the directions which accompany each box, and was cured. His cure he believes to be permanent, for it is now fully a year since he discontinued the use of the pills. Mr. Pettit says he believes he would have become utterly helpless had it not been for this wonderful, health restoring medicine.

The experience of years has proved that there is absolutely no disease due to a vitiated condition of the blood or shattered nerves, that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will not promptly cure, and those who are suffering from such troubles would avoid much misery and save money by promptly resorting to this treatment. Get the genuine Pink Pills every time and do not be persuaded to take an imitation or some other remedy from a dealer, which, for the sake of extra profit to himself, he may say is "just as good." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood, and cure when other medicines fail.

The Prune Cure.

The "Keeley Cure" has no doubt done wonders in reforming men addicted to the drink habit, and cannot be too highly recommended to our esteemed contemporaries throughout the country. But the "cure" that is adapted to all classes, ages, sexes, and conditions is evidently the "prune cure," if we may rely upon the following statement lately made by a well-known physician of Chicago. Hear him:

"I have made the prune a subject of special study, and have conducted a series of experiments with a view to proving its efficacy as a preventive of crime. I was once connected with a large reformatory institution. It was there that I first saw the possibilities in the prune. Vicious youths would come under my care who would rebel against every restraint and resist every influence intended for their good. If they persisted in their defiance of the rules I would prescribe prunes as a diet. Well, one week's treatment invariably brought them around peaceable as lambs. After that there was no trouble in controlling them. All that was necessary was to feed them once a day on prunes, and we had no exhibition of unruliness. There is a certain medicinal property in the prune which acts directly upon the nervous system, and that is where the evil passions have their seat. I believe that if the prune were made a compulsory portion of the diet of the lower classes, there would be less crime. Some day I shall publish a treatise embodying my views on the subject, which will earn the everlasting thanks of the public."—Correspondent California Fruit Grower.

MARK THE DIFFERENCE

Between Diamond Dyes and Imitations.

To the thrifty and economical housewife Diamond Dyes offer advantages and results that no other dyes can guarantee.

The Diamond Dyes that all chemical experts pronounce to be purest and best, possess more than double the dyeing strength of all other dyes. The colors are made to endure in spite of soap, rain or sun.

Diamond Dye colors are brilliant and bright; imitation dyes give dull and blotched colors. Diamond Dyes are prepared scientifically; imitation dyes are prepared and mixed without regard to the user's interests; the fact is, they are made to deceive and swindle the unsuspecting.

If you would dye well, easily and successfully, you must use the "Diamond." Tell your dealer plainly that you have no use for miserable imitation dyes.

"Allow me to hand you my bill," said Dr. Perkins Soonover to Mr. Slowpay, who, after glancing at it, exclaimed:

Now that the fly season is here the following plan of ridding the kitchen and dining room of the pests is said to be a very good one. Take a small stove shovel, heat it red hot and pour on it a few drops of carbolic acid, having previously closed the doors and windows. In a few minutes open the room and the flies will be found to have entirely disappeared. Only a faint odor of the fumes of carbolic acid will remain.

KILLED BY A TROLLEY CAR.

MRS. ELIZA LOCKERTY'S LIFE CRUSHED OUT BY THE CRUEL WHEELS.

Her Body Was Dragged for Some Distance—She Stepped in Front of a Slowly Moving Car—The Motorman's Story—A Badly Frightened Crew—What an Eyewitness Saw—An Inquest Held.

The first fatality that has occurred on the Belleville Traction Company's line took place last night shortly before ten o'clock in front of Mr. John G. Frost's furniture warerooms, and the details of the horrible affair are most revolting. The victim of the accident was Mrs. Eliza Lockerty, who has been accustomed to see the cars pass her door every day since they began running.

It appears car No. 8 reached the switch at the upper bridge on its last trip about a quarter to ten o'clock. As was his custom Wm. Tuttle, the caretaker of the cars, got on to run the car down to the offices with the crew and take it back to the switch. On the car were George Shorey, motorman, and John Austin, conductor. Tuttle gives the following particulars of how the accident occurred:

The car was running about three or four miles an hour when they passed the Curry House and as they rounded the curve Tuttle, who was handling the motor, saw a woman standing on the crossing just north of Frost's furniture warerooms. He thought she wanted to get on the car and he threw the current off the motor, sounded the gong and prepared to apply the brakes. When the car was within a short distance of the crossing the woman seemed to become confused and stepped immediately in front of it. Before Tuttle could apply the brakes the car hit the woman and knocked her flat on the track. Tuttle stopped the car in about three lengths and the conductor got out to see what was wrong, as he had felt the jar in the back of the car. When he looked on the track behind the car he was horrified to find the mangled remains of a woman lying on the rail. A crowd soon gathered and some persons who had seen the accident identified the remains as those of Mrs. Lockerty, who lives over her tobacco store, opposite where the accident occurred.

Coroner Dr. Tracy was telephoned for, but he was not at home and two other doctors were sent for but did not come. It was about twenty minutes after the accident that Dr. Tracy arrived and ordered the remains to be removed to Frost's undertaking rooms.

When the body was examined it presented a most revolting appearance. Both trucks of the car had passed over the unfortunate woman's head diagonally, crushing and mangling it horribly, and scattering the brains for some distance. The body was otherwise cut and bruised.

One of the woman's slippers was found at the crossing, and the pail which she was carrying was some thirty or forty feet down the track.

Tuttle was placed under arrest and taken to the police station, but was released soon after. He felt very much broken up over the sad affair, and Shorey and Austin, the two other occupants of the car, were two badly frightened men.

William Tuttle, who was running the car, is a man who never tastes liquor and Mr. Lazier says he is one of the most careful men in his employ. He sprained his ankle in a baseball game with Trenton recently and had only just got back to work a few days when the accident occurred.

Mr. T. C. Lazier was seen shortly after and he deeply deplored the fatality. He said it was the first severe accident that had occurred on the road since they began running a year ago. He said their escape from accidents was due to the stringent rules laid down by the company and the careful manner in which they had been followed out.

The deceased Mrs. Lockerty was about 60 years of age. Her maiden name was Eliza Tierney and she was a native of Syracuse, where she married the late Thomas Lockerty, and they removed to this city about forty years ago. She has resided her ever since. Her husband died about nine years ago. She leaves two daughters to mourn her loss, Annie and Mary.

Several parties who saw the car before it reached the crossing agree that it was running at a moderate rate of speed and appeared to be fully under control.

Coroner Dr. Tracy empannelled the following jury at Frost's undertaking rooms this morning: W. Smeaton, W. Phillips, D. T. Rutledge, E. Ling, L. Adams, W. Sykes, J. Barrett, E. Keat, L. Venn, S. Barnes, Jas. Wallace, W. Chrysler, Robt. Duffin and Geo. R. Brown. The jury selected Mr. Jas. Wallace as foreman, after which they viewed the remains and were sworn in. The inquest was adjourned till 7:30 this evening at the City Hall. Sergt. Downs, who was first on the scene of the accident, acted as Coroner's constable.

The funeral was held at four o'clock this afternoon from Frost's undertaking rooms. Rev. Canon Burke conducted the ceremony.

Mrs. Thompson's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Mrs. (Rev.) T. J. Thompson took place at Kingston yesterday afternoon. The following members of the congregation attended the obsequies: Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Northrup, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lingham, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smeaton, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Fax, Mr. and Mrs. A. McGinnis, Mrs. John McKeown, Miss Ritchie, Miss Annie McKay, R. Tannahill, U. E. Thompson, R. Templeton, Thos. Givens, Wm. Sutherland, John Brasier, A. Brignall, D. McLean, Chas. Green, J. S. McKeown, Jas. Fleming, D. B. Robertson, Rev. Mr. Sharp, W. S. Cook, D. V. Sinclair.

The party are much indebted to Mr. Donald Gunn, agent of the G. T. R. here, for the accommodation furnished by him at a moment's notice, in the shape of a special. Mr. Gunn, with his usual thoughtfulness, placed a special car at the disposal of the party. He also took the precaution of having it sent directly into Kingston, thus saving the necessity for transferring at the junction.

Failure and Success.

It is often all the little things that constitute the wide difference between success and failure. Some men, earnest in purpose, capable in many ways, seem unable to discern the import of minor, nevertheless important elements, and neglect in consequence to grasp the opportunities that if accepted would carry them on to victory. In the same way people are imposed upon by mercenary druggists, who, to gain an additional profit, practice the dishonest method of substitution. Calling for Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, they accept some worthless flesh-eating substitute, only to be disappointed or suffer injury. Putnam's Corn Cure is the only reliable one.

Cereal is the hot food drink, made from grains. It takes the place of coffee, and is less than half the price. Grocers sell it.

THE CATTLE STEALING CASE.

More Corroborative Evidence Presented by the Crown—Evidence for the Defence—Reid Discharged.

FRIDAY, Aug. 21.

Mr. Trimble was cross-examined by Mr. Anderson after dinner. He said Ernestown township was four or five miles from Napanee. There was no other shipment of cattle from Napanee on July 18th that witness was aware of. First saw Mr. Reid on that day about 8:30 in the morning. He expected him down and was looking for him. The cattle he bought from the stranger at Napanee station yard were either mulleys or dehorned. At a previous examination witness had said the man from whom he bought the cattle stayed with him, but he did not remember it at the cross-examination. Witness got badly mixed in his answers to questions concerning the description of the man from whom he bought the fourteen head of cattle.

Mrs. Eliza Reid was the next witness. She was the mother of Wesley Reid. Wesley was home to tea on July 17th between 5:30 and 6 o'clock. He went out after tea and came in about 11:20 o'clock. He requested to be called for the train next morning. He was in bed about two o'clock in the morning. He was also there at 5 o'clock. He could not go out without her seeing him. She was awake and was reading till about two o'clock in the morning.

Cross-examined, witness said she heard no unusual noises that night. Could not remember what hour Wesley had his supper on other nights that week. The boarder told her what time it was when Wesley came in on Friday night. He left on the train next morning.

John Miller was next called. He had supplied Reid with money on several occasions during the past three years. He placed $600 at Reid's credit in Napanee on July 13th. He got $300 of the money back on Saturday, July 18th.

John Graves, of Milltown, saw Reid at Dr. Whiteman's and other places in Shannonville on the evening of July 17th. He walked home with Reid about 11 o'clock and they talked about twenty minutes before he went into the house. Reid was not out of his sight for more than twenty minutes at a time during the evening. Cross-examination brought out nothing new.

Wesley Reid, one of the prisoners, was next called. Shipped cattle, hogs, etc., from Picton, Deseronto, and other places for eleven years past. Met Wm. Driver about 10 o'clock on July 17th at Shannonville. He wanted witness to buy some cattle on the marsh. He went to look at them and offered him $30 for two, but he wanted $32.50 and he left him. He engaged George Young to drive some cattle from the marsh to Napanee. He went to the marsh about five o'clock in the afternoon and met John, George and William Young there. He could not pick out Driver's cattle, so he told the Youngs he would not take any. He left east for home and arrived there about 5:30. John and George Young left towards Shannonville and Will Young was standing there when they left. He (witness) was in Shannonville that evening. He saw George Young and gave him 50 cents he owed him. He reached home about 11:30 and went to bed. Witness explained the plan of his house. He was not out again till after five o'clock the next morning. He went to Napanee on the train on Saturday morning. Saw a number of cattle in the yard at the station. Met Trimble about 8:30 and afterwards drew $600 from the bank and gave Trimble $500. Did not see George Young in Napanee. Afterwards came to Belleville to the circus. Went to Napanee again in the evening and went from thence to Montreal with a car of cattle. Did not know where the fourteen head of cattle Trimble bought came from. He did not steal the cattle, or know who took the cattle from the marsh.

Cross-examined, witness said he intended to take two cattle, bought from Driver, from the marsh. Sent a message to Trimble on Friday evening to get ready to ship next day. Did not tell George Young on the marsh that some of the cattle were no use. Did not know McDavid's cattle. Saw George Young in Shannonville that evening about seven o'clock. Had never seen the man Haycock, from whom Trimble bought the cattle. Had made no inquiries as to who Haycock was.

George Young, another of the prisoners, was next called. Met Wesley Reid on July 17th about 11 o'clock at Doreen's hotel in Shannonville. After Reid came back from the marsh he (Reid) asked witness to drive some cattle to Napanee. They met in the marsh after five o'clock that afternoon. Witness' father and William Young were with him (witness). William Young came of his own accord. Witness saw William Young at Isaac Smart's in the afternoon about 2:30. He told Will he could make a "spec" driving cattle for Reid. Will accompanied him to Shannonville, where they met witness' father, and the three went to the marsh. Reid could not identify Driver's cattle and left for home. Witness and his father left towards Shannonville and Will started towards Smart's. He (Will) went towards the "bluff," where river drivers were camping. Witness and his father got to Shannonville about six o'clock. That evening he saw Reid and got 50 cents from him and afterwards went to Mr. Stratton's to hire his horse and also hired a buggy from Cornell. Went to the depot with the rig and met a party on the train and drove out in the second concession of Tyendinaga. Drove to his father's house about 11 o'clock and woke him up. His father drove the party to Deseronto. He engaged Will Young to drive the cattle as he had an engagement with a party at the train. He went to Napanee on a freight train about 3 o'clock next morning to meet a young friend who was going to Watertown. He met Will Young at Napanee in company with two rivermen. They went about town and had several drinks at the Tichborne House and met "Baldy" and "Pete," and they afterwards went to the Queen's hotel. Will Young appeared quite flush. He and Will Young caught a freight train and rode in a box car to Shannonville. He afterwards came to Belleville. Did not give Will any money in Napanee or Belleville. Will borrowed $2 from witness in Belleville to get a pair of boots. Did not see any cattle at Napanee nor did not know anything about the stolen cattle.

Cross-examined witness said he was seldom hard up. The party he met at the train was a Miss Thompson from below Deseronto. He borrowed about $3 from Mrs. Foote (with whom he lived), next morning. He gave an account of what he spent at Napanee and Belleville.

Henry Oliver was the next witness. He first heard of the cattle being stolen from Abraham Maracle about a week after they were taken. On the Wednesday previous a drove of eight or ten cattle past his place. Mr. Maracle said the cattle answered the description of those stolen.

At this juncture the case was adjourned till 9:30 Saturday morning.

SATURDAY, Aug. 22nd.

REID ACQUITTED.

The trial was continued at 9:30 this morning. John Young was the only witness examined, his evidence being in substance the same as Geo. Young's. He denied having taken the cattle or knowing who took them. Messrs. E. G. Porter and W. B. Northrup addressed the court on behalf of the accused and Mr. P. J. M. Anderson for the Crown.

His Honor reviewed the evidence at some length and gave judgment in the case of Wesley Reid, pronouncing him not guilty. Judgment in the case of the two Youngs will be given on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. W. Reid upon being discharged was warmly greeted by his many friends who were present.

A BOLD THIEF.

A Tramp Enters Mr. S. H. Phippen's House and Takes Jewellry.

Mr. S. H. Phippen and family have been spending a few days down the bay and their house has been locked up. Mr. Phippen came to the city yesterday afternoon and went to his residence on the corner of Dundas st. and Bleecker Avenue about 3:30 o'clock. On going to the rear of the house he saw a man coming out of a window in the kitchen. He grabbed the man and asked him what he was doing there. The thief replied that he was hungry and wanted something to eat. Mr. Phippen noticed a gold brooch in his pocket and asked him where he got it. The tramp for such he was, said he could have the brooch at the same time telling Mr. Phippen to let go of him or he would shoot him. Mr. Phippen fearing a tragedy, let him go. The man made off towards Bleecker Avenue.

The police were notified and Officer Hayes went down immediately. He looked about the premises and then went to the G. T. R. yards. In company with Chief Newton and Mr. Phippen he searched the country about the station and east of the city, but no man answering to the description of the thief was found. Officer Hayes stayed at the station till ten o'clock and arrested ten tramps, but none of them were the right party.

Upon investigation it was found the man had ransacked the whole house and had taken a lady's gold watch and a quantity of other jewellry, including rings, etc.

Mrs. Carr, who lives near Mr. Phippen's, saw the man come out of the yard. Mr. Phippen describes the man as about 22 years of age, 5 ft. 7 in. in height, weight about 150 lbs., dark complexion, small black mustache, black eyes, black coat, dark pants, soft faded black hat, striped necktie. From another source it is learned that the man is a Frenchman hailing from New York state and was on his way to Montreal. He rolls his eyes when talking and acts demented.

The watch taken was a gold hunting case, chased front and back, stem winder, Swiss movement.

The city is filled with tramps and unless some means is taken to rid the community of this undesirable class futher occurrences of the kind may be expected.

The "Kelsey" Corrugated Warm Air Generator.

Any ordinary Hot Air Furnace will produce heat if you will only supply enough fuel. The "Kelsey" has several special and valuable features but most important is that it will give more heat with less fuel and is the most durable heater made.

The "Kelsey" fire pot being constructed of several upright, tubular, corrugated, cast iron sections (see cut) around which the fire passes and up through which the cold air passes while being heated, and this entire section being wrapped with a heavy steel casing which becomes heated by the fire striking it when passing down outside of upright sections towards smoke pipe, it in turn warms the air that passes up between this steel casing and the galvanized iron casing, this explains why the "Kelsey" has three times more radiating surface and warm air capacity than an ordinary Furnace. The "Kelsey" heats every room evenly, wheresoever located, with a nice, mild, healthful warm air that will not injure your furniture.

The "Kelsey" will heat rooms 60 feet distant.

The "Kelsey" does not heat your cellar.

The "Kelsey" is absolutely gas and dust proof.

WHY IS IT?

Why is it, when there are any special doings in Belleville, our store is soon recognized by strangers as THE resort of the city?

Where can I get a good lunch?
Who has the best Ice Cream?
Where can I get a cool, refreshing drink?
Who keeps the best Confectionery in Belleville?

These are only some of the questions strangers are sure to ask, and the answer is almost invariably "DICKENS."

AXTON'S CLEVER VICTORY.

He Had a Tumble and Still Got in Ahead of Blayney Fine Racing at Simcoe.

Simcoe, Aug. 21.—The 25-mile Canadian amateur championship bicycle meet, given here to-day by the Simcoe Bicycle Club, was a splendid success in every way. The threatening weather kept some of the people away, but when the bell was rung for the first event there were nearly 1000 people on the grounds. The star event was the championship race. For this there were 10 entries, but only six of them faced the starter. The order of the start was: Axton, Davidson, McEachren, Blayney, Moore and Meehan. The pacemakers went off at a merry clip. The track was in good condition, the weather perfect, and at one time the riders were within three seconds of the record, but the breaking of the tandem and the absence of pacing for a couple of laps threw them out. They made up some on the lost time, but could not do better than 1.06.02 1-5. Moore took a bad tumble on the first half of the fourth mile and dropped out. Davidson also fell and lost over a quarter of a mile, but pluckily resumed riding and caught the bunch. McEachren and Axton also fell, but got into the race again. The finish was a beauty, and Blayney looked all over a winner, but seemed to be pumped out in the sprint. Axton beat him across the tape, Davidson third.

The two Toronto tandem teams were the only advance entries for the two-mile professional, but McCarthy and McLeod hitched up and made a post entry, and after a great race won in 4.59 4-5. President Robertson of the C.W.A. was referee and Secretary H. B. Donly starter. The summaries are as follows:

One-mile novice—G. H. Murdoch, 1; C. Cunningham, S.B.C., 2; A. Watkins, Toronto (pace), 3. Time 2.34 2-5.

One-mile handicap, professional—T. B. McCarthy (scratch), 1; Cecil Elliott (20 yards), 2; C. Greatrix (10 yards), 3. Time 2.31. Also started: McCall (40 yds.), Gordon (50 yds.), Grats (35 yds.), A. E. Young (40 yds.), McLeod (scratch), Westbrook (75 yards).

One-mile open, amateur (limit 2.35)—Moore 1, Blayney 2, Thompson (pace) 3. Time 2.22. Also started: Davidson, Graves, McEachren, Hulse, Axton and Beemer.

Five miles, Donly Trophy, club event—Murdoch 1, Cunningham 2, Adams 3. Time 15.33.

One-mile open, professional—Elliott 1, McLeod 2, Gordon (pace) 3. Time 2.22 4-5. Also started: McCarthy, Greatrix, Gratz, McCall, A. E. Young, Davidson and Westbrook.

One-mile handicap, amateur—Thompson (50 yds.) 1, Graves (75 yds.) 2, McEachren (50 yds.) 3. Time 2.23 1-5. Also started: Adams (150 yds.), Hulse (scr.), Beemer (35 yds.), Meehan (scr.), and Hutchins (75 yds.).

Two-mile tandem, professional—McCarthy and McLeod 1. Time 4.59 4-5. Also started—Elliott and Greatrix, McCall and Gratz.

25-mile Canadian amateur championship—Axton 1, Blayney 2, Davidson 3. Time 1.06.02 1-5. Also started: McEachren, Moore (fell), Meehan.

THE CANADIAN SCHEDULE.

At the meeting of the representatives of the London, Guelph and Hamilton Clubs at Stratford, a schedule was arranged, and the championship battle will continue until Sept. 12. There were present: Cal. Davis, sec.-treas.; John A. McLean, W. A. Knowles and John Henderson, representing Guelph; A. Sippi and Dr. P. B. Wood, representing London, and William Stroud, representing Hamilton.

All the members were anxious to continue ball playing. Manager Sippi pointed out that London could not play out the remainder of the old series because the dropping out of Galt left his team with only one home game instead of four and five games way. If any arrangement could be made by which London would have a share of home games, he was quite willing to play.

This schedule was unanimously adopted, as follows:

Saturday, Aug. 22—London at Guelph.
Tuesday, Aug. 25—Guelph at London.
Wednesday, Aug. 26—Hamilton at Guelph.
Friday, Aug. 28—London at Hamilton.
Saturday, Aug. 29—Guelph at London.
Tuesday, Sept. 1—London at Guelph.
Wednesday, Sept. 2—Guelph at Hamilton.
Friday, Sept. 4—Hamilton at London.
Saturday, Sept. 5—Hamilton at Guelph.
Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 7—Guelph at Hamilton.
Wednesday, Sept. 9—Hamilton at London.
Saturday, Sept. 12—London at Hamilton.

Home-and-home umpires were agreed upon.

It was also agreed that these games should take the place of the unfinished schedule, and that the standing shall remain as at present. The clubs, therefore, start out for the new series all in a bunch, the standing being:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
London	13	12	.520
Guelph	14	13	.519
Hamilton	14	14	.500

CAPTAIN REES AGAIN OVER JUMPS.

Detroit, Aug. 21.—The talent got the better of the layers of odds, favorites winning four races. Summaries:

First race, 7 furlongs—Woolsey, 5 to 2, 1; Sauteur, 4 to 1, 2; Balkline, 5 to 2, 3. Time 1.29¾.

Second race, 6 furlongs—Sir Play, 4 to 1, 1; Lorrania, 15 to 1, 2; Sun Up, 3 to 1, 3. Time 1.15.

Third race, mile and 70 yards—Kamsin, 7 to 2, 1; Dockstader, 3 to 1, 2; Pete Kitchen, 12 to 1, 3. Time 1.49.

Fourth race, 6 furlongs—First Mate, 2 to 1, 1; Jennie June, 20 to 1, 2; Moylan, 4 to 1, 3. Time 1.14¼.

Fifth race, 5½ furlongs—Pirate, 7 to 5, 1; Moncreith, 7 to 5, 2; Wordsworth, 8 to 1, 3. Time 1.09.

Sixth race, hurdle, 1¼ miles—Captain Rees, 5 to 1, 1; Maid of Ellerslie, 12 to 1, 2; Tuscarora, 3 to 1, 3. Time 2.25.

A NEW PACING RECORD.

Portland, Me., Aug. 21.—The stallion Joe Patchen lowered the world's pacing record, held by John R. Gentry, to-day, at Rigby, by one-quarter of a second in a fresh wind, making the mile in 2.03. His quarters were 30¼, 29½, 30¼, .32¾. Patchen was paced by a runner known as Little Friend, and was driven by Jack Curry. He belongs to Col. Taylor of Chicago, and his former record was 2.04. He made an exhibition mile at Rigby on Wednesday in 2.03¾, and another in 2.04.

In the races Belle C. won the 2.28 trot in three straight heats. Best time 2.16½. Nicola won the 2.23 trot, and Eddie B. had taken the two first heats. Best time 2.15. Roan Wilkes took the 2.12 pace in three straight heats. Best time 2.08¾.

JACK JEWITT WON.

New Hamburg, Aug. 21.—The free-for-all trotting race, under the auspices of the New Hamburg Turf Club, which was left uncompleted yesterday on account of darkness, was finished to-day, resulting: Jack Jewitt 1, Robert Russell 2, Captain Hunter 3, Jimmie Mack, Mambrino Hunter were the other starters. Time—2.18¼, 2.22¼, 2.18¼, 2.20½, 2.29¼.

PREMIER HARDY'S ILLNESS.

The Hon. Gentleman is Suffering From Inflammation, But His Condition Was Improved Last Night.

Toronto, Aug. 22.

Out of respect to the memory of the dead Provincial Secretary the Parliament buildings will remain closed to-day. None of the departments will be open for the conduct of any kind of business.

Premier Hardy is still suffering from an attack of inflammation. Immediately after his return from Parry Sound on Wednesday night his indisposition came on, and he was still so ill yesterday morning as to be unable to attend the obsequies over the body of his deceased colleague in an adjoining room of the legislative pile.

Last evening, however, Hon. Mr. Hardy's condition was somewhat improved, and it is expected that he will shortly be around again. Dr. Chamberlain is attending him.

The shock consequent upon the sudden decease of Mr. Balfour no doubt contributed towards the Attorney-General's attack. His two weeks' outing in Parry Sound does not seem to have done much towards his recuperation.

DIED ON BOARD SHIP.

Sir David Macpherson Passes Off the Stage.

The Well-Known Canadian Senator Unexpectedly Succumbed While on His Way Home—He Was Anxious to Hold His Seat in the Senate—Steamship Labrador Reached Quebec With Her Flags at Half-Mast—The Body on the Way to Toronto for Interment.

Quebec, Aug. 21.—The R.M.S. Labrador, Captain MacAulay, arrived in port at 7 o'clock this evening. Her flags were at half mast. The vessel proceeded to the G.T.R. wharf at Levis. There was a busy scene on board when the correspondent of the United Press called. Away aft on the starboard side of the twin deck, in an isolated compartment, the body of the late Sir David Macpherson, K.C.M.G., was laid, all dressed, on ice. As soon as the vessel was moored to her berth the G.T.R. steamer Polaris came alongside and placed aboard a handsome metal casket. Undertaker Rickaby placed the remains of Sir David in the coffin. Mrs. Banks, daughter of deceased, Mr. William Macpherson, his son, and other friends and relatives viewed the remains and the lid was soldered fast.

Sir David left Brown's Hotel, Piccadilly, London, on Aug. 12, for Liverpool, where he joined the Labrador. His health was poor and, though he was not suffering from any particular disease, Mrs. Banks, who accompanied him on the voyage across, tried to dissuade him from starting on the journey, but Sir David was restless and wanted to return home to Canada, and he could not be convinced to stay in England. He embarked on the Labrador on the 13th and she put to sea the same day. The hon. gentleman was placed in bed, from which he never rose. He grew weaker and weaker every day. Dr. Wright and the ship's medical officer did not apprehend death so early; in fact, they hoped to reach Quebec without death taking place. Saturday night, the 15th, Sir David's condition became alarming. The pulse was faint and unsettled. Next day brought no change. On the contrary, there was every evidence of the heart giving way. Finally the end came at about 2.30 in the afternoon. Sir David Macpherson passed away quietly and without any apparent suffering.

The remains left by the 10.30 G.T.R. train for Toronto, Mr. William H. Macpherson, Mrs. Banks and Mrs. Beckett accompanying the body west.

The News at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—(Special.)—Announcement of the death of Sir David Macpherson came as a great shock to his old friends in Parliament. He was returning to Canada for the purpose of taking his seat in the Senate in order to retain his membership in that body. Any member of the Senate who is absent from attendance two sessions in succession forfeits his seat, and as Sir David was not here last session it was necessary for him to come this year in order to hold the fort.

Hon. R. R. Dobell, Sir David's son-in-law, heard the news from a press representative. Mr. and Mrs. Dobell left for Quebec to-night.

Sir David's Career.

Hon. Sir David Lewis Macpherson, K.C.M.G., P.C., was the son of the late David Macpherson, Inverness-shire, Scotland, where he was born Sept. 12, 1818.

Sir David Lewis Macpherson comes of an ancient and sturdy Scottish family, and in the markedly successful career which has been his, exhibits the characteristics of his race. Our subject went to school in Scotland, and completed his education at the Inverness Royal Academy. In 1835, with the thousands of others who were at this time turning their faces toward the New World, he set sail, resolved to try his fortune in Canada. Here was a new country, large with promise, and holding out encouraging, nay, beseeching, hands to courage and enterprise. Young Macpherson was just the man for such a field. It would be difficult at this distance to lay hold of every fact which would show the mainsprings of his success, but the chief results stand out. Early in his career he took an earnest interest in public questions, and in 1864, three years before Confederation, at the solicitation of many friends, he offered himself, and was successful, for the Saugeen Division, Upper Canada. He held his seat in the old Canadian Parliament as member for Saugeen till 1867, when he was called by royal proclamation to the Senate. He had now amassed much wealth, was prominently connected with enterprises of national importance, and stood in high repute among his fellow-countrymen.

TORONTO MARKETS.

Flour—The market is quiet and steady. Straight rollers are quoted at $3.10 west, and new wheat straight rollers at $2.95.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

There was a fair trade at the Western Cattle Market to-day. Receipts were 62 carloads, including 800 head of sheep and lambs. These were firmer, owing to limited offerings. The demand for shipping cattle was good, choice bringing 4c per lb., and medium 3½c to 3¾c. Bulls sold at 3c per lb. The best butchers' cattle sell at 3c to 3¼c per lb., good to medium at 2¼c to 2¾c, and inferior at 1¾c to 2c. The offerings of inferior stuff are too large, and they are hard to sell. Milch cows unchanged at $18 to $30 each, and calves at $2.50 to $5.50 per head.

Sheep are firmer, with shipping qualities selling at 3c to 3¼c per lb., and butchers' sheep at 2½c. Lambs sold at 3½c to 4c per lb.

Hogs are firm, with receipts of 500 head. The best sell at 4c to 4½c per lb., weighed off cars, thick fats at 3¾c, stores not wanted, sows at 3c and stags at 2c per lb.

Break Up a Cold in Time
BY USING PYNY-PECTORAL
The Quick Cure for COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, HOARSENESS, etc.

MRS. JOSEPH NORWICK, of 63 Sorauren Ave., Toronto, writes:
"Pyny-Pectoral has never failed to cure my children of croup after a few doses. It cured myself of a long-standing cough after several other remedies had failed. It has also proved an excellent cough cure for my family. I prefer it to any other medicine for coughs, croup or hoarseness."

H. O. BARBOUR, of Little Rocher, N.B., writes:
"As a cure for coughs Pyny-Pectoral is the best selling medicine I have; my customers will have no other."

A SERIOUS CASE.

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & CO.

I Used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for my little boy for summer complaint and it cured him. He was so bad that he had convulsions and would strain so that he ruptured himself, but as soon as I got the extract for him he got well.

MRS. ELIZA M. OVERHOLT.
Fonthill, Ont.

Mrs. Sequel—I understand your husband can't meet his creditors. Mrs. Equal—I don't believe he wants to, especially.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

"Jenkins claimed that I insulted him." "Did you give him satisfaction?" "Guess I did. He pounded me until he was tired."

TO BE REMOVED.

All the effete or waste matter of the system is removed by a perfect action of Laxative Liver Pills. Thus they prevent as well as cure Sick headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Jaundice, Dizziness, etc.

"I'm going to swear out a warrant against the weather man." "What for?" "Malicious scorching."

CURES SUMMER COMPLAINT.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for twelve years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer complaints. In our family it has never failed to cure any case. MRS. BENJ. LONGLEY.
Chatham Ont.

Mount Emmons, 13,694 feet, is said to be the highest in Utah.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue."

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels, therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as wel as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forget this.

Pine Knot is the highest place in Kentucky—1428 feet.

If your children are troubled with worms, give them Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; safe, sure, and effectual. Try it, and mark the improvement in your child.

Mount Whitney is the highest peak in California—14 898 feet.

If you are tired taking the large old fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

Warren is located on the highest land in Illinois—1005 feet.

Those unhappy persons who suffer from nervousness and dyspepsia should use Carter's Little Nerve Pills, which are made expressly for sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic sufferers. Price 25 cents.

Mount Rich, 3596 feet high, is the tallest in South Carolina.

Ill-fitting boots and shoes cause corns. Holloway's Corn Cure is the best article to use. Get a bottle and cure your corns.

THE REMEDIAL HOLE.

Rouges Still Demanding Separate Schools.

And It Is Generally Admitted That Premier Greenway Will Not Concede This Demand—Will There Be a Long Debate on the Address?—Sir Charles Tupper Intends to Have Those Letters Relating to the Resignations of His Ministry Laid on the Table—Ottawa Looking Out for Sunday Cars—Mining Strike in British Columbia—Capital Notes.

Ottawa, Aug. 23.—(Special.)—In the Liberal camp the news of the prospective settlement of the Manitoba school question on the half hour a day basis causes anything but rejoicing. The Rouges are pledged to Remedial legislation, and they say that nothing short of Separate schools will satisfy Quebec. That Mr. Greenway will not concede Separate schools is generally admitted. Even if he were prepared to do it 35 out of the 40 members of the Manitoba Legislature would place a veto upon his action. If, therefore, Mr. Laurier is prepared to come to an arrangement with the Manitoba Government he will have to accept much less than the recognition of the principle of Separate schools.

The Sabbath calm has interposed before the Parliamentary gladiators commence their struggle. To-morrow there will be a change. The debate on the address is the first order on the paper, and from present appearances it will not be disposed of in one day or one week. Sir Charles Tupper was very persistent in his endeavor on Friday to secure a promise that the correspondence which passed between the outgoing Ministry and the Governor-General should be tabled immediately. The Premier was not inclined to acquiesce in this request, but before a week passes Mr. Laurier may be in more tractable mood. It is not unlikely that the debate will be continued until the papers are forthcoming, and rather than prolong the session the Government will eventually have to give way. There was a meeting of the Cabinet yesterday, at which the estimates were under consideration.

The Ottawa mining syndicate which is developing a property near North Bend, B.C., has evidently made a good "strike." The mine is being developed by hydraulic power. A flume four miles long brings 500 inches of water on to the ground, an 18-inch main and from this two 9-inch lines of pipes are given off, one for the monitor and the other for conveying the ground sluice water. Since the opening cut was made but a small body of gravel has been washed, yet about $4000 has been taken out of the flume. It semes a safe investment from the fact that the company is working into better ground all the time. By opening 50 feet lower with their next cut, giving them a 100-foot bank, $5000 per month can easily be taken out at an expense of not more than $1000. More can be easily done by adding to the water system, which can be done by reservoiring some lakes.

Their Excellencies have decided to give two garden parties at Government House, on Wednesdays, August 26 and September 2, from 4 to 7 p.m., when they will be glad to see any members of Parliament and their families who wish to be presented.

The reply to His Excellency's address will be moved to-morrow by Mr. W. W. B. McInnes, the new member from Vancouver district, British Columbia, and seconded by Mr. Lemieux of Gaspe.

Mr. Foster arrived from Queen's and Sunbury to-night. The local Conservatives, under Mr. Foster's leadership, have been putting up a great fight against Mr. Blair and are hopeful of victory. Now that Mr. Foster has returned the Conservative caucus to elect a leader will not be delayed beyond Wednesday.

A deputation of Quebec members is to accompany A. F. Porter of London, Eng., to interview the Government today on the subject of aid to the abattoir and dead meat scheme which Mr. Porter is initiating.

Mme. Laurier, Mrs. Davies, Speaker and Mrs. Edgar, the Misses Edgar and Mrs. Wilkie, Mr. Edgar's sister, visited Rockland yesterday, making the journey both ways on the steam launch of Mr. Edwards, M.P.

Major Perley, formerly Chief Engineer of Public Works, but during the last two years on the engineering staff of the Railways and Canals Department, has been notified that his services are no longer required.

DYING OF LOCKJAW.

Leslie Reblin, a C.P.R. Fireman at London, Is in a Serious Condition, the Result of a Slight Cut.

London, Ont., Aug. 22.—Leslie Roblin, a fireman on the C.P.R., lies at his residence, 755 Maitland-street, in a very dangerous condition. He is suffering from lockjaw, resulting from a slight cut on his hand between the thumb and forefinger, which he received while at work about two weeks ago. Grave doubts are entertained of his recovery.

LOST BOTH HIS LEGS.

John Baxter, a Brickmaker, Run Down by a Freight Train and May Die.

Toronto, Aug. 24.

Saturday night about 8.30 John Baxter, a brickmaker living on Greenwood avenue, while walking on the G.T.R. tracks between Little York and the Don Station was run down by a freight train. Both his legs were smashed above the ankle. He was taken to the General Hospital and both legs were amputated above the knees. He cannot recover.

MR. BALFOUR'S FUNERAL.

Amherstburg Thronged in a Way That It Has Never Been Before.

Amherstburg, Ont., Aug. 22.—The remains of the Hon. W. D. Balfour were laid to rest this afternoon. It rained very hard from daylight till 10 o'clock, which prevented many from attending. A special from Leamington and way points brought a few hundred people with the Leamington brass band. The steamer Imperial from Windsor brought a large number from that city and from Detroit. The line of procession was nearly two miles long. The Oddfellows from the different lodges in the county came first, of which order the deceased was once a member, then the C.M.B.A., Town Council, firemen, the Separate and Public school boards on foot, Hon. Mr. Gibson and party from Toronto, hearse and mourners, and a line of carriages never witnessed in this county before. The floral offerings from the different municipalities were numerous.

CANADA OR VENCEDOR?

Opening Race To-Day at Toledo—Both Crews Equally Confident.

Latest despatches from Toledo state that Canada and Vencedor are both in their best racing trim after being dry-docked. Both crews are equally confident. The Chicago men are going on their "line" on the defender, and are sure of victory, while the R.C.Y.C. men feel that they have a good thing up their sleeves.

So far as could be ascertained last night in advance of the official announcement, the measurements are as follows:

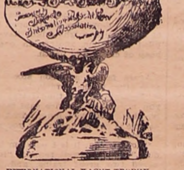
Canada—Length over all, 55.21; waterline, 37.04; boom, 42.85; gaff, 24.4; hoist of mainsail, 24.55.

Vencedor—Length over all, 62.73; waterline, 43; boom, 46.00; gaff, 27.80; hoist of mainsail, 26.30.

Under the present spread, the sail area measurements are: Vencedor, 2273.07 feet; Canada, 2161.91. Under these figures the American (Vencedor) must allow her rival 4 min. and 45 sec.

The international race, which will be sailed over the Turtle Light course, off Toledo, beginning to-day, is, doubtless, the most pretentious regatta ever scheduled for the inland lakes. It marks the beginning of an era in yachting which promises to put the sport on the lakes on a footing with sailing on the coast.

Until Vencedor and Canada were built to sail an international race, yachtsmen around the lakes have been content for the most part to race in club regattas with good cruisers. Now, however, all of the great yachting associations promise to have some racers in their fleet. It needed such a contest between two modern-built yachts to bring about this feeling.



INTERNATIONAL YACHT TROPHY.

The race is the result of a good deal of hard work on the part of both the Chicago and Toronto yachtsmen. The proposition for an international contest came from Chicago last fall. After the matter had been pretty well canvassed, expressions were had from all the great lake ports where there were yacht clubs. Commodore F. C. Berriman of the Lincoln Park Yacht Club saw its importance, and he and his brother decided at once to build a boat and issue a challenge. It was proposed to sail for a perpetual international trophy, and the challenge was directed to the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto. Negotiations progressed very slowly, and, in fact, they were almost broken off at one time. But Commodore Berriman, determined to have a race, sent the Racing Committee of his club to meet the Toronto yachtsmen, and make all reasonable concessions. There was finally only one thing in the way of the race. Vencedor plans called for a larger boat than they wished to sail against. To meet this objection, the racing length of the Vencedor was altered, and it was further agreed that Vencedor would give the Canadian defender double time allowance on her length over 45 feet. Her length is a few inches over the limit, and on this Canada will receive double allowance.

The races are to be best two in three, under the New York Yacht Club rules, with a few essential amendments. The trophy to be sailed for is a cup valued at $500. In addition to this, the City of Straits Yacht Club offers a prize valued at $500, which is to go to the club from which the winner will sail. The latter, according to the conditions imposed by the donors, becomes a perpetual interlake trophy. Besides these prizes, there is $1500 cash donated by citizens of Toledo, through the International Yacht Committee.

ANTI-MASONIC CRUSADE.

Mgr. Begin, Administrator of the Archdiocese of Quebec, Backs Tardivel.

Montreal, Aug. 23.—(Special.)—Tardivel has won a victory in his anti-Masonic war, as Mgr. Begin, administrator of the Archdiocese of Quebec, has issued a circular to the clergy inviting them to encourage the coming international anti-Masonic congress of Trent. All the faithful will respect the words of the Archbishop of Cyrene, because he is a good man, but no French-Canadian of the present day bothers his brains very much over the alleged horrors of the much-maligned order. In fact, the French clergy themselves have hardly forgotten the amusement afforded them a year or two since, when Father Therien, a simple-minded yet good-meaning man, seriously declared that the fire in Mount St. Louis College, Sherbrooke-street, had been the work of Free Masons.

MANCHESTER WANTS IT.

A Request That Canadian Products be Distributed From That Port—The Boom in B.C.

Montreal, Que., Aug. 23.—(Special.)—Lieutenant-Governor Dewdney of British Columbia, who arrived by the Lucania, says that Superintendent Stephens of the Manchester ship canal, came over in the same boat, and will confer with Professor Robertson, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, as well as the Canadian Government, with a view to making Manchester the distributing point for Canadian products.

His Honor says a great many syndicates are being formed in London, and are sending out engineers and experts to report on the mines in British Columbia.

1800 Pant Makers on Strike.

New York, Aug. 23.—Over 1800 knee-pants makers went out on a strike in this city to-day. A committee was appointed to draw up a new agreement for the union, which will be offered to the contractors either to-morrow or Tuesday.

ALL THEY CAN HANDLE

Ocean Liners Have Their Hands Full of Business.

Great Quantities of Freight Being Sent Out by the St. Lawrence Route—Steamship Men Happy Because Rates are Good—Something That Should Make the Business Men and Everybody Else Feel Better.

Montreal, Aug. 23.—(Special.)—This is the most active and profitable shipping season Montreal has known for many years past, and those who have been croaking about the decline of the St. Lawrence export trade will have to modify their theories to a wonderful extent. Last year the various steamship men had to go about with their hats in their hands begging for freight, but this season these same gentlemen have only to sit in their offices, and freight by the thousand tons comes rolling alongside their ships. To give an idea of what is being done here by the various ocean lines it will be well to quote Mr. John Torrance's words yesterday to your correspondent, as the agent for the Dominion line rejoiced over the changed aspect of affairs: "I could go out," he said, "and fill two steamships per week from now till the end of navigation," and all the lines have the same story to tell.

The Allans, the Dominion, the Donaldson, the Dempster, the Hamburg and other companies doing business at the port of Montreal are fairly staggering under the quantity of freight that is coming to this port for export to Britain and the Continent. This, however, is not all, as the increase of freight rates are also a very pleasing feature in the present season's trade, and one that gives the utmost satisfaction to the steamship men, who, in the past, have had a good deal to complain of, not only with regard to rates, but the quantity of freight offering as well. This time last year the steamers from this port were carrying grain at one shilling a quarter, while this year they are getting two shillings for all they can stow away in their holds. Last summer deals were being carried for 32s. 6d., while this year the rate is 42s. 6d.

The Americans are also shipping much more extensively from this port than for many years past, and, apart from Chicago and Duluth, a good many New York people are shipping Western products here, instead of from their own port and Boston. One-eighth of a cent per bushel in grain will cause the New Yorkers to give the preference to Montreal. A large shipper also said that the figures were even in advance of those quoted above. Steamers, he said, were asking 2s. 3d. to Liverpool, 2s. 6d. to Bristol, 2s. 6d. to London and Glasgo, 2s. 6d. paid and 3s. asked for Hamburg, adding that all of the September space had been taken and a good part of October, as well. "Should freight rates advance to 3s. on grain," he concluded, "it will then pay ships to come over in ballast, and if that rate be reached no doubt plenty of tonnage would be found coming to the St. Lawrence."

SENATOR MACPHERSON'S FUNERAL

Only Relatives and Intimate Friends Attended—The Remains Interred in St. James' Cemetery.

Toronto, Aug. 24.

The funeral of the late Sir David Macpherson took place yesterday morning from Chestnut Park, the remains being interred in the family plot at St. James' Cemetery. The arrangements were simple and very private. None but relatives, a few intimate friends of deceased and a number of old trusted servants and retainers, some of whom had been associated with deceased for forty years, were in attendance.

The remains arrived in the city at 9.20 on Saturday night, and were quietly taken to Chestnut Park, the late residence of deceased. Accompanying the body were Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Macpherson, son and daughter-in-law of deceased; Mrs. Meyrick Banks, daughter; Miss Banks, granddaughter and Mrs. Beckett, daughter. The casket was covered with beautiful floral tributes from relatives and friends.

Rev. T. C. DesBarres, M.A., rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Bloor-street, conducted a religious service at Chestnut Park before the funeral cortege left for the cemetery at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. DesBarres also read a short service at the grave.

Those who attended the funeral were: Mr. W. M. Macpherson, Mrs. W. M. Macpherson, Mrs. Banks, Miss Banks, Mrs. Beckett, Hon. R. R. Dobell, Mrs. Dobell, daughter of deceased; Mr. Wm. Dobell, Miss Dobell, His Honor Lieut.-Governor Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Kirkpatrick, daughter of deceased; Capt. A. Kirkpatrick, Mr. W. M. Kirkpatrick, Montreal; Mr. John Molson, Montreal; Judge Hamilton, Milton; Mr. Clark Hamilton, Kingston; Sir Casimir Gzowski, Lady Gzowski, Mr. C. S. Gzowski, jr., Mr. Thomas Galt, Mr. T. C. Patteson, Mr. W. S. Lee, Col. Sweny, Mr. James Henderson, Mr. J. D. Small, Mr. A. M. Ross, Hon. G. W. Allan, Senator McInnes, Hamilton; Capt. Forsyth Grant.

DEATH IN THE STORM.

Many People Killed by Lightning in Indiana—Wallace's Show Tents Wrecked by Wind.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Despatches from points in Indiana and Ohio report severe storms last night, accompanied by much destruction of property by lightning and some fatalities. Telegraphic communication is very much impaired and full reports are hard to obtain. At Indianapolis the wind reached hurricane velocity, but no serious property loss was sustained, nor were any lives lost. The rainfall was very heavy.

Near Rome City, Ind., a large barn was destroyed by lightning and Arthur Foss, aged 14, was killed.

At Elwood, Ind., lightning demolished Rev. T. J. Wright's residence. All the family escaped injury but Mr. Wright, who was horribly burned and paralyzed from the waist down.

Greensburg, Ind., reports heavy damage to crops and several bridges were washed away. Mrs. John Baumgardner of Wabash was struck by lightning and fatally injured. Lester Bliss and Neil Bliss at Delphos, O., were killed by lightning.

At Hobart, Ind., the dwelling of a man named Smith was demolished by lightning and the entire family of three persons killed.

At Huntington, Ind., Wallace's show tents were wrecked by the storm at 6.30 o'clock last evening. The horses and menagerie stampeded and much property was ruined. The elephants caused a panic.

Covered Several States.

St. Louis, Aug. 23.—A severe wind storm visited Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma Territory last night. Several lives were lost and much property destroyed. Electrical discharges and heavy rain accompanied the storm of wind.

At Mendote, Ill., Pohl's Hotel and several residences were unroofed. All the grain fields about Mascoutah Falls, Ill., were destroyed.

Near Browning, Mo., the farm house of Thomas Gooch was blown down. Gooch's wife and infant son were killed. The public school building at James, Mo., was totally wrecked and the Drummond Hotel unroofed.

At Edina, Mo., Peter Lorey, a boy, was killed by a falling tree.

THE RIFLE LEAGUE.

Gold Badges Will be Given Out to Prize-Winners Instead of Silver Ones—The Highest Scores.

Ottawa, Aug. 23.—(Special.)—The annual meeting of the Canadian Military Rifle League is to be held on Tuesday of next week. The executive of the association has decided to give gold badges in place of silver ones, making more valuable and much neater prizes. The thanks of the association are due to the Minister of Militia and his department for contributing free ammunition to the league, also for its prompt delivery to all parts of the country. Great interest has been taken in the league shooting this year, no less than 187 teams having entered, against 123 for 1895, an increase of 64 for the present year.

It is to be hoped that during next year the Government will issue the new Lee-Enfield rifle, so that the necessity for having so many series of matches may be obviated, and also that the militia force, through its league shooting, may become thoroughly acquainted with the new weapon.

Among the prize-winners are the following:

First series, ranges 200, 500 and 600 yards, Martini, Martini-Metford or Lee-Metford rifles, 7 rounds at each range, battalion teams, 10 men:

13th, Hamilton	3540
59th, Cornwall	3514
82nd, Charlottetown	3509
43rd, Ottawa	3460
45th, Bowmanville	3447
45th, Lindsay	3428
14th, Kingston	3419
5th, R. C. A., New Westminster	3412
7th, London	3384
57th, Peterboro	3373
Battalion teams, 20 men:
45th, Bowmanville and Lindsay	6875
13th, Hamilton	6817
5th, R. C. A., New Westminster	6746
Battalion teams, 30 men:
43rd, Ottawa	9755
Battalion teams, 40 men:
43rd, Ottawa	12,547
Battalion teams, 50 men:
43rd, Ottawa	14,828

Battalion having largest number of teams in league series, 1896, special prize: 30th Battalion, Guelph, 12 teams or 120 men.

Guelph wins the prize for Rifle Association teams for 10 men, with 3541 points.

Lieut. John Ogg of Guelph R.A. takes first prize for the highest individual score in the first series, his total being 382. Sergt. Smith of Cornwall is second with 380.

Highest individual scores, second series, winning championship badges, Sergt. John Rolston, 37th Batt., York, 378.

Third series—First section, 200, 500 and 600 yards, Martini-Metford or Lee-Metford carbines, 10 men, prize, "B" Sq., R.C.D.G., Winnipeg, first team, 2769.

Highest individual scores, winning championship badges, Sergt.-Inst. Page, "A" Sq., R.C.D.G., Toronto, 324; Lc.-Cpl. Allen, "A" Sq., R.C.D., Toronto, 311.

Third series—Second section, 200, 300 and 400 yards, Snider and Winchester carbines, 10 men. Prize, "A" Troop Man. Dragoons, Virden, Man., 1st team, 3025.

Highest individual scores, winning championship badges, Const. W. Hume, Saskatchewan R. A., Prince Albert, N.W.T., 371; Pte. C. E. Ivens, "A" Troop, Manitoba Dragoons, Virden, Man., 363.

THAT IRISH CONVENTION.

Michael Davitt Strongly in Its Favor—A Thousand Delegates to Be Present.

London, Aug. 22.—At a meeting of the Irish National Federation in Dublin, Mr. Michael Davitt, who presided, said he placed a hundred times more hope for Ireland in the work of the forthcoming Irish Convention than fifty sessions in the Imperial Parliament. Between eighty and one hundred delegates from abroad would attend, and Ireland would supply nine-tenths of its delegation. The convention would not be packed in the interests of any section. It would not wake up old controversies, but would reinvigorate the National movement, and arouse patriotic energy. The convention, he believed, would save the fortunes of the Home Rule cause. Before one more year had elapsed there would not be one Irish political prisoner left, suffering the horrors and indignities of penal servitude in England. Referring to the Land bill, he said he did not understand why Colonel Saunderson and his friends in the Commons, and the Arrans in the Lords, felt any alarm whatever with reference to its provisions. Their fears had no grounds. As to the Recess Committee, he said they did not want a reform of the Dublin Castle Institution; they wanted an end of the whole castle system.

A New Royal Singer.

A new royal singer is Princess Ludmilla of Wrede, whose husband's name appears in the Almanac de Gotha. She is a mezzo-soprano, a pupil of Mme. Marchesi, and is singing in public in London.

Look at the people you pass on the street. Their faces tell the story of their lives. They tell the story of penury or plenty, of refinement or coarseness, of health or disease.

Three-fourths of these people are not "exactly well." They are not all "sick," perhaps, but many of them are, and few are quite hale and hearty. Consumption has set its stamp of pallor and emaciation on many of them. Dyspepsia has drawn lines of fretfulness and worry about their eyes, and mouths. Impure blood is showing itself in blotches and pimples. One man has "a little trouble" with his kidneys. Some of the women have chronic constipation, and the other ills that constipation brings. The most pitiful of all faces is the consumptive one. Very likely it has been through the other stages and has at previous times shown dyspepsia, sallowness and bad blood. Consumption doesn't come all at once. It is a creeping disease. It comes on gradually under cover of a hundred differing symptoms. It is the most dreadful of all diseases, but it can be cured if you begin in time. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure it. It will cure all the things that lead to consumption. It is not guaranteed to cure consumption of long standing. There is a stage at which consumption is incurable.

If you send 31 cents to prepay postage and duty only, we will send free a book of 1000 pages that tells exactly what "Golden Medical Discovery" will do—what it has done in hundreds of cases. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE FUTURE OF CHINA.

The appearance of Li Hung Chang on the horizon of the European world has increased the already wide-spread interest in the Celestial Kingdom. This interest bids fair to result in practical issues. Commercial nations are realizing that "China is potentially by far the greatest reservoir of productive power in the world."

A writer in the August "Fortnightly" discusses this aspect of the Chinese question in an article entitled "The Future of China." This huge Empire of the East is equal in population to all European nations put together. It contains vast areas of the most fertile land. It has rich mineral resources. It can furnish innumerable laborers. With these advantages it could produce all our principal objects of consumption in a quantity and at a price which would revolutionize the markets of the world. Yet China remains a mummy, swathed from head to foot in the stifling cerements of immemorial usage; as removed from the life and interests of civilization as if situated on some forgotten planet. Other nations have awaited for many years the awakening of this problematic country. They have hoped that China would reform itself. The writer in the "Fortnightly" shows that this is impossible for two reasons—the social and the intellectual conditions of the Empire. These conditions, which have remained the same for thousands of years, still affect the majority of the Chinese. However the coast towns are altered by their contact with Western civilization, the villages of the interior remain as they were in the days of Chin Chi Hwang, two hundred years before the Christian era; and it is from the villages that the officials of the Empire are largely supplied. They are imbued from infancy with the idea that the customs of the country cannot be improved; that the world outside of China is "barbarous." They are either contemptuous or indifferent towards those evidences of higher advancement which come under their notice from the West. Added to this paralyzing satisfaction in everything Chinese, and to this blind ignorance of the outside world, is the handicap of the official education. Every aspirant to political position must undergo the study of the Chinese classics—a task involving years of blind labor. "The intellect of China is put into a treadmill, where there is an immense expense of energy but not an inch of progress."

As China can do nothing for herself, the writer in the "Fortnightly" believes that other nations should force her to make use of her great natural advantages. He foresees that Russia may not only do this, but may make North China, at least, a tributary of the Czar's Empire. The great Siberian railroad is not being built at an enormous expense to end in Siberia. It may be laid across the vast areas of the northern Chinese Empire. The introduction of such a railroad would mean a tremendous increase of trade, and also an increase of power for those who control it. With Russia threatening the independence of China, the policy of England should be to support the present regime, and at the same time to compel the country to develop its natural resources.

The future of China will, in all probability, be in the hands of that nation which first introduces railroads and modern machinery into the vast interior, but such an introduction would render impossible the continuance of present conditions, or of their support by the foreigners. China alive and active might be a kind of Frankenstein to the other nations for some generations at least. The responsibility of galvanizing this vast mass of inert matter is a tremendous one that should be carefully considered in all its bearings.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

Canada and Vencedor are to-day sailing their first race for an international trophy alleged to be emblematic of the championship of the lakes. We hope, and not without good grounds, for the success of the Canadian craft.

But, if the cup for which Canada and Vencedor are sailing a match to-day is the emblem of the championship of the lakes, what becomes of the Fisher cup for sloops, which was the championship emblem and which was recognized as such, having been sailed for several times? It was first won by Cora, of Chicago; next by Atalanta of Belleville; next forfeited to Norah, of Belleville; next successfully defended by Norah against Onward, of Rochester; finally won by Onward and is now held by that yacht. Now, it is quite reasonable to ask, by what right does anyone pass over the Fisher cup as the championship emblem for single-stickers? If the cup for which the representative cutters of the Royal Canadian and Lincoln Park Yacht Clubs are competing is a champion cup, then any one can institute a "championship" emblem. The Fisher cup, which been accepted as the emblem of supremacy amongst single masted vessels on the lakes, must still hold that position until it has otherwise been decreed by competent authority, and this has not been done up to date.

Another Minister from Quebec has been added to the Laurier-Tarte Cabinet, making eight Ministers from Quebec. Truly Tarte & Co. are, as Pacaud styles them, the "Masters of the Administration."

In connection with this addition to the Ministry, it may be remarked that this multiplication of Ministers is in direct opposition to the cry of the Liberals that "the membership of successive Conservative Administrations was too great." "Too many Ministers!" was the cry. The Liberal organs are dumb in face of this flagrant defiance of their old cry.

Sir Oliver Mowat is the Government leader in the Senate. Should Sir Mackenzie Bowell accede to the wishes of the Conservative party to lead their forces in the Upper House, there will at times be a keen encounter of wits between those "grand old men."

It must not be forgotten that the eighth Minister from Quebec—Mr. C. A. Geoffrion, the member for Vercheres, is one of the most strongly pronounced advocates of the restoration of Separate Schools in Manitoba. "If," he said in the debate on the Remedial Bill (see Hansard for 1896, page 2932) "this Parliament is to pass a "Remedial Bill, let it be stringent—let it "be positive—do not leave any door open "by which the party charged with its "execution may evade the law." Such is the position of Mr. Laurier's newest colleagues. No wonder that the office of Minister of the Interior remains vacant.

OTONABEE'S SERPENT MOUND.

Remains of an Indian Fort Found a Roach's Point.

At Roach's Point, Otonabee township, on the north shore of Rice Lake, certain extensive heaps and ridges of earth have been known to the settlers for many years as an Indian "battery" or "fort." During the present week careful examinations of these earthworks have been made under the authority of the Department of Education, and the conclusion has been reached that the mounds in question form what is known as the "serpent and egg," an arrangement connected with the myths of many primitive people on both sides of the world.

The most noted one in America is in Adams County, Ohio. This though on a larger scale than the Otonabee mound, is not any more interesting or instructive, says Mr. David Boyle, whose good fortune it has been to identify the Canadian ruins. The Otonabee serpent extends almost due east and west (the head pointing eastward), and its total length is about 100 feet. Between the head and the egg mound is a pace of twenty-three feet, while the latter mound is itself about fifty feet in length and thirty-seven feet in width.

The discovery of these mounds forming this arrangement will naturally lead to the opening of discussion relative to the builders, who, presumably, could not have been the Ojibeways, whose representatives still linger about a few spots in the neighborhood.

Further particulars regarding this discovery will be awaited with interest by the ethnologists of both continents, and no doubt many members of the British Association will visit the Otonabee serpent mound next summer.

Not one complaint has ever been made by those using Ayer's Sarsaparilla according to directions. Furthermore, we have yet to learn of a case in which it has failed to afford benefit. So say hundreds of druggists all over the country. Has cured others, will cure you.

Food Value of the Apple.

Dr. Bentzer, a German scientist, has the following good things to say of the apple:

It excites the functions of the liver.

It promotes a sound and quiet sleep.

It disinfects the mouth.

It agglutinates the surplus acid of the stomach.

It paralyzes hemorrhiodal disturbances.

It helps the secretions of the kidneys and prevents calcareous concretions.

It obviates indigestion.

It is a good preventive against diseases of the throat.

To Mend a Broken Chain.

To fasten two links of a chain or anything of that sort, says the Farm Journal, make a coil of baling wire by winding it tightly around a broom handle or anything smooth and round, then worm the coil into the two links and bring the ends together and twist up, drawing a little closer than the other part of the coil. Then flatten the coil down with the twist in one of the links. If you sew a wire around, the different turns are uneven and are bound to break one after another, but this way four strands of baling wire will hold a bull.

Sow the Seed; Spread the Light.

Most farmers are jealous of their knowledge. An equal number of years of practice does not bring to each man the same experience. One man often learns an important fact that will in the natural course of events never be brought to the attention of another, and yet the information would be of immense practical value. Farmers should always attend Farmers' Institutes and give brother farmers the benefit of their experience. Essays upon plowing, sowing, harrowing, cultivating, gardening, fruit growing, haying and many other kindred subjects, might be made very practical and valuable. There are points enough in either of the subjects named to form the basis of a good article.

Land Measure.

7 92-100 inches, 1 link; 100 links, 1 chain; 1 chain is 66 feet, or 4 rods; 1 rod is 16 1-2 feet; 160 square rods is 1 acre, or 208 feet 8 1-2 inches square is one acre; 43,560 square feet is 1 acre; 4840 square yards is 1 acre; 80 chains make 1 mile; 320 rods make 1 mile; 1760 yards make 1 mile; 5280 fee make 1 mile; one-half mile square contains 160 acres; 4 miles square contains 2560 acres; 5 acres of land measures 466 feet 8 1-4 inches square; 10 acres of land measures 660 feet square; 15 acres of land measures 808 feet 4 inches square; 30 acres of land measures 933 feet 4 3-8 inches square; 25 acres of land measures 1056 feet square.

As True as Gospel.

If every farmer would use pure-bred sires only, the value of the stock of the country would be doubled in a few years and stock farming would pay. But scrub stock farming does not pay, and cannot in any country where land is worth more than a very few dollars per acre.—Colman's Rural World.

STICKING TO THE FARM.

Don't draw the papers, lawyer; I've changed my mind, you see,
For wife and I have had a talk and both of us agree
That, though the times are pretty hard and troubles round us swarm,
And life ain't what it used to be, we will not sell the farm.

I stood upon the knoll to-day and looked the old place o'er,
I thought it never looked so fresh and beautiful before;
The clover had a redder hue, the creek a sweeter song,
And over in the pasture stood the herd, a mottled throng.

The vanished scenes of other days came back my soul to thrill,
Again I heard my ax's song upon the wooded hill;
A sturdy boy I wielded it and whistled at my toil—
A farmer's urchin, stout and brown, a product of the soil.

O, the long nights of the winter, when before the roaring blaze,
I sat and pored enraptured o'er Macaulay's stirring lays,
Until above the icy wind that swept across the ridge,
I seemed to hear the shout of brave Horatius at the bridge!

Why, on the farm which now I cross with steps a littel slow
I grew to stalwart manhood in the cherished long ago;
I whistled there behind the plow and with the sickle keen
I cut the golden bearded grain for forty years, I ween.

Unto the house where I was born one day I brought a bride,
And Hannah Jane's beloved face has never left my side;
Beneath that roof we've lived and planned, and there the children wed,
And twice in that old farmhouse dear a little one lay dead.

We've talked the matter over, Hannah Jane and I, to-day;
I know I said I'd sell the farm to Banker Ezra Gray!
But you needn't draw the papers up, for this old hand of mine
My name upon the cruel deed will never, never sign.

It might have been the clover, or the birds that filled the wood,
With just the sweetest songs, while upon the hill I stood;
It may have been good Hannah's kiss, so loving and so kind,
But, then, it makes no difference, for I have changed my mind.

Let Ezra keep his money, he can use it by and by,
For when we two old people, in the little churchyard lie,
Our boys who live where thousands in the mighty cities swarm,
Will ask for a division and they'll let him have the farm.

But while we live it shall not pass beyond these hands of mine,
So Ezra Gray can bide his time, the deed we will not sign;
For sixty years upon the farm my good old wife and I,
Have shared the griefs and joys of life, and three in peace we'll die.

Yes, let us call the farm our own until the summons come
And we have passed beyond the gates of the Eternal Home;
So burn the papers, lawyer, and I'll go back and say
To Hannah Jane, the farm is ours until we pass away.

—T. C. Harbaugh, in Ohio Farmer.

BICYCLE NO. 11,152.

"Father, may I come in?" said a fresh, young voice.

"Certainly, my son," answered a man who had been but a moment before bending over his writing.

He glanced toward the door as it opened, and seemed relieved at the interruption.

A handsome, manly-looking fellow of about 14 entered the library, advanced toward the table and stood opposite his father. As they thus faced each other, one could see a striking resemblance. The same dogged perseverance, the same resolute look and determined expression which characterized Mr. Stillwell's face, and which showed that had made him superintendent of the R. & W. railroad, without friends or influence to back him, appeared also in the face of his son.

This resolute look was now the most pronounced expression on the son's face as he said:

"Father, I want to send for a bicycle to-night."

The happy look that had come over Mr. Stillwell's face changed to a rather stern expression.

"Well, Charles, you know how much they cost, and at present I can ill-afford to get you one."

"I know that, father," the boy replied, "and had thought of it long ago. For a year I have been working in spare moments and saving all I could until I have now half of the price of a bicycle. Unless I get it at once, I cannot have it this summer. If you will advance me the rest of the money, I can get the wheel and pay it back before fall."

Mr. Stillwell dropped his head upon his hand, as if in deep thought, but under the shadow in which his face was placed there came a pleased, happy look. Already the boy was showing what was in him. He had not begged for a bicycle, but he had set out to get it himself. Mr. Stillwell did not like bicycles. He regarded them as one would regard a costly toy. Although he was secretly pleased with the way his son had gone about getting it, he still thought it a useless expenditure of money.

When he looked up it was with a grave expression, and for a moment Charles' heart sank.

"You know what I think of bicycles," he said. "I think they are very costly and practically useless. The proposition you make, however, is a thoroughly business one. It is your own money you are spending, so I will advance what you ask for, and shall expect to have it repaid by next fall. If I felt differently in the matter, I would gladly help you to get it, but, feeling as I do, it is best you should buy it with your own money as you propose. I, therefore, ask you to consider well, because there must be no mistake about your returning me the money when it comes due."

"I have thought it over carefully," his son replied, "and I will hand you the money then. Here is the other half now," he continued, as he laid on the table a roll of bills of various denominations.

How much that money meant to him! How much self-denial, hard work and persevering effort! Perhaps his father guessed what was passing in his mind, for he drew the money toward him almost tenderly.

"What do you want, my check for the full amount?" he asked.

"To-morrow. I will write the letter to-night, and in the morning you can look it over and inclose the check to the manufacturer."

Charles then bade his father good night and left the room.

For a moment Mr. Stillwell gazed toward the door, and away from his work; then he smiled happily and went back to his writing with renewed energy.

Bicycle 11,152 had at last arrived. Charles noticed the number when he unpacked it from its crate.

The bicycle represented more to him than anything he had ever possessed. How fond he became of it! The self-denial, hard work and study he had given to get it were all repaid a hundredfold when he sped over the road with the bright, steel machine beneath him. He never seemed to tire of its company. When not riding he was working over it, polishing the nickel or wiping the dust from the enamel. The summer was nearly over before he realized it. The days had sped away from him as the road had under his wheel.

The amount he owed his father seemed to grow larger as the time came near to pay it, although he had raised as much as half of it. The thought of this money added a deeper gloom to the landscape as he wheeled down the road at the side of the railroad track to the depot on a dark day in the early part of September.

He noticed particularly that day the long curve the railroad made to save a grade on the opposite side of the valley. The highway, by descending a steep hill, saved this detour and fully one-fourth of the distance.

When he reached the station, which was a small, unpretentious building, he did not enter into conversation with the station master, as was his custom, but began reading the notices and studying time tables.

"What's the matter?" the station agent said. "You seem out of sorts."

"Oh, nothing," Charles replied, and he began to whistle, but it sounded forced, and he soon stopped.

The agent took up the tune where Charles had left it, but he, too, suddenly paused.

"Goodness, gracious!" he exclaimed. "I forgot that key. I must go to the house for it. You'll keep your eyes on things, won't you? I will only be gone a minute!"

The agent's house was almost in sight of the depot, and he started on a run to get the key.

Charles looked at the depot—at its tiny office, its few seats for passengers, its view of the tracks stretching away in the distance, with a new feeling of pride, for were they not left in his charge?

Suddenly this feeling was followed by a sense of responsibility. Then, without being able to account for it, this gave place to one of dread. As the last feeling stole over him there came to his ears the heavy, dull rumble of an approaching train.

Nearer and nearer it came, but there was nothing in this of itself to cause alarm, for he knew No. 18 well. It always went through without stopping. So he stepped toward the door to see it pass once again. As he did so, the telegraph instrument began clicking loudly. He paid no attention to this, as he did not understand telegraphy and had often heard it makes as much noise when the sound had no import. Standing on the platform, he watched the freight train rumble majestically by. A brakeman whom he knew waved his hand to him, and he waved back in response. Car after car passed, until at last came the caboose with its fluttering flags.

The long train had hardly crossed the last switch, and the click of the rails, as the trucks of the cars passed over them, still sounded in his ears, when he heard his name called in an agonized voice from the station. He rushed into the room. There stood the agent, his face a ghastly white, with one hand upon the keyboard of the telegraph as if frozen to it.

"Orders to hold No. 18.—Got back too late to stop her.—No. 5 to pass her here—No. 5 has left V—— station.—Nothing between the two trains."

The agent fairly gasped the words, but Charles understood him at once.

No. 18, the through freight and No. 5, the express, between stations on a single track road, were rushing together with nothing to stop them!

Charles turned as white as the agent, while a look of despair crept over his face. Suddenly his eye rested upon his wheel, and hope came to him.

He remembered the long curve of the track and the short cut of the road, and how they came together again further on almost at right angles, and then continued in parallel lines. He thought of the slow progress of the freight. It was one chance in a hundred, but perhaps he could head off the freight train and stop her, particularly as he had so much less distance to go and could get great speed on the down grade.

He was on his wheel in a moment, riding as he had never ridden before. At first there was a smooth stretch of road leading to the steep hill, which threw the road at right angles to the track, and over this his wheel fairly flew. With his head bent low over the handlebars, he glanced neither to the right nor left, but fastened his eyes upon the road, which seemed like some white, silent river flowing by him with great rapidity. It took but a moment or two to get over this road, at the speed he was riding, but it seemed to him to be years.

He was now on the down grade, and, although he could not see the freight, he knew it was near from the presence of the cloud of thick, black smoke, which hung above its course.

He soon reached the crest of the hill. In a moment, he thought, he could see the freight and knew whether he could stop her or not. At length the train came in view, and he saw at once he could not hope to head it off, but that by using all his speed he would be able to reach it before all the cars had passed the place where the road curved in by the side of the track.

As he started down the hill he put all his weight on the pedals until the bicycle shot down the grade at a great pace, gathering speed with each revolution of the wheels. He was going so fast that when he came to the level it seemed to him that his speed increased instead of diminished.

Now he is approaching the track with lightning swiftness. The road and railroad begin to converge. Moments pass which seem like years. He raises his eyes, the train is directly ahead of him; he will just reach it before it passes entirely. The engine has already passed and some of the cars.

Once more he looks down and puts all his remaining strength upon the pedals. He raises his eyes again, and finds he is shooting along the road beside the freight, which is now going at good speed. He cannot hope to keep this pace long; already the freight is gaining upon him.

A brakeman is half asleep on one of the cars. Charles waves his hand frantically and tries to shout, but to his surprise his voice makes little sound, and that is drowned in the rumble of the train. The brakeman laughs and waves his hand in response, as if it were a good joke, his riding a race with the train.

Would he laugh, Charles thinks, if he realized that that great mass of wood and metal, passenger No. 5, was coming toward him with the force of a tornado?

The freight is surely gaining, and they pay no attention to him. A short distance ahead the road and track diverge again: what shall he do? He rides with the energy of desperation, and the brakeman at last calls to a fellow-brakeman to look at him. They can't seem to make out why he should try to beat the train, when it is so hopeless a task.

His heart leaps with hope for a moment, but it is soon dispelled, for the other brakeman laughs, and then both wave their hands at him in token of farewell.

Charles, in the agony of despair, lets his hand fall downward, and as he does so it comes in contact with a bunch in his coat pocket. Again hope comes to him, for he remembers it is the remnant of an old red flag he had used to clean his wheel, and had stuffed into his pocket.

Quick as a flash he has drawn the rag forth, and now waves it in answer to their mocking gestures. It is old and soiled, but its red is still bright enough to look sinister and dangerous as Charles waves it frantically above his head.

The smiles die away from the faces of the brakemen. One of them starts on a run along the cars toward the engine. Then there comes the whistle of "down brakes." Charles is sick and faint, but he realizes he must keep up. Slowly, oh! so slowly, it seems to him the train's speed diminishes, and at last it ceases to move.

A brakeman climbs down and runs toward the bicyclist, for he still waves that piece of red flag above his head with one hand while with the other he clasps firmly the handlebar of his wheel. The brakeman is close to him now and grasps his wheel, for it is beginning to wobble frightfully. He holds it firmly, for Charles is, for the moment, too weak to dismount.

"No. 5 has passed V—— station!" Charles stammers out between his gasps for breath.

That is enough; the brakeman knows only too well what it means. He shouts out the information to another brakeman who is nearer the train, and the latter starts on a run for the head of the train with his red flag. Will he be in time to stop the express?

A moment, then another, passes. Surely he must now be ahead of the freight. Charles' strength returns and, leaving his wheel, he rushes along beside the track. On reaching a place where he can see some distance ahead of the train, he notices the brakeman with the red flag is still running.

Then there comes the whistle of an approaching train. The brakeman waves his flag, and Charles hears the whistle "down brakes" from the engine No. 5, and sees No. 18, the heavy freight, begin slowly and majestically to back. Soon No. 5 comes in view, still moving, but very slowly, and at last stops. No. 18 then ceases to back, and the two trains face each other, the smoke from their engines intermingling above the length upon length of cars which might might have been piled upon one another in one wild heap of chaos and death.

Again father and son stood facing each other in the library.

"To-night is the time I was to pay you my debt," Charles said laughingly, "but, first, you must admit that a bicycle is not so useless as you at first supposed."

"No, my son; it is I who am in your debt," Mr. Stillwell replied, "for you saved two great trains, and it is a debt it will be hard to pay. Here is the money you handed me toward the wheel. You see I have not touched it." and Mr. Stillwell handed back to Charles the identical roll of money which he had given him on the night of the first payment. "I gladly make you a present of the wheel. Now, what else can I do for you? I will be glad to give you almost anything. The company has empowered me to act most liberally."

"All I wish for," Charles said, "is that my wheel number, 11,152, shall go down on the records of the company among the train numbers with a history of what it did towards saving two trains." And so it happened that in the records of R. & W. railroad bicycle No. 11,152 has a place and a history.—Leslies Illustrated Magazine

A Good Salad Dressing.

We have used the following receipt for a number of years with satisfactory results. The mixture may be kept for any length of time and on a minute's notice is ready for use.

Beat the yelks of eight eggs, add a cupful of sugar, a tablespoonful each of salt, mustard and pepper and half a cupful of cream. Mix well. Boil a cupful of butter in a pint and a half of vinegar. Pour this upon the mixture and stir well.

This makes a large quantity, which may be put into an ordinary fruit jar and kept in the place most convenient.—Berta Knowlton Brown, in Country Gentleman.

Harder Than the Diamond.

The experiments of M. Moissan with the electric furnace have led, it is stated, to the discovery of an important substance in the shape of a compound of boracic acid and carbon which will even cut a diamond. The compound is said to be black, not unlike graphite, and can be produced in pieces of any required size. If the statements are verified, the new material will be very useful for boring rocks, etc., but how is the compound to be shaped?

The Ideal Farmer.

The ideal farmer is a widely accomplished man. Starting with a good general education, he has mastered the practice and science of farming, knows something of chemistry, geology, botany, veterinary surgery, animal physiology, entomology; of mechanics, carpentry, smith work; of mensuration, leveling, land surveying, of farriery and of forestry; of dairying, bees, fruit and poultry; finally of accurate book-keeping. How many of him do you know?—Farm and Home.

A Bond of Sympathy.

They were testing a new armor plate. It had successfully resisted shot after shot.

"Here," said a bystander, "try this new projectile," and he tossed a cube of dark brown material to the chief gunner.

A moment later and the charge passed squarely through the wrecked armor plate.

"Have you any more of those remarkable projectiles?" inquired the astonished ordinance officer.

"I'll see if I can't get you a couple of pansful to-morrow afternoon," replied the stranger, with a grim smile. "Saturday is the day we have 'em to burn."

"Then they are—"

"My wife's Vassar biscuits!"

By a common impulse the two men, so strangely thrown together, clasped hands in cordial sympathy.

"I married a Wellesley girl myself," said the ordinance officer.

"Have one with me," feelingly remarked the stranger.

Then they turned aside and sampled a small bottle of dyspepsia tonic.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Safe Barn Door Latch.

Old-fashioned wood latches, playing horizontally work back as winds shake the doors, and the doors then blow open. An improvement on such latches, as illustrated in Farm and Home, may be made by inclining the play of the latch downward. A secure fastening for double doors of a barn consists of a lever pivoted by a 1-2-inch bolt to the middle cleat of the door, with a bar on each side of the pivot, playing loosely on a bolt by which it is attached to the lever. One of the bars fits into a slot above the door, and the other into a similar slot in the doorsill. By depressing the end of the lever the bars are thrown into the slots and hold the door securely fastened. When desired to open it, the lever is raised and the bars are withdrawn. The ends of the bars are held in place by rabbeted cleats through which they slide freely.

'Twas Proved This Year

Nitrate of soda is a valuable fertilizer for strawberries and raspberries. It should be applied with powdered phosphate of lime to produce its best effects. The berries are larger in size, handsomer in color and fine flavor. Ordinary manure will not produce such results, for the reason that it is not converted into plant food until after the demand of the fruit. The plant grows early in the season, and nitrate of soda being a leaf and stem former, while the phosphate of lime is a seed former, they are assimilated by the plant and at once taken up and appropriated, furnishing the food necessary for the growth of the plant and the full development of the fruit.—San Francisco Call.

CITY AND DISTRICT

The city schools open on Tuesday next, September 1st.

The next Government holiday will be Labor Day, Sept. 7th.

The police are preparing another batch of dog summonses for those citizens who have not registered their dogs. The cases will come up on Friday next.

Mr. S. Thompson, his brother C. E. J. Thompson, of Auburn, N. Y., and a party of friends went down the bay this afternoon for a few days' fishing.

For depression of spirits, nervousness and general weakness, Miller's Compound Iron Pills are a sure cure. 50 doses, 25 cents. Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

The case between Mrs. Hill and her two sons, from the Reserve, regarding the ownership of some oats was tried to-day. P. J. M. Anderson for plff.; A. A. Roberts for defts.

The schools in towns and incorporated villages will re-open on Sept. 1st, Model schools on the same date, but Collegiate Institutions and High Schools will re-open on Aug. 31st.

Mr. G. R. Blount, Methodist minister, Dresden, Ont., says: "After a prolonged attack of La Grippe, I was very nervous and weak, and troubled with severe pains. I took one box of Miller's Compound Iron Pill and am perfectly well now." Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

Very low excursion rates from all points within 75 miles of Belleville have been arranged for next Tuesday and Wednesday, good to return on Thursday. The Grand Trunk has made this arrangement owing to the large number who anxious to attend Wednesday's Gathering of the Clans.

The Ashley Carriage Works are offering buggies, phaetons, democrats, lumber waggons, carts, &c., at 20 per cent discount. Every vehicle is guaranteed to be A1 in every detail. It certainly is a rare chance for intending buyers, as the prices will never be so low again. A special discount given for cash.

It is a mistake to suppose that only barns have been struck by lightning during the recent severe storms. From all the reports published throughout this and every other country in Westerly Ontario, three dwellings have been struck for every two barns; but the former did not take fire like the latter.

Now in Chatham, N.B.

Messrs. Hunter and Crossley, after viewing the land from their resting place at Loggieville, opened their batteries on the sinners of Chatham last Sunday. They officiated or assisted at the regular services in St. Luke's and St. John's and held two meetings in the curlers' rink. The first of them, which opened at 3.45, was for children and youths. The rink has been provided with a large deal platform in the west end, and is seated with benches and chairs for 1000 persons.—The World, 19th inst.

MRS. LOCKERTY'S DEATH.

The Inquest Commenced—An Adjournment for a Few Days.

The coroner's inquest to enquire into the cause of the accident on Friday night last which resulted in the death of Mrs. Eliza Lockerty was commenced on Saturday night in the city building. Dr. Tracy, coroner, conducted the proceedings. A large number of spectators were present. Mr. P. J. M. Anderson County Attorney, was present on behalf of the crown and Mr. S. Masson appeared for the city and Traction Company.

Ed. Gibson sworn, said he lived in the city; saw electric car No 8 on which Wm. Tuttle was motorman coming down Front street near Hanley's grocery on Friday night. The car was going about the usual rate of speed, not more than 5 miles an hour. Witness saw Mrs. Lockerty come out of her store and walk across the road. Heard the gong of the car sounded. Did not see the car strike deceased, but saw the body after the accident. It was lying on the car track. Was of the opinion that deceased had plenty of time to get out of the way after the gong was sounded.

Dr. Youker, sworn, said he was upon the scene of the accident shortly after it occurred. He saw the body and inspected it. Could not identify it. The skull was crushed in and the brains were scattered about. This injury would have caused instant death. There were other injuries about the body.

Wm. Tuttle, sworn, said he was a motorman on the street railway. He was engaged in that capacity on Friday night at 10 o'clock when the accident occurred. John Austin was conductor. Had no experience as a motorman before he was employed here, which extended over a period of seven or eight weeks. The duty of a motorman is to regulate the running and control of the car, under instructions from the conductor. A short distance south of the curve in front of Hanley's store saw a woman near the track. He sounded the gong a number of times. The deceased was about the length of a car in front of it when he first sounded the gong. She was about 10 or 12 feet from the track at this time. Witness thought she wanted to get on the car. He threw the power off and applied the brake lightly, slowing up the car. As the car came up to the deceased she deliberately stepped in the centre of the track. Witness applied the brakes, but the car struck her. It was very dark at this portion of the street. Felt a jar when the car passed over the deceased. Did not see the deceased, but heard she was dead. He got off the car and sat upon the sidewalk until a policeman took him to the station. He had no doubt of the cause of death. The car might have been stopped before the deceased was struck had he known that she would have walked upon the track. The brake was in first class condition. Witness never drank any liquor in his life. Think it was her own fault that caused the accident.

Jas. Bensley, sworn, said he resided in Belleville, on Front street near the scene of the accident. Did not see the accident, but heard a crash and thought the car had jumped the track. Ran out into the street and heard that a woman had been killed. Saw the body lying between the street rails, the head being crushed in. Saw three men get out of the car. The accident occurred a few minutes before 10 o'clock. The street was dark at the time, no electric lights being lit. Heard the car coming, but did not hear the gong, but it might have sounded.

At this stage of the proceedings an adjournment was made until Monday next, 31st inst., at 8 o'clock.

Boys' Sailor Suits.

One objection to buying sailor suits for little boys at this season of the year is that they are not heavy enough for later on. The Oak Hall have overcome this objection. All our new sailor suits are made of good heavy material and the pants lined throughout. They are all right for cold weather.

The Foresters' Excursion.

The excursion from Kingston and bay ports to Rochester on Saturday evening, under the auspices of Courts Quinte and Dulmage A. O. F. of this city, was a great success for an event of the kind so late in the season. The elegantly appointed str. Columbian, of the R. & O. Navigation Co., carried the party, which consisted of about 400 people. Over a hundred persons got on at Kingston, Picton and Deseronto. There were about five hundred people on the wharf here to see the excursion come in and over two hundred of them got on board. At Trenton and Brighton about sixty more embarked. A heavy thunder storm came on when the steamer was nearly through the canal and she tied up till it was over. When she struck the lake there was only a small sea running, but the wind freshened and the sea rose till the big steamer plunged and rolled like a toy and several parties were affected with sea sickness. The day was spent in different ways by the excursionists and the return trip left Charlotte at 9 p.m. last evening. The trip was somewhat tiresome for those who had no staterooms, but apparently everyone was satisfied. The Foresters will make the event an annual affair.

Ford vs Good.

Mr. Thomas Good's solicitor requests us to correct our report of the above case in our issue of Saturday. He says the action was dismissed and that his clients were not to pay costs. Mr. Flint was seen this morning and he stated emphatically that his judgment was that Mr. Good should pay the costs of the action and the doctor's bill. It is thus apparent that the paragraph sought to be corrected was in itself correct.

It Does Not Pay.

We would respectfully but most emphatically remind our readers that this hot weather it does not pay to go without Tan Shoes. Haines & Lockett have reduced prices for this month. You can get lots of comfort out of Tan Shoes and you need all you can get this hot weather.

Want the Will Broken.

The Toronto Star of Saturday says: "Mrs. Emma Dale, daughter of the late Wm. Dafoe, of Belleville, issued a writ this morning against John W. Butterfield, Francis Butterfield and Mrs. Wm. Dafoe, asking the court to set aside her father's will on the ground that he make it under undue influence from the defendants."

A DRIFTING MATCH.

THIS IS WHAT THE FIRST RACE BETWEEN VENCEDOR AND CANADA IS LIKELY TO BE.

Vencedor Started First in a Very Light Wind—Canada Blanketed Her—The Boats on a Tedious Drift.

TOLEDO, Aug. 24.—The day for the first of the international yacht races between Vencedor, of the Lincoln Park Yacht Club of Chicago, and Canada, of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto, broke with a clear sky, warm air, and a breeze pleasant for the sight seeing thousands, but not favorable to a smart race.

The Start.

The yachts started on time, Vencedor in the lead. The wind was hardly strong enough to fill the sails. Canada was a length behind Vencedor at the start and blanketed her. Both boats have mainsails, staysails, jibs and both the topsails out. The wind is three miles an hour, with the boats drifting to starboard, and the prospects are for a drifting race throughout.

Constipation causes more than half the ills of women. Karl's Clover Root Tea is a pleasant cure for Constipation. Sold by Alex. Ray

Korns, Korns.

There are more than one sort of korns. Some korn is planted in the ground and the other sort don't need planting; they grow quite naturally on men's toes and don't need hoeing. This kind of korn has two sorts—one gentle or tender like until Bill Jones steps on your foot, when it gets boiling mad and swears like everything; the other is hard headed and makes a row all the time, especially when your boots are on. I don't like korns, and use the extracting medicine, Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor which removes them painlessly in twenty-four hours.

Reformed Episcopal Church.

Rev. Mr. Trotter's subject yesterday morning was Job's confession of faith in the Redeemer, Job 19:25-27. Kind words were spoken of the Rev. Mr. Thompson in his painful and sudden bereavement. In the evening, Mr. Trotter's text was, "There was no more sea," from which he showed in what respects the blessedness of the heavenly world was enhanced by the absence of sea.

Buffalo's Last Day.

Buffalo, Aug. 22.—This was the last day of the grand circuit meeting at the Buffalo Driving Park. Although the weather was sultry the track was in perfect condition and the attendance numbered about 7,000. Three additional heats were required to determine the winner of yesterday's unfinished 2:11 trot. Bouncer, who won two of yesterday's heats, was the favorite at the start, notwithstanding the fact that Geers had been substituted for Quinton on James L., with one heat to his credit. James L. finished second to Fred Kohl in the first heat of to-day's race, but from that on was a 1 to 3 favorite, winning the next two heats and race, though by narrow margins.

2.24 class, pacing; purse $2,000:—Miss Jennings, 1, 1, 6, 1; Ringing Bells, 2, 2, 1, 4; Monopole, 5, 3, 2, 2; Blacksie, 6, 5, 3, 3; Paynstone, 3, 4, 4, 5; Major Lambert, 4, 6, 5, 6. Time, 2.15½, 2 11¼, 2.13, 2.11½.

Saddle and Sulky.

Buffalo Courier;—A. T. Catsworth of this city has sold the pacer Midnight Hal, brother to Brown Hal, Jun., 2.10¼, to Canadian parties. As a race horse he has proven a poor investment, still some of his colts are remarkably fine gaited and handsome.

The 13½ hands pony pacer, Daisy Wilson, continues to win races. Her record is 2:20¼.

Ed B. Young, a 2 year old son of Direct, won a pacing race the other day in 2 22.

YACHTING.

Old Gold Workings, Matabeleland.

Matabeland is studded with old workings, and from the tests that have been applied the ancients would appear to have been marvellously good prospeccors. An immense quantity of gold must have been extracted from the country. In their seeking for the precious metal the Arabians did no more than dig deep trenches, and it is exceptional to find that they sunk anywhere to more than 30 or 40 feet; though in some cases this depth was exceeded. The ore, consisting of quartz reef, was rudely treated by roasting. They worked by slave labor, which is proverbially dear, and they must have found enough to recompense them for the upkeep of their mining camps; while of driving from shafts with the necessary ventilation they seem to have had no notion, nor were they able to cope with the general mining difficulty of flooding. Where their primitive practise succeeded so well, as the fact of wide spread and careful workings bear witness, it is unlikely that with modern appliances and facilities their successors in title will altogether fail. Of all the reefs that have been found some are sure to be payable in the end. Whether this or that venture will ultimately succeed it is early days to prophesy, but some, judged by the assays and trial tests, start with an excellent prospect.

The Youngs Acquitted.

In giving judgment this afternoon in the case of Queen vs. John and George Young His Worship Judge Lazier said John Young, was not, according to his conception of the evidence, guilty of stealing the cattle. If he was engaged to drive those cattle he should not be held responsible for the offence and he would acquit him.

The evidence against George Young was much stronger and his movements on the night the cattle were taken were proven to be such as would lead one to believe he was guilty. The evidence of William Young, however, he considered as that of an accomplice, rather than an innocent man and was not corroborated in the main points. George Young had not been identified as one of the men with the cattle and the cattle had not been identified, which were both weak points. He did not think any jury would find the prisoner guilty, and he therefore acquitted him and both prisoners were discharged.

County Crown Attorney Anderson asked for permission to appeal the case.

AMELIASBURG.

Ed. Benson has gone to Ottawa Normal School.—W. H. Redner, Wharfinger at Rednerville, is laid up with inflammation in his eyes.—The excursion to 1000 Islands on Saturday per Varuna, advertised by the Roblin's Mills band, was fairly attended.—Hamilton Welbanks and wife leave to-morrow for a trip on the upper lakes. They will spend a few days at the Sault.—Mrs. Alex. Anderson is in a critical condition and her friends are becoming somewhat anxious.—Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Fox, of Northport, spent Sunday with friends in this place.—The Nimrod Hunting and Fishing Club, of Pittsburg, have broken up camp at Quinte Point and left for home to-day. — The Ameliasburg Council will meet on Wednesday the 26th inst.—Geo. L. Anderson and Miss Ella Anderson, of Rossmore propose taking a trip to Manitoba.

The Weather.

The air has been cleared by the electric storm of Sunday morning, and delightful weather has followed. Yesterday's maximum was 82, with a strong breeze. The minimum last night was 58; at 8 a. m. 68; and at noon 80.

PROBABILITIES.

Moderate to fresh westerly to south westerly winds; fine and warm.

Fell Down Stairs.

Mrs. Patrick Killy, of Stoco, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Charles Keleher, St. Charles st. On Saturday she received serious injuries by falling down stairs. Four of her ribs were broken and her shoulder dislocated. She was otherwise badly bruised and was in a serious condition yesterday.

Death of Mrs. Fry.

Mrs. Caroline Fry, wife of Charles Fry, died at her husband's residence, Foster st. yesterday. Deceased was thirty years of age and her family live near Napanee. She leaves a husband and a family of small children. The funeral took place this afternoon.

A SHORT BUT SEVERE STORM.

A Residence Struck by Lightning and Telegraph Poles Shattered.

A severe electric storm passed over the city at about three o'clock on Sunday morning. The lightning was exceedingly vivid, whilst the rain fell heavily and was driven by a south-east wind. Mr. R. Weatherspoon's residence on Brassey street, near the G.T.R. station, was struck by lightning and some damage was done. The inmates escaped injury. A number of telegraph poles on the front of Sidney, near Case's church, were shattered by the electric fluid.

That Street Railway Fatality.

To the Editor of the INTELLIGENCER.

DEAR SIR,—Is it in the contract with the city that the company should have had electric motor car fenders in front of the car?

If not, is there any city by-law requiring those fenders to be used?

How was it that the street was pitchy dark? Was there no electric light? If not, why not?

If there had been a proper fender Mrs. Lockerty's life would in all human probability been saved.

Yours, &c.,

WHY IS IT?

Why is it, when there are any special doings in Belleville, our store is soon recognized by strangers as THE resort of the city?

Where can I get a good lunch?
Who has the best Ice Cream?
Where can I get a cool, refreshing drink?
Who keeps the best Confectionery in Belleville?

These are only some of the questions strangers are sure to ask, and the answer is almost invariably "DICKENS."

KING OR KNAVE?

Agitated and bewildered as she was, she tried to think out some plan of action, so as to find some safe corner where she might sit down awhile and decide whether and how she should enter the battle of life alone, or whether she should throw herself on fate in sheer despair. She sat on her bed, or walked up and down, thinking that she was thinking, until the cracked teatray proclaimed that Dr. and Mrs. Snell were going to dine.

As she took no notice of the summons, it was repeated in the form of a tap at the door.

"If you please, miss," said the voice of the new housemaid, "the gong's gone, and master he says the soup's getting just like charity, and would you please to come and sit down?"

All at once she was inspired with a plan.

"Tell them not to wait," she said, opening the door; "I am not coming to dinner to-day. And then get me a cab, if you please."

"A cab, miss?"

"Yes. I shan't be many minutes packing. I am going away."

"A cab, miss! Why, there isn't such a thing for miles."

"Well, you can find somebody who will take my things to the train."

"You're going off by train, miss—without e'er a bit of food?"

"Yes—I must be off at once——"

"I ask your pardon, miss. Am I to say anything to Dr. Snell?"

Marion had of course seen the girl constantly; but something in the manner of her question, half hesitating, half confidential, made her observe her for the first time. She was a young person, plain and common-looking enough to suit the most jealous mistress of the household of the most volatile master, and something of a slattern, red-haired and freckled; but with the undefinable air that goes with a greater belief in one's own good looks than is shared by the world. She had almost whispered her question in what seemed a most significant way.

"Of course," said Marion, a little haughtily.

"Thank you, miss. I only wanted to know."

Yes; that would certainly be the best thing she could do. There was neither law nor duty to detain her with this odious couple; and instinct, the result of a hundred little things unnoticed at their times, but now brought into a focus, warned her that if Mrs. Snell was a woman to be detested, the Doctor was a man to be feared. And had they been her best and dearest friends, she could not have stayed to be a mischief-maker and a cause of quarrel. All she had to do was to take herself off, and then send her new address, whatever it might be, to her father, to the care of Dr. Snell. It was the easiest thing in the world.

And there was something attractively defiant about it too. There was never a girl whom nature and habit combined had made so hungry for complete dependence upon another as Marion Furness. Which is the same thing as to say that she had to call upon her whole strength, to its inmost marrow, when she found herself without even a straw to lean on. People who are used to stand alone have no such need. They can do without calling on their reserve of strength—wherefore it often happened that very little strength comes of its own accord. But Marion had to discover and open up new springs of strength, and all together—all that could come from fear, all that could come from pride, all that could come from anger, from stubborness; even from despair. Never before had she known real fear, or real anger; and she was bewildered by them into a renewal of the strength she thought she had spent once for all when she had compelled herself to renounce her lover. The result might be mere recklessness—but then that also is a strong thing.

As for despair—it is not too strong a word for a girl of nineteen, who has cut herself adrift from her own sheet-anchor in a storm, and sees before her nothing but a black sea fog into which she is being carried, without a chart or compass, or a hand to help her with helm or sails.

At last there was nothing to do. To crush her belongings into her boxes was an active relief for her, who had never touched a friendly hand or heard a friendly voice since her mother died. The scrap of energy, small as it was, kept her from brooding over the constant dragging weight at her heart, that she should know any such touch or voice never again—that she would have to drag through perhaps fifty years to come alone, and alone, and alone. . . This done, she dressed herself for out-of-doors in the black that she meant to wear for the rest of her days, counted the small stock of money in her purse, and went slowly downstairs. Perhaps by this time such substitute for a cab as Piggot's Town could afford would be at the door. When she reached the passage she found Dr. Snell loitering up and down, in an old jacket and slippers, with a cigar.

"Fanny tells me you are running up to town, Miss Furness," said he. "If it is on any business, can I save you the trouble? I hope I can."

"I have sent for some one to take my things to the station," said Marion, as stiffly as she knew how.

"You are really going away?"

"I have no choice."

"Come, come be reasonable, my dear young lady. Mrs. Wyndham Snell did behave like a brute pig, I know. But you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear—I married beneath me, as no doubt you have discovered with those bright eyes o' yours—and you must make allowance for jealousy that was exceedingly natural, I'm sure. You see we have been such very particular friends, you and I."

"While I am waiting," said Marion, freezing, "I will wish Mrs. Snell good bye."

"Mrs. Wyndham Snell has retired to her room. A headache, she says. But I needn't tell another woman what a headache means. As soon as she's out of the sulks—for you'll be pleased to hear I've been blowing her up sky high all through dinner—I'll see that she draws you up a written apology. You won't bear malice after that, I'm sure. Come kiss and be friends: I mean, of course, when I say kiss, in a metaphorical way. Anyhow, there's my hand. Take off your bonnet in the parlor, and let me give you a glass of wine."

"I would rather wait here, while my things are brought down."

"Come, dear Miss Marion, I can quite understand you feel hurt—I'm a sensitive man myself, so I know. But malice and sulks will never do. They'd ruin the finest complexion that ever was made—even yours. Don't you give another thought to Mrs. Wyndham Snell. Who's that old woman, I should like to know, to come between kindred souls? She won't do it again, after what I've been saying to her to-day. Come, my dear. As you like me, and I like you, Mrs. Wyndham Snell must learn to lump it—that's all. So you'll please to take off that bonnet again, and I'll open another Moet. I insist on it—as your medical man."

BOTH HOT AND BITTER

Is the Rough and Tumble Fight in North Grey.

It is Hard to Predict the Result, But the Liberals are Not Talking Now as if They Had a Sure Thing—Premier Hardy of Ontario Goes to the Rescue of His Fellow Brantfordite and Makes Some Blanket Promises—The Liberal Leaders Have Already Begun to Count Their Chickens in Years.

Owen Sound, Ont., Aug. 23.—(Special.)—Though the host of shouters who have made North Grey their camping ground during the past two weeks are resting quietly to-day at the hotels, out along the sideroads and back concessions the heelers and canvassers, regardless that it is the Sabbath, are hard at work. Each side, recognizing the immense importance of this fight, is leaving not the smallest stone unturned to secure a victory. Without question, the present contest is one of the keenest political battles in the history of Canada, and it is impossible to predict the result with any certainty. All that can be said is that the chances at present appear to be in favor of the Conservative candidate and that the Liberals are not showing the cocksure spirit that characterized them earlier in the fight.

What makes it hard to predict the outcome is that many electors are keeping very quiet about their intentions and no man knows in which direction this large uncommitted vote may drift at the last moment. There is, too, a considerable Catholic vote in North Grey, probably about 250 in all. Last June Mr. McLauchlan received the support of a fair share of these, perhaps 60 or 70, but it is doubtful if he will get more than ten or a dozen next Tuesday. To offset this loss, however, he will receive the almost solid support of the Orangemen, which he did not have in June. Finally, though he stands to lose slightly in Owen Sound on account of Mr. Paterson's prestige as a Minister, on the other hand the non-resident cry has been used with great effectiveness against the Controller of Customs in the rural districts. Whichever side wins, the majority will probably be small.

The Paterson meeting held in Owen Sound on Saturday night was a monster affair and the overflow was so great that some of the speakers had to leave the hall to address the crowd assembled outside. Premier Hardy had come up from Toronto, notwithstanding indisposition, to lend his fellow-Brantfordite a helping hand. He eulogized the Controller, ridiculed Hugh John Macdonald and appealed to the people to elect Mr. Paterson on account of the favors he could secure.

"I am not talking politics, but business," said Mr. Hardy. "I want to ask you what have you Owen Sounders to lose by electing Mr. Paterson? Cries of 'Nothing, nothing.') What have you to gain by electing Mr. McLauchlan? (Renewed cries of 'Nothing.') You say 'nothing.' That is the point you must keep before you. Do you want a shrivelling commerce, a decaying population, a lessening sphere of influence, or do you want the opposite? Shall Owen Sound stagnate for five years to come, or perhaps ten years to come, or will you have the sympathy of a Government at your back? You will not, in any event, get less than justice, but to have the active sympathy of a Government is one thing and to have only cold justice is another thing."

That is a fair sample of the appeals that the Grits are making to the people of this town.

The other speakers were William Bain, M.P., Wentworth; James Lister, M.P., Lambton; William Lount, M.P., Centre Toronto; Mr. Paterson, Mayor Kennedy and Mr. G. B. Ryan of Guelph.

Messrs. Hardy, Lister and Lount were very abusive in their remarks concerning the Conservative party, especially in regard to Hugh John Macdonald, Clarke Wallace and Sir Charles Tupper. Mr. Lount was particularly offensive in his language towards the member for Winnipeg. He pictured Sir John's spirit in the region of the blessed, exclaiming, as it looked down to earth: "Shades of the mighty, can it be that this is all that remains of me?" He described Mr. Macdonald as a weakling physically, mentally and morally. Many Conservatives indignantly left the hall when Mr. Lount entered upon his tirade.

Mr. Paterson made an eloquent argumentative and courteous speech. He, no doubt, regretted the indiscreet words of his colleagues, which cannot possibly have strengthened his position.

It may be noted that Mr. Lister threatened that the Liberals, now that they had attained power, would hang onto it for the next 20 years. Mr. Lount went the member for Lambton one better and placed it at 25 years.

Thirteen meetings were held last night in the interest of Mr. McLauchlan, including the one at Chatsworth, addressed by Hon. Hugh John Macdonald. Only two meetings besides the one in Owen Sound were held by Mr. Paterson's friends. The Conservatives will close their campaign with another meeting here on Monday night.

GREAT FIRE IN BUFFALO.

The Wooden Exposition Building and the Covered Half-Mile Track Destroyed by Firebugs.

Buffalo, Aug. 22.—Fire started in the Exposition building and in the covered half-mile track at the Buffalo Driving Park simultaneously about 15 minutes after the last of the spectators who witnessed the Grand Circuit races this afternoon had left the track. The Exposition building and half of the covered track was burned. One man named Martin, a hostler, who was taken into the covered track in an intoxicated condition just before the fire started, is thought to have been burned to death. The horses in the stables surrounding the track were rescued with much difficulty.

Six dwelling houses on Puffer-street were totally destroyed and five others badly damaged.

It was one of the hardest fires on record in the city to fight. Twenty firemen were overcome by heat.

In the Exposition building were stored all the election booths of the city, together with 300 racing sulkies. All were destroyed.

Beyond doubt the fire was of incendiary origin. The loss will be over $200,000.

No Lives Lost.

Buffalo, Aug. 23.—It was ascertained to-day that no lives were lost in the fire which destroyed the Exposition building, part of the covered track at the Buffalo Driving Park and several dwellings on Puffer-street last night. Nor were any of the valuable horses quartered there injured. The twenty or more firemen who were overcome by heat are reported to be out of danger to-day. There is no doubt but that the fire was of incendiary origin. The police have made no arrests, but think the fire was started by stable followers. The insurance on the building will not cover half the $200,000 loss.

The Exposition building was a large wooden structure built for fair purposes, but has not been used for several years. The owners, it is said, will rebuild the track, but not the Exposition building.

FOUR WERE KILLED.

A Freight on the Northern Pacific Thrown Into Clark's Fork River—Quicksand the Cause.

San Francisco, Aug. 23.—A special from Missoula, Mont., says westbound freight train No. 52 on the Northern Pacific Railway was wrecked one mile east of Horse Plains on the Rocky Mountain division yesterday and four train hands lost their lives. The dead are: George Weigle, engineer, Hope, Idaho; L. I. Frizelle, fireman, Hope, Idaho; J. W. Bolger, brakeman, Spokane; R. M. Fish, wiper, Jocko, Idaho. The train left Missoula Friday night. When opposite Mile Board a huge filling several hundred feet long spread, throwing the entire train into Clark's Fork River. The victims mentioned were all instantly killed. Their bodies have been recovered. It is supposed the slide was caused by settling of quicksand. The roadway is still impassable and the officials are withholding the details of the wreck.

WERE THE FIVE DROWNED?

The Body of One of a Missing Fishing Party Found in the St. Lawrence Near Quebec.

Quebec, Aug. 22.—On the 18th inst. five men of Berthier, County of Montmagny, left in a small boat for a fishing trip around the Quarantine Station, Grosse Isle. Nothing of them has been heard until this afternoon, when the body of one of the men, named Lesperance, was found by J. B. Turcotte and A. Dancause of this place. The whereabouts of the boat and the other four men is unknown. It is supposed the boat was smashed to atoms on the rocks and all her occupants drowned. The names of the four missing men are Joseph Lesperance, brother of the man whose body was found, Boissonneault and Coillard of St. Pierre, Montmagny, and young Fortin of St. Thomas village. They were all married men except young Fortin. Lesperance was a widower and leaves three young children.

COUNTERFEIT SEALS.

The Walkerville Distillery Gets Trail of and Prosecutes a Simcoe, Ont., Dealer, Who is Fined.

Montreal, Aug. 23.—(Special.)—The Canadian Secret Service has just concluded a case of the greatest possible interest, not only to liquor dealers in particular, but to the general public. Early this month the firm of Hiram Walker & Sons, Walkerville, Ont., in examining a consignment of empty barrels sent back to them by customers for rebate, noticed on one of them a counterfeit seal. It may be mentioned here that several years ago, finding it of common occurrence that their barrels were tampered with in transit, and either a portion drawn off and the barrel left short weight or water and coloring substituted to cover up the theft, the firm affixed a seal to each barrel, a portion on the bung and the other half on the barrel.

It was this seal that it was found counterfeited and Hiram Walker & Sons at once communicated with Chief Carpenter of the Canadian Secret Service. That gentleman at once detailed an officer to carry out the instructions of the firm, that is to discover the counterfeiter with such evidence as would lead to his conviction. On looking over the barrels returned from Norfolk, Ont., the officer found several bearing the counterfeit seal. He traced these barrels to James Cutting, wholesale liquor dealer of Simcoe, Ont., and after further hard work secured sufficient evidence to warrant action being taken against Cutting. Acting under the advice of Walker & Sons, the officer proceeded to prosecute. A search warrant was taken out and a thorough examination of Cutting's premises resulted in the discovery of the counterfeit stamp and a number of barrels bearing the counterfeit seal. Cutting at once confessed to the officer. He said he had got the counterfeit seal made in Chicago while visiting the World's Fair. It was his practice, when the original barrels of whisky came from Hiram Walker & Sons, to remove the original seal, take out the bung and remove about quarter of the contents. He then colored an equal quantity of water with burnt sugar and dumped it into the barrel to prevent the shortage from being discovered. This done, he would replace the bung, affix the bogus seal and ship to customers.

Cutting was at once arraigned before the Police Magistrate of Simcoe, Mr. Beemer, on a charge of counterfeiting. He pleaded guilty, elected to be tried summarily, and was heavily fined.

DYING WHILE HE RAN.

The Awful Death of Oscar Wammock, an Oil Driller—He Was Burned Alive.

Findlay, O., Aug. 22.—Oscar Wammock met his death in a horrible manner last night near Bluffton. He was drilling in an oil well, when the well unexpectedly began spurting oil. Wammock's clothing was completely saturated with the oil, and as he started to run from the derrick, the gas from the well ignited from the fire under the boiler enveloped the driller in a sheet of flame. He continued to run until his clothing was nearly all burned off him, when he fell. He died a short time later. His home was at Fairview, Penn. The derrick and surrounding buildings were all consumed. The well, which is still flowing oil above the tree tops, makes a pillar of fire visible for miles around.

DROWNED IN THE MILL DAM.

The Sad End of Ambrose Winter, a Young Man of Hespeler.

Hespeler, Ont., Aug. 22.—Yesterday afternoon a young unmarried man named Ambrose Winter was drowned in the milldam at Fisher's mill about two miles from this place. The unfortunate victim was fishing and is believed to have fallen into the water while in a fit. Some years ago he met with a serious accident and has been subject to fits ever since. Not returning home, a search was instituted and his body was soon recovered quite near the shore. He was the son of Mr. Fountain Winter and was one of a large and highly respected family.

TERRIFIC STORM AT THE FALLS.

Thunder and Lightning Accompanied by a Heavy Downpour—Church Struck.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 23.—A most terrific thunderstorm, accompanied by a small cyclone and heavy downpour, passed over this town about 1 o'clock this morning. The lightning was sharp and peals of thunder cracked with terrific force, that shook the buildings like an earthquake and aroused the town. Only one place so far heard from was struck by the lightning, that being the spire of the Presbyterian Church, the electric fluid entering at the top of the spire, ripping out the south side, tearing the large timbers inside into splinters and ripping off a portion of the cornice as it shot down to the ground. Damage to the church about $400. Slight damage in the country to the fruit being whipped by the wind.

TORONTO MARKETS.

Flour—The market is quiet and steady. Straight rollers are quoted at $3.10 to $3.15 west, and new wheat straight rollers at $2.95 to $3.

A SERIOUS CASE.

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & CO.
I Used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for my little boy for summer complaint and it cured him. He was so bad that he had convulsions and would strain so that he ruptured himself, but as soon as I got the extract for him he got well.
MRS. ELIZA M. OVERHOLT.
Fonthill, Ont.

Mrs. Sequel—I understand your husband can't meet his creditors. Mrs. Equal—I don't believe he wants to, especially.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

"Jenkins claimed that I insulted him." "Did you give him satisfaction?" "Guess I did. He pounded me until he was tired."

TO BE REMOVED.

All the effete or waste matter of the system is removed by a perfect action of Laxative Liver Pills. Thus they prevent as well as cure Sick headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Jaundice, Dizziness, etc.

"I'm going to swear out a warrant against the weather man." "What for?" "Malicious scorching."

CURES SUMMER COMPLAINT.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for twelve years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer complaints. In our family it has never failed to cure any case. MRS. BENJ. LONGLEY.

Mount Emmons, 13,694 feet, is said to be the highest in Utah.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue."

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels, therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height,

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as wel as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forfet this.

SOME RED HOT TALK

Sir Charles Tupper Scored the Premier Roundly.

Showed How the Liberals Told One Story in Ontario and Another in Quebec During the Late Campaign—The Manitoba School Question a Subject of Warm Debate—Sir Charles Admits that He Was Mistaken as to the Feeling of the Roman Catholics—Mr. Laurier's Lively Reply—Mr. Foster Has the Floor.

Ottawa, Aug. 24.—(Special.)—No public bills in the hands of private members were ready for introduction today and the first business on the order paper was the disposal of questions.

Mr. Cameron had five queries in reference to Captain McGregor of the Government survey boat Bayfield, charging him with being an active political canvasser and partisan on behalf of the Conservative candidate in West Huron.

Mr. Davies said the Government was not aware that Captain McGregor was an active political canvasser for the Conservatives, but complaints in that direction had lately been made to the Department, which complaints would be investigated. On the occasion of the general election, Captain McGregor was absent from the Bayfield for some days, presumably for the purpose of voting. He was so absent with the knowledge of the Government. No record of any application for leave of absence was received, but the officer in charge of the survey was authorized to grant leave to any officer if he wished to go and vote.

In reply to another question by Mr. Cameron, Mr. Davies said the Government was not aware that Captain Dunn, of the Government cruiser Petrel, had conveyed voters from various ports on the east coast of Lake Huron to Owen Sound to vote for the Conservative candidate. No record was on hand in the department to show that the cruiser had been used for any such purpose. Captain Dunn had instructions to go into Lake Huron to patrol the waters of that lake. He was not limited to any particular point.

Mr. Cameron was informed by Mr. Laurier that it was not the intention of the Government during the present session to introduce a bill to repeal the present Franchise Act, the intention being as far as practicable that the session should be short and expeditious. Should, however, the session be prolonged beyond the expected length the Government might then think it advisable to introduce a bill to repeal the present Franchise Act. (Opposition laughter.)

Sir Richard Cartwright, answering Mr. Langelier, said that two tenders had been received for the fast steamship service between Canada and England, one from the Allan Line, the other from Mr. James Huddart. Neither was in accordance with the conditions of the contract. The Government proposed to make further investigations before taking final action in the matter.

Mr. Laurier informed Mr. Langelier that it was not the intention of the Government to build a bridge in front of Quebec to connect the I.C.R. with the C.P.R. The Government had no application before them for aid for such an enterprise.

Mr. Fielding informed Mr. Davin that the matter of placing a sum in the estimates to pay the outstanding indebtedness in connection with the Northwest Exhibition held in Regina in 1895 was under consideration.

Mr. Davies informed Col. Kaulbach that the fishery bounty was regulated by statute and it was not the intention of the Government at the present session to introduce any legislation on the subject.

So also said Mr. Fielding to Mr. Kaulbach in the matter of placing Indian corn on the free list.

Mr. Laurier informed Sir C. H. Tupper that the Controllers of Inland Revenue and Customs under the existing law were not and could not be members of the Cabinet. The intention of the Government to restore these departments to their former status had already been announced by the Prime Minister.

Sir Charles Tupper called attention to the report of Mr. Laurier's speech, delivered in Montreal on Jan. 22, 1895, in which he claimed that under a revenue tariff all the raw materials should be free. He asked if Mr. Laurier had been accurately reported.

Mr. Laurier replied: "I must tell my honorable friend that, notwithstanding every desire I have to oblige him, I am afraid I shall not be able to gratify his rather fastidious curiosity. I am forced to make the painful admission that my memory, which I had the weakness to suppose was pretty good, is not equal to the task of remembering word for word a speech delivered more than 18 months ago."

Mr. Davies informed Major Hughes that no decision had been reached by the Government in respect to abandoning the Trent Canal enterprise. The matter of entering into new contracts was under consideration.

Sir Charles Tupper asked whether the Premier had considered the urgent appeal which he made the other day to have the correspondence between His Excellency and the late Government laid on the table in order that it might be under consideration in connection with the debate on the address.

Mr. Laurier said he had, and saw no reason to depart from the decision which he had communicated to the honorable gentleman. The intention was to have the correspondence laid on the table immediately after the debate on the address was concluded. He proposed to have it printed so that members could be all cognizant of it.

Mr. McInnes of Vancouver moved the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, and Mr. Lemieux, the young member for Gaspe, seconded it, the latter speaking in French.

Sir Charles Takes a Hand.

Sir Charles Tupper congratulated the mover and seconder upon their speeches, remarking that Mr. McInnes' speech was, while vigorously delivered, given in a rather aggressive spirit. He had referred to this being the first time upon which British Columbia had been honored by having one of its representatives move the address, but towards the close of his speech the hon. member had urged strongly, but of course unselfishly, upon his Government the necessity of having British Columbia represented in the Cabinet. In the late Conservative Government British Columbia had been so represented, but the hon. member evidently thought the privilege of moving the address the greater benefit to the province. Mr. McInnes was incorrect in attributing the Liberal success in British Columbia to a change in the sentiment of the people. The trouble was that there were too many Conservative candidates, and to that the honorable member owed his own election, for he was in a minority of 450 votes, as compared with the votes cast for his two Conservative opponents. Sir Charles could, however, congratulate the seconder of the address upon his patriotic speech, although he considered the facts, especially as regards Quebec, were against his contention that the Conservatives had done nothing for the fishermen and the farmer. The Liberals had opposed the encouragement to farming and dairying given by the Conservatives, as well as the Treaty of Washington, under which an award was obtained which enabled the Conservative Government to pay $150,000 a year in bonuses to the fishermen.

As to the Liberal victory, Sir Charles was pleased so far as it had elevated to the Premiership a representative of the French-Canadian race, but he regretted the mode by which this victory had been obtained. He had not obtained a majority upon any of the great issues upon which the two parties were divided. After the victory of 1878, Sir Leonard Tilley brought down a tariff bill, crystallizing the policy of protection, so as to draw the admission from the Liberals that the Conservatives had certainly carried out their pledges. Now, as late as 1893, Sir Richard Cartwright stated the fiscal policy of the Liberals to be to destroy this villainous protective system, which had been grinding out the vitals of our people. (Laughter.) He repeated in 1894 that the Liberal policy was, "First and last to do away with protection How? I do not care." Mr. Davies had declared the issue to be "Free trade versus protection," eliminating from the tariff every vestige of protection." Mr. Laurier, himself, declared that the duty on coal and iron should be removed.

But as the campaign proceeded, the Liberal leader got new light and most emphatically declared that the policy of protection was not to be overthrown, but improved. He had, therefore, received no mandate from the people to break down the policy of protection and adopt free trade or a revenue tariff, as had been the professed object of the Liberals for years past, and he congratulated the Hon. First Minister on the enlightened views which he had at last been induced to adopt, promising, as it did, security to our industries in consequence of that enlightenment. (Cheers.)

Another issue before the people was the unfortunate Manitoba school question. (Liberal "Hear, hear.") The policy of the Bowell Administration was one of remedying the grievances of the minority in consonance with the decision of the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council. He himself, when called into the Government, introduced a Remedial Bill, following out that policy. Mr. Laurier moved the six months' hoist as a protest against "coercion," taking his stand upon the unwisdom of interfering with the autonomy of the province, and declaring that only by conciliating the majority could the privileges of the minority be restored. That was the cry throughout Ontario; in Quebec, however, it was different. He called attention to the report of a speech by Mr. Laurier at St. Rochs, Que., and published in Le Sud on May 12 last, when he said if the means of conciliation failed he would have recourse to constitutional means, "and then I will use them fully and in their entirety." (Hear, hear.)

Nothing could be more emphatic than that statement. In one province the Premier was a strong advocate of non-interference, in another province in gambling parlance, he was prepared to go one better than the late Government. (Hear, hear.) A majority obtained by the avoidance of a sharp issue was not a majority secured by fair and legitimate means, and, considering the manner in which Mr. Laurier had secured power, if he had had the same policy in Quebec, which he put forward in Ontario, the honorable gentleman would still have been in Opposition. (Loud cheers.) The charge had been made against him (Sir Charles) of endeavoring to raise a racial and religious cry in this country. After a public life of 41 years, he could say that no man could properly lay the charge to him. (Cheers.) On the contrary, his whole public career bore testimony of his endeavor to promote harmony and good will among all classes in Canada. (Cheers.) Mr. Laurier had entirely misrepresented his (Sir Charles') speech in Winnipeg. He made no appeal to the electors of Canada to reject Mr. Laurier because he was a Frenchman or a Catholic. Not a word in the speech would bear that construction. The appeal he had made was to his own friends whom he had asked if they were going to turn their backs on him for the purpose of bringing in a French Roman Catholic Prime Minister. (Ministerial cheers.) He was afraid the hon. gentlemen opposite were not acute logicians. He repeated he was not appealing at Winnipeg to the Canadian electorate, but to his own friends whom he asked if they would not be stultifying themselves if they struck his Government down for the purpose of bringing in a French-Canadian Roman Catholic Premier, who declared that he would go further than himself. He was in the judgment of every man in the House and country when he said that no such construction would be placed on his speech as that which the Premier had placed upon it. ("Hear, hear.") He was the last man in the world to resort to the cry of race or religion in order to gain a point over a political opponent. ("Hear, hear.")

Adverting to the general election, Sir Charles said the Conservatives polled 19.000 more votes than their opponents. A change of five members would give the Conservatives a majority in every province except Quebec. He must admit that he had not expected it. He had been charged with making a compact with the Bishops of Quebec, but that statement was wholly unfounded. Since he came to Canada neither directly nor indirectly had he had any communication with a bishop of Quebec. ("Hear, hear.")

In the light of what he received on June 23 he was free to confess now that he had greatly overrated the importance of the question of remedial legislation. He had entered upon the advocacy of that question under conviction that the Government of Canada was bound by every principle of right and justice to carry out the law and constitution. He entertained the opinion that the Roman Catholics of Canada attached most vital importance to the question of religious education for their children, but seemingly he had been mistaken. In future, as in the past, however, the cardinal principle of the Conservative party would be equal justice to all without respect to race or creed. (Cheers.)

The responsibility for settling this question rested no longer upon the Conservatives, but on the Liberals. He sincerely trusted Mr. Laurier would be successful in securing a happy termination to this question, which would do justice and give satisfaction to all parties. Mr. Laurier not only had his most cordial wishes for the successful termination of that question, but anything he (Sir Charles) could contribute to that end would be most cheerfully done. (Cheers.) The speech under review was more remarkable for what it did not contain than for what it contained. The speech said that Parliament was called for the express purpose of voting supplies, but the Government's action showed that Parliament was not required at all. On the contrary, supplies had already been purchased by the Governor-General, a gross violation of law. By that action they had trampled under foot every principle that they had formerly held dear. In this speech Mr. Laurier had been careful not to propound any policy.

Surely he might have been more cautious in his statement of policy to a foreign newspaper man. (Cheers.) He was astonished, nay amazed, when he heard the First Minister the other day declare that The Chicago Record interview was substantially correct. Presumably the hon gentleman had taken his colleagues into his confidence, but whether he had or not the records of statesmanship in any country would be searched in vain for an act more unjustifiable. (Cheers.) Mr. Laurier's action was one of unqualified folly. In diplomacy it was necessary to proceed cautiously and in a tactful manner. But for the Premier to place his heart upon his sleeve and to state to the whole world what he proposed to ask the United States to do was an act of great folly. Moreover, it was in the last degree unpatriotic.

Evidently Mr. Laurier wished to indoctrinate the people of the United States with the idea that the Liberal party was more friendly to that country than were the Conservatives, whereas on every occasion the Conservative party had shown the utmost desire to live on the most friendly terms with the people of the United States.

Sir Charles proceeded to refer to the treaty of 1871, which was denounced then by the Liberals as a base surrender to the United States, but which it was Mr. Laurier's highest ambition now to renew. With respect to the Atlantic fisheries question, he pointed out that since the modus vivendi of 1888, there had not been a single complaint from the United States.

Sir Charles also referred to the canal question and strongly condemned Mr. Laurier's proposal to allow the United States joint control of the Canadian canal system. As regards the fiscal policy of the Government, he said that free trade would be bad enough; a revenue tariff was bad, but uncertainty was worse. He pointed out that the depression in the United States was caused by the feeling of uncertainty as to what the tariff changes would be. Canada, through the protection of the National Policy, had escaped that depression. (Loud cheers and some Ministerial laughter.) He urged that the Government should not paralyze Canadian industries by uncertainty. To the Maritime Provinces the coal duty was a question of life and death. (Hear, hear.) What about the iron duties? How were the Government going to handle their Minister of Justice, who had evidenced his protectionist views by increasing the bounty on iron produced in Ontario? (Hear, hear.) He trusted Mr. Laurier would throw behind him his free trade rhodomontade and declare himself as a protector of Canadian industries. If he would do that he would find the Opposition prepared to aid him heart and hand in anything calculated to maintain the progress and prosperity of this country, and in which he believed protection to our native industries was absolutely indispensable. (Loud cheers.)

Premier Laurier Follows.

Mr. Laurier was received with great Liberal applause as he arose to reply. He had not much fault to find with Sir Charles Tupper's speech, nor would he criticise it at length. Everything considered, it was a moderate speech for Sir Charles Tupper had given up a high office, unlike Caesar though; he came and saw, but had not conquered. It was evident, he continued, that Sir Charles was not yet aware of the cause of the recent political earthquake. He would not go minutely into the charge that the Liberals had not won upon any issue before the people; he would simply say, "Here we are, and there are they." So, too, he preferred to look at the general result rather than go minutely into the argument that the party defeated had 19,000 more votes than the victors. What then became of the much "talked" of gerrymander? (Opposition cries of Hear, hear.) There were other causes for the Conservative defeat. First, because their fiscal policy, misnamed the National Policy, had not fulfilled the expectation of the people; second, because of the extravagance and corruption of their administration; third, because, instead of appealing to the conviction and conscience of the people, they had appealed to sectional and religious prejudices, thereby creating distrust, and a division in their party that would never be healed. (A voice, It's all healed now.) It was because of those two Conservative parties that the mover of the address had been elected. And as to his speech, he was bound to say that Mr. McInnes had pled the cause of British Columbia as he had never heard it pled before. (Hear, hear and laughter.)

Sir Charles, evidently believing, with Talleyrand, that speech was given us to conceal our thoughts, accused him of undue candor in his interview with an American newspaper reporter. The same could not be charged against Sir Charles, who, in 1891, declared that the Conservatives had been invited to undertake negotiations at Washington, and after Mr. Blaine's denial, was forced to eat humble pie, before he could get an audience at Washington. As to consenting to joint control by the United States of canals in Canada, he was only following out the policy of the late Administration, and in support of this read an order in council, commissioning two Canadian engineers to act with those appointed by the United States in furtherance of the deep waterways convention scheme. As to the fisheries, he would say that the treatment of American fishermen by the Conservative Government in 1886, 1887 and 1383, was such as to bring upon us the threat of commercial war.

He admitted the speech was rather a meagre bill of fare, but he had not supposed the honorable gentleman would have had any stomach for a very heavy meal under the circumstances. (Laughter.) As to the issue of the Governor-General's warrants, that matter would be discussed at another time. Sir Charles had charged that, while elected on a policy of tariff reform, the Government was not prepared to carry out its pledges. The issue really was whether the National Policy should be preserved intact as it was, or whether it should be reformed.

Now they were asked to bring on their tariff reform measure at once. The reason that it could not be done was that, even when the people decide for tariff reform it cannot be had without exposing the country to some extent to commercial disturbance. The Government would have to proceed cautiously. Undoubtedly certain items might be referred to immediately. The hon. gentleman had referred to coal, but the tariff should be reformed as a whole. What might benefit some might injure others, and to disturb the condition of one might disturb the condition of all. Therefore, he continued, we are forced to the conclusion that if we are to reform the tariff, as reform it we will, we must do it in a single general measure to be submitted to Parliament.

Continuing, Mr. Laurier denied the charge of Sir Charles that he had one policy here and another there.

Mr. Foster moved the adjournment of the debate.

Sir Charles Tupper (on Mr. Laurier's motion to adjourn the House) referred to the loss the country had sustained by the death of Sir David Macpherson.

Mr. Laurier acquiesced in these sentiments of regret, and added a kindly reference to the death of the late Liberal member-elect for North Grey. (Mr. Clark).

The House adjourned at 10.20 p.m.

A Surprise.

Some time ago I had occasion to be abroad of one of our large liners, when I observed an old lady looking over the ship.

After walking around for some considerable time she came across a sail pumping fresh water from below, when she suddenly exclaimed:

TWENTY-FIRST CHILD.

Little Mina Ruth Gillivray is Five Days Old

And Weighs Ten Pounds—Her Father Has Passed the Allotted Span of Human Life and Her Mother is Three Score Years Old—Mrs. Gillivray is an Englishwoman and Now Has Her Second Husband—A Case Which is Causing Wonderment in Toronto.

Toronto, Aug. 25.

One of the latest little strangers to arrive in town is Mina Ruth Gillivray, who came last Wednesday. She is now five days old and weighs about ten pounds. Her parents reside in a little frame cottage at 30 Regent-street. The father, William Gillivray, who is employed at the crematory, has reached the allotted span of three score and ten years of life, and the mother was 60 years of age last July.

A newspaper reporter called at the cottage to see little Mina Ruth last night. Mr. Gillivray was out, but Mrs. Gillivray, who is not yet able to be up, called out that if he was a married man he could come in. The scribe pleaded guilty and was allowed to enter. On a neat little bed, covered with spotless white clothes, little Mina Ruth lay beside her mother. The child is very pretty and the mother has evidently, in her day been a very handsome woman. Her hair is now almost white, but she bears her age well and is one of those kindly souls, eminently fitted by nature to be a real mother. She told the reporter that the little bit of humanity beside her was her 21st child, but only seven of them are now living.

Mrs. Gillivray was formerly a Mrs. Newman and came with her first husband from Cheltenham, Eng., over 20 years ago. She had 18 children by her first husband, whom she married when she was only 15 years of age. He has been dead a good many years. Mrs. Newman married Mr. Gillivray five years ago, and since then little Mina Ruth is her third child. The first, a charming little girl, now three years and eight months old, is, owing to her old-fashioned ways, a marvel to the neighbors, and is such a pet with everyone that the mother is in constant dread that someone will take the child from her. A little boy, born to Mr. and Mrs. Gillivray a couple of years ago, died a few days after birth.

Mrs. Gillivray is an active member of Berkeley-street Methodist Church and places the most entire trust in the will of Divine Providence. She says it is God's will that she should have brought so many children into the world, and she thanks Him fervently for the blessing.

Two years ago Mrs. Gillivray's hair, which had then hardly a streak of grey in it, turned white in a week. It was at the time her son, who was 29 years of age, died suddenly in Blackwood, Dakota, just as he was on the eve of coming home to see her, after a separation of many years. Her eldest son living is now 37 years old.

Little Mina Ruth is getting along nicely, but the mother is not so well as she would wish.

DR. GALLAGHER'S FREEDOM.

The Irish Dynamiter's Expenses Will be Paid by the U.S. Government.

London, Aug. 24.—It is learned by the United Associated Presses on official authority that Dr. Gallagher, the Irish-American, who, with Daly, Whitehead and others, convicted as dynamiters, has been confined in Portland Prison, will be released in the course of the next ten days and will sail for the United States without delay. The United States Government, through M. J. R. Roosevelt, Secretary of the United States Embassy, will pay the passage of Dr. Gallagher and the physician attending him to New York.

A Truth [illegible]

It is a great art to do the right thing at the right season.—Aesop.

Very often Nature needs only a little help to get over an obstruction. When a boom of logs is floating down a river, all goes well until one single log strikes something and sticks. Then there's a "jam"—and trouble. It is just so in the progress of food through the digestive organs. Everything goes well till something sticks. Then the process of digestion stops. That's indigestion. Unless the impediment is removed, poisonous putrid matter begins to accumulate. There's a "jam"—constipation, and trouble. Sick headache, biliousness, sleeplessness, vertigo, heartburn, loss of appetite—these are some of the symptoms. Just a little help at the appearance of the first one would end the trouble. Nature is a hard worker, but she needs assistance if too much be put upon her.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets offer the best and simplest method for furnishing this assistance. They are prompt and very effective in their action, but they are not strong nor severe. They cause no violent wrench of the system. They go right to the "log" that is fast and loosen it. Nature does the rest. By and by, with a little care in dieting, Nature will do it all. That's one great advantage of the "Pleasant Pellets" over the many strongly cathartic pills—you do not become a slave to their use. They really cure the trouble they are meant to cure. Even the worst kind of chronic constipation disappears with their use.

CAUTION.—Some designing dealers do not permit their customers to have Dr. Pierce's Pellets because inferior pills afford greater profits. Such dealers are short sighted. They overlook the fact that next time you will go where you are supplied with what you ask for.

Daily Intelligencer.

PREPOSTEROUS AND UNPATRIOTIC.

Mr. Laurier having reaffirmed in Parliament his statement to a representative of a Chicago newspaper, namely—

> Commissioners have been appointed by the Governments of the two countries to consider the question of a deep-waterway system, and I am in hopes that a perfectly feasible scheme will shortly be reported—a scheme that will enable the United States to participate in the work and exercise a joint control, without in any way compromising the sovereignty of Canada over its own territory, it is desirable that our people should carefully consider the subject, as to which we may say, imprimis, that Mr. Laurier's ideas as to a community of interests between the United States and Canada are quite as absurd as they were in connection with the commercial annexation scheme, which the Hon. Edward Blake in 1891 denounced in terms which are familiar to our readers. The Montreal Gazette, in discussing this question, remarks with its usual good sense and acumen: It is feared that, if Mr. Laurier is reported aright, his Government is this matter will neither be found to be business-like nor economical. There is only the roughest estimate of what such a waterway in Canadian territory would cost. It has been calculated at $100,000,000, a sum so great that even the most optimistic would hesitate at undertaking to provide it. There are two distinct divisions of the work, however, the deepening of the natural channels and the enlargement of the canals. If the United States people, for the sake of aiding in the transportation via Montreal of so much of their surplus Western products as find a market in Europe, cared to undertake a share of this heavy expenditure, it might be arranged that the work on the natural channels should be left to them, while Canada provided the canal facilities when she was able. But there is no plan, which an independent country could agree to, under which a foreign government should spend money on and exercise control over its public works. When the United States authorities refused to allow Canadian troops on their way to the Northwest to pass through the Sault Ste. Marie Canal, they caused much annoyance, but everyone understood that the principle behind the course taken was right. The same principle opposes the idea that the United States Congress can assume any responsibility for or exercise any control over works in Canadian territory. There is only room for one Government responsible to one parliament in this country. We cannot have a foreign board of control or an outside Baring ordering Canadian officials about on the banks of the St. Laurence as Egyptian officials are ordered about on the banks of the Nile. If Canadians want annexation to the United States, to use Mr. Blake's expression in condemning the Liberal policy of commercial union, they will want it straight after they have discussed it as annexation. They do not want it surreptitiously introduced by a customs arrangment nor imported in disguise through the canals.

The Kingston News also discusses the question in a very pointed article, the concluding paragraph of which is as follows: If this means anything at all, it means that the United States are to be admitted to joint ownership of the Canadian system of canals, and that these are to be completed with American capital—every privilege that Canada possesses through natural endowment and superior enterprise to be shared by her commercial rival and political adversary. For reasons which we have already given at length, and which we shall reproduce when space permits, we can only regard such a scheme as equally preposterous and unpatriotic. But it is quite in keeping with the principles of the man who told the Boston merchants that sooner or later Canada must cease to be part of the British Empire, and that Canada's interests and those of the United States are identical.

A PETRIFIED MAN.

A Remarkable Discovery is Made Near Marinette, Wis.

A most remarkable find was made recently on Van Chollette's farm, several miles west of Marinette, Wis., on the Peshtigo river. Mr. Van Chollette went out in a boggy field to get some wet muck to put under his horses' feet and had dug down about two feet in the damp soil when his spade struck stone. He investigated farther and was horrified to see the form of a man. The remains were uncovered and found to be entirely petrified. Even the wrinkles in the face and hands were visible and the evidences of a mustache can be distinguished.

What appears to be a bullet hole is in the left breast and a gash like a stab and another smaller hole in the right breast. The man was evidently strongly built and powerful. The cheek bones are not high for an Indian. The body now weighs 400 pounds and is 5 feet 10 inches long. Mr. Van Chollette has already refused a big sum for the specimen.

Prospective Apple Crop Report.

Messrs. M. H. Peterson & Co. have issued the following circular: We beg to submit for your perusal and guidance our ideas regarding the indications of this year's apple crop and prospects, formed both from observation and from reports by us received from reliable correspondents from various apple-producing sections wherever apples are grown.

GREAT BRITAIN—Appreciably less than last year, as from 392 reports received, only 75 are above average, while 152 are average and 165 under average; while last year, from 371 reports received, 161 were over average and 50 under average. It is true Ireland has quite a crop of apples, but these do not seriously compete with apples from this side.

CONTINENT—GERMANY AND HOLLAND—About one-third of an average crop, with late varieties preponderating.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM—Late kinds short and early sorts in fair supply, except along the Franco-Belgian frontier, where there is quite a crop.

PORTUGAL—A promising crop, of good quality.

ITALY.—A fair crop, which, however, is usually not sent to Great Britain until January or February.

UNITED STATES.—New England States, New York and Michigan the largest crop in years, mostly of good quality. Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin a good crop. Missouri and Kansas considerably less than last yea.

CANADA.—NOVA SCOTIA a large crop of good quality—many young orchards just commencing to bear are well loaded. ONTARIO will also have a large crop of generally good quality. In one county alone, all estimates received states the yield will not be less than 500,000 barrels.

One can steadily understand that this season, so far as this side is concerned, the large yield is in the portions which naturally and usually export to Great Britain. The United States are supplied much beyond their requirements, and from many quarters comes the enquiry, what is to become of this year's enormous apple crop?

The only accessible market which has not a sufficient home supply is again, this season, Great Britain; but different sections from this side could, if shipments were freely sent, swamp this market, and the great question therefore is, how are we to market this enormous crop with the least sacrifice to growers and buyers?

Great Britain can take a large quantity of choice apples, properly graded and carefully picked, at a low first price; and should anyone not rigorously observe this rule this season, it seems almost inevitable that results must be unfortunate. In estimating this season's prospects, bear in mind that there is a large amount of freight to be moved out of the country, and as the cost of transportation is a most important element, in reckoning on the cost of the package before the fruit is marketed, advise yourself before concluding the price the market will stand, what the through freight probably will be.

As a matter of fact, the through rate at present quoted is considerably higher than for a few years back, and as these rates are variable and quite liable to advance, the purchasing question is not an easy one. We would remind buyers that it is dangerous this season to be misled by glowing accounts of the probable market price to be realized for apples, so apt to be sent out by would-be receivers, who cannot possibly appreciate the immense crop on this side.

Remember large losses quickly swallow many small profits with sad experience to the only residue.

We, of course, base our remarks upon the indications as they are to-day barring wind and hailstorms, and dropping through heat and other unforseen causes which might, and sometimes do occur. At present this season has all the earmarks of a cautious year.

We would, therefore, again this season, urge buyers and shippers to be most conservative in their operations, only handling hand-picked fruit, carefully graded and properly packed, by experienced packers, at reasonably low first cost. There is an abundance of choice fruit for all, and anyone basing his operations on excitement, rivalry or unfounded rumours, cannot hope for a satisfactory season. Remember the freight and carrying charges are as much on a poor as a good barrel of apples.

Guard against handling a quantity of apples greater than you yourself or some one or ones of experience, in whom you have confidence, can personally oversee. There cannot be an outlet without consumption, and consumption to be at all commensurate with our enormous yield, must be at a low price. We have the supply, and the demand depends entirely upon the quantity, quality and cost.

A Poor Man's Comfort.

Cold and hunger are no respecters of persons. The winter wind howls around the rich man just as searchingly as it sweeps through the poor one. And Fibre Chamois is equally a boom to both with its wonderful, healthful, warmth-giving qualities, its light weight and trifling cost. Those to whom money is no object prefer using it to being burdened down by the weight of many wraps and those who perform outdoor duties in cold weather find it invaluable as it keeps out all wind and cold—not for an hour or so, but for all day, and yet adds nothing which hampers them no matter what their exercise may be. With it in their outer garmensts everyone can enjoy winter's coldest snaps in perfect comfort.

Noon as Nature's Dining Hour.

(Chicago Chronicle.)

Persons who keep close watch on themselves are of the opinion that the hour of noon is the most critical period of life. At that time the human frame undergoes serious changes. The stomach has dispatched the morning meal and sends scouting parties in search of another. The eyes and brain are on the alert, and there is a sort of all goneness pervading the anatomy that sharpens the faculties and puts a new edge on the teeth. It is nature's dining time, and everything about the healthy man or woman is attuned to the demolition or enjoyment of what is called a "good square meal." Those who pay heed to the prompting of nature at this divine hour have their reward in good appetite, good temper and excellent digestion, which is conductive to all the good that flesh is heir to. But those who, following the imperious dictates of fashion, defer the hour of dining until all natural longings are dead and have to be resurrected by adventitious aids lay a train of evils and discomforts which, sooner or later, become the plague of their lives. It is a well known fact that the noon diners are healthier and stronger and have better chances for long life than others.

Korns, Korns.

There are more than one sort of korns. Some korn is planted in the ground and the other sort don't need planting; they grow quite naturally on men's toes and don't need hoeing. This kind of korn has two sorts—one gentle or tender like until Bill Jones steps on your foot, when it gets boiling mad and swears like everything; the other is hard headed and makes a row all the time, especially when your boots are on. I don't like korns, and use the extracting medicine, Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor which removes them painlessly in twenty-four hours.

If Everybody Were in Scotland.

It is estsmated that the world has a population of about 1,450,000,000—say one thousand four hundred and fifty millions. If all these people, men, women and children, were brought to Scotland they would form on landing a crowd almost large enough to cover the county of Linlithgow. If established in a town, with houses, streets, gardens, etc., all of the usual kind, they would occupy the whole of the Scottish mainland south of the Caledonian canal. If scattered over the whole country, mainland and islands, they would have, per individual, a space of almost 64 square yards, or per family, a space of about 300 square yards.—J. Forbes, Edinburgh.

You cannot say that you have tried every thing for your rheumatism, until you have taken Ayer's Pills. Hundreds have been cured of this complaint by the use of these Pills alone. They were admitted on exhibition at the World's Fair as a standard cathartic.

And time beats the best bird at flying

"KIDS."

"What's this bit of lead, captain?" asked the colonel's nephew, who had dropped in on the surgeon at his plain quarters facing the parade.

"Apache bullet!" replied the doctor, sententiously, with a carelessness that evidently was assumed. "Dug it out of Bristow."

"Would you mind yarning me the tale?" continued the visitor, with a pardonable inquisitiveness.

"Certainly, I'll tell what I know about the lead," said the surgeon, laying down the instruments he had been cleaning, and offering his civilian guest an armchair upon the veranda. "But 'tis only a short story." And then wizened-faced, but kind-hearted, old Sawbones continued: "Bristow was a little dude—one among many dandies at the Point back in the '70's. I took note of him when I was on duty there as assistant surgeon. He came to the academy as a dapper young city chap, inclined to air his pedigree and social advantages, until the yearlings knocked all that sort of thing out of him in plebe camp. But one thing those gray-coated tyrants never knocked out of Bristow, and that was the style. He was a dandier fellow in cadet gray than ever he had been in dress suit and kids and the first man in his class to take colors. But he was always thought to be a bit too foppish and airy in his manners, and his slight build and rather effeminate look exposed him to frequent ridicule at the hands of some of the strapping upper classmen. And, indeed, I did not very much take to him myself, though he was a distant relative. You see," and here the doctor dropped his voice, impressively, "there are some poor sticks at the academy, as elsewhere, and it has been well said by Jones, of the staff, that 'the only point about some men in the army is West Point.' Accordingly, I did not give Bristow credit for the possession of much grit and backbone, until one day, in his second class year, when he was brought over to the hospital, having had a fall in the riding hall, and there and then bore himself with such undeniable pluck while some of us worked over him that I, at least, began to think that 'Kids,' as his classmates called him, was worth his salt after all, and might make a soldier some day."

"But all that doesn't explain the bullet!" interrupted the colonel's nephew.

"No, that's a fact," replied the surgeon. "We doctors are too garrulous. Well, the explanation of the bullet was a girl, of course—Gertrude Creighton, the blithest belle of that season at the Point. Bristow was infatuated with her, little fool! It was the old story of the moth singeing its wings at the candle. He thought the Point a paradise so long as Gertrude trod its walks.

"But the fond dream of bliss was dissipated when graduation day arrived and the girl threw him over, never having had the least idea—as any of us older ones could have told him—of roughing it upon the frontier as a soldier's bride.

"Bristow followed Gertrude to Newport on his graduation leave; but his entreaties were all in vain, and sick at heart he joined shortly after the —th cavalry, then in Arizona; for he could always ride and had chosen that arm of the service. On the frontier he could not be quite the dude he had been at the Point, but still he was always the best-dressed subaltern in the regiment. He had money enough, for one thing.

"But to come now to the bullet. Gertrude Creighton married a Curton, the son of a rich mine owner. Paterfamilias Curton wanted this youthful scion to make a short trip with a view to looking after some of his interests in the west. And so it came to pass that one day out in Arizona this same young Curton, in company with a few prospectors, ran right into a small band of Apaches. For a time they stood the Indians off, while one of Curton's crowd got away and brought the news into Fort Blister. It didn't take long for a detail, under command of the dude sub, to mount and bear away for the scene of the excitement.

"But the messenger had underrated the number of the Apaches, and for once our colonel had erred in judgment with regard to the size of the detachment he sent out. The Apaches were too proud to be driven off by Bristow's little squad. When the troopers arrived they found a serious business on their hands. The prospecting party had been nearly cut to pieces. Only one or two survived. One of them was Curton, and he was badly wounded. Bristow, the first sergeant said afterward, started violently when he saw him, and for a moment was quite unnerved. Bristow had met Curton in past years, and knew, of course, that he was Gertrude Creighton's husband.

"But a shout restored Bristow to his senses. The Apaches, yelling and flourishing their rifles, were rushing down upon the doomed group of prospectors, thinking by a sudden rush to snatch their prey before it was secured by the troopers. 'Kids' gave a quick order for a counter charge, and then riding for all he was worth—riding as he once rode at the academy—dashed across the intervening gully and was at Curton's side in a twinkling. Lifting his now wounded rival on his own horse, with a kick he sent the animal at a mad gallop off to refuge behind our little line. Curton, half dazed, only heard him say, as he lifted him on the horse: 'Tell—your wife—that it was joy to die—to save her husband!'

"Yes, that is the ball I cut out of Bristow," finished the doctor. "An Apache put it into him just after Curton swept away to safety. Of course our men got the body. And I kept the ball.

"But there goes 'sick call!'" exclaimed Sawbones, jumping up. "Well, Bristow may have been a kid-gloved hero, but he was a hero all the same. For 'Kids' wasn't just a carpet-knight at Cozzen's, but we of the —th after that wrote him down in memory's roster as one of the fighters of the plains."

I had conclusive evidence to show he could not have been directly concerned in the robberies—for inquiries proved he had remained on deck the whole evening—he certainly would have been treated to a private interview in the captain's cabin. As it was, I was forced to conclude that black hair, swarthy complexion, slouch hat and cloak were quite compatible with a man's innocence.

Nothing further occurred to excite suspicion until the last day or two of the voyage. Then, one evening, after dinner, word was brought to me that three other staterooms had been rifled in the same mysterious manner. Watches, jewelry and even money had disappeared, though in all cases the passengers stoutly declared they had left their doors locked.

When the alarm reached me I happened to be standing in my deck office. I had in my hand 20 sovereigns, which I had just taken in exchange for American money to accommodate one of our passengers. I didn't wait to lock up the gold; I simply placed it on my desk, switched off the light and hurried away. I had no fear for the safety of the sovereigns, my door having a particularly intricate lock, in which I took good care to turn the key before leaving.

I remained below for an hour or so, investigating these fresh complaints, but, as in the other cases, I was utterly unable to make head or tail of them. Vexed and bewildered, I went back to my office, unlocked the door, turned on the light, and mechanically stretched out my hand to take the sovereigns from the desk. My hand closed upon nothing more solid than thin air—my little pile of gold had vanished!

For a moment or two I stood there gazing blankly before me, so utterly confused and dismayed that I could scarcely bring my wits to bear upon the mysterious affair. Then I managed to pull myself together, and took a look around my little cabin. In the course of my observations my eye happened to rest upon the port hole, which stood wide open, the weather being oppressively hot.

I regarded the innocent-looking port hole with the air of a veritable Sherlock Holmes. I went outside and thrust my arm in through the opening, but my hand did not reach within fully two yards of the desk. Still it struck me as being the only way by which the thief could have got at the money, and I determined to put my theory to a practical test.

I hurried down into the saloon, where most of the passengers were congregated. I went straight up to a young gentleman who I knew had a great many trinkets in his stateroom and was rather careless too in the way he left them lying about.

"Don't show any surprise," I whispered, glancing around at the other occupants of the saloon, "but might I ask you whether your stateroom is locked?"

"It is?"

"Well, just pass me your key; I want to try a little experiment. Wait till I'm gone, and then stroll up on deck. Let yourself be seen—on the lower deck particularly—but don't pay too close attention to anyone you may notice loitering there."

I went and shut myself in the stateroom, crouching down so that I could just keep an eye on the port hole over the top of the lower berth. I remained in that cramped position until my limbs fairly ached, and I was half inclined to give it up as a bad job.

But suddenly, as I glanced up at the porthole, my blood ran cold, and in all my life I never had such difficulty to keep down a yell. In the dim light I saw a long, thin hairy arm thrust in through the opening. The next moment a small black hand had fastened upon a leather case lying close to the window and withdrew it as quick as thought almost.

I sprang to my feet and bolted outside into the passage. I dashed up the saloon stairs and made for the lower deck. There, just about the spot where I judged the stateroom to be situated, I came face to face with the Brazilian, De Castro. In spite of the heat here was wearing his long cloak with the deep cape, and had his eternal cigarette between his teeth. He looked at me with an air of frank surprise, and I looked at him with an air of profound suspicion.

Suddenly a happy thought flashed through my mind. I turned round and sprang down the saloon stairs, running full tilt against the chief steward, who was standing at the bottom.

"Get me a handful of nuts—quick!" I cried.

When he brought them I hurried back on deck. The Brazilian had moved away a little toward the stern. I went close up, stood right in front of him, and then began deliberately to crack the nuts.

He regarded me with a pitying sort of look, but I paid little attention to him. Presently I saw a corner of the cape drawn aside and behind a pair of small, gleaming eyes fixed greedily upon me.

It was enough. My suspicions were confirmed. I flung the rest of the nuts in the sea, and walking straight up to De Castro, said:

"I must ask you to accompany me to the captain's cabin."

"Vot you mean?" he asked, drawing back.

I was determined to stand no nonsense, and straightway took him by the shoulders. The moment I laid my hands upon him I heard a vicious snarl under his cape; it was pulled suddenly aside and out flew a monkey.

The little brute went at me tooth and nail. I saw the gleam of a knife, too, in the Brazilian's hand, but I let him have my fist straight between the eyes before he could use it, and he measured his length upon the deck.

The quartermaster came running up and the rascal was dragged off to the captain's cabin. When searched there Mrs. Melhurst's diamonds, Mr. Carter's cigarette case and rings and a miscellaneous collection of other valuables were found upon him. In his stateroom we discovered a perforated box, apparently intended for the use of the monkey, who was evidently quite as accomplished as his master.—Cassell's Journal.

The Dear Old Fellow.

"What do you admire most in my new dress?" she asked of those who were praising it.

"Just what's in it now," answered the veteran beau of forty gay seasons, as he blew her a kiss.

THE DEAR OLD FARM.

Ten years to-day, Jack, I have lived
This blessed country life;
Since first I left my city home
To be a farmer's wife.

I thought that I would miss it so—
The tramp of busy feet,
The ceaseless throb of rushing life,
The faces in the street.

I thought the country would be tame,
Its interests mean and small;
But, then, I could not say you no,
And so I left it all.

I thought of all I loved and left
As I came down the aisle;
My thoughts went backward with a sigh,
And forward with a smile.

And now—the sun sees evry day
Earth's misery and bliss,
And now where does the sun shine upon
A happier lot than this?

Here are no walls to hem us in,
All's open to the sky;
Here I have learned to love the stars
And watch the clouds go by.

I watch the birds and squirrels, too,
And claim them for my own,
And trees, and grass—how could I live
Where all is brick and stone!

I love them still, those toil-worn streets,
Where many feet have trod;
The city brings us close to man,
The country near to God.

To think I ever should have paused
Uncertain 'twixt the two!
I am so thankful that I chose
The country, Jack—and you.

This dear old farm! I wouldn't give
One downy, peeping brood
Of day-old chicks for all the wealth
Of cities, if I could.

I love my homely household tasks,
I love the fields of grain;
I love the flowers that lift their heads
To drink the summer rain.

I love the orchard crowned with fruit,
My garden fair to see;
I love the horses and the cows—
I know that they love me.

And yet, perhaps, it's something else
That lends my life its charm;
You see I love the farmer, Jack,
And so I love the farm.

CHINA'S EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM.

Children Learn Little More Than They did Two Thousand Years Ago.

They have no conception of learning, as understood in the west—of mathematics, chemistry, geology or kindred sciences, and of universal history. Indeed, they have a very imperfect knowledge of geography. Their curriculum of study embraces the Chinese classics and philosophy (a voluminous compilation, especially holding in eminence the teachings of Confucius), the theory of government, and Chinese poetry and history. It is the standard fixed two thousand years ago, and has undergone little change in the succeeding centuries, says the Century.

One of our diplomatic representatives tells of a conversation had with one of the most distinguished scholars and highest officers in the empire, in which they canvassed their respective systems of education; and he reports that his Chinese friend had never heard of Homer, Virgil or Shakespeare; knew something of Alexander having crossed the Indus, had a vague knowledge of Caesar and Napoleon, but none whatever of Hannibal, Peter the Great, Wellington or other modern soldiers, and he was ignorant of astronomy, mathematics or the modern sciences. When the American Minister expressed surprise at these defects in Chinese education, the mandarin replied:—"That is your civilization, and you learn it; we learn it. For centuries we have gone on satisfied to know what we know. Why should we care to know what you know?"

Yet it must be conceded that Chinese scholars and officials are usually men of decided intellectual ability, and they cannot be set down as uneducated because they have not followed the curriculum of study marked out by European civilization. It is a source of natural pride that they possess a literature and philosophy older than any similar learning of the west, and which even at this day are not obsolete, but exercise an elevating moral and intellectual influence on a vast multitude of the human family.

But no one of his race more than Li Hung Chang recognizes the defects of the national system of education. Largely through his influence, the Emperor has established at Pekin a college, with a full faculty of foreign professors, for the instruction of chosen Chinese youths in the European languages and modern sciences, with a view to training them for the diplomatic servise. So he has also established at Tientsin, for the last 25 years, his viceregal residence, schools for military, naval and medical education, manned by European instructors; and his example has been followed by other viceroys.

The Unimprovable Fiddle.

(From Chambers' Journal.)

For when you come to think of it, it is a curious and bewildering circumstance that, in a world and in an age where progress is one of the laws of existence, the violin should be to-day, not only as to form and all essential details, exactly what it was some 300 years back, but that it is even now a less perfect instrument than it was when the old masters were warming their glue pots and mixing their vaunted varnish and chipping out their blocks of wood in the little Italian town of Cremona, now two centuries back. Mr. Gladstone has said somewhere that to perfect that wonder of travel, the locomotive, has not required the expenditure of more mental strength and application than to perfect a violin. But then you can put the locomotive into the march of progress; the violin you can't. In this respect it stands alone among musical instruments.

Flutes have been improved, new types of claronets have been involved, the harpsichord and the spinet have given place to the pianoforte, organs have come to be controled by electricity—everything, in short in the way of musical instruments has tended toward advance and improvement, while the construction of the violin is numbered—at any rate by the enthusiasts who run the fiddle prices into four figures—among the arts which have been and are not. The experience of centuries and the ingenuity of many generations of skilled mechanics have been altogether unavailing, and violinists to-day are content to starve themselves that they may give hundreds, nay, even thousands, for instruments which did not produce tens when they first left the workshops at Cremona.

SIX THOUSAND SAVED.

THIS IS THE RECORD OF EVANGELISTS CROSSLEY AND HUNTER

For the Year Just Closed—It has Been a Very Busy Season—Their Campaign in Bermuda Very Successful—Will Remain East Until Next Spring.

(St. John, N. B., Record.)

We are pleased to give a short account of the evangelistic work of Revs. Crossley and Hunter for the last conference year, which we know will be read with interest by their many friends. They have been twelve years together, doing the work of evangelists among the different evangelical churches in the various provinces, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and also in Boston, Detroit, Brooklyn, and other cities in the United States.

The last conference year has been spent in Canada and Bermuda and has been one of the most successful in their career. In every place the services have been union, the several denominations emulating one another in the good work.

Two campaigns were conducted in the Province of Ontario, namely in Carleton Place and Guelph, during the months of last year, August and September. The services in both these places were held in large rinks where vast throngs congregated, and about one thousand avowed decision to begin the christian life. They held meetings in Guelph city eight years before.

Three campaigns were held in New Brunswick, namely Fredericton, Woodstock and Marysville, in which many of the professing christians were quickened to a high spiritual life, and hundreds were added to the membership of the church of Christ.

Bermuda was visited in the months of February and March, and meetings held in Hamilton, St. George, Bayley's Bay, Warwick and Somerville. The illustrated article on Bermuda and the church work there, written by the evangelists, is full of interest and inspiration.

Charlottetown is the only place in Prince Edward Island where they conducted meetings. Here the English church clergymen were frequently on the platform and manifested a great interest in the meetings.

Three places in Nova Scotia were favored with the services of the evangelists Amherst, Yarmouth and Halifax. In Amherst nearly all the meetings were held in the large Baptist church, which was crowded nightly. In Yarmouth and Halifax what is called "double headers" were frequently held, that is to say, meetings were conducted in two churches on several evenings and both of the evangelists delivered addresses in each church. In all these places the services were most gratifying, and the brethren will ever be held in happy remembrance.

The harvest for the year has been abundant, as about six thousand men, women and youths have publicly avowed decision for Christ in the meetings.

The evangelists are so pleased with the eastern provinces that they purpose remaining east until next spring. They are now arranging their work for the coming year. Their permanent address is Methodist Book Room, Halifax, N.S.

The pastors and people of the various denominations endorse the testimony of a Baptist divine who said: "We like the men, their message, their methods, their music and the monument they leave behind them."

The would be critic finds little to criticise and very few sympathizers. Even the children of him who charged Job with being after money or worldly wealth find no reason for criticising these evangelists; because they never stipulate that any sum shall be given them; they allow no subscription to be taken; no church fund is interfered with; no church or person is asked to assume any financial responsibility; they pay their own travelling expenses and will not billet, but pay their own way as men. All they will accept as a financial renumeration is that which remains of the free will offerings after all incidental expenses are paid and even this amount passes through the hands of a finance committee that makes its report to the executive committee and to the public.

We wish these brethren, whom the churches delight to honor, increasing success and added years.

Boys' Serge Suits.

There seems to be a great craze for boys' serge suits in all sizes. The Oak Hall have made a good strong stand on these goods and have a full and complete assortment in every size starting at the 4 year old boy. Any cut coat you want.

Thirty Years After.

Two interesting photographs have been presented by Mr. Geo. M. Stewart to Col. Ponton, of the 15th Battalion, and have been framed in connection with a photograph of the Battalion and the armories in 1896. The first represents the camp of the 15th Battalion at Prescott on June 15, 1866, during the Fenian raid, with the Battalion drawn up in column. Adjutant Hulme, Sergeant James Masson (now Judge Masson) and Coporal Falkiner are visible to the naked eye. The other represents one of the tents, designated No. 4 tent, No. 3 Company, (corner School Master avenue and Shin Bone alley) on the same date, in the forefront of which figure Sid Savage, Tom ———, Pete Copeland, Jack Fox, Ned Holden, Sergeant Tom Hackett, Pat Nulty, J. Frith Jeffers, Jim Whiteford, Harry Dupont and George M. Stewart. This souvenir of the past is very interesting and is highly prized.

Children's Boots.

We have some extra values in children's boots. See our lines in sizes 4 to 7 at 40 and 50 cts. Special values, sizes 8 to 10, 60 cts. See job tables for special good values.—VERMILYEA & SON.

That Cattle Case.

Now that all the evidence has been heard in connection with the alleged stealing of cattle from the Mohawk Reserve in Tyendinaga, and the accused—Wesley J. Reid, John Young and George Young—acquitted, it is but just to all concerned to express regret that we were led to reproduce in the INTELLIGENCER a paragraph from the Toronto News in which, on the alleged authority of Detective Greer, statements were made as to the case which were not borne out by the testimony taken in court. That cattle were stolen is beyond doubt, but the accused, after an exhaustive trial, were acquitted by the court—in the case of Mr. Reid without time being deemed necessary by the judge for consideration, so clearly did the accusation fail of proof.

Not one complaint has ever been made by those using Ayer's Sarsaparilla according to directions. Furthermore, we have yet to learn of a case in which it has failed to afford benefit. So say hundreds of druggists all over the country. Has cured others, will cure you.

THE YACHT RACE.

THE START WAS MADE IN A FALLING BREEZE.

Vencedor Led at the Start—The Wind Fell to a Zephyr—Canada Then Went Ahead and Led by an Eighth of a Mile

TOLEDO, Aug. 25.—The prospects of a real race to-day between the International yachts Vencedor and Canada are considerably better than they were yesterday. An hour before the time for starting the velocity of the wind, which was directly south, did not exceed 12 miles an hour.

Promptly at 11 o'clock the starting gun was fired.

The wind was then blowing at a nine mile gait and about south southeast.

Vencedor was first to cross, with the wind over the starboard quarter.

Canada crossed three lengths behind.

At 11.30 the wind dropped till it hardly filled the yachts' head-sails.

Canada closed up the gap and is now leading by an eighth of a mile.

Brief Notes of the Happenings in the Arena of Legitimate Sport.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Cobourg Races—First Day.

The two days meet opened on Monday at Donegan Park, Cobourg, with a rather small attendance, but very good sport was shown. In the third heat of the 2:50 race the driver of Little Hector was taken down and R. Hewitt, of Brighton, was put up and the horse won the heat on a jog, the contending horse, Nellie P., meeting with an accident to her sulky, which deprived her of any chance for the heat. Following are the summaries:

2:50 trot or pace—purse $150—

Little Hector, John Al'ons, Fenelon Falls	2	5	1	1	1
Nellie P., Geo. Stewart, Deseronto	1	1	5	4	3
Forrester, J. Downsend, Toronto	4	2	2	2	2
Black Jess, Dr. Willoughby, Colborne	3	3	3	3	4
Gertie C., T. Chalk, Port Hope	5	4	4	5	5

Time—2:36¼, 2:35¼, 2:35¾, 2:35, 2:34¼.

Five-eighths mile run, handicap, purse $150—

In this race Money Musk won both heats. Beefeater won second and Frivolity third. The other starters were Isidora, McCormack, Fitzroy, Nettie Wood and King Can.

2:27 pace and 2:25 trot—purse $150—

Cheltingham, R. Simmons, Madoc	1	1	2	1
Madoc Boy, G. A. Booth, Trenton	2	2	1	4

How Iron Rusts.

Until the matter was investigated it was held that the rusting of iron was a simple combination of the iron with the oxygen of water, the hydrogen formerly combined with oxygen in water being set free. It has been found, however, that there are a great number of factors which affect the matter. Iron will not rust in pure water, nor in dry air, though the air contains free oxygen. Carbonic acid is held as a necessary adjunct to the oxidation, though there will not be any carbon in the resulting oxide. More than this, it seems there must be a layer of water on the iron, formed by condensation or otherwise.

Surprise at the Fair.

How many pounds in that big cake of Surprise soap? That's the question. Anyone that can guess the weight will have the Heintzman piano shown in the Surprise soap exhibit at the Toronto Fair. Look at the big cake and guess, free of charge, one each day, during the fair. The correct or nearest guesser will get the piano; the best that Heintzman makes. Now this offer is made by the makers of Surprise soap to call your mind and thought to the advantage of using this soap on a wash day and every other day. It is the best.

OMENS OF A SNEEZE.

SOME SUPERSTITIONS THAT ARE STILL CONNECTED WITH IT.

How the Weird Stories of the Past Are Perpetuated on Hearing This Simple Respiratory Movement of an Expiratory Nature.

Such a common everyday thing as sneezing is not supposed to be rife with any special importance or mystery, yet it is interesting to discover how many among us are superstitious of olden-times were connected with it. Superstition, that unknown, mysterious fear which controls us in spite of our reason, clings to and directs us in even the most common acts of life. How many are there among us clear-headed and practical though we may consider ourselves, who do not connect some pet superstition with simple events, as the breaking of a mirror, the burning of an ear, and finding of a horse shoe or four-leaf clover, or the spilling of salt? And many a mother would rather her baby had the croup than have him look in the glass before he is a year old, or sneeze at an unlucky season. And in connection with sneezing alone there are more superstitions than are generally realized.

This is a simple act in itself, and seemingly would give very little cause for superstition. According to a popular definition, "sneezing is a natural respiratory movement, interrupted by a strong expiratory effort, expelling the air through the nose with more or less noise." This action may be brought on by the inhalation of dust, pungent vapors, or by the simple inspiration of air when the membrane is diseased or in an irritable condition, as in the case of cold. There is also a spot on the head, the touching of which will cause sneezing in many people. Barbers are aware of this fact, as their gentle manipulations are often greeted with a round of sneezes. This is supposed to be caused by the touching of a small and extremely sensitive nerve which runs from the top of the head to the nostril, and is much more sensitive with some than with others.

Sneezing is now considered a favorable and healthful action, and is courted by people who believe in its efficacy by looking intently at the sun until the desired action occurs. Consumptives are said never to sneeze, and many an unfortunate victim of this disease gauges the probability of his recovery by this standard.

The old custom of saying "God bless you," when a sneeze is heard, is of ancient origin and still prevails in Oriental countries. In the time of Saint Gregory the Great, at a certain season the air was filled with an unwholesome vapor or malaria, which so affected the people that those who sneezed were at once stricken with death agonies. In this strait the pontiff is said to have devised a form of prayer to be uttered when the paroxysm was seen to be coming on, and which, it was hoped, would avert the stroke of the death angel.

Sneezing is mentioned in works of mythology, and it is said that the first sign of life given by the cunningly wrought image of Prometheus was a lusty sneeze. Aristotle, in writing of this subject, says that those who thought the seat of the soul to be in the brain, looked upon sneezing as "one of the most sensible and manifest operations of the brain."

Sneezing has been thought lucky or unlucky according to the day of the week on which the action occurs. According to the old jingle from the Lancaster folk-lore.

Sneeze on a Monday, you sneeze for danger;
Sneeze on a Tuesday you kill a stranger;
Sneeze on a Wednesday, you sneeze for a letter;
Sneeze on a Thursday, for something better;
Sneeze on a Friday, you'll sneeze for sorrow;
Sneeze on a Saturday, your sweetheart to-morrow;
Sneeze on a Sunday, your safety seek;
For the devil will have you the rest of the week.

In ancient books we find many references to this fact, as in the Odyssey, where the sneezing of Telemachus is accepted as a pleasant confirmation of the words of his mother just at a time when she is denouncing the riotous gormandizing sutors, and praising the valor of Ulysses:

"She spoke—Telemachus then sneezed aloud.
Constrained, his nostril echoed through the crowd;
The smiling queen the happy omen blessed,
'So may these impious fall, by fate oppressed!' "

Great results often grow from small acts, an example of which is seen in the time when the fate of the whole Greek army was decided by so common and natural an occurrence as the sneeze of a soldier. While Xenophon was delivering his famous address to the army urging his companions to be firm and bold, and while they were undecided as to whether resistance or retreat were the better part, a sounding sneeze was heard down the ranks. This omen was at once accepted, tents and all superfluous accoutremnts burned, and that retreat (since so famous) with all its hardships and dangers, was begun.

An old proverb says, "Two or three sneezes be wholesome," and there is a proverb to the effect that when a patient has sneezed three times he may be discharged from the hospital.

Even where sneezing is considered a favorable omen, the time of day is sometimes thought to determine its good or ill effect, as a sneeze which takes place from noon to midnight is thought to be auspicious, while one occurring from midnight to noon of quite otherwise. Among the many superstitions concerning death we have one in regard to this act; thus, if one sneeze for three successive nights it 's accepted as a token that a death will take place in the family, or if not death, that some other dire calamity will befall them.

It would certainly be more sensible for intelligent people to take the common sense view of the subject, and look upon this sneezing simply as a "sign" that we are catching cold, and as a "warning" to move out of a draught; yet many will cling to these other "signs" and "warnings" of the superstitious.

Keeping Boys on the Farm.

The question has often been asked how to get boys interested in agriculture and keep them on the farm. One of the surest plans would be to give each boy, as soon as he reaches the age of 10 years, a piece of ground for his own; a small farm, so situated as to be added to as the boy gets older, and let him employ his leisure hours working upon it according to his own ideas. There he might set fruit or nut trees, clear fertile spots for vegetables, dig and hoe, cut and prune; and thus gain health and strength of limb, a knowledge and taste for work, and start the nucleus of a pleasant home to shelter him in after years. Many a boy might thus be lured into usefulness and a love of his native soil, who otherwise would grow up to hate farming and be led to wander away from kindred and natice country—Colman's Rural World.

Gloom

Of ill health, despondency and despair, gives way to the sunshine of hope, happiness and health, upon taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it gives renewed life and vitality to the blood, and through that imparts nerve strength, vigor and energy to the whole body. Read this letter: "Hood's Sarsaparilla helped me wonderfully, changed sickness to health, gloom to sunshine. No pen can describe what I suffered. I was deathly sick, had sick headaches every few days and those terrible tired, despondent feelings, with heart troubles so that I could not go up and down stairs without clasping my hand over my heart and resting. In fact, it would almost take my breath away. I suffered so I did not care to live, yet I had much to live for. There is no pleasure in life if deprived of health, for life becomes a burden. Hood's Sarsaparilla does far more than advertised. After taking one bottle, it is sufficient to recommend itself." MRS. RELIEF FOR DYSPEPTICS.

Rules Fully Tested and Found to be of Assistance in Cases of Indigestion.

(Philadelphia Recorder.)

The number of people afflicted with this peculiar and uncomfortable sensation after eating is by no means small. It means simply that either because the person is fatigued or because that the food is indigestible, or because the nervous system, which controls the digestive processes, is out of order, the act of digestion is either wholly arrested or is very improperly carried on. People troubled in this way can observe two or three plain rules which will entirely prevent the difficulty and will be of great benefit to their general health.

First, eat nothing until there is a positive appetite for food. It will be far better to skip one's dinner entirely, and far less injurious to the general health, than to eat when weary, when excited, when nervous or when the appetite is not present. If great hunger comes on in the middle of the afternoon an apple or a piece of bread and butter will have a relish and flavor undreamed of under ordinary circumstances, and will prevent the faintness which might arise before the regular hour for a nourishing supper.

Second, eat something which requires considerably chewing, especially at the beginning of the meal. This involves the use of dry foods, but it does not mean the entire absence of liquids from the meal. The reason why food that has been chewed is valuable is because in the process of mastication a large amount of saliva is secreted, and this is an important factor in digestion.

If liquid is desired at meal time it is not likely to do great harm if it is not too cold, provided it is not swallowed at the same time the dry food is put in the mouth. The man who washes down each mouthful of bread with a swallow of milk, tea or coffee has no saliva mixed with his food; whereas, if he thoroughly masticates his mouthful of dry food, swallows it and then takes his swallow of milk, he will interfere far less with the proper processes of digestion.

Dr. J. H. Kellogg has made some interesting experiments, showing the amount of saliva secreted by the glands of the mouth while dry food is being chewed. A piece of paraffin chewed for five minutes produced two-thirds of an ounce of saliva; one ounce of granose, a dry food prepared from wheat, increased in weight to two ounces; one ounce of bread chewed for five minutes caused the production of one ounce of saliva; one ounce of raw apple produced one and one-quarter ounces.

Third, eat digestible food only. Digestible food is a variable term and is determined by the individual. Articles which are perfectly harmless for one individual are very serious hindrances to the physical well being of another. Experience is the chief guide, and when articles of food cause distress and seem to hurt you, the part of wisdom is to let them alone.

Lactated Food is the Ideal Health Food.

Lactated Food is the physician's ideal health food, and the only infant nutriment that they can heartily indorse.

Lactated Food does not clog or burden the child's stomach. It allays inflammation and irritation of the bowels, and improves digestion.

Lactated Food makes the thin baby fat and plump; it is the only food for babies who do not sleep well; it makes cross and fretful babies bright and happy.

Lactated Food should be in every home where there is a baby; it saves babies' lives.

NOTHING

Gives a woman more pleasure than the possession of a quantity of good household linens.

We know the average woman's weakness in this respect, and no doubt when our buyer was making his fall purchases of Linen from the famous Brookfield Linen Co., of Belfast, Ireland, he traded largely upon woman's admiration for these beautiful goods.

We have a beautiful stock of linens—a very comprehensive stock; indeed, we question very much if we have ever been able to show so much of newness and beauty and quantity before.

KING OR KNAVE?

It was not the first time that Marion had suspected her host of opening a good many other bottles; but he had never let them carry him so far as now. A horrible idea seized her that the conversation he had overheard between her and his wife had set fire to his vanity She dared not make for the street door, because he stood full in the way; and she dared not retreat to the stairs, for fear he should follow her.

"You are very strangely mistaken," she said icily, looking him straight in the eyes the while, with a faint and vague recollection of some mad-bull story.

"Mistaken, my dear? Not a bit of it. There's one thing one can't be mistaken about—and that's sympathy. As if I didn't know!"

"I was mistaken, then. I thought that any man—I won't say gentleman would pay some little respect to any woman; and a host to a guest——"

"Gammon. Fancy Adam Furness being father to such a sly little bird! 'Won't say gentleman,' indeed! Say Wyndham—that'll sound just as well; as I'll say Marion, So, Marion, my dear, put off your airs and graces: you've done enough for dignity and all that sort of thing; and be your own sweet lovely self again. Ah you know well enough what havoc you've made of the heart of your own poor Wyndham. But he'll give you good for evil—never you fear. No woman ever yet repented that trusted to the honour of Wyndham Snell—his heart of gold—and every drachm, scruple, and grain of it, all for you!"

She nerved nerself for a sudden escape. "Honor!" she could not help repeating with scorn, though it went against her will to waste a word. "Let me pass this moment!" she exclaimed, moving forward, and without shifting her eyes from his face, as if all depended upon the steadfastness of her gaze.

But he was prepared for her tactics this time; and only stretched out his arms with a singularly ugly smile.

"Ah! As if I didn't know we were made for each other," he said, pitching his cigar behind him, "you and I! and don't you know it too!"

No self-command could stand against such a tone and such a smile; and Marion's, all untrained as it was, had been leaving her long ago.

"I despise you too much to hate you," she cried in a stifled voice that she did not know for her own. "Let me by."

Whether she pushed or struck his outstretched wrist in her attempt to pass him, she did not know; but there was no need of that for even his vanity to understand her words. Whatever had happened to his wrist, hers was held tightly.

"You will not go," said he. "That felon, your father, trusted you to me; and here you stay till he comes; if that's never. Host and guest, indeed? Patient and physician, you mean. Look here, young lady. You needn't wait for truck or boxes, because I've already ordered them not to be sent for, or brought down. Go back to your own room; put your head into cold water; and stay there until you're in a better humor. Either you make yourself pleasant to me, or I make myself considerably unpleasant to you. Do you understand, now?

She shook her bruised wrist free.

"Do you mean," she panted, "that I am to be kept here against my will?"

"Unless you like to make it with your will."

"Why?"

"Never mind why. That's your father's affair and mine. Go to your room. Do you hear?"

"I will go to Mrs. Snell's——"

"And tell her that I have been talking nonsense to you? Or should you put it the other way round?"

"I shall leave this house. It is not a prison, and I am not a prisoner——"

"You will not leave this house," said he, recovering his sweetest tones. "And, so that you may put all nonsense out of your head, I will tell you why. Are you aware why I was called in to attend Mrs. Furness, your mother? It was because there was reason to fear disease of the brain. And a lady, be she mother or daughter, who is the guest of a physician—well, neither servants or neighbors will help her to bring her visit to an end unless her friends remove her, or her host announces her—cured. Do you understand now? Shall we sing duets together, like good friends? Or does your mental trouble require sharper treatment—treatment that it would infinitely distress me to use?"

"You are keeping me here as a madwoman? Me?"

"H'm. Brain trouble is not necessarily transmitted; but I can't forget why I was called in—too late—to see your mother. And there is, to say the least, a curious similarity in her craze for running away from her husband, and yours for escaping from your best friends. Still, we must hope for the best. And we must work for the best, too—so perhaps you will oblige me by taking off that bonnet, now."

Her eyes might struggle; but it was his that had to be obeyed———

Guy Derwent, in his office at Marchgrave, read over and over again by the light of a single candle, the mysterious communication that had reached him concerning Marion. Everything about it was strange. Dr. Snell—it was a Dr. Snell whom he had met at the Green Cheese. Why should he have concealed any knowledge of Marion? And why or how should anybody else have sent him news of her—who should know anything about him and here? And what need should there be for secrecy—for a letter without a name? Above all, how came it that there was mention of Miss Furness only, and of Mrs. Furness not a word? The handwriting was also a puzzle—evidently that of a woman unused to a pen.

Some secret mystery seemed to be folding itself round Marion. Otherwise it was impossible that so much time could have passed without a single word from her, or even about her, but for this scrawl, which provoked more anxiety than would have come of dead silence, in its different way. Of course there was only one thing to be done—to act upon the message without delay. It might be a trap; it might be a false scent; but it was the only sign of a clue in what was becoming a bewildering and alarming maze.

So he spent the rest of the night in business correspondence, and in making the best arrangement he could for his affairs to do without his presence for another two days, breakfasted on coffee and a pipe; held counsel with his clerk; and was waiting for the next up-train, when he received in his own very office the honor of a visit from no less a personage than John Heron.

"You must think me the original bird that used to be everywhere at once," said the banker genially. "Good-night in London—good morning in Marchgrave. I got away sooner than I hoped for—left town by the half-past five a.m., had a good sleep in the train, and here I am on my way to breakfast and Kate at The Cedars. Any news? Which means, I hope, any good news?"

"None. And——"

"Indeed? And you certainly don't look yourself, Guy. I am afraid you're worrying."

"No doubt about that, Heron."

CANADA A MILE AHEAD.

The Yachts Becalmed and No Race Decided.

Vencedor No Match for the Defender Without a Breeze—Drifted About Six Miles in Four Hours—Outlook Now Greatly in Favor of Canada—Will Sail Over the Same Course To-day.

Toledo, Aug. 24.—(Special.)—The result of the first day's racing for the International Cup, although the race was unfinished, showed that the Vencedor cannot compete with the Canada in a drifting match. Whether this is on account of her design or because she is under-canvassed, or by reason of both, is an open question. The opinion that Canada would be the better boat in light weather was generally held before the race, so that no very valuable conclusion has been reached.

The prospects of either boat as the final winner of the cup are neither clouded nor brightened, because it is perfectly impossible for the race to be finished on such a light day as yesterday. The triangular course is nearly 28 miles, and when the weather work is taken into consideration an average speed of nearly six miles an hour will have to be maintained. In the weather-and-return race the distance is only 23 miles, but such a course is even less likely to be completed quickly than the triangular one.

Vencedor's crew expect to win in heavy or even moderate weather, but the Canada's skipper is equally confident. If the weather proves more propitious to-morrow, it will be seen which of the two opinions is the correct one.

The race was a failure on account of the lack of wind, as the Regatta Committee declared the race off at 3 o'clock this afternoon, after the yachts had drifted about four hours. When the race was called the Canada, which had a lead of over a mile, had only covered six miles, or about the quarter of the course, and was half way between the first and second marks on the first round.

The race was witnessed by a big crowd of spectators, and nearly a hundred steam and sailing craft followed the racers over the course. The Canadians were naturally greatly elated over the showing of their champion, while the yachtsmen on this side of the border were glum over the result. As a matter of fact, the original conditions have handicapped the Vencedor, so that it would be little short of a miracle if she wins in a light wind, though she will undoubtedly do well in a blow. As it is, she is under-canvassed and cannot do herself justice.

The course to-day was a triangular one of 12 miles, four miles to a leg, sailed over twice. When the starting signal was given at 11 o'clock both yachts hauled on the wind on the starboard tack and headed for the line. The Canada ran up on the Vencedor's weather quarter and set a big jib topsail and balloon fore-staysail, which, as she forged ahead, blanketed the Chicago boat and left her in the doldrums as she went over the line. It was sometime before the Vencedor felt the wind again, but in the meantime had run up a small jib topsail and began to gather headway, and crossed the line with little more than steerage way on her.

The Canada came about on the port tack at 11.23, and stood toward the Vencedor's bows, taking the wind out of her sails, and then, just as she began to fill again, she found the Canada had gone about and was on her weather quarter, and in a short time had cleared her well to the windward and gone off to the westward hunting wind. At 11.40 the Vencedor went about on the port tack in such a light air that she was 40 seconds in stays, and then stood well to the north, where it looked as though there might be a breeze. In all this time the yachts had not sailed a quarter of a mile each. At 11.49 the Canada came about on the port tack and stood after the Vencedor. At 11.55 the wind shifted to the east of north, and came out with enough strength for the first time to fill the sails, and then the yachts were able to lay their course on the starboard tack for the stake boat, with the wind abeam.

The Canada, with her bigger proportionate sail area, began to draw rapidly away from the Vencedor, which simply drifted along, and by the time the Canada turned the mark, at 1.13.40, the Royal Canadian yacht was a mile in the lead.

As soon as the Canada turned and stood off on the starboard tack the Vencedor's spinnaker was set to starboard, but it did her no good, as there was not enough wind to fill it, and it blanketed her head sail. At 1.40 she rounded the stake boat and headed for the Canada, which slowly continued to draw away, until at 3 o'clock the wind dropped to a flat calm, and a few moments later the Regatta Committee declared the race off for the day, as it was impossible to finish it within the required five and a half hours' time limit. The yachts will sail over teh same course tomorrow.

General Cameron Is Out.

Kingston, Ont., Aug. 24.—Major-General Cameron, commandant of the Royal Military College, has been relieved of office by the Dominion Government and is packing up.

"I was in Ottawa last week," he said to a reporter, "and while there I was asked to vacate by Aug. 31. The summons came unexpectedly. I had made all necessary plans for remaining here and educating my family. I may go to Montreal, but I cannot say anything definite. No, the Government has not taken me into its confidence and I do not know who my successor is to be."

The General has been here eight years. He says his record is before the people and he is willing to defend it in any open way. He is on the retired list of the Royal Artillery and gets a good pension. He thinks the Government should give him a year's salary in seeking his removal in such short order.

A $6000 STEAL.

A Package Containing Money Mysteriously Disappears From the Safe at Joliette Station in Quebec.

Montreal, Aug. 24.—(Special.)—The officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway are working in conjunction with the detectives of the Canadian Secret Service Bureau to recover a package containing $6000, which, together with other moneys belonging to the railway company, mysteriously disappeared from the safe at Joliette Station between the hours of 10 o'clock on Friday evening and 7 o'clock on Saturday.

ROWED OUT TO DEATH.

W. N. Winans, a Detroit Drygoods Man, Jumps Out of a Boat.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 24.—W. N. Winans, a well-known drygoods dealer of this city, committed suicide at 3 o'clock this afternoon. He hired a rowboat, rowed out on the river and jumped into the water. The body was recovered. Winans was in financial trouble. He was about 40 years old and leaves a widow and one son.

JOINT CONTROL OF OUR CANALS.

Report That Mr. Tarte Was the Author of That Chicago Record Interview.

Ottawa, Aug. 24.—(Special.)—The first day's debate on the address is over, with a distinct advantage to the Conservatives. The ball was set rolling by Mr. McInnes, the youthful member for Vancouver, B. C. His speech was the effort of a young man with a superabundance of assurance and clearly demonstrated that Mr. McInnes is not awed by his parliamentary surroundings. He and Charley Devlin make a great team. Mr. Lemieux spoke in French, and then Sir Charles Tupper got the floor. The old war horse was in fine form, and put a lot of splendid material on Hansard. The inference to be drawn from his utterances on the school question is obvious. The Catholics of Canada seemingly are not as anxious for Remedial Legislation as it appeared and, as they rejected the Conservative policy, the Conservatives are no longer bound to fight for them. On the famous Chicago Record admissions, Sir Charles was very strong, his condemnation of Mr. Laurier being most severe. In this connection a curious story is going round to-night. It is to the effect that, while Mr. Laurier has assumed the responsibility for the now famous Record interview, he never saw it until it appeared in print, Mr. Tarte being the author. Mr. Laurier was brief in his observation. He saw a friendly disposition on Sir Charles Tupper's part and, therefore, would not criticise at length. He failed to meet the ex-Premier's charge of the Janus-like policy on the school question, one face for Ontario, another for Quebec.

The Governor-General's warrants issued since the present Government was in power, amount to $2,006,022. The whole of this sum, with the exception of two small items, is for salaries for public service.

A militia general order, issued today, calls out the following corps for training next month:

No. 1 district—Camp at London, commencing Sept. 8. R.R.C.I.; No. 1 depot, 21st, 22nd and 30th Batts.

No. 2 district—Niagara-on-the-Lake, Sept. 15, R.R.C.I., No. 2 depot, 12th, 31st, 35th, 37th and 39th Battalions.

No. 3 district—At Kingston, commencing Sept .15, 4th Hussars, 45th and 47th Battalions.

Camps are also to be held in Nos. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 12 districts.

A new establishment list for permanent corps and active militia has been approved.

Field batteries are increased from 4 to 6 guns, involving an increase in strength from 79 to 102 men, and from 29 to 49 horses.

Troops of cavalry become squadrons, with an increase each of 7 men to enable them to comply with the new cavalry drill.

As foreshadowed the other day, a new Senator has been called to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Hon. A. R. Angers. Mr Isidore Thibadeau of Quebec is the new member, and is a well-known man in the Province of Quebec. He has been Vice President of the Banque Nationale, a director of the Grand Trunk Railway and President of the St. Jean Baptiste Society of Quebec He was President of the Executive Council of Canada in 1863-64 in the Sandfield-Macdonald-Dorion Administration.

GREENWAY'S CABINET CALLED

For Friday to Officially Receive the Reports of the School Delegates to Ottawa—Sifton Is Mum.

Winnipeg, Aug. 24.—(Special.)—Premier Greenway announced that he has called a Cabinet meeting for next Friday. He will then officially receive the report of the delegates to Ottawa and there may be some definite news in regard to the school question settlement. Until then Mr. Sifton will not divulge anything, even to intimate friends; that is, if the gentleman has anything to divulge.

GONE OVER TO UNCLE SAM.

Ticket Agent Matchett of Lindsay Said to Have Left Many Creditors Behind—Was He Speculating?

Lindsay, Aug 24.—(Special.)—Lindsay was thrown into quite a commotion a few days ago when it became known that R. J. Matchett, G. T. R. ticket agent here, also agent for the Canadian Express Company and several lines of steamers, had absconded, leaving quite a shortage in his accounts. Several people about town who had endorsed his paper are also in the soup for various amounts, some as high as $200. The G T. R. and the Express Comuany are secured against loss by the Guarantee Company of Philadelphia, but the different steamboat lines for whom he sold tickets will be out of pocket. His relatives have made good the loss to the Guarantee Company, hence they will not take action to secure his arrest and return from the States, whither he fled Where the purloined money went is not known, but probably like many other poor fools he was "speculating" The business conducted by Mr. Matchett was purchased a few years ago from Mr T. C. Taylor for $1500, but for some reason he was unable to make it pay. Mr Wilder, Mr. Matchett's assistant, will continue in the office, a petition having been circulated for that purpose

A SERIOUS CASE.

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & CO.

I Used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for my little boy for summer complaint and it cured him. He was so bad that he had convulsions and would strain so that he ruptured himself, but as soon as I got the extract for him he got well.

Mrs. Sequel—I understand your husband can't meet his creditors. Mrs. Equal—I don't believe he wants to, especially.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

"Jenkins claimed that I insulted him." "Did you give him satisfaction?" "Guess I did. He pounded me until he was tired."

TO BE REMOVED.

All the effete or waste matter of the system is removed by a perfect action of Laxative Liver Pills. Thus they prevent as well as cure Sick headache, Constipation, Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Jaundice, Dizziness, etc.

"I'm going to swear out a warrant against the weather man." "What for?" "Malicious scorching."

CURES SUMMER COMPLAINT.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for twelve years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer complaints. In our family it has never failed to cure any case. MRS. BENJ. LONGLEY.

Mount Emmons, 13,694 feet, is said to be the highest in Utah.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue.

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels, therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very billous habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height,

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency"

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forget this.

Well Satisfied with Ayer's Hair Vigor.

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray. I began using Ayer's Hair Vigor, and was so well satisfied with the results that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It requires only an occasional application of AYER'S Hair Vigor to keep my hair of good color, to remove dandruff, to heal itching humors, and prevent the hair from falling out. I never hesitate to recommend Ayer's medicines to my friends."—Mrs. H. M. HAIGHT, Avoca, Nebr.

IT WAS FOSTER'S DAY

Ex-Minister of Finance Hits the Liberals Hard.

That Speech From the Throne Was Like a Mirage—There Was a Table Spread, But No Viands, But Lots of "Tarie"—He States the New Government For Throwing Liberal Principles to the Four Winds In Their Very First Acts—They Do Not Practice What They Preach—Sir Richard Forced to Accept Whip Taylor's Denial—In the House It Is Talk, Talk, Talk.

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—(Special.)—Two or three minutes sufficed to clear off the routine and then the debate on the address was resumed.

Mr. Foster, who was greeted with warm party applause, addressed his opening remarks to certain observations of the mover of yesterday. Mr. McInnes, he said, had given as evidence of the depressing effect of 18 years of the National Policy that numbers of people, many of them persons of culture and refinement, were piling in applications for Government situations to such an extent that the lives of members and Cabinet Ministers were becoming a burden to them. Mr. Foster thought this was rather an evidence of the wide and consuming hunger amongst the Government's life-long followers after 18 years in opposition. It might also be looked upon as evidence of a full crib from which a liberal hand was ready to deal out to these tried and true and cultured followers the great and the small gifts for the time being at the party's disposal. If it was evidence of depression at all it was of the depression which would settle by-and-by on nineteen out of the twenty applications for office. The cultured and cultivated were indeed making their applications. Even old members were missing. Mr. Foster's longings had been satisfied with an office at $100 a year and Mr. King of New Brunswick had had his desires met by an appointment as postmaster of Marsh Hill at $10 a year. Following Mr. McInnes' speech, he found that the young member had been learning of Sir Richard Cartwright, for he talked of "The ungodly use of godly influences," and when he spoke of the National Policy he took pattern by Mr. Davies, who termed it a policy "accursed of God and man."

Greater modesty would have better become the young member, whom he recommended in future to avoid these apostles and prophets of disaster. The Premier yesterday had referred to the earthquake of June 23, but where did the earthquake take place? Not in Prince Edward Island, where the Liberals were in the minority; not in Nova Scotia, where with all their arts and power and aid of the Provincial Government the Liberals could not command a majority; not in New Brunswick, where they could only get four seats out of fourteen. In Ontario there had been no earthquake. Mr. Laurier could not command a majority there. Neither could he in Manitoba. Quebec, where an insidious landslide, rather than any earthquake had occurred, had put Mr. Laurier in power. Even in British Columbia the earthquake had not extended there, divisions in the Conservative ranks due to honest differences of opinion giving the Liberals two Conservative seats. Taking up the Speech from the Throne Mr. Foster remarked that the Premier had little to offer the House and country. No man had been able to float so long on simple words out of which no definite meaning could be taken as the present leader of the Government. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Foster called attention to the violation of all Liberal principles by the deliberate refusal to vote moneys and then for the new Government to have recourse to a Governor-General's warrant. A Governor-General's warrant was asked for and given without hesitation in July for $1,000,000. Of this amount, however, the document tabled yesterday showed they could only spend $600,000. Some careful, prudent Finance Minister asked for one million dollars, where only $600,000 was necessary. The same thing was done in the month of August. Now, if by a Governor-General's warrant, two millions could be appropriated for departmental salaries, why not twelve millions, or thirty-six millions? (Hear, hear.) How the welkin would have resounded with Liberal denouncements if the Conservatives had done this! Maybe the Conservatives would not have got a Governor-General's warrant. (Opposition cheers.) But if they had, how the charges would have been rung on the action of an iniquitous Tory Government! (Hear, hear.)

Talk about wobblers, but in front of him was the boss wobbler of all.

Sir Richard Cartwright laughed.

Mr. Foster, continuing, said that five years ago Sir Richard had denounced the action of the Liberal-Conservatives in securing a Governor-General's warrant for unexpected expenses on the Intercolonial Railway. The air was blue with his denunciations. But what had Sir Richard Cartwright to say now? What had become of his cherished convictions of five years ago? He (Mr. Foster) was safe in asserting that no Tory Government had ever resorted to such action as that pursued by the Liberal Government in this matter. Mr. Foster proceeded to criticise the personnel of the new Ministry and chaffed the Liberals for their disappointed hopes. Where was the Sage of Bothwell today? Way down in the groves of that county he wandered disconsolate and alone. The bosom friend of Mr. Laurier to-day took refuge in poetry and philosophy from the canker and bitterness of disappointed hope. (Laughter.) And away down in the Guysboro shore there might be at that moment the ponderous form of the friend of Mr. Laurier, Mr. Fraser, but who to-day was lamenting his cruel fate in having to give way for a man new to Dominion warfare. (Laughter.) Then there was a gallant colonel from King's (Domville), another disappointed man, and the prophetic-looking adherent of the Liberal party, Mr. Ellis, who fought their battles for twenty-five years, but who had been passed over for another man new in the field of Dominion politics.

To-day the late member for Winniwas in torture and wondered whether the same recognition and kindly reward for past services would be meted out to him as to Mr. Tarte. (Laughter.) Why was he not Minister of the Interior? Was there another deal on? Was somebody to be fixed before they could decide on a man, and was there a consideration floating around for somebody? As regards the meagre bill of fare in the speech he might ask why no legislation had been introduced. Where was Mr. Mulock with his zeal of two years ago and his desire to reduce the Governor-General's salary to $35,000 per annum? What about Mr. Davies' proposals to curtail the expenses of office? Why no legislation covering that? Then there was Mr. Laurier's promise to controllers to increase their salaries to $7000. Why no measure on that point? Probably the Premier intended to do it with a Governor-General's warrant. (Laughter.) Where was the franchise measure which was to be introduced, and what had become of the ninth and last plank in the Liberal platform in favor of a plebiscite on prohibition? Then, above all, why was there not a tariff measure?

He proceeded to recite from speeches of Mr. Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright and others their views on the iniquities of the present tariff. If protection and the National Policy was so bad why would the Government stay their hands for nine months? Probably the reason why Sir Richard Cartwright was not able to carry out his declarations was because he was not sitting in the seat that he declared was to be his. (Laughter.) A tariff measure could not go through the House before April, May or June of next year, and why should the people of this country be "bled white" for that further period, as Sir Richard Cartwright put it?

Alluding to the Manitoba school question, the Liberal papers were now announcing that the question was practically settled. There was to be no commission, no investigation and no further evidence. If this question was settled by the Government as announced and to the satisfaction of the minority, if it gave the minority all their rights under the constitution, it would be settled to the eternal and everlasting disgrace of party politics in the Dominion. What did he mean? Not that he would be sorry to see it settled, but if the Manitoba Government settled it in conference with the present Government they would settle it on a basis that they had refused to the late Government and publish to the world that the two had a secret understanding. (Loud cheers.) Time would tell if he was right. The last point he wished to allude to was the new evangel of the new Government. They wanted principles of liberalism, but set them at defiance at every turn. No Government had the right to step in and interfere while the indictment of a member was before the courts. But in Nova Scotia they had slipped in and invoked the Chiltern Hundreds system in Mr. Foster's case to get him out of the way, while a petition was pending in the courts. Mr. King in New Brunswick had been taken out of court by giving him a $10 postoffice. Nothing of the kind had ever been done before. It was interfering with the courts of law for party purposes and could be pursued in the case of every Liberal member protested. So, too, this recent use of the Governor-General's warrant was one never intended by law. The Liberals might take the same advantage to tide them over party disturbances.

This Speech from the Throne contained nothing, but in the press there is to be found a speech from the man in front of the throne, dealing with a most important international question. First, he insinuated that the neighborly relations with the United States had been interrupted. As a matter of record, Canada had, while standing to her rights, in which she had been supported by Great Britain, done so with a consistency, urbanity and courtesy that won the commendation of the United States themselves. Mr. Laurier was in this interview simply carrying out the sentiment of his Boston speech, wherein he said Britain's conduct during the American War of 1860-66 was a disgrace. He offered to give free ports, free fishing within the three-mile limits and free markets to the United States. When the Treaty of 1888 was made by the Conservatives it was denounced as an ignominious surrender, yet it preserved the three-mile limit and gave the United States vessels the right to resort to our ports to trade in supplies only. Now Mr. Laurier proposed far greater privileges. He went further, he took up the canal question, and declared on the authority of the leader of the Government for a joint deepening and completing of the canal from the head of the lakes to Montreal, and for the joint control of them after they are built. When brought to book about it, Mr. Laurier defended himself by misrepresenting the contents of an order in council, which appointed a deep waterways commission and by declaring he was only following the Conservative policy. He challenged Mr. Laurier to repeat that misstatement. The policy of the late Government, as shown by that very order in council, went no further than to appoint a joint commission on deep waterways and report thereon. There was not the least indication of what the Government's policy would be when that report was brought in.

Had Mr. Laurier received that report? Did he know the estimated cost? He wanted information on the Manitoba school question, but now he, without report or consultation, pledges the country to an expenditure of seventy-five millions, which would be our share at least, and to benefit 25 American farmers to one Canadian farmer. And what is more, he allows the dangerous initial step of a control in vital waterways to be given to a great power, twenty times more powerful than we are, with all the complications which may result therefrom. The instincts of Canada are for a future of her own, said Mr. Foster in conclusion. She will develop her own property, as a self-sustaining nation. And it would be unfortunate when Mr. Laurier tried to negotiate, or his successors in office tried to negotiate with the United States, to be met on the other side by this statement of his as to what he would be willing to concede in exchange for a very small consideration. (Prolonged cheers.)

Sir Richard Cartwright began with a joke. He contended that the logical explanation of Mr. Foster's remark in regard to Sir Charles Tupper's having sacrificed his lucrative office was that Mr. Foster thought the Conservative party would not have been beaten had Sir Charles Tupper remained in England. The late Conservative administration he accused of corruption and incapacity, and the treachery to Sir Mackenzie Bowell led the party to buck on the late Ministers. Besides, Sir Charles made the mistake of taking a new departure at the last election of for once trusting the saints rather than the sinners. But to judge by his speech of last night, he would not try it again. (Laughter.) Sir Richard ridiculed The Mail's computation of the party vote, quoted by Sir Charles Tupper, and claimed that, instead of a popular majority of 25,000, the Conservatives were in a minority of 1500. But it was a matter of more importance that the Liberals had a majority in the House of 35 or 40—(cries of, Oh, oh)—and of the Liberal members not one owed his seat to corrupt practices, while one in three of the Opposition were petitioned against. (Laughter.)

Sir Richard defended the Governor-General's warrants as being necessitated by wholly exceptional circumstances. Would Mr. Foster, he asked, have desired that the Government's railway and canal employes, "and even the poor clerks in these departments," should have remained unpaid? The Opposition were justified in refusing supplies last session, just as the Governor-General was to be justified in refusing to sign a warrant for them, because that Government did not have the confidence of the people.

Sir Richard, immediately after dinner, took occasion to announce that there had been two elections to-day, and to the delight of the Liberals proceeded to give the majorities of Messrs. Blair and Paterson. Then, taking up Mr. Foster's charges against Sir Richard, he endeavored to justify the action of the Government in issuing the Governor-General's warrants. He claimed that the Government had secured the very best legal advice within their reach, and had adopted the only means known to the constitution to meet a public emergency, consequent upon the action of the late Government. Had the late Government not acted unconstitutionally in keeping Parliament until its last legal limit, this state of affairs would never have arisen. Referring to the election issue he said he noticed Mr. Taylor in his place, and would like him to explain if it were true that he had said he had been sent to Owen Sound to announce that Remedial Legislation was no more the policy of the Conservative party, and that if they voted for Mr. Paterson they voted for Quebec domination.

Mr. Taylor denied having made the statement.

Sir Richard Cartwright said he was of course bound to accept Mr. Taylor's statement, which, however, differed from the newspaper reports, and he would have to square himself with the newspapers. The Minister then took up the tariff question and mentioned that time was required in order to see what reductions were necessary. He defended Mr. Laurier from attacks made on him for The Chicago Record interview, and contended that it was the highest statesmanship to cultivate friendly relations with the United States. He read from the recent papers of Lord Russell at Saratoga on this point, and commended them to the Opposition and people of Canada. (Liberal cheers.)

Mr. Ives twitted Sir Richard with having been kept under during the recent campaign and allowed out only a few days before polling. In four or five ridings in which he spoke his observations had the effect of defeating the Liberal candidates and increasing the Conservative majorities. (Laughter.) He proceeded to some of the influences which operated in Quebec to secure the Liberal majority. There the ground was ready for harvest. The argument that carried the province could be summed up in a very few words, "Hurrah for Laurier, one of ourselves!" Another potent reason was the lavish, corrupt and abominable expenditure of money in the constituencies. (Liberal laughter.) Talk about sixteen to one in the States, here was a case of ten thousand to one. Confederate money was bought at fifteen cents a bushel and used to purchase votes in one constituency. The coupon system was used. Five dollars was to be paid if the Liberal candidate was elected. That was the first coupon. The second was $5 if Mr. Laurier were returned to power, and the third coupon $5 if the candidate became one of Mr. Laurier's ministers. (Laughter.) That trick was successfully tried. Then the influence of Rouge clergy contributed largely to the landslide in Quebec.

Mr. Stenson (Richmond and Wolfe) in a maiden speech said he could not allow these statements to go unchallenged. He protested against the charge that the Rouge clergy had worked against the Conservative candidates. That statement was false. (Loud cries of "Order," which led Mr. Stenson to withdraw the word.) He concluded by stating that Mr. Ives must have known he was not speaking exactly according to facts, a remark which caused great laughter.

Mr. N. Davin held that the Liberal leader, by delaying to give relief at this session to the Northwest, had alienated from himself all support in the Territories but that of any hard and fast Liberals who might be there. Speaking in passing, he admitted Mr. Laurier's insincere effort to get together a strong Government, but in discarding the old members of the party he had adopted a policy which must yet justify itself. True, he had brought in the Bengal tiger (Sir Richard), but he could say "I have pared his claws and drawn his teeth;" while for leaving out Mr. Fraser he might plead the excuse that he did not want an elephant on his hands. (Laughter.) Mr. Davin feared that in keeping up this uncertainty about the tariff Mr. Laurier was laying up a store of distress in manufacturing centres during the winter by reason of uncertainty as to tariff issue, after which Mr. Oliver (Alberta) in a maiden speech declared the people of the Northwest were not disappointed because the duty had not been removed from agricultural implements this session. A removal of duty next winter would be as well. He twitted Mr. Davin with having less right than anyone else to speak for the Northwest, representing as he did only the gentlemanly returning officer who did the final act for him in the last election.

Mr. Quinn (Montreal Centre) moved the adjournment of the debate, and without further question the House rose at half-past 10 o'clock.

SIR MACKENZIE ACCEPTS.

The Ex-Premier Yields to the Unanimous Wish of His Colleagues.

Ottawa, Aug. 25.—(Special.)—Sir Mackenzie Bowell is to lead the Opposition in the Senate. This is as predicted by me the other day. Today he was waited upon by a large deputation of Senators, headed by Senator Miller, and presented with a requisition signed by all of the Conservative Senators in the city asking him to accept the leadership of the Conservative members in the Upper House during the present Parliament.

Senator Lougheed in the Senate this evening introduced a bill to amend the Insurance Act. It provides that all policies of insurance negotiated by United States companies in Canada to residents in Canada shall be payable in legal tender of the Dominion, notwithstanding that there may be a stipulation to the contrary in policies. The object of this bill is to meet a contingency which might arise in the United States by reason of a free silver policy being adopted in that country. The present position of the policies of insurance negotiated in Canada of United States companies is that upon payment of these policies maturing payment in most cases, if not in all, is made at the head offices of the companies in the United States. The Canadian policy-holders would, therefore, be compelled, if silver became legal tender, to accept payment of their policies in that coin, which is only worth fifty-two cents on the dollar. As all premiums are payable in gold it is urged that there can be no valid objection to making the policies payable in the same coin. The bill is likely to give rise to an interesting discussion in the Upper House.

GONE WITH THE GOVERNMENT.

Plenty of Money Said to Have Been Used to Elect Mr. Paterson in North Grey—Mr. Blair Also Wins.

Owen Sound, Aug. 25.—(Special.)—The fondest dreams of the Liberals were more than realized to-night as the returns came slowly in from all over the riding. Mr. Paterson's majority is 408.

The election was remarkable for the large number of voters who were brought in from a distance. Men came from as far west as Regina, Dakota and Winnipeg and from points all over Ontario.

Blair Defeats Wilmot.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 25.—Hon. A. G. Blair, Minister of Railways, won a great victory in the combined Counties of Queen's and Sunbury to-day, defeating his opponent by a majority of 694. It was one of the keenest political fights that ever took place in New Brunswick. Mr. Wilmot the Conservative candidate was defeated in his own county.

'TWAS CANADA'S RACE

Vencedor Badly Beaten in a Light Breeze.

The Chicago Yacht at No Time Had a Chance, But With a Stiff Wind Berriman Says He Can Win—Canada Got 1 Min. 51 Secs the Worst of the Start—Well Sailed and Admirably Handled.

Toledo, Aug. 25.—(Special.)—The race between Canada and Vencedor to-day proved conclusively what Monday's unfinished contest had indicated—that in light or moderate weather the Chicago yacht is no match for her opponent.

The wind for the greater part of the day was the same for both yachts, and the Canadian boat outpointed and outfooted Vencedor when working to weather, besides running and reaching faster.

The first leg of the course was a spinnaker run, and Canada gained on it 1 minute and 10 seconds. The second leg was a reach and Canada covered it nearly 8 minutes faster than Vencedor. On the third leg of the triangle, which was a beat to windward, Canada gained 1 minute and 20 seconds, and on the close haul to the next buoy only lost 30 seconds. On the second side of the course during the second round, which was a spinnaker run, Canada gained 4 minutes, and on the beat home she increased her lead by nearly 3 minutes.

Thus on every leg of the course except one she made a substantial gain, while the time lost on that one was trifling.

The Vencedor's admirers have claimed that in moderate weather she is the faster boat, but this race hardly confirmed their opinion.

Canada had slightly the better of what little luck was going, in the matter of slants of wind, and the steamers gave Vencedor more wash as was natural, she being the following boat. Neither of these advantages made any material difference to the American boat.

The Canada's crew set canvas much faster than did Vencedor's, which was to be expected from their constant drilling during the past month. The yachts seemed to be equally well steered, and in the manoeuvring for position at the start, the Vencedor got rather the best of it.

The Dominion yacht in a light breeze, which just enabled her to recover the triangular 24 knots course within the required five and a half hours' time limit, beat the Vencedor 17 minutes 59 seconds actual time, and 22 minutes 44 seconds corrected time.

The Vencedor at no time stood a chance in the light air with her small sails spread, but whenever the wind increased she showed considerable speed, and her admirers still have hopes of her in a breeze.

A tremendous crowd of spectators on the decks of a hundred or more excursion steamers witnessed the day's race, and the Canada received an ovation when she slipped across the finish line just before the expiration of the time limit agreed to under the rules. Owing to her construction the Vencedor was compelled to give the Canada an allowance of four minutes and 15 seconds.

The racers, accompanied by the judges' boat and a motley fleet of yachts and excursion steamers, arrived at the starting line off Turtle Island light in good season this morning and the skippers of the racers used up their spare time in getting their boats in condition for the race. At 10.45 the yachts stood over to the southward of the line under all plain working sails, with balloon staysail and jib topsails up in stops, were then began to manoevre for the start.

Canada stuck close to Vencedor, keeping her under her lee, but Captain Barbour did not seem to mind the jockeying, as he stood off and on along the line watching the time closely. Just before the starting gun was fired, he gybed Vencedor around and headed for the line, breaking out his balloon jib and staysail as he did so, and crossed three seconds after the signal, or at 11.00.03. Captain Jarvis did not expect this, and before he could wear away after the Vencedor, the latter was off on the first leg of the course, the Canada going over one minute and fifteen seconds later, breaking out her head sails before crossing.

At 11.02.30 the Vencedor ran up her spinnaker in stops to starboard. Seeing this, the Canada dropped her spinnaker boom and set the sail to starboard, coming up the Chicago boat's weather quarter at 11.10.000, and after blanketing her, passed to windward. The wind did not hold, and was too light for the Chicago boat, and the Canada with her large proportionate sail area drew away.

At 11.20 the wind dropped to almost a calm till the Canada was a quarter of a mile in the lead, but at 11.45 it picked up considerably, and the Vencedor took in her balloon staysail and spinnaker and drew up to the Canada, which was nearing the first stakeboat. As Canada neared the mark her spinnaker was taken in and she gybed around at 11.56.10; Vencedor at 11.57.40.

From this point to the second mark the yachts had the wind on their port beam and a little stronger, which for the first time sent them through the water with a little foam under their forefoot. It did not hold, however, and the little Vencedor gained was lost before they had run half the leg. The Canada rounded at 12.44.00; Vencedor 12.53.20.

The last leg of the course was to windward, and after rounding the Canada held on to the port tack for a few minutes, when she went about and stood off to the southwest, while the Vencedor held on to the port tack till 1.15.00, when she, too, come about after the Canada, which was then a mile to windward of her. At 1.45 a dark streak was noticed to eastward that promised wind, and at 1.50 the Canada caught it, and before the Vencedor felt it had added another quarter of a mile to he riong lead.

At 2.05.00 the Canada finished the first round, Vencedor being timed at 2.13.30.

After rounding the Canada took in her balloon staysaid, and set a working staysail, and, with the wind over her starboard beam, started on the second round. Vencedor rounded at 2.13.30.

On this leg the Chicago boat did better, and began to overhaul the Canada, which was making the water fly off to eastward from her shapely bow in a small cascade. In spite of the fuss she made, she was not doing as well as she looked, as when the next mark was reached, the Vencedor had gained 25 seconds. Their time of turning being 2.39.40, Vencedor 2.48.25.

Once around both set spinnakers to port for the run down the wind. The wind again fell light, and the Canada as usual began to draw away, and gained five minutes and thirty-five seconds on her before she turned to second mark at 3.20.30; Vencedor 14 minutes and 20 seconds later, or at 3.43.50.

After turning they trimmed their sheets in flat and, close hauled on the port, began to work to windward to the home mark, making a long and short leg to it. Canada pointed up well and dropped the Vencedor steadily, and crossed the line a winner at 4.19.08, Vencedor not finishing till 4.37.07.

Doctors' Mistakes.

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.

How large bills are run up without benefit to the sufferer.

Many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from nervous disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another with pain here and there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and their easy-going, indifferent, or over-busy doctors, separate and distinct diseases, for which they prescribe their pills and potions, assuming them to be such, when, in reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some womb disease. The physician ignorant of the cause of suffering, encourages his practice until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, but probably worse, by reason of the delay, wrong treatment and consequent complications. A proper medicine, like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It cures all derangements, irregularities and weaknesses of the womanly organs. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, due to pregnancy, weak stomach, and kindred symptoms, its use, will prove very beneficial. It also makes childbirth easy by preparing the system for parturition, thus assisting Nature and shortening "labor." The period of confinement is also greatly shortened, the mother strengthened and built up, and an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child promoted. Sold by all dealers.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Cobourg's Second Day.

The attendance at the Cobourg meeting Tuesday was very large and the three events on the card and a consolation race furnished plenty of amusement. In the third heat of the 37 class the judges decided to put up a new driver behind Little Hector. The driver, who was also owner, refused to allow it and took his horse from the track, which is not a member of the Association. The summaries follow:

Consolation Race. For horses not winning 1st or 2nd money on 24th and 25th Aug., this meet. $15 to 1st; $10 to 2nd. No entrance. King won the race and Isadora second.

THE WHEEL.

The R. Q. T. road race, which takes place at Toronto on September 12th, will be one of the biggest racing events of the season. It is expected there will be over 300 entries and at least 200 starters. The distance is twenty miles and some valuable prizes are offered. The first prize is a piano valued at $450. There will be four starters from this city, namely Lockett, Carscallen, Kenrich and Nash.

THE RIFLE.

The final matches of the season were shot yesterday evening. The results were: 100 yards match—J. H. Mills, 1st; W. P. Clarke, 2nd; W. Cronk, 3rd. Deshane prize, 200 yards—W. Douglas, 1st; J. H. Mills and W. P. Clarke divided 2nd and 3rd.

Not one complaint has ever been made by those using Ayer's Sarsaparilla according to directions. Furthermore, we have yet to learn of a case in which it has failed to afford benefit. So say hundreds of druggists all over the country. Has cured others, will cure you.

Turned Off the Gas.

There have been differences between T. S. Carman, proprietor of the opera house, and Thos. P. J. Power, the lessee, for some months and it culminated last evening in Mr. Carman ordering his caretaker to turn off the gas, when Duncan Clarke's female minstrels were billed to give a performance. There were some hot words between Mr. Power and the caretaker and it looked for a time as though there would be something stronger than words. Mr. Carman claimed Power owed him a certain amount on the rent, and the latter denied the debt. An arrangement was finally made whereby the performance was allowed to go on by gaslight. It would have been much better had not the performance gone on, for a more vulgar combination never visited the city.

Mr. Power took action against Mr. Carman to-day through his solicitor, Mr. F. S. Wallbridge, for $200 damages.

A Pleasant Gathering.

About twenty-five of Harry Boseley's old school mates and friends called upon him last evening at his mother's residence, Moira st., and spent a most enjoyable evening at games and other amusements. Refreshments were served and at a late hour the gathering broke up. Mr. Boseley will be married this evening to a young lady of this city.

Purify your blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla: which will give you an appetite, tone your stomach and strengthen your nerves.

The Scotchmen's Day.

The annual gathering of the clans took place at Massassaga Park to-day and attracted a very large gathering. Excursions came from Picton, Trenton, Napanee, Deseronto and a number of other points on the G. T. and Midland railways. A programme of sports will be carried out at the Park this afternoon.

VERDICT OF WILFUL MURDER

RETURNED AGAINST BADGELEY AND LYONS FOR KILLING MURRAY.

The Coroner's Jury Find That They Did "With Malice Aforethought Maliciously Kill and Murder Charles Murray on August 17th"—George Blakely Guilty as an Accessory—Mrs. Mitchell and James Popp Saw the Blow Struck.

TORONTO, Aug. 26.

"That Harry Badgeley and Bert Lyons did with malice aforethought maliciously kill and murder Charles Murray on Aug. 17, and that George Blakeley was an accessory before the fact."

Foregoing is the verdict of the jury who heard the evidence at the inquest held last night by Coroner Johnson to ascertain how the young man Chas. Murray met his death on the 17th inst., in King street, near Simcoe street.

COUNSEL IN THE CASE.

Mr. Curry represented the Crown and Mr. Robinette was present for the prisoners, George Badgeley and Bert Lyons. George Badgeley was arrested the day Murray died and Bert Lyons gave himself up yesterday. Harry Badgeley, against whom the verdict of murder was given, has not yet been arrested.

Among those present at the inquest were the mother and sisters of the deceased and Mrs. and Miss Badgeley.

The evidence put in was pretty much of the same nature, all the witnesses agreeing that Harry Badgeley struck the blow which felled young Murray.

WHAT MRS. MITCHELL HEARD.

Mrs. Beatrice Mitchell, 168 Adelaide street west, was walking west on King st. and met Harry Badgeley and Bert Lyons. Lyons said to Badgeley, "When you give it to him, give it to him good and hard." This was opposite the Palmer House. When she got as far as the Red Lion Hotel she saw some fellows scuffling near the centre of the street. Then she saw Harry Badgeley run out from the sidewalk and strike Murray a round-arm blow. She heard the blow distinctly and concluded that Murray must have been hit with some weapon, as he threw up his arms and fell without even staggering.

MR. POPP SAW A BLOW STRUCK.

James Popp said he was coming east on King street when Murray came out of Huff's eating house and struck him. Witness saw that Murray had made a mistake in his man, and did not strike back. While they were sparring someone ran out from the sidewalk and struck Murray a blow, which felled him. Witness asked, "Who was the dirty cur that did that?" Somebody in the crowd said Badgeley. Badgeley and two or three more then ran away.

THEIR RECORD IS BAD.

The Badgeley boys are well known to the police. Their record is anything but good. Lyons until a short time ago worked for a living, but lately he has been travelling with the "gang."

Correspondence.

Whilst correspondents will be accorded space for the expression of their ideas on topics of public interest, it must be in all cases understood that the views so expressed are simply those of the correspondents themselves.

Some Suggestions.

To the Editor of the INTELLIGENCER.

MR. EDITOR,—I do not write to resurrect our regatta, the memory of it is too painful to us all, and especially to those of our citizens who, in their spirit of enterprise and desire to benefit our beautiful little city we are all so proud of, ventured so much of their time and money in this regrettable enterprise. What I wish to call the attention of every citizen to is the fact that until we have a first-class race track, athletic grounds and fair grounds situated in a convenient locality and properly and conveniently fitted up and all the sports conducted squarely and impartially by having men at the head of it who are above reproach, I say until we have all this we will not gain any notoriety with the outside world.

Did not Mr. Seagram offer to give us a thousand dollars if we would build a first class track and with such a track at least twice each season we would have the best circuit runners and trotters with us and the horse interest would grow and develop and we would soon turn out our share of good horses instead of letting all the little towns around us make a laughing stock of us. And when we have another Agricultural Fair let us have a real old genuine fair, without balloon ascensions, tight rope performances, sword exercises and acrobatic feats and all such foolery in connection with it, but give us all the horsemanship you can of every description and encourage the farmers all we can and not the fakirs and slight of hand performers and æronants, and such like.

Yours truly,
D. H. ACKERILL.

Daily Intelligencer.

IMMIGRATION IN THE UNITED STATES.

Rhode Gale writes in the current number of Lippincott's on the subject of immigration evils, a subject which the writer handles in a convincing and logical manner.

Of the effect of the great influx of aliens, the writer points out that by direct action upon the labor market, wages are lowered, and American workingmen made to eat the bread of discontent; the foreign element disseminate noxious imported vices and are fungus growths upon the American nation; and that "the freeman's vote" suffers injury at the hands of the base contingent from foreign shores, voters for revenue only, who are marshalled in platoons to vote for or by the direction of those who have found a "job" for them.

The remedy, as pointed out, is decisive, not qualifying measures; more rigid restriction of privilege, more extended and sweeping exclusion of undesirable immigrants, else absolute prohibition may become imperative. A brief resume of the legislation which has marked but never retarded the progress of immigration, follows:

Statistics of immigration were first gathered in 1820; from 1783 to that the estimate of foreign immigrants to the United States was 250,000. To June 30, 1894, upwards of 17,000,000 immigrants had arrived, and in the last ten years alone more than 5,000,000 were admitted. From 1720 to 1840 the immigration was almost entirely from Great Britain and Ireland; from 1840 to 1890 Germany furnished a million and a half immigrants; and from 1880 to 1890 there was an enormous increase of immigrants coming from Austria-Hungary, Italy, Russia and Poland. These latter have been classed as the most undesirable immigrants, because their standard of living is low, they can live on very little, accept very low wages, and throw the labor market into confusion. Yet these appeared to thrive, save money, and send for relatives, or return to their native land to spend their savings.

The first immigration law was passed by Act of Congress in July, 1864, and was entitled "An Act to encourage Immigration," but contained no protective qualifying clause, and indiscriminate immigration was permitted and encouraged. Four years later this Act was repealed, and until 1882 there was no statute bearing on the subject. In that year an Act was passed by which a head-tax of fifty cents on each passenger, which has since been increased to one dollar, was imposed. It provided for the exclusion of foreign convicts, lunatics, idiots, or others liable to become public charges, and their deportation by the owners of the vessels by which they came. This Act is still in force, except such provisions as have been repealed by subsequent legislation. By an Act of 1884, passengers coming by vessels employed exclusively in the trade, between parts of the United States and those of the Dominion of Canada or Mexico, were exempted from the payment of immigration head-tax.

The first Alien Contract Labor Law was approved in 1885, in response to a demand from American workingmen for protection against the invasion of foreign pauper laborers from the Old World. Professional actors, artists, lecturers, singers, personal or domestic servants, ministers of any religious denomination, professors for colleges and seminaries, or persons belonging to any recognized profession, were exempted.

Another restrictive Act was passed in 1891, which more clearly defined the class of immigrants to be excluded, but stated that "Nothing in this Act shall be construed to apply to or exclude persons convicted of a political offence." or "as prohibiting any individual from assisting any member of his family to migrate from any foreign country to the United States for the purpose of settlement."

Speaking of the amount of money sent to foreign countries by immigrants, the writer states that in an average year the Italian bankers of New York City alone send to Italy from twenty-five to thirty million dollars. This is said to have an appreciable effect upon the money market. But for the padrone system, by which one man employs hundreds of his ignorant countrymen and practices all sorts of impositions upon them, the amount of money sent out of the country would undoubtedly be much more. Last year, the writer declares, not less than one hundred thousand dollars was actually stolen from Italian workingmen by half a dozen bankers in New York, Boston and Newark. Poles, Armenians, Greeks, Hungarians and Syrians are also thus manipulated.

You cannot say that you have tried everything for your rheumatism, until you have taken Ayer's Pills. Hundreds have been cured of this complaint by the use of these Pills alone. They were admitted on exhibition at the World's Fair as a standard cathartic.

THE BY-ELECTIONS.

Messrs. Paterson and Blair, the Controller of Customs and Minister of Railways in the Laurier Administration, have been returned to Parliament by large majorities in North Grey, Ontario, and Queen's and Sunbury, New Brunswick, respectively.

The latter constituency is strongly Liberal, therefore no other result was to have been expected therein.

As to North Grey, however, the case was different. The constituency, formerly Conservative, returned a Liberal at the general election, and it was thought by many Conservatives that a local man might defeat an outsider, as Mr. Paterson was. The result, therefore, may surprise both sides to some extent. Still, when it is considered that Owen Sound, which is competing with Collingwood for the leadership in the shipping trade of that region, has been asking for harbor improvements and that the most corrupt use was made of the "human devices" at the command of the Government, it is not to be wondered at that the town turned from its political allegiance of former times. The fact that the town of Owen Sound gave a Liberal majority of 132 in face of a Conservative majority on the 23rd of June speaks louder than words.

As evidence of the grossly corrupt inducements offered by the Liberals, it is only necessary to quote the following from the speech of Mr. Hardy, Premier of Ontario, at Owen Sound on Saturday last: "I am not talking politics, but business," said Mr. Hardy. "I want to ask you, what have you Owen Sounders to lose by electing Mr. Paterson? (Cries of "Nothing! Nothing!"). What will you gain by electing Mr. McLauchlan? (Renewed cries of "Nothing!") You say 'Nothing.' That is the point you must keep before you. Do you want a shrivelling commerce, a decaying population, a lessening sphere of influence, or do you want the opposite? Shall Owen Sound stagnate for five years to come, or perhaps ten years to come, or will you have the sympathy of a Government at your back? You will not in any event get less than justice, but to have the active sympathy of a Government is one thing and to have only cold justice is another thing."

And of such is the "party of purity." An Administration builded on such a rotten foundation cannot stand for any length of time.

Korns, Korns.

There are more than one sort of korns. Some korn is planted in the ground and the other sort don't need planting; they grow quite naturally on men's toes and don't need hoeing. This kind of korn has two sorts—one gentle or tender like until Bill Jones steps on your foot, when it gets boiling mad and swears like everything; the other is hard headed and makes a row all the time, especially when your boots are on. I don't like korns, and use the extracting medicine, Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor which removes them painlessly in twenty-four hours.

BANCROFT.

Aug. 25th.—In all this northern part of the country, harvest is progressing favorably. Grain will be rather above an average crop, but hay was light but better than last year the late spring having also been very dry; rain during the present season has been insufficient, but although the temperature has been sultry at times, we have not suffered as much as other places in that respect.—On the 6th one of those remarkable auroral exhibitions presented itself in the shape of a luminous belt stretching across near the zenith from east to west; and in the Township of Lawrence, about 50 miles from Bancroft, north, this phenomenon was preceded by a storm accompanied by heavy thunder that lasted sixteen hours, and in the same township there was heavy thunder for nine days included between the 5th and 18th.—A line of railway is in progress to connect with the Irondale at Bancroft from Pembroke, to be pushed on rapidly. Can nothing stir Belleville? That place is becoming more and more cut off from us in the back country.

A BICYCLE GRINDSTONE.

The Idea of the Modern Cycle Put to a Good Use.

Two solid triangular pieces of framework should be made, as shown in the cut, in each of which is a strong, upright piece (1D) with a groove (DD) in which the axle of the grindstone rests. Between the triangles should be placed a pan (C) to hold water. A wheel (B) is hung between the grindstone (A) and water pan (C). The wheel should be of iron and as wide as the stone. The wheel also has pedals on the outside of the triangle, so the grinder, as he sits in the old mowing machine seat (K), turns the small wheel. The small wheel is kept wet enough to moisten the grindstone. As the wheel wears away it gradually drops in the slot.—Menno Webber, Waterloo Co., in Farmers' Advocate.

A Device for Hoisting.

A simple device for hoisting is illustrated below. The uprights a and b are 4x4's, or ordinary post timber 10 to 12 feet long. These are set into the ground 2 or 3 feet and 5 feet apart. To the tops of these fasten e f with bolts or spikes. Place e and d in position, secure the upper ends at e and f and set the lower ends firmly in the ground. For h, use an old shaft or a piece of hard wood and fasten it to c and d. Attach one end of the two ropes x and y to h and run them through the pulleys attached to the cross piece e f. Fasten these ropes to the hind legs of the animal to be lifted. If one rope and a gambrel is preferred, attach it to the middle of h and run through a pulley at m. Two ropes are preferable. By this apparatus one man can lift the heaviest carcass. A wagon box bottom side up may be placed between a and b for a platform.—Farm and Home.

That nothing succeeds like success, is an old, old story, and here is another instance of its truth. Fibre Chamois has been from the start a trustworthy fabric of sterling merit, giving more than full value for every cent it cost. Its worth has been highly appreciated, and the demand for it has increased so steadily lately that owing to that as well as to the improved and extended facilities for its manufacture, it is now possible to sell it for the Popular Price of 25c. a yard.

This will be good news for everybody as Fibre Chamois is universally used to give the body, tone and graceful style to all fashionable garments. But it is just as important as ever, for your own sake to see the label when buying, to prevent any disappointment from imitations.

Justice Elmendorf, of Hurley, Ulster County, N. Y., had a remarkable case before him recently. For some time past a trespass suit has been in progress before him and the lawyers were fighting every point.

The other day, when an amended answer was put in to the complaint, time was asked to prepare an answer. The squire asked how long a time was desired.

"Ten years!" was the reply. Surprising as it may appear, the opposing lawyer agreed and the court announced:

"Then, be it understood, that this case is adjourned to Aug. 11, 1906, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon, and members of the jury can depart hence, to appear again promptly at that time."

Montreal Markets.

There was no change in the flour or grain market to-day. Wheat, No. 1 hard, nominal; wheat, No. 2 hard, nominal; peas, per 60 lbs, afloat, 55c to 55½c; oats, No. 2 white, in store, 25½c to 26c; rye, No. 2, nominal; barley, feed, 33½c to 34c; barley, 44c to 46c; buckwheat, per bu, 39c to 39½c.

Flour—Straight rollers, old wheat, $3.45 to $3.50; do, new wheat, $3.25 to $3.35; strong bakers', Manitoba, best brands, $3.45 to $3.55; spring patents, Manitoba, $3.75 to $3.90; winter patents, Ontario, $3.60 to $3.70.

Meal—Rolled, per brl, $2.60 to $2.80; standard, per brl, $2.60 to $2.70; do per bag, $1.30 to $1.35; granulated, per brl, $2.65 to $2.75; do per bag, $1.30 to $1.40.

Feed—Bran, $10 to $11; shorts, $11.50 to $12; moullie, $15 to $18.

Cheese—The feature of the market to-day as usual on Monday was the dealing in French cheese, of which there arrived by boat and rail between 3,000 and 4,000, and all were disposed of at 8c, subject to adjustment, being the ruling price.

Butter—The reports of large operators are remarkable for their variety, but the general opinion seems to be that the tone of the market is hardly so firm, the quietude prevailing on Saturday and again to-day having had a tendency to induce holders to modify their views a little. As yet, however, the change is not very pronounced, and to buy finest creamery for less than 18½c would be difficult, but the number of sellers trying to obtain an advance on these figures is less.

Eggs—There was a firmer feeling in the egg market, and under a fair demand prices were higher, choice stock selling at 9c to 9½c, and culls at 7c to 7½c per dozen.

Provisions—The demand for Canada short cut pork and lard is very light, but in bacon there is considerable activity, owing to a good demand from the other side. Canada short cut mess, per brl, $10.50 to $11.50; hams, city cured, per lb, 7½c to 8½c; bacon, per lb, 8c to 9c; lard, pure Canadian, per lb, 7c; lard, common, refined, per lb, 5c.

LIVE STOCK.

There were about 600 head of butchers' cattle, 200 calves and 500 sheep and lambs offered for sale at the East End Abattoir today. Shippers bought several lots of large steers and fat cows, paying from 3¼c to 3½c per lb, and some of the better kinds of butchers' stock were sold at about the same figures. Inferior to common animals sold at from 2c to nearly 3c per lb. Calves sold at from $2 to $8 each. Mr. Bourassa paid $15 for two of the best on the market. Shippers are paying 3c per lb for ordinary lots of suitable sheep, and 3½c per lb for superior animals. Pretty good lambs sell in lots at from 3¼c to 3¾c per lb, and a few choice ones were sold at 4c per lb. Fat hogs are plentiful, and sell at from 3¾c to 4c per lb. A mixed lot, little and big, just come off the cars, were sold to-day at $3.70 per hundred pounds; they averaged 240 pounds each.

SIDNEY CROSSING.

JULY 24th.—There is a continual complaint among the farmers about the dry weather, for rain is badly needed in this vicinity.—Mrs. John H. Bell, of Belleville, has returned home after spending a few days with friends here.—Mr. Dave MacGowan is dangerously ill with typhoid fever. Dr. Youker is in attendance.—Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cox, of Toronto, have returned home after spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cox.—An exciting runaway accident occurred here on Sunday night which might have proved fatal. Mr. and Mrs. P. Casey were returning from church when their horse became frightened at some sheep in the road and ran away, overturning the carriage and throwing the occupants to the ground with great violence. Mr. Casey, who pluckily held on to the reins, was dragged a considerable distance and badly bruised and shaken up. Mrs. Casey fortunately escaped with but little injury.—Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Vandervoort are spending a few days in Rochester.—Miss Minnie Fletcher, who has been confined to her room by illness during past week, is able to be out again.—This school opened on Monday with a fairly good attendance. Mr. P. N. Fairman, our popular teacher, is again in charge.—Mrs. Marshall Vandewaters is very ill.—Mr. Mike Connor, section foreman at the station, is seriously ill with typhoid fever.—The lawn social held on the lawn of Mr. Geo. Cox on Wednesday eve was largely attended and was a success both financially and socially. Refreshments were served, to which ample justice was done, while the candy booth was largely patronized by both old and young. Mr. Randall Moran was appointed chairman and a programme consisting of music and speeches was heartily listened to. After singing the national anthem all departed for their separate homes each delighted with the sociable time spent. The proceeds exceeded $20.—Mr. Philip Bonisteel and family, who have been spending a few days with friends here, have returned to their home in Toronto.—Mrs. J. W. Young is able to be out again after her recent illness.—Rev. Mr. Wilmott, B. A., our popular minister, is spending a couple of weeks with friends in Prince Albert.—Messrs. "Bob" Moore and "Ed" Vandewater, of Belleville, were the guests of their chum, Percy Vandervoort, last week.—Mrs. Godfrey, of the station, is slowly recovering from her recent severe illness.

The Advance in Cheese.

The recent advance in the price of cheese in our opinion has been due mainly to the fact that English buyers have at last begun to appreciate the significance of the shortage in their own make. No reports of decreased production on this side of the Atlantic would have the slightest effect on the other side, for, as a rule, the shorter the make reported in Canada the larger has it turned out in reality. Nothing less, therefore, than the realization of the fact under their own noses has convinced them that they now have to face a short make of English cheese, and should it turn out that the fall production in Canada is below the average, the recent advance in values may not only be maintained, but materially enhanced. After all, 8½c to 8¾c for latter part of July and early August goods cannot be called high; and we sincerely hope, for the sake of Canadian as well as English makers, that prices may go to 9½ and 10c. Consumers have had things too much their own way for a long time past, and it is about time a happy average were struck. If Providence would kindly prolong the drought in England into September and October, we should no doubt experience a much healthier trade, and consumers would be little if any the worse for it. We believe in drought and other natural causes as a cure for, and corrective of, overproduction; but the trouble is they are not severe enough to create a general revival of business. It is true the price of cheese has advanced of late from 34s 6d to 41s 6d in Liverpool, and at the advance there has been a much more active enquiry; but what is wanted is a still further rise, as a result of protracted dry weather in England. It would be good for all. It must be admitted that the price of cheese has been abnormally low, and as a natural result trade has been correspondingly dull and depressed.—Trade Bulletin.

"KIDS."

"What's this bit of lead, captain?" asked the colonel's nephew, who had dropped in on the surgeon at his plain quarters facing the parade.

"Apache bullet!" replied the doctor, sententiously, with a carelessness that evidently was assumed. "Dug it out of Bristow."

"Would you mind yarning me the tale?" continued the visitor, with a pardonable inquisitiveness.

"Certainly, I'll tell what I know about the lead," said the surgeon, laying down the instruments he had been cleaning, and offering his civilian guest an armchair upon the veranda. "But 'tis only a short story." And then wizened-faced, but kind-hearted, old Sawbones continued: "Bristow was a little dude—one among many dandies at the Point back in the '70's. I took note of him when I was on duty there as assistant surgeon. He came to the academy as a dapper young city chap, inclined to air his pedigree and social advantages, until the yearlings knocked all that sort of thing out of him in plebe camp. But one thing those gray-coated tyrants never knocked out of Bristow, and that was the style. He was a dandier fellow in cadet gray than ever he had been in dress suit and kids and the first man in his class to take colors. But he was always thought to be a bit too foppish and airy in his manners, and his slight build and rather effeminate look exposed him to frequent ridicule at the hands of some of the strapping upper classmen. And, indeed, I did not very much take to him myself, though he was a distant relative. You see," and here the doctor dropped his voice, impressively, "there are some poor sticks at the academy, as elsewhere, and it has been well said by Jones, of the staff, that 'the only point about some men in the army is West Point.' Accordingly, I did not give Bristow credit for the possession of much grit and backbone, until one day, in his second class year, when he was brought over to the hospital, having had a fall in the riding hall, and there and then bore himself with such undeniable pluck while some of us worked over him that I, at least, began to think that 'Kids,' as his classmates called him, was worth his salt after all, and might make a soldier some day."

"But all that doesn't explain the bullet!" interrupted the colonel's nephew.

"No, that's a fact," replied the surgeon. "We doctors are too garrulous. Well, the explanation of the bullet was a girl, of course—Gertrude Creighton, the blithest belle of that season at the Point. Bristow was infatuated with her, little fool! It was the old story of the moth singeing its wings at the candle. He thought the Point a paradise so long as Gertrude trod its walks.

"But the fond dream of bliss was dissipated when graduation day arrived and the girl threw him over, never having had the least idea—as any of us older ones could have told him—of roughing it upon the frontier as a soldier's bride.

"Bristow followed Gertrude to Newport on his graduation leave; but his entreaties were all in vain, and sick at heart he joined shortly after the —th cavalry, then in Arizona; for he could always ride and had chosen that arm of the service. On the frontier he could not be quite the dude he had been at the Point, but still he was always the best-dressed subaltern in the regiment. He had money enough, for one thing.

"But to come now to the bullet. Gertrude Creighton married a Curton, the son of a rich mine owner. Paterfamilias Curton wanted this youthful scion to make a short trip with a view to looking after some of his interests in the west. And so it came to pass that one day out in Arizona this same young Curton, in company with a few prospectors, ran right into a small band of Apaches. For a time they stood the Indians off, while one of Curton's crowd got away and brought the news into Fort Blister. It didn't take long for a detail, under command of the dude sub, to mount and bear away for the scene of the excitement.

"But the messenger had underrated the number of the Apaches, and for once our colonel had erred in judgment with regard to the size of the detachment he sent out. The Apaches were too proud to be driven off by Bristow's little squad. When the troopers arrived they found a serious business on their hands. The prospecting party had been nearly cut to pieces. Only one or two survived. One of them was Curton, and he was badly wounded. Bristow, the first sergeant said afterward, started violently when he saw him, and for a moment was quite unnerved. Bristow had met Curton in past years, and knew, of course, that he was Gertrude Creighton's husband.

"But a shout restored Bristow to his senses. The Apaches, yelling and flourishing their rifles, were rushing down upon the doomed group of prospectors, thinking by a sudden rush to snatch their prey before it was secured by the troopers. 'Kids' gave a quick order for a counter charge, and then riding for all he was worth—riding as he once rode at the academy—dashed across the intervening gully and was at Curton's side in a twinkling. Lifting his now wounded rival on his own horse, with a kick he sent the animal at a mad gallop off to refuge behind our little line. Curton, half dazed, only heard him say, as he lifted him on the horse: 'Tell—your wife—that it was joy to die—to save her husband!'

"Yes, that is the ball I cut out of Bristow," sighed the doctor. "An Apache put it into him just after Curton swept away to safety. Of course our men got the body. And I kept the ball.

"But there goes 'sick call!'" exclaimed Sawbones, jumping up. "Well, Bristow may have been a kid-gloved hero, but he was a hero all the same. For 'Kids' wasn't just a carpet-knight at Cozzen's, but we of the —th after that wrote him down in memory's roster as one of the fighters of the plains."

Weeds as Manure.

A European exchange has the following: Put into a ditch alternate layers of weeds and lime, and after a year has passed it will be found that the ditch contains a blackish mixed matter possessed of good fertilizing powers. In Switzerland they use as a manure for the meadows a kind of vegetable juice prepared as follows from weeds: Make a large heap of from 375 to 575 pounds, leave it to ferment, stir it every eight days. When the weeds have turned yellow they are removed to a ditch, where they are watered and mixed with the following solution: Two and a quarter pounds of sulphuric acid, two and a quarter pounds of hydrochloric acid and 133 gallons of water. The bulk is turned about three or four times a week and at the end of a month there is obtained a vegetable juice rich in nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash.

VALUABLE EXPERIMENTS.

The Three Years' Thorough Tests by the New York Station.

The New York experimental station has been at work for three years testing the milk of the various dairy breeds of cows to determine so far as is possible their relative quality, quantity and economy of production in milk, butter, fat and cheese.

This investigation is so far the most thorough of any of which we have any record. Although no positive conclusions have yet been reached many interesting facts as to milk and its elements are revealed. So far it is very clearly shown that feed, and feed only, produces all the milk, including the butter fat. This conclusion is that while cows may produce for a short time more fat in their milk than is found in their food when fed on grass only, some of it being stored up in their organism from previous feeding, still for longer periods the fat found in their milk, will not exceed that found in the feed, and is generally less.

It is a well-established fact, known to all observing farmers, that some cows will produce much larger quantities of butter from the same feed during twelve months than others. Some store more of it on their ribs; others secrete more in the milk. The food of maintenance is greater with one than another.

It is well known that the proteids, fats and mineral substances found by chemical analysis in the various kinds of food have their correspondence in body and organs of the animal. The milk secretions have in their component parts similar elements.

If it shall be proven, as appears probable, that different cows or breeds have by inheritance varying powers of assimilation of the different elements of food, so as to produce widely varying qualities in the milk, then breed becomes as important to the dairymen as feed. By analogous reasoning or comparison the same mysterious chemical action is seen in the great differences in the quality of fruit produced from different varieties of trees, grown on the same soil, under the influence of the same heat, air and moisture. Breeding and feeding thus become most interesting subjects of study for the scientist and the farmer.

Conditions Affecting the Yield of Milk.

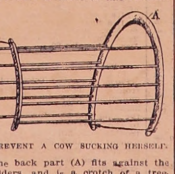
The fact is often lost sight of that the cow is a remarkably sensitive animal, especially when in calf and during the period of lactation, and often very serious consequences arise from causes which are frequently regarded as trivial. Heifers after first calf require very gentle handling until they become used to being milked, and if kindly treated will soon stand quietly, but if their first uneasy movements are met with blows and kicks they may be permanently cured. A great deal of non-success attending the dairy industry is directly traceable to mismanagement and insufficient and incompetent attendance on the animals.

Professor F. E. Emery of the North Carolina experiment station has made some extremely interesting and instructive tests on variations of milk yield caused by variations in milking, as well as the effects produced by changes in stable routine. In the first experiment a cow was milked normally, and the teats in different order, with the result that the milk yield and the fat contents showed considerable variation, which is attributed mainly to interference with the regular order of milking and excitement of the nervous system of the cow. The first milk and strippings of the same cow showed characteristic differences in fat contents.

In the second test the effect was observed in cows accustomed to being fed before milking, and of not being fed at that time. One cow, which commonly gave seven and three-quarters pounds of milk per day, only gave one pound at a milking; the next milking was larger.

To Prevent a Cow Sucking Herself.

"I will give you my plan for stopping a cow sucking herself, although I do not claim much credit, as it is made on the plan of a cradle for a horses neck, and had I been near any manufactory of such articles should have gotten them to make one to fit the cow; but not having that chance I had to try myself, and can now say I have fairly beaten her. I have tried the nose flaps, a surcingle with sticks on either side attached to the halter, then a single stick between the front legs to the same place, but found all of them wanting in some way or other, chiefly from the cow putting her legs over the sticks. The arrangement I have is made in this fashion:



TO PREVENT A COW SUCKING HERSELF.

"The back part (A) fits against the shoulders, and is a crotch of a tree, smoothed at the sides, with a strip of leather on the top to ease the neck, and fastened at the bottom with a strap. The crotch being in one piece, I found had less give to it than if in two pieces, as the pieces of the front end are little bowed sticks with holes to receive the ends of the sticks projecting from the crotch. In the article I have on her now I have five little sticks in preference to having larger ones and not so many, as the frames had to be so heavy and cumbersome to stand one inch hole. The side sticks can be made long or short to suit the case. When I first tried the rigging the cow was so determined to circumvent it that I had to stretch it to the utmost, but now, after a couple of months use or thereabout, I have it much shorter, thereby giving her more freedom as she begins to accept the inevitable."—E. T. C., in Farmer's Advocate.

PREVENTION OF SWARMING.

The Carniolan Worker, Queen and Drone Bees Tellingly Illustrated.

No bee-keeper wants swarms to come off after this time of year, as they cannot, as a rule, gather enough stores to support themselves during the coming winter. It is therefore well to understand how to prevent swarming, when desired, at all seasons.

WORKER—CARNIOLAN.

Mr. C. P. Dadant gives good advice upon this subject in the American Bee Journal, from which we glean:

"Liberal breeding-room is necessary. No matter what method we pursue, if the queen is crowded or dissatisfied we need not look for the bees to stay. We therefore want plenty of room in the brood chamber space, and we want it all in one storey. In the second place, we want plenty of room and, if possible, plenty of empty comb for the bees to lodge their crop, especially during the honey flow. Hence we want a wide ceiling that may enable us to put on a large super. Bees swarm because the circumstances do not suit them. Towards the end of the harvest however, when the queen becomes tired of incessant egg-laying, it is of much less importance to keep them supplied with so much space, and a little crowding does them no harm.

"Drone-rearing is a factor in swarming. In nearly every instance the colonies that swarm are those that have reared quite a large number of drones, other things being equal. The drone is stupid, big and noisy, and becomes a thorn in the side of the workers, hence their dissatisfaction with home surroundings. It is therefore well to prevent the hatching of a lot of drones, by removing the drone-comb and replacing it with worker-comb. This should be done in the spring, as a preventative, as the harm from such a cause is done for this season.

"Shade is an important factor in preventing swarming. A high temperature, increased by a pouring sun must of necessity add to the discomfort of a swarm of bees.

"Ventilation, too, must be given. When bees come out and cluster at the bottom of the front of the hive they are usually after fresh air. This hinders time and promotes a tendency to divide the family. A loose bottom enables the bee-keeper to raise the the hive up whenever needed, and to give as much space for ventilation as may be necessary."

The cuts show the bees twice natural size.

The Apiarist and His Work.

There is no doubt but love for any pursuit is desirable and almost a necessity if the best results are to be attained. Yet success is possible if the work in hand is well done, even if the doing of the work may not be so very agreeable to one's taste. But above all branches of farming, bee-keeping will lead to enthusiasm, even if not so pleasing at the start, if the person doing the work goes at it to win; and the more the little details, as it were, are attended to, the more is the interest aroused in the mystery within the bee hive. And if the little details are well attended to, on time, there is no branch of farming that will pay so well for money and labor expended, as will an apiary.—Ohio

Gloom

Of ill health, despondency and despair, gives way to the sunshine of hope, happiness and health, upon taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it gives renewed life and vitality to the blood, and through that imparts nerve strength, vigor and energy to the whole body. Read this letter:

"Hood's Sarsaparilla helped me wonderfully, changed sickness to health, gloom to sunshine. No pen can describe what I suffered. I was deathly sick, had sick headaches every few days and those terrible tired, despondent feelings, with heart troubles so that I could not go up and down stairs without clasping my hand over my heart and resting. In fact, it would almost take my breath away. I suffered so I did not care to live, yet I had much to live for. There is no pleasure in life if deprived of health, for life becomes a burden. Hood's Sarsaparilla does far more than advertised. After taking one bottle, it is sufficient to recommend itself." MRS. NOTHING

Gives a woman more pleasure than the possession of a quantity of good household linens.

We know the average woman's weakness in this respect, and no doubt when our buyer was making his fall purchases of Linen from the famous Brookfield Linen Co., of Belfast, Ireland, he traded largely upon woman's admiration for these beautiful goods.

We have a beautiful stock of linens—a very comprehensive stock; indeed, we question very much if we have ever been able to show so much of newness and beauty and quantity before.

THE FRUIT BUSINESS

Has developed with rapid strides in Belleville the past few years, and without any attempt at bragging we believe we have been largely influential in its steady growth.

Our fruit trade is largely a wholesale one—we supply the bulk of the fruit sold by the grocers here. It's buying in large quantities of fruit, as of anything else, that enables a dealer to give you a choice and sell you fruit at less than smaller dealers could hope to do.

KING OR KNAVE?

There are impulses to reticence as well as to speech; and some most uncharacteristic impulse of that kind prevented Guy at once laying before his friend and counsellor that letter from "You Don't Know Who." No doubt there were plenty of good reasons for immediate reserve. Anxiety was beginning to burn itself into him too deeply to come readily to the surface; he was a little youthfully ashamed of doing nothing in Heron's eyes but chase about after a girl; and he was naturally reluctant to trouble further, about his own private affairs, a personage so overwhelmed in great public undertakings as the great man of Marchgrave. True, that great man was the essence of sympathy, good nature, and practical helpfulness; it was notorious that not only his money was at all men's services (that is common), but his time, which is uncommon, and his trouble, which is rare indeed. But then this made it the more incumbent upon all real friends to show gratitude by sparing him any avoidable trouble or loss of time by every means in their power. Guy already felt himself too guilty in this respect to trouble him any more than he was obliged with love affairs. And, besides all these excellent reasons for reticence, there was one too subtle to be called a reason—some filmy phantom of feeling too vague even to be called impulse; although unconscious, and incapable of being put into thoughts, much less into words; the sort of sensation that now and then will suddenly strike the most openhearted of children shy even in the middle of an exciting game. Some people call it a presentiment, when anything happens afterwards: but, as mostly nothing happens, the world seems, for once, in want of word.

"Ah, you must learn not to worry, Guy. And don't say you can't help worrying—a man who works must have no more to do with worry that a soldier with fear, and it's an equal shame. Work and wait, and everything's sure to go right; once worry, and everything from that moment goes wrong. I'm an anxious man by nature, but with all my irons I never worry about one of them. I don't dare. I haven't passed a sleepless night since I've been in Marchgrave. However, I didn't come to preach; and I suppose you're wondering why I am come, before even going home. I might just as well be a country doctor, or a sailor, or a bagman. When you're married, Guy, don't be a justice, don't stand for your native town, and don't get Docks on the brain. Stick to office and home. I mean it; for there does come a day at last when a man gets tired; and yet, if he's not kept himself his own master, he must all the same, tired or not, go on roll, roll, roll; and, Guy, I'm getting to feel uncommonly like that man."

So unlike the most indefatigable, the most work-enjoying man in England was John Heron talking, and in so hitherto unheard a tone of self-pity, that for a moment Guy's own anxieties felt small and ashamed. After all, had Marchgrave been considerate to its willing servant—had it sufficiently remembered that the strongest and most unselfish of men is not a machine, that human nerves are not made of cast iron, and that even he who thinks the least of himself has his own human affections and his own need of repose for heart and brain? In truth, John Heron was looking weary—more weary than was to be accounted for by his having just come off a journey that was started with the sun's. Could it be that John Heron was showing a symptom of breaking down? The very idea of it was apalling to a Marchgrave man, who was besides the most grateful of all his friends.

"I wish to heaven there was any way I could help you!" said he.

"I know you do. . . . But come, my lad, you needn't look so scared. I'm game to roll as long as I hold together; I want a sight of Kate and a pound or two of rump steak; nothing more. Only. . . Well, you can do me a bit of a service, Guy, and that's why I'm come."

"Thank you, Heron. I hope it's hard."

"I'm afraid it is in a way. Could you spare the time to go to Russia, and, of course, back again?"

Marion! Guy hoped that his face did not fall.

"When?" asked he.

"Oh—say in about a fortnight; and you might be another fortnight, or perhaps three weeks away. You needn't worry about your business. I'll see to that; and a journey for the bank in Chapter Line will cover a multitude of sins."

"And what should I have to do?"

Guy felt ashamed of wishing that he had not been so reticent about that letter touching Marion; in which case, he knew, John Heron would be the last man in the world to trouble him about other things that would carry him away. He felt it to be an unworthy wish, that should make him unwilling to do what was in itself but a slight service for the man to whom he owed his start in life and the friendly and generous countenance that had enabled him to think of Marion; and just, too, when that man seemed for the first time to be feeling the weight of his own labors. Love and Marion before all; and Honor and Gratitude were not among the smallest elements in a love worthy of Her. And surely—surely she would be found before then, and the secret be cleared, before Love and Friendship could set up conflicting claims.

"I'll tell you in two minutes; and you'll see that I come to you not because there's any real difficulty about the thing, but because a man is wanted in whose discretion and trustworthiness as absolute confidence can be placed as in my own. And it's not so easy—one man of business needn't tell another—to put one's finger at a moment's notice, on a man at once young and active enough for rough travelling, who can be trusted abroad with a big fortune in specie, and who can hold his tongue. There are plenty of young active fellows, of course; but trusting youth is always nervous work, and your ordinary active traveller might turn out much too active; he might go to Russia via Texas, and stay there. And there are plenty of men to be trusted with untold gold; but they're neither young nor active, and apt to come to grief when they're taken out of their grooves."

Guy could not help feeling flattered. Approbation from John Heron of Marchgrave was praise indeed.

"The long and short of it is this," said John Heron. "A correspondent of mine in town is agent for a loan to a Tartar Khan."

"What—are even Tartars coming into the money market, Heron?"

"So it seems. I suppose we shall have King Mumbo Jumbo next, or the Chief of the Cherokees. Ah! progress and civilization are wonderful things; it's all good for business; and upon my soul I'd rather deal with a decent cannibal, who would give fair security, than with some Potentates I could name nearer home. And then this Khan isn't a common Khan. He's the Khan of Moulkhend."

"Moulkhend?"

"You never heard of the Khan of Moulkhend? Well—very likely not. Central Asian politics aren't easy to follow without special attention; and those coming men are too 'cute to draw general notice on themselves—till they come. So this loan isn' to be talked

(To be continued.)

THE O.R.A. MATCHES.

Opening Day at the Long Branch Ranges, Near Toronto—Some Very Good Scores Made.

Toronto, Aug. 26.

The Ontario Rifle Association matches commenced yesterday at the Long Branch ranges. There were about 75 outside marksmen present, Col. W. E. Hodgins of Ottawa was in charge of the camp, and Lieut. A SERIOUS CASE.

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & CO.

I Used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for my little boy for summer complaint and it cured him. He was so bad that he had convulsions and would strain so that he ruptured himself, but as soon as I got the extract for him he got well.

MRS. ELIZA M. OVERHOLT,
Foothill, Ont.

Mrs. Sequel—I understand your husband can't meet his creditors. Mrs. Equal—I don't believe he wants to, especially.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

"Jenkins claimed that I insulted him." "Did you give him satisfaction?" "Guess I did. He pounded me until he was tired."

TO BE REMOVED.

All the effete or waste matter of the system is removed by a perfect action of Laxative Liver Pills. Thus they prevent as well as cure Sick headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Jaundice, Dizziness, etc.

"I'm going to swear out a warrant against the weather man." "What for?" "Malicious scorching."

CURES SUMMER COMPLAINT.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for twelve years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer complaints. In our family it has never failed to cure any case. MRS. BENJ. LONGLEY.
Chatham Ont.

Mount Emmons, 13,694 feet, is said to be the highest in Utah.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue.

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels, therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height,

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian yolcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forfet this.

Pine Knot is the highest place in Kentucky—1128 feet.

If your children are troubled with worms, give them Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; safe, sure, and effectual. Try it, and mark the improvement in your child.

Mount Whitney is the highest peak in California—14 898 feet.

If you are tired taking the large old fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

Warren is located on the highest land in Illinois—1005 feet.

Those unhappy persons who suffer from nervousness and dyspepsia should use Carter's Little Nerve Pills, which are made expressly for sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic sufferers. Price 25 cents.

Mount Rich, 3500 feet high is the tallest in South Carolina.

Ill-fitting boots and shoes cause corns. Holloway's Corn Cure is the best article to use. Get a bottle and cure your corns.

One of the largest peaks of the Andes is Sorato—25,380.

THE CLAP-TRAP TALK

Which Liberal Ministers are Called Upon to Explain

When They are Challenged With Their Cold Words in the House—How Mr. Davies Explains His "Every Vestige of Protection" Phrase—Mr. Laurier and the Coal Duty—Mr. Fielding in the Role of Provincial Raider on the Dominion Treasury—They All Wriggled Yesterday—The Debate on the Address Drags Along.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—(Special.)—At the opening of the House this afternoon the following bills were introduced and read the first time:

To amend the Dairy Products Act, 1893.—Mr. McLennan.

Respecting the sale of railway return-fare tickets.—Mr. McLennan.

For the better protection of railway employes.—Mr. Maclean.

To prohibit the importation of foreigners and aliens under contract to perform labor in Canada.—Mr. Taylor

There was quite a string of questions on the order paper.

Mr. Boyd asked if the portfolio of Minister of the Interior had been offered to anyone, or when it was proposed to fill the office.

Mr Laurier, in reply, said that this was a question which related to matters now confidential. As soon as the appointment has been made the House will be informed of it at once.

Sir C. H. Tupper had the following question on the order paper: "Did the hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries say in a speech at Middleton in 1893, as reported in The Morning Chronicle, Halifax: 'The policy of the Liberal party, on the contrary, is the reform of the tariff by the elimination from it of every vestige of protection.' If so, is this the present policy of the Liberal party?"

Mr. Davies, in reply, said he had not seen the speech for some years. When he spoke he intended to refer to those duties which were imposed for protective purposes and not for the purpose of revenue. He would refer the hon. gentleman to his speech in full.

Sir C. H. Tupper had another question relating to telegrams which passed between Mr. Laurier and Mr. E. N. McDonald of Pictou. Mr. Laurier acknowledged the authenticity of the despatches and said the sentence in the telegram from the Premier that "coal interests will be carefully guarded" meant that at the proper time the coal interests would be guarded carefully. (Loud laughter.)

Sir C. H. Tupper asked: "Is the following a fairly accurate report of a part of a speech of the hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries at Sussex, New Brunswick, in January last: 'A 17 or 20 per cent. tariff was high enough to give encouragement to any manufacturer; if it were not, the manufacture should go down. The present policy developed trusts and combines, notably the cotton, sugar oil, cordage, iron and steel. The Liberals would declare eternal warfare against them.'

"If yes, will the hon. the Minister of Marine and Fisheries say whether he is of the same opinion still?

"If the above is not a fairly accurate report will the hon. minister say wherein the report misrepresents his views?"

Mr. Davies, in reply, said: "My views on tariff reform were given at Sussex. I do not think the quotation of a single sentence of that speech is calculated to reflect fairly what those views were. The hon. gentleman would find the whole speech very interesting and very instructive and I invite his attention to it. (Laughter.)

Sir C. H. Tupper: Did the present Hon. Minister of Finance write as follows to The Halifax Morning Chronicle, under date of Feb. 1, 1892: "Mr. Jones pointed out that, at the Quebec Conference, which was held in the fall of 1887, certain proposals were made respecting a readjustment of provincial subsidies and the granting of additional allowances, not to Quebec alone, but to all the provinces. These proposals were agreed to by delegates representing the Governments of Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Manitoba, and were consequently confirmed by majorities in the assemblies of the several provinces named. Mr. Laurier, after the publication of the scheme, said he regarded it as fair and reasonable, and that he would support it as a representative of Nova Scotia. I thank him for the assurance, and I look forward with pleasure to the early coming of a day when he will be in a position to fulfil his pledge, and thus place in the treasury of the province an additional allowance of $162,000 a year."

If yes, can he now say whether the present Government proposes to deal with the resolutions of the Quebec Conference at this session of Parliament, or whether a provision for the amount of the proposed allowances to the different provinces will be asked from this Parliament at the next session?

Mr. Fielding, replying, said: "I did write the letter to The Chronicle at the time mentioned, but the purpose of that letter is hardly made apparent by the quotation. The opponents of Mr. Laurier had represented that he (Mr. Laurier) had made a bargain with Mr. Mercier to give some special and undue favor in the way of provincial subsidies to Quebec. Sir C. H. Tupper, in a public speech, had given, impliedly, if not directly, an endorsement to this charge. I felt this was an unfair statement of Mr. Laurier's speech, and pointed out that his statement did not apply to Quebec alone, but related to a project which, if carried out, would apply fairly to all the provinces of Canada. It is not the intention of the Government to introduce any legislation at the present session respecting provincial subsidies, nor has the Government had this under consideration with regard to future legislation. From a Nova Scotia standpoint, it was less important now than at that time, as since then, under the wise administration of a Liberal Government, the finances of that province have been materially improved. (Ministerial cheers.) But if the provinces raised this question the Government will give it due consideration."

Mr. Davies, replying to Sir C. H. Tupper, said that the services of the agent of the Marine and Fisheries Department at Pictou had been dispensed with.

Mr. McDougall asked: "Is the following a fairly accurate report of a part of a speech of the First Minister at Sohmer Park, Montreal, February, 1895: 'Protection is a fine thing only for a few monopolists. It mars the growth of all our great national industries. Now I have been asked what are you going to do? We are going to have a tariff for revenue and we are going to abolish completely all the duties on raw material.'"

Mr. Laurier: "My honorable friend, I am sure, is quite aware that the words which he now quotes have been used by his leaders again and again without their taking the trouble, which he now takes, to ascertain their authenticity. I may tell him that I shall not be at all offended if he shows no more scruples in reference to the matter than they did."

Mr. Borden, replying to Col. Tisdale, said the Commandant of the Royal Military College, having resigned his position, his resignation was accepted and steps have been taken to replace him. Should any other changes be required or become necessary, the matter will be duly considered by the Government. All correspondence and reports relating to the College had been brought down, except a supplementary report of the Board of Visitors of Nov. 18, 1895, which appears to have been suppressed and the report of the commandant dated June 30, 1896. Both were being copied and would be brought down immediately.

Mr. Hackett was informed by Mr. Davies that Patrick McBride, overseer of Fisheries for Prince County, and J. Curry and S. Wedge, trackmen on the P. E. Island Railway, had been dismissed, the former to increase the efficiency of the public service; the latter because they were not satisfactory men.

Mr. Choquette asked: "Who has the contract for the sale of newspapers etc., on the Intercolonial between Levis and Campbellton? Was it granted under tender to the lowest tenderer? What is the price? When does it expire?

Mr. Davies, in reply, said that the contract was entered into with the Canada News Company under date March 24, 1896, for a period of three years. That company was the highest tenderer. (Opposition cheers.) For the first year they will pay $3375 for the privilege, increasing $100 a year for the other two years.

Mr. Cameron was informed by Mr. Davies that complaints have been made to the Marine Department against John Rae, lighthouse keeper at Point Clark, he department, however, was informed that recently there had been a great improvement in the way the light was amnaged.

Sir Charles Tupper asked whether the writ for Saskatchewan had been issued.

Mr. Laurier's said the Speaker's warrant had not yet been issued because he had not been notified according to the form of the statute.

Mr. Quinn (St. Ann's, Montreal) in a maiden speech resumed the debate on the address. He commented on the meagreness of the Parliamentary bill of fare and declared that the Government should know that trade had been paralyzed by reason of the uncertainty which prevailed in regard to tariff changes. A great deal had been said about race and religion as a factor in the late election, but speaking for his own district and his own province, he had no hesitation in saying that the constitutional question of the remedy of the grievance of the Manitoba minority was overshadowed by the laudable ambition of a large and prosperous people to see in the highest position in the country a representative of its own race and religion. They put before remedial legislation the idol of the moment, believeing in his honesty and integrity, and believing that, returned to power, he would put a law on the statute book to cover their rights of their co-religionists in Manitoba. But powerful as was that affection, and deep as was their trust, far more terrible and more powerful would be their revenge if Mr. Laurier should prove recreant to that trust and fail to re-establish their right to Separate schools in Manitoba. Sir Richard Cartwright had quoted Lord Russell's recent speech at Saratoga to justify Mr. Laurier's large and gratuitous offers of surrender to the United States, but he would read the speeches of Lord Russell in vain to find justification for a statesman's laying first before a foreign country his foreign policy, or to find the sentiment expressed that England would sacrifice one iota of principle to secure peace with the world. (Cheers.)

Solicitor-General Fitzpatrick was the next speaker. He excused delay in the tariff by declaring that the Government had determined not to deal with so vital a question as the fiscal policy in a hysterical moment. But he could promise that when the tariff was revised it would be treated with regard not only to the interests of the sugar refiners and other monopolists and habitues of the "Red Parlor," but in the interests of the traders of the country as well. As to the charge of obstruction made against the Liberals when in opposition last session, he would remind the House that if fourteen days after June 23 Sir Charles Tupper did not realize his party was beaten, had the estimates been available he would not have realized it yet. He accounted for the turn-over in Quebec by the fact that they had as object lessons there the Quebec graving dock and Curran bridge, and he pointed to his own election in Quebec County by French-Canadians and to Sir Henry Jolys return in Port Neuf by a constituency not of his religion, as proof of the liberality of the people of Quebec.

Sir Adolphe Caron, who was loudly applauded, pointed out the absurdity of the Solicitor-General's insinuation that the supply if voted last session might have been misspent by the lat Government, by showing that only service estimates for the months were asked, and the law provided that money could not be used except for the purpose voted. Mr. Laurier gave the excuse for his meagre bill of fare that he did not think the Conservatives had much stomach for a full meal, but he (Sir Adolphe) feared the country was more apt to die of inanition than of indigestion if it was to be treated to such homeopathic doses of sustenance as the Speech from the Throne contained. (Laughter.)

With regard to the Manitoba school question, he stood where he stood as a member of the Bowell Cabinet, on what he believed was the only constitutional course. He admitted his pride as a French-Canadian to see Mr. Laurier in the position of Premier of Canada. He was one of Quebec's most gifted sons. How fatal it would be to French-Canadian ambition if it could be said that Canada had retrograded and not advanced under Mr. Laurier's leadership. (Cheers.) He thought the Government ought without delay to declare its policy on the school question.

Mr. Monk (Jacques Cartier, Con.,) in a maiden speech insisted on the necessity of the Government declaring its intentions respecting the tariff. Protection had built up many industries in Canada and business would be paralyzed until the present uncertainty was removed.

Mr. Frost (North Leeds and Grenville, Liberal,) in the course of a brief speech claimed that all the cities of Canada had spoken for tariff reform. He had every assurance that the industries of this country would be amply protected. (Derisive Opposition cheers.)

Mr. Casgrain (Montmorency, Con.,) in an able speech poked fun at the Liberal party for their disappointed hopes in the matter of Cabinet construction. He asked Mr. Dobell to rise and say if he was in favor of the fast Atlantic service and the construceion of a bridge at Quebec. Mr. Dobell did not accept the invitation and Mr. Casgrain then dealt briefly with the tariff question and afterwards spoke about Manitoba schools. It was not a question of Catholic or French-Canadian, but of certain rights granted under the constitution and he for one would ever be in the front rank in defence of constitutional rights. (Conservative cheers.)

The debate was continued by Messrs. Chauvin and Hackett, and Mr. Dupont moved the adjournment of the debate. The House adjourned at 11.40.

WHAT MR. COX IS AFTER.

Talk of the Bank of Commerce Taking Over the Dominion Government's Account—Ottawa News.

Ottawa, Aug. 26.—(Special.)—The Imperial authorities have been asked by the Dominion Government to nominate a first-class officer for the position of commandant of the Royal Military College at Kingston. The question of appointing a Canadian to the position was under consideration by the Government, and while there has undoubtedly been a growing sentiment in this direction, it is felt that for the present it will be better to secure the services of an Imperial officer of wide experience. The idea, however, is that in time some of the young Canadian officers at present serving with distinction in the Imperial army may be available for this and similar posts in the Dominion.

The petition of Albert Nordheimer of Toronto for a bill of divorce from his wife, Edith May VanKoughnet, was presented to the Senate to-day. Mr. Nordheimer was married to Miss VanKoughnet on June 3, 1884. The wedding was a very swell affair, the ceremony being performed in St. Stephen's Church by the Bishop of Toronto. Three children are the issue of the marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Nordheimer lived together in Toronto until May, 1892, when they went to England on account of the illness of the second child. Being obliged to return to Canada in about six weeks after his arrival in England, Mr. Nordheimer arranged that his wife and three children should remain there until his return in the following spring. In July, 1893, the petitioner returned to England for the purpose of bringing his wife and children back to Canada, but Mrs. Nordheimer flatly refused to return, and has since been domiciled in England with, however, an occasional visit to the United States. The petitioner alleges that in August, 1893, and several times thereafter, Mrs. Nordheimer committed adultery with William Cranston, jr., of London, England.

The Quebec dead meat scheme was discussed at a crowded meeting of members held in the tower room this morning. The project, however, got a bad set back, the English-speaking Liberals almost to a man being opposed to it. Mr. Choquette, who is engineering the scheme, was very wrathy at the opposition which was manifested. Many members are inclined to look with suspicion on the project from the fact that Mr. Bender, of alleged unsavory renown in connection with the Three Rivers dead meat scheme, is behind this enterprise.

George A. Cox, President, B. E. Walker, general manager, and N. A. Lash, Q.C., solicitor of the Bank of Commerce, were in the city to-day, and, despite their denials, it is believed their business is in connection with a proposed transfer of the current account of the Dominion from the Bank of Montreal to the Bank of Commerce. There is no special arrangement with Canada's leading financial institution for the handling of the Federal banking business in Canada. The agreement with the Bank of Montreal to act as financial agents in England covers, however, a period of ten years, and has only run three years. From the present appearances it would not be a matter of surprise if Mr. Fielding was to transfer the current Dominion accounts to the Bank of Commerce. No notice is required to the Bank of Montreal and the change may take place forthwith. Mr. Cox's name personally is mentioned in connection with the Senate vacancy.

A good deal of interest naturally centres in the meeting of the Conservative party, to be held to-morrow. From present appearances, Sir Charles Tupper will be unanimously chosen as leader, with Sir A. P. Caron as his coadjutor. The party prospects will be thoroughly discussed and the question of re-organization gone into. It is proposed to re-organize the Conservative Union in Ontario, with an active president and a still active committee. It is stated that Mr. Robert Birmingham has, on account of ill-health, asked to be relieved of the duties of organizer, and the names of Messrs. W. G. Fee and A. W. Wright are mentioned in connection with the position.

It is understood that protests will be promptly entered against the election of Mr. Paterson in North Grey, and Mr. Blair in Queen's and Sunbury.

Mr. Davin gives notice of a lengthy amendment to supply, winding up with the declaration that if the promises of the Liberal leaders that agricultural implements would be placed on the free list are to be carried out they should be carried out this session.

Mr. Maclean will ask if the Government intends to establish a bureau of mining information in Toronto. He will also ask what steps the Government purposes taking to protect Canadian interests from danger likely to arise from the construction of the Chicago drainage canal.

Mr. Gibson will ask for copies of all orders-in-council appointing persons to public positions from May 1 to uly 10

The Toronto trades and labor petition urging the increase of the capitation tax on Chinese to $500 was presented to-day.

Their Excellencies gave a garden party at Government House this afternoon. It was largely attended, although the weather was threatening.

Entries for the D. R. A. matches are rushing in to-day, and although the actual result cannot be known until the last mail arrives it seems certain that the number of competitors will exceed that of the heavy year of 1892.

Mr. Hurley, M.P., to-day introduced to Mr. Tarte a deputation from Deseronto, consisting of S. Russell, John Dalton, P. Slaven, A. A. Richardson and W. R. Aylsworth. The delegation urged the special claims of Deseronto for a public building for post-office and customs purposes.

The Speaker has issued his warrant for a writ for a new election in Brandon.

Mr. Gibson gives notice of a bill to amend the Railway Act by providing that all wages due and materials supplied in Canada, whether it be steam or electric, shall be a first lien on the company. Experience in connection with the T., H. and B. Railway has shown this change to be necessary.

Stock Companies in Britain.

London, Aug. 26.—The Times, this morning, publishes a table showing that the amount of the capitalization of the new joint stock companies organized during the first half of 1896 will aggregate more than £88,000,000 ($440,000,000).

Mr. Chamberlain Comes to America.

London, Aug. 26.—Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, accompanied by Mrs. Chamberlain, formerly Miss Endicott of Boston, Mass., sailed from Liverpool for New York today on board the steamer Teutonic.

Quite Enough.

First chum—Why, old man, you act as though you had a little too much.

Second chum—Well, I've had enough. I got two stiff punches on the way home. Knockey gave them to me and then warned me to quit going with his girl."

Old Rip Van Winkle went up into the Catskill mountains to take a little nap of twenty years or so, and when he wakened, he found that the "cruel war was over," the monthly magazines had "fought it over" the second time and "blown up" all the officers that had participated in it. This much is history, and it is also an historical fact that, during the same length of time, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery had become the most celebrated, as it is the most effective, Liver, Blood and Lung Remedy of the age. In purifying the blood and in all manner of pimples, blotches, eruptions, and other skin and scalp diseases, scrofulous sores and swellings, and kindred ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" manifests the most positive curative properties.

Every disorder that can be reached through the blood, yields to its purifying qualities. Besides, it builds up wholesome flesh and strength; not merely fat like filthy Cod liver oil and its nasty "emulsions" but solid flesh.

A scrofulous condition of the blood invites catarrh, bronchitis, and consumption. We're all exposed to the germs of consumption, grip and malaria—yet only the weak ones suffer. When you're weak, tired out, and debilitated, or when pimples and blotches appear—heed the warning in time. The "Golden Medical Discovery" sets all the organs into healthy action—especially the liver, and that's the point of entrance for these germs. Then if the blood be pure, they'll be thrown off. There's no risk.

CAUTION.—Accept no substitute for the "Golden Medical Discovery" that may be recommended to be "just as good." It may be better for the dealer, because of paying him a better profit, but he is not the one who needs help.

"A much-esteemed purgative water."—"Its composition is constant. The practitioner is thus enabled to prescribe definite quantities for definite results."—"A Natural Water."—The Lancet.

"Affords those guarantees of uniform strength and composition which have long been wanting in the best-known Hunyadi waters."—"Agreeable to the palate."—"Exceptionally efficacious."—British Medical Journal.

MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES.

It is not probable that the proprietors of the box factory will re-establish their business here, unless the Council will offer liberal inducements. It is to be hoped that this will be done in connection with the important industry in question and with at least one other concern which is willing to locate here—provided acceptable terms can be made. We would suggest that the Committee who have the matter in charge meet at an early date and have a report ready for the Council at their first meeting after the holidays.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

That was a grand victory for "LIBERAL PRINCIPLES," as defined by Mr. A. S. Hardy, Premier of Ontario, at Owen Sound.

The unanimous request of the Conservative Senators that Sir Mackenzie Bowell should be their leader was a very high compliment to that gentleman; and even more satisfactory to Sir Mackenzie must be the unanimous approval by the press and the members of both political parties of the choice of the Conservative Senators. It is gratifying to all concerned that the ex-Premier has yielded to the solicitations of the party, as no other Conservative Senator has the same influence in the country as has Sir Mackenzie Bowell, whose tact, experience and ability will prove invaluable; for the time is not far distant when the Senate may be called upon to take a more important part in the Government of the country than it has yet taken.

The Brockville Times takes Mr. Laurier to task in the following fashion: "Mr. Laurier has not yet performed his first duty as Premier. He has not yet formed his Government. Not since Alexander Mackenzie was Premier has there been a full Liberal Cabinet. Mr. Laurier has allowed the session of Parliament to begin, and there is not yet a Minister of the Interior. Moreover, it must be remembered that the delay is for the purpose of corrupting and coercing Manitoba."

How Mr. Foster's speech must have made the party who have gained power under false pretences wince, for it cut to the bone. The Liberals are face to face with their promises, but as some of those promises made in one province were in direct opposition to those which they made in other provinces, it is evident that both sets of promises cannot be carried out. The Ministerialists are at present, in consequence, trying to "rest and be thankful;" but they will not have much rest, the Opposition being almost as strong numerically and more able in debating power than the gentlemen who sit to the right of the Speaker.

Mr. Bryan, the "free silver" candidate for the Presidency of the United States, has left his resting place at Red Hook, New York, for his home at Lincoln, Nebraska. Mr. Bryan's "invasion of the enemy's territory," as he termed his trip to New York, was a dire failure. His abandonment of the trick of word-painting—in which department of oratory he had won such fame as he possesses—for a written address, wherein he attempted to win his case by argument, was fatal to his reputation. Deprived of the power to charm by a graceful flow of words which meant little when analyzed, he was as powerless as a rattlesnake deprived of its fangs. The inconsistencies of his assertions at once became apparent and Mr. Bryan scored one of the most pronounced failures on record. Not only was his reputation as an orator sunk for ever, but the cause which he advocated was ruined, so far as New York—we might say the states east of the Mississippi—are concerned. Never was there a greater cry for less wool.

Despite the strong attempts which are being made to induce sound money Democrats to vote for the nominee of their party, in preference to Mr. McKinley, there can be no doubt that there will be very heavy defections from the Democratic party at the coming election. It is, in our opinion, true that the policy of the Republican party has gone too far in the direction of protection; that a tariff as nearly approaching that of Canada as the circumstances of the country would permit would be more advantageous than the Chinese wall which was raised against foreign imports under the tariff which was framed by Mr. McKinley—but when the Democrats who are opposed to free silver come to choose between over-protection and the disaster and national dishonor which would inevitably result from the selection of the Bryan electors, they will either refrain from voting or cast their ballots in favor of sound money. A most significant indication as to the financial cyclone which will sweep the United States should the free silver party prevail in the coming election is afforded by the discount already placed upon United States money and its threatened rejection by the Canadian banks. Canada is but a small portion of the world in a financial sense; but being more intimately connected with this United States than is any other country, our financial institutions are therefore the first to take action in their own defence. The world will follow in our footsteps.

GOLDEN WAND OF TACT.

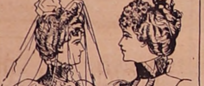
Absolutely Essential for the Achievement of Social Success.

"My dear girl," writes Ruth Ashmore in response to a girl inquirer in Ladies' Home Journal, "you fail socially, because you look uninterested, you stand off and have a don't care expression on your face. This drives would-be acquaintances away, and suggests to a hostess that if you do not care, and show it so plainly, she need not care to send you cards another time. Society is really based upon the Golden Rule, and it demands from you not only sympathy, but that outcome of the best of sympathy, tact. To be a social success you must learn to say the right things to the right people. Do not talk about flirting widows to a woman in mourning, nor of the value of beauty to an aged spinster forced to wear blue glasses. The aged spinster may be a perfect well of learning and wit. You will find this out if you touch her with the golden wand of tact. Possibly you are nervous and shy. Try to overcome that. Force yourself to say something. If you are unfortunate enough to be easily embarrassed, at least get used to the sound of your own voice, and then you will not find yourself screaming from sheer nervousness when you wish to speak low, or whispering in a husky manner when your words should be distinct. To be a social success you must govern your voice, and usage is the only thing that will make that possible. Do not be afraid to speak of simple things. There is no man too learned not to be interested in that which interests a pretty girl, and no woman too old or too world-worn not to care about ribbons or flowers, sweet-meats or novels.

Bridal and Reception Coiffures.

In the style of hair-dressing shown herewith the front locks are cut and curled in a full soft bang. The side and back hair is drawn back in loose waves, and is coiled in an oblong twist with a small open puff at the top, the ends escaping in ringlets.

The hair is arranged mre simply in the bridal coiffure, says Harper's Bazar. It is waved and touped, forming a soft pompadour at the front and a bouffant turned up back, with a round coil on the crown, in the center of which the folds of the veil are pinned.

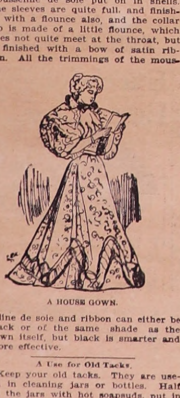


BRIDAL AND RECEPTION COIFFURES

A slender diadem of orange blossoms is back of the pompadour. Allowing enough of the tulle veil to fall down to below the waist in front, and as much of length on the sides, the rest of the width is gathered across and tied in a bunch at the middle; this is pulled into shape and fastened in the hair as illustrated; invisible hair pins are used to keep it from dragging on the diadem and front hair. After the ceremony the veil is thrown off the face and fastened back, as shown in the larger cut on the same page.

House Gown From La Maison Kriegck.

Some of the most attractive fashions are shown in the tea gowns and gowns to wear in the house. From Kriegck is a particularly smart gown of silvery gray glace taffeta. The skirt is very full, gored and is trimmed around the bottom with a quilled flounce of shirred mousseline de soie. This flounce is put on in pointed festoons, and at the lowest point of each festoon is a bow of ribbon. The waist has a corselet of guipure, which reaches to the bust, and opens over a flounce of shirred mousseline de soie put on in shells. The sleeves are quite full, and finished with a flounce also, and the collar too is made of a little flounce, which does not quite meet at the throat, but is finished with a bow of satin ribbon. All the trimmings of the mousseline de soie and ribbon can either be black or of the same shade as the gown itself, but black is smarter and more effective.



A HOUSE GOWN.

A Use for Old Tacks.

Keep your old tacks. They are useful in cleaning jars or bottles. Half fill the jars with hot soapsuds, put in the tacks, shake vigorously and rinse them.

The Honey Bee.

The history of both horticulture and the honey bee is nearly co-equal with the history of man. The bee has doubtless excited more admiration than any other individual of the whole animal creation excepting man himself. It probably combines more interesting contrivances and is capable of more varied operations than are combined in any other single organism of its size and weight. Get a few hives and study the bee for pleasure and profit.

Axle Grease.

For heavy wagons common tar melted and thoroughly well stirred with some tallow and black lead so as to make an even mixture as soft as common putty, is excellent to grease the running gear. For light vehicles castor oil with black lead makes a good grease. The common axle grease sold in the stores is simply palm oil that may be purchased in quantity for 50 cents a gallon thickened with a little resin.—Ontario Star.

CANADA WINS THE CUP

Vencedor Again Beaten Off Toledo.

No Third Race Required for Canada to Capture the Championship of the Lakes —Clever Work by Skipper Jarvis and His Gallant Crew—Another Immediate Challenge for the Cup in Prospect.

Toledo, Aug. 26.—After an exciting contest the Canada won her second race from the Vencedor to-day by the narrow margin of 20 seconds corrected time, and with it captured the beautiful Toledo challenge cup, the international yachting championship of the lakes and sixty per cent. of the $1500 purse offered by the citizens of Toledo.

The race was sailed in a fine 20-knot breeze, which ranged from southwest to west, and, while the Vencedor actually beat the Canada three minutes thirty-one seconds over the course, and proved herself a wonder in a breeze, she had to allow the Royal Canadian yacht a handicap of three minutes and fifty-seven seconds.

In spite of the Canada's big allowance the Vencedor would have beaten her but for the fact that her skipper made a number of unnecessary tacks on the way to the home mark in the first round, and finally overstood it, losing nearly two minutes, which ultimately caused the American yacht's defeat.

A ball was tendered the visiting yachtsmen, their families and friends to-night by the International Yacht Race Association of Toledo at Pythian Castle. During the ball the challenge cup and draft for $1500, representing the purse to be given to the racing crews, was presented to Commodore Jarvis of the winning yacht by President Locke of the association. The $500 silver trophy is a large bowl-shaped cup, gold lined and supported by an eagle with spreading wings alongside a recumbent lion.

There was a fine breeze from the southwest in the early morning and hundreds of yachtsmen who were getting tired of light breezes and postponed races took heart again and cheerfully paid their way on the score or more of excursion steamers which lay along the docks of the muddy Maumee. The racers had preceded the spectators, and were both trying their canvas off the starting line when the flotilla of yachts and excursion steamers arrived. The Vencedor, as usual, had her club topsail up, while Skipper Jarvis on the Canada, after setting the same sail, took it in and set his working topsail.

Because the stakeboat to leeward had not been set, the start was postponed half an hour, and it was 11.20 before the hoisting of the British ensign in the Sigma's rigging announced that the start would be made in ten minutes. Both skippers commenced to manoeuvre for position, and as usual Capt. Barbour got the Vencedor over the line first. The course was five miles to leeward and return, sailed over twice, 20 miles in all.

The Vencedor's crew broke out their balloon jib topsail and set their spinnaker to port as they crossed, while the Canada, which was 15 seconds behind, set her big jib topsail instead of a ballooner. Skipper Jarvis commenced to luff the Canada in order to blanket the Vencedor, but the Chicago boat for once failed to be trapped and slowly but surely drew ahead of the little black flier from across the border. She soon had a lead of an eighth of a mile and just before they reached the first mark the wind hauled to the westward, and with it came a dash of rain, which drove everyone to cover. It did not dampen the spirits of the spectators, however, as the Vencedor was loudly cheered as she rounded first:

Vencedor 12.09
Canada 12.10.20

The Vencedor instantly went on the port tack as she rounded, while the Canada held straight for the home mark on the starboard tack. The Vencedor, after a two minutes' hitch to port, followed the Canada's example and a few moments later flew by the Canada to windward. It looked like Vencedor's race now, as she was footing faster under her jib and staysail than her opponent, who had a small jib topsail up as well.

As the mark was now in sight and the Canada, which was the leeward boat, was almost heading for it, everyone was surprised when the Vencedor made another extra hitch of the port at 12.45, and still another at 12.57.05, while the Canada held her original starboard tack until 12.57, and then came about to port and made the mark in one tack. The Vencedor, while she beat the Canada around, overstood the mark and lost all she had gained on the way down, which caused her to lose eventually. Their times at this mark were:

Vencedor 12.59.15
Canada 1.00.41

It was now a broad reach on the starboard tack to the outer mark and as the wind increased to nearly 22 miles an hour the Vencedor drew away again. The wind grew so strong that both yachts took in their balloon jib topsails, and they were timed as they rounded as follows:

Vencedor 12.59.15
Canada 1.36.10

From here it was a close reach on the starboard tack, with small jib topsails to the finish, where, after one of the most exciting contests ever seen on the lakes, the Canada won by 26 seconds, corrected time. Their times at the finish were:

Vencedor 2.11.04
Canada 2.14.35

A summary of the official times is as follows:

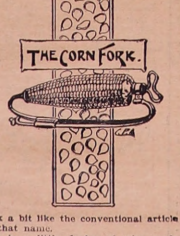
	Start.	Finish.	El. time.	Cor. time.
Canada ..	11.30	2.14.35	2.44.35	2.40.38
Vencedor .	11.30	2.11.04	2.41.04	2.41.04

Comodore E. C. Berriman of the Lincoln Park Club, the owner of the Vencedor, challenged the Royal Canadian Yacht Club of Toronto to race next year. The challenge was presented when the City of Straits' challenge cup of Detroit was given to Commodore Jarvis. It is doubtful if the cup or challenge will be accepted unless the rules governing the race and cup are modified to meet the views of the R.C.Y.C.

A LONG-FELT WANT.

To Enable One to Eat Hot Corn Without Burning the Fingers.

What lover of hot, sweet corn, who likes to eat from the cob, has not wished for some means to partake of the succulent ear without soiling his fingers or burning them? He may rejoice now, for a corn fork has been invented to supply the want so long felt. Though it is called a fork, it does not look a bit like the conventional article of that name.



THE CORN FORK.

It is a little device of wire made somewhat longer than the average ear of corn. It consists of two pieces that slide back and forth, so as to make the fork longer or shorter, to fit an ear of any size. The ear steaming hot is placed in the fork and automatically fastened by a slight pressure of the hand. The fingers grasp the wire, and do not come at all in contact with the corn. A screw at one end of the fork holds the cob fast. A turn of this screw naturally gives the cob a turn, and so it is revolved until the corn has been all eaten. It is all so simple that the smallest child can understand it, and can be fitted to a portion of an ear just as well as a whole one. The fork is made of galvanized steel wire, so that it is easily washed and will neither collect dust or rust.

How He Described It.

It takes a business man to describe a costume to his wife. A busy son of commerce, after seeing a very taking dress on a very taking young lady recently, informed the partner of his joys that: "It was fine. The dress was made of some kind of cloth, with some kind of trimming. It was sorter lilac, or shrimp pink in color, and had for waist some sort of basque that was indescribable. She wore one of those hats you sometimes see on women, and altogether gave an effect that I wish you could have seen."

YOUNG
COLUMN

A BOY WITH A KINK.

It Has, However, a Useful and Entertaining Lesson.

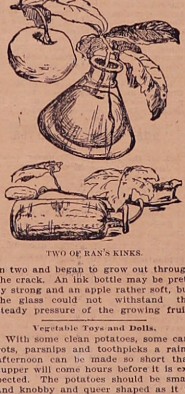
All the neighbors say that Ran Hughitt has a kink in his head. They all like him, too, only no one ever feels certain what odd prank he will play next.

Ran, or Ransome, according to the family Bible, lives with his father on a market garden near Evanston, says the Chicago Record. Most of the year he has to work pretty hard, but this does not interfere with his having a good deal of fun in a quiet way. No doubt he would like to rig up a sailboat or play baseball, but not having the opportunity to enjoy either of these sports, he makes friends with the squashes and cucumbers in his father's garden.

Take a walk with him some afternoon, and he will show you some very odd things. One of these is his bottled cucumber. This suggests a pickle bottle, gayly labeled and sealed with wax. But Ran's cucumber is an entirely different affair. It is a full-size, living cucumber, and it has grown inside of a bottle until it is almost bottle-shape, and it could not possibly be removed without breaking the glass.

When the cucumber was small Ran thrust it into the narrow neck of the bottle, and there, safe from insects, it has grown until it has attained unusual size. Next fall Ran proposes to exhibit his bottle-shaped cucumber at the fair. He thinks it will be the oddest vegetable displayed.

Another bottle experiment which he has tried has not turned out so well. He enclosed a young apple in an old ink bottle, tying the bottle to the limb above. The apple grew larger and larger in spite of its close quarters, and Ran was certain he was going to have a bottle-apple to go with his cucumber. But the apple refused to be thus restricted, and one day when Ran wasn't looking it burst the ink bottle in two and began to grow out through the crack. An ink bottle may be pretty strong and an apple rather soft, but the glass could not withstand the steady pressure of the growing fruit.



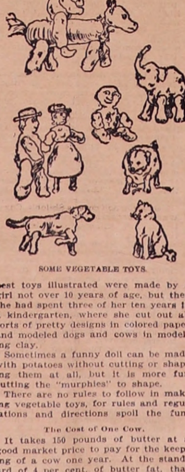
TWO OF RAN'S KINKS.

Vegetable Toys and Dolls.

With some clean potatoes, some carrots, parsnips and toothpicks a rainy afternoon can be made so short that supper will come hours before it is expected. The potatoes should be small and knobby and queer shaped as it is possible to get them. The parsnips and carrots should be washed clean and the toothpicks should be of the cheap, common wooden kind.

With these materials, all or part of them, and a couple of knives, a whole menagerie of animals and a whole roomful of dolls can be made. The toothpicks are used to join the heads, arms, legs, etc., to the body of the animal or doll.

The pictures showing vegetable toys are sketches of some actually made. Of course, some of the originals of the pictures were rather difficult to make, but a little care will enable the young animal-maker to do wonders. Some of the best toys illustrated were made by a girl not over 10 years of age, but then she had spent three of her ten years in a kindergarten, where she cut out all sorts of pretty designs in colored paper and modeled dogs and cows in modeling clay.



SOME VEGETABLE TOYS.

Sometimes a funny doll can be made with potatoes without cutting or shaping them at all, but it is more fun cutting the "murphies" to shape.

There are no rules to follow in making vegetable toys, for rules and regulations and directions spoil the fun.

The Cost of One Cow.

It takes 150 pounds of butter at a good market price to pay for the keeping of a cow one year. At the standard of 4 per cent. of butter fat, that amount of butter will require about 3,500 pounds of milk. Therefore a cow must yield 3,500 pounds of milk, or say 1,700 quarts, to just stand even with her owner, if butter is made. In order to give a fair profit on the investment, a cow should yield at least 5,000 pounds of 4 per cent. milk, which would produce say 240 pounds of butter. The value of skim milk, if it is handled with skill and intelligence, will be about $15 a year.—Dairy World.

Feeding the Apple Orchard.

Apple trees need to be fed. They will often exist if utterly neglected, but they respond quickly to a proper system of fertilization. A liberal top-dressing of barnyard manure is good. In the absence of this a liberal dressing of woodashes will help.

Accidents in the Country.

If the flesh begins to swell, salt or soda and water may relieve it. but sugar of lead surely will.

When applying this latter to the face keep the eyes closed until the solution has dried into the skin.

A person who has meddled with poison ivy, should as quickly as possible mash the hands in salt and water, and be careful not to touch the face.

The blotches caused by poison ivy look like raised burns, and are often bordered with tiny white water blisters, which, if neglecte, will run into large blisters and be exceedingly painful.

For the sting of a hornet apply the common dooryard weed, plantain, to the wound. Crumple up the weed in your hand until the juice starts and lay it on the smarting spot.

When the poison of mosquitoes is great there is nothing better than to bathe the spots with a weak solution of ammonia. Salt and water or cooking soda is not strong enough.

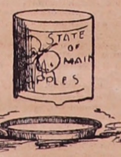
When the poisoning is severe, the hands and parts effected will often swell at intervals for many months without any apparent cause. This swelling will gradually lessen, and at length, disappear, without any special medication beyond the bathing of the spots with the mentioned remedies.

For sprains and bruises there is nothing better than hot water for bathing the places. This should be followed with bandages wet in tincture of arnica or witch-hazel, and if you have forgotten to put vials of these in your trunks The farmer's wife or the village druggist will give you wormwood. Steep this in vinegar and apply hot, remembering that the poultice is liable to stain, and using old cloths for the bandaging.

Bare feet are apt to get sone bruises, which are painful, although the average boy will prefer them to shoes and stockings. Soaking the sore feet in hot water before going to bed, and bathing the bruises with tincture of arnica, are the best aids to time itself for this ailment.

A Drinking Fountain.

The idea has often been presented of using an empty fruit can, a saucer and a few nails to make a drinking fountain for chickens. The principle is good, says Country Gentleman, but the materials are not of the best. A quart fruit can is too small; a saucer is not of the right shape; the nails are constantly getting out from under the edge of the can, and are a nuisance to adjust besides. Better get a gallon can, such as apples are put in; cut the bottom as shown in the cut, or rather the edge that is to serve as the bottom. Then buy a deep, flat-bottomed tin pie-plate at the five-cent counter, and you will have a fountain easy to manipulate, ample in its supply of water, and not easily tumbled over.



POULTRY DRINKING FOUNTAIN.

Bee Points.

Alsike clover is a good crop to grow, especially for the bees and honey. It is one crop that bees benefit.

It requires the strongest colonies to work for comb honey, and these must be worked rapidly at the beginning of the flow.

Sunlight and Health.

Fresh experiments on the power of sunlight to kill disease germs were described at a recent meeting of the Biological Society of Washington. In such experiments a plate of gelatine is sown with bacteria, and then portions of the plate are covered, while the remainder is exposed to direct sunshine. In the exposed places the organisms are killed, while they flourish in the shaded parts. This fact is used to explain the beneficial effects of sunlight allowed to flood a sick-room.—Youth's Companion.

CITY AND DISTRICT

All quiet in police circles.

Campers are beginning to return to the city.

Last night's rain was very refreshing; but more would be welcome.

Harry Lindley and his company are in the Brockville section and working towards Belleville.

The Madoc train was about two hours late this morning owing to an accident to the engine.

Look for special announcement of W. J. Reid & Co's. in Saturday's issue. It will be of interest to the public d1t

Mr. Hays, general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, and Mr. McGuigan, superintendent, have gone west on a tour of inspection.

For depression of spirits, nervousness and general weakness, Miller's Compound Iron Pills are a sure cure. 50 doses, 25 cents. Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

The Montreal Star's artist who depicts the scenes in and out of Parliament at Ottawa is deserving of a word of praise for his admirable drawing.

A young son of Thos. Perkins was at Massassaga Park yesterday afternoon and did not return to the city in the evening. It is supposed he got on the wrong boat and went either to Trenton or Deseronto.

The propeller Oregon reached Kingston on Tuesday with the largest cargo of grain ever entering the harbor. It consisted of 78,000 bushels of corn consigned from Chicago. On her last trip she carried 75,000 bushels of wheat. The vessel only draws thirteen feet nine inches of water.

Mr. G. R. Blount, Methodist minister, Dresden, Ont., says: "After a prolonged attack of La Grippe, I was very nervous and weak, and troubled with severe pains. I took one box of Miller's Compound Iron Pill and am perfectly well now." Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

Mr. F. W. Hodgson, superintendent of Farmers' Institutes for Ontario, will have a tent at the Ottawa and Toronto fairs, and extends a cordial invitation to all officers and members of Farmers Institutes and kindred societies to call upon him and receive any information that he may be able to impart.

The Ashley Carriage Works are offering buggies, phaetons, democrats, lumber waggons, carts, &c., at 20 per cent discount. Every vehicle is guaranteed to be A1 in every detail. It certainly is a rare chance for intending buyers, as the prices will never be so low again. A special discount given for cash.

The Alexandria Bay Steamboat Company have given an order to F. C. Kirby, of Detroit, Mich., for a side wheel excursion steamer capable of running 20 miles per hour and of carrying 1,500 passengers. She is to be a three deck steamer with large dining hall, state rooms, etc. She is to be lighted by electricity and will have powerful marine searchlight of 50,000 candle power. This company is negotiating for one other screw wheel steamer to put on the Alexandria Bay and Clayton route in place of or to assist the Island Belle.

It Does Not Pay.

We would respectfully but most emphatically remind our readers that this hot weather it does not pay to go without Tan Shoes. Haines & Lockett have reduced prices for this month. You can get lots of comfort out of Tan Shoes and you need all you can get this hot weather.

IF YOUR EYES

Need medical treatment we won't sell you glasses simply to make a sale—and let your headache continue until you find the true cause from some one else. If you simply need glasses we will tell you so and provide the remedy. But if there is the remotest need for the more thorough work of an oculist, we'll also tell you so—and charge nothing for the discovery. We correct all non-organic eye defects.

Good Rubber Coats.

The rainy season will soon be with us, and can you afford a rubber coat? You know those nice ones with large cape sold at $8. well, the Oak Hall have the same for $5. You ought to buy one of them, we hit on a bargain with these and cannot repeat them.

An August Wedding.

BOSELLY—PRETTY.

A pretty wedding took place last evening at the residence of Mr. C. J. Woodley, Sinclair st., when his niece, Miss Blanche R. Pretty, was married to Mr. Harry Boselly, of New York. Rev. C. J. H. Hutton performed the ceremony at 9 o'clock. The bride looked charming in a dainty gown of dotted swiss, trimmed with white ribbons, and carried a magnificent shower bouquet of white roses, a present of the groom, while white roses nestled in her hair. The bridesmaids, Misses Katie Boselly and Clara Woodley, were also attired in swiss and wore bridal roses presented by the groom. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Charles Lingham, of Deseronto, and Mr. Charles Symonds, a cousin of the bride. The groom presented each of the bridesmaids with a beautiful ring set with pearls and rubies. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. George Pretty. During the evening a telegram was received from the groom's brother in California, offering heartiest congratulations and best wishes. After the ceremony all present sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper. The presents were handsome, costly and useful, showing the esteem in which the bride is held by a large circle of friends. The happy young couple left on the 1:05 a.m. train for New York amid a shower of rice.

The invited guests were: L. B. Ashton and Mrs. Ashton, Toronto; Miss Alice Adams, Mrs. W. H. Boselly, Miss Annie, Luella and Katie Boselly; Miss Bessie Boselly, California; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Buckle, England; Mr. Fred Ford; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Glouster, England; Mrs. (Dr.) Hicks, Manitoba; Edward Hubbard and wife, Rev. C. J. H. Hutton and wife, Chas. A. Sir Mackenzie in the Senate.

(Montreal Star—Independent.)

The course taken by the Conservative Senators in pressing the leadership on the Opposition in their chamber upon Sir Mackenzie Bowell is at once a graceful tribute to the worth of that gentleman and a display of wisdom on the part of the Conservative representatives in the only House where they are in a majority. Sir Mackenzie will be a capable, tactful and yet not a cantankerous leader. His role will be a difficult one to play under the peculiar circumstances which give him a majority but do not give him office. Yet there is a reason to believe from his record in the past that he is a man of resource who will carry the burden with a steady shoulder.

The compliment paid him by his fellow Senators is but a fair recognition of his long services to the Liberal-Conservative party. They began with Confederation, and they have by no means ended now nearly thirty years later. He was one of Sir John Macdonald's most faithful followers and trusted colleagues, and the party has found and probably will find that he did not sit under that astute leader with his mental eyes shut.

School Opening.

Now that the children are returning to school they will need good serviceable boots. We have just received a lot of boys' strong boots, just the thing for school wear. You will find our prices are right the year round.—A. W. VERMILYEA & SON.

—A strike of the engineers in the ship yards at Govan, on the Clyde, has decided the English, Irish and Scotch ship-building masters to force the situation, and it has therefore been resolved that unless the Govan strikers surrender forthwith a wholesale lookout will be declared in the Clyde, Belfast and Tyne ship yards.

GATHERING OF THE CLANS.

MASSASSAGA PARK WAS CROWDED WITH SCOTLAND'S SONS.

The Songs Their Fathers Sang The National Instrument Very Much in Evidence — Dancing Caught the People—The Baseball Games—Good Management—Notes.

The second annual gathering of the clans of the Bay of Quinte district at Massassaga Park yesterday attracted about 2000 people from the city and outside towns. It was Trenton's civic holiday and the people of that town came down in large numbers. There were not as many from down the bay ports as last year, owing no doubt to threatening weather of the morning. Country people from Prince Edward and this county drove in hundreds and enjoyed their well-earned holiday. Every arrangement possible had been made at the Park for the comfort of the picnickers and all they had to do was to enjoy themselves. There was not a gloomy face on the grounds, as everyone seemed on pleasure bent.

About one o'clock the pipers and band arrived from the city and the programme began. An elevated platform had been erected and upon it the different events were given.

Miss Mary Bunch, Fred Lawson, Sergt. Murray and Malcolm McBain, danced a Scotch reel in excellent style. Sergt. Murray was given first prize and Miss Bunch second.

Marches on the pipes were played by Sergt. Murray and Malcolm McBain and the prizes were awarded in the above order.

Highland Fling, children—Miss Mary Bunch, 1st; Fred Lawson, 2nd.

Scotch Song—Robt. Lithgow, 1st; John McIntosh, 2nd.

Strathspeys and Reels on the Pipes—Sergt. Murray, 1st; W. McIntosh, 2nd.

Highland Fling, men—Sergt. Murray, 1st; M. McBain, 2nd.

Freddie Lawson gave an exhibition of Highland fling, which was very gracefully performed.

The sword dancing competition between Miss Bunch and Fred Lawson was won by the former. Sergt. Murray also gave an exhibition of the same dance.

A tug of war took place between teams of nine men each from Camp Gleniffer, of Trenton, and Camp Rob Roy, of Belleville, and was won after a hard pull by the latter.

The pie-eating contest was won by W. Young, with F. Mercy second.

Freddie Lawson danced a sailor's hornpipe in good style.

For the wood sawing contest there was not a woman to go against Mary Seams, so she gave an exhibition of her skill in this line.

The dancing of little Miss Brousseau, who is only about seven years old, was one of the most pleasing features of the afternoon

The I. O. O. F. band rendered a number of selections during the afternoon, among which were several Scottish airs.

The judges of the bagpipe playing were W. McIntosh, Belleville; A. D. McIntyre, Deseronto; Chas. McDonald, Toronto.

The judges on dancing were John Johnston and John McIntosh, of this city, and Chief McRae, of Deseronto.

The Baseball Matches.

There were two baseball matches during the afternoon, the first between Belleville and Trenton teams for a silver cup presented by R. Weddell, jr., of Trenton, and the other between the Printers and Clothiers, of this city. The first game was good ball had it not been for the senseless kicking of the Trenton team, which disgusted even their warmest supporters and prevented the game being played any farther than the eighth innings. The score when the Trenton team refused to play any longer was 3 to 2 in favor of Belleville. The teams were as follows:

Belleville—Connell, p., Ross, c., Telgman, 1 b., Arnott, 2 b., Gibson, 3 b., Byrnes, r f., Cornell, c f., Dolan, l f., Penny, s s.

Trenton—McCauley, p., W. Nolan, c., L. Christie, 1 b., D. Christie, 2 b., G. Nolan, 3 b., Potts, s s., Rose, l f., Colemen c f., H. Younger f.

Umpires—W. Tuttle and George Booth.

Only four innings were played between the Printers and Clothiers, as darkness set in at that stage of the game. It was well for the Clothiers that there was not another hour's daylight, else they would have been ignominiously buried. The score stood 17 to 3 in favor of the Printers when the game ended. Following were the teams:

Printers: W. Black, p.; H. McDiarmid, c.; R. Wilson, 1b.; J. Dunn, lf.; L. LaPalm, 3b.; E. Ferguson, 2b.; J. Ford, ss.; D. McCoy, cf.; T. Stevenson, rf. Clothiers: Fred Meagher, p.; W. Langley, c.; J. Langley, 1b.; J. Marlow, 3b.; W. Dolan, 2b.; J. Gillick, lf.; J. Byrnes, ss.; J. McGinnis, r.f.; J. Fahey, cf.

The features of the game was the work of the Printers' battery and a home run by Tom Stevenson.

Notes.

Chief McLeay, of Camp Rob Roy, was master of ceremonies and performed his duties promptly and efficiently.

The management of the whole affair was excellent. In fact the manner in which the large gathering was handled was a matter of surprise to many.

The steamers Ella Ross, Merritt, Varuna, Nellie Cuthbert and Annie Lake carried the people to and from the Park, and it was nearly ten o'clock when the last of them reached the city.

The gates at the wharves both in the city and at the Park were a good idea, as it saved a lot of crowding at the steamers' gangways.

The heavy thunder shower about ten o'clock last evening made it very unpleasant for those who stayed till the last trip of the boats.

Surprise at the Fair.

A girl, a boy, a woman or a man will receive the Heintzman piano, the best of its kind on exhibition in the Surprise soap exhibit at the Toronto Fair. Now don't think there is any mystery about this offer. The makers of Surprise soap want you to become better acquainted with their soap. It is the best soap on the market. You can see the soap, get a sample of it, and test it. That's what this guessing contest is for. If you don't happen to be the one that gets the piano you will have the satisfaction of knowing you can easily get the best soap and will know you have it. Any one can guess free of charge on the weight of the big cake of Surprise. Look for the Surprise soap exhibit at the Toronto Fair.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Mr. D. H. Ackerill, V. S., has sold his well-known trotting sire, Elm City, by Stamboul, 2.07½, to Mr. Elmhurst, of Villiers, in the Peterborough district. The removal of this fine horse, which inherited great speed from both sire and dam (Gloriana, which has three in the list—the latest Pera, a 3-year-old, in 2:20½) will be a great loss to the breeding interests of this section.

After experience of Little Hector and his driver, Cobourg will join one of the big Associations. So will Port Hope.

Korns, Korns.

There are more than one sort of korns. Some korn is planted in the ground and the other sort don't need planting; they grow quite naturally on men's toes and don't need hoeing. This kind of korn has two sorts—one gentle or tender like until Bill Jones steps on your foot, when it gets boiling mad and swears like everything; the other is hard headed and makes a row all the time, especially when your boots are on. I don't like korns, and use the extracting medicine, Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor which removes them painlessly in twenty-four hours.

A Warning to "Sports."

The Brantford Courier of Monday has the following: On Saturday two would-be sports, two dogs and two guns, were creating considerable noise at the mouth of D'Aubigney creek. As this point is a resort for woodcock and waterfowl, the Rod and Gun Club soon had two county constables en route to the scene, who took charge of the fowling pieces and brought them to town. Sub-section 4 of section 3 of the Ontario Game Law reads:

"The possession of guns, decoys, or other implements of shooting or hunting at a time and in the places where game birds or animals are usually found, shall be prima facie evidence of pursuit thereof, with intent to catch, kill or destroy the same."

It would be well for all parties going out before the open season to note this fact. The arms and ammunition are liable to confiscation also.

You cannot say that you have tried everything for your rheumatism, until you have taken Ayer's Pills. Hundreds have been cured of this complaint by the use of these Pills alone. They were admitted on exhibition at the World's Fair as a standard cathartic.

A Business Change.

Captain N. Allan has completed the purchase of Messrs. S. A. Lazier & Sons' coal and fire-wood business, including horses, vehicles and other plant, and will carry it on vigorously, in evidence of which the schooner D. Freeman is now discharging the first cargo of coal at his wharf. Capt. Allan is well known and popular in Belleville and in the lake trade as commander of several well-known schooners. We wish him success in his new undertaking and feel assured that he will achieve it.

CASHEL.

The prospects for winter supplies are poor. Grasshoppers have eaten nearly all the hay in this country. Farm after farm lies bare as a result of these creatures.—The Free Methodists held their quarterly meetings Aug. 14-16; also a baptismal service was held by them in connection with the meeting. Large crowds were present at the scene. Visitors are here from many places to attend the above meeting, among whom were Rev. S. Rogers, of Burnley; Rev. J. W. Commodore, of Vennachar; Rev. R. Burnham, of Trent Bridge; and Rev. A. Sine (D.E.), of Kingston. The Free Methodists are doing a marvellous work in this place.

Not one complaint has ever been made by those using Ayer's Sarsaparilla according to directions. Furthermore, we have yet to learn of a case in which it has failed to afford benefit. So say hundreds of druggists all over the country. Has cured others, will cure you.

A Tyendinaga Man Hurt.

William Jordan, of the 4th concession of Tyendinaga, was driving shortly after noon to-day near David Scott's, north of Albert College, when he met with a painful accident. The draw bolt came out and the horse taking fright ran away. Jordan was pulled out on the wheel and received a severe wound at the base of the abdomen. He was taken to Dr. Eakins' office, where the wound was dressed. No serious results are anticipated.

Gives a woman more pleasure than the possession of a quantity of good household linens.

We know the average woman's weakness in this respect, and no doubt when our buyer was making his fall purchases of Linen from the famous Brookfield Linen Co., of Belfast, Ireland, he traded largely upon woman's admiration for these beautiful goods.

We have a beautiful stock of linens—a very comprehensive stock; indeed, we question very much if we have ever been able to show so much of newness and beauty and quantity before.

The experience of physicians and the public proves that taking Scott's Emulsion produces an immediate increase in flesh; it is therefore of the highest value in Wasting Diseases and Consumption.

—Things look serious at Zanzibar. After Said Kalid had seized the palace and proclaimed himself Sultan, the British Consul advised him to disarm his soldiers. Instead of complying, Said ordered the guns in the palace square trained upon the British warships Philomel, Thrush and Sparrow, which are lying in the harbor. The warships are awaiting the Consul's orders, which will determine their course of action. The flagship St. George, in command of Rear-Admiral Rawson, has arrived, and additional forces of British have arrived.

THE FRUIT BUSINESS

Has developed with rapid strides in Belleville the past few years, and without any attempt at bragging we believe we have been largely influential in its steady growth.

Our fruit trade is largely a wholesale one—we supply the bulk of the fruit sold by the grocers here. It's buying in large quantities of fruit, as of anything else, that enables a dealer to give you a choice and sell you fruit at less than smaller dealers could hope to do.

KING OR KNAVE?

of outside—you understand. It's to be paid in specie pounds sterling. You will carry the money, packed and sealed, to a place called Gufa, near the Tartar frontier, in Orenburg. By the way every sealed package will be marked 'A.' You will also, I understand, receive through a banker at the same place, to whom you will have an introduction, a large sum in Russian money, which you will pack and seal yourself, marking it with any other letter you please. That, I suppose, belongs to some other transaction, and that the notion is to kill two birds with one stone—to make a single journey do for two affairs. Only understand that you are to pay with the English money, marked 'A.' and to bring back the Russian money, marked say 'B'; to know nothing of the transaction, but only to act as a paying and receiving machine; and to be back as soon as you possibly can. You see, it's all very simple to a man who has quick feet, clean hands, and a silent tongue."

"It certainly does not seem hard," said Guy, who, had it not been for Marion, would have looked forward to a holiday, with a dash of adventure about it to give it piquancy. "I'm not likely to loiter, or chatter, or find myself in Texas. I suppose there'll have to be passports and things?"

"Oh, they'll be all right; and so will introductions and instructions in detail. It's not my affair, beyond obliging principals who have their reasons for keeping in the background. Of course, that's nothing to me or you, so long as I know who they are. Your expenses will be paid, of course; and you'll charge for your time—and, if you'll take a hint, you'll charge high. And now that's settled, I'll give a whole half hour to the inner man. And thank you. It's just one of those small things that gives one ten times more worry than big ones. I might have been weeks in these busy times looking for a man if it hadn't been for you."

There was time to catch the up train; and the middle of the afternoon found Guy, no longer thinking of khans or cannibals, at the railway shed at Piggot's town. He had never heard of that place, any more than of Moulkhend, until yesterday; and when he did see it he thought that it would benefit for a spell of Tartar rule. Central Asia could not be so God-forsaken as Piggot's Town; and he could not help speculating on better uses of English gold than helping a Tartar chief to play a part in the affairs of the world. And Marion and her mother—what in the name of chaos could they be doing here? So far as they were concerned, the atmosphere of Moulkhend would have been infinitely less strange.

Having discovered Belvedere Road, he duly reached the brass plate to which he had been directed, and knocked nervously and sharply.

"Can I see Dr. Snell?" he asked the girl who opened to him. I need not give my name.

He was duly conducted into the front parlor where the doctor saw his patients and meditated over those great medical works that were to make him famous in history to come. At the moment he was ostensibly making notes with a gold pencil-case from a large volume that might, for anything appearing to the contrary, have been his own. He rose from his occupation with a slow, dignified sympathetic smile.

"What can I have the pleasure . . . Dr. Derwent!" he exclaimed under his breath; the smile fainting away.

"My name is Guy Derwent; and I have been directed to you for news of Miss Furness, who, you told me, has gone abroad."

"Gone abroad! Did I? Let me see. I suppose if I said so——"

"We are such strangers to one another, you and I," said Guy, with decision, "that we can't expect trust from one another because we happened to meet by chance for once in our lives. I don't expect you to trust me; and you can't expect me to trust you. I have had reason to believe that you did not think it right to tell me all you knew of Miss Furness. I dare say your reasons were perfectly right—I can quite understand there is some influence at work of which I know nothing, though I can guess its nature very well. And when I tell you that I am engaged to be married to the young lady, you will understand my right to ask you—is she here?"

Dr. Snell threw a rapid glance around the room. Girls will sometimes leave a glove, or a handkerchief, lying about, which might serve for a trace. Fortunately for him there was nothing of the kind.

"Here?" he asked in astonishment. "Bless my soul—no!"

But there was an infinitesimal hesitation before his answer that prevented it from carrying conviction.

"You will understand my position well enough," said Guy, "not to take offence at my ringing the bell and asking your maid the name of the lady who is staying here!"

He assumed more knowledge than he had; but he felt himself engaged in a fencing match, where it is supremely needful to know how to feign. Dr. Snell might fly into a rage and refuse with indignation; in which case the fencing match would become an open duel, and Guy would know how to press his attack home. Or he might——

What he did was the only thing Guy did not count upon.

"By all means. I quite understand, my dear sir," said he blandly. "If I were a lover after a young woman, I should do precisely the same. I will ring the bell. . . . Fanny," he said to the girl whom the bell summoned, "tell your mistress I want her in the consulting room at once. Mrs. Snell will, I hope, be regarded as a competent witness," said he.

Now it so happened that Fanny had not to go far to find Mrs. Snell, who had learned from her husband the fact that the partition between the front and the back parlors was exceedingly and sometimes conveniently thin; and on hearing the message she conceived an almost dramatic situation, by which Marion should be delivered out of the custody of a too susceptible stranger, without the seeming accident being laid at her own doors. It would be easy enough, thought she, under the circumstances, to give her odious guest a hint that would send her into the parlor of her own accord; and as for Wyndham, he might wriggle out of the situation as he could—till Marion was out of the way, she felt as if she hated him even more than her.

So, instead of immediately obeying her husband's summons, she went upstairs and tapped gently at Marion's door.

Live up to Your Privileges

If we read of some new fabric made in some foreign country which gave protection from cold, providing a healthful warmth in all sorts of weather, we would consider it wonderful and be envious of the people who would take advantage of it. But because Fibre Chamois is quite inexpensive and easy to get perhaps some have not yet tested its merits and found out for themselves the splendid winter comfort a layer of it will impart to all outdoor garments. Its weather proof qualities are genuine, founded on the fact that it is made entirely from Spruce Fibre, and is therefore a complete non-conductor of cold. This, as well as its light weight, makes it an ideal addition to every one's fall and winter clothing.

WANTED—A LITTLE GIRL.

Where have they gone to—the little girls,
With natural manners and natural curls,
Who love their dollies and like their toys
And talk of something besides the boys.

Little old women in plenty I find,
Mature in manners and old of mind;
Little old flirts who talk of their "beaux,"
And vie with each other in stylish clothes.

Little old belles, who, at nine and ten,
Are sick of pleasure and tired of men;
Weary of travel, of balls, of fun,
And find no new thing under the sun.

Once, in the beautiful long ago,
Some dear little children I used to know;
Girls who were merry as lambs at play,
And who laughed and rollicked the live-long day.

They thought not at all of the style of their clothes,
They never imagined that boys were "beaux;"
"Other girls' brothers" and "mates" were they,
Splendid fellows to help them play.

Where have they gone to? If you see
One of them anywhere send her to me.
I would give a medal of purest gold
To one of these dear little girls of old,
With an innocent heart and an open smile
Who knows not the meaning of "flirt" or "style."
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

A LITTLE BUSINESS.

In the afternoon Major Mason presided at a meeting of the O.R.A., held in the pavilion at 1.15. Capt. Russell moved, seconded by Capt. McMickin, that Lieut.-Col. Gzowski, Lieut.-Col. Macdonald, Major Mason, Lieut.-Col. Davidson, Major Macdonald, Lieut. Anderson and Capt. Mercier be the representatives of the O.R.A. to the D.R.A., and that Majors Mason, Bruce, Anderson and Hughes be the representatives on the committee. The resolution was adopted.

In the forenoon the weather was up to the mark for shooting purposes, but in the afternoon the butts were obscured by a dark cloud, which loomed up from the west, and a heavy shower, accompanied by a gale blowing from the north, materially affected the scoring in the corporation of the city of Toronto match. The prizes amounted to $651 in all, $100 being given by the city and the remainder added by the association. Seven rounds were fired at each of the 500 and 600 yard ranges.

WARSHIPS IN THE NORTH ATLANTIC

England Will Keep the Fleet of Uncle Sam as Well as France in Sight.

Halifax, Aug. 26.—The warship Talbot, which has been commissioned for this station, is regarded by naval officers as an offset to some of the White Squadron, and it is asserted to be the settled policy of the British Admiralty to raise the entire North Atlantic Squadron to its old-time efficiency and power. Not only the United States but France has to be kept in sight. The announcement was made in French papers some time ago that both divisions of the French fleet in American waters were to be strengthened by the addition of modern ships of war. The flagship of the northern division is La Clocherterie, while the Douberdiere is the flagship of the southern. Both vessels, as well as their tenders, are antiquated ships. Next summer it is expected that new French warships will appear on this station. A St. Pierre gentleman in Halifax said an unusually large number of sailors had lately been drafted from the St. Pierre fishing fleet and sent home to France to man-of-war ships. St. Pierre, he said, was a nursery for seamen for the French fleet.

A SERIOUS CASE.

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & CO.
I Used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for my little boy for summer complaint and it cured him. He was so bad that he had convulsions and would strain so that he ruptured himself, but as soon as I got the extract for him he got well.
MRS. ELIZA M. OVERHOLT,
Fonthill, Ont.

Mrs. Sequel—I understand your husband can't meet his creditors. Mrs. Equal—I don't believe he wants to, especially.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

"Jenkins claimed that I insulted him." "Did you give him satisfaction?" "Guess I did. He pounded me until he was tired."

TO BE REMOVED.

All the effete or waste matter of the system is removed by a perfect action of Laxative Liver Pills. Thus they prevent as well as cure Sick headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Jaundice, Dizziness, etc.

"I'm going to swear out a warrant against the weather man." "What for?" "Malicious scorching."

CURES SUMMER COMPLAINT.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for twelve years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer complaints. In our family it has never failed to cure any case. MRS. BENJ. LONGLEY.
Chatham Ont.

Mount Emmons, 13,694 feet, is said to be the highest in Utah.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue.

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels, therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very billous habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height,

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency"

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forget this.

Pine Knot is the highest place in Kentucky—1428 feet.

If your children are troubled with worms, give them Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; safe, sure, and effectual. Try it, and mark the improvement in your child.

Mount Whitney is the highest peak in California—14,898 feet.

If you are tired taking the large old fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

Warren is located on the highest land in Illinois—1005 feet.

Those unhappy persons who suffer from nervousness and dyspepsia should use Carter's Little Nerve Pills, which are made expressly for sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic sufferers. Price 25 cents.

Mount Rich, 3500 feet high, is the tallest in South Carolina.

Ill-fitting boots and shoes cause corns. Holloway's Corn Cure is the best article to use. Get a bottle and cure your corns.

THE DEBATE IS OVER

Address Passed in the Commons Without a Division

Saskatchewan Declared Vacant—Charley Devlin Grew Excited When Taunted by Mr. Dupont Regarding His Course on the Remedial Bill—Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper Deals With Parish Politicians From the Maritime Provinces—Sir Oliver's Maiden Speech in the Senate and Senator Ferguson's Apt Criticism

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—(Special.)—The principal feature of to-day's discussion in the House has been the scorching which Sir C. H. Tupper gave to the new Minister of Finance. The Conservatives applauded vigorously the strong points made by the late Solicitor-General.

Mr. Laurier informed Mr. Lemieux that the Government had not considered whether it would take part in the Paris Exposition in 1900. Answering the same gentleman regarding the Baie Chaleur Railway, Mr. Laurier said the Quebec Government had suggested the purchasing by the Dominion of that railway. The late Government, by order-in-council, replied that the purchase could only be made by authority of Parliament, but that the proposition would receive consideration at an early date.

Sir Charles Tupper asked the Premier if he would make his election as to which constituency he would sit for.

Mr. Laurier replied that the seat for Saskatchewan became vacant when he accepted office.

Sir Charles Tupper stated the reason he asked the question was because the Speaker yesterday said he had no notice that the vacancy had occurred.

Mr. Laurier said that as soon as the Speaker's attention was called to the fact of the vacancy in the proper way the warrant for the writ for another election would be issued.

Sir Charles Tupper thereupon formally notified the Speaker that the seat was vacant.

Mr. McCarthy suggested that it might be as well for Sir Charles to move the Speaker should issue his warrant for a writ.

Sir Charles accordingly made that motion and it was duly carried.

Mr. Dupont resumed the debate on the address. He had not proceeded far in his criticism of the Liberal course on the Remedial Bill, when Mr. Devlin interrupted. The member for Wright arose and asked why, if the late Government was serious about the Remedial Bill, it had opposed him in the election, after he had voted for the measure.

Mr. Dupont's reply was that he supposed the reason was Mr. Devlin's subsequent repentance for having voted against his leader on that occasion.

Mr. Devlin thereupon grew excited, thumped his desk and declared if Mr. Dupont could prove his assertion he would resign his seat.

Mr. Dupont retorted that at Sohmer Park in Montreal, in Mr. Laurier's presence, Mr. Devlin gave abundant evidence of repentance.

Mr. Devlin, still more excited, repeated his offer to resign if proof could be brought of the honorable member's charge, which he pronounced to be a falsehood.

At this Mr. Speaker intervened, order was restored, and Mr. Dupont proceeded to say that for proof of his observation he need only refer Mr. Devlin to reports of that speech of his published in the Liberal papers.

Mr. Craig, in a brief speech, pointed out the achievements of the Conservative party in the past. Their record was one of which they had good reason to be proud. They had stood for Canada first and refused to barter away their rights. He severely arraigned the attitude of the Liberals on the school question, who had one policy for Ontario and another for Quebec.

After some remarks from Mr. Morrison, Sir C. H. Tupper, in a vigorous speech, criticised the personnel of the new Ministry, paying particular attention to Mr. Fielding's record in the Government of Nova Scotia. Mr. Fielding was very nervous under his castigation, but he will probably get used to it in time. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper proceeded to show that, notwithstanding his party's pledge to the contrary, Mr. Fielding promised aid to a local railway in Queen's and Shelburne.

To this Mr. Davies interposed the objection that all this was parish politics.

Sir Charles retorted that if some one was obliged in referring to that bright and shining light, the Finance Minister, to talk parish politics, because Mr. Fielding, although a successful parish political, knew nothing else. (Laughter.)

Proceeding, Sir Charles reminded the Government on the facility with which they were swallowing themselves on their record.

Mr. Fielding: "Such as the Remedial Bill."

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper: "Yes, honorable gentlemen opposite are swallowing that as fast as they can." (Cheers and laughter.) With reference to the Opposition, it was not true that to-day they felt uncomfortable. That was the position of affairs on the Government benches. One of the most humorous things of the session was to see the manner in which Mr. McMullen had been shut off. His silvery tones had not been heard once this session. (Laughter.) Neither had he been seen with a blue book in his hands. (Renewed laughter.) Sir Charles proceeded to refer to the tariff question. Insisting that it would be the duty of the Opposition to secure an explicit statement of policy from the Government on this question before the session closed, he proceeded to place on record the tariff views of members of the Government while in Opposition.

Mr. Beausoleil closed the debate and the address was adopted without a division.

On motion to adjourn, Mr. Dobell rose to make a personal explanation of the reasons which made him join the Liberal Administration. He began by stating it had been charged he had been bought by a five dollar bill. (Laughter.) The gist of his explanation was that he lost all confidence in the gentlemen on the other side.

Mr. Casgrain: At what date?

Mr. Dobell did not fix any specific date for his conversion, but went on to remark that the treachery of the Conservative party to their leader—(Liberal cheers)—disgusted him. The Conservatives were doing their utmost to disturb the harmony existing in the Liberal ranks and this disgusted him more with the Conservatives. He concluded by assuring the House he was supremely happy in his present company.

The House adjourned at 10.20.

IN THE UPPER HOUSE.

Sir Oliver Mowat Says Some Kind Things About the Much-Abused Senate.

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—(Special.)—The debate on the address in the Senate was continued by Sir Oliver Mowat, who briefly dealt with the question of supplies. On the Manitoba school question he said, after hearing all that could be said on that subject, he had every hope that this troublesome question would be satisfactorily settled. He was not going to discuss or defend the remedy which might be applied at the present time, but he could assure the House that when it was propounded it would be worthy of the defence of all right-thinking men. No reasonable person could expect the Government to announce its intentions on the tariff this session. The Liberal Government had no cut and dried tariff ready for presentation to Parliament, any more than the Government of Sir John Macdonald had when elected to power in 1878. The Government would proceed in the matter with every care, and next session would be prepared to tell the House exactly what it proposed to do. He trusted that when that time came and the bill was presented for the consideration of Parliament every right-thinking man in both Houses would give the measure fair and just consideration. It was true there was a large Conservative majority in the Senate, which might block the legislation of the Government, but he would never have accepted a senatorship had he not believed the Senate to be workable, even under a Liberal Government.

Though differing in their political convictions, members of the Senate thought alike upon many questions, and had many common interests. All were loyal to the Queen—(cheers)—to the British Empire and to Canada. (Cheers.) All would suffer or benefit from the change in the tariff and he felt sure the bill would be carefully and judicially considered. He had heard much about the uselessness of the Senate and the advanced age of its members, but he thought that there were few of the Senators who had the advantage in age of such eminent men as Sir Charles Tupper, who had been chosen by his party to lead in the recent contest and in the Lower House. Sir John Macdonald had for years directed the affairs of the nation at an age greater than most of the members of the Senate, and the late Premier, Sir Mackenzie Bowell. In fact, few senators had the advantage of himself in matters of age, and he had been chosen to conduct the Department of Justice in the new Government. Then the Senate was composed of men who had long experience in fulfilment of the highest offices in the gift of the nation, and were able to bring a rich store of experience into the consideration of all measures submitted to them. Considering all these reasons, he had no doubt he would find the Senate a workable body, despite the great Opposition majority. Speaking for himself, he had had a varied experience, and as a member of the Confederation Conference he had had something to do with the constitution of the Senate. He and Hon. William Macdougall were the only members of the Quebec Conference who favored an elective Senate. He was now an old man and expected to end his days as a member of that House, and, being in a sense responsible for the constitution of the body, he would do all in his power to make the Senate acceptable to the people of Canada.

Sir Frank Smith: The Senate has existed for 18 years now and it is fair to assume that it has always been acceptable to the people of Canada.

Sir Oliver Mowat: "Yes, but I am afraid only to the people of one political persuasion." He thought that much could be done under the existing constitution of the Senate to make it a more important branch of the Federal Legislature, and more acceptable to all classes of the Canadian people.

Senator Ferguson congratulated Sir Oliver and the Senate upon his elevation to a seat in the Senate. After all the kind things he had said of the Senate, it was difficult for him to believe him guilty of heterodoxy upon the subject. The effect of the kind things he had said was to some extent destroyed by the knowledge that he had not always held these flattering opinions about the Senate. He had a recollection of certain resolutions passed by the inter-provincial conference at Quebec, at which Sir Oliver presided, and the Liberal Convention held at Ottawa, which were in no sense complimentary to the Senate. He criticised Sir Oliver's letter to Hon. Wilfrid Laurier in May last, with regard to his accepting a seat in the Senate, which, he said, implied a threat that, unless the Senate pursued a certain line, it might become necessary to bring about certain constitutional changes affecting the Upper House. He could only say with regard to the threat contained in the letter, that the best proof of its not being necessary was to be found in the speech which he (Sir Oliver) had just delivered.

Senator Boulton moved the adjournment of the debate.

AN ELECTIVE SENATE

Hinted at by Sir Oliver Mowat in His Maiden Speech.

The Liberals Are Already Beginning to See the Difficulties in the Way of Their Proposed Tariff Changes—Dominion Millers Object to Any Tariff Reduction on Wheat—The Labor Unions at Sault Ste. Marie Want an Alien Labor Law—Personal and General Notes From Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—(Special.)—Sir Oliver Mowat realizes the truth of the old adage that more flies can be caught with sugar than with the finger. The proceedings in the Upper House to-day were certainly more interesting than in the Commons. It is not often that one hears a maiden speech in Parliament of a gentleman who for forty years has been in public life and for twenty-three years has held the position of Premier of the chief province of Canada. Our own little Ol evidently realized the seriousness of the situation. He knew that he was facing an adverse majority and he lost no time in endeavoring to please his opponents. He was the same tactful old politician as he has been for years in Toronto. Evidently he realizes the task ahead of him, and if honeyed words will tend to smooth his path in the Senate they will not be missing. There were one or two points in his speech worthy of note. He referred at some length to the constitution of the Senate and stated that at the Quebec conference Hon. William Macdougall and himself were the only two representatives who favored an elective Senate. He intimated in an insidious manner that he hoped to secure the co-operation of the present Senate in trying to make it acceptable to the whole country. Only one inference can be drawn from this remark, namely, that before many moons are over a measure will be introduced for the reform of the Senate.

Conservatives and Liberal members alike are a unit in favor of furnishing the farmers of Canada with the means for placing perishable products promptly on the English market. They do not, however, like the scheme propounded by Mr. Porter of London. The Premier and Hon. Mr. Dobell were present at to-day's meeting of the committee. As was the case yesterday, the Western Ontario members opposed the granting of a subsidy of $125,000 annually for ten years to assist the project. Mr. Porter, one of the promoters, explained the details of the scheme, which have been previously published. It was pointed out by Mr. Lister that an annual subsidy on an expenditure of $1,000,000 for the building of an abattoir would pay the interest on the entire cost of construction and leave $75,000 over. Mr. Porter, however, claimed that the abattoirs would be only a part of the expense. There was the matter of steamship service, agencies in European countries, etc.

Mr. Cargill strongly favored assistance being given to the farmers, but he was opposed to the country contributing 12 1-2 per cent. on an investment of one million dollars. He would like the company to guarantee to the farmers an increase of four cents per pound on beef sold in the English market, as the prospectus promised (Laughter and applause.)

The discussion continued for an hour and a half and was brought to a close by the Premier stating that the problem how best to capture the deadmeat market in England would be fully investigated, while he had no opinion to offer with regard to the scheme under consideration.

Prof. Macoun of the geological survey, who has returned from his summer botanical field work near Moosejaw, N.W.T., states that he never saw the vegetation of the Northwest so luxuriant as this summer. The prairie hay grass is, he says, fully three inches in height. The farmers state that the forage was never so good since 1882. The crop prospects are bright.

The police commissioners to-day appointed Mr. W. F. Powell, second son of the late Sheriff Powell, to the position of chief of the Ottawa police. The commissioners instructed the clerk to purchase four bicycles on the best possible terms so that the members of the force can control the outlying districts more readily. Scorching wheelmen, too, may look out now for trouble, as there are already half a dozen good cyclists on the force. It is not unlikely that a special bicycle squad will be organized in charge of a sergeant, and that a special detail of duty will be assigned to them. However, until Chief Powell has an opportunity of considering the matter, nothing definite will be known.

The difficulties which are facing the new Government in connection with their tariff reform measure are beginning to crop up. Two deputations were here to-day getting in their work. The vinegar manufacturers, consisting of Messrs. Badgerow and Wilson of Toronto, Allan of Norwich and Marshall of Hamilton, interviewed the Government in reference to the excise duties on vinegar.

The Dominion Millers' Association also had a deputation here, which interviewed the Premier and Mr. Fielding. David Plews, C. B. Watts and J. L. Spink, Toronto, and W. H Meldrum of Peterboro composed the delegation. They represented that it would be inadvisable to make any change in the tariff, so far as the duties on wheat and flour were concerned. The point was also made that any reduction in the duties would minimize the prospects of securing a reciprocity treaty with the United States. This contention, however, was not a unanimous one, some of the delegates being averse to going cap in hand to the United States.

The deputation also saw Sir Henry Joly respecting the mixing of grain. They claim that so long as the Government permits second wheat to be mixed with No. 2 hard the mixing should take place at Fort William, so that an Ontario purchaser of even a single car would get a fair average. At present when 10,000 bushels of No. 2 hard are shot into a vessel and other ten thousand bushels of second put on top, if this is elevated at Owen Sound or other ports the purchaser does not get a fair average of mixture.

The Federal Labor Union of Sault Ste. Marie, through Mr. Dyment, M.P., petition Parliament for legislation placing Canadian workmen on a footing similar to the Americans under the alien labor law. The petition points out that Canadians at the Soo and other border towns are brought into direct and unfair competition with American labor, while the United States workingmen are protected against competition with Canadians, thereby inflicting a manifest injustice on Canadian labor.

Sir Adolphe Caron will ask if the Government purposes changing the policy of establishing a twenty-knot steamship service between Britain and Canada and substituting those for an 18-knot service.

Lord Russell of Killowen and his party will arrive here on Saturday and remain until Tuesday. The Chief Justice has been invited to accept a banquet to be tendered him by the Government at the Rideau Club on Monday evening, to which all Privy Councillors and legal members of the House on both sides will be invited. About 100 guests will be present.

The attention of Sir Charles Tupper was to-night called to the latest outbreak of F. W. Glen. Sir Charles considers it tantamount to a back-down on Mr. Glen's part. If that gentleman is in earnest and will put up $25,000 in the Bank of Montreal, Sir Charles will immediately cover it and enter action against Glen in the courts.

A telegram was received from Mr. Robert Birmingham to-day saying that the statement that he is to resign the position of Conservative organizer is untrue. The news of Mr. Birmingham's ill-health was received here with regret and his friends trust that he will soon be fully restored again.

E. A. Wills, secretary of the Toronto Board of Trade, was in town to-day.

Hon. William Paterson, Controller of Customs, arrived this morning from Owen Sound. He got a big reception on reaching the Liberal headquarters at the House of Commons. Mr. Paterson will not be introduced until next week.

Hon. A. G. Blair, Minister of Railways, is expected to arrive to-morrow.

Mr. Casgrain will ask if the Government is aware that the cruiser Aberdeen was placed at the disposal of the leader of the Opposition in the Quebec Legislature and Mr. Deschene, M.L.A., during the present month to convey them to the Magadalen Islands.

Mr. McInnes will enquire if the Government is aware that Chief Justice Davie was engaged in canvassing during the late election. If so, does the Government intend to enquire into the matter?

Sir Charles and Lady Tupper left for Toronto to-night.

Sir Frank Smith arrived this morning.

The formal motion appointing Mr. Brodeur Deputy Speaker of the Commons was passed to-night.

THE BOMBARDMENT OF ZANZIBAR.

Palace Reduced to Ruins and the Usurping Sultan a Prisoner—British Marines Made Short Work of It.

London, Aug. 27.—Almost all of the daily papers this morning contain comments upon the situation in Zanzibar. Leading editorials in The Chronicle and Daily News favor the annexation of Zanzibar with a view to the suppression of the slave trade. The Times, however, considers this rather a doubtful policy.

London, Aug. 27.—Later advices from Zanzibar say the loss of Said Kalid's force was heavy, but the exact number of the killed and wounded is not known. The only casualty on the British side was the serious injuring of one seaman. No material damage was sustained by the British war vessels.

Hamond, a cousin of the late Sultan, has been proclaimed successor to the Sultanate.

The Ladies in the Warship.

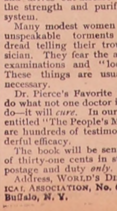
Zanzibar, Aug 27.—Many of the British residents boarded the warships lying in the harbor before the bombardment began, all of the ladies taking refuge upon the St. George, the flagship of Rear Admiral Harry H. Rawson, but a large number of Europeans remained on shore. Most of the rebels stood to their guns pluckily and fought well, though after the first broadside was fired from the warships a number of the defenders of the palace fled to the outskirts of the town, where many robberies were committed. All of the persons on board the steamer Glasgow, which was sunk by the fire of the British vessels, were rescued by boats from the bombarding ships. Among them were a large number who had been wounded. Several Indian soldiers were killed during the firing. The Thrush was hit sixty-two times and the Racoon sixteen times by shots from the guns of the rebels.

THE ESTIMATES DOWN.

They are Approximately Mr. Fosters Figures With a Cut of $25,000 in the Toronto Harbor Vote.

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—(Special.)—The estimates for the current fiscal year were brought down to-night. It had been officially announced that the Government would accept the estimates prepared by Mr. Foster and the Fielding series shows this to be the case approximately. A comparison of the two sets shows an increase in pensions of $4500, superannuations $5000, subsidies to provinces $3500, redemption of debt $500,000 on the debentures falling due Dec. 1.

There are decreases under the heading of public works to the amount of $80,000. A vote of $13,000 for Picton postoffice is dropped, while the Toronto harbor vote was cut down by $25,000.



Budding time—the time when girlhood blossoms into womanhood—is a trying period in every woman's life. Much depends on the care and the treatment given then—a lifetime of healthy happiness, or years of suffering sickness.

To bring girls safely through this critical period, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been found an unfailing aid. It is a preparation of strongly tonic properties. It puts the whole body into good condition and is particularly efficacious in its action on the peculiarly feminine organism. There is no sort of female trouble that it will not correct if it is taken in time. Thousands of the worst possible cases have been cured by it. It works in a perfectly natural way, and drives out disease by building up the strength and purifying the whole system.

Many modest women and girls suffer unspeakable torments because they dread telling their troubles to a physician. They fear the almost inevitable examinations and "local treatment." These things are usually wholly unnecessary.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do what not one doctor in a hundred can do—it will cure. In our 1000 page book entitled "The People's Medical Adviser," are hundreds of testimonials to its wonderful efficacy.

The book will be sent free on receipt of thirty-one cents in stamps, to prepay postage and duty only.

"THE WICKED PARTNER."

Mr. A. S. Hardy, the new Premier of Ontario, did not waste much time, after the restraining hand of Sir Oliver Mowat was withdrawn, in showing himself to the public as a mere spoilsman. The Montreal Star thus most effectually "roasts" Mr. Hardy for his now notorious declaration at Owen Sound: Arthur Sturgis Hardy, W. P., is the gentleman who has succeeded the Good Oliver Mowat as Liberal Premier of Ontario. "W. P." is not a typographical error for M. P., as the hasty reader might imagine, but stands for "Wicked Partner," which was the said Hardy's undress title before the days of his promotion. Sir Oliver was known far and wide as the "Christian Statesman," and for his lecture on the evidences of Christianity, but his "W. P." did not share largely in this fame. He was known high and low and "Jack" and likewise "the game" for other things. But when the Good Oliver was translated to Ottawa and Arthur came to reign in his stead it was expected that he would not take his W. P. outfit with him, but would the rather assume such portions of the Mowatite wardrobe as he could wear without tripping himself up.

Apparently, however, owing to a mistake on the part of his valet-de-chambre or for some other reason, when he started for Owen Sound the other day he took along his dear, old, familiar "W. P." valise. Consequently, when he got before an Owen Sound audience, they found to their delight that the Arthurian legend was not to be departed from. With good, old-time unction, he implored them to "give Paterson a chance!"; to "give the Government a chance;" and, above all, to "give Owen Sound a chance!" Any who weakly fancied that they had lost their Hardy must have wept for joy at those familiar words. The official mask might resemble the face of Esau, but the voice was the voice of Jacob. They doubtless remembered how, when the humble Wicked Partner of the great and Good Mowat, he had implored London to "give Hobbs a chance; give the Government a chance; and, above all, to give London a chance."

Then Mr. Hardy went on to say some other things. According to one report he said:

"I am not talking politics, but business. I want to ask you what have you Owen Sounders to lose by electing Mr. Paterson? (Cries of 'Nothing, nothing.') What have you to gain by electing Mr. McLaughlan? (Renewed cries of 'Nothing.') You say 'nothing.' That is the point you must keep before you. Do you want a shrivelling commerce, a decaying population, or do you want the opposite? Shall Owen Sound stagnate for five years to come, or perhaps for ten years to come, or will you have the sympathy of a Government at your back? You will not, in any event, get less than justice, but to have the active sympathy of a Government is one thing and to have only cold justice is another thing."

Having been an active member of a government since 1877, when he declares that there is a difference between "cold justice" and "the active sympathy of a Government," he ought to be allowed to know what he is talking about. And it is an interesting revelation of the methods of government by party, as the new Premier of Ontario sees it. The phrase "cold justice," is suggestive. It seems to be of kin with the "cold shades of Opposition," the "cold shoulder," "cold steel," and other arctic phenomena. There is a chill about it which would give the ague to budding hopes of harbor improvement and make it seem likely that a Government dredge would be frozen up at midsummer if it tried to work under an order to do nothing but "cold justice." But "active sympathy!"—that's the caper. That is what builds post offices and constructs wharves and makes the truly good partisan rich and happy. No wonder it seems natural to him to refer to "justice" as "cold."

Yet is is a trifle startling to hear the successor of the Good Sir Oliver calmly laying down the doctrine in public that a Government should make a difference in building public works and the like between a town that votes for it and a town that votes against it. If Sir Oliver has read that speech, he must be doing some thinking not connected with the leadership of the Senate. Hon. Mr. Paterson himself has many a time and oft denounced a Government made up of his political opponents for favoring Tory towns and administering "cold justice" or some frigid substitute to Grit boroughs. They really ought to take the Wicked Partner in hand.

WIDE OF THE MARK.

In yachting, however, the present victory is the first of any great consequence that the country can be credited with. For years contests between the crack yachts of Canada and the United States have taken place, but in no case have they sailed for an international trophy under conditions such as were enforced at Toledo. The contest was therefore a new departure, and the victory is consequently all the more gratifying.—Mail and Empire.

Without desiring to belittle in any way the achievements of that very able—perhaps our ablest—Canadian yachtsman Capt. Æmilius Jarvis, his well trained crew and the great little yacht Canada, we must take exception to the statements made by our esteemed contemporary, the Mail and Empire, in the sentences above quoted from its editorial columns which form the conclusion of an article on Canada's victory in the matches which were this week sailed off Toledo.

That our contemporary errs gravely in stating that Canada's victory "is the first of any great consequence that the country can be credited with" is beyond question, as we propose to show presently, and that it involves an unwarranted reflection upon Canadian designers and yachtsmen is also true. Whether this misstatement arises from lack of knowledge of the facts or from that lofty contempt which most of the journalists of Toronto usually exhibit for other places and their achievements we know not, but in the interests of truth and of justice to all concerned, we will, in the briefest possible form, proceed to state the facts.

In 1874 the Annie Cuthbert, designed and built at Cobourg by the late Alex. Cuthbert, defeated the Cora, which was designed and built at Pamrapo, New Jersey, by Pat McGiehan, for the purpose of defending this cup, in a race at Put-in-Bay for a cup presented by Commodore Barker, of Detroit.

In 1883 the Atalanta, designed by Cuthbert and built by him at Belleville, defeated the Cora, above mentioned, at Chicago for a cup offered by Commodore Fisher, of the Chicago Yacht Club, as the emblem of the championship of single masted vessels on fresh water.

In 1892 the Norah, also of Cuthbert's design, and built by him at Trenton, successfully defended this cup against the Onward, of Rochester, a yacht of Herreshoff's design. These contests were sailed under L. Y. R. A. rules, and special conditions.

And surely the Glencairn's victories at New York were as of "great consequence" as Canada's triumph at Toledo.

In view of these facts, it will be seen that the statements of our Toronto contemporary are not historically correct and fail to do justice to a man, who, all things considered, was Canada's ablest yacht designer—a self-taught genius whose productions swept the lakes in all classes during many years, indeed until light draft centreboard yacts were beaten by the modern type of keel cutters, of which Canada is so fine a representative.

"CANADA FIRST."

Canada has been first in many lines of sport this year. Her sons have won these events in international sports in 1896:

Cup for half-rater yachts at New York.

Ko'apore Cup at Bisley, England.

International sculling races, amateur and professional, at Saratoga and Halifax.

Cup for international sailing race for canoes at A.C.A. meet at Grindstone Island.

International yacht races on Lake Erie.

Cup for yachts not to exceed 45 ft. at Toledo, Ohio—by some designated emblem of the championship of the lakes.

Canadians seems to be first all the time, when pitted against the Yankees.

Korns, Korns.

There are more than one sort of korns. Some korn is planted in the ground and the other sort don't need planting; they grow quite naturally on men's toes and don't need hoeing. This kind of korn has two sorts—one gentle or tender like until Bill Jones steps on your foot, when it gets boiling mad and swears like everything; the other is hard headed and makes a row all the time, especially when your boots are on. I don't like korns, and use the extracting medicine, Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor which removes them painlessly in twenty-four hours.

Harvest Excursions.

In order to give everyone an opportunity to see the grand crops in the Western States and enable the intending settler to secure a home, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul R'y has arranged to run a series of harvest excursions to South and North Dakota, and to other States in the West, Northwest and Southwest on the following dates: July 21, August 4 and 18, September 1, 15 and 29, October 6 and 20, at the low rate of two dollars more than ONE FARE for the round trip. Tickets will be good for return on any Tuesday or Friday within twenty-one days from date of sale. For rates, time of trains and further details apply to any coupon ticket agent in the East or South, or address A. J. Taylor, Canadian Passenger Agent, 2 King Street, E. Toronto, Ont.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Cure all liver ills. 25 cents.

Unfair Warfare.

A good story is told of the coolness and bravery of Gen. John Irving Gregg, who commanded a cavalry brigade in the army of the Potomac during the war.

It was at the second battle of Malvern Hill, Aug. 5, 1862. He was a cavalry captain then, and his regiment was ordered to support old Bull Sumner in his movements against Lee. He was on the right and was in a field in a column of companies. The Johnnies were advancing, and presently got within range, pelting the federals with a battery and line of sharp-shooters. It was very hot, and all the more uncomfortable because the fire could not be returned. Seconds seemed hours, and minutes were days, as the federal troops sat under that death-dealing fire. Directly behind the head of the column was Gen. (then captain) Gregg's company. But the General never winced. He sat bolt upright in his saddle. He motioned to the captain commanding the head of the column, who rode back to where he sat. Taking a small flask from his pocket, he said to his comrade:

"Don't you think we had better take a drink, captain?"

"With all my heart," replied the latter. Gregg deliberately unscrewed the top from the flask and, holding it out, said:

"Well, old man, go ahead!"

Just then there was a zip, a crash of glass, and the liquor steamed down over Gregg's hand. Gregg raised his eyes and, fixing them on the Johnnies, where the ball came from over on the hill, shook his fist at them and exclaimed:

"Well, I'll be —— if you fellows ain't getting too mean to live."

It was a cool act, and proved the wonderful coolness of the man in the presence of great danger.—St. Louis Republic.

Live up to Your Privileges

If we read of some new fabric made in some foreign country which gave protection from cold, providing a healthful warmth in all sorts of weather, we would consider it wonderful and be envious of the people who would take advantage of it. But because Fibre Chamois is quite inexpensive and easy to get perhaps some have not yet tested its merits and found out for themselves the splendid winter comfort a layer of it will impart to all outdoor garments. Its weather proof qualities are genuine, founded on the fact that it is made entirely from Spruce Fibre, and is therefore a complete non-conductor of cold. This, as well as its light weight, makes it an ideal addititon to every one's fall and winter clothing.

The best cough cure is Shiloh's Cure. A neglected cough is dangerous. Stop it at once with Shiloh's Cure. Sold by Alex. Ray.

Diseased blood, constipation and kidney, liver and bowel troubles are cured by Karl's Clover Root Tea. Sold by Alex. Ray.

COMMISSIONER EVA BOOTH.

A TYPICAL WOMAN-WARRIOR OF THE SALVATION ARMY.

Converted When Six Years Old—"War Cry" Seller—Captain—A Policeman to the Toughs—Passed Through a Baptism of Rowdyism—Conquered the Obnoxious Bye-Law—Fought at Whitchurch and Eastbourne—Led London's 21,000 Soldiers to Victory—Wonderful Triumph in New York—Now for Another Chapter of Victory Here.

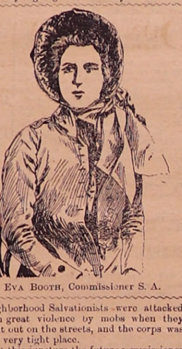
Commissoner Eva Booth, the late pro tem. Commander of the United States forces of the Salvation Army, who is to visit Belleville on Tuesday next, is the General's fourth daughter.

She was converted at the age of six years and from her earliest days, in which she was able to take any part at all in the Salvation War, her whole strength and energy have been spent in some form of work or other for the salvation of the world.

When quite a little miss she used to go out selling War Crys on the streets with the women cadets in the first Training Home, carried on under the superintendence of her sister, now Consul Booth-Tucker, and before she was twenty she was able to render great service in that institution in the important work of dealing with the hearts and souls of women who afterwards became officers in the Salvation Army.

A tremendous storm burst upon the Salvation Army in London in 1885, in consequence of certain actions performed by persons belonging to it, in connection with the terrible Pall Mall Gazette revelations of social vice in the metropolis.

One of these transactions took place in a vicinity where they had a large hall, holding 4000 people, and there was a dense population of ignorant people of the so-called lower orders of life. Public feeling ran very high against the army and in this neighborhood Salvationists were attacked with great violence by mobs when they went out on the streets, and the corps was in a very tight place.



Eva Booth, Commissioner S. A.

At this juncture the future commissioner was appointed to the command as Captain, and she went there, having the help of ten or a dozen cadets. Every other house on the street where they lived was a house of iniquity of some form, but before the Commissioner had been in her quarters a fortnight she had been in every house, visiting the people and dealing with them about salvation.

One of the first announcements that she made in the hall was that she was going to be her own policeman inside the building, and that therefore the presence of officers would not be required. This was a bold step, in view of the character of the gang of toughs who had been for some little time practically in possession of the hall; but it worked all right, and within a few weeks she had won the respect, and indeed the affection of the whole crowd, and these very men not only preserved excellent order in the hall, but protected Salvationists when they were out on the march. A few months after leaving this corps, when she lay dangerously ill, one of these men pawned his vest in order to buy some hot-house grapes for her.

If any of these lads got into the hands of the police, she would visit them in the lockups, or prisons, and make them feel that they belonged to her as much as she belonged to them. Needless to say, she left a splendid and solid work behind her.

The Commissioner remained at that corps ten months, and her arduous and endless labors there brought on a dangerous illness, that kept her out of the fight for close on a year. Mrs. General Booth nursed her during the greater part of this time, and the influence of that long, close, loving, personal contact will affect the temporal and eternal destinies of millions.

The next important public conflict was that of Torquay, a health resort in the south of England. The municipal council of Torquay deprived, by passing a special by-law, the Salvation Army of its precious privilege of parading the streets on Sunday with a brass band. This right had been established by a decision of Lord Chief Justice Coleridge in the Court of Queen's Bench.

In order to maintain this right, therefore, the procession moved right along by its commander's orders. Officers, bandsmen and soldiers were arrested and cast into prison, but those who remained kept in line, and the band played on. There was great excitement in the town, and Commissioner Eva Booth was sent to Torquay, to render her help in fighting the battle through to a victorious finish. She took her place in the parades, when these were attacked by both mobs and police; she personally interviewed and won over the council. She had the matter taken up by Parliament, and eventually she won by the repeal in Parliament of the obnoxious "by-law," the right for her Army to parade all day if it chose to so do, with its brass band in loud and close attendance. Then, again, there was Whitchurch. The issue there was the Army's right to hold open-air meetings. Commissioner Eva came, saw and conquered. The Army held open-air meetings, and is probably holding them yet.

Eastbourne, too. Torquay repeated on a bigger, more bitter, more extensive, and much more pertinacious scale. Illness kept the Commissioner out of much of the battle she would have been in if she had been well, but she got round to the houses of the Mayor and other leading citizens, and if she did not communicate new truths to them, she placed old facts before them with a force and fervor such as they had never seen before, and have never seen since. She managed to be in the biggest of the series of riots that took place, however, and came through it unharmed, in spite of the fact that a reward of $50 (if we remembered aright) was offered to any man who would knock her down, or who could capture her bonnet.

When she received her orders to proceed to New York on her melancholy mission of mercy and love, she was in the midst of arrangements for farewelling from the London "Province"—corresponding to a chief division here. When we say that she had 350 field officers, about 200 cadets in training, and 21,000 soldiers in her command, it will be seen that she must have great administrative capacity.

Her first two public appearances in America took place on the same day, and before audiences containing a large hostile element. Each meeting, however, resulted in a complete victory. Some of the people who hissed her at the beginning were cheering her before she finished.

In the whole history of the Salvation Army probably no officer of any rank ever found himself or herself in any position at all similar to that occupied by her in the first week after her arrival in New York, yet, during four of those days, she brought about a complete revolution in the feelings of at least 150 officers of various ranks, and other persons connected with the Salvation Army in the city, in regard to the position that she assumed under such trying circumstances, and this not by threats or bribes.

This colossal task having been accomplished in almost as low a physical condition as it were possible for her to be, what may we expect in the future, when her physical health shall have been restored, and when she shall be able to deal with all the manifold affairs of a vast field comprising Canada, Newfoundland, and North-West America, in the possession of her full strength of body, mind, heart and soul?

A SERIOUS CASE.

Messrs. T. Milburn & Co.

I Used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for my little boy for summer complaint and it cured him. He was so bad that he had convulsions and would strain so that he ruptured himself, but as soon as I got the extract for him he got well.

Mrs. Sequel—I understand your husband can't meet his creditors. Mrs. Equal—I don't believe he wants to, especially.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

"Jenkins claimed that I insulted him." "Did you give him satisfaction?" "Guess I did. He pounded me until he was tired."

TO BE REMOVED.

All the effete or waste matter of the system is removed by a perfect action of Laxative Liver Pills. Thus they prevent as well as cure Sick headache, Constipation, Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Jaundice, Dizziness, etc.

"I'm going to swear out a warrant against the weather man." "What for?" "Malicious scorching."

CURES SUMMER COMPLAINT.

Dear Sirs,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for twelve years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer complaints. In our family it has never failed to cure any case. Mrs. Benj. Longley.

Mount Emmons, 13,694 feet, is said to be the highest in Utah.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue.

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels, therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 80 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height.

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidney Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Maudrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Billous Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency"

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

A Garden Leveler and Grader.

Our engraving shows, says the American Agriculturist, shows a very handy homemade tool for leveling seed beds in the garden or for grading walks and lawns. The board can be of considerable length, sharp at one edge, with a bit of flat iron, riveted to the edge, the used-up blade of an old wood saw being excellent for this purpose. The handle is braced firmly by a half-circle of iron which a blacksmith can fit in place in a few moments. With such an implement the work of leveling and grading can be done quickly and easily. It should have a place in any garden.

Pure Juice of Fruit

Most of the summer beverages are mere stuff and are neither thirst-quenching nor refreshing—while many of them are quite injurious. On the Island of Montserrat the Lime is cultivated and the pure fruit juice pressed out, bottled and sold all over the world under the trade mark name

Montserrat

It is pure, wholesome and refreshing. Beware of imitations. "MONTSERRAT" is sold by all druggists and grocers, and is always to be had where summer drinks are sold.
If a Lime Juice Cordial is required, "Limetta" will be found the finest article of its kind on the market.

There's a lot of satisfaction in using a reliable interlining like Fibre Chamois. It never disappoints your highest expectations, always giving a lasting, stylish stiffness to gowns or wraps. And now there will be still further satisfaction in using it, for it has become possible to reduce the price because of the enlarged and improved methods of manufacture, and the enormous demand. So in future you can buy the Fibre Chamois, with the Red Star Label for 25 cts. per yard and those who are wise always look for the label to be sure of avoiding all disappointing and wortless imitations.

IF YOUR EYES

Need medical treatment we won't sell you glasses simply to make a sale—and let your headache continue until you find the true cause from some one else. If you simply need glasses we will tell you so and provide the remedy. But if there is the remotest need for the more thorough work of an oculist, we'll also tell you so—and charge nothing for the discovery. We correct all non-organic eye defects.

HORSE AND TRACK.

The Four Greatest Pacers Meet—Most Sensational Pacing Race of the Year.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26.—Not since the big race for trotting stallions at Mystic Park about two years ago, has such a crowd patronized the sulkies as came to the new track at Readville this afternoon.

The struggle between the crack side-wheelers was of the sharp, short and decisive variety, for Robert J. was in magnificent form and nothing could stop his conquering march to victory. Joe. Patchen, who won the stallion championship at Portland last week, was expected to give his famous rival a stout argument, but the black horse was far from being in shape to do himself justice. He started out in the lead for the first heat, but could not carry his clip to the three-quarter pole, which was reached in 1:39½. Then came Robert J. and John R. Gentry, both fairly flying, and the pace was a whirlwind one to the wire. Gentry made a terrific spurt just at the finish and not until the judges announced their decision was the crowd sure the handsome bay stallion had not won. Robert J. had a nose the best of it, according to the officials, and the time for the mile, 2.07¼, showed that the last quarter was paced at a 2:03 clip.

It was $100 to $25 before the first heat and no one cared to buck against it after it was apparent that Joe Patchen had no chance. The race was not over by any means, however, for John R. Gentry made a determined bid for the second heat and it took a mile in 2:05¼ to stop him. The last quarter of this was in 29¾ seconds, and Gentry covered the distance still faster, as he was two lengths behind at the sixth furlong pole, and had cut down that lead to half a length at the wire. Then Frank Agan took a hand in the fight and carried the favorite at a merry clip from the word. This time Robert J. was at the half in 1:02¼, and, letting out a link, from there, the king of the sulky came home in 2:04½, the fastest heat ever made in New-England. Summaries:

Geneva Beats Bryson.

The great trotting race for the stallion championship of Canada and the possession of a thousand dollars stake money was decided at Hamilton on Thursday, and Geneva is the champion. He disposed of the game and speedy Bryson in decisive fashion. Geneva won the first, third and fourth heats in 2:14¼, 2:18 and 2:16, and Bryson took the second in 2:15.

THE GUN.

The last two matches for the Porter prize were shot last night, Mr. W. R. Roote winning the first and Mr. Geo. J. Johnson the second. The result of the shooting in the seven matches therefore is: Geo. J. Johnson, (3 wins), 1st; Robt. Day (2 wins), 2nd; R. M. DeGex (1 win) and W. R. Roote (1 win) a tie for third.

Rolla Heikes defeated Fred Gilbert in a match for the championship at inanimate targets a few days ago. The conditions were 50 at unknown angles, 50 under expert rules and 50 (25 pairs) doubles. Heikes was one ahead in each portion of the match and won by 133 to 130.

WHOM YOU MAY NOT MARRY.

Awkward Mistake Made by the Ontario Government in a Law.

The latest marriage regulations passed by the Ontario House have caused considerabl dissatisfaction among the general public, and this dissatisfaction has been expressed in the columns of the local press.

The officials in charge of the workings of the Act have discovered on examination that a serious discrepancy exists in the lists of those marriages illegal, because of consanguinity. A man may not marry his brother's wife, nor may a woman marry her brother's husband. Circulars stating this have been printed and these two prohibitions have been added to the incomplete list already sent to the issuers of licenses about the province.

THE EXAMINATIONS.

LIST OF SUCCESSFUL STUDENTS IN THIS DISTRICT.

That Algebra Paper—Twenty Per Cent Accepted for a Pass—Go Forth and Teach is the Mandate to the Undermentioned.

We publish herewith the results of the High School and University examinations in this district for July, 1896.

The marks made at the examination will not be furnished to candidates from the Education Department. Unsuccessful candidates may apply for their marks in about a week to the Principal of the High School or to the Inspector in the case of other centres. Candidates should observe the information regarding appeals which was given on their application form. In order to avoid unnecessary expense candidates are recommended to obtain the advice of the Principal after receiving their marks before making appeal.

On account of the objections to the paper in Algebra, 20 per cent. instead of 33⅓ per cent. was accepted for pass. No candidate was rejected in Algebra, even on the reduced percentage, till after his standing in the other mathematical subjects was considered, together with his grading in the confidential report of the staff. More than the usual percentage of candidates were successful at the junior leaving examination.

County Boards of Examiners should observe that form of matriculation certificates give no right to attend county Model Schools, and that only those who have passed the primary, the junior leaving or the senior leaving examination, and who will be at least eighteen years of age before the end of the year, are eligible for admission to those institutions.

For 1897 all candidates, including those who this year have passed the primary examination, must comply with the requirements of the new curriculum, except those referred to in regulation 12 (I.) of circular 4. This regulation will enable any student who had the right to be a candidate in 1896 for a junior leaving or senior leaving certificate to be a candidate for that certificate in 1897 under the same special provisions. It will also enable anyone who was a candidate for a junior leaving certificate this year to be a candidate for a senior leaving certificate in 1897 under the special provisions grated this year. It should be understood that after 1897 all candidates must comply with the new conditions as mentioned in regulation 10 of circular 4.

Full-Cloth Pants.

Probably it is early to talk about such heavy garments. The Oak Hall have learned by experience that it pays to talk early. We have the best $1.25 and $1.50 full-cloth pants we have ever yet offered, and that is saying a big thing. Our stock is all in and quite ready for inspection.

May be There Yet.

Uncle Robert William Quimby, of Lewiston, says that he has travelled in all the warm countries of the globe, and that he has been in the coldest latitudes. He does not think that we have such very hot weather. If people would make provision for the hot days as they do in India, he thinks we should not notice it so much.

"But," says he, "the warmest weather that I ever experienced was on a small island called John's Biscuit off Cape Gracias, on Honduras. The Elizabeth Jennings, on which I sailed in 1870, from Portland, stopped there for water, and a boat's crew went ashore for water. It was a little volcanic island, and awful dry and hot. We didn't know whether there would be water there or no, but we did find a spring with a stream as large as a broom handle pouring out all the time. And do you believe me! The water was dried up and soaked up before it had run four feet in the sand. The place was covered with dried trees and a little distance away was what looked like a hut—a habitation for man. We went in and found the shrunken remains of four men, sailors probably, who had died in one night to judge from appearances. One was sitting in a chair, one lying on the floor, and two leaning against the wall in a sitting position. There was dry food on the table, dry meat in a box and everything was burning dry.

"A letter in the pocket of one man was dated Liverpool, 1846, and on the table was a bottle with a note in it evidently intended to be cast adrift. It said they were four English seamen marooned by a captain left to die. The note was dated 1846, and I suppose they had been there dead in that hut for over thirty years, and they must have died of heat in one day and dried right up. We left them where we found them."—Lewiston Journal.

Reductio Ad Absurdum

If the United States can make 58 cents' worth of silver bullion worth a dollar by stamping it as such, it can do the same thing just as readily with a much smaller quantity of the white metal. If the brand of the Government on a coin containing 412½ grains of silver can confer a fiat value equal to 47 cents, the result would be the same if there were only one-half as much or one-tenth as much bullion in the coin.

It is absurd for the free silver shriekers to clamor for the ratio of 16 to 1. If the Government's fiat can create any value, it can create the whole value. Instead of declaring that sixteen ounces of silver shall be equal to one ounce of gold, why not declare that an ounce of silver shall be equal to an ounce of gold? Or, better still, let us assert that a copper cent is worth as much as a gold dollar. We should go the whole distance while we are about it. Once we admit that the Government and Congress and the President can by their joint action in framing coinage laws produce values where no values existed before, we should demand that his wonderful power shall be exerted to its full extent.

Silver, copper, leather or paper—it makes no difference what the dollar is made of, according to the fiat theory. If Mr. Bryan and his fellow inflationists speak the truth, the very first duty of the Government is to coin or print enough money to make everybody rich. A million apiece might do as a starter.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Miss Emily Corby's Death.

Mr. H. Corby, M. P., received a telegram this morning stating that his sister, Miss Emily, had died suddenly. Deceased had been in delicate health for some months, but her death was quite unexpected. Miss Corby was the youngest daughter of the late Henry Corby. Her demise will be regretted by a large circle of friends besides the family. Messrs. H. Corby and U. E. Thompson went to Toronto at noon to-day to bring the remains here for interment.

You cannot say that you have tried everything for your rheumatism, until you have taken Ayer's Pills. Hundreds have been cured of this complaint by the use of these Pills alone. They were admitted on exhibition at the World's Fair as a standard cathartic.

Boils

It is often difficult to convince people their blood is impure, until dreadful carbuncles, abscesses, boils, scrofula or salt rheum, are painful proof of the fact. It is wisdom now, or whenever there is any indication of blood, to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and prevent such eruptions and suffering.

"I had a dreadful carbuncle abscess, red, fiery, fierce and sore. The doctor attended me over seven weeks. When the abscess broke, the pains were terrible, and I thought I should not live through it. I heard and read so much about Hood's Sarsaparilla, that I decided to take it, and my husband, who was suffering with boils, took it also. It soon purified our built me up and restored my health so that, although the doctor said I would not be able to work hard, I have since done the work for 20 people. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured my husband of the boils, and we regard it a wonderful medicine." MRS. ANNA PETERSON, Latimer, Kansas.

SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL.

Praise for the Leader of the Opposition in the Senate.

Referring to the choice of Sir Mackenzie Bowell as Conservative leader in the Senate, the Minerve of Montreal, the leading French Conservative journal in the Province of Quebec, says: "The vote will be unanimous in the Province of Quebec of strong commendation for the decision just arrived at by the Conservative senators as to their leader. By choosing Sir Mackenzie Bowell they did spontaneous justice to the statesman whose unshaken firmness, perfect honorableness and loftiness of thought will obtain the admiration of the historians who shall be called upon to record the stirring events of the past two or three years." The writer then says that Sir Mackenzie Bowell could, as well as Mr. Laurier, have undertaken to settle the school question, without sacrificing his position, by accepting Mr. Greenway's proposals, and he might have told the minority not without some reason, that he could go no further. That is exactly what Mr. Laurier is about to do. But Sir Mackenzie Bowell had a higher conception of his duties and of the inviolability of the constitution. He tried to force the majority to respect the rights of the minority and fell a glorious victim to his efforts.

The Central and High School Building.

A visit to the Central and High School building this morning puts it beyond doubt that from appearances it will not be ready for occupancy next week. Mr. Alford has certainly done all in his power to have the building complete, and he hopes to have all the rooms ready, so far as his contract is concerned, by Saturday evening. He will then have the basement to complete, which will take a full week to do. Following him is Mr. Herring, who has the contract for kalsomining the walls and oiling the hardwood floors, so that everything indicates that it will be at least about the 7th or 8th of Sept. before the re-opening of the school can take place.

Consumption can be cured by the use of Shiloh's Cure. This great Cough Cure is the only known remedy for this terrible disease. Sold by Alex. Ray.

A Golden Wedding.

The Christian Guardian of this week has a complimentary reference to the golden wedding of the Rev. H. F. and Mrs. Bland at Smith's Falls on the 10th inst. Mr. Bland was the pastor of Bridge st. church in '71, '72 and '73, and although it is so long ago, many of his former congregation and other friends in this city hold Mr. and Mrs. Bland in great respect. With them the INTELLIGENCER unites in congratulations on the fiftieth anniversary of the happy event, and wishes for them many years yet of life here.

NOTHING

Gives a woman more pleasure than the possession of a quantity of good household linens.

We know the average woman's weakness in this respect, and no doubt when our buyer was making his fall purchases of Linen from the famous Brookfield Linen Co., of Belfast, Ireland, he traded largely upon woman's admiration for these beautiful goods.

We have a beautiful stock of linens—a very comprehensive stock; indeed, we question very much if we have ever been able to show so much of newness and beauty and quantity before.

THE FRUIT BUSINESS

Has developed with rapid strides in Belleville the past few years, and without any attempt at bragging we believe we have been largely influential in its steady growth.

Our fruit trade is largely a whole sale one—we supply the bulk of the fruit sold by the grocers here. It's buying in large quantities of fruit, as of anything else, that enables a dealer to give you a choice and sell you fruit at less than smaller dealers could hope to do.

JUSTICE AND LOVE.

THE TWO ASPECTS OF THE SAME QUALITIES IN ONE COURT-ROOM.

Graphic Report of a Trial For the Life of a Soul—The Indictment, the Testimony, the Summing Up and the Judgment.

Washington, Aug. 23.—The illustrations of this sermon are drawn from the scenes in a courtroom, with which Dr. Talmage became familiar when he was studying law, before he studied for the ministry. The text is I John ii, 1, "We have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ, the righteous."

Standing in a courtroom you say to yourself, "At this bar crime has often been arraigned; at this witness stand the oath has often been taken; at this jurors' bench the verdict has been rendered; at this judge's desk sentence has been pronounced." But I have to tell you to-day of a trial higher than any oyer and terminer or circuit or supreme or chancery. It is the trial of every Christian man for the life of his soul. This trial is different from any other in the fact that it is both civil and criminal.

The issues at stake are tremendous, and I shall in my sermon show you first what are the grounds of complaint, then who are the witnesses in the cause and lastly who are the advocates.

When a trial is called on, the first thing is to have the indictment read. Stand up then, O Christian man, and hear the indictment of the court of high heaven against thy soul. It is an indictment often counts, for thou hast directly or indirectly broken all the Ten Commandments. You know how it thundered on Sinai, and when God came down how the mountain rocked, and the smoke ascended as from a smoldering furnace, and the darkness gathered thick, and the loud, deep trumpet uttered the words, "The soul that sinneth it shall die!" Are you guilty or not guilty? Do not put in a negative plea too quick, for I have to announce that "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God. There is none that doeth good. No, not one. Whosoever shall keep the whole law, yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all." Do not therefore be too hasty in pronouncing yourself not guilty.

This lawsuit before us also charges you with the breaking of a solemn contract. Many a time did we promise to be the Lord's. We got down on our knees and said, "O, Lord, I am thine now and for ever." Did you keep the promise? Have you stood up to the contract? I go back to your first communion. You remember it as well as if it were yesterday. You know how the vision of the cross rose before you. You remember how from the head, and the hands, and the side, and the feet there came bleeding forth these two words, "Remember me." You recall how the cup of communion trembled in your hand when you first took it, and as in a seashell you may hear, or think you hear, the roaring of the surf even after the shell has been taken from the beach, so you lifted the cup of communion and you heard in it the surging of the great ocean of a Saviour's agony, and you came forth from that communion service with face shining as though you had been on the mount of Transfiguration, and the very air seemed tremulous with the love of Jesus, and the woods and leaves and the grass and the birds were brighter and sweeter voiced than ever before, and you said down in the very depths of your soul, "Lord, Thou knowest all things; Thou knowest that I love Thee." Have you kept the bargain, O Christian man? Have you not sometimes faltered when you ought to have been true? Have you not been proud when you ought to have been humble? Have you not played the coward when you ought to have been the hero? I charge it upon you and I charge it upon myself—we have broken the contract.

Still further. This lawsuit claims damages at your hands. The greatest slander on the Christian religion is an inconsistent professor. The Bible says religion is one thing. We, by our inconsistency, say religion is some other thing, and what is more deplorable about it is that people can see faults in others while they cannot see any in themselves. If you shall at any time find some miserable old gossip, with imperfections from the crown of her head to the sole of her foot, a perfect blotch of sin herself, she will go tattling, tattling, tatting all the years of her life about the inconsistencies of others, having no idea that she is inconsistent herself. God save the world from the gossip, female and male! I think the males are the worst. Now the chariot of Christ's salvation goes on through the world, but it is our inconsistencies, my brethren, that block up the wheels, while all along the line there ought to have been cast nothing but palm branches, and the shout should have been lifted, "Hosanna to the Son of David!"

Now, you have heard the indictment read. Are you ready to plead guilty or not guilty? Perhaps you are not ready yet to plead. Then the trial will go on. The witnesses will be called, and we shall have the matter decided. In the name of God I now make proclamation: Oyez, oyez, oyez, whosoever hath anything to offer in this trial, in which God is the plaintiff and the Christian soul the defendant, let him now step forth and give testimony in this solemn trial.

The first witness I call upon the stand in behalf of the prosecution is the world, all critical and observant of Christian character. You know that there are people around you who perpetually banquet on the frailties of God's children. You may know, if you have lived in the country, that a crow cares for nothing so much as carrion. There are those who imagine that out of the faults of Christians they can make a bridge of boats across the stream of death, and they are going to try it; but, alas, for the mistake! When they get midstream, away will go the bridge, and down will go their souls to perdition. O, world of the greedy eye and the hard heart, come on the stand now and testify in behalf of the prosecution against this Christian soul on trial. What do you know about this Christian man? "Oh," says the world, "I know a great deal about him. He talks about putting his treasures in heaven, but he is the sharpest man in a trade I ever knew. He seems to want us to believe that he is a child of God, but he is just ful lof imperfections. I do not know but I am a great deal better than he is now. Oftentimes he is very earthly, and he talks so little about Christ and so much about himself. I am very glad to testify that this is a bad man."

Stop, O, world, with the greedy eye and hard heart. I fear you are too much interested in this trial to give impartial evidence. Let all those who hear the testimony of this witness know that there is an old family quarrel between these two parties. There always has been a variance between the world and the church, and, while the world on the witness stand today has told a great deal of truth about this Christian man, you must take it all with much allowance, remembering that they still keep the old grudge good. O, world of the greedy eye and the hard heart, that will do. You may sit down.

The second witness I call in this case is conscience. Who art thou, O conscience? What is your business? Where were you born? What are you doing here? "Oh," says conscience, "I was born in heaven. I came down to befriend this man. I have lived with him. I have instructed him. I have warned him. I showed him the right and the wrong, advising him to take the one and eschew the other. I have kindled a great light in his soul. With a whip of scorpions I have scourged his wickedness, and I have tried to cheer him when doing right, and yet I am compelled to testify on the stand to-day that he has sometimes rejected my mission. Oh, how many cups of life have I pressed to his lips that he dashed down, and how often has he stood with his hard heel on the bleeding heart of the Son of God. It pains me very much that I have to testify against this Christian man, and yet I must in behalf of Him who will in no wise clear the guilty say that this Christian man has done wrong. He has done a thousand things he ought not to have done, and left undone a thousand things he ought to have done." That will do, conscience. You can sit down.

The third witness I call in the case is an angel of God. Bright and shining one, what doest thou here? What hast thou to say against this man on trial? "Oh," says the angel, "I have been a messenger to him. I have guarded him. I have watched him. With this wing I have defended him, and oftentimes, when he knew it not, I led him into green pastures and beside the still waters. I snatched from him the poisoned chalices. When bad spirits came upon him to destroy him, I fought them back with infinite fierceness, and yet I have to testify to-day that he has rejected my mission. He has not done as he ought to have done. Though I came from the sky, he drove me back. Though with this wing I defended him, and though with this voice I wooed him, I have to announce his multiplied imperfections. I dare not keep back the testimony, for then I should not dare to appear again among the sinless ones before the great white throne.

There is only one more witness to be called on behalf of the prosecution, and that is the great, the holy, the august, the omnipotent Spirit of God. We bow down before Him. Holy Spirit, knowest thou this man? "Oh, yes," says the Holy One, "I know him. I have striven with him ten thousand times, and though sometimes he did seem to repent, he fell back again as often from his first estate. Ten thousand times, ten thousand has he grieved Me, although the Bible warned him, saying: 'Grieve not the Holy Ghost. Quench not the Spirit.' Yes, he has driven Me back. Though I am the Third Person of the Trinity, he has trampled on My mission, and the blood of the atonement that I brought with which to cleanse his soul, he sometimes despised. I came from the throne of God to convert and comfort and sanctify, and yet look at that man and see what he is compared with what, unresisted, I would have made him."

The evidence on the part of the prosecution has closed. Now let the defence bring on the rebuttal testimony. What have you, O, Christian soul, to bring in reply to this evidence of the world, of the conscience, of the angel and of the Holy Ghost? No evidence? Are all these things true? "Yes. Unclean, unclean," says every Christian soul. What? Do you not begin to tremble at the thought of condemnation?

We have come now to the most interesting part of this great trial. The evidence all in, the advocates speak. The profession of an advocate is full of responsibility. In England and the United States there have arisen men who in this calling have been honored by their race and thrown contempt upon those who in the profession have been guilty of a great many meannesses. That profession will be honorable as long as it has attached to it such names as Mansfield and Marshall and Story and Kent and Southard and William Wirt. The courtroom has sometimes been the scene of very marvelous and thrilling things. Some of you remember the famous Girard will case, where one of our advocates pleaded the cause of the Bible and Christianity in masterly Anglo Saxon, every paragraph a thunderbolt.

Some of you have read of the famous trial in Westminster hall of Warren Hastings, the despoiler of India by splendid talents, by courage, by bribes, by gigantic dishonesty. The whole world has rung with applause or condemnation. Gathered in Westminster hall, a place in which 30 kings had been inaugurated, was one of the most famous audiences ever gathered. Foreign ministers and princes sat there. Peers marched in, clad in ermine and gold. Mighty men and women from all lands looked down upon the scene. Amid all that pomp and splendor, and amid an excitement such as has seldom been seen in any courtroom, Edmund Burke advanced in a speech which will last as long as the English language, concluding with this burning charge, which made Warren Hastings cringe and cower: "I impeach him in the name of the commons house of parliament, whose trust he has betrayed. I impeach him in the name of the English nation, whose ancient honor he has sullied. I impeach him in the name of the people of India, whose rights he has trampled on and whose country he has turned into a desert. And, lastly, in the name of human nature, in the name of both sexes, in the name of every age and rank, I impeach his as the common enemy and oppressor of all."

Christian soul! I think that, after all, there may be some chance for you, for the great advocate rises to make His plea. He says: "I admit all that has been proved against My client. I admit all these sins—aye, more—but look at that wounded hand of Mine and look at the other wounded hand and at My right foot and at My left foot. By all these wounds I plead for his clearance. Count all the drops of my tears. Count all the drops of my blood. By the humiliation of Bethlehem, by the sweat of Gethsemane, by the sufferings of the cross, I demand that he go free. On this arm he hath leaned, to this heart he hath flown, in my tears he hath washed on My righteousness he hath depended. Let him go free; I am hte ransom. Let him escape the lash; I took the scourgings. Let the cup pass from him; I drank it to the dregs. Put on him the crown of life, for I have worn the crown of thorns. Over against My throne of shame set his throne of triumph."

Well, the counsel on both sides have spoken, and there is only one more thing now remaining, and that is the awarding of the judgment. If you have ever been in a courtroom, you know the silence and solemnity when the verdict is about to be rendered on the judgment about to be given. About this soul on trial—shall it be saved or shall it be lost? Attention, above, around, beneath! All the universe cries, "Hear, hear!"

The judge rises and gives this decision, never to be changed, never to be revoked, "There is, therefore, now no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus."

The soul that on Jesus hath leaned for repose
I will not, I will not, desert to His foes.
That soul, though all hell should endeavor to shake,
I'll never; no, never; no, never, forsake.

But, my friends, there is coming a day of trial in which not only the saint but the sinner must appear. That day of trial will come very suddenly. The farmer will be at the plow, the merchant will be in the counting room, the woodman will be ringing his axe on the hickories, the weaver will have his foot on the treadle, the manufacturer will be walking amid the buzz of of looms and the clack of machinery, the counsel may be at the bar pleading the law, the minister may be in the pulpit pleading the gospel, the drunkard may be reeling amid his cups, and the blasphemer with the oath caught between his teeth.

Lo, the sun hides! Night comes down at midnoon. The stars appear at noon to-day. The earth shudders and throbs. There an earthquake opens and a city sinks as a crocodile would crunch a child. Mountains roll in their sockets and send down their granite cliffs in avalanche of rock. Rivers pause in their chase for the sea, and ocean uprearing cries to flying Alps and Himalayas. Beasts bellow and moan and snuff up the darkness. Clouds fly like flocks of swift eagles, Great thunders beat and boom and burst. Stars shoot and fall. The Almighty, rising on His throne, declares that time shall be no longer, and the archangel's trump repeats it till all the living hear and the continents of dead spring to their feet, crying: "Time shall be no longer!" Oh, on that day will you be ready?

I have shown you how well the Christian will get off in his trial. Will you get off as well in your trial? Will Christ plead on your side or against you? Oh, what will you do in the last great assize if your conscience is against you, and the world is against you, and the angels of heaven are against you, and the Holy Spirit is against you, and the Lord God Almighty is against you? Better this day secure an Advocate.

O.R.A. MATCHES OVER

The Royal Grenadiers Captured the Gzowski Cup.

Conclusion of the Ontario Rifle Association Meeting—Outsiders Have Beaten the City Men in Nearly All the Individual Scores—Sergt. D. Mitchell of the Thirteenth Gets Away With the Elkington Cup and N. R. A. Silver Medal for the Best Aggregate.

Toronto, Aug. 28.

The O.R.A. rifle matches were concluded yesterday. The weather continued decidedly unfavorable, the afternoon being especially dark and gloomy, and the rain falling in intermittent showers. A number of visitors, among whom were a few ladies, came out to the ranges at 2 o'clock. The band of the 48th Highlanders came with the visitors, and rendered many of their choicest selections. Ald. Lamb attended as a substitute for the Mayor and representative of the city, and when the shooting was concluded presented the winners with the various handsome trophies. The scoring resulted as follows:

Dont Play . .
With Two Kinds of Fire!
You insure against one kind, don't risk that by another kind—like newfangled insurance schemes. They may be all right, but you don't know it very much. They haven't been merited like the Liverpool, London & Globe Insurance Company; pay a good, honest price for secure insurance. We have that kind and the records prove it.

THOSE STATE PAPERS

About Which Sir Charles and Mr. Laurier Had a Spat.

Lord Aberdeen Was Apprehensive for the Interests of the New Government—Arguments Used by His Excellency and the Ex-Premier as to the Proper Course to be Pursued in Regard to Supplies and the Appointments Recommended.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—(Special.)—A grave constitutional issue is raised by the correspondence which passed between Lord Aberdeen and Sir Charles Tupper a day or two previous to the retirement of the late Ministry. This correspondence was presented to Parliament this afternoon.

First of all there is a memorandum to the Prime Minister for himself and colleagues from Lord Aberdeen, dated July 4. The memorandum reads: "Until July 7 as at present arranged it is not likely that we shall know whether or not you deem the results of the general election decisive against the Government, nor do I know to what extent these results may be modified by that date which you name as final in this regard.

"After taking every means in my power to inform myself it is impossible for me to ignore the possibility that in the event of your deciding to meet Parliament the present administration will fail to secure the support of the House of Commons. This hypothesis seems to me to have important bearings. In the first place, the business to be transacted by Parliament, though foreseen and not in character exceptional, is urgent. Supplies for public service are already entirely exhausted. This contingency was in view when the date of the meeting of Parliament was fixed. It is in the public interest that that Parliament should meet on as early a day as possible and be able to proceed with the business forthwith. Again, in regard to the various recommendations, which in detail or by inference we discussed on Thursday, and in regard to all business which is not urgent, and yet outside the routine administrative requirements, the assumption that the Government has failed to secure the confidence of the electorate at the polls leaves undiminished, indeed increases the stringency of the limitations of an already somewhat peculiar position. Let me explain my meaning. The circumstances are these: The previous administration (with Sir Mackenzie Bowell as Prime Minister), representing the views of the same political party and having a majority in both chambers, failed to pass its proposed legislation and on April 25 Parliament expired by efflux of time without having granted supplies for the public service beyond June 30. Subsequently, when no Parliament was or could be under the circumstances in existence, the present administration was formed. So far, therefore, as these are dependent upon the subsequent approval of Parliament the acts of the present administration are in an unusual degree provisional, and as the powers of an administration undoubtedly full and unrestricted must surely always be used with discretion their exercise would seem to be rightly limited, under such circumstances as present to the transaction of all necessary public business, while it is further a duty to avoid all acts which may embarrass the succeeding Government.

"On this ground, I would ask your further consideration of some of the recommendations which we discussed incidentally on Thursday. On this ground, too, I felt obliged to withhold an expression of my acquiescence to your suggestion as to the appointment of Senators or judges (you have since laid before me certain recommendations as to Senatorships which are vacant.) These are life appointments, and with them, under such circumstances as the present, it would seem proper to leave all other life appointments and creations of all new officers and appointments for the consideration of the incoming Ministers, unless always such a course is shown to be contrary to the public interest. In the case of the Senate, which consists of 78 members, it is to be noted also that there are said to be now no more than five Senators who are Liberals. And it may well be urged that to aggravate this inequality at the present time would not only tend to embarrass probably the successors of this Government, but to increase the risk of friction between the two chambers of the legislature.

"In the case of judges, I will only add that, bearing in mind the ordinary length of their tenure of office and also the long political predominance of one political party in the Dominion Parliament, the current deduction as to the complexion of political opinions represented upon the bench, whether baseless or well founded, is not unnatural.

"As to the remaining recommendations which are before me, and generally as to other business of similar nature, all seem to me to be subject to the same governing consideration. Whatever business can wait without detriment to public interest may properly do so. There is a recommendation of a refund of money which requires the sanction of Parliament. Such recommendations will have to be placed before Parliament by the Ministers of the day, and you may perhaps consider that they may be left to be dealt with by these Ministers. In Mr. Payne's case my special concern is indicated in the latter part of the memorandum of the Governor-General's secretary of June 10, where the question is asked whether this appointment is in accordance with the statutes and regulations which govern such cases; i.e., whether it infringes upon an existing law, under which circumstances it, with all other cases of a similar kind, if there be any such, cannot properly receive sanction. I mention another case, viz.: The recommendation of an officer to the post of assistant superintendent of the cartridge factory at Quebec. This position has been vacant for two years. It seems, therefore, desirable to reserve it, with any similar recommendations as to vacancies of long duration, for the consideration of the incoming Government unless this course can be shown to be detrimental to the public interest.

"One other matter remains to which you asked my attention yesterday and which it may be convenient that I should mention here. I refer to your remarks on the memoranda which I have from time to time forwarded for the consideration of council. I have carefully considered these remarks, and my conclusions and observations are as follows: 'On reference to the books of the Governor-General's office, I find that memoranda sent by my predecessor are similar in form to those which I have caused to be sent. As to the recording of such communications, this has evidently been done in the past. My own experience certainly makes me think that this is proper and desirable, and contributes to the continuity of the Government. As to the accessibility of such papers to successive Cabinets, it must be borne in mind that, whether specifically so considered or not, all such papers are essentially confidential. Their contents are made known only to those who are bound by oath of secrecy, and they cannot be laid before Parliament except with the consent of the Governor-General. I fail, therefore, to see that there has lately been any departure from the precedent or from the practice in this matter. These observations would indicate to you in the meatime the result of such consideration as I have so far been able to give to the business now before me.

"(Signed) Aberdeen."

Next comes the memorandum of Sir Charles Tupper to the Governor-General, dated July 6, which reads as follows: "I have carefully considered Your Excellency's memorandum, dated July 4, received at 1 p.m. to-day, which I must frankly say has caused my colleagues and myself much surprise and regret. So soon as Your Excellency returned to the Capital (the 2nd inst.) I had the honor of waiting upon you and discussing the present condition of affairs caused by the general election which took place on the 23rd June. At that time I submitted a memorandum of precedence, indicating the practice followed in England and Canada on the defeat of a government. I explained that the division of parties was very close and might be materially affected by the re-counts, which were to take place within a few days, as there were a large number of elections in which the parties had been declared elected by a very small majority. I suggested that the discussion of the course to be pursued by the Government should be deferred until after the re-counts had taken place, to which Your Excellency assented. As Your Excellency had not returned, a large number of the minutes of the council, which had been sent for your approval, both before and since the elections were held, I submitted for your consideration a memorandum of appointments made by the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie between the date of his defeat of the 17th of Sept., 1878, and his resignation on the 16th October, following. Your Excellency intimated the intention of asking me further to confer with you on the following day, after you had had an opportunity of perusing the papers to which I have referred. Your Excellency subsequently postponed that interview until the morning of Saturday, the 4th inst., and to-day favored me with the memorandum, to which I have the honor to reply.

"Your Excellency says that the supplies for the public service being exhausted, it is in the public interest that Parliament should meet as early as possible. You say that 'The previous Administration (with Sir Mackenzie Bowell as Prime Minister), representing the views of the same political party, and having a majority in both chambers, failed to pass its proposed legislation and on the 25th of April Parliament expired by efflux of time, without having granted the supplies for the public service beyond the 30th June.

"Subsequently, when no Parliament was, or could be, under the circumstances, in existence, the present Administration was formed. So far, therefore, as these are dependent upon the subsequent approval of Parliament, the acts of this Administration are in an unusual degree provisional.' Your Excellency is aware that the failure to pass the supplies in the usual manner for the now current year was due to the fact that the life of Parliament terminated on the 25th of April, and that the Opposition took advantage of that circumstance to pursue a course of unparalleled obstruction, which enabled them to prevent any legislation being carried through by the Government, although it had the support of a large majority of the House of Commons, and that the day of the next meeting of Parliament was fixed at the earliest possible moment, that it could safely be done.

"Your Excellency says: 'In regard to the various recommendations which, in detail or by inference, we discussed on Thursday and in regard to all business which is not urgent, and yet outside routine administration requirements, the assumption that the Government has failed to secure the confidence of the electorate at the polls leaves undiminished, indeed increases, the stringency of the limitations of an already somewhat peculiar position.'

"Your Excellency further says: 'As the powers of an administration undoubtedly full and unrestricted must surely always be used with discretion their exercise seems to be rightly limited under such circumstances as then present to the transaction of all necessary public business, while it is further a duty to avoid all acts which may embarrass a succeeding government.'

"On this ground Your Excellency says that you feel obliged to withhold the expression of any acquiescence in my recommendations as to the appointment of senators or judges. You observe these are life appointments, and with them, under such circumstances as the present, it would seem proper to leave all other life appointments and the creation of all new offices and appointments for the consideration of the incoming ministers, unless always such a course is shown to be contrary to the public interest.

"Your Excellency goes on to remark: 'In the case of the Senate, which consists of 78 members, it is to be noted also that there are said to be now no more than five senators who are Liberals,' and further: 'In the case of judges, I will only add that, bearing in mind the ordinary length of their tenure of office and also the long political predominance of one political party in the Dominion Parliament, the current deduction as to the complexion of the political opinions represented upon the bench, whether baseless or well-founded, is not unnatural.'

"I should fail in my duty to Your Excellency, as well as to the principles which govern the administration of public affairs in Canada, where Parliamentary government is caried on precisely as it is in England, if I did not draw your attention to the very serious consequences of the views which you have indicated as guiding your action on the present occasion. The recognized authorities on parliamentary law and the practice, both in England and in Canada, have, I contend, settled these questions beyond dispute.

Sir Charles then quotes from Todd's "Parliamentary Government in England" in support of his contention; also calls His Excellency's attention to the case which arose in New Zealand in 1891, as set forth in an official return to the Imperial Government, to which Lord Knutsford, in reply, sustains the view that a defeated Ministry has a right to carry on the Government until their successors are appointed. Sir Charles then proceeds:

"No question, therefore, can possibly arise as to the British constitutional practice in regard to the right of a defeated Ministry to carry on the public business until their successors are appointed, and to fill any vacancies that may exist. Lord Salisbury was not precluded from the creation of additional peers, although the disparity between the Liberals and the Conservatives in the House of Lords was at least as great as that which exists in the Senate here.

"But to put the question beyond controversy, I have only to call Your Excellency's attention to the fact that the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie, after his defeat in 1878 by a majority between 80 and 90 in the House of Commons, secured the approval of Lord Dufferin, then Governor-General of Canada, to 180 minutes of council, being all that were submitted to him, without any exception, of which 82 were appointments to office, including a Deputy-Minister, a judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, four puisne judges and a county court judge.

"In reference to Your Excellency's statement respecting the Canadian judiciary, I am glad to be able to say that in Canada, as in England, our judges are neither Liberal nor Conservative. Nor can they in any sense be said to represent political opinion on the bench. I do not know upon what sources of information Your Excellency may have relied, but in this case, at all events, you will find them exceedingly untrustworthy. In the sense of referring to the political party to which the judge belongs at the time of his appointment, I may call Your Excellency's attention to the fact that the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Sir Henry Strong, and the present Mr. Justice Taschereau were appointed by Mr. Mackenzie, and that in Ontario, the present Chief Justice Armour, Mr. Justice McLennan, Mr. Justice Burton, Mr. Justice MacMahon and County Court Judges Jones, Ross, Price, Bell, Senkler, Wilkinson, Burnham, Pingle, and Dean; in the Province of Quebec, Mr. Justice Taschereau, Mr. Justice Jette, Mr. Justice Burgois, Mr. Justice Caron, Mr. Justice Belanger and Mr. Justice Plaondon; in Nova Scotia, Mr. Justice Weatherbee and County Court Judges Johnstone, Desbrisay, Morse and McIsaac; in Manitoba, Chief Justice Taylor, and Mr. Justice Killam; in New Brunswick, County Court Judge Steadman, and in Prince Edward Island, County Court Judge Alley, all belonged to the Liberal party, when appointed to the bench.

"In relation to the recommendations for the Senate, I may say that Your Excellency is aware that Messrs. Angers and Desjardins resigned their seats in the Upper House in order to place their services at the disposal of the Crown, and have thus an undoubted claim to special consideration. I may also be permitted to draw Your Excellency's attention to the fact that during the five years Mr. Mackenzie was Prmeier, he met with no lack of support from the Senate, except on two occasions. On those occasions he failed to obtain the assistance of some of his most prominent supporters in the House of Commons, and subsequently I myself heard him frankly admit that in these two instances the Senate was right and he was wrong. The retention of the confidence of the country by the Senate, in my judgment, will depend much more upon the character and attainments of the gentlemen who are appointed to it than upon their political convictions at the time of their appointment.

"I may venture to remind Your Excellency that the exigencies of the public service and the difficulties to which you have alluded have been caused by the obstruction of public business by the Opposition, notwithstanding that the Government of which I was the leader in the House of Commons had the support of a large majority of that House. At that time the unfortunate circumstances to which I have referred enabled comparatively few persons to prevent any legislation or public business being done by the House. Had the Opposition in Canada adopted the course followed in the Imperial Parliament in 1892, when the Opposition voted the estimates for the year and expedited public business, no such difficulty could have presented itself, and I fail to see why such obstruction on the part of the Opposition should entitle them to the special consideration of the Crown.

"With reference to the inquiries which Your Excellency has from time to time thought fit to address to the Clerk of the Privy Council, I can only re-state my impression that such information in times past has been sought and obtained by the Governor-General through communication with His Prime Minister, or the Minister directly concerned, rather than by means of official memoranda which become part of the records of council.

"In conclusion, I may be permitted to say to Your Excellency, that under the British constitutional system, which Canada has the happiness to enjoy, the Queen's representative, like Her Majesty, is the executive head of the country, removed from the arena of political controversy, however fierce the conflict of parties may be, and in my judgment no more fatal mistake could be made than any interposition in the management of public affairs which would cause the Governor-General to be identified with either one party or the other. Adhering respectfully but firmly to the opinions I have ventured to express in this memorandum, which, I regret to find, do not agree with those of Your Excellency, it remains only for me to tender the resignation of my colleagues and myself, and to ask that we may be relieved from our responsibilities as ministers of the Crown at the earliest convenience of Your Excellency.

"(Signed) Charles Tupper."

Privy Council Chamber, Ottawa, July 6, 1896.

Then comes a further memo of the Governor-General's in further reference to the Governor-General's memorandum of July 4 and Sir Charles Tupper's memorandum of July 6.

"My action at the present time has been guided solely by a regard for the following facts, namely, that:

"(1) Parliament expired on April 25;

"(2) The result of the general elections on June 23 was the defeat of the Government;

"(3) The supplies for the public service came to an end on June 30, and by the view that, pending the assembly of Parliament, the full powers and authority unquestionably possessed by the Government should be exercised in such directions only as are demanded by the exigencies of the public interest and so as to avoid all acts which may tend to embarrass the succeeding administration.

"July 9, 1896. (Signed) Aberdeen."

On July 8, Capt. Sinclair, Governor-General's secretary, wrote to the Privy Council: "The undersigned is directed by the Governor-General to request that, pending their further consideration by council, His Excellency's approval be withheld from all recommendations which involve:

"(1) The creation of new offices or appointments;

"(2) The filling of vacancies for which no provision has been made by Parliament and which have existed for more than one clear fiscal year;

"(3) Superannuations (and the con-

A further memo from Sinclair, dated July 11, says: "Four hundred and fifty-three submissions to His Excellency the Governor-General between June 23 and July 8, 1896, and approved.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

The Liberals are Discharging Civil Employes Who Worked in the Last Election—May Prove a Boomerang.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—(Special.)—Mr. Speaker notified the House of Commons to-day that he had issued his warrant for a writ for a bye-election in Saskatchewan.

Among the petitions presented was one from Toronto, asking Parliament to make a grant towards the proposed International Exposition of 1897, as foreshadowed. The Speaker ruled it out of order, inasmuch as it asks an expenditure of public money and ought not to be received. The petition accordingly went into the waste-basket.

Mr. Laurier presented the correspondence between the Governor-General and Sir Charles Tupper, touching the appointments by the late Government.

Sir C. H. Tupper introduced a bill to amend the Dominion Elections Act. The object is to incorporate a clause from the English act, which provides that any one who, during an election, makes or publishes attacks on the personal character of a candidate is guilty of a corrupt practice.

On the suggestion to take Wednesday evenings and the whole of Thursdays for Government business, after some discussion, Mr. Laurier compromised by taking Thursdays only.

In reply to a suggestion by Mr. Foster, the Finance Minister explained that the estimates brought down were the same as those prepared by the late Government last session, except where there had been a cutting down. The Government would ask the House to vote these moneys, and reserve to itself the right only to spend so much of it as might be needed.

On motion to go into supply, a discussion arose on the subject of official dismissals for political reasons.

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper brought up the question by referring to the dismissal of two fishery officers in Nova Scotia without trial or investigation.

Mr. Davies replied that he needed no investigation, as the facts of these officers' partisanship at the last election had been proven to him by persons of credibility. He laid down the principle that the price of active political partisanship should be dismissal in the case of the defeat of their party.

Mr. Lister wanted all the secret service officers of Inland Revenue dismissed, also Captain Boyd of the Soo Canal and other officers.

Mr. Clancy, in an excellent speech, pointed out that hordes of provincial officials constituted the election machine in Ontario.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Sutherland, McDougall, Devlin and Britton.

Mr. E. F. Clarke, in a vigorous speech, called attention to the action of the Ontario Government in allowing its officials to take active part in Federal politics. He cited the case of Ald. Preston of Toronto, who had contested West Toronto in the Liberal interest and after his defeat had been reappointed Provincial Librarian. If the new Government intend to make wholesale dismissals from the public service, he believed such action would recoil on their own heads. (Hear, hear.)

The debate was continued by Messrs. Ingram, Yeo, Borden, Davin, Bennett and Domville.

Mr. Bell moved the adjournment of the debate at 11.30.

Healthy Old Age

is the result of careful living. Keeping the blood pure and the body free from even minor ailments adds years of enjoyment to one's life. The trouble with most of us nowadays is, that we live too rapidly. We are in such a hurry to go some place, or do some thing, that the care of our bodily health is wofully neglected. Nature never pardons neglect. Her laws must be respected, or punishment ensues.

A man may abuse his stomach for a time, but after awhile dyspepsia comes and liver complaints and kidney troubles. These things develop all the latent weakness in his body. They make digestion imperfect, they prevent proper assimilation, proper secretion of the digestive fluids and the proper excretion of refuse matter. Probably the last is most important of all, for poisonous matter in bowels, liver and kidneys soon gets into the blood and so is carried all over the body. There is no telling where such things will stop.

In the beginning, a little common sense and a simple, natural remedy is all that is needed. Even when the trouble has progressed to serious stages, a simple, scientific remedy working strongly with Nature—soothing, stimulating, invigorating, the organs of digestion, will have a wonderful effect on the whole body. There is really nothing wonderful about it. The blood is all made in the digestive organs. If they are healthy and strong, the blood is the same and it makes every part of the body strong.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery puts the digestive organs into perfect condition. It makes them capable of performing perfectly all their functions. It increases the power of assimilation and so makes good, solid healthy flesh. A book telling all about it (1000 pages) will be sent free on receipt of 31 cents in stamps to prepay postage and duty only. World's Dispensary Medical Association. Buffalo. N. Y

Daily Intelligencer.

HOW OWEN SOUND WAS "MESMERIZED."

The inducements under which the electors of Owen Sound, who gave a Conservative majority of 99 on June 23rd, were induced to give a Liberal majority of 133 two months later, are set forth not only in the notorious speech of Provincial Premier Hardy and other utterances of similar character by the Government partizans, but are also contained in the following circular, which was freely circulated on behalf of Hon. Mr. Paterson during the campaign:

"The Government, in its friendly disposition towards Owen Sound and North Grey, has offered us a Cabinet Minister to represent us and look after our interests."

"Suppose we refuse to elect the Hon. Mr. Paterson, what position would we be in were we to approach the Government for aid towards the development of our town, and what would be our chance of success with the Government if we did make such a request of them?"

"Let us not forget that Collingwood is watching the result of this election with deep interest. That town is our rival, and if we send to Parliament a Government opponent, Collingwood, being represented by Mr. McCarthy, who is friendly to the Government, will profit at our expense."

"Represented by a Minister, with the Government on our side, Owen Sound will rapidly come to the front, become a populous, flourishing city, and be to Ontario what Buffalo is to New York. Shall we, then, lose this opportunity which, once gone, will be an injury to ourselves and our children after us?"

This appeal to local greed, accompanied by a lavish distribution of $5 and $10 bills among the needy of the whole country side, had the desired effect.

The circular quoted is an example of how our Grit rulers propose to "elevate the standard of political morality." By the standard which they set the people will judge them.

Horses, cattle and sheep are often suffering from louse. Try a bottle of PASTORINI and you will be surprised with the result. This ointment is also used with wonderful effect in the destruction of hornflies.

PROFESSION vs PRACTICE.

PROFESSION.	PRACTICE.
Toronto Globe, Aug. 26, 1896.	Hon. A. S. Hardy, Premier of Ontario, Aug. 23, 1896.
Under Liberal Government the public moneys of Canada will not be expended according to the political complexion of the constituencies. This view was repeatedly expressed while the Liberal party was in Opposition, and we can see no valid reason why it should be held less firmly now.	"I am not talking politics but business. I want to ask you what have you Owen Sounders to lose by electing Mr. Paterson? What have you to gain by electing Mr. McLauchlan? (Cries of Nothing.) You say nothing. That is the point you must keep before you. Do you want a shrivelling commerce and a decaying population, a lessening sphere of influence, or do you want the opposite? Is Owen Sound to stagnate for five years to come or perhaps ten years to come, or will you have the sympathy of the Government at your back? You will not in any event get less than justice, but to have the active sympathy of a Government is one thing and to have only cold justice is quite another thing."

BRYAN'S ORATORY.

Mr. W. J. Bryan, the boy orator of the Platte, whose now famous eructation of explosive eloquence, about crucifying mankind upon a "cross of gold" was supposed to be the inspiration of the "passionate" audience that he stood before at Chicago, is, says a contemporary, in the habit of painfully preparing every speech of importance that he delivers. So much so that the phrase in question is found to have been pirated from several sources. It has already been shown that not only had an American statesman aired it several years before, but that Bryan himself had been guilty of doing so in the House of Congress. Now comes the revelation that the expression was coined long ago by Sir, then Mr., Howard Vincent, in the British House of Commons, during a debate on the "exclusion of prison-made goods." "Does the President of the Board of Trade," asked Sir Howard, "desire to crucify the British working men upon a prison-made brush?"

You cannot say that you have tried everything for your rheumatism, until you have taken Ayer's Pills. Hundreds have been cured of this complaint by the use of these Pills alone. They were admitted on exhibition at the World's Fair as a standard cathartic.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

All the speculations indulged in by the quid nunes as to the leadership of the Opposition have been settled by the selection of Sir Charles Tupper. The veteran leader of the Conservative party is a splendid fighter and will discharge his onerous duties in a very able manner.

"If," says Mr. McKinley in his formal acceptance of the Republican nomination for the Presidency of the United States, "the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of sixteen ounces of silver to one ounce of gold would, as some of its advocates assert, make fifty-three cents in silver worth one hundred cents and the silver dollar equal to the gold dollar, then we would have no cheaper money than now, and it would be no easier to get. But that such would be the result is against reason and is contradicted by reason in all times and in all lands. It means the debasement of our currency to the amount of the difference between the commercial and coin value of the silver dollar which is ever changing, and the effect would be to reduce property values, entail untold financial loss, destroy confidence, impair the obligations of existing contracts, further impoverish the laborers and producers of the country, create a panic of unparalleled severity and inflict upon trade and commerce a deadly blow." These are wise words, and, unless our neighbors have lost their usual keen sense of business, the man who stands by them must win.

For depression of spirits, nervousness and general weakness, Miller's Compound Iron Pills are a sure cure. 50 doses, 25 cents. Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st.

WHEN OTHERS FAIL.

DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS RESTORE HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

A WELL-KNOWN YOUNG LADY IN NAPANEE GIVES HER EXPERIENCE—SO WEAK THAT SHE COULD NOT GO UP STAIRS WITHOUT RESTING—HER FRIENDS THOUGHT SHE WAS IN CONSUMPTION—NOW THE PICTURE OF HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

From the Beaver, Napanee, Ont.

Among the young ladies of Napanee there is none better known or more highly esteemed than Miss Mary L. Byrnes. Indeed her acquaintance and popularity covered a more extended field, as she is a travelling saleslady for the Robinson Corset Co., and has many customers on her route, which extends from Oshawa to Ottawa. How this young lady happens to be the subject of this article is due to the fact that she has recently undergone a most remarkable change through the use of those wonderful little messengers of health, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When the reporter of the Beaver called to make enquiry into her cure, he was met at the door by the young lady herself, whose rosy cheeks and healthy appearance gave no indication that she had undergone a prolonged illness.

The reporter mentioned h's mission and found Miss Byrnes quite willing to tell the particulars of what she termed "an escape from death." In reply to the query "what have Dr. Williams' Pink Pills done for you?" she replied, "why, they have done wonders. I feel like a new woman. For eight years I was weak and miserable, and at times I could not walk. I was greatly troubled with indigestion, and frequently could not keep anything on my stomach, not even a glass of milk. I had dizzy spells, severe headaches, and my complexion was of a yellowish hue. My kidneys also troubled me, and in fact I was all aches and pains. In going up a flight of stairs I had either to be assisted up, or would have to rest several times before I reached the top. At times my hands and feet would have no more warmth in them than lumps of ice. On one occasion while stopping at an hotel in Kingston, after waiting on a number of my customers I fell down in a faint. The landlord found me in this condition and sent for a doctor, who, after bringing me back to consciousness, gave me medicine to take. He told me that my system was so badly run down that it was imperative that I should have absolute rest. His medicine had no beneficial effect that I could see and I tried a number of other doctors, with no better results. I became so low that I cared for neither work nor pleasure, and my friends thought I had gone into consumption. It was at this juncture that I determined to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and my appearance to-day will show you what a wonderful change they have wrought in me. I continued taking the Pink Pills for three months, and before discontinuing them every ache and pain had disappeared. I cannot speak too highly of this wonderful medicine, and I am eager to let the fact be known for the benefit of other sufferers."

Mrs. Byrnes was present during the interview and strongly endorsed what her daughter said, adding that she believed they had saved her life.

The experience of years has proved that there is absolutely no disease due to a vitiated condition of the blood or shattered nerves, that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will not promptly cure, and those who are suffering from such troubles would avoid much misery and save money by promptly resorting to this treatment. Get the genuine Pink Pills every time and do not be persuaded to take an imitation or some other remedy from a dealer, who for the sake of extra profit to himself, may say is "just as good." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure when other medicines fail.

NEW OFFICIALS.

The Grand Trunk Appoints Several Assistant Engineers.

H. B. Hollinshead, assistant engineer of the Middle Division of the Grand Trunk, has gone to Montreal with the plans of the new car shops, to be erected in London.

The following new assistant engineers have been appointed by the Grand Trunk management: William McNab, Robert Armour, Eastern Division; W. P. Chapman, Northern Division; W. B. Hollinshead, Middle Division; and George Masson, Western Division.

A City Beneath the Water.

It is a fact well-known to the geologists and the geographical sharps that the whole crust of the earth is in a state of constant agitation, changing its level first in one place and then in another. In some places this change sinks whole leagues of coast line, and in others it causes immense islands to rise above the ocean's surface.

One curious result of some old-time sinking of a portion of a continent may be seen in the Arabian sea, not far from the mouth of the Indus. At that place it is well-known that a drowned city lies at the bottom of the sea. When the waters are clear the great stone houses and the peaks and minarets of temples may be plainly seen only a few fathoms beneath the surface. No one knows when the city sunk, there not being even so much as a tradition of the awful calamity in the folklore of the people of that vicinity.—St. Louis Republic.

Wonderful Aids

Diamond Dyes Conduce to Modern Home Comfort.

The present generation of women are blessed with privileges and aids that our grandparents never enjoyed. Among the many important aids in the family the Diamond Dyes hold a high and important place.

Formerly, the dyeing operation was a tedious, hard and doubtful job. To-day a dress, cape, jacket, coat, pants or vest can be colored and made to look as good as new at a very small cost.

When troubles arise in home dyeing, it is because you have allowed your dealer to sell you dyes that are crude and dangerous to use—vile imitations of the popular Diamond Dyes. When the Diamond Dyes are used your work is accomplished in a few minutes, and you are certain of the best results.

Successful home dyeing can only result when you use Diamond Dyes; long years of severe testing have proved this fact.

THE HOUSEHOLD WORLD

NOTHING LIKE UNTO IT.

Borax Is Pre-eminently a Valuable Household Remedy.

No one article within our reach possesses the virtues of borax for general purposes in the household.

Chemically speaking borax is a salt, and in appearance closely resembles table salt. It also has similar preservative qualities, and is equally harmless in its effects on the system. It differs, however, from common salt in being a biborate of sodium instead of a chloride.

Borax is produced by that wonderful process of nature crystallization, and in appearance is white and translucent.

As a simple domestic remedy for the many ailments of the household borax is unrivaled. If the eyes, from exposure to the light, cold or other causes are weak or inflamed, a daily washing with a mild solution of borax will strengthen and cool them. For sore throat and hoarseness, a small quantity of powdered, dissolved in the mouth and swallowed is effective.

A cold in the head can be relieved by snuffing powdered borax freely, and the same treatment will be found excellent for catarrah in the head.

Acidity of the stomach can be corrected by taking a small pinch of borax several times a day.

Borax applied to canker spots inside the tongue, or used as a wash for a sore mouth will effect a speedy cure. The bites of insects, as well as summer rashes will cease to give pain if bathed in a solution of borax, which is quite as efficacious in curing burns, scalds and other hurts of the family.

For a wound, borax is nature's best remedy, being antiseptic, disinfectant, emollient and safe to use in every way.

Corns and bunions may be cured by wetting frequently with a strong solution of borax, and tender feet relieved from itching and burning by the same application. Being cleanly, cooling and sedative in its effects, borax may be relied upon as useful in almost every ill of the household, and should always be kept on hand for emergencies.—Eliza E. Parker. in San Francisco Call.

Caring for Baby.

Almost more important than the food itself is the regularity with which it is given. A child should be fed and put to bed at exactly the same time every day. Indeed the wise mother who wishes to carry her baby through a summer in a city will have her routine for each day, to which she will adhere as strictly as the soldier to military rule.

Heat rash should never be neglected, as it may develop into eczema and even ulcers

If hives appear, as they so often do in hot weather, a solution of cooking soda in water is one of the very best remedies. If it, however, prove inadequate, diluted vinegar will often allay the irritation.

The judicious mother will also look well to it that the little system is never allowed to become clogged even for a few hours. A small dose of ipecac or castor oil, or what the physician strongly emphasized as being too little resorted to by mothers, an enema of lukewarm water may often prevent a serious illness. Mothers should at all times upon the slightest indisposition examine the throat to see that nothing is wrong there.

A case of sudden attack of croup may usually be relieved by placing a sponge wrung out of hot water on the throat, and giving a small dose (five drops) of ipecac. This dose should be repeated until the child vomits, which brings instant relief.—Chicago Record.

A Regimen for Growing Girls.

In San Francisco a new crusade has been started. The luncheon of the average school child is the object of reform, and Dr. Charlotte B. Brown is the crusader. Dr. Brown has devoted time and energy to the investigation of the luncheon problem. She discovered that the deadly pickle and the fatal cake were the favorite noonday regimen for growing girls somewhat along these lines:

"1. Rising early enough to fill one's lungs with pure air after a suitable toilet, a cheerful, generous breakfast of material chosen on which to do four good hours' work before noon—that is, some home duty, a brisk walk to school, with three hours of study. 2. A warm lunch, even if but a cup of cocoa or hot milk or a bowl of soup warmed up, with the lunch-basket meal. 3. The great need of exercise, and besides the morning duties an hour at least after school should be given to out-of-door sports. 4. No study allowed after 9 p.m., and every girl of 15 years should be asleep at 9.30 p.m., a later hour being permitted on Friday and Saturday nights only."

To Remove Warts.

Don't torture your children, cows, horses and other helpless creatures by removing warts by tying, cutting, burning or with acids or caustic, or any of the barbarous and inhuman methods recommended by so many. It is a needless cruelty.

A simple, cheap, effective and absolutely painless method is to keep the wart, be it large or small, saturated, or at least wet it two or three times each day, with sweet oil or castor oil. In a short time the warts shrink and drop off themselves, leaving no scar.

It is quite possible, though I cannot say with certainty, having never tried it, that linseed or other oils, or even lard would answer as well. I am inclined to think that it would. The most obstinate cases yield to castor oil from two to three weeks, others much sooner, and the warts do not grow again, as is sometimes the case after the use of a knife, caustic, or acids. No sore is made, if the wart is not pulled off, and if the application of the oil is omitted or forgotten for a day or two, the cure is retarded, that is all.—Farm, Field and Fireside.

To Stop Bleeding.

To stop the bleeding of a cut or wound dip a cloth in turpentine and bind the wound.

Old Physician—What! You called in Dr. Blank during my absence? Why, he's just out of college.

Patient—Indeed! He certainly is not a young man.

Old Physician—No, he's of middle age; but it's plain to see he's new to this business. Why, I saw him this very morning looking sadly depressed just because he had lost a patient.—New York Weekly.

"Isn't that sort of work very confining?" asked the visitor who had been permitted to go into the room where the bank note engravers were at work.

"Sometimes it is, ma'am," answered the pale-faced artist whom she addressed. "I am personally acquainted with a man who did a job of this kind once without orders, and he was confined seven years for it, ma'am."—Chicago Tribune.

It is actual merit that has given Hood's Sarsaparilla the first place among medicines. It is the one true blood purifier and nerve tonic.

IF YOUR EYES

Need medical treatment we won't sell you glasses simply to make a sale—and let your headache continue until you find the true cause from some one else. If you simply need glasses we will tell you so and provide the remedy. But if there is the remotest need for the more thorough work of an oculist, we'll also tell you so—and charge nothing for the discovery. We correct all non-organic eye defects.

Brief Notes of the Happenings in the Arena of Legitimate Sport.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Lowered His Record.

The pacing stallion Furioso, owned by A. L. Philp, Colborne, reduced his record to 2:17¼ at Stratford on August 27th in a fourth heat.

Greatest Trotters of the Year Meet.

Boston, Aug. 27.—The crack trotters brought the crowd to the breeders' track at Readville this afternoon.

When the free-for-all trot began, Kentucky Union led the betting at $100, Fantasy bringing $75, Beuzetta $30, Onoqua and William Penn $10 each. The famous quintette scored down with Beuzetta at the pole, but a break almost at the start left her behind. Kentucky Union made her usual rush for the lead and was at the half in 1.05¼, with Fantasy the only one near her. Coming home Geers called on the tall mare from Buffalo and she outfooted her chestnut opponent by a neck in 2:09. This was a slow first heat for Kentucky Union and the track evidently anchored the fleet Missouri trotter. She flew away in front for the second heat, was at the half in 1:04¼ and put up a better fight when Fantasy challenged her again. The latter gained steadily from the seventh furlong and they went under the wire on almost even terms. Fantasy caught the eye of the judges first, but Geers himself thought Kentucky Union was ahead, and the crowd hooted the announcement that gave the decision to the bay mare. The clip had increased to 2:08¼ in this mile and Kentucky Union was equal to a still-faster effort. She set a more lively pace in the third heat, the quarter in :31¾, the half in 1:03¾ and three-quarter in 1:35¾. This was too much for Fantasy and when she was called on to close the gap the soft streak came uppermost, while the gamer mare kept on resolutely and had an open length to the good in 2:07¾.

It seemed scarcely possible that the few drops of rain that fell before the next heat would stop proceedings, but the drivers agreed that the footing was so slippery it would be risky to go on. Summaries:

2:16 class, pacing; purse $2,000—Lantana, 3, 8, 1, 1, 1; Kentucky Star, 2, 1, 2, 4, 2; Robert R., 1, 6, 6, 5, 3; Brooks, 4, 2, 8, 2, 7; Pussy Cat, 6, 5, 3, 3, 5; Dalgetty, 8, 3, 4, 9, 4; Allendora, 9, 4, 9, 7, 9; Guy Wonder, 5, 7, 7, 6, 6; Calypso, 7, 9, 5, 8, 8. THE GUN.

The shooting match at 200 live birds for $250 a side, decided on the grounds of the Hollywood Gun Club, New York, on Thursday, between Edgar Murphy and T. W. Morfey, of Paterson, N.J., was won by the former by eight birds, the total killed being 188 to 180. Murphy was in fine form and was a winner from the outset.

THE WHEEL.

Angus McLeod will not do any more bicycle riding for a time. The Racing Board have suspended him from riding until Sept. 20 on account of ungentlemanly conduct on the track. The incident referred to is that by which McLeod got into trouble at the London meet.

QUOITING.

At Woodstock, on the 27th, Frank Claus won fifth prize. Lawson, of Brampton, won first, defeating champion Kitchen by 41 to 38.

Light Overcoats.

The cold wave we have lately experienced shows the positive necessity of being the owner of a light overcoat. We will have plenty of such weather (and colder) later on, and one of Oak Hall's $10.00 top coats will fill the bill. Keep this in mind.

Police Court.

John Hurst was charged with assaulting Patrick Burns. Case settled by deft. paying $2 costs.

John O'Connell, fighting on the street. $2 fine and $2 costs.

David Walsh, of Tyendinaga, was charged by Daniel Callaghan with assault, abusive language, non-payment of wages and refusing to deliver up a trunk. W. P. McMahon for plff.; C. D. Macaulay for deft.

Robert Snook and D. R. Leavens were charged with impounding twenty two horses and not providing them with food, water or shelter. Case in progress as we went to press.

S. A. Barracks.

Saturday night, Ice Cream Social; also Harvest Festival Exhibition. Sunday—Special Services. Monday night, a grand sale of all goods. Thursday night, Commissioner Booth will speak.

Farewell Announcement.

Messrs. W. J. Reid & Co. have decided to close the Crystal Hall at the end of next month (September), and in order to make a speedy clearing of the balance of China, Crockery, Silver, Brass and Fancy Goods a special effort will be made to accomplish this, as Mr. Carroll has other engagements to fill in October. Less than auction prices will will be marked on the goods with blue pencil in plain figures, and will positively be cash and one price. The store will be closed for the first two or three days next week to arrange and mark down stock. Balance of French glass flower shades, Bohemian cut wines, clarets, goblets, champagnes, &c., will be less than half-price, and it will be a long day before another such an opportunity offers. fr&w

Live up to Your Privileges.

If we read of some new fabric made in some foreign country which gave protection from cold, providing a healthful warmth in all sorts of weather, we would consider it wonderful and be envious of the people who would take advantage of it. But because Fibre Chamois is quite inexpensive and easy to get perhaps some have not yet tested its merits and found out for themselves the splendid winter comfort a layer of it will impart to all outdoor garments. Its weather proof qualities are genuine, founded on the fact that it is made entirely from Spruce Fibre, and is therefore a complete non-conductor of cold. This, as well as its light weight, makes it an ideal addititition to every one's fall and winter clothing.

School Opening

Now that the children are returning to school they will need good serviceable boots. We have just received a lot of boys' strong boots, just the thing for school wear. You will find our prices are right the year round. —A. W. VERMILYEA & SON.

Looking for an Investment.

William Cook, of New York, representing a syndicate of bankers in that city, has been in town the past two days looking over the Belleville Traction Co's. line and the city in general, with a view of investing a large amount of capital here. The syndicate have unlimited capital and if they secure the line will extend it to the cemetery and other points.

Are Your Children Hard on Shoes?

We make a special study of boots for boys and girls, we have some now that we can confidently recommend. The best are the cheapest in the end. A grand lot just received bought specially for the opening of schools. Prices are lower than a year ago. —HAINES & LOCKETT.

Among the Hills.

Along the roadside, like the flowers of gold
That tawny Incas for their gardens wrought,
Heavy with sunshine droops the golden rod,
And the red pennons of the cardinal flowers
Hang motionless upon their upright staves,
The sky is hot and hazy, and the wind
Wings weary with its long flight from the south,
Unfelt; yet, closely scanned, you maple leaf
With faintest motion, as one stirs in dreams,
Confess it. The locust by the wall
Stabs the noon silence with his sharp alarm.
A single hay-cart down the dusty road
Creaks slowly, with its driver fast asleep
On the load's top. Against the neighboring hill,
Huddled along the stone wall's shady side,
The sheep show white, as if a snowdrift still Defied the dog-star. Through the open door
A drowsy smell of flowers—gray heliotrope,
And white sweet clover, and shy mignonette—
Comes faintly in, and silent chorus lends
To the pervading symphony of peace.
—Whittier.

CITY LIGHTING.

A Number of Gas Lamps to be Cut Off—Mr. Pearson's Firm.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee, with the Mayor, Mr. W. H. Pearson, jr., Lessee of the Gas Works and M. M. Thompson, Manager, went over the streets last evening to see what gas and coal oil lamps could be dispensed with by the new distribution of electric lamps. No decision was arrived at, but the Committee think they can take off at least fifteen or eighteen gas lamps and still furnish much better light than at present.

At a meeting of the Committee afterward a petition was presented asking that the light in front of the Curry House be changed to the middle of the street so that it will light the curve in the street.

Mr. Pearson stated to the Committee that the new contract for street gas lamps would call for $25 per lamp instead of $20, as previously paid by the city. He said his decision on this point was final.

The Committee, when they heard Mr. Pearson's decision, were strongly in favor of dropping gas altogether and substituting coal oil lamps, but no recommendation was made to this effect. A special meeting of the Council has been called for Monday evening to decide what will be done in the premises.

Korns, Korns.

There are more than one sort of korns. Some korn is planted in the ground and the other sort don't need planting; they grow quite naturally on men's toes and don't need hoeing. This kind of korn has two sorts—one gentle or tender like until Bill Jones steps on your foot, when it gets boiling mad and swears like everything; the other is hard headed and makes a row all the time, especially when your boots are on. I don't like korns, and use the extracting medicine, Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor which removes them painlessly in twenty-four hours.

Great Salt Lake.

Very few people know much of the Great Salt lake of Utah, beyond the fact that it is a very large inland sea with very salt water. Some of its physical characteristics, however, are extremely interesting. While the Atlantic ocean contains but 3½ per cent of solid matter in solution, Salt lake contains 18 per cent, being of such great density that it is impossible for a man to sink in its waters without additional weight. This solid matter is principally plain salt and soda, although there are small amounts of chlorine, bromide, potassium, sulphur, calcium, magnesia, lithia and boracic acid. The result of this great salinity is that tons and tons of salt are deposited by evaporation along the shores of the lake, many tons being often piled up in a single night when a strong wind blows the water high up on the land.

Salt lake is 100 miles long, with an average width of 27 miles. Its mean depth is 20 feet, and from these figures it may be easily calculated that the contents of the lake are 1,505,433,600,000 cubic feet of water, one-sixth of which or 250,905,600,000 cubic feet, is salt and sulphate of soda, over 219,500,000,000 cubic feet of which is salt. As a cubic foot of salt weighs 80 pounds, it may be seen that the Salt lake contains about 17,560,000,000 pounds, or 8,780,160,000 tons of salt. As salt is worth about $10 a ton, it is evident that there is a fortune in the Salt lake, for its salt alone, by the side of which the riches of Monte Cristo are as a drop in a bucket. It is enough to pay the national debts of all the civilised nations of the world.

The Division Court Office

Has moved from PINNACLE STREET to their new office on BRIDGE STREET, just opposite the POST OFFICE, where my office as ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES will be hereafter. Parties wishing to get married can, by calling on me, obtain all the necessary information regarding THE NEW MARRIAGE ACT, which is now in force; also arrangements can be made so that licenses can be issued privately.—CHAUNCEY ASHLEY, Issuer of Marriage Licenses, opposite the Post Office. Residence, first house east of W.W. Chown Mfg. Co., Station st.

The Diocese of Ottawa.

The final step in the creation of the new Ottawa Diocese of the Church of England was taken the other day, when the deed of agreement for the division of the church funds between the dioceses of Ontario and Ottawa was executed by the Archbishop of Ontario, Dr. Walkem, Q. C., his chancellor; Bishop Hamilton and Chancellor Travers Lewis. The document provides for the division of $565,000. There is, however, an outstanding sum of $12,000, part of the clergy trust fund, under the award made in 1859 by Sir Jas. Macaulay. Mr. J. A. Worrell, Q. C., has been appointed arbitrator to settle questions regarding this sum.

A CONTINENTAL REPUTATION.

Paine's Celery Compound and Its Thousands of Advocates.

Go where you will over the whole North American continent, you will hear Paine's Celery Compound spoken of; and in every village, town and city you will find some, who, through the Compound's power, have found health and new life.

People delight in telling to others what Paine's Celery Compound has done for them. No wonder that there are tens of thousands of ardent and enthusiastic missionaries all over the continent speaking good words about Paine's Celery Compound to those who need a curing and a healing medicine. The friends who have spoken for and recommended Paine's Celery Compound have done more to advance the reputation of earth's best medicine than all the newspaper articles ever published.

The great majority of diseases that end in misery and death might be quickly and permanently cured if sick persons could only be induced to use Paine's Celery Compound.

The wonderful medicine has a noble record of cures—an array of testimony that is truly magnificent and astonishing. The rheumatic, dyspeptic, nervous, sleepless, weak, run-down, and those tormented with blood diseases are soon made well and strong by Paine's Celery Compound. Even if your doctor has doubts about your case, Paine's Celery Compound will surely and certainly give you the bloom of health and long years of happiness.

Let your druggist or dealer know that you must have "Paine's," as imitations cannot meet your case.

The Dutch in South Africa.

In 1796 the British, by arrangement with the Stadtholder of the Dutch Republic, then a fugitive from the armies of the French Republic, took possession of the Cape, which in 1803 was handed back to the Dutch. In 1806 the British, being then at war with the Dutch, again took possession of the Cape Colony, after a severe struggle near Cape Town. From that time the Cape has been continuously in the hands of Britain. At that period the European population of the Cape settlements amounted to 26,720 souls, the bulk of whom were of Dutch descent. The Boers have large families—from ten to fourteen children is not an uncommon number — the climate is exceedingly healthy, and the Dutch all over South Africa have largely increased since 1806. In the Cape Colony at the present time there are between 230,000 and 235,000 Dutch Afrikanders, or Boers. In the Orange Free State there are some 70,000 Boers; while in the Transvaal, or South African Republic, there are—as far as can be judged from the last census of 1890 about 85,000 Dutch Afrikanders. People who know little about the subject talk very glibly about turning the Dutch out of South Africa. That is a matter of impossibility. The vast majority of the Boers are rooted firmly to the soil; they care for no other occupation than pastoral farming; and they are not in the least likely to quit the fatherland in which they have been born and bred for two hundred and fifty years past.

In the Cape House of Assembly, it is well to remember, the Dutch farmers have a large majority. In the Orange Free State Republic the population is almost entirely Dutch. In the Transvaal the Boers probably outnumber the British, in spite of the gigantic growth of Johannesburg.—Chambers' Journal.

That

Extreme tired feeling afflicts nearly everybody at this season. The hustlers cease to push, the tireless grow weary, the energetic become enervated. You know just what we mean. Some men and women endeavor temporarily to overcome that

Tired

Feeling by great force of will. But this is unsafe, as it pulls powerfully upon the nervous system, which will not long stand such strain. Too many people "work on their nerves," and the result is seen in unfortunate wrecks marked "nervous prostration," in every direction. That tired

Feel-

ing is a positive proof of thin, weak, impure blood; for, if the blood is rich, red, vitalized and vigorous, it imparts life and energy to every nerve, organ and tissue of the body. The necessity of taking Hood's Sarsaparilla for that tired feeling is, therefore, apparent to every one, and the good it will do you is equally beyond question. Remember that

Feed the Nerves

Upon pure, rich blood and you need not fear nervous prostration. Nerves are weak when they are improperly and insufficiently nourished. Pure blood is their proper food, and pure blood comes by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is thus the greatest and best nerve tonic. It also builds up the whole system.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic, easy to take, easy to operate.

NOTHING

Gives a woman more pleasure than the possession of a quantity of good household linens.

We know the average woman's weakness in this respect, and no doubt when our buyer was making his fall purchases of Linen from the famous Brookfield Linen Co., of Belfast, Ireland, he traded largely upon woman's admiration for these beautiful goods.

We have a beautiful stock of linens—a very comprehensive stock; indeed, we question very much if we have ever been able to show so much of newness and beauty and quantity before.

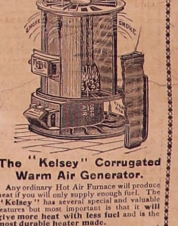
The Most Economical ...House Warmer



The "Kelsey" Corrugated Warm Air Generator.

Any ordinary Hot Air Furnace will produce heat if you will only supply enough fuel. The "Kelsey" has several special and valuable features but most important is that it will give more heat with less fuel and is the most durable heater made.

The "Kelsey" fire pot being constructed of several upright, tubular, corrugated, cast iron sections (see cut) around which the fire passes and up through which the cold air passes while being heated, and this entire section being wrapped with a heavy steelcasing which becomes heated by the fire striking it when passing down outside of upright sections towards smoke pipe, it in turn warms the air that passes up between this steel casing and the galvanized iron casing, this explains why the "Kelsey" has three times more radiating surface and warm air capacity than an ordinary Furnace. The "Kelsey" heats every room evenly, wheresoever located, with a nice, mild, healthful warm air that will not injure your furniture.

The "Kelsey" will heat rooms 60 feet distant.

The "Kelsey" does not heat your cellar.

The "Kelsey" is absolutely gas and dust proof.

THE FRUIT BUSINESS

Has developed with rapid strides in Belleville the past few years, and without any attempt at bragging we believe we have been largely influential in its steady growth.

Our fruit trade is largely a whole sale one—we supply the bulk of the fruit sold by the grocers here. It's buying in large quantities of fruit, as of anything else, that enables a dealer to give you a choice and sell you fruit at less than smaller dealers could hope to do.

IT MAY CAUSE A SPLIT

Martin's Friends Will Kick if He is Turned Down.

And Sifton is Given That Vacant Portfolio Because of His Efforts to Settle the Manitoba School Question—Is the Proposed Settlement on a Basis of Giving Away to the Call of the Province of Quebec?—There May Be Another Conference at Ottawa—Trouble Brewing in the Government Camp.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 28.—(Special.)—Success has not made the Liberals a happy family in Winnipeg. Indeed, there are very serious differences in their ranks. The Greenway-Sifton section of the party has never had any great love for the Martin section, and Mr. Martin's friends just now are very sore over the prospect of "Fighting Joe" being turned down in his application for the vacant Laurier portfolio. They think, whether rightly or not, that Mr. Sifton has stolen the plum from Joseph. But there is now a greater cause for disruption, this latest cause being the Sifton proposition for the school question settlement. There are indications here to-day that Mr. Sifton in his deep anxiety to help Mr. Laurier will wreck the Liberal party in the West.

Under the headline of "Something in the Air," The Free Press to-night says: "There is quite a little stir in Government circles in this city since the announcement from Ottawa that a basis of settlement of the school question has been agreed upon. Some of the Government supporters think that this basis, so far as it is understood here, is in the nature of a giveaway by Messrs. Cameron and Sifton. The concessions are characterized as promising greater privileges in some respects to Catholics than they enjoyed before the act of 1890; and may account for Mr. Laurier's confidence in the settlement proving satisfactory to his Quebec followers of the Local Government."

The Tribune to-night has the significant statement that it seems likely that another conference between the two Governments will be necessary before the school question is settled. If Mr. Sifton takes the Interior portfolio, as now seems likely, it is rumored that H. M. Howell, the barrister, of Winnipeg, will become Mr. Greenway's Attorney-General. Mr. Howell, by the way, is a relative of D'Alton McCarthy.

M'LEOD SUSPENDED.

No More Track Racing for Him Until Sept. 20—Weekly Bulletin of the C.W.A.

The C.W.A. Bulletin, issued August 28, 1896, reads as follows:

Sanctions issued: Sept. 1, Sussex Fire Department, Sussex, N.B.; Sept. 5, Burrard B.C., Vancouver, B.C.; Sept. 7, Y.M.C.A., Galt, Ont.; Sept. 7, Smith's Falls B.C., Smith's Falls, Ont.; Sept. 10, Ottawa A.A.C. (evening meet), Ottawa, Ont.; Sept. 29-30, Tilsonburg Driving Park Association, Tilsonburg, Ont.; Oct. 2, Orangeville B.C., Orangeville, Ont.; Oct. 14, Beverley Agricultural Society, Rockton, Ont.

The proprietors of the Summerside Trotting Park track at Summerside, P.E.I., have filed the required affidavit as to measurement.

Suspensions: J. S. Bailey, Windsor, N.S., pending investigation: G. Galloway, Mitchell; J. Gibson, Listowel; Norman Fleishaurer, Stratford; W. Ratz, Millbank, Newton P.O., and Simon Grosch, Milverton, until September 25th for competing in unsanctioned races at Milverton, August 21st.

The following are transferred to the professional ranks under clause C: D. Galloway, Mitchell; J. Gibson, Listowel; Norman Fleishaurer, Stratford; W. Ratz, Millbank, Newton, P.O., and Simon Grosch, Milverton.

Permits to compete in races at Ogdensburg, N.Y., on August 20, were granted to J.E. Esmonde and H. Buckham of Ottawa and J. Morrison and B. Hutchins of Smith's Falls.

The information which resulted in the transfer of C. Walsh of Granby has been proved incorrect, and his amateur standing is restored.

F. A. Hogle, P. A. Hogle and F. Hicks competed in a professional race at Granby and are transferred as professionals.

The board does not recognize races open to boys under 16 years of age. A winner of a boys' race is therefore eligible for a novice open race, and his classification will be made from that class.

The board have investigated the protest and charge that Angus McLeod of Sarnia violated sec. 27 of the track rules in late races. Reliable and conclusive evidence has been furnished to prove the violation and he is suspended from all track racing until Sept. 20th.

The following tracks have been officially measured and placed upon the association record: Twelve o'Clock Point track, Trenton; Summerside, P.E.I., driving track.

Referees are notified to watch closely the riding and actions of riders of both classes. Swearing at other competitors or officials or attendants, boisterous intimidations and shouting during a race or on the track should not be permitted. Riders or attendants who violate should be promptly excluded from the track for the meet and prompt report sent to the board.

AN AWFUL TRAGEDY.

Mrs. Charles W. Green Kills Her Three Babes and Then Shoots Herself—She Was Insane.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 28.—At noon to-day the family of Charles W. Green, traveling passenger agent of the Big Four Railway, consisting of Mrs. Green and three children, were found dead in their home. All the little ones were in their beds and the mother lay dead in a doorway with a revolver by her side. The murder or suicide is supposed to have occurred Wednesday morning about 2 o'clock, as at that hour neighbors heard pistol shots near the Green home, but no investigation was made until the non-appearance of the Green family led to an enquiry. Mrs. Green had not undressed for bed, and it was evident that she had put the children to bed, waiting until they were asleep and then sent them into eternity. The only explanation of the terrible crime is that Mrs. Green was crazy. Mr. Green is now on his way from Salt Lake. His friends say his home life was especially happy.

CENSUS OF MANITOBA.

An Increase of Over 78 Per Cent. Shown.

And the Province Will Receive an Increased Subsidy of $32,735 Per Annum—French Translators Summoned Before the Debates Committee, Charged With Working at Elections—Mr. Berry of P. E. I. Gets a Job—Sealing Vessels Seized.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—(Special.)—Complete returns of the Manitoba census taken last spring have been received. The total population of the province is now 193,425, or an increase of 84,735 in population in ten years. The increase for the first five years, from 1886 to 1891, was 43,866, and for the second five years, from 1891 to 1896, it was 40,919. The increase in ten years was 78.04 per cent. The census was taken so as to ascertain the proper subsidy due to the province. At 80c per head the increase in the subsidy to the province on 40,919 population, which was the increase in the last five years, will be about $32,735. By constituencies the population is as follows: Macdonald 30,404, Provencher 17,751, Brandon 32,668, Selkirk 24,840, Marquette 17,923, Lisgar 38,190, Winnipeg 31,649, making a total of 193,425.

At the Debates Committee this morning charges were preferred against Messrs. La Salle (Montreal), McLeod (Three Rivers), and Vanasse (Sorel), the three French translators, of having taken part in the late election contest. Wednesday next was appointed as the day on which the translators will appear before the committee and make an explanation of their alleged conduct. The circumstances of complaint recall similar charges preferred against R. Trembley, E. Trembley and A. E. Poirier, whose services were dispensed with at the instance of Hon. J. A. Chapleau in 1891.

Mr. Hackett, M.P., was inspector of fisheries in Prince Edward Island, but resigned the office to run for Parliament in opposition to Mr Perry. He succeeded and now Mr. Hackett sits in the Commons and Mr. Perry has been appointed fishery inspector in his place. The old gentleman left for home to-day with the appointment in his pocket.

The Department of Fisheries has been notified of the first sealing seizure in Behring Sea this season. The American schooner Jessie, which arrived at Victoria, B. C., to-day from Alaska, brought word that the sealer Beatrice of Vancouver and also the sealer Beatrice of Victoria (two of the same name) had been seized in Behring Sea and ordered home. No particulars are given.

Mr. Blair, Minister of Railways, arrived this morning. He was accompanied by D. C. Fraser, M.P., and ex-Attorney-General Longley of Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Edgar's first reception yesterday afternoon was very well attended. Several hundred callers, including a large number of members of both sides of the House, paid their respects to the wife of the new Speaker.

The Free Press gives currency to the rumor that Mr. Britton, brother of Mr. B. M. Britton, M.P., of Kingston, is likely to be appointed superintendent of the Rideau Canal.

MISLEADING THE PUBLIC.

Mr. Laurier Said He Was Prepared to Pass a Remedial Bill; Mr. Scott Says Parliament Cannot.

Ottawa, Aug. 28.—(Special.)—In the Senate the debate on the address is still in progress. To-day's discussion was noteworthy for the admission made by the Secretary of State on the school question. Referring to the hope entertained by the Government of an early settlement of the question, Mr. Scott admitted it was not likely the minority would get all that it asked, but he felt that a conciliatory course of give and take was the only way of arriving at a satisfactory settlement of the difficulty. It was quite evident to him that the Dominion Parliament had not the power to pass a remedial bill.

Mr. Masson: Do you mean that this Parliament is powerless to pass remedial legislation?

Mr. Scott: No, this Parliament cannot.

Mr. Masson: It would be well for the Secretary of State to place himself en rapport with the opinions of his leader, who said that if conciliation failed he was prepared to pass a remedial bill himself. He could not believe in giving this assurance that the Premier was so completely misleading the people of Lower Canada as the remarks of the Secretary of State would indicate.

From Halifax to Montreal.

Eastern Canadian yachtsmen congratulated the R.C.Y.C. on Canada's victory yesterday by wire as follows:

Halifax, Aug. 27, 1896.—S. Bruce Harman, Secretary Royal Canadian Yacht Club: Your fellow yachtsmen of Halifax extend congratulations. (Signed) Royal Nova Scotia.

Montreal, 27th Aug, 1896.—Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club extends hearty congratulations to Canada and her crew. (Signed) Arthur C. Hamilton, secretary.

The Shipbuilders' Lockout.

Glasgow, Aug. 28.—A meeting of the master shipbuilders was held to-day to decide the date of the lock-out of their employes, although it is hoped that a widespread struggle will be avoided at the eleventh hour.

A SERIOUS CASE.

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & CO.

I Used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for my little boy for summer complaint and it cured him. He was so bad that he had convulsions and would strain so that he ruptured himself, but as soon as I got the extract for him he got well.

MRS. ELIZA M. OVERHOLT.

Mrs. Sequel—I understand your husband can't meet his creditors. Mrs. Equal—I don't believe he wants to, especially.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

"Jenkins claimed that I insulted him." "Did you give him satisfaction?" "Guess I did. He pounded me until he was tired."

TO BE REMOVED

All the effete or waste matter of the system is removed by a perfect action of Laxative Liver Pills. Thus they prevent as well as cure Sick headache, Constipation, Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Jaundice, Dizziness, etc.

"I'm going to swear out a warrant against the weather man." "What for?" "Malicious scorching."

CURES SUMMER COMPLAINT.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for twelve years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer complaints. In our family it has never failed to cure any case. MRS. BENJ. LONGLEY.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue.

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels, therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very billous habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulmonary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height,

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidney Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Billious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptons are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains, sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forfet this.

Pine Knot is the highest place in Kentucky—1428 feet.

If your children are troubled with worms, give them Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; safe, sure, and effectual. Try it, and mark the improvement in your child.

Mount Whitney is the highest peak in California—14 898 feet.

If you are tired taking the large old fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

Warren is located on the highest land in Illinois—1005 feet.

Those unhappy persons who suffer from nervousness and dyspepsia should use Carter's Little Nerve Pills, which are made expressly for sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic sufferers. Price 25 cents.

Mount Rich, 3500 feet high, is the tallest in South Carolina.

Ill-fitting boots and shoes cause corns. Holloway's Corn Cure is the best article to use. Get a bottle and cure your corns.

WHAT'LL THE END BE?

The Conservative Party to Go On Record.

Sir Charles Tupper to Move in the House of Commons a Resolution Practically Censuring the Governor-General for Interfering in the Politics of the Country—The Liberal Government Now Face to Face With a Very Grave Constitutional Matter.

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—(Special.)—The Dominion Cabinet was in session continuously for six hours yesterday considering the line of action to be followed on one of the most momentous questions which any Canadian Ministry has had to face. During this week Lord Aberdeen's action in dismissing the Ministry of Sir Charles Tupper, for that is what it really was, will be challenged on the floor of Parliament and one political party in Canada, at any rate, will go on record as opposed to gubernatorial interference in Dominion politics. The question naturally arises, how will the present Reform party deal with this important question, successors of the men who fought for and won responsible Government in Canada? Will the Liberal party remain true to its traditions and place itself squarely on record as opposed to anything like interference by the representative of the Sovereign in Canadian politics, or will it swallow itself by defending Lord Aberdeen's conduct? The question to be met is possibly the most important that has arisen in Canada in half a century. Students of constitutional history know how careful the English people have been to resent anything like interference by the Crown in British politics.

The late Henry Dunckley, the veteran English journalist, who died the other day, created a great sensation 15 or 20 years ago by his "Verax" letters in The Manchester Examiner, and which showed how prone the late Prince Consort was to meddle in British politics, as evidenced by Sir Theodore Martin's life of the Prince. Since that time there has been less disposition on the part of royalty to meddle in politics, and what Dunckley mooted in reproof of the Prince Consort's action will apply with equal force to Lord Aberdeen. What business was it of his whether there were 5 or 55 Liberals in the Senate? The Conservative Government, which had been in power for 18 years, had filled any vacancies strictly according to the constitution. The most serious thing, however, in the correspondence, now made public, is His Excellency's reflections on the Canadian judiciary, which have been rightly characterized as "deplorable."

Some of the present Ministers are very reluctant that the Government, as a Government, and the Liberal party, as a party, should have to defend the Governor-General, but, considering the services which His Excellency rendered them, there seems nothing for it but to swallow their principles. The predicament in which the Liberals are now placed is the result of the bulldozing tactics of The Globe during the interregnum between June 23 and the Governor's summons to Mr. Laurier. It is clearly evident that the active propaganda which The Globe and its satellites in the Liberal press carried on was effective. Just at the very time when the dispute between the Governor-General and Sir Charles Tupper had about reached a crisis, out came The Globe, The Ottawa Free Press and Le Cultivateur (Mr. Tarte's paper), simultaneously with a statement that the Colonial Secretary was interfering in Sir Charles Tupper's behalf, and calling upon Lord Aberdeen to get rid of his advisers and not to submit to interference from Downing-street. And, if to-day the Reform party finds itself in the position of having to scatter its traditions to the four winds of heaven, it will be because of the action of the party organs in dictating to Lord Aberdeen. Will the party be loyal to the principles of Liberalism? In the language of Mr. Tarte—nous verrons.

It is generally admitted that the case put forward by the late Premier is an exceedingly strong one. In connection with the formidable array of precedents which Sir Charles quotes, only one objection has been urged. It is that in not a single instance in British history, as cited by the ex-Premier, is there any exact parallel of a government being formed after the life of Parliament had expired by the efflux of time, and then, after being defeated at the polls, seeking to fill existing vacancies in the public service. There is, however, little in this objection. In all cases referred to by the late Premier in his memorandum, when a defeated government carried out its constitutional prerogative and made a number of appointments it was under precisely the same circumstance as the Tupper Government acted, after a general election, in which the party had been defeated, but while still advisors of the Crown.

It is understood that the motion expressing regret at Lord Aberdeen's conduct will be moved by Sir Charles Tupper.

Another question to be debated this week is His Excellency's action in granting a warrant for one million dollars the day before Parliament met. This is regarded as a direct encroachment on the prerogative of Parliament and wholly unjustifiable. Had Parliament not been about to meet for a month there might have been some justification for the issue of the second warrant, but to permit money to be raised in this manner one day before Parliament met cannot be defended.

NO USE FOR HIM IN MONTREAL.

The Aberdeens Will Get the Cold Shoulder There in Future.

Montreal, Aug. 30.—(Special.)—The feeling in the commercial metropolis over the correspondence exchanged between Sir Charles Tupper and Lord Aberdeen is one that cannot be taken as satisfactory to His Excellency, and it is quite evident that the next time Her Majesty's representative comes to Montreal the noble Lord's reception will be attended exclusively by the members of the Liberal party. The truth might as well be told, and it, no doubt, will spare His Excellency and the Countess of Aberdeen many subsequent moments of embarrassment to realize at this very moment that their usefulness, whether it be divided, or combined, is forever gone in the commercial centre of the Dominion. In a word, the Liberal-Conservatives of this city are much more indignant at Lord Aberdeen than they were at Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, on the morning of the 24th of June, and all sorts of remarks, a few cruel in their injustice, but many perfectly justifiable, are heard in the streets and amongst the members of the political clubs.

"What kills me," said a good old Tory, "is the exact similarity of the language used by Lord Aberdeen in the correspondence to the hysterical appeals made the day after the election, for Tupper's resignation by every Liberal sheet in the land," and every one you meet declares that his Excellency has been partial to the Liberal leader from the first.

A constitutional lawyer of Liberal leanings spoke as follows to the correspondent: "Aberdeen has given us a splendid lift, but the tiniest little page at Rideau Hall could have told the Governor-General and Lady Aberdeen, who is unfortunately mixed up in everything, that as constitutional rulers they had no possible way of determining the strength of the two great parties, either in the Senate or Commons, without Parliament being assembled and an adverse vote registered against the Tupper Administration."

All sorts of rumors are afloat as to the course to be pursued by the Conservative politicians. Some of them are favorable to the holding of a meeting in order to condemn the Governor-General, but it is quite probable that other counsel will prevail and that the matter will be left to their representatives in Parliament. It is known, however, that the Conservative members will be strongly urged to ask the Imperial Government for Lord Aberdeen's recall.

HIS EYE IS ON KOOTENAY.

Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany Sends Agents Through the Mining District for Information—Big Deals on.

Rossland, Aug. 30.—(Special to The World, via Spokane, Wash.)—Hans Geise, the German Consul at Tacoma, Wash., has been commissioned by Kaiser Wilhelm to investigate and make a report to the German Government on the possibilities of mining in the Kootenay district. The consul has just returned from a three weeks' trip throughout the district. He visited the various camps and says he has found the mineral wealth to be beyond description. Two German savants are now on their way to Rossland to make a further report to their Government.

A half interest in the Elise mine, on Wild Horse Creek, has just been sold to Seattle capitalists for $60,000.

Several other big deals are on the tapis.

All the Chinese laundries have been ordered out of Rossland on the ground that they are unsanitary.

BAD FIRE AT GODERICH.

Peter McEwan's Large Salt Works Destroyed—Loss Is $15,000.

Goderich, Ont., Aug. 30.—A most disastrous fire occurred this morning at 3 o'clock. The large salt works, dairy salt mill, sawmill, stave and heading factory, together with several thousand barrels of salt belonging to Mr. Peter McEwan, Saltford, were completely destroyed. The loss will be about $15,000. Insurance not very large. The flames spread to the tannery of Mr. Joseph Beck, destroying the old part of the plant. By the aid of the Goderich steam fire engine and brigade, which went over to Saltford, a plentiful supply of water was had from the river. The firemen saved the new portion of the tannery containing the machinery. Mr. Beck's loss will be about $2000, covered by insurance in the Western and Lancashire Companies.

Montreal Chinamen Send a Petition to Him to Pay Them a Visit.

New York, Aug. 29.—George G. Foster, a Montreal lawyer, to-day presented Li Hung Chang with an address signed by 500 Montreal Chinamen. In it they requested him to visit them before leaving America. In reply he said he could not accept the invitation until he had disposed of his American tour. If time permitted he would certainly visit Montreal, but he could not give a definite reply until Monday

YOUNG MAN IN TROUBLE.

Arrested on a Charge of Abstracting Money From Letters in East London.

London, Ont., Aug. 29.—A young man named Graham, employed as a clerk in the post office at East London, is under arrest upon a very serious charge. The warrant alleges that the prisoner, during July and August abstracted money from several letters passing through the office. Graham had been about the office but a short time. He is alleged to have opened letters and after abstracting the money therein, or a portion of it, to have sealed the letters up again. The young man is very respectably connected. He will be examined on Monday.

Brazil Keeps Itself Right.

Rome, Aug. 30.—It is semi-officially announced that the Brazilian Government has promised Italy that active steps shall be taken to punish the persons who recently insulted the Italian flag and that no attack upon it will be permitted to go unpunished.

DILLON'S OWN CLIQUE

Dublin Convention Will be Simply a Caucus.

When Canadian Delegates Incautiously Revealed Their Intention to Ask What Had Become of the Paris Fund a Hurried Conference Took Place, and It was Decided to Limit the Discussion—A Convention that Is Boycotted and Condemned by the Priesthood.

New York, Aug. 30.—Mr. Harold Frederic cables from London to The Times: It is not surprising that the more sensible delegates from the United States and Canada to the Tuesday's convention in Dublin of the Irish race at home and abroad should have either returned home before it opened or contracted convenient illnesses, which will prevent their attendance. The gathering will be merely a Dillon caucus, packed deliberately, so far as the Irish and English delegates are concerned, in the interest of his control of the Parliamentary organization. The resolutions which are to be submitted to it have been prepared by Dillon's little clique, and the presentation of no others is to be permitted. Some of the Canadian delegates, I am told, incautiously revealed their intention to ask what has become of the Paris fund, and the result was a hurried conference of the clique and a decision to limit the discussion to the subjects on the agenda. Even if the convention were a representative body, instead of a bogus affair, which is boycotted and condemned by nearly all the priesthood and four-fifths of the intelligent Nationalists of the country, it is impossible to see what it could do. Dillon is merely a sessional chairman of the Parliamentary party, subject to re-election at each session, and to order the party to re-elect him at the next session would be merely a stupid interference with the rights of members. It would be still more futile to bid the Irish people to accept him as their National leader, because a leader is a man who leads, and no number of cooked resolutions can invest a man with the faculties of leadership if he was born without them. However, it is waste of space to talk about this ridiculous convention at all.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S VISIT.

Isaac Ford Says He Comes on Venezuelan Matters—Will He Confer With Mr. Laurier at Ottawa?

New York, Aug. 30.—Mr. Isaac N. Ford cables from London: The departure of Mr. Chamberlain for America has no political significance apart from the fact that he would not be crossing the Atlantic if, the state of Colonial affairs especially in South Africa, had not greatly improved, so that he could be spared from his post. Lord Salisbury has not deputed him to settle the Venezuela question. He has earned his holiday by arduous public service since December, and chooses to take it by accompanying Mrs. Chamberlain on a visit to Salem, where they will remain several weeks. The rumor mongers have started a story that he resents the strictures of his colleagues upon his zollverein proposals, and his Colonial policy, and will resign his Cabinet post. It is silly fiction. His Cabinet associates have more sympathy with his zollverein than is generally supposed, and there are no divisions respecting his colonial policy. His influence in the Cabinet and with the Queen is very great. Mr. Laurier, the Canadian Premier, desires to confer with him on the proposed fast mail service, but is more likely to come to England himself for the purpose than to receive a visit at Ottawa from the Secretary of the Colonies.

BLAZE AT HAMILTON.

Biscuit and Confectionery Works Visited by Fire Said to Have Been the Work of an Incendiary.

Hamilton, Aug. 30.—(Special.)—About 2 o'clock this morning fire broke out in the factory of the Hamilton Biscuit and Confectionery Company, Cannon-street west, and it was four hours before it was extinguished. The fire was of a mysterious character. When the firemen arrived flames were coming from the office on Cannon-street, and there was a vigorous conflagration in the factory proper, which is a separate building and quite a distance in the rear of the office. The fire-fighters kept the fire under good control, preventing it from spreading to adjoining buildings, and preserving some of the stock, although the damage to the stock, consisting of biscuits, etc., will be large, the factory being pretty well gutted. The roof fell in.

Messrs. Reid & Snyder, the proprietors, say the plant and stock were worth $22,000, and the insurance was $15,000, not including the building, which is owned by the Pattison estate. The companies in which the stock and plant were insured were: Phoenix of Brooklyn, $1500; National, $2400; Mercantile, Queen's, $2850; Hartford, $2850; Liverpool & London & Globe, $2850; Northern, $2850. The police are convinced that the building was set on fire, and the detectives are trying to ferret out the case. Several hundred dollars' damage was done to Lovell Bros.' cigar factory, adjoining the building that was burned.

TRAGEDY IN AN ASYLUM.

One Insane Patient in a State of Frenzy Pounds Another Patient to Death—Terrible Injuries Shown.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 29.—At 4 o'clock this morning Samuel Wallace, from Butler County, and Harry Heinbaugh, from Somerset County, charity patients confined in the Dixmount Hospital for the Insane, became involved in a quarrel. The nurse ran to the scene of the disturbance and found Wallace lying across a bed, the blood pouring from wounds on his head. Heinbaugh, in an insane frenzy, was pounding his victim over the head with a heavy iron bucket. Aid was summoned and Heinbaugh was overpowered. Wallace died at 2 p.m. Four terrible gashes and numerous lesser cuts were found on his head, while the body, from the shoulders to the hips, was a mass of bruises and cuts. Heinbaugh was soon quieted of his frenzy, but can tell nothing about the tragedy. A coroner's inquest was held and a verdict was rendered exonerating the asylum officials from all blame.

A Dinner to Li Hung Chang.

New York, Aug. 29.—The American Ex-Minister to China and New York merchants in the Asiatic trade banqueted Li Hung Chang at 6 o'clock last evening at the Waldorf. The affair took place in the Astor dining room and covers were laid for 70 guests. John E. Ward, the American Ex-Minister, presided.

A Farmer Murdered.

Plainfield, N.J., Aug. 29.—Harry Hayden, a farmer, 20 years old, living near Somerville, was shot and killed this morning by Elmer Clawson, a former employe on his farm. The trouble was caused by a dispute over the settlement for wages. Clawson was captured.

THAT BIG DEAL.

The Western Union, It Is Said, Owns the Controlling Stock of the American Bell Telephone Company.

Montreal, Aug. 30.—(Special.)—The alleged deal between the Western Union and the Bell Telephone Co., or the amalgamation of these two corporations, is again spoken of here. It appears that the agreement entered into 16 years ago as to rights and infringements between the telegraph and telephone companies in question will expire in Novmber, and it is a question of speculation as to what will then happen. A gentleman connected with one of the telegraph companies told The World to-day that he did not think either a consolidation or amalgamation of the Western Union and the American Bell would take place, but that the telegraph company controls the other corporation there can be no doubt. Russell Sage, while denying the story of amalgamation, admitted, however, that the Bell stock owned by the Western Union reached up into the millions. The fact is likewise commented upon that on the 27th of June the Western Union Telegraph Company obtained a charter from the New York State Legislature, incorporating a telephone company with a capital of $16,000,000. On the directorate of this new company are five members of the Western Union, and several others belonging to the Canadian and American Bell Telephone Companies. Although the engineering of this charter through the Legislature at Albany cost $16,000, the Montreal Telegraph manager says it may mean nothing, and, again, it may mean a good deal. It is generally supposed that the two companies will work independently of each other, but the Western Union will control the smaller corporation, and that they will understand each other perfectly. It appears that the policy of building long distance lines will be to an extent curtailed, and that this will be one of the results of the Bell coming under the control of the Western Union.

"The Western Union," concluded The World's informant, "is the most far-reaching corporation in America, if not in the whole world."

HALIFAX IS SAFE.

No Enemy's Vessel Could Enter That Canadian Stronghold—The Big Guns Can Do Good Work.

Halifax, Aug. 29.—Yesterday it was demonstrated beyond a doubt that in time of war no enemy's vessel could enter the port of Halifax. It would mean speedy and complete destruction to any craft that attempted it. The big guns at York Redoubt and MacNab's Island were fully tested and the success achieved was even greater than expected. The guns were tested upon a moving target 20 feeet long and 8 feet high, and although the range was about 3000 yards the firing was excellent. The twelve and eighteen-ton gun were brought into requisition at York Redoubt and six-inch breach-loaders were fired from MacNab's. The guns from York Redoubt sent 250 and 400-lb. shells whirling through the air, and the breach-loaders at McNab fired shells weighing 100 pounds. The marksmanship was extra good. The shells crushed right through the target and kept the staff on board the tug busy putting it in repair. An officer stated afterwards that the test was a most successful one and exceeded expectations. It plainly showed, said he, that no hostile ship could enter Halifax harbor.

GERMANY WON'T GIVE UP.

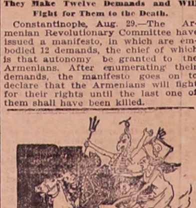
Said Khalid, the Usurping Sultan of Zanzibar, In Good Refuge.

Berlin, Aug. 29.—A despatch to The Cologne Gazette from Zanzibar says that the German Consul there has refused to surrender to the British officials Said Khalid, the self-proclaimed Sultan, and those of his followers who took refuge at the consulate, after being driven from the Palace by the bombardment of the British warships.

ARMENIANS ARE DESPERATE.

They Make Twelve Demands and Will Fight for Them to the Death.

Constantinople, Aug. 29.—The Armenian Revolutionary Committee have issued a manifesto, in which are embodied 12 demands, the chief of which is that autonomy be granted to the Armenians. After enumerating their demands, the manifesto goes on to declare that the Armenians will fight for their rights until the last one of them shall have been killed.



Tam O'Shanter's ride through the midnight wind with the horrible hobgoblins pursuing him was only a bad dream, or nightmare, which anybody is liable to experience as the result of overeating or an attack of biliousness or indigestion. To avoid such disagreeable experiences one or two of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken after a too hearty meal and the action of the stomach will thereby be quickened and the meal promptly digested.

Then too if Nature be assisted a little now and then in removing offending matter from the stomach and bowels you will thereby avoid a multitude of distressing derangements and diseases, and will have less frequent need for your doctors' services.

Of all known agents for this purpose, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best. Their secondary effect is to keep the bowels open and regular, not to further constipate, as is the case with other pills. Hence, their great popularity with sufferers from habitual constipation, piles and their attendant discomfort and manifold derangements.

The Pellets cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation, sour stomach, loss of appetite, coated tongue, indigestion, or dyspepsia, windy belchings, "heartburn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. One little "Pellet" is a laxative, two are mildly cathartic.

PARTY ORGANIZATION.

Under this heading the Hamilton Herald, which is a non-partizan journal, has the following pointed remarks:

Numerically, the Conservative party is stronger in Canada than the Liberal party. But a well organized party, the various sections of which work together harmoniously in one common cause, is almost certain to triumph over opposing forces which, although greater in bulk, are badly organized and working at cross purposes. It's the case of a small, disciplined army pitted against a large disorganized mob. It would be too much to say that the difference between the two political parties in Canada is as great as the difference between a disciplined army and an unorganized mob, but it is true that the advantages which come from superior organization are with the Liberals. The weakness of the Conservative party arises from the fact that its great end has been to keep in power at Ottawa, and it has reserved all its energy and resources to be used in that supreme effort, neglecting the interests of the party in the various provinces. On the contrary, the Liberals have been careful to entrench themselves in the provinces. They hold five out of the seven provincial governments, and, so entrenched, they have brought to bear in the big Dominion struggle all the provincial governmental machinery.

The wisdom of the Liberal political tactics is now realized by the beaten enemy. Sir Charles Tupper, like the experienced political strategist that he is, not only realizes his party's weakness and the enemy's strength in the way of organization, but has resolved to imitate the tactics which have contributed to his own defeat. Yesterday, at the gathering of Conservative members which unanimously elected him as leader of the Opposition, Sir Charles pointed out as the first and most important thing to be done in the direction of party reorganization is to identify the policy of the Federal Opposition with that of the Conservative party in each province—that is, to make the party a homogeneous one, a machine in which all the parts work in harmony to one common end. In this way he hopes to check the efforts of the five Liberal Governments to strengthen the hands of the Laurier Government.

If this policy is carried into effect, it will immensely increase the strength of the Conservative party in the country and in each province. The Liberals cannot complain at this union of forces. They have set the example and they cannot consistently "blame for arts that taught themselves to rise."

This union of the federal and provincial interest in each of the two great parties is not a good thing for the country, and is to be deplored. In a federal system of Government it is best to have the Provincial Government independent of the Central Government and to have the attitude of the Central Government to the Provincial Governments one of neutrality and impartiality. Such a condition of things is, however, impossible when the Provincial Governments are minor party machines working in harmony with and probably under the direction of the central authority. There is danger, too, that the fresh impulse to be given to party divisions in the provinces will extend to the municipalities, and that in the near future all municipal elections will be carried on strictly on party lines and the municipal councils be transformed into minor party machines working in harmony with the provincial machines. We are getting more and more Americanized in our political methods.

Why not say Anglicized, Mr. Herald? In England at the present time municipal elections are generally decided on political grounds.

THE QUESTION OF PREROGATIVE.

The correspondence between the Governor General and Sir Charles Tupper, with regard to appointments by the outgoing Administration, shortly previous to their resignation and after their defeat in the general election, was laid before Parliament on Friday.

The facts disclosed are of such a character as would seem to indicate that His Excellency either forgot to be impartial, as a party man, in dealing with his late advisers, or that his reading of the constitution is entirely at variance with well understood precedent.

As the subject is a very intricate one and will no doubt be fully debated in Parliament, we reserve comment until the subject has been discussed by the representatives of the people. Meantime it may be remarked that there is no doubt as to the constitutional doctrine that His Excellency's present advisers are responsible for his every official act and word.

EDITORIAL BREVITIES.

That bumptious sable potentate the Sultan of Zanzibar fooled just a little too long with John Bull.

The Hull-less oats fake was not to be compared, in audacity and certainty of loss for those engaged in it, to the "free silver" fraud which the Popocrats are at present trying, by means of a flood of side-show oratory, to cajole the people of the Uited States into adopting in the hope of bettering themselves financially.

Mr. "Wicked Partner" Hardy, the hero of Owen Sound, has filled the vacancy in his Administration which was erected by the lamented death of the Hon. W. D. Balfour, Provincial Secretary. Mr. J. R. Stratton, the popular member for West Peterborough, made a "big push" for it, but fruitlessly. The "plum" went to Mr. Davis, of York, Minister without portfolio. The section of the province east of Toronto does not count for much with the Grit party, whether in Provincial or Dominion affairs.

Canadian Bar Association.

It is proposed to hold a meeting at Montreal on Tuesday, the 15th of September next, at 2:30 p.m., to take the requisite steps to form a Canadian Bar Association. The suggestion came from one of the provincial law societies some months ago, has been endorsed by many of the law societies in Canada and approved of generally by the profession. Premier Laurier, Sir Oliver Mowat, Sir Adolphe Caron, Sir C. H. Tupper and many other eminent members of the profession have been favorably impressed by it, and are of the opinion that an opportunity for a comparison of views and friendly intercourse is needed by the profession, and would be of service in helping to advance the science of jurisprudence, promote the administration of justice and uniformity of legislation, and uphold the honor of the profession of the law in Canada.

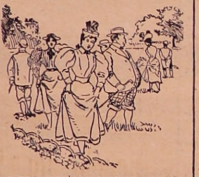
WOMEN
AS THEY PASS
CRA

The women of New Zealand have no very high regard for the gradual process of time and experience in bringing about reforms. They believe that two or three progressive women gathered in convention are equal to a century or two of ordinary civilization. At a recent convention at Christchurch they have expressed a desire to abolish capital punishment, to naturalize the land, to create a system of old-age pensions, and to make judicial sentences reformatory as well as punitive. Not satisfied with so ambitious a program, they go still further in asserting the right of women to sit on juries and be elected to the Legislature. Another resolution was passed that is worth setting forth in full: "In all cases where a woman elects to superintend a household and to be the mother of children, there shall be a law attaching a certain just share of her husband's earnings or income for her separate use, payable, if she desires, into her separate account."

Mrs. Henry Stanley, the wife of the intrepid explorer, will soon be the happy posessor of a very beautiful wheel, which she can use in future explorations of the Dark Continent. The wheel is the gift of an enterprising American firm who have turned out for the purpose one of the most perfect bicycles ever designed. It is a high grade wheel of faultless workmanship, and is enameled in pure white with trimmings of silver, an exquisite and admirable piece of mechanism throughout. Mrs. Stanley is an accomplished wheelwoman and will be able to put the gift to good use.

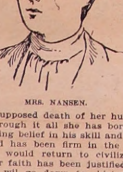
The followers of Father Kneipe are gaining in numbers in this country. He professes to cure many diseases, particularly those of the nerves, by a foot-bath in the dew-laden grass of the early morning. In Germany it is a common thing to see elegantly-clad ladies and gentlemen ploughing their way barefooted back and forth across a lawn. The municipal authorities of New York have just set apart a public plot of ground in Central Park where the members of the barefooted brigade can march to their hearts' content. This was done in response to a petition after sevral persons had been are rested for violation of the "Keep off the grass," rules.



FATHER KNEIPE'S BAREFOOTED BRIGADE.

Queen Amelie of Prtugal, the daughter of the late Comte de Paris, is evidently not a commonplace royalty. She began the study of medicine over a year ago, being moved to do so by the pain she had suffered from her absolute ignorance of such subjects while helping to nurse her father. Her Majesty has already passed the first one of the ordinary students' examinations. She has now been taking a great interest in the new photography, and by means of Roentgen rays has taken portraits of some girls with fashionably distorted waists, so as to be able by a comparison with the natural skeleton to show her court ladies how much they push themselves out of shape.

After a dread suspense that had lasted nearly three years, Mrs. Nansen, wife of the Arctic explorer, has at last been gladdened by news of his return. Rumors had reached her from time to time—some telling of the alleged success of his expedition, others of the supposed death of her husband—but through it all she has borne an unfaltering belief in his skill and courage, and has been firm in the belief that he would return to civilization. Now her faith has been justified, and Nansen wil go down to history as having journeyed nearly two hundred miles further to the northward than any explorer previous to his trip.



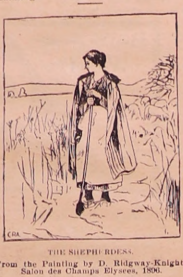
MRS. NANSEN.

Miss Elsie Clews, daughter of Mr. Henry Clews, the well-known New York banker, (whose bulletins are published by the Canadian daily papers), is a young lady of exquisite taste. Her bedroom has been described by an artist as "a poem," and is furnished from her own suggestions. The walls are a pale rose color, the canopy and side-hangings of the brass bedstead the same shade, with a lining of delicate green. The coverlid has a pure white ground, with a delicate tracing of pale pink flowers and forest green leaves and stems. The bed stands in a recess, and on the wall just above it is traced in gold letters a quotation from Tennyson's "Dream of Fair Women."

Sleep sweetly, tender heart, in peace.

An odd, pretty screen in the room is of carved white wood, with here and there the design breaking out into a rose and leaves, forest green, the reliefs just touched with gold, and the whole rendered dainty and unique with an occasional line of dull green. The panels are filled with fulled China silk, in white ground, scantily covered with a vine of pink morningglories.

Outside of Spain and the Orient, fanning is not a graceful art, but a manual labor; it is not soothing, but heating. The only persons to whom fanning is a real relief are those who follow the Oriental fashion, and wave their generous palm-leaves with the same sang froid with which Cleopatra's boys on her immortal barge swung theirs to and fro. Fans are as old as history, and the ancient Egyptians well knew their use, but it is impossible to imagine those stately queens of ancient days permitting in their presence anything so vigorously undignified as the modern method of fanning.



THE SHEPHERDESS.

From the Painting by D. Ridgway-Knight, Salon des Champs Elysees, 1896.

Knee-deep in flowery grasses
 The patient flock is browsing,
The downs are gold and purple,
 In the sun the fields are drowsing,
And far and near, o'er land and sea,
Is peace as full as full can be.

I led the lambs to pasture,
 While yet the morn was pearly;
I mind them, lamb and mother,
 And tend them late and early.
But thought is free; o'er land and sea
Dreams of my true-love come to me.

Tell me, oh, errant breezes,
 What is my dearest doing?
Say, is he faint with toiling,
 Or has he cause for ruing?
Oh! swift and sweet, o'er land and sea,
I send my blessing, dear to thee.

Soft wave the feathery grasses,
 The heather bloom is fair.
There's naught but hath its pleasure
 In sky, on earth, in air.
And I! No maid more glad can be,
Dreams of my love for company.

The wedding cake made for the marriage of Princess Maud of Wales to her cousin, Prince Charles of Denmark, was decorated in a manner entirely new. Pure white, which is the usual color for a wedding cake, was relieved by the fruits and flowers being inted in delicate natural colors. The cake was in three tiers, mounted on a base, and supported by beautifully modelled British lions, alternated with winged female figures. A spray of the roses of England and Denmark between each figure was moulded in sugar paste. Upon the lower cake were medallions emblazoned with the arms of the royal bride and bridegroom. Wreaths and festoons composed of the rose of England, with that of Denmark, the shamrock of Ireland, and the thistle of Scotland were interwoven with sprays of orange blossoms, and joined the medallions. The second tier was entwined with wreaths of fruits and flowers, made of sugar paste and carried out very daintily in the natural colors. The smaller and top layer of cake was ornamented with a graceful scroll tracing in white, and at opposite sides were shields with the monograms of the young couple. The upper edge of the cake was finished with a delicate wreath of orange blossoms, and the whole surmounted by a basket filled with fruit and held by three little figures of dancing Cupids, moulded like the figures at the base. Queen Victoria also sent her granddaughter a wedding cake, which is her custom at the marriage of each one of her grandchildren. The ornamentations were of the conventional white, with silver bullion.

The late Lady Tennyson and the poet were lovers even in their old age. Lord Tennyson was forty-one when they were married, and he had known her when she was a mere child. Indeed, they had been companions from her girlhood. Her mother was a sister of Sir John Franklin, the great Arctic explorer, and her youngest sister was the wife of Charles Tennyson Turner.

There is a Russian peasant, named Irma Fedossora, whom we are sure to hear of some day. She is still young and she is already credited with having the most prolific pen in the kingdom of the Czar. Ten thousand poems, many of them are much admired, bear her signature

It is estimated that Queen Victoria now rules over 367,000,000 people.

A FARMER'S GREENHOUSE.

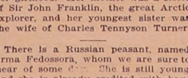
Not a Luxury Nowadays, But a Source of Profit.

A few years ago greenhouses were regarded as luxuries only within the reach of the wealthy. Fortunately, this is no longer the case.

Any carpenter can put up what is called a "lean-to" building at a very small cost indeed, and by attending to the plants one's self the expense of keeping it up is reduced to a minimum. Let the floor be of concrete, slightly sloped from every side to a corner at which an outlet is provided for carrying off the surplus water that may fall on the floor when the plants are watered. If possible, have water led to the greenhouse, with a tank or tub in which to store it, in order that it may be of the same temperature as the greenhouse itself, thus avoiding the risk of chilling delicate plants by giving them water below the correct temperature. The house should stand on a platform or sillpiece of oak, framed separately. The roof may be made in three pieces, in the same manner as the lights of a frame, so constructed as to fit into each other without allowing any leakage through. These three lights should, two of them, at any rate, be made to open when required. Ventilation is best given by constructing the lights so that they can be raised separately at the lowest part for a few inches, more or less, as seems advisable. If the side lights are also made to open, so much the better.

Cultivating a Fenced Garden.

Some kitchen gardens must be fenced, or destruction from straying cattle will follow. It is a misfortune, however, to have a garden so fenced that cultivation cannot take place. The accompanying sketch shows a way to fence a small garden, that admits of easy and thorough cultivation. The garden must be entirely in rows running lengthwise. The side fences are permanent. The ends are panels of fence that hook onto posts set permanently, each post being in line with a plant row in the garden, so that they will not be in the way of the horses and cultivator. It is but a moment's work to take down, or put up, these end panels, as they can be made of light stripe.—American Agriculturist.



REMOVABLE GARDEN FENCE.

The Latest Fashions

The shade known as wild duck, that striking combination of blue and green that recalls the soft breast of the bird, will be seen all winter. In silk for waists and for petticoats and trimmings it will hold its own with all the curious combinations, autumn advices predict.

Black stockings and white shoes are quite en regle, but there is a strong feeling against anything with tan shoes but a hose that exactly matches. Large buckles of antique silver are much worn, particularly with low soft black glace kid shoes, while with gayer colors jeweled bows and beaded tips are not uncommon.

Silk was never in greater demand than it will be this coming winter. The heaviest weaves, the thickest cords, will be most in favor. Light-weight silks will be used only for linings. Heavy moires and richly brocaded satins with raised flowers in contrasting hues, and in shades to match the ground tint, will be the fabrics for dinner and evening wear.

In the matter of fabrics velvet will reign supreme. No winter wardrobe will be complete without a velvet gown. The French modiste has declared in its favor; it is most becoming to the complexion; nothing so sets off the figure or may be made to hang so well. Mark the prophecy—to obtain a gray or a purple velvet gown will be the ambition of every well dressed woman.

A spoon for every use and a use for every spoon. It would seem so in this day of endless invention and variety. Table silver is without limit of pattern or structure. The new suga tongs are like miniature ice pincers. The handles are finished with two large rings and the ends are claw shaped, so that the lumps of sugar are held as though in a vice.

The latest Parisian sunshades are small. It is suggested that at the present rate of decrease we shall soon be using the tiny silk and lace togs of our grandmothers. Those most popular at the present, however, are of rational size. A recent novelty is white, with flowers printed on its surface, such as convolvuli, poppies and the like, used with a handle whose color harmonizes with the flower and a knot incrusted with precious stones.

Nothing takes the place of lace for millinery and dressmaking purposes. It plays a most prominent part on all summer gowns and hats, no matter what the material, no matter what the color. It is made into butterflies, stiffened into shape with wire for millinery purposes; it is used to cover waistcoats when the silk may be deemed of too deep a shade. It softens and beautifies everything it touches, and is most popular in the yellow shades which are so becoming to the complexion.

Tiny capes, or collets, that reach barely to the puff of the sleeve give the finishing touch to costumes designed for midsummer wear. Two styles appear to divide the allegiance of the entire feminine world. One is a succession of pleatings of mousseline de soie in cream or straw color, over light taffeta foundations, and shows a big bunch of pink roses at the back of the neck beneath a fall of lace. The other is of linen embroidered in arabesques in a combination of tones and is trimmed on the interior with flouncings of soft lace.

A crepe paper toilet table is a great addition and is inexpensive and easily made. Have your carpenter manufacture a circular or square table, as you desire. Tack a piece of cloth around its edge deep enough to come down half way to the floor; sew to this a flounce of the crepe paper, covering the rest of the distance to the carpet. Cover the top of the table with the paper and finish it with another flounce of the paper deep enough to overlap the lower one. Set it off with a liberal number of paper bows or rosettes, and the effect will be really astonishing.

The miniature craze is in full blast The mania extends in every direction from the decorating of china tea services to the perpetuating of the faces of dear relatives. No drawing room is complete without a collection of these little oval or round shaped studies tacked in groups or standing in odd corners against a bit of drapery or an old empire fan background. All the dead and gone celebrities, wicked and angelic, lucky and unlucky, are charmingly represented. Marie Antoinette, Mme. de Pompadour, Marie Louise and Josephine are prime favorites.

A certain wise though fashionable mother has originated a plan whereby she kills two birds with one stone, for not only are her own and her neighbor's children given the pleasure of having company and each child in its turn taught how to entertain and to practice the unselfishness required of host or hostess, but the mothers themselves are equal sharers with their children in the pleasure brought about by this unique idea. This bright woman has the common sense to realize that she grows petty and narrow and easily irritated by trifles if she stays at home too much or merely seeks recreation in making calls and talking small talk, so she has found three other mothers who think as she does, and they four have formed a "Happy Afternoon Club," in joining which they agree to have the children of the other three at the house of one of the members once a month, for the afternoon. Opera, concert, theatre, golf, tennis or whatever takes the other mothers away for their afternoons recreation is enjoyed with an easy mind, as the stay-at-home mother promises not to delegate the somewhat onerous honors to any one else, but starts all the fun going in person for the children left in her care. At first it was hard work, but what a gala day for the youngsters and a little tact and good management soon made the afternoon more enjoyable than a real party and accustomed them to "society" at an early age. In seeing their children drawn out by the others in thinking up games and entertainment for the little folks the mothers are wonderfully refreshed, and have been quite as much the gainers as the children, and other parents are advised to try this simple plan.

WHAT TO WEAR ON YOUR WEDDING DAY.

(By a Confirmed and Cantankerous Celibate.)

Married in white,
You have booked him all right.
Married in gray,
He will ne'er get away.
Married in black,
He will wish himself back.
Married in red,
He will wish himself dead.
Married in green,
His true color is seen.
Married in blue,
He will look it, not you.
Married in pearl,
He the distaff will twirl.
Married in yellow,
Poor fellow! Poor fellow!
Married in brown,
Down, down, derry down.
Married in pink,
To a slave he will sink.
Married in crimson,
He'll dangle your whims on.
Married in buff,
He will soon have enough.
Married in scarlet,
Poor victimized varlet.
Married in violet, purple or puce,
It doesn't much matter, they all mean—

A woman can feel perfectly at her ease in almost any surroundings, if she is stylishly and appropriately dressed. And now that increased facilities in manufacturing, combined with the enormous demand, have made it possible to sell it is easy for even the most economical to wear stylish costumes. For with present fashions it is not the material which counts, half as much as the grace and buoyancy of the billowy sleeves and rippling folds of the skirt. And Fibre Chamois not only gives all this jaunty stiffness in the first place, but retains it till the garment is worn out. That's why it pays to see the label on each yard because any imitation gives very disappointing and short lived results.

Fibre Chamois For 25c. a yard

A Thriving Industry.

The want of the once plentiful buffalo robe has compelled those who by necessity require warm covering in winter to provide for the deficiency. This has brought to the front farmers who make a specialty of tanning the skins of domestic animals. A few years since Mr. Jas. Elliott commenced such a system of tanning in the village of Tamworth, with the result that he has built up a large and flourishing trade. He makes a specialty of moccasins and mittens. Anyone sending him hides or skins can depend upon having them finished in a superior manner at reasonable cost.

Ask your physician, your druggist and your friends about Shiloh's Cure for Consumption. They will recommend it. Sold by Alex. Ray.

THE LATE MISS CORBY.

The Obsequies Attended by a Large Concourse of Friends.

The funeral of the late Miss Emily Corby took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of Mr. H. Corby M. P. There were a large number present to pay the last tribute of respect to the deceased, amongst whom was her brother, Mr. Charles Corby, of Chicago. At four o'clock the cortege left the residence on George street and proceeded to Str Thomas' church where the burial service of the Anglician church were conducted by the Ven. Canon Burke. During the service the edifice was filled to the doors. As the remains were being carried in and out the organ pealed forth the dead march. After the services the cortege proceeded to the cemetery, where the interment took place. The bearers were Messrs. J. H. Starling, A. McAllister, C. McKay, A. Gillen, R. Hungerford and A. E. Bignell.

The floral tributes were both numerous and beautiful, being contributed by the following:

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Walker, wreath; Mr. and Mrs. McCuaig, white roses; Miss Parker, asters; Women's Auxiliary of St. Thomas' church, cross and cut flowers; Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Lingham, anchor; Mr. and Mrs. Gorman, cross; Kathleen Hungerford, anchor; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wallbridge, carnations and smilax; Dr. and Mrs. Clinton, bouquet of asters; Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Wedding Bells.

The following, in which many of our readers will take a warm interest, is copied from the Fort William Journal of August 21st:

A pretty wedding took place on Wednesday, 19th, at 4 p.m., in St. James' church, Oliver, when Miss Mabel Filleter, eldest daughter of the late Henry Edmund Filliter, of Belleville, Ontario, was married to Mr. Henry Pollock, son of J. E. Pollock, Esq. M.D., of Upper Brook street, London, England.

The bride, who was given away by the Rev. Charles Kirby, Rural Dean of Thunder Bay, looked lovely in white satin, trimmed with chiffon and pearl embroidery, wreath of orange blossoms and tulle veil. She also wore a gold horse shoe brooch, the gift of the bridegroom, and was attended by three bridesmaids, Misses Eva, Hannah and Emma Kirby, dressed alike in white lawn and white lawn hats and bouquets of pink and white sweet peas, and wearing silver chain bangles. the gifts of the bridegroom.

Mr. H. O. G. Hanna, of Fort William, acted as best man.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. W. Thursby, incumbent of Port Arthur. Miss Maud Livingstone played the organ.

A small reception was held afterwards by the bride and Mrs. Charles Kirby at the latter's house. There were present the Mayor of Fort William Mr. J. McKellar, Mrs. and Miss Deacon, Mrs. Drinkwater, Mrs. E. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Ride, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Nelson, Miss Maud Livingstone, Miss Paquette, Miss Hiones, Mr. Hanna and Rev. J. W. and Mrs. Thursby.

Shortly after six Mr. and Mrs. Pollock started amidst showers of rice upon their drive to Port Arthur. The bride's travelling dress was blue tweed with silk vest, with which was worn an exceedingly chic hat. Both of the bride's pretty dresses were made by Miss M. Thompson, of Fort William.

The bridal couple left Port Arthur by No. 2 Thursday morning for Ottawa, Toronto and other eastern cities.

School Opening

Now that the children are returning to school they will need good serviceable boots. We have just received a lot of boys' strong boots, just the thing for school wear. You will find our prices are right the year round. —A. W. VERMILYEA & SON.

Reformed Episcopal Church.

Rev. J. Simpson Trotter preached two very eloquent and instructive sermons in the above church yesterday. In the morning his text was taken from St. John xxi., 22: "Jesus said unto him, if I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? Follow thou Me." Our Lord's rebuke to Peter, the rev. gentleman said, was also a rebuke to many, both in past and present days, who sought to lift the veil and pry into the future. Sufficient for the true Christian should be the command, "Follow thou Me." The discourse showed careful preparation, and made a deep impression on those present.

Are Your Children Hard on Shoes?

We make a special study of boots for boys and girls, we have some now that we can confidently recommend. The best are the cheapest in the end. A grand lot just received bought specially for the opening of schools. Prices are lower than a year ago. —HAINES & LOCKETT.

Mistook her Son for a Tramp.

Mrs. Burns, who resides on Dunbar street, telephoned to the police on Sunday morning that a tramp was in her barn. Officer Stoneberg responded and after a diligent search found a young man in the coal bin, who proved to be a son of Mrs. Burns. The young man had returned home on a visit and not being able to gain admittance to the house sought refuge in the barn. The mother was overjoyed to see her son, whom she had mistaken for a tramp.

The Sting Within.

It is said there is rankling thorn in every heart, and yet that none would exchange their own for that of another. Be that as it may, the sting arising from the heart of a corn is real enough, and in this land of tight boots a very common complaint also. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor is a never failing remedy for this kind of heartache, as you can easily prove if afflicted. Cheap, sure, painless. Try the genuine and use no other.

Runaway

The team attached to the Trenton stage owned by Mr. Asseltine ran away this morning near the cemetery and were finally stopped near the D. & D. Institute. Not much damage was sustained. But one passenger was in at the time, a lady, who was fortunately not injured.

SPORTING NEWS.

Brief Notes of the Happenings in the Arena of Legitimate Sport.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Died in the Sulkey.

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 29.—John Holmes, a well known horseman of the western circuit, drove Pewabic under the wire a dead man at the trotting meeting here yesterday. In the 2.16 trot Holmes had Pewabic first to within 100 feet of the finish. Then his head fell forward, the lines slackened, and when the horse was stopped after passing the judges' stand Holmes was dead.

Notes.

Joe Patchen's mile in 2:03 last week was not technically a record. The stallion championship for pacers is still held by John R. Gentry, 2:03½.

At Boston on Friday Fantasy won the deciding heat in the great trot. Time 2:08. The going was sticky.

THE OAR.

The new Clasper boat, in which Jake Gaudaur will row James Stanbury for the championship of the world on September 7th, is built of Mexican cedar, with patent countervail, and the slide is on vulcanite wheels, with vulcanite runners. Her dimensions are:—Length, 31 ft. 4 in.; breadth 11 in.; depth, 7¼ in.; height forward, 3 in.; and aft, 2¼ in. In weight (without the clogs), 26 lbs., and carries the Canadian to perfection.

Ned Hanlan has not taken any serious notice of the challenge from his nephew, Ed. Durnan. The famous ex champion is not of opinion that any good purpose would be served by such a race as Durnan proposes, and which might give the public a wrong impression.

YACHTING.

Ailsa won the gold cup in the yacht race at Dartmouth on Saturday, Satanita was second, and Ceress was a poor third.

It is announced that Emperor William will give a costly silver cup, designed by himself, to the winner of the yacht race to be held between Dover and Heligoland, immediately after the celebration of the conclusion of the 60th year of the reign of Queen Victoria. A committee, composed of Englishmen, has been appointed to draw up rules for the yacht race. The race will be open only to British yachts of 40 tons and upwards.

Canada, which won the Vencedor cigar trophy, was to be welcomed at Toronto to-day.

BASEBALL.

Steamer Ella Ross.

This fast sailing and comfortable steamer leaves Belleville for Trenton daily (Sundays excepted), at 10 a.m. Leaves Belleville for Deseronto and Picton at 3 p.m., connecting at Deseronto with steamers for Napanee and Oswego. Lowest freight and passenger rates. For further information apply to the Rathbun Company, Bridge St., or to R. C. Carter, General Manager, Deseronto.

Rev. D. M. Mihell,

Well known in Belleville as a former pastor of the Baptist church here, spent Saturday and Sunday in our city renewing old acquaintances. He occupied the pulpit for the Rev. Mr. Cowsert at both services yesterday. The reverend gentleman, who has lost none of his old time power and eloquence, spoke to large congregations morning and evening. His morning subject was "The appointment and work of Jesus Christ," Is. 50: 4. His evening discourse was based on the latter part of the 28th verse of I Kings, chap. 2, "And Joab fled unto the tabernacle of the Lord and caught hold on the horns of the altar." Mr. Mihell left for his home at St. George, Ont., by the steamer Passport at the close of the evening service.

Mr. G. R. Blount, Methodist minister, Dresden, Ont., says: "After a prolonged attack of La Grippe, I was very nervous and weak, and troubled with severe pains. I took one box of Miller's Compound Iron Pill and am perfectly well now." Sold in Belleville by A. Ray, 334 Front st,

Another Grand Trunk Change.

In consequence of the new policy of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, in giving out their masonry by contract, the office of inspector of bridges and masonry, which has for a number of years been held by Mr. James Grant, of this city, has been abolished. Mr. Grant has been an excellent official and a good citizen, and whilst his host of friends in Belleville will regret the turn that affairs have taken, all will feel assured that he will ere long find another field for the exercise of his ability and energy. Mr. Grant's services with the Grand Trunk end to-day.

A New Fishing Ground.

About nine miles from the village of Tamworth there is a chain of some ten or a dozen lakes that have never been "fished" and are swarming with bass. Last week two fishermen in less than one day captured in one of the lakes forty. At the first lake a capital camping shanty has been provided for anglers. Supplies and boats can be secured from the proprietor, Mr. Watson McAdam, at reasonable rates.

"Pills do not cure Constipation. They only aggravate. Karl's Clover Root Tea gives perfect regularity of the bowels." Sold by Alex. Ray.

Lost and Found.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hanley were visitors to Ottawa last week. On Tuesday evening there was a great crowd desirous of attending the House of Commons. The corridors were thronged, and when the doors opened there was considerable crushing, during which Mrs. Hanley lost her gold watch. Mr. Hanley advertised the fact in the Ottawa newspapers and on Saturday had a note from the Chief Usher of the House of Commons stating that the watch was in his possession and Mr. Hanley could have it on application.

A hacking cough keeps the bronchial tubes in a state of constant irritation, which, if not speedily removed, may lead to chronic bronchitis. No prompter remedy can be found than Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Its effect is immediate and the result permanent.

The Shooting Season.

Duck shooting commences to-morrow, and a number of sportsmen are completing arrangements to visit some of the best duck shooting grounds in this section. For their benefit it may be stated that no one shooter is allowed to take over 300 ducks, and no shooting to be done between sunset and sunrise. The season for woodcock, partridge, pheasants, etc., opens 15th September.

Fell Down Stairs.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ostrom, an aged lady living on Warham st., fell down stairs yesterday and sustained serious injuries. One of her legs was broken and other severe injuries inflicted. Dr. Eakins was summoned and reduced the fracture. The old lady is doing well to-day.

Which is worse, imprisonment for life or a life-long disease, like scrofula, for example? The former, certainly, would be preferable were it not that Ayer's Sarsaparilla can always come to the rescue and give the poor sufferer health, strength, and happiness.

PERSONAL.

Col. Brown is improving steadily.

Miss Brick is visiting her friend, Miss Chisholm, Chatham st.

To the Editor of the INTELLIGENCER.

A Mile Track and Athletic Grounds.

SIR,—Mr. Ackerill's letter is quite correct, as to the good results that would flow from a really good race track, but he has not had our experience with regard to Agricultural Exhibitions, or he would know that the public require some incidental attractions to draw them to a Fair. A purely bucolic display would be a melancholy pageant now-a-days for a crowd that seeks some vivifying as well as instructive entertainment. With regard to the proposed track, let us have a perfect one, the best on the circuit,—or none at all. Belleville can only support one enclosure, in which could be combined Agricultural and Horticultural Buildings, grand stand, stables, bicycle cinder path, Athletic grounds for all games, picnic pavilion and park equipment generally. There would, I believe, be a fair return upon an investment in such an undertaking, situated as Belleville is, accessible by water and land—provided the track and grounds were properly managed by Trustees for the public with back-bone enough to prevent the abuses which sometimes a company mismanaged race tracks. We have many things that attract excursionists, conventions and travellers, but we need a Park and access to the water both for our own citizens, and for our many visitors. In this respect Kingston sets us a public-spirited example. People are not impatient of taxation when they see results, but here results are not always visible to the naked eye of him who runs and reads. Municipal microscopes and telescopes are often required.

Yours &c.
W. N. PONTON.

Scrofula

Infests the blood of humanity. It appears in varied forms, but is forced to yield to Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies and vitalizes the blood and cures all such diseases. Read this:

"In September, 1894, I made a misstep and injured my ankle. Very soon afterwards,

A Sore

two inches across formed and in walking to favor it I sprained my ankle. The sore became worse; I could not put my boot on and I thought I should have to give up at every step. I could not get any relief and had to stop work. I read of a cure of a similar case by Hood's Sarsaparilla and concluded to try it. Before I had taken all of two bottles the sore had healed and the swelling had gone down. My is now well and I have been greatly benefited otherwise. I have increased in weight and am in better health. I cannot say enough in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. H. BLAKE, So. Berwick, Me.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Wool Materials for Fall and Winter—Fall Dressmaking—New Millinery—Ribbons —Hats—Plumage.

The extraordinary favor shown to canvas weaves during the summer, has caused a repetition of them in wool materials for fall and winter. Colorings are dark and rich floral patterns are massed together effectively. Other new and handsome wools show rep cords that run across the breadth and akin to them are varieties in broken reps that also extend crosswise. Like canvas weaves, both are in rich, dark floral designs set closely and quite equal them in attractiveness. Small, loosely woven checks in indistinct weave, are also among this year's importations, yet not so markedly novel as the styles of which mention has been made. It can be added also, that the presentation of elegant novelties will interfere with the popularity of black skirts, which have been so extensively worn as now at last to have become rather wearisome to the eye.

STYLES IN MAKING.

From designs shown by Lord and Taylor, it is evident that sleeves are to be less pronounced than formerly. In a majority of examples, they are tight to the elbow or somewhat above it and the puff at the top is at times quite short and in all cases, of comparatively moderate size. Certainly, an undue exaggeration is a thing of the past. Skirts remain much as they have been and for heavy goods, not of inconvenient width, so that the coming season may be noted as one of good taste in dressmaking and this the more so, since while the stock collar is retained, it may be robbed of stiffness by becoming frills of lace or other light fabrics.

MILLINERY.

Millinery retains all and perhaps more of a former exaggeration, for the reason that heavy trimmings, when massed or far extending, are more pronounced than light tulle or flowers. Expensive ribbons are of shaded velvet in widths of five inches, though they graduate down to those only one inch wide. Equally elegant ribbons show a broad moire weave on either side of a wide central velvet stripe, and these are rivalled by handsome varieties entirely in moire or brocade. Additional variety is given by taffeta ribbons in rich floral patterns massed together. They resemble the ribbons of the summer, but are in deeper tones.

HATS

must of course retain broad brims, else room would not be afforded for the placing of abundant garniture. In felt, there are varieties of the sailor shape turned up at the back and numerous other wide brimmed shapes give change. In crowns also, there is room for choice, since while many are low as hitherto, yet quite a number show crowns at least five inches high. There are small bonnets for elderly people and comparatively small shapes which are so completely hidden by pronounced garniture piled on recklessly that identity is lost and they serve merely as foundations for fantastic groupings.

BIRDS' PLUMAGE

is conspicuous, especially wings that project in a very bold manner, both upwards and outwards, being often placed in a wholly unsuitable manner, on the bodies of small birds. Bird of Paradise plumage is thus engrafted on in greater or less richness and stylish pompons of the same, stand erect in groups of three. The long feathers waving on either side, rank first, but lesser additions are in high esteem and all are unduly expensive, because of special demand. Feathery pompons are numerous and ostrich plumes still impart an elegant finish.

NOTHING

Gives a woman more pleasure than the possession of a quantity of good household linens.

We know the average woman's weakness in this respect, and no doubt when our buyer was making his fall purchases of Linen from the famous Brookfield Linen Co., of Belfast, Ireland, he traded largely upon woman's admiration for these beautiful goods.

We have a beautiful stock of linens—a very comprehensive stock; indeed, we question very much if we have ever been able to show so much of newness and beauty and quantity before.

THE FRUIT BUSINESS

Has developed with rapid strides in Belleville the past few years, and without any attempt at bragging we believe we have been largely influential in its steady growth.

Our fruit trade is largely a whole sale one—we supply the bulk of the fruit sold by the grocers here. It's buying in large quantities of fruit, as of anything else, that enables a dealer to give you a choice and sell you fruit at less than smaller dealers could hope to do.

KING OR KNAVE?

There was no answer.

"Miss Furness!" she whispered.

No answer again. That girl had kept her room obstinately since yesterday—perhaps she was ill. If she was only dead, thought poor jealous Julia, what a good job it would be! She tried the door. To her surprise, it was unlocked, and she peeped in, listening. Hearing nothing, she opened it a little farther still; then farther and farther.

At last she obtained a complete view of the room. And not only was every sign of Marion herself missing, but her trunks were packed, strapped, and locked, ready to be removed.

There was no doubt of it. That horrible girl had fled; and Wyndham would follow to join her by the next train. She saw the elopement unravel itself before her miserable eyes.

CHAPTER IX.

Guy Derwent waited in silence while the Doctor, with an "Excuse me, my dear sir —a most difficult case, in high life," returned to his volume; at any rate to his reflections. Guy could not make things out at all. He was convinced that the Doctor was for some reason or other deceiving him; and yet how could he remain really deceived about so simple a fact as the presence, now or recently, in this house of a girl who must be known to neighbors as well as servants—a fact that he must learn by the simplest inquiries? Concealment seemed so utterly futile; and yet he would feel no doubt that Marion was being concealed. Angry impatience was rising up in him, even while aware that he was entering into an unknown country, where he must assuredly lose the track unless he practised patience and kept cool.

If only he could have seen what was passing in the mind of Wyndham Snell! Versed as he was in the art of walking among eggs, the Doctor, while staring at his open volume, seemed to see the whole basketful smashing round him. For he had set down Marion in the books of mind as a fountain of income for many years to come, and, on the strength of her, had dealt with his original retaining fee in ways that would have made his wife, had she known of them, fit for Bedlam. What with the influence that a man of his fascination would, as a matter of course, exert over any young woman, and when with his knowledge of her father's antecedents, he had seen his way to making an exceedingly fine season of golden sunshine, which promised to contain elements even more delightful than gold. For he was not so much a greedy as a needy man; a man indeed overflowing with all sorts of hungers which mere gold could not appease. And now, just when he thought everybody was safe and certain, just when he had so triumphantly overwhelmed Marion with a sense of power that no woman on earth could continue to withstand, here came this Marplot to send his cards flying—Kings, Queens, Knaves, and all.

Luckily, he had not committed himself, or told an irrevocable lie; and he had gained some interval for thought by sending Julia. And now—how would it do to stick to his old ground, and call his wife to witness that there was not, and never had been, any creature living in the house besides their two selves? No. There was the servant; and there was the Prince of Wales hard by. How would it answer to admit the presence of a guest, but in the character of a lunatic who could not be seen, and who neither in face, nor in age, nor height, nor in name, was Marion? That might do better, if he could manage to give his wife his cue. But no—it would be too delicate as well as too dangerous a game.

He would have to send Marion elsewhere for a while, and to provide himself with a mad woman answering to his description in view of a second visit—and how was that to be done? And the lunacy laws, though convenient instruments, are apt to turn dangerously in the hands of those who try to play with them in an amateur way.

But—"I have it!" he exclaimed at last, seized with a real inspiration. "I've got it, by all that's blue. . . . . I—I really beg your pardon, Mr. Derwent," he added hastily; for, like many another philosopher engaged on a problem, he had forgotten for a moment that he was not alone. "I mean I've spotted her ladyship's symptoms, that have been puzzling the faculty for years. A little ebullition is excusable——"

Suddenly the door was thrown open; and, standing within it, like a picture in its frame, Guy beheld a grim woman with ice in her bearing and thunder in her eyes.

"Dr. Snell," she broke out, "what have you done with that girl?"

"Conf—— Julia!" said the Doctor, "what are you talking about? Are you ——"

"Yes, Wyndham, I am! You've no call to remind me there's visitors; I see that; and I see a great deal more. And I don't care who hears—no, neither who they are nor what they are; if they were the queen. What have you done with that girl?"

Wyndham Snell tried the effect of that mighty frown on which he plumed himself as being imperial in its power to silence and awe. But, though backed by a peculiar motion of the fist—a masonic sign well understood by certain initiated wives—it failed, and the Doctor was left looking like a baffled Jove.

"I ask you," said the lady, "what have you done with Miss Marion Furness? and where's she gone? Ah—you may pretend to stare. But well I know what's been going on under my very eyes—let my nose alone. As if I didn't see through that—that baggage, the very minute she came? As if I was took in by tricks that wouldn't bamboozle a byby! As if I didn't know what a girl's up to that does her hair like that, and what's up when a man that ought to be ashamed of himself, if she isn't, goes philandering up and down the stairs. Yes, philandering, Dr. Snell. . . . But I'm not going to put up with such goings on any more. What would you say if I went off—with a Man?"

"Say? Why, I'd say Heaven help the poor fool!" said the Doctor, clutching at his vanishing wits in sheer despair. "Woman alive—will you come to just one of your seven senses, and say something that it doesn't want the Devil himself to understand?"

"I will say it, then. Miss Furness is gone; and I know why; and you know where."

"Gone! I will know what you mean!"

"And so," said Guy, very quietly, "will I."

Verily the Fates were fighting against Wyndham Snell that day. He had just struck out the most magnificent of plans—an idea so completely splendid that he might have eaten all his cakes and kept them too—and in the very moment of inspiration it was paralysed by a spasm of idiotic jealousy; flattering, no doubt, but outrageously ill-timed. So completely paralysed was it that, could it ever again be available, he would be unable to recall it ever to his own mind.

FOR THE D.R.A. SHOOT

Riflemen Pouring Into Ottawa From Every Province.

There are the Oggs, the Harps, the McVitties and the Mitchells and Such Crack Shots—It Was a Dismal Day at the Ranges Yesterday Owing to the Rain—Toronto Riflemen Well Represented—Program From a Social Point of View.

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—(Special.)—A very heavy rain during the afternoon and evening, and an overcast sky was not a very promising outlook for the shooting men in the city for the D.R.A. matches, opening to-morrow morning. As a rule "Old Probs." is very kind to the riflemen, and hundreds were wont to meet on the Rideau range on the Sunday and look over the old familiar ground. To-day was an exception to the rule, and the regulars' and militiamen's camp could only look uncomfortable, while those more comfortably housed in the hotels, exchanged greetings and recalled many happy recollections of days gone by. With good weather to-morrow the 27th matches of the D.R.A promise to be the best on record. Lt.-Col. Bacon has already about reached the top notch, and a liberal margin may always fairly be left for post entries. There is no doubt that the free issue of 1885 ammunition by the Militia Department will lead to an increased attendance, as while this is a small matter for British Columbia and Nova Scotia men, it is a great consideration for the battalions in the immediate vicinity and there will be green shots galore.

The Russell House and other hotels present a lively scene to-night and almost without exception the old-time crack shots, such as the Oggs, the Harps, the McVitties and the Mitchells are all on hand.

The array of tents and marquees is larger than usual, as special provision has been made for an extra amount of entertaining. This will probably see the last of the old Rideau range, with its many successes and still more frequent disappointments, and the executive are putting forward an extra effort to make it a particularly pleasant week.

On Thursday Lt.-Col. Gibson and Mrs. Gibson will receive and present the prizes up to date. Lord and Lady Aberdeen, Hon. Wilfrid Laurier and many distinguished guests will be present. On Thursday evening the kickers make their annual kick, when range officers and ammunition may be expected to be severely dealt with, should any occasion arise. Firing opens to-morrow at 8 a.m., when the 500 yards extra series' targets will be available for a few test shots, before the more serious work commences with the nursery at 9 o'clock.

The Queen's Own, 10th Royals, 48th Highlanders and 13th of Hamilton are well represented, most of their men being here.

Range officers for the week are as follows: Lt.-Col. Hodgins, G.G|F.G., chief executive officer; Major McLaren, 13th Battalion; Major Heron, G.G.F.G.; Major Mutton, Queen's Own Rifles; Major Evans, Royal Canadian Dragoons; Capt. Aumond, retired list; Capt. Winter, reserve of officers; Capt. Brown, P.L.D.G.; Capt. Fitzstuart, 43rd Battalion; Lieut. Burns, 5th Royal Scots; chief statistical officer, Major Walsh.

LORD RUSSELL AT OTTAWA.

The Celebrated Chief Justice is Now a Guest at Rideau Hall.

Ottawa, Aug. 30.—(Special.)—Lord Russell of Killowen, Lord Chief Justice of England, accompanied by Lady Russell, Miss Russell, Mr. Charles Russell, Sir Frank and Lady Lockwood, Mr. M. Crackenthorpe, Q.C., and Mr. James Fox, arrived in the city yesterday from Montreal. They reached Ottawa by the C.P.R. train at 1.50, traveling in a special car. The distinguished visitors were met by Capt. Wilberforce, Aide-de-Camp to His Excellency Lord Aberdeen, and immediately proceeded to Rideau Hall. In the afternoon, accompanied by His Excellency Lord Aberdeen, Lord Russell and party witnessed the lacrosse match at Lansdowne Park between the Capitals and Tecumsehs. Lord Russell will remain in the city until probably next Thursday evening.

Mr. John R. Hall, Secretary of the Immigration Department, receives some peculiar letters, and recently an epistle came to him that he hardly knows what to do with. A lady residing near Edinburgh, aged about 34, writes that her brother is coming to Canada shortly, and as she is desirous of earning her own living, she would like to come also if she can find employment. She is evidently gifted by the letter she writes, has a good education, is a good housekeeper and dairy hand, has a full knowledge of dressmaking, a first-class nurse, and an excellent cook. She wants information as to the prospects for such a person. To anyone wanting a first-class housekeeper this should be an excellent opportunity. The name and address of the lady may be had at the Department of the Interior.

An order in council has been passed which states: "That having reference to the order in council of March 3, 1896, admitting the claim of Spain to participate in the advantages conceded to France under the so-called French treaty, authority be given for the refund of any excess of duty on articles affected by the treaty, being the product of and imported from Spain, which may have been paid between the date the RFrench treaty went into effect, that is to say, from and after Oct. 14, 1895, and the time when Spain was allowed to participate in the benefits of the treaty. Entries may therefore be amended, and applications for refund of duty made accordingly. Satisfactory proof, however, must be given of the Spanish origin of the articles upon which a refund of excess of duty is claimed."

Mr. Mountain, Chief Engineer of the Ottawa, Arnprior and Parry Sound Railway, has just returned from a trip to the western end of the line. He states that track laying has begun from Emsdale eastward, and that six miles are now laid. Track laying from the east end westward will begin Sept. 1, and Ottawa and Parry Sound will be united by a band of iron early in November. The work has gone on well this summer, and the line will be completed sooner than was expected. It is likely passenger trains will be running through to Parry Sound early in December

Sir Henri Joly will accompany Li Hung Chang in his tour of Canada, on behalf of the Government.

Solicitor-General Fitzpatrick and A. S. Hurd of Sherbrooke have been appointed Queen's counsel.

LI HUNG CHANG IS COMING.

Toronto Formally Included in His Tour by the Celestial Statesman—Montreal Wants Him.

New York, Aug. 29.—President Cleveland formally received Li Hung Chang to-day. The Sixth United States Cavalry acted as escort for His Excellency. Following the cavalry were the carriages containing the nation's guest and his attendants. Secretary Olney introduced the Viceroy to President Cleveland. The Ambassador, who wore a new and far more gorgeous yellow jacket than that worn upon his arrival yesterday, bowed low and shook hands with President Cleveland. All present were standing, and so remained throughout the ceremony, which was very formal. The secretary of Li Hung Chang, Lo Fung Luh, handed to His Excellency a letter from the Emperor of China to the President of this nation. It was a very elaborate affair, done in Chinese parchment, and wrapped in yellow silk covering, upon which was the Chinese dragon, worked in red, blue, green and white. The parchment resembled a large music roll. Li Hung Chang presented this letter to President Cleveland. He then made an address on his own account, which was interpreted by Fung Luh, to which Mr. Cleveland replied.

After Mr. Cleveland finished his remarks, he introduced Secretaries Carlisle, Lamont, Attorney-General Harmon, Mr. Whitney, and the other gentlemen present, whom Li Hung Chang had not met. Ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster, who met the Viceroy in Japan during the negotiations for peace between that country and China was remembered and cordially greeted by Li Hung Chang. The official interpreter, Lo Fung Luh, introduced the two sons of the Viceroy, and the others who accompanied him, to President Cleveland. After this there was some informal talk, and pleasantries exchanged. Li Hung Chang did not indulge his propensity for asking questions to any great extent, and at 11.30, half an hour after the arrival of the guest of honor, the reception terminated.

George G. Foster of Montreal, Canada, extended to the Ambassador, at noon an invitation from the Chinese of this city, and it appears that the program has been so modified that Toronto is included now in the itinerary. Li said that he would answer as to Montreal by this afternoon.

A CRISIS APPROACHING.

The Powers at Last Send a Joint Note to the Porte—Thousands Recently Slaughtered.

Constantinople, Aug. 29 (delayed in transmission).—Great uneasiness prevails among the British residents of the villages on the shores of the Bosphorus, where a number of hunted Armenians have sought refuge. It is feared that their houses will be attacked. Michael Herbert, the British charge d'affaires, has ordered the British guardship Dryad to receive all families desiring protection, and any British vessels in port may be requisitioned in case of necessity. There is also much anxiety in the suburbs, where many Europeans having Armenian servants are afraid of being attacked. The American College at Hissar and the bible house at Stambul are guarded by troops. United States Minister Terrell visited Hissar yesterday to ascertain if the Americans were safe. His visit had a reassuring effect, and the chief of police of Hissar told Mr. Terrell that all measures had been taken to preserve order.

The latest estimate of the number of persons killed during the rioting on Wednesday is 2000. The French charge d'affaires here counted 500 bodies which were deposited in one cemetery alone. The powers have sent a joint note to the Sultan protesting against the slaughter which accompanied the disturbances, to which His Majesty answered that all possible precautions against the outbreak had been taken, and were still being observed with augmented force. Hon. M. Herbert, Secretary of the British Embassy, is endeavoring to secure the lives and safety of the hundreds of Armenians who are still hiding in various buildings. Reports are coming in frequently of outrages in the suburbs of Constantinople, especially beyond Scutari. Mr. Herbert has chartered the steamer Hungary to transport any English families who are desirous of leaving, and many persons have already boarded her. The scenes in the harbor are of the liveliest description. Hundreds of persons are flocking to the water front and taking refuge on board foreign ships. Although order in the city has been fairly restored, the situation is still such as to cause great anxiety.

BURNED AN AMERICAN.

The Terrible Outrage Committed in Cuba by Order of the Spanish General, Known as Butcher Weyler.

Boston, Aug. 30.—Lieutenant Alvared of General Maceo's army arrived here from Cuba to-day. He says that a month ago General Weyler discovered a Cuban newspaper in the pocket of an American named Charles Churchill of Pennsylvania. By Weyler's command Churchill was wrapped in an American bag and burned to death. Four American sea captains were witnesses

DESTROYING CATHOLIC STATIONS.

An Anti-Christian Outbreak in Progress at Shantung, China.

Tokio, Japan, Aug. 20, via San Francisco, Aug. 30.—An anti-Christian outbreak is now going on at Shantung, China. Th rioters are members of a society originally formed for the purpose of mutual protection against bandits, but it is said now it has become the bandit organization itself. For some time there has been a feud between this society and the native Catholics, culminating recently in the society sending out 1000 men to destroy the Catholic property. It is not yet known whether any lives were lost, but 30 Catholic stations are said to have been destroyed. Four thousand soldiers have been despatched against the insurgents.

A SERIOUS CASE.

MESSRS. T. MILBURN & CO.

I Used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for my little boy for summer complaint and it cured him. He was so bad that he had convulsions and would strain so that he ruptured himself, but as soon as I got the extract for him he got well.

MRS. ELIZA M. OVERHOLT.
Fonthill, Ont.

Mrs. Sequel—I understand your husband can't meet his creditors. Mrs. Equal—I don't believe he wants to, especially.

A RED HOT SEASON.

During the hot summer season the blood gets over-heated, the drain on the system is severe and the appetite is often lost. Burdock Blood Bitters purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the system, and restores lost appetite.

"Jenkins claimed that I insulted him." "Did you give him satisfaction?" "Guess I did. He pounded me until he was tired."

TO BE REMOVED.

All the effete or waste matter of the system is removed by a perfect action of Laxative Liver Pills. Thus they prevent as well as cure Sick headache, Constipation, Billiousness, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Sallow Complexion, Jaundice, Dizziness, etc.

"I'm going to swear out a warrant against the weather man." "What for?" "Malicious scorching."

CURES SUMMER COMPLAINT.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for twelve years when required, and think it is the best remedy to be had for all kinds of summer complaints. In our family it has never failed to cure any case. MRS. BENJ. LONGLEY.
Chatham Ont.

Mount Emmons, 13,694 feet, is said to be the highest in Utah.

A FAINT HEART.

Faint heart never won fair lady. Palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating pain in the breast and a smothering, anxious feeling, are signs of a weak heart and deranged nerves. Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the best heart tonic, invigorator and restorative for all forms of heart disease.

"Did you hear about the funny thing that happened up at Dumley's house?" asked Wigwag. "No; what was it?" "Dumley added two wings to the old building and a chimney flue."

THE ILLS OF LIFE.

Almost all the ills of life arise from wrong action of the stomach, liver and bowels; therefore wisdom is shown by using Burdock Blood Bitters to regulate, strengthen and purify these organs, thus preventing and curing all diseases from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

A WONDERFUL CURE.—Mr. David Smith, Coe Hill, Ont., writes: "For the benefit of others I wish to say a few words about Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. About a year ago I took a very severe cough, had a virulent sore on my lips, was bad with dyspepsia, constipation and general debility. I tried almost every conceivable remedy, outwardly and inwardly, to cure the sore but all to no purpose. I had often thought of trying Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, so I got a bottle and when I had used about one half the sore showed evident signs of healing. By the time that bottle was done it had about disappeared and my general health was improving fast. I was always of a very bilious habit and had used quinine and lemon juice with very little effect. But since using three bottles of the Vegetable Discovery the biliousness is entirely gone and my general health is excellent. I am 60 years old. Parties using it should continue it for some time after they think they are cured. It is by far the best health restorer I know."

The towers of the Cathedral of Cologne are 511 feet high.

Bickles Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a combination of several medical herbs which exert a most wonderful influence in curing pulminary consumption and all other diseases of the lungs, chest and throat. It promotes a free expectoration, and gives ease even to the greatest sufferer. Coughs, colds, shortness of breath, and affections of the chest, attended with weakness of the digestive organs, or with general debility, seem to vanish under its use. No other remedy acts so readily in allaying inflammation or breaking up a severe cold, even the most obstinate cough is overcome by its penetrating and healing properties. When children are troubled with coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs, croup, quinsey, and sore throat, this syrup is of vast importance. The number of deaths among children from this disease is truly alarming. It is so platable that a child will not refuse it, and is put at such a price that will not exclude the poor from its benefits.

Alaska has four mountains, each over 10,000 feet in height,

They Never Fail.—Mr. S. M. Boughner, Langton, writes: "For about two years I was troubled with inward piles, but by using Parmelee's Pills, I was completely cured, and although four years have elapsed since then they have not returned." Parmelee's Pills are anti-billious and a specific for the cure of Liver and Kidndy Complaints, Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Headache, Piles, etc., and will regulate the secretions and remove all billious matter.

Vesuvius, the famous Italian volcano, is 3932 feet high.

How to Cure Headache.—Some people suffer untold misery day after day with Headache. There is neither rest day or night until the nerves are all unstrung. The cause is generally a disordered stomach, and a cure can be affected by using Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, containing Mandrake and Dandelion. Mr. Finley Wark, Lysander, P. Q., writes: "I find Parmelee's Pills a first-class article for Bilious Headache."

The steeple of the Milan Cathedral is 355 feet in height.

Some people have periodical attacks of Canadian Cholera, dysentery or diarrhœa, and have to use great precautions to avoid the disease. Change of water, cooking, and green fruit, is sure to bring on the attacks. To such persons we would recommend Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial as being the best medicine in the market for summer complaints. If a few drops are taken in water when the symptoms are noticed no further trouble will be experienced.

The sea of Galilee is 653 feet below the Mediterranean.

"It is a Great Public Benefit."—These significant words were used in relation to Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, by a gentleman who had thoroughly tested its merits in his own case—having been cured by it of lameness of the knee, of three or four years standing. It never fails to remove soreness as well as lameness, and is an incomparable pulmonic and corrective.

Alata is the highest town in Iowa, 1519 feet above the sea level.

Street Car Accident.—Mr. Thomas Sabin, says: "My eleven year old boy had his foot badly injured by being run over by a car on the Street railway. We at once commenced bathing his foot with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, when the discoloration and swelling was removed, and in nine days he could use his foot. We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

The Dead Sea, in Palestine, is 1316 feet below the sea level.

The Brightest Flowers must fade, but young lives endangered by severe coughs and colds may be preserved by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, in short all affections of the throat and lungs, are relieved by this sterling preparation, which also remedies rheumatic pains; sores, bruises, piles, kidney difficulty, and is most economic.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, billiousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forget this.

Pine Knot is the highest place in Kentucky—1428 feet.

If your children are troubled with worms, give them Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator; safe, sure, and effectual. Try it, and mark the improvement in your child.

Mount Whitney is the highest peak in California—14 898 feet.

If you are tired taking the large old fashioned griping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them.

Warren is located on the highest land in Illinois—1005 feet.

Those unhappy persons who suffer from nervousness and dyspepsia should use Carter's Little Nerve Pills, which are made expressly for sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic sufferers. Price 25 cents.

Mount Rich, 3506 feet high is the tallest in South Carolina.

Ill-fitting boots and shoes cause corns. Holloway's Corn Cure is the best article to use. Get a bottle and cure your corns.
